from

College President to State Senator
24th District

Green Lake — Portage — Waushara — Wood

Former President of WSU New State Senator

The 24th Senate District, consisting of Green Lake, Portage, Waushara and Wood Counties, is now represented for the next four years by former President of this University, William C. Hansen. Since his retirement on July 1, 1962, Mr. Hansen has not only continued his interest in local and state affairs, but entered the political arena. His interest in politics is not new, but active participation as a candidate had not been possible with his heavy responsibilities as a college president.

Senator Hansen brings to his new office a rich background in education. Following the completion of the two year normal course at this institution, he taught two years in the Menomonee Falls high school. To complete the requirement for his bachelors degree, he entered the College of Agriculture at the University of Wisconsin where he remained for two years. His next teaching assignment was at St. Croix Falls where he taught agriculture another two years.

His first school administrative assignment began in Milltown, where he remained from 1917 to 1922. From then he served as superintendent of schools at Neillsville, Oconto and Stoughton before his selection for the Stevens Point State Teachers College in 1940.

This was his longest assignment prior to his retirement.

In August, 1917, he married Esther M. Rintelman of Menomonee Falls. Four daughters were added to the family: Helen, currently a nurse at this University; Ann (Mrs. P. A. Buck) of Plover; Ruth (Mrs. Bruce Sanderman), Birmingham, Michigan; and Kay (Mrs. Robert W. Dean), Wausau. Eight grandchildren have been added whose pictures undoubtedly swell his billfold, to have ready to show his many friends who happen to mention grandchildren.

Concerning his qualifications as a state senator, Mr. Hansen states: "I grew up on a Wisconsin dairy farm, and have lived in the state all my life, I believe I am acquainted with the state's problems as they may be related to education, agriculture, conservation, business and public welfare. I have worked closely with governmental problems for almost 50 years at the local, county and state levels."

Those who have had the privilege of working with Mr. Hansen, particularly those on the University staff, are proud to have him a member of the state senate. We feel confident that we will represent his district in an efficient and effective manner. Our best wishes for his continued success are with him.

Miss Sands Heads National Honor Society

Miss Carolyn Sands instructor in home economics and art at Wisconsin State University is the new national president of Delta Phi Delta, national honor art fraternity.

She was elected at a national convention held on the campus of Ball State Teachers College, Muncie, Ind. The term of office is for four years.

Miss Sands is the adviser to the local chapter of the national fraternity, which was installed during the past academic year.

WSU Fraternity Affiliates With National STG

Approval to become affiliated with a national fraternity has been granted to Alpha Beta Rho, a fraternity on campus at Wisconsin State University. The fraternity will become a chapter of Sigma Tau Gama.

The fraternity will receive its national charter in June 1965 after two semesters as a colony of Sigma Tau Gama. During this time, the current members of Alpha Beta Rho will have a week of pledging, ending with a "Hell Weekend" to be conducted by members from Oshkosh.

Religious Organizations and Program for WSU Students

Wisconsin State University — Stevens Point recognizes that in the process of becoming an educated man it is necessary for the student to grow in all areas — academic, social and religious. We assume a major responsibility for helping students to continue to mature academically and socially while enrolled at WSU Stevens Point. Also it is our belief that in order to grow religiously the students must have an opportunity to associate themselves with the institutions in our society that have this responsibility, namely the churches. Thus it is that we fully support the work of the local churches as they, through their various programs, work in this important area. We are pleased to include in this issue of our newsletter information regarding some of the activities of religious groups located in the Stevens Point community.

The United Campus Christian Fellowship

The United Campus Christian Fellowship was consummated in August, 1960, at Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri, where, after five years of negotiation, the movements declared:

"We, the delegated representatives of the Disciples Student Fellowship of the International Convention of Christian Churches, of the Student Fellowship Council of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, of the United Student Fellowship of the United Church of Christ, and of the Westminster Student Fellowship of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., believing that the mission of the church is to express God's love in the world, and believing that we are called to unite our campus Christian movements to carry out this mission in out campus life, do now declare ourselves to be one movement."

