

Iris Heads Appointed For 1937-38

College Theater Play This A. M.

The College Theater has extended invitations of membership to ten students who were chosen for their merit in recent productions. They are Alice Bentz, Ted Meyer, Stanley Zielanis, Carl Bachmann, Ethel Bucholz, Darleen Lomas, Ethel MacDonald, Ruth Nason, Leda Bassler, and Helen Jackson.

The Theater is opening a special course entitled "Discussions in Theater Art". The class will be conducted every Monday and Thursday at 5 o'clock. It will meet in Mr. Jenkins' room and will continue for six weeks. During this time the following topics will be covered: General Theory, Biographical Notes, Practice and Techniques of Actual Productions, Special Styles of Treatments, History of Dramatic Art, The Specific Theory of Acting and Subordinate Arts. Anyone wishing to join this class may see Phil Runkel or attend the opening of the class this evening.

The College Theater will present its first workshop performance today in the assembly at 10 o'clock. Entertainment of this kind must be noted, as it is the first student assembly of the year.

The play is "Sintram of Skagerrak" by Sada Cowan. It is being directed by Don Colby. Another play of this sort will be presented in assembly soon.

Victor Grabel Chosen As Festival Judge

Victor Grabel, director of the Chicago Symphony Band and member of the American Bandmasters Association, will participate as critic judge at the Band Festival to be held at Central State on Friday, April 23. Mr. Grabel was a good friend of the late John Philip Sousa. When the latter died, Grabel became the possessor of Sousa's original library.

Letters of acceptance are being received daily by Manager George E. Cartmill from bandmasters throughout the state. All indications favor a successful festival. This will be the fourth annual festival to be held here.

Although a festival is similar to a band tournament there will be no division or placement of bands. Criticisms will be given to directors following their numbers. Bandmasters who wish to enter the festival and have not signified their intentions are urged to write immediately.

LaVerne Schwingel, Popular Sophomore, To Be Editor-In-Chief

LaVerne Schwingel, of Richland Center, Wisconsin, has been selected to act as editor-in-chief of next year's yearbook, the Iris. The appointment was made by Professor T. A. Rogers, advisor for the book, this week.

"Swing" is a sophomore in college and a member of Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity. He has taken a very prominent part in school activities, especially in music. Besides being a member of the college concert band and the college orchestra, he was last year leader for some time of the radio broadcasting band. He has also worked extensively in the photography club, being at present one of the regular Iris photographers. His scholastic record is of the best.

During the rest of the year Schwingel will work with Clifford Malchow, present editor of the yearbook, to gain the necessary experience.

Best wishes for a successful year, "Swing"!

Ben Laschkewitsch Chosen To Fill Post Of Business Manager

Ben Laschkewitsch, of Goodrich, North Dakota, will act as business manager of the 1937-38 Iris. He will fill the position which is now held jointly by Ruth Nason and Robert Kreilkamp, who were appointed, at the beginning of the semester to take the place of James Maguire, who did not return to school this semester.

Ben is also a sophomore of high scholastic ranking and is a member of Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity. His extra-curricular work has been mainly in dramatics and forensics. He is business manager at present for the College Theater and was on the varsity debate squad.

Because of his previous work in advertising lines, Laschkewitsch is perhaps better fitted for his position than any other man in the college.

Congratulations to you on your appointment, Ben!

Spring Band Concert Set For April 21st

Central State's concert band, under the direction of Prof. Peter J. Michelsen, will present a concert on Wednesday, April 21, at 8:15 o'clock in the college auditorium. The Girls Glee Club, also under Mr. Michelsen, will be guest artists on the program.

