PLAYERS PRESENT LYCEUM NUMBER

TEA FOR THREE PLEASES CROWD

One of the most enjoyable numbers that have yet appeared on the lyceum course was presented last Monday evening when the Coffer-Miller Players gave "Tea for Three" in the college auditorium. The play was extremely enjoyable to the large audience that watched it.

The play was a comedy, laughable in many spots, but with a touch of serious thought running through it. The humor lies mainly in the speeches of the clever "butterfly" friend, "Phillip," whose naiveness buries his subtlety.

AN ANGLE ON THE STORY

The play is "an angle on the triangle," proving that the triangle can be square. Doris and Phillip have long been friends. Their friendship developed from "puppy love" to a strong attachment that continues even after Doris's marriage to the dignified, "stupid" Carver. Carver, however, sees in their splendid friendship a harmful demon that is stealing Doris's love from him. He therefore decrees that Phillip shall discontinue his habit of coming to Doris's home for tea every Thursday afternoon. Doris and Phillip make plans to renew the old friendliness of the three while they are lurching in a restaurant. Phillip comes to tea that afternoon and arouses Carver's anger and jealousy. From that point complications arise. Doris resorts to lies, while Phillip counteracts her word by telling the truth. This complicates matters for everyone. It is only Phillip's death notice followed by his reappearance that saves the situation.

FEW SETTINGS USED

The Coffer-Miller Players depend upon their own acting rather than fine settings to make the play a success. The settings used are called "Vignette sets". They consist of merely the minimum essentials, as a corner of a room. The indications are set in the middle of the stage, backed and flanked by black curtains. The effect is good, however, and stage settings are forgotten as soon as the play commences.

The players are all people of excellent training. Their work portrays a talent for clever acting on the part of each member of the company. Those who had seen them before hailed their coming with enthusiasm, such as will be henceforth displayed by every member of the audience who saw "Tea for Three."

The cast and setting follows:
Phillip, the friend, that has his angle that the triangle can be square
..... Jess Coffer
Doris, the wife, who has hers that it might be a right angle
..... Martha Miller
Carter, the husband, who does not know much about angles
..... Orville Neuwerth
Draycott, the maid, who is merely a maid
..... Nellie Childs
Austin, the valet, who is quite a valet
..... Charles Booth
A waiter.

Act 1 Scene 1 Luncheon for two today. A restaurant.
Scene 2 Tea for Three, this afternoon. At Doris' house.
Act 2 Dinner is served this evening. At Phillips' house.
Act 3 Tea for three, tomorrow afternoon. At Doris' house.

Initiation For Science Frat

Pledges of the Sigma Zeta fraternity who were elected and have been accepted are:

| Associate | Active |
|--------------------|------------------|
| Cassie Raasoch | Mary Repko |
| Helen Hammes | Edith Rothman |
| Estelle Buhl | Ellamae Newberry |
| Richard Kulasavage | Marit Kelley |
| Alex Krembs | Elizabeth Rogers |
| Floyd Higgins | Flora Pike |
| Helen Jordan | Marie Zimmerli |
| Edward Lemancik | |

The above were in attendance at the fraternity meeting held last night beginning at 7:30. Pledges for active membership were initiated after which they were permitted to enjoy the remainder of the program. The majority of the program was given over to initiation and associate members ought now to have a rather clear idea of what will happen when they become active.

Mr. Brickson, announcer for station WLBB, gave a very interesting talk about the radio.

The committee in charge of initiation consisted of professor Evans, chairman; Fern Pugh, and Fred Hebal.

Squad Returns From Two Non-Decisions

The debate team reports an enjoyable and profitable trip to Milwaukee and Waukesha. They left at 2:20 Thursday for Milwaukee. While there the members of the team stayed at the Miller Hotel. The debates were not held until the following afternoon so the squad had plenty of time to do as it pleased and "enjoy the sights of the city." At 3 o'clock the Stevens Point affirmative met the Marquette negative before the debate class. All debates were non-decision. After a cafeteria dinner with the Marquette team the negative team debated the Marquette affirmative at 8:30 in the Music Hall.

Saturday morning the squad went to Carroll. Both teams debated at 9:30 in different rooms in the Science building.

Besides having an enjoyable time the members made the important discovery that "the biggest liar is the best debator". In addition it is reported that Miss Esther Hawks tried to learn to ride a bumper of a car while gazing at the tall buildings in Milwaukee.

Girls' Chorus Give Program Next Thurs.

The following program will be given by the Girls' Chorus during assembly Thursday January 30th.