Since that 1960 date, the Moravian Church has joined its student work with the U.C.C.F. and thus five denominations now work together in a united campus ministry.

We believe that we were, and are, called to the organic union of our campus Christian movements as a more adequate expression of our unity in the church, that we may better proclaim the Gospel in campus and community life.

Among our united aims are these:

1. To further the mission of the church within the campus community; uniting a common task on the large campuses; uniting in our effort to serve the smaller campuses such as W.S.U.—Stevens Point.

2. To deepen the Christian faith of the members of the academic community, to strengthen campus units, and to broaden ecumenical understanding through common experiences in inter-collegiate campus Christian movements.

3. To increase sensitivity to and understanding of the responsibilities of the Christian community within the university and to help the university become more fully itself.

4. To increase the sensitivity to and understanding of the responsibility to which God calls members of the academic community in the political, economic and social world.

5. To enable our communion to exercise greater stewardship of funds and leadership which have been granted for the campus ministry and the campus Christian movement.

6. To further conversations with our fellow campus Christian movements, sensitive to the imperative for unity in mission and aware that our own union is only a partial realization of that unity for which our Lord is calling; and to make it possible for communions without organized campus Christian movements to share in the mission of the church within colleges and universities.

At the present time, W.S.U. — Stevens Point has no full-time U.C.C.F. director, but uses the services of the two pastors who have co-operating churches within the community, namely, The United Church of Christ, and The United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A.

Study classes, programs related to the student and his world, discussion groups with members of the faculty, are part of the total approach U.C.C.F. uses at W.S.U. —Stevens Point. However, even more important and encouraging is the personal contacts and counseling experiences that are occurring between the university student and faculty member and the local pastors.

In an attempt to continue the united campus approach, U.C.C.F. rented quarters from the Methodist Student group this year, and, along with the Lutheran Student Association, now operate from the "Inter-faith Center." Many united programs and services have been held this year with a keen anticipation that the future will see us moving further into a united ministry with other Christian groups at WSU—Stevens Point.

Canterbury House

With the purchase of the Herick property at 1206 College Avenue by the Episcopal Diocese of Fond du Lac a new religious center for faculty and students was opened at Wisconsin State University—Stevens Point this fall. Because of the rapid growth of the University the Bishop of the Diocese, the Rt. Rev. William H. Brady, assisted by the rector of the Church of the Intercession, Stevens Point, the Rev. Canon Edward C. Lewis, decided to initiate a new program for college work within the Diocese and especially at Stevens Point.

In order to provide a religious center for Episcopalians close to the campus Canterbury House was established. The duplex provides both an apartment for the resident chaplain—director, the Rev. James H. Miller, and facilities for all types of student and faculty activities. In addition to lounge, kitchen and study rooms there is the Chapel of St. Arselm where regular Sunday and week-day services are held.

A Student Board of Directors is charged with the responsibility of arranging all activities in collaboration with the chaplain. Canterbury Club meets on Thursday evenings for discussion and instruction and also plans social functions of various types.

It is hoped that Canterbury House will in the future become a meeting place for returning alumni as well as for presently enrolled students. Its precise role in the life of the University is still to be established, but for the student the House will be a religious centre, namely an altar, where he may join in the worship of the Church.

The Wesley Foundation

The Wesley Foundation at Wisconsin State University in Stevens Point seeks to make the Christian faith relevant to the academic community. It tries to help the student grow spiritually and to develop a mature faith that will form a firm foundation on which his whole life may be structured.

The nature of the academic community with its varied schedules, demands upon time, widely differing interests and concerns has led to the development of small, informal and quite intimate groups for investigation and expression of faith. Large mass meetings are infrequent and concerted efforts to involve large numbers at a single time are rare. As in scholastic activities, the students are permitted and encouraged to take the initiative in participating in religious affairs. At the same time, there is a constant concern for the spiritual development of every student.

