

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED BY COACH

Although there will be no official basketball conference this year, many colleges, CSTC included, have planned games. Coach George R. Berg has released the following schedule of games to be played by the college basketball team:

November 15—St. Norbert, there; December 2—St. Norbert, here; December 16—Milwaukee, there; January 12—Eau Claire, here; January 20—Milwaukee, here; January 27—Eau Claire, there.

Arrangements are under way to schedule two games each with Whitewater and Oshkosh. One of the two games will be played here and the other there.

All men on the CSTC team are members of the Freshman class. The men and their respective playing positions are Lloyd Anderson, F-G; Bob Cashin, F-G; Jack Jenkins, F; Matt Martens, G; William Mellin, F; George Prihoda, G; Donald Vetter, F-C; Bernard Mozuch, G; Howard Peterson, F-G.

The probable starting lineup for the game at St. Norbert's, November 15, according to Coach Berg will include: Forward, Cashin; Forward, Peterson; Center, Vetter; Guard, Martens. This will be the first game of the season for each team and should provide a good test of strengths.

On Friday, November 10, the college team scrimmaged with the Wittenberg High School team in the Training school. The final score was 33-29 in favor of the CSTC men. Prihoda was high man for the victors with 18 points and Behnlse paced the losers with nine points.

NOTICE

There will be an important Senior class meeting in the auditorium after the assembly on Thursday, November 16, for the purpose of preparing college activity sheets for the IRIS.

District Play Contest To Be Held Here

A district one-act play contest will be held in the college auditorium in the morning and afternoon of Friday, November 17. Dr. Warren G. Jenkins will be the critic-judge.

About five high school leagues will compete for the title of district champion. The winner of this contest will compete at the regional contest which will be held here later in the year.

College students who are interested are invited to attend these plays.

A list of the schools competing in this contest will be posted on Leland M. Burroughs bulletin board.

Thanksgiving, 1944

by Edward R. Lightbody
U. S. Coast Guard
CSTC—1942

As I look out from the place that I am now sitting, I can see the brightly lighted city of San Francisco. Over yonder to the east lies Oakland and the bay cities in all their splendor. It is about the most beautiful night scene that man can view on this earth. A slight covering of fog, a full moon which peaks through the mantle of white every now and then, and below the millions of lights from the city. The Bay Bridge has thousands of cars running over it at all hours of the day and night, and the planes overhead are coming and going to the places all over the Pacific world. Yes, it is all beautiful as I sit here this evening, and wonder where I shall be in the next few weeks.

It makes me a little sad, a little tug around the heart for things of home, home which is so far away in Wisconsin. But it also makes me proud, proud that I am an American, that I wear this uniform that so many millions are now wearing because they all have a job to do. When this job is over, we will all be back in our homes, home in Wisconsin, Indiana, Massachusetts, California or wherever we live in this great land of ours.

Long ago our forefathers on a little stretch of almost barren coast in New England gave thanks to God for what they had. It was so little, but yet they knelt down, bowed their heads and prayed. They worked and they were in unity despite the terrible things they had to suffer.

Therefore, on this Thanksgiving, when many of us feel that we have not so much to be thankful for, there is really a great deal to be grateful for. There are many reasons for us to get down on bended knees and pray. Pray to God and thank Him. Pray to God and ask Him for grace to carry on, ask Him for merciful guidance for our statesman, that this terrible cross that afflicts the world may soon be lifted from our shoulders. Ask Him not just for victory, but for a just peace so that other men will have no reason for war, that others can live and prosper even as we have done.

Soon I will be leaving these shores, but with light heart, for our men are praying for a just peace, a better world. With faith in America and the things that it stands for, we cannot lose the battle or the victory.

Miss Allen, Students Quartette To Appear Visit High Schools At CSTC, Nov. 21

Miss Bessie May Allen recently took four senior Home Economics girls on another trip to see Home Economics departments in high schools. The girls who accompanied her on Thursday and Friday, October 26 and 27, were Martha Halama, Dolores Rondeau, Glenna Johnson, and Helen Lundgren.

Last year's graduates who were visited were Edna Clark at Alma Center, Blanche Padour at Hixton, Mary Hebron at Melrose, and Meredith Mykleby at Abbotsford. Other schools included in the trip were Independence, Eau Claire, Cadott, Owen, and Colby. Future trips are being planned by Miss Allen.

