

Eighty-Third COMMENCEMENT

University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point

Two o'clock, Quandt Gymnasium, Fieldhouse
May Fourteenth, Nineteen Hundred and Seventy-Seven

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM

Prelude to Commencement UW-Stevens Point Symphony Orchestra
Jon Borowicz, Conductor

Presentation of Colors University ROTC Color Guard

Processional Symphony Orchestra
March of the Priests from the "Magic Flute"; Mozart

National Anthem

Invocation The Rev. Leo Krynski
Pastor, Newman University Parish
Campus Ministry

Honors Announcement Dr. John B. Ellery
Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs
Dean of Faculties

James H. Albertson Awards Dr. David L. Coker
Assistant Chancellor for University Services

Commencement Address Chancellor Lee Sherman Dreyfus

Gaudeamus Igitur Traditional European Academic Song

"Gaudeamus Igitur" is a traditional student song which has been sung in European universities for centuries. It extols the virtues of the academic community, and it asks for a long life for the university, the professors, and the student body. The arrangement being played was especially arranged by Professor Borowicz for the University Orchestra.

Presentation of Degree Candidates

College of Professional Studies Dean Arthur L. Fritschel

College of Natural Resources Dean Daniel O. Trainer

College of Fine Arts Dean William J. Hanford

College of Letters and Science Dean S. Joseph Woodka

Conferring of Baccalaureate Degrees Chancellor Dreyfus

Presentation of U. S. Army Commissions Major John F. Reid

Conferring of Graduate Degrees Chancellor Dreyfus

Alumni Charge Dr. Leonard L. Gibb
Director of Development and Alumni

Message from UW-System President John Weaver

Charge to the Graduates Chancellor Dreyfus

Alma Mater* The Purple and the Gold

Other schools of valor boast,
Of victories galore,
Of laurels never lost,
Of triumphs by the score;

Let them tell you of their prowess,
Of warriors strong and bold,
But their colors ever lower
To the Purple and the Gold.

Benediction Father Krynski

Battle Hymn of the Republic* Julia Ward Howe

Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord;
He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored;
He hath loosed the fateful lightning of His terrible swift sword,
His truth is marching on.

Glory, glory Hallelujah! Glory, glory Hallelujah!
Glory, glory Hallelujah! His truth is marching on.

Recessional Daniel W. Hansen
Class of 1977

* Audience asked to join in the singing.

*Reception for graduates and their guests in

ACADEMIC ATTIRE

Many of the academic traditions associated with higher education originated during the Middle Ages when some of the great hierarchy of degrees (bachelor, master, doctor) as well as the colorful robes and accessories which originally served the practical purpose of keeping students and faculty warm. Modern academic apparel in this country is based on an intercollegiate code of uniformity, but it retains its traditional meaning and significance.

Most academic gowns are black, but many European universities and a few in the United States use gowns of the color of the university. The cut of the garment denotes the degree earned. The bachelor's gown is worn closed at the neck and has long, pointed, open sleeves. The master's gown has long, open sleeves with the forearm protruding through a slit at the elbow. The doctor's gown is paneled in velvet with three velvet chevrons on each full, bell-shaped sleeve.

The hood is an important feature of the academic costume. Originally worn as a cowl, today it is merely decorative. Made of material to match the gown, it is lined with satin in the colors of the college or university granting the degree; it is edged and bound with velvet denoting the field of study. For example, the hood of a graduate from this campus is lined with gold and purple satin (this school's colors), hoods of graduates from the Madison campus are lined with cardinal red satin, while a Minnesota graduate (Minneapolis campus) wears a hood lined with maroon and gold satin. Some colors of velvet used to edge and bind the gown and hood are brown for Fine Arts, dark blue for Philosophy, golden yellow for Science, pink for Music, and light blue for Education. The bachelor's hood is seldom worn (it is not used on this campus), but it has a two-inch velvet border; the master's hood has a three-inch velvet border, while the doctor's hood has a five-inch velvet border.

