HEBAL BACK FROM NAT'L CONCLAVE

1931 MEET TO BE HELD HERE

On Friday and Saturday, April 11th and 12th, Sigma Zeta National Science Fraternity met in conclave at Otterbein College,

FRED HEBAL

Wesleyville, Ohio. At the conclave, to which Fred Hebal was the delegate from the Central State Teachers' College chapter, it was decided that next year the conclave will meet at this college. Last year it was held at Kirksville State Teachers' College at Kirksville, Missouri.

Delegates were present from all but three chapters. This was the first year this college sent a representative. Hebal reports that he was welcomed heartily and that the other delegates were very much interested in the progress which is being made by the Zeta chapter here.

Professor R. K. Carlton, organizer of the fraternity and Grand Recorder, Treasurer, was highly impressed by the fine fraternity spirit and cooperation shown by members of the Zeta Chapter. He emphasized the important progress the C. S. T. C. chapter has made in helping to promote the national organization.

At the conclave the delegates discussed important matters, and listened to interesting talks on scientific subjects. Friday afternoon a business meeting was called, which was followed by a tour of inspection of the college buildings.

At 6 o'clock Friday evening, the delegates attended a banquet, at which the guests were welcomed formally by Morris Hicks, Master Scientist of Epsilon Chapter of Otterbein College. Dr. E. W. E. Schear was toastmaster. The Zeta delegate was called upon to speak. After the banquet the delegates attended a concert by the Otterbein College Glee Club, who had just completed a two weeks' tour.

Saturday morning scientific pictures were shown at the State Theater. The subjects were "The Characteristics of Sound," "Finding His Voice," and "Hollywood Sound Studios." In the afternoon a general discussion was held, at which each chapter was asked to be on the lookout for some historic piece of material of which to make a gavel for official use at all the future banquets. It is proposed to retain this gavel from year to year, inscribing upon it the toast master of each of the annual banquets.

Fred Hebal was appointed to membership on the invitation, publication, certification and revision committees. He was also appointed to audit the Grand Council books for the ensuing year. The Zeta Chapter has already contributed a great deal to the above named committees.

Day Draws Near For May Party

The time is drawing near for the May Party which is to be sponsored by the Home Economics Club. The girls are working hard in anticipation of the informal event which will take place Saturday evening, May 3, beginning at eight o'clock.

The party will take place in the training school gymnasium. The orchestra which has been hired for the occasion is one of the finest in this section of the state, — the Avalon Entertainers.

In addition to the regular dance, specialty numbers have been prepared which will give to the event the spirit of May. Full details as to the party will be given in the next issue.

In the meantime, invitations are being sent to those people whose names are already on the approved list and to those additional ones whose names are found in the box in the office. Any student may have his or her friends invited if he or she will put the names and addresses on a slip of paper and drop it in this box.

The price of admission will be one dollar a couple, or fifty cents for a single ticket.

Clubs Will Present Assembly Programs

It is planned that in the near future various organizations in school will provide programs for the assembly hour. Two have been definitely scheduled.

The Margaret Ashmun Club will have a program prepared for May 8th. On the following Thursday, Sigma Zeta will entertain the student body. Later other organizations will be scheduled for programs.

State Treasurer To Address Assembly

On May 1, the student body will be addressed during the assembly hour by the Honorable Mr. Solomon Levitan. He is treasurer of the State of Wisconsin.

Honorable Mr. Levitan is known as a very interesting speaker. Born in Switzerland, he has a life time of experiences from which he may speak.

TRIO AND DANCER TO APPEAR HERE FRIDAY, APRIL 25

Courts Open To Club Members

The time for playing tennis has come once more. The constant occupation of the tennis courts testifies to this. The courts will soon be locked so that members of the Tennis Club may have the privileges in regard to their use.

Any student or faculty member may be a member of the Tennis Club upon payment of the fee. Membership entitles him to a key to the courts. The fee for members who retain their keys from last year is twenty five cents. New members must pay fifty cents. Any applicant for membership should see Miss Seen or Mr. Schmeekle. The courts may be used any time when gym classes are not occupying them.

