Two Central State Debate Teams At Fargo For Red River Valley Tournament

Early Wednesday morning two CSTC debate teams, consisting of a women's team, Eleanor Ruchti and Virginia Johnson, and a men's team, Don Krider and Frank Splitek left for River Falls where they will compete in an invitational meet before going to Fargo, North Dakota, for the Red River Valley tournament. This evening, after completing two rounds of debate, the two teams will travel to Minneapolis, Minnesota, where they will join several mid-west debate teams en route to the Fargo meet. A special coach on the North Coast Limited has been reserved for the mid-west teams, and the train will arrive in Fargo, Thursday morning.

On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week, these mid-west teams will participate in Fargo's seventh annual Red River Valley Tournament. Different types of forensic contests to be run include: oratory, discussion, extemporaneous speaking, radio contest, and debate. All colleges entered in the debate division will participate in six rounds for general elimination, and the winners will then compete for the finals. The Gardner Hotel will be the official headquarters of the out-of-state groups.

Appear Before Kiwanis Club

Mr. Burroughs, debate coach of CSTC, sponsor for the luncheon program of the Kiwanis Club last week, presented the CSTC team that has won all competitive debates so far this season, Eleanor Ruchti, and Virginia Johnson, who gave an informal discussion of the Pi Kappa Delta question on isolation.

Miss Jones Granted Leave Of Absence By Normal Regents

The board of Normal Regents recently granted Jessie E. Jones, Biological Science teacher at C.S.T.C., a leave of absence for this semester and the summer session of 1940. Her teaching service beyond this time will depend upon her recovery.

Miss Jones has been active in the teaching profession for twenty-four years, the last twenty of these have been spent at Stevens Point.

Throughout these many years of faithful service, she has gained the friendship and respect of the student body and faculty alike—all of whom wish her a speedy recovery.

Enrollment Figures

Enrollment for the second semester registered 763 for day attendance when the office closed at 4:00 Tuesday. This showed a decline of 75 under last semester's total of 837. Night school enrollment Tuesday evening showed 120. This was 239 lower than the first semester's. Total enrollment this semester is 883 against 1197 for the first term. The regular college enrollment decline is partly due to dropping out on account of low grades and semester graduation. Night school registration decrease is due mainly to bad driving and adverse weather conditions.

Oshkosh Hears Central State Men's Glee Club

Formal Dinner Precedes Concert At St. Mary's Auditorium Thursday

A formal concert, the second of the season, was presented by the Central State Men's Glee Club at Oshkosh, Thursday, February 1. A short assembly concert was given at the Waupaca High School on the trip down, this being the second appearance of the group in that city

NOTICE!!

Students who have made reservations pay either Mr. Knutzen or Jim Unger by Saturday, February 10, and you will be given a receipt. Mr. Knutzen will arrange for tickets and they will be issued on the presentation of your receipt.

this winter. Director Knutzen, accompanist Ula Mae Knutson, Mrs. Spindler, and twenty seven members of the Glee Club made the trip in the college bus.

Formal Dinner

The entire group was received at the home of Mrs. Stanhilber upon its arrival in Oshkosh, where a formal dinner was given in honor of the Glee Club. Several photographs of the hostess and members of the club were taken during the course of the dinner hour, and as a parting gesture of appreciation to Mrs. Stanhilber the group sang the college song, The Purple And The Gold, before leaving for the concert. It was indeed a regal reception in a regal atmosphere, and comments from the men who made the trip seem to indicate that it was a reception never to be forgotten.

Green Bay Appearance Soon

On February 16, a concert will be given in the First Presbyterian Church in Green Bay. The concert has been arranged by the church Men's Club, and a dinner will be given in the church parlors preceding the concert at eight o'clock. Other plans for out of town appearances have not been disclosed as yet.