1. Selections by Girls' Chorus.
2. Piano Solo — Ruth Rosalach.
3. Reading — Lorraine Rowan.
4. Skit "School Days."
5. Violin Solo — Edith Sansom.
6. Skit "School Spirit."

EAU CLAIRE SUBDUED, LOSE TO SUPERIOR IN HARD TUSTLE

Library Receives Many New Books

The library of Central State Teachers' College compares very favorably with the library of any teachers' college in Wisconsin. Its recent physical improvements are known to all the students. In regard to the number and quality of books there has also been a decided change for the better.

This year the library book fund is $5000 an increase of $2000 over last year's expenditures. The library has received, as a consequence, many new books. As to subject matter, each department of the college may make a limited selection of books in addition to the books chosen for their value as representatives of contemporary American literature. The primary purpose of the college library is not to furnish a fiction supply for all the students. However, many new novels, chosen as representation of the outstanding modern American authors, have been purchased.

Two complete sets of the new "World Book" have been bought, — one for the college and one for the training school library. Another exceedingly valuable set of books which has arrived is "Peoples of All Nations," a seven volume series which should prove very interesting to students. Others of note are "Eminent Asians," by J. W. Hall, known as "Upton Close," "July Fourteenth," by Emil Ludwig, and "The New China," by Park. Something that might be valuable to student teachers is the "American Library Association Portrait Guide," which does for pictures what the "Readers' Guide" does for magazine references.

A few of the new fiction books are "All Quiet on the Western Front," by Remarque, and "The Galaxy" by Ertz, "Dark Journey, a Harpar prize novel by Julian Green.

The new books are now being put on the shelves.

GOOD SHOWING IN FIRST CAGE TILT

Playing under the handicap of two hard games and only three hours' of sleep in thirty-six hours, the Pointers lost to a fresh Superior team 38-18 last Friday.

POINT SUBDUES EAU CLAIRE

Thursday the Pointers played the fast Eau Claire team and beat them 33-26. Hardly had the game finished when our fellows had to hurry to catch a train for Superior. On the train there was little or no sleep for those who had battled so hard to win their first conference game.

It was almost pathetic to watch the valiant Pointers strive to do the impossible to beat the well rested, experienced team which in the last three years has lost but one game on its own court.

HELD NORTHERNERS TO CLOSE SCORE

There is no doubt but what the Pointers would have put up a much better game had they played under different conditions for they held the Northerners to a close score until the strain of overwork and lack of sleep began to tell.

Coach Stockdale is not the least bit worried over the loss of the Superior game, for under those adverse conditions it was inevitable.

Fans who saw the Eau Claire game say that Central State has one of the best teams in years and are confident that the Pointers will come out on top.

Totals 7 4 9 POINTERS TAKE LONG END OF SCORE

Coach Carl Stockdale and his battling warriors walked off the floor last Thursday night leaving Eau Claire in the short end by a score of 33 to 26.

Coach Zorn's blue and gold battlers started the fun. Captain Scott, shot a neat ringer from the center. Captain Marshall soon found out what it was all about and he started in, making a ringer and three free throws before Eau Claire found out the cause for the riot on the sidelines. Eau Claire took time out and went into a huddle to discuss the perplexing situation. Resuming the play, the Pointers continued to score. Neuberger, by this time had found the circle, and tossed in three ringers. Eau Claire substituted but could not stop the boys from increasing their score to 14 at the half. Eau Claire had gotten a few ringers to STAND UP!!

HAIL, Stevens Point, the school supreme,
Oh Central College, Thou art queen,

Have you ever heard these words before? Perhaps some of you remember that this song was sung a few weeks ago in assembly. I wonder how many students in C. S. T. C. realize that the above lines are from the college toast. I also wonder just what the toast means to some of these students. Judging from the attitude of the audience in general, it was regarded as "just another song." Love, honor, respect, admiration, and feeling can not be expressed by merely sitting and singing.

Have you ever watched an alumni from Wisconsin, Yale, Harvard, Michigan or any other college or university when their toast is sung? They're up on their toes, standing the minute the first chord is given with beaming faces, ready to challenge the world if need be to show that they honor, love, and uphold their Alma Mater.

Are the students of C. S. T. C. glued to their chairs? Are their limbs rheumaticky, or is it because they have never been taught otherwise? Perhaps it may be because the toast doesn't really bring out the idea of basketball, football, and other activities in so many words as does the "Purple and the Gold."