Andy and Eva Find Students Friendly

"We like CSTC's student body very much," exclaimed Andrew Payer and his niece Eva Broviak, who bought the College Eat Shop recently. "Andy and Eva," as they like to be called, have often dealt with young people, but have never met students of so fine a calibre before. (Editor's note—We're not fooling, they really said that!).

A concert by the Pro-Arte Quartette, a string ensemble, will be presented at 8:15 p.m. on Tuesday, November 21 in the college auditorium. Every member of this Quartette is an accomplished musician, and the concert will undoubtedly be exceptionally fine.

The Quartette is made up of members of the music faculty at the University of Wisconsin. It gives concerts at Wisconsin schools as a public service offered by the University. When appearing within the state of Wisconsin it charges only for expenses, but it stipulates that no admission price be charged. For this reason both students and the public will be admitted free.

This program was arranged by the Assembly committee, headed by Dr. Arthur S. Lyness, and made up of faculty members and members of the Student Council.

Andy has another niece, Rita Pejsa, who is a Freshman at CSTC. His nephew, Lt. Arthur Pejsa, of the Army, also attended CSTC a few years ago.

Student Production Will Be Presented

"Helena's Husband," an all-student production, will be presented at an assembly tomorrow, November 16, at 10 a.m.

Marjorie Stimm and Dick Olk are the co-directors of the play, Dick Olk is also the production manager, and Roger McCallum is the stage manager.

In charge of the properties are Doris Johnson, Dolores Jelinek, and Joyce Proctor. In charge of make-up are Alice Ruth Johnson, Ellen Gordon, and Doris Ubbelohde. In stage hands are Edythe Ofstun, Gertrude Heike, and Max Kopchinski.

The cast, as announced in last week's POINTER is: Helena, Dorothy Jenkins; Menelaus, Le Roy Plunkett; Paris, Bob Cashin; Analytikas, Frank Kostuck; and Tsumu, Betty Pohlman.

Dolores Cowles and Joan Joosten will sing a few duets before the play begins. Mary Ann Hotvedt will accompany them on the piano.

NOTICE

There will be no Pointer next week because classes will be dismissed at noon on Wednesday, November 22, for Thanksgiving vacation.

National Book Week Is Being Observed

The better world of the Four Freedoms must be built from the ground up, leaders of National Book Week, November 12-18, feel. In sponsoring this year's theme "United Through Books" they are featuring children's books which will build a solid foundation of understanding among children of all nations. Books are the open doors to the knowledge and understanding on which alone freedom and democracy can endure.

This year is the 200th anniversary of the publication of the first book for children — the "Little Pretty Pocket Book", issued by John Newberry in England in 1744.

Working with the special emphasis on children's books, the library staff of CSTC has prepared a colorful exhibit of books at the Training school. The bright covers and fine illustrations characteristic of these books are incentive enough to make even the adults skim through them. A number of books have also been purchased in the interest of the Rural Demonstration school.

Because of wartime restrictions on materials and transportation, Nelis R. Kampenga, college librarian, feels that the exhibit of new books for the college will not be ready for Book Week. The librarians are, however, planning to have a Book Fair later in November.

Published weekly except holidays and examination periods, at Stevens Point by students of the Central Wisconsin State Teachers College. Subscription Price $2.00 per year. Entered as second-class matter May 26, 1927, at the post office at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Khaki Komments

Seaman Second Class Allan Barrows has just finished "boot training", and was in Stevens Point visiting his parents and the campus for several days last week. He is now at Great Lakes, Illinois, awaiting further training as a radio technician. Allan was glad to be able to see Ensign Bob Rifleman, when he was in Point. Allen and Bob worked together in the Radio Workshop.

"Doc" Kulidas is now in France. He stated that being in France isn't like being in England. "In France we live in the field in a pup tent. It is surprising how much can be kept in a pup tent and still be neat." He added, that if it weren't for the rain, which brings mud, things wouldn't be too bad.

Leland Malchow is in England. He says that perhaps no one but him would find a similarity between Cambridge and Madison. He goes to Cambridge to look over the schools that make up the town and he feels at home there.

Capt. Harold F. Jeneman, of Bloomer, Wisconsin, a CSTC alumnus, has been assigned to the 95th Bombardment group, and is taking an orientation course on flying procedure in the European theater of operations, prior to beginning combat duty in the air. Capt. Jeneman thus becomes a member of the Eighth Air Force Fortress group which led the first American bombing attack on targets in Berlin, and has received several presidential citations.