The varied program will appeal to and interest all. Included are 1, "Einzugsmarsch der Bojar ven" by Halverson, "Peer Gynt Suite" by Grieg with (a) Solvejg's Song, (b) Ase's Death and (c) Anitra's Dance; 2, "Two Little Japs" by Charrosin; 3, "Pathetic Symphony" by Tschaiakowsky, (a) Adagio from the Sixth Movement, (b) March from the Third Movement; 4, "Lohengrin", Introduction to Act III, by Wagner; 5, "A Japanese Sunset" by Deppen, "Allah's Holiday" by Frierly, "The Rosary" by Nevin, "Carry Me Back To Old Virginny" by

Champagne, France, Junior Prom Scene

"L'ame de Champagne" will be delightfully portrayed in the 1937 Junior Prom where the dancers will find themselves taken into a vineyard of the ancient province of Champagne, France. Trellises, vine-covered arbors, and huge bunches of balloon grapes, set in unusual lighting effects, will furnish the setting for a prom which promises to be one of the most beautiful ever seen in Stevens Point.

A decorating committee of ten, headed by Bill Larson, has begun work on the sets for this elaborate theme. The date of the prom is only two weeks off, and work is already well under way. Invitations have been sent out, and all the other committees are progressing very well.

Since the prom is on a Saturday night, the orchestra, Harold Manning, has been engaged to play for dancing from 8 until 12 and the grand march will take place at 10 o'clock. This earlier schedule is a popular feature of the 1937 prom, as it does away with the last hour "letdown" which has been the greatest weakness of previous formals, besides allowing more time after the prom for guests from neighboring communities to drive home.

There is still no information available as to who will be the queen chosen by Red Chartier, prom king.

Budget Bill Arouses Interest

News of the proposed appropriations of the Joint Finance Committee of the Wisconsin legislature which was received last week at this college, aroused quite a bit of interest among many of the students. The part of the bill which interests them most, of course, is the appropriations for the teachers colleges.

When the board of normal school regents and the presidents of the colleges met early this year, they decided on the sums which they thought necessary to request. In the case of every item, the requested amount has been lowered. This is better than it seems, however, because each of the amounts tentatively granted is larger than the amount which was used for the same item during the present period. The important point is that the colleges are not being allowed to return to normal as rapidly as, let us say, business institutions.

The items with which we are particularly concerned are those of capital, operation and teachers' salaries. The last is self-explanatory, but the first two perhaps need some definition. Capital is money spent for things which are bought and kept as more or less permanent property, such as library books, text books, furniture, building repair, etc. Operation includes those things which are bought and used up, such as physics, chemistry, biology, art, and shop supplies, soap, cleaning supplies etc.

The holding down of the amounts granted for capital and operation are causing the teachers colleges to restrict their efforts within the fields mentioned. Throughout the depression, they held their expenses to a minimum, buying only what was only absolutely necessary, and holding themselves only to those things without which they could not keep up their former standard of work. No new fields of work were entered and no real attempts at expansion or improvements of present fields were attempted. This was justified by their desire to do their part in helping the state to meet its expenses. But with the return of normal conditions, they expected to continue their progress. The proposed appropriations would hold them practically at their present standard, allowing very little chance for advancement.

The most important cut which was made is in the teachers' salaries item. The reduction in this amount will not allow (1) the restoration of the old teachers' salaries, (2) the hiring of new teachers, and (3) the raising of the salaries of those teachers who were hired only recently and whose wages are still low. Let us take up these points in the order mentioned.

Anyone in the teaching profession knows what severe cuts teachers' salaries took during the recent slump in business conditions. But despite this decrease in their salaries, they have found it necessary to work harder and longer than ever before. Consider, for example, the work that Central State and other colleges are doing in the field of night school work. Through this service, hundreds of teachers in the field are being enabled to continue their education. Yet the present faculties receive no extra wage for this work! Present conditions certainly should warrant raising these to their former level.

The necessity for the second point is easily seen right in our own college. One of the most serious criticisms that was received from the North Central Association last year was that the teacher load is too heavy. The hiring of new teachers would relieve this situation and divide the work more evenly.

The third point is more important than it seems, for while it would seem only to affect the teachers involved, in reality it affects the teaching standard of the whole state. It is no secret that people with doctors' degrees have been hired during the last few years for salaries which are in some cases decidedly below what the degree graduates of this college command even without experience. And these doctors are experienced. If the salaries of these people are not raised, how can graduates of this school or any other teachers college expect to go out and command proper wages? Is the whole wage standard for teachers to be lowered because the salaries of these people cannot be changed?

