WERE YOU THERE?

The townspeople of Stevens Point were well represented at the band concert given on Nov. 27. Local and outside high school students were likewise present. But the students of the college - where were they? Doesn't it seem, in view of the fact that the band is always willing to cooperate with our other organizations in their va-rious projects, that when the band sponsors something itself, it should be rewarded with the support that it has earned? It's a 50-50 WT proposition. How about it? Were you there?

HAVE WE OR HAVE WE NOT?

We've been ridiculed for planning a Literary Edition. We've been told that "the thing"ll be a big flop." "Why?" I asked.

"Such a project requires creative effort — a thing fewer than one percent of the students possess. You wait 'n see," says Student X. "You'll find out that the students won't respond because writing is work, and show me a student who is willing to work these days. This is a challenge to the students of Central State. The students can answer this challenge by proving that they possess initiative and imagination - prove by contributing.

BE VARIED IN INTERESTS — BE CULTURED

Let's turn our attention from the heroes of the gridiron to those who fight by wit and tongue.

Debate is one of the winter's major activities - any activity in which nearly a score of students have participated can justly be call-/ ed a major activity - and Coach Leland M. Burroughs is trying to mould another championship team out of more than thirty recruits. Let's watch the progress these sons of the Demosthenes are making!

Dean Steiner called the other even-Dean Steiner called the other even-ing at the rooming place of one of C.S.T.C.'s verdant Froshes. He brusquely entered the young lad's room unannounced and in thundering tones addressed the frightened Frosh, ''Do you know who I am.'' ''No,'' meekly replied the innocent one but if you re-member your home address I'll try to take you there.''

Gordon says his girl has postoffice eyes. One look and the male is late. (Ripon College Days)

Housewife ___ What made you so late with the milk this morning?

Scribner — Well, you see, our new code forbids us to have more than 2,500,000 bacteria to the quart, and you wouldn't believe how long it takes to count them.

Blob — If you were going to take up music, what instrument would you pre-fer to play. Gob — Well I've always thought I'd like to be soloist on a cash register in a busy place.

"I don't like these photographs you took of me. They make me look like a monkey," said Dick Schwahn. The photographer favored him with a look of lofty disdain and remarked: "I can't help that. You should have thought of that before."

Literary Edition To Be Sponsored By Sigma Taus

Brawn has had a break (note last Pointer devoted to our heroes, the men who shave economically, i. e. rub their whiskers off in the dirt) and now brain gets the same. Our issue of January 24 will be devoted to the poets, the essayists, the short story writers, the dramatists, and the people who write blank verse. It will be the Literary Edition, sponsored by Sigma Tau. Delta, national English fraternity, under the direction of Mr. Leland Burroughs, and with Bonita Newby as editor.

We foresee a great flurry in preparation for this event. Our own method of doing creative work is as follows: 1. Choose a spring night with a moon. (Of course, we know there won't be any spring nights between now and Christmas vacation when contributions are due, but there'll be moons, and imagination does a lot.) 2. Go for a walk, preferably with a member of the other sex. 3. Talk about everything: love, and poetry, and life, and religion, and what she thinks about marriage. 4. Walk and talk until you are seething with ideas: old ideas of yours (or somebody else's), old ideas of hers, and ideas new to both of you that just come "out of the nowhere into the here" It's always well to finish about 3 A. M. by fervently pressing her hand and saying, "It's been a hand and saying, "It's been a marvelous evening. You've affected me just as poetry does - inspired me. I'll be seeing a lot of you." Then go home, seize pen and paper, and let the inevitable happen. You'll be able to write an essay on women, a poem on love, a short story about marriage, and a play about life. You won't be able to help writing. You'll want to exceed the 1,000 word limit set by the sponsors. And we think this Literary Edition will be a success, because there's madness in our method!

Symphonic Band Delights Listeners

The band concert given by the College Symphony Band. under the direction of Prof. P. J. Michelsen, which was held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 27, was well received by a large audience. The townspeople, especially, turned out for the affair.

During the evening, the band was host to the band members of many surrounding high schools. All who heard the program were highly pleased with the performance and remarked on the fitness of the numbers. They also admired the wonderful contrasts that were developed by the careful selection of the numbers which succeeded each other.