Mortarboards are standard for all degrees with the only variations being in the color of the tassel. Bachelor of Science graduates wear the golden yellow tassel, Bachelor of Arts graduates a white tassel, and Bachelor of Music or Bachelor of Music Education graduates a pink tassel. A metallic gold tassel denotes the doctor's degree.

Bachelor degree candidates graduating with honors also wear the tasseled golden honor cords around the neck.

TWO ANNIVERSARIES FOR UW-SP

This is a special commencement for the University of Wisconsin - Stevens Point.

It marks the 50th anniversary of the conferring of baccalaureate degrees at this institution and completion of the 10th academic year as chancellor by Dr. Lee Sherman Dreyfus.

Since that June morning in 1927 when Sisters Mayme and Genevieve Cartmill of Plover were the first two persons to receive bachelors degrees, approximately 20,000 persons have been similarly honored by UW-SP.

But much different from a half century ago — in addition, of course, to the vastly expanded campus and facilities — is the fact persons have opportunities to pursue a wide range of academic majors, some of which now lead to master's degrees. In 1927, the only programs were for the preparation of future teachers. From the founding of the university in 1894 and for the next 33 years, graduates received one, two, or three year certificates of attendance which entitled them to seek teaching positions.

Many of the changes on campus have taken place under the leadership of Chancellor Dreyfus, whose title was president when he was hired in 1967 and whose institution was then known as Wisconsin State University - Stevens Point.

He has supervised the construction of a major share of the campus buildings, has encouraged stronger involvement of students and faculty in University governance, has spoken to a wide range of groups on a variety of subjects, and has added gray to his hair and moustache.

Those things about Chancellor Dreyfus which haven't been altered are his penchant for red vests, his continuing faith in students and his unwavering belief that education is one of the most important exports this country can send to its world neighbors.

Among the highlights of his time at UW - Stevens Point has been his participation in educational missions to all corners of the globe: VietNam, Europe, The People's Republic of China, and most recently to Taiwan. He played a key role in the merger of Wisconsin's two university systems in the early 1970's. He has maintained that students here need to know about something outside of Wisconsin because "we are citizens of the world." Consequently, he has invited educators and politicians from the nation and the world to appear here and been involved with the establishment of overseas branches of UW - Stevens Point in several countries.

Many graduates remember Chancellor Dreyfus for the classes he has taught, for his warm, personal greetings, for the time he has "rapped" with them in the dorms or in the Gridiron, and for his support for a First Amendment campus where everyone's ideas get heard.

His professional service has included membership on the boards of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters and the American Association of State Colleges and Universities. He is on the board of advisors of the U. S. Army Command Sergeant Majors Academy, chairman of the U. S. Army ROTC Advisory Panel and twice chairman of the University of Wisconsin System Council of Chancellors.

He holds three degrees from the University of Wisconsin - Madison and was director of television and professor of speech there before being appointed at UW - SP.

Mrs. Dreyfus shares the spotlight with her chancellor husband today; she is receiving a bachelor of science degree in elementary education which culminates a collegiate career begun in the mid 1940's, interrupted by duties as a housewife, mother of two children and grandmother of two little boys.

UNIVERSITY MACE

This ceremonial mace was handcrafted for UW-SP by Art Professor Henry Runke and used for the first time at the spring commencement in 1976. The grand marshal who leads each academic procession at the university carries the gold-plated and brass work of art which represents the institution's authority.

The most prominent feature is the mace's head which is a miniature of the cupola of Old Main, in recent years the university's symbol.

The square base of the cupola has space on which university history is recorded, including the five different names the institution has had since it was founded in 1894, the names of all the presidents of the institution and the dates of their service, including two acting presidents. Another square lists those persons who will hold the title of chancellor, with the name of Dr. Dreyfus, the incumbent, first on the list. The fourth side is blank.

A jewel inside the miniature cupola is an amethyst which symbolizes the purple in the school's official colors of purple and gold.

Another piece of ceremonial jewelry is the chancellor's medallion which has been worn by Dr. Dreyfus at UW-SP ceremonies since his inauguration. It, too, was crafted by Professor Runke.