The price of membership has been considerably lowered because the courts are now entirely paid for. The cost of building the courts was $2,300. They were laid three years ago. Since then various groups have worked to pay off the bond. Over $300 was contributed through membership fees, G. A. A. paid $300, the faculty contributed $500, the office sent in $500, and the balance was paid by the athletic association.

The laying of the courts was made possible by the good faith of six men who signed a $1,000 note so that the work might be begun. These men are Mr. Steiner, Mr. Watson, Mr. Delzell, Mr. Neale, Mr. Schmeekle, and Mr. Hirzy.

The tennis team is now being organized. Home matches have been arranged with teams from Oshkosh and Lawrence College. The Oshkosh boys will come here the first or second week in May. Anyone interested in the team should report to Mr. Schmeekle.

Tennis is open to all girls. A tournament will be arranged in which any girl who wishes to, may participate. Miss Seen is in charge of the tournament.

FAMOUS ARTISTS WILL ENTERTAIN

Friday evening, April 25th, at 8:15 o'clock the last number of the 1929-30 lecture course will be presented in the college auditorium. The program will consist of musical numbers by a violin, cello, and piano trio and dances by Miss Gloria Randolph.

These people have met with great success in the largest cities. The trio, of which Isador Berger is the violinist, Alexander Aster the pianist, and Bruno Steindel the cellist, is a combination of three musicians who have been associated with famous organizations both in the United States and in Europe. Miss Randolph's experiences cover dancing in the Latin countries as well as in American cities.

Miss Randolph has studied under some of the best teachers and artists in the world today. She appeared as the premiere dancer during two seasons at Ravinia Park, Chicago. While she was in command of the ballet of that famous organization, she was extremely popular because of her ability to create interesting variations and because of her beauty and grace. She was with the Chicago Civic Opera Company for three seasons. She has appeared before not only the American public, but also that of several other countries, among which are Cuba, Mexico, Guatemala, Costa Rica, and Argentina.

For years Isador Berger has been receiving honors for his violin playing. Before he was seventeen he had astounded Chicago critics and had won gold medals. He went to Europe to study under Emile Sauret in Geneva, Switzerland, August Wilhelmj in London, England, and Cesar Thomson in Brussels, Belgium, where he took first prize for violin playing at the Royal Conservatory. In that same city he was engaged as first violinist in King Albert's Royal Court Orchestra. Later he held the same position in Queen's Hall, London, and in Chicago with the Chicago Grand Opera Orchestra. Critics praise his strong, vibrant tone, and complete understanding of the technicalities which go to make a perfect rendition of the best music. He shows a remarkable facility and personality in his playing.

The violin cellist, Bruno Steindel, was born in Zwickau, Saxony, where his father was Director of Music. He began the study of the violin at an early age, and as he progressed in his studies he manifested a strong inclination for the cello, to which he devoted his attention. He was for several years first soloist of the Philharmonic Orchestra of Berlin. He was afforded further opportunity to play under such well known masters as Brahms, Tschai-covsky, Strauss, Dvorak, Grieg, and Joachim. With the organization of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in 1891, Mr. Steindel held the position of first cellist, and through his numerous appearances as soloist has won an unrivaled place for himself in the hearts of the American music-loving public. Mr. Steindel is now solo-cellist with the Chicago Civic Opera Company. It has been said that no cellist in this country excels him. He is accorded the highest tribute wherever he goes.

Nelson Hall is sponsoring a series of children's movies to be given in the evening of April 24 at 7:30 o'clock. "The Ragged Girl of Oz," "Tom Brown's School Days," and "Hiawatha's Happy Hunting Ground" were the pictures chosen after careful selection. These movies are classics for children and have earned lasting popularity. It is certain that the older children as well as the grade school children will enjoy seeing the movies.

THE TEACHERS COLLEGES AT ATLANTIC CITY

No group in American education today is working on its problems more earnestly and effectively than the American Association of Teachers Colleges, a department of the National Education Association. The Atlantic City meetings of this department were held on Friday and Saturday before the convention of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association. Its discussions went to the very roots of the problems of these great institutions. Its committees were doing things — developing ideals, discussing concrete situations with officers of colleges which are seeking to reach higher standards. Everywhere one found the spirit of good will, of achievement, of determination to make the state teachers colleges the best colleges on earth.