The theme of the decorations has not been divulged, but we are assured it is novel and different. Men's and women's teams from La Crosse, Eau Claire, Stout, and Stevens Point will compete. Professor L. M. Bur-roughs, debate coach, and Miss Susan E. Colman will accompany the debaters.

Harlequin Casts Practicing Diligently

If you have noticed any eccentricities in certain students around school, remember that the Harlequin Club is getting ready for its fall plays, which are slated for production on December 18. Actors are temperamental; their real characters and the ones assumed for presentation may at times become mixed. Their actions merely indicate that their roles have been assimilated and that a natural interpretation is in the offing. Start saving your pennies now so that you may come and see in full the assumed side of these dual personalities.

C. S. T. C. CAGERS REPORT

STUDENTS TO SEE 1934 BASKETEERS IN ACTION DEC. 8

New Material Plentiful As Large Squad Reports

C. S. T. C. VS. ALUMNI

Students will have an opportunity to obtain a "prevue" of the 1934-'35 basket ball team in action on Saturday night, December 8, when they will take on the alumni team, composed of Gregory, Thompson, Neuberger, Al-berts, Chvala and others in the new gym. A small admission will be charged.

Led by Captain "Jug" Marsh. three year veteran guard on former Purple and Gold quintets, the 1934-35 Stevens Point teachers basket ball squad will enter southern half conference warfare on January 12, with Coach Penwell's Milwaukee five as the visiting crew.

Much has already been written concerning the potentialities of Kotal's coming aggregation. Will they achieve the heights set by the Krunm's injured knee prove a source of trouble? Will the addition of Earl Eckerson, member of the '32-'33 team, back in school after/a year's lay-off, materially improve the outlook? How do the new men stack up? Are the re-turning players from past seasons greatly improved over their form of last year? How about the strength of the other conference teams? These and many other questions are being debated by close followers of the cage game at Central State.

Newcomers Classy?

The records of some of the men, newcomers on the squad, speak for themselves, in regard to the calibre of ball played in their respective high schools - college competition is something else again. A college team which depends upon the work of individual stars has never been known to operate at a consistent winning gait. If these men can be moulded into a winner by Kotal and assistant Coach Gregory it will be only because the men determine at the outset to play the type of team play that their coaches demand of them.

Unferth, Krumm Back

Don Unferth, a veteran of the '33-'34 team, will be back at a forward post, in all probability. The other forward post will be held down by Guy Krumm, unless the injured knee gives out.

At the center position Earl Eckerson and John Collins, the former of the '32-'33 team, the latter a sophomore and a member of last year's team, will battle it out

Hosts On Tuesday At Whiting

The State Teachers College football team and the Stevens Point High school team with their respective coaches will be feted at a championship dinner on next Tuesday evening at the Hotel Whiting.

The dinner will be given by the combined service organizations of this city — the Kiwanis, Lions, and Rotary clubs. "Roundy" Coughlin, sports columnist of the Wisconsin State Journal, Madison, will be the guest speaker.

It is not often that one city has the opportunity of playing host to two championship teams in one line of sport, all of which tends to make the occasion a rather outstanding one.

COACHES' ALL-STAR TEAM

The Southern Half Coaches, assembled at the Hotel Lorraine in Madison, just prior to the Minnesota-Wisconsin game of Novem-ber 24, chose the following All Star team:

Ends: Stoegbauer-Oshkosh Lautenschlager-Oshkosh Tackles: TED MENZEL-STEVENS POINT Flaherty-Milwaukee Guards: SPARHAWK-STEVENS POINT Braun-Milwaukee Center: BOB BROOME-STEVENS POINT Halves: Rose-Platteville MURRAY-STEVENS POINT Messman-Whitewater Full: Karpowitz-Milwaukee Quarter : BECKER-STEVENS POINT along with Milton Anderson, who played a goodly number of games last year

Too Many Championships?