Betty Smith Elected 1940 Editor Of Flight

At a recent meeting of Sigma Tau Delta, Betty Smith, an active Junior on the campus, was elected editor of "Flight". John Yurkovitch, who has shown much interest in the discussion clubs during his four years of work here, was elected business manager. "Flight" is a yearly publication of the local chapter of Sigma Tau Delta. It was originated to stimulate interest in writing. Material is submitted through teachers because of its originality and merit, or it may be offered by the student himself. What is to be finally published is determined by the editorial staff of "Flight". Previous to this year two issues have been edited.

The local chapter was recently honored by having two of its literary compositions published in "Rectangle", the official quarterly of Sigma Tau Delta Professional English Fraternity, which is published in Wayne, Nebraska. Janette Van Natta and Eyleene Atkins of Central State were the authors of these excellent "bits" of poetry and description. "Vafi's" poem was entitled "Mode A La Ville" and Eyleen's description, "A Foggy Morning". All branches of this National Fraternity send in entries to the "Rectangle".

Come From Behind To Win Thriller 47-38

In a fast, breathtaking battle, the championship contending Pointers downed a scrappy Whitewater quintet. From the sound of the whistle to the final gun both teams were giving all they had. Whitewater opened the scoring column with a push shot by Hermesen but it was only the beginning. Point came back with several gift tosses and a bucket by Warner, after which "Slats" Seffern came into his own and rung the bell three times in rapid succession. The Quakers then moved into high gear and when the half ended the local boys were trailing 23 to 20.

The second half saw a newly revived Point squad settle down to some "Big Ten Basketball" and go on to victory. The boys from Whitewater tried hard but they were licked by a better team.

Seffern Leads Scoring

The Point scoring was led by "Slats" Seffern who hit his stride and chalked up ten points. He thrilled the crowd with a cagy shot that is undecipherable, and one you had to see to appreciate. Art Bandow playing his first game of the season, came through with flying

STUDENT SENATE

C.S.T.C. has in its midst many students who have shown individual ability as school leaders and it has been through these people that a so-called student senate organization might be brought to play on our campus. Such an organization could be used very profitably in many ways. First of all, such a unit could be very useful in greeting the incoming students and helping them find their niches in C.S.T.C. Student opinion on many of the problems facing a large institution of our type might be put to a very practical use. Such things as the selection and organization of student entertainment and the formulation of arrangements for homecoming could be handled by stipulated group. In this way everything would not be heaped onto the shoulders of one individual as it now is. The incoming student might be helped considerably in organizing his classes so that all of the work would not again be placed upon the teachers' shoulders. It is not the idea to have an organization that will govern everything but rather to have a group cooperating with the students in order that they may work together and enjoy the things about them more. This group could be comprised of one freshman, one sophomore, two juniors, and two seniors, all elected at class elections, one faculty member, and a representative from each Greek organization, honorary and social—in this way eliminating any possible organization backbiting. An organization of this type would be a profitable enterprise and would be of considerable advantage to any college in existence.

WHY NOT STUDY?

One semester of the school year is past history and many students are beginning to wonder whether or not they have neglected their studies. Many feel that they have wasted their time. Some have pushed class work to the side in favor of outside activities; but these are few compared to those who have simply not given much attention to classes and less to their extracurricular activities. Whether one has neglected his primary duties for outside activities or for no reason at all, it is still only a matter of using the time more sanely and usefully.

Reasons why students waste their time are several. The first and most obvious reason is pure laziness. Another reason why some find poor grades on their report cards is because they do not balance their extracurricular and class work. Of course, extracurricular work should be a part of everyone's routine, but the time between this and studies should be balanced. Still another reason why some are low in their class work is because of improper study methods. The lower classmen are probably more guilty of this than upper classmen, but the same may hold true for a lot of the students. The greatest requirement, though, is to concentrate and to do your own work. The last, and not so readily admitted reason is the fear of being called an apple-polisher.