It is truly remarkable that within less than a decade the normal schools with two years of work have developed into colleges with four years of work. They will undoubtedly continue their upward march until they are excellent graduate schools. The contribution of the normal schools to the excellence of present day education is beyond calculation. Call the roll of the leaders in your state and note the number of them who had their beginnings in a normal school, whose ideals were formed and whose inspiration had its roots there.

The early normal schools grew up out of the soil of educational need. Like the elementary schools they are democratic in concept. They have always emphasized character, realizing that no one can teach more than he is. Through this character contribution the normal schools have had a profound effect upon American ideals. We believe it to be of the utmost importance that the emphasis continue to be on character. The state teachers colleges are the West Points of our educational army. As they are democratic our life will be democratic. We believe it important to train elementary school teachers, secondary school teachers, and school librarians together in these institutions in order that they may know one another and lay in mutual friendship the foundation for professional cooperation in the development of the educational program of the state. — Joy Elmer Morgan, Editor of the JOURNAL OF THE NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION. Editorial from the April issue.

Glenn Frank, president of University of Wisconsin:

"The happiest man alive is the one who gets what he earns and earns what he gets."

"The average young person today is equipped with a better educational background and enjoys more of the luxuries and good things of life than did a Roman senator in the days when Rome was in its glory." — L. W. Baldwin.

"Words are absolutely necessary for thinking, and with a minimum of words there is a minimum of thought." — Aubrey Douglas.

"It is not a question whether the job is big enough for us, but rather whether we are big enough for the job." — Helen Heffernan.

EASTER GREETINGS

HUMOR MORE OR LESS

KEEN AND CRITICAL THINKING

After listening to a few moments of "Shreveport Henderson" the other night, I got to wondering — do you suppose he thinks short-bread is chain-store stuff? I wouldn't be surprised. I know a boy who thinks the Collus of Rhodes is a snow plow and that Paraffin is a hotel.

NON-ESSENTIALS

Here's one — that song about "I Think You're Wonderful — I May Be Wrong" (Last four words non-essential.)

SIMPLE

Dick M. — Well, what are you going to get in history?

Floyd: Well, if I don't get "A" I'll get "B", if I don't get "B" I'll get "C", if I don't get "C" I'll get "D", if I don't get "D" I'll get "E", if I don't get "E" I'll get "F", if I don't get "F" I'll get "G", if I don't get "G" I'll get H—

Dick M.: Oh, yah! I suppose you will.

"It's not the school," sobbed the little freshee, "it's the principal of the thing."

College freshman in library:

"Please, would I find the American Mercury in the chemistry section?"

Jack Johnson: (walking into Palace of Sweets) — We come in here quite often don't we, fellows? Even the waitresses are getting to know us.

Waitress (taking their order)— Well, how many "cokes"?

As the train pulled into the depot, a traveling man stuck his head out of the window, and calling to a boy standing near, said:

"Here, sonny, bring me a sandwich, and here's another dime, get one for yourself."

Just as the train started to pull out, the boy returned, munching a sandwich, handed the man a dime and shouted: "Here's yer dime, Mister, they only had one."

"E Pluribus Unum" — Out of Many, One!

"When better cars are built we'll buy one."

"This is not opportunity. Opportunity knocks but once."

"Ford under construction; enter at your own risk."

"What a whale of a difference just few dents make."

"My Tacks Collector."

REMAINS TO BE SEEN

"Is my face dirty, or is it my imagination?"

"Your face isn't dirty; I don't know about your imagination."

A venerable old Scot purchased a little radio set. A few days later his friends asked him how he liked his set.

"Well, it's aw right to listen to; he replied, "but those bulbs are nat so guid to read by."

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Question: Should Girls Smoke?

Esther Hawkes: "No, girls should not smoke any more than men should, in fact, less. But I do not believe those men that do should stop now."