Perhaps a majority of the members of the legislature does not realize how vital a service the teachers colleges are performing for the young people of Wisconsin. Without them, almost one third of those persons who are now in attendance at these institutions would not be getting any higher education at all. Let us take this school as an example. Through their application for N.Y.A. work, more than 200 students signified last fall that they could not come to school unless

French Students Enjoy Production

Thirty five students, accompanied by Miss Davis, traveled to Madison last Saturday where they attended the play "Dr. Knock", a modern satire. Twenty five of the group went down in the college bus and the others met the group at Bascom Hall Theater where the play was presented. The cast of the play was made up of professors and advanced students of the French and Italian departments of the University. Although the play was quite dependent upon its satirical dialogue the group enjoyed it equally as much as any they have attended in the past few years. A large group from Oshkosh Teachers College also attended the play. Miss Davis has been taking a group down ever since the plays have been presented. The plays which were seen in former years are "Blanchette" by Brieux, "Bourgeois Gentilhomme" by Moliere, and Beaumarchais' "Barbier de Seville".

given some extra financial help. One hundred and thirty students have jobs at present, but no statistics could determine exactly how many students are attending Central State without extra help and who are just "making the grade".

Besides the work the teachers colleges are doing in the teaching profession is the service they are rendering to the students who take their preparatory work here before going on to some university. Thus another large bloc of students is affected.

The only thing that we as students can do to change this situation of reduced appropriations is to write home, acquaint our tax-paying parents with the facts and have them inform their assemblymen of their attitude on the question. That old saying "In union there is strength" is not far wrong. If a united effort is made by the students in all the teachers colleges in Wisconsin, there is no reason why the legislature cannot be brought to a realization of how important the question really is.

HEALTH SERVICE DRAWS VISITORS

Central State can well be proud of its efficient and economic health service. Several favorable comments have been received regarding the excellent service rendered by the well-organized system. The South Cottage has been set aside by President Hyer for the college infirmary and has already seen service. Jesse Caskey, a member of Chi Delta Rho fraternity, was recently dismissed from the infirmary after a siege of scarlet fever and is expected to return to school next Monday.

The health service of Winona State Teachers College was here before Easter to inspect the health set-up and was favorably impressed by what they saw. Milwaukee State Teachers College plans to adopt our system almost entirely. Doctor F. A. Marrs and School Nurse Mary Neuberger are certainly entitled to a maximum of well-deserved praise in making this service as prompt, efficient and all-embracing as it is.

Signed, H. D.

Men's Glee Club To Attend Oshkosh Meet On May 3rd

The entire personnel of the Mens Glee Club of this college will participate in the music festival of the Wisconsin Clubs of the American Association of Glee Clubs to be held in Oshkosh on Monday, May 3rd. This date marks the beginning of National Music Week.

All the clubs, about 300 voices, will combine in singing "The Road to Romany" by Brahms, "Dance My Comrades" by Bennett and "Stout-Hearted Men" by Romberg. Following this each club will present two numbers of its own choice. Director N. E. Knutzen has indicated that Central State's Club will sing "The Song of The Jolly Roger" by Candish and "Cossack Love Song" by Kountz. Glee clubs from Milwaukee, Racine, Wausau, Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh, Stevens Point, Sturgeon Bay, and Shawano will attend the festival.

Concerts Scheduled

This year's festival is the second annual one to be held in Wisconsin. The festival will be held at Wausau next year and probably at Stevens Point the following year.

Twenty-six members presented a program of sacred and secular music at St. Joseph's Academy yesterday. Thomas Faucett soloed and the quartet presented several numbers.

Concerts to be given in the near future include one at White Lake on Friday, April 16, and one at Birnamwood in the second week of May. The concert at White Lake will be sponsored by the P. T. A. An evening concert will be presented in the High School following a supper given for the chorus members.

Band Concert

Bland, "Sunrise and You" by Penn. The Girls Glee Club will sing these last five numbers.