If in this second semester more attention is paid to classes with the proper balance of athletics and extracurricular activities, no student should be disappointed at the end of this semester. Either he will find happiness in better marks, or he will find comfort in the fact that he has given his best. (Exerpts from an editorial in Concordia Courier of January 1940.)

Shootin' from the Lip

Here 'tis—the results of the poll we held during the past several weeks to determine which girls in your estimation possess those traits and stuff that most nearly border on the perfect.

Altogether we received votes for 72 girls which just goes to show you that the results listed are far from unanimous. Perhaps the girl you think is tops isn't mentioned at all. That, my friend, is because you didn't vote, perhaps.

At any rate here are the listings:—

The votes for the prettiest hair practically ignored the brunettes and brownettes and cast their lot with a blonde and redhead. Anita Madsen won over Doris Soderberg by a hair's breadth—a very pretty hair's breadth, I may add.

Rita Russell and Betty Gustin fought tooth and nail into a tie for the prettiest teeth. Marie Ocvirk bit off second place with a fine-looking biscupid.

Madsen scored again, this time she and Neva Jane Burroughs were the students' choice as those possessive of the eye-fillingest figgers. Soderberg and Murty shaped up pretty well in second place.

Evelyn Hillert stepped into first place in the leg section with Lillian Boe a very neat calf behind.

The girl with the best sense of humor turned out to be none other than Phyllis Degolier. Joyce Larson, Ula Mae Knutson and Betty Smith all laughed and joked their way into a tie for second.

In the matter of general appearance Grace Melchior and Ingeborg Enderlein were looking their best in first place. Others who were up in the voting were Natalie Weissner and Jane Johnson.

Melchior again hit the top when she was chosen as the gal with the most pleasing personality. A distinction of which one may be right proud. Ula Mae again was a polite "How d'ya do," behind.

Rita Russel and Laurel La Valle led the pack in the prettiest name column with Miss Russell leading by a euphymous little bit.

Well there you are students. Those girls have been chosen as the result of 200 questionnaires and although not conclusive, greatly show the trend of the student vote. We may view a similar one on men some time in the near future. That will give you gals a chance to vote your examples of virility into prominence.

MEGAPHONE

Exams over and everyone seemingly happy again—at least so it seems with all the hustle and bustle of first days and a fresh start. Well anyway, out of a storm comes a blue sky.

The semester finds Ruchti and Johnson both sporting new dresses. It couldn't possibly be because of the statement made by one debate judge—that they were the best negative case he had ever seen.

Jim Kulidas says, "you can't make me do anything. I'm paying more fees than any of you guys"—that's what you get for moving in on us, Jim.

Our campus athlete, Louie Poluszny, has turned Boy Scout these days and goes about in our fair walls carrying all the little girls books—that a boy, Louie. Gentlemen are few and far apart these days.

Ray Disher and Gordy Lewison are both sporting some real black eyes. I thought at first it might have been a little scrap, but fiction tells different.

The Omegas came out with something Monday—a good old fashioned "Kaffe Klatch" with Bingo, Contact and everything. You girls are really going high and wide these days.

Jim Hanig is looking for a girl—the line forms to the right for all you gals—Jimmy says anything goes.

As quoted by Betty Smith, "What's my little Susie"?—The Shadow knows."

So on we go like diving into a swimming pool, no matter how deep you go you always come up if you can swim at all—Moral—"If you want to float keep on your water wings". So Long.

CAMPUS JAMBOREE

The Campus Jamboree is a weekly program being presented over WLBL. The last jamboree featured Tony Klein, "Mickey" Frick, and Harold alias "Bernadine" Irish.

Waldo Nelson delivered a brief news report.

Each week some prominent member of the faculty is to be interviewed. Miss Susan Colman is to be the speaker on the next broadcast. President Smith has been interviewed during a previous program.

Each program is concluded by the "Wit of Knowledge for the Day"—the content of which is a short poem, a clever joke, or by-line. Anyone having any material suitable for this purpose is requested to place it in the Pointer mailbox.

