Mr. Steiner Returns After An Operation

Students and faculty are happy to welcome Dean Herbert R. Steiner back to CSTC. Shortly before Christmas vacation, Dean Steiner became a patient at St. Joseph's hospital in Marshfield where he underwent an operation on his left eye. While convalescing, he became ill with pneumonia and had to return to the hospital.

Mr. Steiner, who returned to his duties here at the beginning of this semester, has lost none of his cheerfulness and keen humor. When asked by a Pointer reporter, for a statement for the press, he declared:

"I think it is much easier to be back teaching than to lie in a hospital bed all day—even though I was waited on then! One thing I noticed about the school was that the faces I thought I knew pretty well look much better than they did before my operation, when many things were just a blur.

"There isn't really a great deal I can say, but I'm tickled to death about the way every thing turned out. I'm very happy... maybe if I had both my eyes I would see too much."

Officers Installed

The following officers of Alpha Kappa Rho were installed for the second semester by the former vice-president, Joyce Rathke, at a meeting held at Peter J. Michelsen's home, on the evening of January 29: President, Irene Ludwig; vice-president, Dolores Rondeau; secretary, Dolores Cowles; treasurer, Mary Ann Hotvedt.

Following the installation Marjorie Stimm presented a musical program of recordings from the opera "Prince Igor" by Borodin, and Mildred Ross and Mary Ann Hotvedt directed a musical game.

Sympathy Extended

CSTC's students and faculty extend deep sympathy to Mrs. Edith Cutnaw in the loss of her son, Pfc Kent Cutnaw, who lost his life on December 25 while aboard a transport that was torpedoed in European waters.

Honorary Fraternities Give Radio Programs

A new series of Radio Workshop programs is now being broadcast on Thursdays at 3:15 p.m. The first nine weeks of the series will be sponsored by Alpha Kappa Rho, honorary musical fraternity. The program is called, "Say It With Music", and presents the music of a different composer each week.

The second nine weeks will be sponsored by Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity. Plans for their programs have not yet been completed.

Rev. Davies Speaks

Reverend Bertram Davies spoke on "The Bible As Living Literature" at a meeting of Sigma Tau Delta held in the student lounge on the evening of Wednesday, January 31. After Reverend Davies' talk, Edward Plank, an honorary member of Sigma Tau Delta, read a humorous article he recently had published called "The Confessions of a Long Haired Musician."

After the meeting, a light lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Leland M. Burroughs were host and hostess for the evening.

Memorial Books Are Received by Library

Through a memorial established in remembrance of A/C William Winkler, CSTC, 1938-1940, a number of books have been added to CSTC's library. A/C Winkler was killed in an automobile accident at Door Field, Florida, where he was in training.

These books are inscribed with Fuller Patterson's "Fliers' Philosophy": "It is unfortunate that those of us who love life most, the very ones who so keenly seek to live the fullest life possible, must take the long chances that in so many cases cut it short." Among the memorial books are: Cervantes, Don Quixote De La Mancha; Curie, Madame Curie; De Seversky, Victory Through Air Power; De Voto, The Year of Decision, 1846; Forbes, Paul Revere; Shirer, Berlin Diary.

Delzell Reappointed

CSTC's regent, Wilson S. Delzell, was reappointed to membership on the board of normal school regents on Monday, February 5. He has served on the board for approximately six years, having been originally appointed to finish the term of the late George H. Martens in 1939. His new term will expire in February, 1950.

Faculty and students much appreciate the fine work that Mr. Delzell has done for the school and are extremely pleased that he will continue as their regent.

New Students Enroll For Semester's Work

Sixteen new students have enrolled at Central State Teachers college for the second semester. They represent many towns, and a variety of previous occupations.