The band then will play, 6 Overture "Springtime" by Leiden. Evelyn Schwingel will play "Linnet Parade" by Brewer, on the marimba. In the eighth group the band will play "In Malaga" "Spanish Suite", by Curzon. (a) Spanish Ladies Tango, (b) Serenade to Eulalie, (c) Cachucha. The program will close with the band playing the "March Fantastique" by Fucik.

Bank members are selling tickets at the present time. Prices are fifteen cents for students and twenty-five cents for the public. Students are urged to attend the concert. Members of the band are staunch supporters of all school activities and should have student patronage. Many out of town people have signified their intention of attending the concert.

Y. W. C. A. Meets Tonight

The Y. W. C. A. will hold a regular meeting this evening at seven-thirty in the recreation room at Nelson Hall.

"France and Fashions" promises to be a most interesting topic for an informal discussion. The program has been planned by Chairman Evelyn Warekois.

Young Progressives Meet

There will be a meeting of the Young Progressives at the city council chambers tonight at seven-thirty. It is open to the general student body as there is to be a discussion of the budget bill which is to come up for vote this week in Madison.

All students should be interested as it affects all of us and the school in particular. A program will be decided upon for the bill and a plan of campaign is to be drawn up. Discussion on the budget program will also be taken up. All members are urged to attend.

Pan-Hellenic Dance Saturday

Formality will mark the initiations and banquets at which the sororities and fraternities will accept new members this weekend. The pledges will return to natural living with great relief after a week of no dates and many additional tasks—to say nothing of "rough initiation nights".

The twice-annual Pan-Hellenic ball will be held Saturday evening, April tenth. It is a private party for Greeks and their dates. Benny Graham will furnish the music. Charles Torbenson, president of the Greek council, is in charge of arrangements.

Burroughs At Rural Life

Mr. Leland M. Burroughs entertained at the Rural Life meeting last Monday night in his usual inimitable style. He read "Boots", "Foreign Views of the Statue", and "Your Flag and My Flag."

The Misses Neva Jane Burroughs and Eileen Rose of the local high school presented their declamations, entitled "Boys Will Be Boys" and "The Valiant", respectively.

Ben Kordus gave a short talk urging members to write to their assemblymen concerning the state budget appropriation for Central State Teachers College. This, by the way, is a good idea for all students.

Elva Jones reported on the Rural Life Conference at Eau Claire. The musical numbers on the program consisted of a vocal solo by George Osterhaus and some additional club singing.

Students Weekend At Madison

Omegas Betty Jacobs, Gene Connor, and Ruth Nason drove to Madison on Thursday and spent the entire weekend in the Capitol City. They attended the high school basketball tournament, the French play and several parties given by Greek organizations. They brought back greetings from many alumni of C. S. T. C. who are attending the University.

Betty stayed with Ruth Rice, while Gene stayed with her sister Rebecca, who is married and living in Madison. Both girls were students here last year. Ruth was a week-end guest at the Phi Beta Phi sorority house.

Chi Delta George Hyer and Jim Murat also spent the week-end in Madison, returning with the girls on Sunday.

Forensics, Dramatics Given Extra Credit

Some time ago the forensic and dramatic departments in school succeeded in obtaining extra-curricular credit for satisfactory work done in those fields. These credits are accepted toward the 128 necessary for graduation. However, as has been mentioned before, no more than four extra-curricular credits of any kind may be accepted.

Those persons who take part in dramatics receive a certain number of points for their work, depending on the importance of their participation activities and their skill in handling the work. In debate, only those who represent the college in the Mid-west Debate Tournament are given full credit.

Professors Warren G. Jenkins and Leland M. Burroughs have recommended that the following people be given 100 points, which is equivalent to one college credit, in dramatics and in forensics. Those receiving credit in dramatics are Myron Ropella, Ben Laschkewitsch, Phil Runkel, J. Donald Colby, John Verril, Robert Bretzke, Kathryn Becker, Shirley Webster, Harold Reichert, Janette Van Natta, Kathryn Duskey, John Yurkovich, Joan Schell, Phyllis Gikling and Eleanor Ruchti. Those receiving credit for forensics are George Hyer, Jim Murat, Kathryn Becker, Doris George, Shirley Webster, Phyllis Gikling, Ben Laschkewitsch, and Robert Hoffman.