Any person desiring to be on the program will please register at WLBL or see Bill Miller.

In reviewing the record of the college basketball squad thus far, we find that they rate rather high. At present they are second in the Conference with only one defeat on the ledger. This defeat was at the hands of the Milwaukee Greengulls, who have whipped practically every college team in the state. This Friday the Pointers meet the Greengulls at Milwaukee and we're betting on the Point. From all angles, we find marked evidence that a victory is in sight. The team is in the pink of condition, all the boys are optimistic, and even Coach Kotal isn't too gloomy. Perhaps if a gang from the college tried to see that game it might help in the outcome. The conference championship is at stake and one would look mighty fine about this time. Last week end the team split on the Michigan trip. They lost at Marquette (38-41) and won at Michigan Tech (59-22). The games have no great bearing upon the success of our season, but we don't like to lose. The rest of the non conference games have been fairly even and on the whole we rate with the best of them.

Right now we are pointing toward a conference championship, which could very easily be realized. The big stumbling block is Friday night, but we still are putting our money on the Point.

We are wondering if the reason "Slats" Seffern was hot last night was because it was the first game his young lady friend was able to attend. How about it Dunc?

There seemed to be a slight disagreement during the Oshkosh game between Coach Kotal and official, Mark Amlje. However, Mr. Amlje must have read the rule book before last night's game. Yours truly took the time to look up the rule covering the position of the official while a player is shooting a free throw. A "note" on one of the rules distinctly states that no official shall stand under the basket or in the free throw lane. To go into a little more detail, the description of the court describes the free throw

Art Bandow, playing his first game of the season, certainly wasted no time getting under way. Art seemed to be in good shape and should aid tremendously in the drive down the home stretch.

We have just received word that Jim McGuire has accepted a position as coach at Colfax High School. During the first semester "Mick" had been assisting Coach Ringdahl at the local high school. Jim's brother, Tim, a product of Stevens Point High School, has recently transferred to Stout Institute after completing a year and a half at the University of Wisconsin, where he was a quarterback on the varsity squad. The Point football team may hear more of him next fall.

Bowling League Enters Third Round Tonight

Student and faculty bowlers are all set to resume their activities after a weeks layoff. All the boys are looking forward to better scores now that the worry of final exams is a thing of the past.

Two weeks ago the second round of games was rolled with the Eat Shop taking three straight from the Pointer team. Taylor Drugs dropping the same number to the Chi Delts, and the Phi Sigs winning two out of three from the Faculty. These matters were run off smoothly. Everyone was on time and everything was just as it should be.

| Chi Delts vs. Pointer | (+43) |

OMEGS ENTERTAIN TAU GAMS

The sisters of Omega Mu Chi entertained the Tau Gamma Beta Sorority and a group of friends at an informal Kaffe Klatch Monday afternoon, January 5. The girls wished to celebrate the advent of the new semester with a party where they and their guests might forget the hectic week of examinations, have fun, and make firm resolutions whereby all future exams could be taken calmly.

Placed before the lighted fireplace of the Nelson Hall Recreation Room was the coffee-and-doughnut-table, at which each one served herself at her own bidding. Tables were scattered throughout the room and the girls played various games including bridge, contact, chinese checkers and bingo.

Miss Loomer, Mrs. Finch, Miss Davidoff, and Miss Colman were faculty guests.

SPEECH EXAMINATION

Let all professors, teachers, practice teachers, and would-be-teachers heed the trend that Mr. Leland M. Burroughs displays in his Speech class, otherwise known as English 119. Now Mr. Burroughs has a fine class but his method of final examination cannot, in the minds of his pupils, ever be surpassed—even by the most languid gourmand.

Mr. Burroughs simply takes his class to the Tea Room, feeds them a hearty breakfast, and then let's them talk, with what construction they can and all the humor they are able. A most amazing revue of speeches follows, under the supervision of a suave and witty master of ceremonies. (This semester's class was presided over by the Don Juan of the college theatre, James Carewe.)