The complete list as obtained from the registrar's office is as follows: Estelle Behling, Abrams; Lyle Casanova, Stevens Point; Eugene Cholewinski, Stevens Point; Esther Davidson, Stevens Point; Mrs. Frances Glaza, Mellen; Gordon Halverson, Stevens Point; Mrs. Casmira Hansen, Stevens Point; Elmira Junchen, Neilsville; Joseph Kalina, Stevens Point; Alvin Kaziak, Rothschild; Vernon Kesy, Mosinee; Mary Jane Rankin, Milwaukee; Dorothy Jane Soule, Stevens Point; Mrs. Frances Van Dusen, Neenah; Richard Westenberg, Stevens Point; and Elizabeth Stadler, Hatley.

Various Reasons Given

Estelle Behling has been teaching at Rapid River, Michigan, in the third and fourth grades before coming back for a "brush up" course.

After raising a large family, Mrs. Van Dusen has come back to school because she wants to do something profitable in her spare time. She has also taught school before and is a graduate from CSTC 33 years ago.

Mrs. Glaza taught school in Cosby Valley and Coria, both schools being in Wisconsin. Elizabeth Stadler is a transfer student from Rosary College, River Forest, Illinois. She is a second semester freshman.

Prior to attending Central State, Vernon Kesy worked in the chemistry laboratory at the Mosinee paper mill. He is also a former student of the University of Wisconsin.

Joseph Kalina, Eugene Cholewinski and Alvin Kaziak are returned veterans who have been honorably discharged from service.

Initiation Is Held

Dr. G. M. Wessink of Wisconsin Rapids spoke at a meeting of Sigma Zeta on January 17. In his talk, "The Application of Physics in the Paper Industry," he explained laboratory tests used in paper production.

After this talk, formal and informal initiations were held. Roger McCallum and Edward Denk were initiated into membership. Bess Jones was accepted as an associate member. After the initiations a lunch of coffee and donuts was served in the Home Economic parlors.

The committee in charge of initiation was Betty Furstenberg, chairman; Mary Ann Hotvedt and Mary Asebnrener. Hilda Buchholz and Betty Habercorn were in charge of the lunch.

Faculty Women to Sponsor CSTC Valentine Party

All college students are cordially invited to attend the Valentine party to be held on Saturday, February 10, at 8 p.m. The party will be in the "Hall of Hearts", commonly known as the college gym. The party is sponsored by the faculty women, assisted by the social committee.

Committees Chosen

Come looking as well as feeling like a valentine — and that includes anything from a fine lady to a comic bear. If you prefer not to dress up, get into your best party mood and come anyway. The following committees have prepared a wonderful time for all:

Entertainment, Misses Bessie Lavigne, Marie Swallow and Myrtle Spande; decorations, Mrs. Mary Samter, Misses Edna Carlsten, Syble Mason, Leah Diehl and Bessie May Allen; invitations, Misses Gertie Hanson and Mildred Davis; program, Misses Rose Barber and Carolyn Rolfsen; food, Miss Susan Colman and Mrs. Elizabeth Puffner.

Although the Pointer cannot give a detailed account of the party, the following skit prepared by Miss Spande and Miss Lavigne will give you some idea of the fun in store:

Scene: A snowy walk on the CSTC's campus. Two snowbirds, Skip and Hop are gossiping.

Smith Will Lecture At "Talk of the Hour"

Dean E. Smith, a keen American business man, who lived in the Far East for more than a quarter of a century, will speak in the college auditorium Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. He comes as the third speaker in the Talk of the Hour club series.

This native of Wisconsin has chosen for his subject "Burma, China, and the Far East". He had been in the Far East since 1915. Twenty years of this time he spent as manager for the Standard Oil company of Burma. Mr. Smith was in Burma at the time the Japanese began the war of the Far East and was behind the British lines in January, February, and March of 1942.

During the month of April, he was with the Chinese army and retired with the remnants of the British forces into India in May. He then came to the United States in July of 1942. He knows Burma, China, India, the East Indies, Singapore, and Malay intimately.

College students will be admitted to the lecture upon presentation of their activity tickets.

Published weekly except holidays and examination periods, at Stevens Point by students of the Central Wisconsin State Teachers College. Subscription Price $2.00 per year.
Entered as second-class matter May 26, 1927, at the post office at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

A Word On My War

(by Janet Benn)

I have heard no planes overhead nor have I seen homes destroyed and people killed. My impression is more subtle and indirect, but none the less effective for this.