Earl Uptagrove: "No. The cigarette doesn't seem to fit into this new environment. Did you ever see an advertisement with the cigarette in a woman's mouth?

I have my doubts about its stopping "that future shadow."

Mike Smith: "Most girls are warm, but I don't think they should smoke."

Floyd Higgins: "It is the girl's privilege to smoke if they deserve to do so — they are free citizens and can enjoy the same privilege as men. However, my opinion physiologically speaking, would certainly be 'no'."

Miss Jones: "Girls have a right to smoke, but not all rights should be practiced. The habit of smoking adds nothing to the refinement of women."

Crystal Springer: "Girls may smoke if they wish, but they gain nothing by doing so."

Every Man For His Elf

It was in the year 5 B. S. (Before Stadium), Homecoming Day. The bleachers and grandstands were full of Stewds, Old Grads, and Girls from the girls' school of the town, all crazy for victory over the common enemy.

The hero of the hour raced forty yards for a touchdown, while the occupants of the stands went wild, stamping, shouting, and roaring madly. Crash! The girl's section, under the impact of 600 more or less dainty feet, had gone down!

There was a rush of would-be heroes to the scene of the tragedy, the Prexy acting as referee by showing the rescuers with their burdens to the cars. He halted a lank freshman who carried a limp, girlish form in his arms.

"Here," he ordered, "Give her to me. I have a car right here."

"Heh!" panted the frosh, blinded by the vision of loveliness on his shoulder, "there's plenty more in there. Go get your own."

They say the Prexy has never been the same since.

I'd rather be a Could Be
If I could not be an Are;
For a Could Be is a May Be,
With a chance of touching par.

I'd rather be a Has Been
Than a Might Have Been, by far;
For a Might Have Been has never been,
But a Has was once an Are.

Wisdom

Girls Attend Y. W. C. A. Interstate Meeting

A group of girls representing Central State at the Y. W. C. A. conference left for River Falls this week-end. Our representatives were Marion Kowitz, Helen Jordan, Ruby Hand, and Ellamae Newberry. Miss Hussey accompanied the girls.

They left in the wee hours of Saturday morning and started on the long drive to River Falls. Every moment of the time the girls were occupied, for the meetings were continually in session. Teas, banquets, and entertainments were also in order.

This was a conference of the Y. W. C. A. organization in Wisconsin and Minnesota colleges. Y. W. C. A. secretaries from other states, Bulgaria and China were also present.

The girls who went to River Falls would be willing to make the enjoyable trip again.

U. Of W. Students Home On Vacation

The State University is now closed for the spring holidays. Among the young people who have returned to Stevens Point are a number of former Central State students.

Clarence Theis, who was editor of the Pointer during the first semester of last year was seen about Central halls, as was Solomon Welantzik, his predecessor in the editorial chair. Clarence is now a junior in the school of commerce, while "Solly" is a second year law student.

Virgil Herrick, a graduate student in the college of letters and sciences, was home for the vacation, as was Forrest Wilkins, a freshman in the course of electrical engineering.

Ashmun Members See Slides At Meeting

Slides showing the most important scenes of the Passion Play were presented at the meeting of the Margaret Ashmun Club. This meeting was held Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the observation room on the first floor of the main building. As each picture was thrown on the screen, Miss Hussey gave an interesting explanation of it. These were views of the Passion Play which was given in 1920. The drama of Christ's life is presented by the villagers of Oberaunagau every ten years. This summer another of the plays will be given. The Margaret Ashmun Club was unusually fortunate in having the opportunity to see the slides.

The following committee has been appointed to sponsor the short story contest: Catherine Novitski, Celia Goldberg, and Earl Koch.

NELSON HALL NOTES

Early risers are not unheard of lately. The birds or the factory whistles are responsible for the five thirty A. M. risings perhaps. The breakfast tables are unusually well filled and some of the girls have ravenous appetites, sharpened by an hour of early morning tennis.

Mrs. Loretta Farrell was forced to go to her home in Milladore because her mother was suddenly taken ill.