However, it stands for more than that. It makes one think of what those who have come and gone before us have done so that we might take advantage of the fine opportunities offered to us. Think of what the song means line by line, word by word, and see if it doesn't give you an inspiration to stand up, for the name and catch the spirit which someone felt when he wrote that last line:

"For thou art great, all other schools above."

P. G.

A WORD TO THE WISE

"OH why get so excited — it's only a game." That in one brief statement is the spirit among so many of our students and one reason why our pep meetings never go over with a bang. That's the spirit and it's an insidious thing. At the Eau Claire game when our boys were fighting for the glory of Alma Mater, putting in every bit of their pep and vitality into making that game the realization of our hopes instead of a disappointment —

Oh, yes, we cheered — but how and when? If our team had been the losing team would there have been as much pep behind the yelling?

There's somewhat of a reflection on our loyalty.

The game with Stout isn't far away and I think each individual should just take it upon himself to show every bit of pep and enthusiasm he can and not let the other "feller" do it. Just stay on your toes and let your voice out. Raise the roof or shake the foundation. — What's the difference — it's worth it.

HUMOR MORE OR LESS

HINTS TO BASKETBALL FANS

How to enjoy all the thrills of a basketball game without leaving your own house:

- 1. Go to the basement and get a hard — packing box — one with many slivers preferred.
2. Sit on it (the packing box).
3. Hire a freshman to hit you over the head with her hat and yell "team team — team."
4. Engage some girls to drop some peanut shells down your back.
5. Bring the hat rack in and let the hats and coats fall on you once in a while.
6. Turn on the radio, taking care to get at least three stations at once.
7. Open wide the windows letting a stiff breeze gush forth.
8. Try to clap time — occasionally yelling "Hurray."

"Now," said Mr. Mott," pass your papers to the end of the row, have a carbon sheet under each one, and I can correct all the mistakes at once."

The only thing that comes to him who waits is — whiskers.

Bill B. — Where's the funny paper? Miller — Today ain't Sunday. I told you not to take that bath last night.

SPINDLER'S LOGIC???

"I hate women an' I'm glad I hate 'em 'cause if I didn't hate 'em, I'd like 'em."

"Am I to understand," asked Frank indignantly, "That you are laughing at my moustache."

"Excuse me," gigled Joe, "but every time you shut your mouth, it looks like a wink."

There was a young fellow named Izzie, Who went for a drive in his lizzie,

His view of a train Was hidden by rain Alas for poor Izzie, where is he?

HE WIRES POP FOR MONEY

Dr. Lindow: "What can you tell me about nitrates?"

Jack J: "Well — er — they're a lot cheaper than day rates."

Mr. Smith: "Define the middle ages."

Sam Block: "They used to be 30 to 45; now they are 50 to 70."

He was a credit to his college. He owed everybody.

Lives of great men all remind us we can travel far. If some cop don't find us Speeding in our motor car.

"What would a nation be without women?"

"A stagnation, I guess."

Kit N. "I want the life of Caesar." Miss Goerbing — "Sorry, but Brutus was ahead of you."

Miss Hussey — "and what do you think Sir Walter Raleigh said when he placed his cloak at queen Elizabeth's feet?"

Harry K — "Step on it, kid — step on it!"

Mr Rightsell: "Describe the mechanism of a steam shovel."

Frosh: "Don't kid me. You can't carry steam on a shovel."

Home is where the saxophone isn't.

"Why do the Scotch like basketball?"

"They enjoy the free throws."

College Girls Make The Best Mothers

"Recently a dean of women has added to my joy in this debate, by defining indirectly her idea of a good mother," says Maude Parker in the January College Humor opening her article on "Collegiate Mothers," with a quotation from the dean's article: "The modern college girl is intelligent, cultured, capable and industrious, but she is not a great success as a home maker, wife and mother... Intelligent young women resent the implication that they are only fit to cook the meals and wash dishes. Then there is a crack about the study of higher mathematics causing them dissatisfaction with 'performing tasks which a high grade moron could do equally well.'"

"Concisely expressed, the dean believes the test of a good mother lies in her happy willingness to wash dishes and cook!"

"And right there is where I take my joyful departure from the professor's theories. For to me the one and only test of a good mother is that she shall prepare her children physically, mentally and psychologically for the fullest and happiest lives possible. On each one of these counts the college girl is more apt to succeed than her untrained contemporary, other things being equal."