The changes that war has brought have been slow, but I see them clearly about me. The pictures that are shown in the theatres take me for an hour or two to a scene of agony and death which impresses me, but that scene becomes unbelievable when I am once more out in the street laughing and talking. Yet in the back of my mind the scenes continue to live. When I look casually at the papers, strange unpronounceable names greet my eye, and I see pictures of people in Germany and Italy who have been bombed out of their homes. Funny, this gives me no barbaric feeling of joy in their plight—only pity and a sick feeling of helplessness. How stupid all this is! Is there no other way? When a boy is killed it's all over for him, but there are, besides him, at least three people who are hurt. They are the ones who must live with that sorrow.

Behind these brick walls of school, which are old enough to tell us stories of other students who have lived through a war, I feel almost completely isolated, until my eye falls on a poster showing a young boy lying on some impersonal shore far away. Within a minute I see another face on that poster, one that is dear to me. Once more in the middle of apparent joy and carefreeness, a shadow crosses my mind, and for a moment those thoughts I held back so tightly flow freely, only to be caught tightly again as I turn and run laughing down the hall.

War means time. Time that passes too quickly. When I look at myself objectively it appears as though I am standing still, watching life and beauty flee by me only to dissolve and disappear when I reach out my hand to touch them. Is there nothing stable for us to cling to?

Our lives are spent waiting. Everybody's waiting. Girls wait month after month for the letter that tells them that Bill has a fourteen-day furlough. The months leading up to those days are but a blur pointing only toward reunion. When the day arrives, it becomes nothing more than the efforts of two people attempting to live a life-time in two weeks in fear of something that neither will mention. Even as they watch, fourteen days becomes a week, the week becomes a day, the day, hours and minutes; then they are clinging together in a strange crowded station, frightened of something they cannot see. They are not quite sure they understand fully why this must happen to them.

Yes, this war has taken youth away from us. We are young on the outside, but we are becoming older on the inside all the time. We feel incapable of stopping our helpless anger against that which is taking from us all that we feel rightly belongs to us: life, love, and joy. Yes, I know that these are the reasons we're in this conflict—so that these things may be preserved, and so that our children will know no war. I know how we look to staid lookers-on—we seem happy-go-lucky, unconcerned, carefree. But, believe me, we are not.

We will have peace. We can and will build a better world for you, but never shall we be able to erase the dull feeling of loss inside us. The war has come to us a subtle way, but its icy hand has not missed our hearts.

Dorm Diary

by Janet

Your writer scarcely knows where to begin after so long a lapse between Pointer issues. There has been an over-rationing of romance in the air here. As yet there are no coupons needed for that, only the second party.

Mary Lou Hutchins had a grand time seeing Earl Packard, a former aviation student here. And we might add, Earl had a grand time visiting all his friends here at the dorm too. Of course Elvira Lindow really walked on air for a whole weekend, and she had another boost Sunday, when Rudy called her to say "hello". And before these events, Arlene Lloyd had her field day.

That brings us to this week's mystery. . . Who sent that ring to Betty Furstenberg??

The beginning of the second semester has brought us several new dormites. Jean Markee and Elizabeth McLaughlin have moved into the dorm, while Mrs. Mary Frances Van Dusen, Estelle Behling, Elizabeth Stadler, and Mrs. Frances Glaza are new students as well as new dorm occupants. They have been put through the rigors of introductions, and we hope they feel at home now.

This second week into the new semester has also brought a particular favoritism to the mailman. He has been bringing those official looking envelopes holding grades. Needless to say, there have been many surprises.

Sunday's snowstorm brought difficulties as well as fun to the girls.

Khaki Comments

It isn't every soldier who gets shipped to England and then gets put in the movies, but that is just what happened to Pvt. Ronnie Craig. Ronnie and his pals went down to Welwyn Studios in London to spend a morning watching rehearsals for the picture "I Lived In Grosvenor Square," starring Anna Neagle and Dean Jaeger. They needed some extra fellows to fill in for a dancing scene, so Ronnie "corralled a slick-chick" and began to jitterbug.