The campus ministry is intended to serve faculty and students, single and married, undergraduate and graduate, resident and commuter. The expression of this ministry takes many forms.

WORSHIP. Worship is fundamental to the Christian faith. Students regularly worship God. The campus is closely tied to the St. Paul Methodist Church and students are encouraged to worship with the members of that church. Students also plan weekday worship in which they find opportunity to experiment and investigate different ways of approaching God.

STUDY. Every discipline demands study. In order to understand any area, the individual must spend time in reading and discussing the material that is involved. Thus opportunities are made available for students to increase their knowledge of the Christian faith and its application to their daily lives.

SERVICE. Opportunities to express faith in service to others are to be found everywhere. Visits to homes and institutions in the area, work projects with deserving groups, assistance in local churches, deputations to churches in surrounding communities all offer occasion to express faith.

WITNESS. Witness to our faith is closely tied to service, but there are occasions when the student may share his faith with fellow students in his residence, the classroom or through campus organizations.

FELLOWSHIP. Fellowship with others of similar attitudes and standards helps overcome quickly the loneliness of the new atmosphere in which the student finds himself. Frequently this fellowship develops into a very close community of concern.

COUNSELING. New situations and new problems in which the student has had no experience and the absence of familiar advisors, may cause concern to the student. At Stevens Point, the director is available with whom the student may share his concerns who will offer guidance and assistance when it is requested.

METHODIST STUDENT MOVEMENT. There is a state and national organization of all Methodist-preference students called the Methodist Student Movement, or familiarly, the MSM. In Wisconsin the state MSM sponsors a fall and spring conference each year.

This fall the conference was held at Pine Lake, October 16 to 18 on the theme: "Sex on Campus—Why Not?"

Twelve students from Stevens Point attended a regional study and mission conference conducted by the national MSM at Lake Poinsett, S. D. The theme was "Biblical Faith and Ethical Revolution." Students from seven mid-west states were included in this conference.

Between Christmas and New Years, the national MSM will hold its quadrennial conference at Lincoln, Nebraska on the theme; "The Church In The World." Dr. Martin Luther King, Senator Hubert Humphrey and Bishop James K. Matthews will be among the speakers.

LOCAL PROGRAM PLANS. At the Stevens Point Wesley Foundation every Thursday evening the students meet for period of worship and a program. This year, plans include a series on worship, study of other denominations, a discussion on the Virgin Birth and a presentation on the church in Japan by the Rev. Perry Saito.

There will be a study group in preparation for the quadrennial conference. The students will carry out an intensive deputation program to area churches. Some time will be given to recreation and fellowship.

OPERATION. Perhaps the most exciting and challenging plans for the fall are arrangements to share facilities with the Lutheran Student Association and the United Campus Christian Fellowship. In general the three groups will maintain separate programs. However, students of all three groups will be free to participate in study groups and attend meetings of any other group as they feel interested. The three groups will also sponsor jointly a Sunday evening series of programs based on three themes. The first series was the Sunday evenings from September 20 to October 11 on the theme: "The Meaning of Life." The second series was held on Sundays from October 18 to November 1 on "Issues of the Election." The final series was on "Religion and the Arts" from November 8 to December 6 excluding the Sunday following Thanksgiving.

Discussions are also underway for jointly sponsored programs by all religious faiths. This will include a continuation of dialogues among the clergy who have a responsibility for the campus ministry. There also was a conference at Stevens Point on November 1 to 3 sponsored by the Wisconsin Council of Churches which included representatives of all faiths. Dr. Euguen R. McPhee, director of Wisconsin State Universities, spoke on the theme: "The Changing Shape of Higher Education." Dr. Martha Perterson, dean of student affairs at the University of Wisconsin, discussed: "The College Students: What Are Their Most Pressing Needs?" The Rev. John S. Duley, Presbyterian campus minister at East Lansing, Michigan, spoke on "The Church's Changing Orientation to Higher Education."

Interested persons are encouraged to make inquiries about the campus ministry and visitors are always welcome.