Lt. Lyman Johnson, another CSTC alumnus, is in France and is enjoying the wonderful hospitality of a French home. By one of those rare coincidences, that show how small the world really is, Lt. Johnson met a French mathematician who used "an algebra textbook written by one Dr. Joseph V. Collins, of my own old Alma Mater!"

Lyman acted as an interpreter of a postal unit at Isigny, when his group entered France. Through the help of a French nun, an old "grand-pere", and a little eight year old French girl named Juliette, he spoke to the French people. In an issue of Life magazine there is a picture of Lt. Johnson's little friend, Juliette, waiting to give flowers to General DeGaulle.

Lt. Albin Witkowsky, Liberator bombardier, is in England, and has

'Wilson' Is Enjoyed

Roses to the assembly committee who arranged for the low priced tickets to "Wilson". The student body appreciated the opportunity to see this timely picture. It brought out forcefully our present day need for post-war peace measures. Students enjoyed the scenes in Washington, especially the interior views of the White House and the senate Chambers; they also liked the experience of practically attending a political convention. Aside from its historical value, the picture was interesting because it gave a more personal view of the presidential family.

completed 26 of his 30 missions. He has been awarded the Air Medal and several Oak Leaf Clusters and has recently been put in charge of squadron gunnery.

Sgt. Melvin N. Francis, a member of the 97th whose squadron was here in 1943, is again in foreign service. Before coming to CSTC, he saw action in the Aleutians. Sgt. Francis recently spent 16 delightful days in Sidney, Australia, after having taken part in the raids on the Philippines.

For entertainment in Sidney, Melvin visited the zoos which, he said, were full of strange animals, snakes, vultures, lions, etc. He also enjoyed good meals of fresh meat and eggs and ice cream. His group has their own ice cream freezer. "Ice cream in the heat of the jungle. What do you think about that!" he said.

Dorm Diary

The past week was a busy one for all the Dormites. It was the end of the nine weeks, and everyone knows what that means. For the very fortunate underclassmen, it meant nothing more alarming than examinations. For the seniors, the end of the nine weeks meant giving examinations and averaging grades until they added rows of numbers in their sleep.

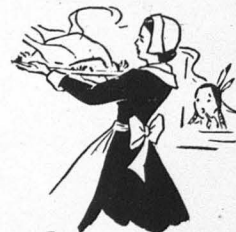

Thursday, November 9, it rained, as everyone knows. The city bus going downtown at 1:30 was so crowded it actually bulged! Many be-dragged and slightly damp girls came back to Nelson Hall highly praising the movie, WILSON.

If you were around Nelson Hall dining room this past week, you heard some fine singing. Saturday noon, November 11, Miss Gladys Van Arsdale and Mrs. Mary Samter, who were at the Dorm for lunch, got a small idea of how utterly un-teach-er-like the girls at Nelson Hall can be.

Saturday and Sunday brought its quota of guests. Dorothy and Alice Stroik of Chicago dropped in to see Alta Niven. Martha Stock and Meredith Mykleby were two other very welcome guests. Mickey is teaching at Abbotsford this year, and Martha is waiting her orders to report to Hunter College, New York, to begin boot-training as a WAVE. Miss Rose Barber had as her guest this week-end, Mrs. Dellin Beltz of Madison. Mrs. Beltz is a receptionist at the YWCA there.

And so Sunday came to an end, and so began the final stretch of Martha Halama's camping.

At the Dorm housemeeting held last Monday evening, it was announced that a Thanksgiving dinner "with all the fixings" would be served for the Dormites on Sunday, November 19. In place of the usual song, the Dutch hymn, "Song of Thanksgiving" will be sung.

Prayer For Thanksgiving.

We have troubled You, Father, so often with our selfish desires and greed; We have carried our woe to Your shoulders and have come to You oft in our need. We have pled for the safety of loved ones who are fighting in this man-made hell, And we've wondered why God, in His mercy, forgot children who suffered and fell. We have doubted Your presence, too, Father, when we wondered why You stood aside, And did nothing to lessen the murder among people for whom Your Son died. We have come unto Thee in our weakness and expected Thy blessings and grace, We've demanded Divine understanding of the sins of the whole human race. We have seen all that's ugly and sinful, we've presented our problems in prayers, With hardly a word of thanksgiving to a Father Who lovingly cares. We still can be thankful for music; the beauties of nature remain, In spite of the war's bloody horror—in spite of man's terror and pain. We still can be thankful for freedom; for harvests, for families, for trees. There still is enough that should send us, in gratitude, down on our knees. Then this is our prayer for the season, when time to give thanks comes again— That Thy children will truly be thankful for a Father like Thee, Lord

... Amen.