Sticker ---

The answer to last week's sticker is this: The dealer positively made $20 when he sold the car for $100 and immediately bought it back for $80, since he had the same car and $20. When he again sold the car at $90, we may not again take into consideration his having bought it back for $80 since that fact is already discounted in properly crediting him with a profit of $20. The answer, then, is $20.

Here is this week's puzzler: Mr. A. had 3 loaves of bread and Mr. B. had 2 loaves of bread—a total of 5 loaves. Mrs. C. was hungry and A. and B. decided to divide up their bread with Mrs. C. and eat. Each got one third of the 5 loaves. In return for the food Mrs. C. gave them $1 to divide between them. How much should each get?

Think twice, as A. didn't get 60 cents and B. 40 cents.

Answers must be in by Monday at five o'clock.

Nelson Hall Notes

By NELLIE of NELSON HALL

Folks from Nelson Hall have been doing a bit of traveling of late. There is of course the usual week-end exodus to homes. Miss Richardson spent Easter holiday in Chicago, Miss Neuberger visited in Appleton, and Mrs. Finch spent some time with her daughter in Chicago. The past week-end Mary Lou Tenley, Ruth Smith, and Grace Morgan went to Madison to see the French play. Evangeline Johnson also spent the week-end in Madison.

Miss Virginia Gajewski had an appendectomy during Easter vacation. She is at her home at present.

Mr. Web Berard, of Superior, called at the dorm several times the past week-end.

Miss Jane Hazeltine was guest of honor at a dinner Monday evening. Guests were residents of the first floor west corridor. The occasion was the celebration of Miss Hazeltine's birthday.

Overheard at the Tau Gamma dance Saturday evening:

He: "I didn't think you would dance with me."

She: "I may as well dance with you as have you bump into me on the floor."

"Is Frank, the Janitor, chaperon, tonight?"

"Isn't Red Chartier a keen dancer? Wonder who he is having as Prom Queen. Is the secrecy just a publicity stunt?"

"There's Lyman Scribner. Did you know he was at Michigan U. this year?"

"Abrahamson isn't wearing his pledge ribbon. Margaret Miller sentences him to wear two safety pins."

"Aren't Web and Sarah a cute couple?"

"Did you ever see a pledge who could sing?"

Sports Gossip

Why not a baseball team at Central State? Here is an opinion from one of the many interested players at the college. (Name omitted due to request). "Looking over the athletes at C. S. T. C., we find an abundance of baseball talent. Most of these men have played with local nines and in some of the strong leagues surrounding Stevens Point. Since track is a forgotten sport at the local college why not replace it with the favorite American pastime—baseball? The financial output for a baseball nine would be of a minor importance, probably that expended for transportation being the greatest. An attempt at least would not do any harm."

All-Conference Cage Selections

The coaches of the Southern division selected three Central State Teachers College basketball players as their choice for all-conference honors. The center position was shared by Nimz, star pivot man at C. S. T. C. and Rhemstedt of Platteville. The guard positions were given to the two Central State regulars, Johnston and Lindow while the forward posts were filled by Lautenschlager of Oshkosh, Austin of Whitewater, and Parish of Platteville. No second team selections were made by the southern division coaches.

The School Broadcasting Institute of the Wisconsin Educational Association which was held last Saturday was a most successful meeting. Miss Gertie L. Hanson, a member of the executive committee, reported that a crowd of approximately 300 people from central Wisconsin were present.

H. B. McCarty, director of the Wisconsin school of the air, presided in the absence of H. E. Ahrensbrak, Chairman of the W. E. A. School Broadcast Committee.

There were representatives from several cities at the meeting. A group from the Department of Education was also present, including C. D. Jayne of the college faculty, who is obtaining his doctor's degree.

Mr. Baird, a fellowship student from London, England, also attended with Mr. McCarty.

Schmeeckle Elected Head Of W.T.C.A.C.