Newman Student Association

The familiar Newman Club motto "COR AD COR LOQUITUR" (Heart speaks to Heart) greets each student who walks on Fremont Street across from Old Main. The motto has History. It speaks of Catholics who have gone to WSU and the activities of the Newman Apostolate as part of their lives. The Catholic Organization glances backward to the well-known and loved May Roach. It reaches out to the future of continual guidance and aid to students.

The Newman Club, as it was named in 1952, had as its precursor the Loyola Club. Miss May Roach was the director, counselor, and spiritual inspiration for this religious group. May extended her help and generosity from the foundation of the Newman Apostolate to the time of her retirement.

The present location of the Newman Student Association is at 201 N. Fremont. This house was purchased in 1959 by Father Norbert Wilger. Many graduates remember him well and appreciate his efforts in their behalf.

Recently property was purchased on Reserve Street to the expanding needs of Catholics on Campus.

The Newman Apostolate has as its purpose the intellectual, social, and spiritual interests of the students. Many opportunities are afforded them. This ranges from spiritual functions and guidance to classes and meetings. Perhaps, more importantly, the Organization has matured in its concept of inviting students to accept more responsibility and to use their talents more fully.

Besides the intellectual and spiritual formation taking place, the Association sees itself in the role of promoting the interests of the University. The University presents a vision and challenge to them; our Organization offers the spiritual milieu to them.

The Newman Student Association is happy to have had a part in the panoramic dream of Alumni through the years to better the community, country, and the furtherance of educational standards.

Lutheran Student Association

ELDON OLSON

The ministry to Lutheran students on the campus is coordinated and sponsored by Trinity Lutheran Church of Stevens Point, in conjunction with the National Lutheran Council. Estimates indicate that nearly one third of the students on the campus are Lutheran, so our current ministry encompasses somewhat over a thousand students. This is more of a mission field than a congregation, however, since few of the students avail themselves of the Church during their brief stay here. This is not to say that most students turn atheist or agnostic during their college years; it rather means more often that the average student tries to appraise himself, his objectives, his meaning in life, and his limitations in terms of the entire sphere of educational and social experiences. Joe and Jane College are today Christian, tomorrow philosophers, the next day atheists, the next economic materialists, rationalists, deists, humanists, nihilists, etc... They appear like the large globes of mirrors, twirling around catching first one ray of light, then another; casting first one reflection, then another; but the illusion of the mirror is broken and seem for what it truly is when it is taken down the lofty heights and examined on the ground, without the glare of bright spotlights, without a semi-darkness in which to spread its beams. Here on the ground, most students remain in the Church of their fathers and true to the faith of their heritage.

It is at this ground level that we try to minister to our students. After the student has passed through the stages of Freshman innocence, Sophomoric omniscience, and Junior confusion, there emerges a mature Senior understanding of themselves, their ambitions and limitations, and their faith. It is no surprise that most of the students who are active in our program are Seniors. All of this seems good, at least for those who triumph. Because what usually emerges is a far more dedicated Christian than the one who entered the race. It is no trite cliché that 'in order to find a place, you have to run the race'.

In the context of this, one could say that the reason for having an LSA or any religious organization on a secular campus is simply to be there. The students know who we are and where we are. Very few of them let us know who they are; they prefer to remain anonymous. They see the Church as a part of that outside world from which they have come and to which they shall likely return, and there seems to be a salient appreciation on their part that their families, their Church, their hopes and ambitions, are 'standing by'. An indication of this is that few of them participate in small group studies or discussions, but literally hundreds of them will worship with us en masse with our congregation on Sunday morning; and it is our hope that they do so without constraint to pursue their 'abiding' faith.

