

New Books Added to Winkler Memorial

Three new books have been added to the William L. Winkler Memorial. They are: Origins of the American Revolution by Miller; the Music Lover's Handbook, Siegmeyer, and The Year of Decision, 1848, DeVoto. In each of these books as well as those received earlier, Miss Mildred Davis has inscribed in her beautiful printing, Fuller Patterson's "Fliers' Philosophy": "It is unfortunate that those of us who so keenly seek to live the fullest life possible, must take the long chances that in so many cases cut it short." A handsome book plate depicting a plane in flight has been provided especially for these memorial books.

Among the recent books in this memorial are a beautiful edition of Don Quixote De La Mancha, by Cervantes, with wood engravings by Hans Mueller; Frank's A Man Called Cervantes, the life of the author of "Don Quixote"; Zweig's interesting Mary, Queen of Scotland and the Isles, and Chilton's The Garment of Praise, a book of literary criticism.

Winkler Killed in Training

William L. Winkler, who attended CSTC from 1938-1940, was in training as an Aviation Cadet at Doorfield, Florida. He was killed there in an automobile accident in September, 1942.

The students of CSTC feel that they speak not only for themselves but for future students, when they express their appreciation for these books. Books are truly a living memorial and within the spirit of this gift there is an inspiration to the students as well as a stimulation of literary interest.

Washington Legends Misrepresent Facts

For a hundred and fifty years the fine character of George Washington and his heroic deeds have been the basis for several stories, but many of them are a misrepresentation of the true facts. Although many writers are responsible for placing Washington on a pedestal and causing him to become a frozen image for the Americans to admire, Reverend Mason Weems, a traveling preacher, writer, book-seller and fiddler, is the biographer who can be held largely responsible for many of the Washington legends.

In 1800, he declared: "Washington, you know, is gone! Millions are gaping to read something about him. I am nearly primed and cocked for 'em. Six months ago I set myself to collect anecdotes about him."

The result of his work was a life of George Washington which included the well known tale of the cherry tree, which Parson Weems had altered until it became a story

Radio Workshop Announces Schedule

Better Radio Listening is the goal of CSTC's Radio Workshop. To this end, the Workshop has set up a program schedule that will aid the teacher in the intelligent use of radio in the classroom and encourage worthwhile adult listening. The broadcasts are presented each weekday afternoon at 3:15 over station WLBL during the weeks that CSTC is in session.

On Monday, the Workshop presents "Our College". This is a series of programs planned to describe the activities of the men and women who are students at CSTC. Among the interesting programs promised in this series are musical broadcasts featuring Max Kopchinski and Shirley Haskins. Miss Susan Colman will appear with news of our service men three times during the semester. Leland M. Burroughs will lead in a round table discussion in May and various departments of the college will be reviewed.

On Tuesdays, Frank Kostuck reviews the new books of today in the program entitled "Books and Authors." Jane Miller in "Your Story-time," presents, every Wednesday, delightful stories for children in the primary grades.

The Thursday programs will be given by Alpha Kappa Rho, the honorary music fraternity, for the first nine weeks. This series will be followed by nine weeks of programs featuring members of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity.

Norman E. Knutzen, on Friday broadcasts will give "The Music Album", which is a study of music types and a presentation of the music of the nations.

teaching a moral. Today, Washington's birthday is always associated with the story of little George and the cherry tree and children annually color bright red cherries and cut out paper hatchets.

Although Parson Weems' work is unauthoritative and inaccurate, it was very popular and established the "Father of our Country" as a remote and austere gentleman who spoke in platitudes and was never guilty of the ordinary acts of a common person.

The "unfreezing" of Washington was begun by Washington Irving, with his three volume work on the first president, and today Washington is seen as a red headed man with a white hot temper who had a hearty laugh and a love of the theater. He was a constant sportsman and a fine host as well as a brave and dashing soldier.

His love of adventure is well illustrated by the letter he wrote to his brother after his first battle: "I heard the bullets whistling about me and believe me, there is something charming in the sound." Years later, when he had seen much more war, he explained, "I said that when I was young."