Don't be surprised to see the girls picnicking on the dormitory lawn any evening soon. Sunday evening we had our first supper on the lawn. If we closed our eyes we could well imagine (perhaps) that we were on some really fair picnic grounds. The lunch was a picnic lunch at any rate.

Betty Harter entertained her mother and father this week-end. Her parents drove from their home in Norway, Wisconsin.

Ruth Seymour and Evelyn Sivertson celebrated their birthdays together Tuesday at dinner. They entertained ten guests at a special table. May they have many happy returns of the day, etc., etc?.

Mrs. Frank E. Percival has been lunching at the Hall during the week. She has been spending most of her time at the hospital where her little son underwent an operation.

The dorm porch and steps are again popular "parking" places now that the days are longer and the evenings shorter.

Amy Schaal spent the week-end in Royalton where she taught last year.

Blanche Tyler was called to Waake-sha where her mother is at the hospital. Blanche will return after Easter.

Many unique parties and programs, are being planned. Don't forget to reserve a few dates for the Nelson Hall hops, the entertainments which will increase the "encyclopedia fund".

Although most of us plan to spend the Easter holidays at home there are a few who expect the Easter bunny (they all know there is one) to come to the dormitory. Edith Sansem, Vivian Enge, Esther Hawkes, Genevieve Pulda, Helen Hammes and Elizabeth Harter intend to stay here. We hope that Stevens Point will be good to them.

Teske Speaker At Rural Life Club

Clarence Teske was the speaker of the evening at the April meeting of the Rural Life Club. A number of musical selection composed the rest of the program. The boys harmonica quartette composed of Reinhard Latzig, Henry Holubetz, John Kolka and Edward Giese played a group of familiar songs. Reinhard Latzig played a harmonica solo "Romona". A negro dialogue was presented by Lovren Clark and Amy Schaal. Marion Budberg delighted the club with a piano solo. The club meeting then adjourned to meet again in May.

Co-Ed B. B. Winners Honored With Picnic

"To the victor shall go the spoils!" And at last the winners of the girls' basketball tournament received their reward.

Thursday was an ideal day for a picnic and the girl athletics appreciated it. The hike out to Red Bridge was pleasantly long and the appetizing lunch afterward quickly disappeared. When the supply of rolls decreased, some of the girls discovered a new use for the holes in doughnuts. (For further information see Esther Hawkes).

An exciting baseball game ended the first of many W. A. A. picnics.

The pianist, Alexander Aster, is a native of Saint Petersburg, Russia. He has received many prizes and honors for his playing. After his graduation from the Royal Conservatory of Music in St. Petersburg, he was awarded a professorship in that institution. From 1918 to 1921, Mr. Aster traveled extensively throughout Europe and gave concerts in practically every city on the continent. His home is now in Chicago, where he teaches and coaches some of the foremost operatic high-lights. His playing shows a singular eloquence and artistry.

With three such musicians working together, a delightful ensemble is certain to follow. Miss Randolph's assistance will add to the program a beautiful variation.

Since this is one of the lecture course numbers, students are admitted upon presentation of their entertainment tickets. Admission will be charged to outsiders.

The program the artists will present follows:

- Trío in A minor Tschaiowsky
- Elegie, Theme and Variations, Fiancé Gavotte (Old French)
- Composer Unknown
- Miss Randolph
- St. Cecilia
- Rondo
- Bocherino

Time For Close Of Contest Draws Near

"And then they lived happily ever after." There's a unique and striking close for the story you're going to write for the Margaret Ashmun Club. If that's what is bothering you, here is the solution.

There are only a few more days left before the contest closes. The fatal day is the first of May. Several clever stories have already been handed to the committee in charge. The stories are to be given to three judges who will not know the names of the authors of the stories. The names of the judges will soon be announced. The rating given by them will determine the winner of the contest.

The length of the stories is not arbitrarily set: They may be of any type although the majority of them are usually juvenile. Use one side of the paper and type the stories using double spaces. Hand your contribution either to your English instructor or to Catherine Novitski before May 1st.

The winners of the contest will be announced at the Margaret Ashmun banquet which will be given in May. A prize will be awarded by Miss Margaret Ashmun and the winners will become members of the honorary literary society. The Pointer will also print the story.