"Surely no one can maintain that four additional years of education will warp a woman's fundamental and primitive love for her child. Therefore, all college training can do is to provide her with greater insight into how this material love can be intelligently translated. To assume that its highest expression lies in the personal sterilization of feeding bottles is a shocking belittlement of a life-work. Motherhood is such a vast and unending job that it calls for every bit of intelligence and training a woman can acquire in college and out. The qualities which education should develop—judgment, resourcefulness, regard for authoritative sources of information on any given subject (with its corollary of skepticism about hearsay and superstition), open-mindedness and the capacity for logical thought—are the very qualities most needed in this difficult profession of maternity. For good measure, one might add an enriched cultural background."

"The practical application of these begins with the fact that as a rule college girls marry at a later age than girls who do not go to college. On the theory of chances therefore, they will be less irresponsible and more competent and poised when they do marry. Probably the first duty of a conscientious mother is to select the nearly perfect father, and one likes to think this can be done with fewer chances of failure by the Mature woman."

"The actual physical care of the child again requires professional guidance, and I should like to call attention to the fact that our national infant mortality rate has markedly decreased since women began to accept the wisdom of experienced medical specialists, and discount the hearsay of an untrained older generation."

—College Humor.

They met on the bridge at midnight, but they'll never meet again, for she was an eastbound cow, the other a west-bound train.

HE DID

Sandy took his best girl out for a walk one evening. Passing a display window she exclaimed excitedly, "Oh what a pretty necklace. Let's go buy it."

And he did. Right by it.

Father — "Son, What history did you study last year?"

Wilbur — "Really I couldn't tell you father; you see the cover was off my book."

"Are You a college man?"

"No, my hair is naturally curly."

First Eskimo — "What do you think of the weather?"

Second Eskimo — "Oh, not so hot."

SOCIETY

Y. W. Cabinet Dine At Baldwins' Home

Sunday evening Miss Hussey entertained the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet at a buffet luncheon. The luncheon was served at Dr. Baldwin's home on Division Street. The guests were Sadie Espeseth, Dorothy Oleson, Helen Jordan, Alice Falk, Janet Urquhardt, Esther Hawkes, Helen Larson, Marion Kowitz, Hazel Schroeder, Lela Buttgen, Ellamae Newberry, and Maurine Tavis. The delicious refreshments were greatly enjoyed by the girls and the evening was spent in pleasant discussion.

Members Of Faculty Speak Before Clubs

Many of the faculty members have been invited recently to speak before various assemblages. Mr. Stockdale gave an exhibition of some of his slides and a lecture before the Mosinee teachers. Dr. Baldwin spoke to the Baptist Men's Club last Friday. Mr. Smith spoke before the Stevens Point Kiwanis Club on January 14, and will speak to the Progress Club of this city on January 30. He spoke to the Marshfield Rotary Club on January 20. He will speak before the North Central Association on Curriculum on March 20, at Joliet, Illinois.

Stockdale Displays Interesting Slides

Students in Mr. Stockdale's history classes have recently enjoyed a group of stereopticon views taken from photographs that Mr. Stockdale took while he was abroad.

Mr. Stockdale has traveled extensively and his experiences have been most varied and interesting, as shown by the slides. They include magnificent views of the Mediterranean countries, the Balkans, and western Europe.

His work with the American Red Cross in the Near East has enabled him to illustrate very successfully the difference between living conditions over there and those in the United States.

W. A. A. NOTES

Basketball practice has begun. On Tuesday and Thursday evening from four to six the girls have the use of the gym. And they make good use of it too. The time is spent in technique practice and scrimmages. Boost your department and "go out" for basketball.

Do you want to join the W. A. A.? Now's the time! Those girls who have been in College for at least a semester and have shown an interest in athletics are eligible for membership. Hand your name to Ethel Kelly or some other W. A. A. member if you care to join.

NELSON HALL NOTES

Our victory over Eau Claire Thursday night was an excuse for many spreads that evening. The pie shop was well patronized and girls returned from it loaded with packages. The end of the semester being so perilously near, the reveling was triumphant, but short-lived.

"Glad to see you again, Naomi!" We've all been saying that this past week. Naomi Kruse whose Christmas vacation was greatly lengthened because of illness has returned. She seems to be happy to be with us again too.

"Didja see the suite?" It's really quite a novelty. The "suite" was the brilliant (or otherwise) idea of four girls who were 'always together' anyhow. They converted one of the second floor rooms into a living room and study room, and another into a "boudoir" thus getting the advantages of both dormitory life and light housekeeping. Much to the surprise of most of us, the owners of the suite still enjoy themselves even though they lived together for three weeks.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Amidon and Dr. and Mrs. Roth of Granton delighted Lola Belle with a call.