Professor F. J. Schmeeckle was elected President of the Wisconsin Teachers College Athletic Conference at a meeting held in Madison on Friday, April 2. Schmeeckle, a member of Central State's Athletic Association, was the representative from Stevens Point at the conference meeting. This association deals with all of the official business of the Teachers Conference such as changes in rules, the acceptance of conference schedules, and all other legal matters.

1937-'38 Cage Schedule O.K.'d

It was announced at the annual meeting of Wisconsin Teachers College coaches last week in Milwaukee that Central State's championship basketball team will start the drive for its fourth straight conference title January 7, 1938, with Oshkosh Teachers College furnishing the opposition.

The complete Schedule:
Jan. 7—Oshkosh at Stevens Point
Jan. 14—Platteville at Platteville
Jan. 21—Whitewater at Stevens Point
Feb. 4—Whitewater at Whitewater
Feb. 11—Platteville at Stevens Point

Tips On Tomes - - -

The following books should interest almost everyone because they cover such a variety of subjects. They have just been placed in circulation.

Getting Along With People, by Milton Wright.

This book is "a well-organized consideration of traits of human nature, how we differ, why we are liked, how to build a reputation, how to say no and such like matters." Mr. Wright does not preach, but gives sensible suggestions for attracting favorable attention and for making friendships. His anecdotes are new and entertaining. It is a book to reread.

The Patient's Dilemma, by Samuel A. Tannenbaum, M. D. and Paul Maerker Branden.

The sub title of this book is A Public Trial for the Medical Profession. This title really explains the book. It is a book for the layman which throws a strong and pitiless searchlight on medicine as it is all too often practiced by the medical profiteer. The Patient's Dilemma is written not to shock, but to expose the present situation in medicine. The problem affects everybody, everywhere. Rackets resorted to by mercenary medicos have an amazingly wide range. Read this and learn how to avoid the medical profiteer.

Autobiography of John Keats, compiled by Earle Vonard Weller.

Here is a complete record of the growth of the poet's mind in Keats own words. An entirely different Keats from the legendary figure which the average student knows is shown in this book. Mr. Weller has eliminated the unimportant details from Keats' letters and has arranged the whole in an interesting and continuous narrative. It is well worth your time to read this autobiography.

The Living Garden, by E. J. Salisbury.

As it is almost time to think about gardening, read this book and learn the hows and whys of plant life. Dr. Salisbury is a man of science, who combines with deep learning a real love of the green world and an extensive knowledge of horticulture. Plant lovers—whether gardeners or not—and all who are interested in the growth of living things will find information and enjoyment here.

The Vegetable Gardener's How Book, by Chesla C. Sherlock.

Utility gardening is commanding more attention than ever before in the history of the country. This book covers every phase of the fields of home vegetable and fruit growing, including chapters on tool selection and care, how to build arbors, how to prune, spray, and harvest. If you plan to make such a garden, look in Mr. Sherlock's book for information.

Sigma Zeta Conclave Program Arranged

Plans for the Sigma Zeta Open House and for the conclave which is being held here this year have been virtually completed and from a glance at the programs which have been drawn up, both meetings should prove highly interesting.

The Conclave will start in the morning of April 16 with registration at 9:00. Following this, the group will take a trip through the Whiting Plover Paper Mill. On that same afternoon the programs of the open house and conclave will be combined and will begin with the exhibits in the various laboratories of science departments. The college band will give a short concert at 3:30 and at 4:00 Mr. Berglund of Minneapolis will give a talk and demonstration concerning liquid air and dry ice. The conclave banquet will be at 6:00 at the Hotel Whiting. Between 65 and 70 Sigma Zetans are expected to attend this affair. At 8:00 in the evening Prof. Benjamin Morris of the U. of Wisconsin will present a lecture on electrical phenomena in the college auditorium. This talk, as well as the entire program in the afternoon, is open to students and townspeople as well.

On Saturday morning at 8:00 the delegates to the conclave will have breakfast at the Gingham Tea Room. Following this reports and talks will be presented by the representatives of the various chapters of Sigma Zeta. A business meeting will thus bring to a close two days devoted to science.

Representatives from Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, and Wisconsin will attend the conclave. The Open House is prepared to care for an even larger number of visiting high school students than have attended the past few years.