There do not appear to be any

Graduate Program

Interest in the graduate program promises another banner summer in 1965. The enrollment for 1964 was 143 but the availability of graduate work on Saturdays and evenings has provided an added incentive for some students to initiate or accelerate their graduate training. We have received additional encouragement with good prospects for a year around daytime program beginning in the fall of 1966. It is hoped that we can implement an assistantship program at the same time. This will provide recent graduates and others with an opportunity for more intensive involvement in graduate work in the form of teaching responsibilities as well as remunerative assistance. Tentative plans for this summer call for a repeat of many of the standard courses and nine courses that have not been available during previous summers. Most of these are in the areas of specialization but Improvement of great movements on our campuses today, either Christian or otherwise. The day of tamborine beating and 'cell groups' seems to have disappeared. No longer does the Christian student isolate himself in sanctified seclusion. The University has become a Multiversity as an academic market-place, where ideas and values are bought and sold momentarily. Students are far more serious, far more stable in their barter; they usually weigh whatever they buy very carefully. Very few ever counterfeit their faith.

As the Wisconsin State University at Stevens Point increases by leaps and bounds, as we look into a future with doubling enrollments and spiraling adjustments, the objectives for ministry to our students are staggering. But in this despair of new dimensions, we must realize that whatever efforts Campus Ministry makes depend almost entirely upon what the students were when they came. In order for the student to emerge from this experience of learning as a mature Christian, he must see the continuity of his childhood faith, his abiding Church, and his mature wisdom of the 'will of the Lord'. Without this continuity, anything else that emerges is sheer miracle.

Reading and Foundations of Dramatic Art are on the tentative list.

A different approach to the final examination procedure is currently under consideration by the Graduate Faculty. Students planning to graduate at the end of our next summer session may have an opportunity to take their written examinations before enrolling for the summer term. If you will be affected by an alternate plan, please feel free to address any inquiries to the Dean of Graduate Programs.

Potential new enrollees are urged to make application at an early date. Those continuing in the program should enroll as soon as practical after distribution of the bulletins and schedules, about March 1. Address your requests and inquiries to Dr. Edgar Pierson, Dean, Graduate School, Wisconsin State University, Stevens Point, Wis.

From Your University Placement Office

Each year the placement office has the pleasure of extending placement services to alumni in bringing credentials up-to-date and assisting in the location of well deserved promotional opportunities. Despite the greatly increased number of seniors graduating each year, services to our alumni are encouraged and welcomed providing that specific preliminaries are completed.

(1) Notification of interest in a new position is reported early—between December and February if possible. This provides ample opportunity to send out the essential form for information needed to bring the credentials up-to-date. School administrators expect each applicant for a position to have credentials available and up-to-date at the time of interviewing. It takes time to send out for evaluations and for their return and to prepare copies for insertion in the candidates credentials.

(2) Preferences as to location and type of position needs to be reported. For those interested in out-of-state positions, it is necessary to determine early the certification requirements of the particular state. Your placement office contains some information on this matter and will obtain more if we know the state concerned. Early planning is essential.

(3) When a position has been selected, the placement office must be informed promptly. This removes the candidates name from the active list and prevents the consideration of a candidate for a position who is no longer available. School administrators expect the records of the placement office to be up-to-date and accurate. This is very important in maintaining a reputable placement service.

(4) Pointers are to be encouraged to continue graduate study to qualify for excellent administrative, supervisory and specialized opportunities which are available. New certification requirements need to be met for many of these positions which should be familiar to a candidate before applying.

(5) Any change of address should be reported promptly to the placement office in order to assure prompt communication. This is particularly important during the summer months if considering a new position.

Point Takes Lead In Teaching Concept

A new concept in the teaching of Botany is being tested by the Biology Department of WSU Stevens Point. This, the "Audio-Tutorial" method, was developed at Purdue University by Dr. Sam Postlethwaite. It is in use also at Penn. State University.

The program centers on individual inquiry in the laboratory. The laboratory is set up much as is a language laboratory with a number (24) of tape listening cubicles, tape transports, and the instrumentation and materials necessary to the study for any given week.

Laboratory instructions and necessary background information are given the student on the tape. At intervals the student is called upon to turn off the tape and perform an experiment or make an observation. The student is free to stop the tape and replay portions until the passage is understood.