Pearl Staples' delightful story about Katrinka's tempting won first place last year. "Billie Braid and the Rain King" written by Germaine Sinkular received second prize.

The Easter vacation gives you plenty of time to get an inspiration and to start scribbling.

Edgar Allan Poe's first story was written for a contest. Perhaps there are authors among you. Try it.

Teachers Convention Adds To Vacation

Because of the Wisconsin State Teachers' conference at Madison, spring vacation for the students of C. S. T. C. will have an extra day added to it. That means that vacation will begin Friday, April 18 and last until Wednesday April 23.

The conference is under the auspices of the Association of Wisconsin State Teachers Colleges and will be held in Madison April 21 and 22.

Members of the C. S. T. C. faculty who are officers of the Association are: Mr. Rogers, local chairman, Mr. Neale, who is on the Curriculum committee, and Miss Jones on the Finance committee. Miss Bessie May Allen is chairman on the committee for Banquet arrangements. Other members of the faculty, Miss Meston, Miss Wilson, Mr. Allez, Mr. Collins, Mr. Smith, Mr. Herrick, Miss Tobias, and Mr. Steiner, will either act as chairman of the sectional meetings, or speak at them.

The calendar of events is as follows: Monday, April 21, 2:00 P. M.

Sectional Meetings April 22, 6:30 P. M. Banquet

Tuesday, April 22, 9:00 A. M. General Meeting

12:15 P. M. Business Meetings and Luncheon

2:00 P. M. Sectional meetings.

Equipment Is Ready For Co-Ed Archery

'Twon't be long before our co-eds will be accomplished Robin Hood's and William Tell's. The archery equipment has arrived and everything is ready for a season with the bow and arrow. The regular practice on Tuesday and Thursday will be continued. The classes are open to every girl and each one is especially urged to come out. Plans are being made for a Field Day that will depart from the regular program of track meets, and include a tennis tournament, archery contests and baseball games.

Urge More To Take Home Ec. Training

In an effort to bring to Central State Teachers' College more girls to enroll in the four year home economics course, letters are being sent to the girls who stand in the upper third of their classes in the high schools of Wisconsin and are graduating this spring.

In the letters, it is stated that 117 of the 312 home economics teachers of Wisconsin in 1929 were graduates of this college. Central has more home economics teachers in the field by 20% than any other Wisconsin college, and at the same time it has supervisors and vocational teachers in this field.

Letters are also being sent to graduates of this college urging them to return for the summer session.

Educational System Discussed At Meet

Yesterday the Legislative Interim Committee on Education held a public hearing in the auditorium. The meeting began at nine o'clock in the morning and continued with intermissions until nearly evening.

The hearing was called for the purpose of discussing the means of improving Wisconsin's educational system, so as to provide a basis for the recommendations which will be made to the Wisconsin Legislature.

Among the projects for consideration were a central state board of education, an elected county board of education, a centrally controlled teachers' certification law, a financial plan to aid the high schools of the state, the proper place of the various institutions in the teacher-training program for the state, and vocational education.

More Grads Sign For Teaching Positions

Several more graduates have signed contracts for teaching positions. Marie Mollen is to be an assistant in the science department of the Milladore high school. Ellen Mills will teach the third grade at Marinette.

Two people who graduated in February have taken new positions. Cecile Stevens will teach the sixth grade and as building principal at Laona. Lauretta Wichser will teach home economics in the Adams-Friendship High School at Adams.

Three other alumni have reported contracts. Mary Hughes, '28, is to teach home economics at Verona. Mildred Crook, '28, who is also a home economics teacher, will be at Eagle River next fall. Kenneth Viste, '27, is to be principal of the high school at Brussels.

CHAFF

The Pointer staff had a visitor last Monday evening. Solomon Welantzik, who was the editor in 1927-28, came to see how his successors were progressing.

A new curb has been built separating the training school playground from the parking space. A fence will also be erected soon.

A representative of the state engineering department was here last week to make a tour of inspection in order to determine the needed additions and renovations to be included in the new budget.