Placement Of Graduates Well Under Way; 21 Have Contracts

Mr. A. J. Herrick, Chairman of the Committee on Recommendations, states that the making of credentials for graduates and alumni is in full swing in the Training School Office. To date 82 graduates and 92 alumni have asked to have papers made up for 1937. A large number of calls for teachers have been received and calls continue to come in each day. The placement season is just getting nicely under way.

The high school department has placed but one graduate thus far. Miss Shirley Webster is to teach English and Social Studies in the Junior High School in Sheboygan, Wisconsin, next year.

Mr. Neale, head of the rural department, reports that there will be more openings in his field than there have been for the past several years. The following students in this department have already received contracts: Annette Cieslewicz, General McGlachlin School, Portage Co.; Jenette Doughty, Knowledge Hill School, Waupaca Co.; Marie Gigstad, Frazier Corner School, Upper Grades, Shawano Co.; Paul Hein, Vieffkind School, Clark Co.; Nancy Glodoske, Black Oak School, Portage Co.; Eileen Maguire, District No. 10, Marathon Co.; Marian Mayer, River Valley School, Portage Co.; Grace McHugh, District No. 8, Marathon Co.; Irma Rice, Bluff School, Portage Co.; Helen Soppa, Oakdale School, Trempeleau Co.; Ardella Stiebs, Green Valley School, Waupaca Co.; Adela Theilig, District No. 7, Marathon Co.; Grace Wachtl, District No. 2, Marathon, Co.; Viola Zill, Spring Hill School, Oconto Co.; Lois Johnson, Lower Grades, Morrisonville, Wis.; Amelia Kulwiec, Rural School, Clark Co.; Jeanette Nelson, Rural School, Rusk Co.; LaPearl Powless, Rural School, Portage Co.; Floy Stiehm, Rural School, Price Co.; and George Van Hoosen, Principalship, Morrisonville, Wisconsin.

Elmer Knuteson, who graduated last year, will have a position in the state graded school at Leopolis. He will take the place of Frank Klement, who plans to attend the University of Wisconsin next year. Durward McVey, a graduate of 1933, will be principal of the Dorchester High School.

College News Briefs

Let's all be "bird conscious" and make use of the bird chart now posted on Miss Jones' bulletin board. With spring just around the corner, our summer birds will be returning from the Southland. Watch for them and report them to Miss Jones. They will be recorded on the chart. Has anyone seen a robin?

Professors Officiate At Meets

Professors H. R. Steiner, L. M. Burroughs, and N. E. Knutzen will be at Medford tomorrow afternoon and evening to act as judges for a forensic meet.

Doctor Tolo will judge a forensic meet tomorrow at Hancock.

Sigma Tau Delta Story Contest

All short stories must be handed in to Carroll Swenson, Ben Goldberg, or Maxine Miner on or before May 1st. If you haven't already begun your story, write it now. Rules for the contest are on the bulletin boards. Remember—first prize is $5.00; second prize is $3.00; and third prize is $2.00. Mr. Burroughs, Mr. Knutzen, Miss Davis, and Miss Mason will be the judges.

Student Opinion

The Junior Girls seem to be in for a ribbing this week to judge from this poem that was sent in. Or does the writer mean to chide the king about his delay?—(Editor's note).

YE JUNIOR GALS

We sadly miss in this Junior class
An aggressive gal or a winsome lass
Ah me, the promenade is almost here
Without a Queen it does appear!
Would some Junior miss with a little punch
Quickly act on my outspoken hunch?
Would she twine her net round the King's bright head
And take him to the ball alive or dead,
Our one—our only—inimitable Red?

It is left to the rimer's lot to rail
At our Junior gals so prim and stale.
Is there no one with a bit of dash
Who can win the heart of our football flash?
Remember his speed last fall at the game—
Isn't there some one who can tame
This rumbling, tumbling football hero
Or do you all just rate yourself zero
And seek refuge in yon Dating Bureau?