A demonstration table emphasizes certain aspects of the laboratory work. Visual aids in the form of slide, filmstrip, and single concept movie projectors are also available for student operation in the laboratory.

The tapes are adapted locally from copies of scripts in use at Purdue University. Modern biological principles are emphasized.

A laboratory assistant is available in the laboratory at all times. Each student attends two quiz sections each week. In these quiz sections questions are asked and answered, homework and research problems are discussed, and brief, impromptu lectures are sometimes given in answer to questions.

All students meet in one general assembly each week. In the general assembly the student receives some indication of the work to be pursued in the week ahead, films are shown, and instructions and/or announcements are given.

Although a textbook is issued and pagination appropriate to weekly subject matter is indicated, no formal reading assignments are given. Formal lectures are not offered, but the student is called upon to read selected Scientific American reprints each week. Wherever possible, the student is asked to perform experiments or analyze data from experiments in which the conclusions are not immediately apparent. Independent thought is encouraged.

Over 300 students are now taking this course at WSU-Stevens Point. Student response has been excellent and the results, as indicated by frequent testing, also appear to be excellent. This program was financed in part through a National Science Foundation Grant. Visitors are welcome. Dr. Robert Simpson, Chm. of the Biology Department is in charge of this project.

Dr. Edith Treuenfels At University of West Indies

Should any Pointers be spending his Christmas holiday in or near St. Augustine, Trinidad, West Indies and would visit the Institute of Education at the University, he would likely find Dr. Treuenfels busy as usual in her new role for one semester as consultant and lecturer at the University in the New Mathematics. She received a Fulbright Lectureship to work with teachers and school supervisors and principals throughout the island in obtaining a better understanding of the modern mathematics. This means, according to Dr. Treuenfels, the "process of interpretation and precise use of the language of mathematics, eliminating those topics which were relatively unimportant, while emphasizing the structure of the subject rather than isolated topics. The modern approach is a method by which the student would think, rather than learn topics by heart."

She has conducted a number of seminars with mathematics teachers and principals. Arrangements are made for her to meet with small sections of math. teachers for half days during the week in an attempt to reach as many teachers as possible. Her Saturdays are filled for such classes until the middle of December.

Her program includes demonstration in classes, meeting with teacher groups following classroom visits and appointments with individual teachers. She hopes to visit all the high schools where an invitation is extended throughout the island.

Early in January a conference-workshop-seminar arrangement is planned for all who have participated in the program. This to provide additional opportunity to study other topics of modern mathematics and to prepare short units for the particular grade level taught. There are expected to be "enrichment materials" tailored to the Trinidad student. The interest of the teachers of this British Island in learning the new mathematics that it is a most rewarding experience to work with them, Miss Treuenfels reports.

An occasional trip to the sea shore or drive into the mountain areas has added some change in her long schedule. She hopes to spend a few days during the holiday season at Barbadas and if possible a weekend at Port-of-Spain. When she returns for the second semester here, she will provide a more detailed account of her activities in this interesting assignments.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Is your address up-to-date? The need to keep your address current cannot be over-emphasized. Frequently important notices fail to reach a person because of a change in address and this or other offices have not been informed. Other than first class mail is not forwarded. Should you move down the block and your Alumni News Bulletin is mailed to your former address, the mailman will not deliver your News Letter to your new address. Instead it is returned to this office with an 8 cents postage due charge made and your new address if you reported it to the post office is provided. We then need to write you to determine the accuracy of the new address and charge you for the 8 cents postage. This can be avoided by keeping your address up-to-date when you move. Your placement office will deeply appreciate this cooperation.

From Your Athletic Director

Well the football uniforms have been packed away for another year. Although our won and lost column showed three wins and six losses, the record does not tell what kind of ball this young team played. When the final statistics come out, I am sure you will find Point up near the top in both offense and defense.

We gave Eau Claire, the State Champions, its only loss here on Homecoming day which I'm sure many of you saw. On the final night, Nov. 7th, River Falls came here in second place and this fine young club defeated them handily.