Miss Neagle's partner couldn't "send her" just right, so after trying several of the dancers the producer asked Ronnie to try it, and he was really "in the groove". He said that it was really hard work. They practiced all morning, and the scene was shot seven times before it was just right.

The dance was one in which the girl is tossed from the left knee to the right knee of her partner, between his legs' and over his head without having her touch the floor till the end of the lift. Miss Neagle weighs about eight or nine stones (one stone equals 14 lbs.) so it was hard, though very enjoyable work, says Ronnie.

"Many thanks for the copy of the Pointer," Eldred Judd, now overseas, said in a recent letter. "I read it over so many times I think I have memorized it."

Leland Malchow, somewhere in England, has accumulated a great deal of material on the English educational system. He would be glad to send some of it over, he declared in a letter received here, to express his thanks for the Pointers that have been sent to him.

Sgt. and Mrs. Earl Siebert, stationed at San Antonio, Texas, recently announced the birth of their baby daughter, Sue Ann, on January 10, 1945. Little Miss Siebert weighs six pounds, six ounces. When Dr. Tolo heard this, he declared, "We beat him by two ounces!" Sgt. Siebert was editor of the Pointer in 1940-41 and his wife, the former Barbara Gerdes, also graduated from CSTC.

Pfc Jay Sweet in debating where to spend a pass thought that Rome would be the best place. He hopes to get in touch with Fred Fink and Bill Nikolai.

PAN-HELL ELECTS

Joyce Rathke was elected president of the Pan-Hellenic council at a meeting held on Friday, February 2. Kathryn Kenney will serve as secretary of the council this semester.

By the way, did you notice how lovely the trees and shrubs were on the campus, or were you too busy following a single track down the side walks? Several of the more ambitious members of Nelson Hall went on a hike out to Iverson Park Sunday afternoon.

The girls were glad to be hostess to so many guests this past weekend. We hope they had a good time, and that they will come again soon. We extend a special invitation to Miss Rose Barber's mother. Mrs. Barber marveled over the change in Nelson Hall from cadet days to co-ed days.

To Receive Members

Dick Olk, Bernice Winn and Kay Hansen will be initiated into the College Theater at a meeting to be held Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium.

The officers of College Theater are: Marjorie Stimm, president; Betty Pohlman, treasurer; Edythe Ofstun, secretary and Roger McCalm, production manager.

Three one-act plays will be presented on the evening of February 21 in the auditorium. These plays were written by students in Mr. Burroughs' creative writing class during the first semester of this year and will be directed by students. Two other student-written plays will be presented at assemblies later in the year. More information about these plays will appear in an early POINTER.

STUDENT OPINION

To Whom It May Concern:

Semester grades were supposed to have been submitted by the 26th of January, yet many students had to wait another week to find out these same grades. Just what justification can be found for sending students' grades to the parents so that the student who worked for those grades must wait a comparatively long period of time before he himself can know what progress he has made? Are college students considered so juvenile that they cannot be trusted with their grades? Within the memory of all college students are old high school days, and grades were not mailed to parents then.

Another matter comes to mind in which there is a lack of consistency. At the end of the first semester, when the majority of students are still here, the college feels itself sufficiently well financed to use a three cent stamped envelope to mail semester grades. At the end of the second semester however, when almost all students have returned to the homes the student is required to leave a stamped envelope at the record office if he wishes his grades.

Can anyone rationalize his way out of this apparent contradiction?

Myrlus Smith Will Lead Rurals
Myrlus Smith was elected president of the Rural Life club for the second semester at a meeting held on Monday evening, February 5, in the Rural assembly. Other officers are vice-president, Arleen Sicklinger; secretary, Doris Johnson; treasurer, Mrs. Emma DeCarter.

A program of music and readings was given by the following people: Doris Johnson, Margaret Scott, Anita Lang, Lois Pearson, Myrlus Smith, Arleen Sicklinger, and Grace Schmidt. These students recently assisted County Superintendent L. D. Culver and Miss Rowena Allen in presenting programs for community educational conferences at the Isherwood community hall and at Junction City.