Players and others have commented upon the calmness with which a good many seem to take our winning of the second consecutive championship... this, in spite of the fact that the road of the champion grows tougher as time goes by ... last year, when Point won... other schools might have hailed a new champion in place of the old (although there is room for a reasonable doubt here) ... with the advent of the present season... all teams set to knock off the champions (which is only natural)... con-sequently the overcoming of these odds looms as a real achievement - in all fairness - the greatest one of all. The indifferent attitude of many acts as a cold blanket on the championship realization - are we jaded with glory that two or three championships suffice to fill the vacuity which has existed in some of our athletic history ?... or shall we keep on building our athletic structure?... your attitude is a mighty big factor in this connection ... show the boys that their efforts are appreciated ... in many schools, an all-school banquet is held... faculty, students, squad, and boosters... all dine together in gym ... so much per plate for all except players... fosters a spirit of camaraderie between all concerned ... meals prepared and served by Home Ec. girls... speeches, yells, songs,... concluded by all school dance... all for one price ... school orchestra donates services... an invaluable aid to community and school spirit.

bauer, of Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids, respectively, are candidates for a guard post, as is Capt. Marsh. Rinka is a converted forward. Both of these men battled for Wisconsin Valley High School Conference scoring honors last year under Coaches Ringdahl and Klandrud.

BOXING AND WREST-

New Men Are Invited To Join Mat Squad

The college wrestlers and boxers are busy these days down in their special quarters at the foot of the basement stairs leading in from the north east entrance. As in past years, Russell Beppler is again guiding the efforts of this group.

Meets have been scheduled with Platteville and Milwaukee, on a home and home basis, while bouts with Oshkosh and Saint Norberts are being negotiated.

To Receive Awards

Interest in this type of sport is bound to mount in this college with the recent announcement by Coach Kotal, by which all participants in Stevens Point Teachers wrestling and boxing squads will receive a special college sweater and letter in recognition of their efforts for the school, if plans now under way by the sponsoring athletic committee work out.

All are invited to try out. Freshmen and Sophomores who are interested in this type of sport should get into it now, where they will be matched against men of their own weight and experience. Report any afternoon at four o'clock in the mat quarters.

Special head gear and other protective devices designed to protect that vulnerable profile are to be had for the asking, we understand, so worry on this ac-count would be groundless, on the part of some who might weigh this objection; in addition, large sixteen ounce gloves are used.

Tournament Coming Up

An all-school boxing card, the date for which had not been definitely set, at this writing, (December 3) will be held within the next fortnight; all are invited; a small admission price will be charged to defray incidental expenses. The program will consist of a number of three round bouts, embracing all weight divisions, with a probable three round waltz by managers Urban and Dumphy in the offing.

Beppler Heads Group

Russ Beppler's list reveals that the following men have so far shown an interest in the so-called 'manly art of self-defense'': Art Laabs, Stanley Roshak, Jim Mc-Guire, Bruno Slotwinski, Web Berard, Dean Gordon, Al. Zurfluh, Tom Benson, Charles Tor-benson, and Ed. Yach. Officials of the college mat game are anxious that all be given an opportunity in this line of sport, and all interested are urged to make their interest known.

Last Year's Yearbook Honored With First Class Rating

The 1934 Iris received a rating of first class from the year-book rating service of the University of Minnesota, according to an announcement rereceived cently by the Iris staff. The year-book fell below the "All-American" rating by just a few points, due to technical errors on the part of the producers.

Celestine Neusse

annual to be one of the best ever published by C. S. T. C.

Much of the success of the Iris of last year was due to the two executives, Celestine Nuesse, editor, and Ed Leuthold, business manager. Nuesse and Leuthold made the Iris a major activity of the school, and incorporated many modern ideas of school annual journalism in the book. Nuesse, through his fine writing and active imagination, made the Iris outstanding from the editorial point of view; Leuthold received excellent rating on his work in conducting the business affairs. Both men secured excellent teaching positions this year.

The Iris is a publication of which every student should be proud. Many features make the C. S. T. C. yearbook outstanding Many features make the among teachers college annuals. The organization of the staff provides for only slight control by the administration, which makes it identical with large university staff organizations. Many colleges have copied our plan of financing the annual through associated student fees.

An excellent advertising me-dium is offered by the annual, which is of high standard and has over a thousand circulation. This we believe to be the largest small college annual circulation in the state.

The Iris is also distinctive because it is one of the few small college annuals printed by large university publishers.

T. A. Rogers, faculty advisor, is largely responsible for the success of the Iris.