Another high-light of the season was a "first" as far as athletics goes here at Stevens Point. We chartered a 44 passenger plane and flew over to play Hillsdale College, a team that won the small college National Championship three years ago. The final score—Hillsdale 7, Stevens Point 0. We fumbled with first down and one to go for a touchdown late in the game.

Another high-light of the season was the first "get-to-gether" of all former letter winners, following the homecoming game. About 60 returned for that meeting. We hope that next year the total will reach one hundred.

Now its time for basketball, swimming and wrestling. On Nov. 24th, our first game was with Winona. From the score 88-57 we appear to be on our way to an interesting season since many of the team are returning from last years squad. The first team roster includes:

University Enrollments Continue Upwards

Final enrollment figures reported by the nine Wisconsin State Universities this fall total 30,064, the Board of Regents office in Madison reports.

The total is 5,507, or 22 per cent higher than the enrollment on the nine campuses a year ago. The actual enrollment exceeds forecasts made last summer by more than 1,500, said Robert W. Winter, Jr., Madison, Controller.

The reports show that:

—Men outnumber women on all campuses, with a total of 17,686 men, or 59 per cent, and 12,378 women. Among the single students, the ratios range from 53 per cent men at Oshkosh to 71 per cent at River Falls and 72 per cent at Platteville. There are 1,979 married men and 1,647 married women.

—Of every 100 WSU students, 89 are from Wisconsin homes, 10 are from other states and one is from a foreign country.

—The largest State Universities have the highest percentage of Wisconsin students, with 98 per cent state residents at Oshkosh, 97 per cent at Eau Claire, 96 per cent at Stevens Point, 92 per cent at La Crosse and 89 per cent at Whitewater. Lowest ratios are at Stout (75 per cent), River Falls (77 per cent), Platteville (80 per cent), and Superior (83 per cent), because of specialized programs and nearness to state borders.

—The breakdown by classes shows system totals of 11,941 freshmen, 6,838 sophomores, 5,362 juniors, 4,752 seniors, 608 graduate students and 563 special students.

—Oshkosh remains the largest of the State Universities, with 5,375 students, up 27 per cent from last fall. Whitewater is second, with 4,901, and a slightly higher percentage increase — 29 per cent — over last year.

Following are the enrollments at the nine State Universities:

Programed Instruction Conference At Point

Wisconsin State University, Stevens Point and the Department of Public Instruction combined forces in hosting a state conference on Programed Instruction on Wednesday, October 28, 1964. Over 200 educators from all parts of Wisconsin were welcomed by Dr. Gordon R. Haferbecker at the University Center for the workshop type conference, the first of its kind held in Wisconsin. Others will be conducted at locations throughout the state.

Dr. L. M. Stolorow, Prof. of Psychology, University of Illinois was the keynote speaker. After reviewing the history of programed instruction, he discussed the use of teaching machines and programed instruction in public schools. A highlight of the presentation was a discussion and film about SOCRATES, an automated system of instruction using a re-modeled Autotutor coupled with a computer. Through this system programs are prepared for each advantages to automated instruction and presented to him. It is generally agreed that there are many advantages to automated instruction and continued research and experimentation will refine the programs for efficient use in public schools.

Dr. Gerald Gleason, Director of Programed Instruction Center, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee was the main speaker in the afternoon session. He discussed research in programed instruction in detail. Of great interest were conflicting results in research concerning self pacing and sequence of events. He discouraged schools from using programed instruction unless they investigated the situation thoroughly and were willing to support it "in toto". He summarized his presentation indicating that students can learn using teaching machines and programed texts.

College and University Positions Open to Pointer Grads

Pointers who have continued their graduate study and have earned a Masters degree or the doctorate are in a fine position to qualify for excellent positions in state and private colleges and universities. The first step is to notify this placement office and the placement office from the institution where you completed your graduate study of your interest in such promotional opportunities. Arrange to have your credentials up-dated and ready for placement services.