Grammar Round Table Meets
An enthusiastic group discussed the problem "What Shall We Do With Germany After The War" at a meeting of Grammar Round Table, Monday evening, February 5. Throughout the informal discussion Charles F. Watson and Miss Leah Diehl offered enlightening information on the subject.

The next meeting of this group will be held March 5. The topic for discussion will be announced at a later date.

L.S.A. Plans Radio Program

LSA, under the direction of Reverend C. Russell Johnson, began a study of the Book of Revelations at a meeting held Thursday, February 1, in the girls' recreation room.

Plans were made for a radio program to be given in the near future, and a game of "Bible Lotto" was played.

At the next meeting, February 15, a brief service in preparation for "World Day of Prayer," Sunday, February 18, will be conducted. Each member is asked to bring a small donation for the occasion.

Vacancy Is Filled

Betty Brooks was elected vice-president of Primary Council at a meeting held last Monday evening. Betty fills the vacancy left by Audrey Short, who became president of the Council following the resignation of the former president, Alice Breske. Alice graduated at the end of the first semester, and is now teaching at West Bend.

Y.W.C.A. To Have Party

The members of the YWCA are invited to attend a Valentine party to be held on Thursday evening, February 8, at 7:15 p.m. in the Dorm recreation room. It will be a "Kid's Party" with the members dressed as little boys or girls.

Tau Gams Choose Officers

Joyce Ann Rathke was elected president of Tau Gamma Beta sorority at a meeting held recently at Sims cottage. The following officers were also elected: Nelda Dopp, vice-president; Bess Jones, recording secretary; Kay Hansen, corresponding secretary; Joan Joosten, press representative; Delores Rondeau, historian.

Presiding at the candlelight installation was Lucille Lee Wishlinski, outgoing president. The Jean Mailer scholarship pin was presented to Nelda Dopp by Irene Mork. Helen Lundgren was hostess for the evening.

Oral Reports Given

Bess Jones and Helen Weizorek gave oral reports on the "History of Home Economics" and "Home Economics and Education" at a short meeting of the Home Economics club held on Monday evening, February 5, at 7:30 in the student lounge.

It's great to be here... Have a Coca-Cola

...or helping a soldier feel at home

When he's back on furlough, three words, Have a Coke, bring a soldier's old life back to mind... his days after school or after work, with the gang and with his girl. Ice-cold Coca-Cola holds a friendly place in American life. It should have a place in your family icebox. Wherever Americans go, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become a symbol of our friendly way of life.

Facts Learned About Stained Glass Window

Many students have been wondering for a long time about the significance of the large stained glass window at the end of the corridor on second floor. After much research, it has been learned that this window is a memorial tribute to Miss Alicia De Riemer, faculty member at CSTC from 1900-1903, who died while here. The window was purchased by funds jointly collected from the faculty and the students who were here at this time.

Miss De Riemer taught in CSTC's Geography department. Besides her work in this field, she was also known for her musical talents and abilities. She was a skilled pianist and organist.

The window was first placed in an outside wall on the west side of the building. It has since been moved to the inner west wall of Charles C. Evans' office where everyone can see and appreciate the splendor of this beautiful stained glass memorial window.

Skip: Hop, do you know anything about Valentine parties? I heard some of our CSTC faculty women talking about one for next Saturday night.

Hop: Yes, I heard them, too. They talked about costumes and hearts, but in hushed tones. I understand that a very charming Queen of Hearts will be present with the Knave of Hearts. I wonder who they will be?

Skip: I wonder. They also said that on that night divided hearts shall become as one. Now what could they have meant by that!?

Hop: And did you hear about the "March of Hearts" and "tripping the light fantastic"? I'm sure something unique is being planned.

Skip: If what they say about the refreshments is true, there will be some tasty crumbs for us.

Hop: Yum. Yum! I'm going to take a heart in my beak and go in on a wing and a prayer. Are you coming, Skip?

Skip: It's a date!