To add to the impressiveness of the occasion at the last "breakfast", Roy Arndt presented a cup to Lionel LeGoult for telling the best story. However, due to the financial status of the class treasury, it could only be second hand tin; but as Arndt said as a general titter arose from the assembly, "Ah Friends, the spirit is here".

Your reporter can understand how some teachers would have difficulty in relating their respective subjects with a "breakfast" and to those we croon in a melodious minor, "You can't Have Everything".

But anyhow, "A word to the wise is sufficient".

FACULTY NOTES

Mr. Charles F. Watson spoke to the Rotary Club at Wisconsin Rapids, Wednesday, January 31, on "The Importance of Geography in the Present World War." He impressed the group with the fact that natural resources are vitally important in the war abroad. He also pointed out the Finns lack natural resources, which is being concealed by very clever maneuvering on their part.

Miss Susan B. Colman has addressed the Parent Teacher's Study group of the St. Stephen's Parish for the past four weeks. Her lectures have centered upon the theme "What Do We Want Our Schools to Do For Our Children?"

NELSON HALL REGISTER

With the arrival of the new semester there have appeared several changes upon the register of Nelson Hall. For the benefit of those who wish to call upon its inhabitants the regime wishes to announce them at this time.

Marguerite Benn now lives at Sim's Cottage. The "Old Girls" back in the Dorm are Elida Torkelson, Edith Einfeldt, and Helen Thornton. Phyllis Ritchie and Virginia Cady are its youthful novices.

There have also been a few changes in the masculine element in the living room. However, due to the fact that this is not a gossip column names must not be mentioned, but if questioned perhaps a regular tenant will divulge the information.

SMILES RETURN

By
Sister M. Perpetua

Now that exams are over, you can sense a change in the atmosphere. Everyone seems jolly; no face shows signs of worry, as did so many last week. February is here, and a long time will elapse before worried faces appear again. So let's have smiles and joy for a while. On February sixth even the instructors displayed smiles. They are really good sports, for even though they probably still have papers to correct, they wear smiles a mile long. And theirs are the contagious kind. They are spreading an epidemic, but no one seems to be trying to avoid the germ. In fact, everybody deliberately puts himself in the very way of it. And no one seeks a cure!

Further Educational Training Essential To College Graduate

Further educational training as a supplement to a Bachelor's Degree is essential if the college graduate is to receive full recognition in the business field. This is the conclusion drawn by Mrs. Adria C. Beaver, Director of Studies of the Washington School for Secretaries, from a study of a report on the economic status of women, recently issued by the United States Department of Labor.

The report, prepared by the committee on Economic and Legal Status of Women of the American Association of University Women, in cooperation with the Women's Bureau of the department, is based on a study of questionnaires returned by approximately ten thousand of the Association's employed members.

As reviewed by Mrs. Beaver for the benefit of students of the Washington School for Secretaries in the National Capital as well as the Washington School for Secretaries in New York City, the report shows that aside from activities of University women in the educational field the largest single group is employed in business as secretaries, clerical workers, or personnel workers. One-fourth of those not in education are found in these business classifications, according to Mrs. Beaver.

Mrs. Beaver found as a result of studying the answers to the questionnaires that a Bachelor's Degree while unquestionably promoting the employment stability of women was not in itself a sufficiently stabilizing influence to guarantee to the employed person adequate economic security. However, she revealed as a result of her study that supplementing the course for a Bachelor's Degree with specialized training in business improved greatly the economic possibilities of those entering the field of business.

To this extent Mrs. Beaver said the report bears out her personal observations made over a number of years of close study of personnel policies and problems both in private business and in the federal government service.

Employers now, Mrs. Beaver maintains, want a broad general background of education such as is conveyed by the Bachelor's Degree, but they likewise insist that this background be integrated to the particular position to be filled.