Now gals, this sad state of affairs must end!
I tell you this as a trustworthy friend,
There's a way to reach this armored heart
If you'll only give him about six yards start,
Then catch him and corner that kingly
crown
Outgaze those blue eyes set in mighty frown—
I'm telling you gals the game will be won
You'll have his crown before you've begun
There's none more susceptible under the sun!

He'll weaken I tell you in no time at all
The stronger they are the harder they fall.
Our Red is a man just like all the rest,
And he hides a big heart in his bulging chest.
Ah, girls, here's your chance to be Prom
Queen
If you'd use your dimples and a bit of your bean.
That this rattle is useless I have no doubt
Since there is no zeal in you gals to route.

Oh well, if my efforts are futile, I'll close
You can't be roused from your lethargic pose
And—as to why you read this—no one knows!

Somebody took exception to some of the poetry printed last week and was incensed enough to send in this anonymous poem. Do you agree with it, or would you uphold the first contributors? (Editor's Note.)

THEY SPEAK OF LOVE

They speak of love—these fledglings!
With untied wings and hearts unchanged
As on the day when first their Maker
let them breathe alone.

They speak of love—How wise they are!
These fry who think a raging sea
Would miss the added volume their tiny stream might give.

They know of sunbeams, flickering
candlelight,
Of dappled earth beneath a leafy tree,
And think they know of fire, heat of stars, and molten lead.

A ripple on the surface of a slowly
moving stream,
Which the kingfish eyes suspiciously
above,
Knows as much of the force of an ocean wave
As a child of nineteen knows of love.

Glee Club Concert Highly Successful

A record crowd attended the fourth annual home concert of the Mens Chorus of Central State that was given in the college auditorium on Wednesday, March 31. The crowd itself was a tribute to the club. The hearty applause throughout the entire program signified the approval of the audience.

Under the enthusiastic leadership of Norman E. Knutzen the club has grown and improved steadily in the past four years. The finished quality of the concert is evidence of the skill acquired by the members. The atmosphere created by the men impressed the audience with the thought that it was hearing a club that is making a serious business of singing.

Variety was shown in the program, some numbers showing deep religious feeling, some dramatic selections, some colorful melodies and some cheering choruses. Student directors Bill Larson, Kirkwood Likes, William Theisen and George Cartmill each directed one of the numbers. The "Colleagues Quartet" sang several songs and Fred Parfrey played a flute solo. Miss Roberta Peterson, the regular accompanist, accompanied most of the numbers, while Edward J. Plank and Gilbert Faust, college instructor and former accompanist, each played for a group of songs. Mr. Plank also played two solo numbers. Incidental solos presented were sung by John Steiner, Thomas Faucett, and William Theisen. All songs were sung entirely from memory.

Mr. Likes, club president, made several dedications of numbers that added interest to the program. President Hyer, Miss May Roach, Mrs. L. M. Maloney, Omega Mu Chi and Tau Gamma Beta sororities were honored in this manner. In closing the program Brahms' "Lullabye" was dedicated and sung as a tribute to the memory of Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink and was also that a certain young lady would like to be escorted.

dedicated to Mrs. L. M. Maloney. The latter is a former college regent and friend of the glee club.

Lighting effects by Phil Runkel and Donald Colby were very effective in the last group of songs. In the "Twilight Scene" the men were grouped in formally about a glowing fireplace. A striking picture was made by the 50 men of the club dressed in dark suit coats and white flannel trousers.

In a short talk given during an intermission Pres. Hyer stressed the pride the school felt in the Club. He praised Mr. Knutzen who has done exceptional fine work in addition to a heavy teaching schedule. Club president Kirkwood Likes presented Mr. Knutzen with a gift as a token of the members' esteem.

Five Maxims of a King

On the walls of the late King George's study in Buckingham Palace, London, hang five maxims. They are:

Teach me to be obedient to the rules of the game.

Teach me to distinguish between sentiment and sentimentality, admiring the one and despising the other.

Teach me neither to proffer nor to receive cheap and undeserved praise.

If I am called upon to suffer, let me be like a well-bred beast that goes away to suffer in silence.

Teach me to win if I may; if I may not win, then above all teach me to be a good loser.