Listing of vacancies are reaching placement offices at this early date. The demand for capable and highly qualified candidates will be heavy for several years. Dr. Quincy Doudna, formerly on the staff of this university, and now President of Eastern Illinois University called at the placement office recently to report 65 vacancies for 1965-66. Dr. Richard P. Bailey, formerly on the Oshkosh State University staff, and currently President of Northland College, Ashland, Wis. reports seven vacancies for the fall. Many fine positions will be open in the State Universities of Wisconsin where a number of Pointers have already found excellent opportunities. A letter of inquiry to the Presidents of any college or university will bring you helpful information. Your placement office is ready to assist you at any time.

Army Seeking Women Officers

The Department of Army recently announced job openings in specific fields for female college graduates, who have been out of college for a period and have gained experience in their graduated field.

An example of some of the fields which are open, are: Biology, Business Administration, Chemistry, Education, Languages, Law, Mathematics and Zoology.

It will interest the alumni to know that the majority of young women applying for a commission in the Women's Army Corps are those who have been out of college for a period of one to three years. It seems these young women wish to take advantage of the opportunities available to them, such as: travel, broadening their knowledge in their respective fields, 20-year retirement and furthering their education in graduate work at the governments expense.

Those individuals who are between the ages of 21 to 29 with experience in their college major will be offered a First Lieutenancy in the Women's Army Corps. There are other qualifications which must be met, further information may be obtained by contacting Captain Jeane Wolcott, 341 N. Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Americans are living in the lap of luxury, the economists assert. What worries us is that it may be our last lap.

Somehow the strategy in the so-called war against poverty recalls that of the egghead who when he found his boat was leaking, bored a hole on the other side for the water to run out.

Most people like hard work, particularly when they are paying to have it done.

Adolescence is when you think you'll live forever. Middle age is when you wonder how you've lasted so long.

The Deans of the four Schools — (1) Applied Arts and Science, Dr. Paul Yambert; (2) Fine Arts, Dr. Robert Cantrick; (3) Education, Dr.

Burdette Eagon and (4) Dr. Warren Jenkins, Letters and Science are directly responsible to the Vice President of Academic Affairs. Dr. Edgar Pierson, Dean of the Graduate School is also directly responsible to Dr. Haferbecker. Assisting the President in administrative matters is Dr. Kurt Schmeller.

Point Student Studying in Austria

Charles Pankratz from Ripon who attended his first three years and one summer session at the Point, is spending a semester and one summer in study and travel in Austria. We quote from his letter:

"I have completed my summer studies at the University of Innsbruck, Austria. My classes dwelt mainly with Austrian literature, and we did cover many works. My main goal while in Europe is to become more fluent in speaking German, and the three months during which I have been here have helped tremendously.

It is hard to believe that a city like Innsbruck exists. It is nestled in the Alps and, of course, has a culture which is completely new to me.

In October I begin my studies at one of the Goethe Institutes in Germany. I will be having thirty hours of classes per week, so I will be busy and should benefit tremendously. The term will be completed on December 23rd. I could remain until February 27th and then return home. I am not certain if that is the wisest decision for me to make, as, while I would profit by two extra months here, I would lose a complete semester at Stevens Point. With this in mind I may return to "Point" for the second semester."

Charles is majoring German and completing an English minor.

A Creed

"I do not choose to be a common man. It is my right to be uncommon. I seek opportunity to develop whatever talents God gave me — not security. I do not wish to be a kept citizen humbled and dulled by having the state look after me. I want to take the calculated risk; to dream and to build, to fail and to succeed. I refuse to barter incentive for a dole. I prefer the challenges of life to the guaranteed existence; the thrill of fulfillment to the stale calm of utopia. I will not trade freedom for beneficence nor my dignity for a handout. I will never cower before any earthly master nor bend to any threat. It is my heritage to stand erect, proud and unafraid; to think and act myself, enjoy the benefit of my creations and to face the world boldly and say — "This, with God's help, I have done." All this is what it means to be an American."