Continuing further her analysis of the report on the Economic Status of College Graduates Mrs. Beaver pointed out that even in the field of education, in which college graduates are dominant, further specialized training beyond the obtaining of a Bachelor's Degree is highly desirable if not essential. Many of the positions filled by holders of Bachelor's Degrees in the educational field are not exclusively teaching positions. They run a wide gamut and in each of them special courses would lead to improvement not only in the position but in the remuneration paid.

Briefs On New Books Added To School Library

A book which gives an interpretation of the character and customs of the Eastern standard of living is Carl Crow's publication, The Chinese Are Like That. This is an "amusingly illustrated" book about an odd and amazing race.

Thoreau by Henry Seidel Canby is "a biography of a man who believed in doing what he wanted". Thoreau "wrote the most racy and vigorous prose of any American author". It is an illustrated book and contains very interesting material.

In a new and modern way, Harry J. Carman, William G. Kimmel and Mable G. Walker have written a book, Historic Currents In Changing America. In this publication of over 300 illustrations, pictorial statistics and maps, the social and economic developments of America is traced from early backgrounds to our last Presidential Election.

Another edition pertaining to history is Charles E. Merriam's The New Democracy and The New Despotism. Mr. Merriam was a member of President Hoover's Commission on Recent Social Trends and he is now a member of the National Resources Board and Chairman of Political Science at the University of Chicago.

War Without Violence by Krishnal Shridharani is "the first authoritative description of Mahatma Gandhi's realistic program for peace, with emphasis on its application to the problems of Western democracy". For five years the author was a follower of Mahatma Gandhi and was with him on his famous "March to the Sea".

NYA NOTICE

The NYA committee met on Tuesday of this week and made several new appointments to fill out the quota allotted the college for the second semester. The Committee has announced that workers failing to get in the required hours during the December-January period will be given the opportunity to make up this time during the current period. After the January-February period every worker must have the required hours in by the end of each period, and no lost time can be made up, except in case of illness or other causes when permission has been granted.

Chief Engineer Moves To South Sims Cottage

After living in an apartment on the ground floor of the college for the last 20 years, the Steins have moved to the South Sims Cottage. This was formerly used by the Home Economics Department, but since the major in Home Ec was discontinued there will be no need for their using both cottages.

Mr. Stein came to CSTC as Chief Engineer in June, 1920. Before that he had a similar position at the State Home for Feeble-Minded at Chipewa Falls. He has served under six presidents in this school.

The Steins will be missed in the building because of the easy accessibility to their refrigerator by a certain group of students. Mrs. Stein, who is noted for her fine cooking and baking, is the mother of four children—two of whom graduated from this school, and Don, the youngest, who is now a Junior.

The Health Service will occupy this apartment in the future.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Tryout dates for participation in three one-act plays will be posted on the College Theater Board this week. Anyone may attend these tryouts.

Remodelling of Offices Shows Great Improvement

Shortly before Christmas a W.P.A. project was begun to remodel the main offices of Central State Teachers College. The following are changes now being made: the former entrance to the registrar's office is now a lobby for all of the offices and President Smith's office is located where the registrars was. The main office has the same location as it previously had, but some improvements have been made. One half of it will be used for the office N.Y.A. workers. The other part will be used for information and Miss June Lindeman will have her desk here. To eliminate confusion, an information window has been built, facing the lobby, so that it will not be necessary for persons desiring information to walk through the main office as was previously the case. Directly adjoining the information window are the faculty mail-boxes.

Miss Rolfsen's office will be located directly off the Main one.

The room which Mr. Jenkins had as a class room has been remodeled into a work room which will be used during registration or enrollment periods and the Registrar's office will be in that room also.

All these changes will serve to eliminate confusion and enlarge storage space.

By moving the counter to first floor, room was provided for the fireproof valut that is now being built for school records.