Training School News

The third grade children of the Training school are making Indian shawls as part of their Indian unit. They are coloring their shawls with crayon. There is a very interesting exhibit of Indian things which they have made displayed on a table in their room.

During the week of November 5-11, National Education Week, grades four, five, and six of the training school, held open house for their parents and friends. Mothers of children in the Primary grades visited school on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 7 and 8.

Members of the fifth grade greatly enjoyed an excursion to West's Dairy at Plover on Friday evening, November 10, to watch the milking, cooling, and bottling of milk.

Book Week is being observed this week in the Junior High at the Training school. On Monday, Miss Syble Mason displayed a number of new books and gave a short talk. Miss Mason has also arranged a display of new books in the library. A tableau was presented this morning by the seventh grade English class under the direction of Edythe Ostun, a student teacher. A characterization of several books will be given on Friday, under the supervision of Doreen Short.

Interesting Lecture Given by Speaker

"We do not want to develop intellectual giants that are emotional dwarfs. The education of one's mind and one's heart, of emotional and spiritual growth, must come together. The color of your courage is important." These were the words of Mrs. Dorothy Waldo Phillips, youth counselor, who talked to faculty and students on Wednesday, November 8.

Mrs. Phillips went on to say that we should not mind ignorance—we should ask whether it is static or dynamic ignorance. "Education is like hash," she said, "the stuff just accumulates!" Many of the most important things in life escape measurement and pass through the sieve of facts. If the process of alchemy takes place in the mind of the student, material changes from instruction to knowledge. Only then does it become usable.

In times like these, Mrs. Phillips explained, there is a need for wideness of heart and for height of spiritual development. Skills in human engineering are needed. "Have you ever thought about what kind of person you will be in a crisis?" she inquired.

In closing, Mrs. Phillips gave this challenge—"We must be dedicated to something more important than ourselves. History has been made by men of the expectant heart."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Raymond M. Rightsell, membership chairman of the American Association of University Women, which sponsored Mrs. Phillips.

Women Reclaim Nelson Hall

If the walls of Nelson Hall could speak, they would have many varied tales to tell.

Nelson Hall has served as a "home away from home" to many a girl who has attended CSTC. The friendships the girls make here are cherished throughout life.

The dormitory first opened its doors on September 17, 1917. Miss Bertha Hussey was the first Dean of Women, and Miss May Rowe was the matron.

In 1918 the new dormitory did not house women, but about 100 young men of the Student Army Training Corps. These men, who were not old enough to be subject to draft, lived according to army regulations and were in attendance at CSTC over a period of two or three months.

After the war, Nelson Hall again became the home for college girls. Following Miss Hussey's death, Mrs. Josephine Finch and Miss Mary Neuberger looked after the welfare of the girls. When they left the "dorm", Mrs. Elizabeth Pfiffner and Mrs. Elizabeth Jelinek of Milwaukee lived in Nelson Hall.

History repeated itself in February of 1943, when 350 aviation students of the 97th College Training Detachment took over Nelson Hall. Each month saw the arrival of one squadron to replace one just departed. After over a year of quartering military personnel, Nelson Hall was again opened to civilian students.

Miss Rose Barber of Madison is the present director of the dormitory with Alice Breske of Wausau as assistant student director.

The man who is partly responsible for the building of the dormitory was the late George B. Nelson, for whom the dormitory was named, a regent of the college and a justice in the State Supreme Court before his death. Anton Krembs, once a member of the state legislature, and the late John Sims, former president of the college, also extended efforts to obtain the dormitory.

NEW WAR NOVELS ADDED TO LIBRARY

Attention, book lovers! In the college library, there is a world of unusual novels that have come out of this war. Adventure into the stacks, where the following, will be found: "Army of Shadows," by Joseph Kessel. This novel tells the terrible and inspiring truth about the French underground. "A Walk in the Sun," by Harry Brown, is a history of one platoon of Yankee soldiers on the outskirts of a beach-head battle in Italy. "Fair Stood the Wind for France," by H. E. Bates, is a tale of a wounded British flyer's effort to escape capture by the Germans in France, and of a fallen nation's effort to regain its soul.