Ruth Lippke has a slight attack of tonsillitis. Her mother has come from Wausau to be with Ruth for a short while.

Miss Esther Hawkes and Miss Alta Stauffer enjoyed their forensic efforts at Marquette and Carroll during the past week. Both of the girls are on the debate team.

Weather conditions do not change the plans of a few people, it seems. Mr. and Mrs. Clapp are still able to make their weekly trips to Merrill despite the stubbornness of Jack Frost.

Reams and reams of paper have been used by Nelson Hall Co-eds to write term papers for various professors. High pressure scholarship alone made this possible.

Miss Margaret Larson who teaches Latin and English in the Iola High School was a dinner guest at Nelson Hall twice last week.

Several changes in rooms have been made recently. Crystal Joseph is becoming acquainted with her new neighbors on second floor. She is now rooming in Room 206. Delores Chilsen and Peg Neale have been trying out "third floor and they like it too.

Miss Irma Stedman visited her sister Adeline on Sunday.

Miss Victoria Mason spent the weekend in Medford and in Marshfield.

Miss Loretta Farrell is a "snow storm pioneer". When she went home this week-end she broke a two mile trail in a snow banked lane. She walked from the Milladore station to her home even though the thermometer registered twenty degrees below zero.

LOYOLA

Thursday night is Loyola night: A good "Turn out" of Catholic students is expected for the meeting tonight. Arrangements for an entertaining and helpful program have been made. There will be a short talk given by Father Chylinski.

Elaborate plans for a Prom week are being made by the Junior class of Marquette University. The informal prom will be held on Feb. 26 at the Arcadia Ballroom. The date for the formal prom has been set for Feb. 28.

Stout's "Blue Devils" were victorious in their first game of the season. They defeated the Concordia College quintet 29 to 12.

The final selection of members of a debate squad at Milwaukee State Teachers College has been made. The first public appearance will begin in February.

Stout. Stout has instituted a dancing class and reports marked success—even the athletes are out for it. The class is under the direction of Miss Balemd and has not only brought together the backward dancers, but has made it possible for several to get bids to the mid-winter formal.

State Teachers' College, Milwaukee. The fourth annual Secondary Education Day was observed Jan. 16 under the direction of James McGurn, president of the Secondary Division. Representative high school students exhibited the various projects accomplished by them under the guidance of practice teachers of the college.

Marquette. Dr. Maurice L. Henderson, noted gynecologist and obstetrician and a member of the faculty of the School of Medicine, died Tuesday, Jan. 14.

NOTICE!

The Rural Life Club and Forum meetings were scheduled for last Monday night were postponed because most of the students attended our second lecture course number.

In all probability the Rural Life meeting will be held next Monday. Professor Schmeckle will give an illustrated talk on his Eastern trip.

Building Air Castles Dedicated To L. A. J.

We all are always building "Castles of Air"
And are making our futures seem bright.

We are always aiming to be so square. That none could say we're not right. We, all, in some way have our ideals set And have various ways to get there. Yes, some of us happily there seem to get

While the rest watch theirs burst by the score.

We build those castles every day And change them to fit each new pleasure.

We build them for girls we fell for in some way And dream they love us beyond measure.

But then cruel life wakes us up again, By showing us they are not playing fair.

We sit back, I mean us disappointed men, Who saw our bright castles burst in the air.

So I say why dream at all and day dreams, And build those castles of air. Why build your hopes on "it to me now seems?"

When they are not getting you anywhere.

Why dream of love from the one you love,

When you might as well hope for the worst.

And why vision any one pure as the Saints above,

When those air castles are liable to burst.

bring their count up to 11. The gun sounded with the score 14 to 11 at the half.

The second half started with the Pointers running their score up to 31 while the Zorn men only collected 4 points. Schroeder who had been playing a good defensive game was substituted and Eau Claire finding themselves behind started in shooting long shots. They counted up 11 points. Dick who led the Pointer's attack with 18 points was taken down the four foul road. Baker thought he ought to try a shot, ran through and scored the final basket of the game.

Neuberger played a good game, both defensive and offensive, scoring 13 points. Charlesworth and Baker held the Zorn men so they did not get a sucker shot the whole game.

Subscription List Is Being Compiled

The University of California has instituted a study of the periodicals in teachers' college libraries, in which Central State Teachers' College has been co-operating. A questionnaire has been received of the various magazines by the teachers.

The questionnaires contain a list of periodicals. The instructors indicate the value and importance of each in their judgement. The value of such a report lies in the fact that the college list of subscriptions may be compared with the final list.