Religious Leaders To Talk at Assembly

Rabbi Joseph Utschen, Reverend Clifford M. Fritz and Reverend Donald Theisen will be the speakers at the general assembly to be held in the auditorium on Thursday morning at 10:05. These three men of separate faiths will lead a discussion on religious tolerance. After their discussions, opportunity will be given for others to participate.

Rabbi Utschen is from the Synagogue Temple B'Nai Israel of Oshkosh, Reverend Fritz is pastor of Saint Paul's Methodist church of Stevens Point, and Reverend Theisen, also of this city, is assistant pastor of Saint Stephen's Catholic church.

This program is presented under the auspices of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Students, as well as the general public, are invited to attend this assembly.

Two CSTC Graduates Will Be Ordained

Two graduates of CSTC, Gilbert Halverson and Clarence Solberg, will be ordained into the ministry of the Lutheran church next Sunday evening, February 25, at 8 p.m., at the First English Lutheran church in Stevens Point.

Both men graduated from Luther Theological Seminary of St. Paul, Minnesota, last January. As is customary and traditional in the Lutheran church, the solemn service of ordination will be held in the home church of the ordained. Candidate Halverson's home is in Stevens Point and Candidate Solberg is from Iola.

The two men graduated from CSTC in 1942. While here they were prominent members of the Lutheran Students association. Dr. T. F. Gulikson, president of Luther Theological Seminary and vice-president of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, will perform the ceremony of ordination.

Music Clinic Has Large Attendance

A fine representative group of 157 band students and 36 band masters from surrounding high schools met at CSTC on Saturday, February 17 for a music clinic which was under the direction of Peter J. Michelsen.

The musicians met from 10 to 12 o'clock in the morning for sectional rehearsals. At 1:30 the sections assembled in the college auditorium where, as a mass band, they played the numbers which will be used in the spring music tournament. After a successful day, the clinic came to a close at 5:30.

Among the guests who attended were T. Lane Ward, Madison, editor of The Wisconsin School Musician magazine and Theo. Mesang, Ashland, president of the Wisconsin School Music Association, Inc. Other guests were the superintendents and principals of the schools attending the clinic.

Original Plays Will Be Student Directed

College Theater will present three original one-act plays on Wednesday evening, February 28, in the auditorium. These plays were written by students in Leland M. Burroughs' advanced writing class and will be entirely student directed.

"Dorm Daze", an original play written by Elvina Lindow which describes an incident which could happen at any dormitory, will have the following cast: Mildred Ross as Joyce; Pat Thorpe as Daffy; Eunice Goeler as Mary; Phyllis Harrington as Chris; and Delores Jelinek as Joan. This play is being directed by Bernice Winn.

Betty Pohlman is directing "The Youngest" which was written by Marjorie Stimm and is based on the part war plays in the life of an average family. For her cast, she has selected Esther Davidson to play the part of Mrs. Shelley, Joe Kalina as Jim, Betty Rankin as Becky, and Dick Westenberger as Dick.

"Green But Growing", the story of a freshman girl who is working her way through college, will be directed by Edythe Ofstun. The cast is as follows: Jean Markee, Janet; Max Kopchinski, Mr. Bodeen; Arleen Sicklinger, Martha; Doris Johnson, Mrs. Bodeen; Bill Mellin, Bob; and Roland Schlander as Jim. The playwright is Gerry Walters.

Students will be admitted to these plays upon presentation of their activity tickets. College Theater will present two more of these plays at assemblies in the near future. They will be directed by Kay Hansen and Gert Heike.

Dr. Jayne Accepts Position in Wyoming

Dr. Clarence Jayne, former member of the faculty at Central State Teachers college, will assume the duties of principal of the University Elementary school at the University of Wyoming next fall. He will have the rank of associate professor.

Dr. Jayne resigned his position at CSTC last fall to accept a position in the west, where, it was hoped, the climate would prove beneficial to Mrs. Jayne's health. The Jaynes located at Amache, Colorado, where Dr. Jayne has been teaching Japanese-Americans in a camp near there.

The University of Wyoming is the only teacher training institute in that state. It is located in the town of Laramie, a town about the size of Stevens Point, which has an elevation of over 7000 feet. Before the war, the university had over 2200 students.

NOTICE

The Wasserman Test is offered at the Student Health Service between 10-11 o'clock every school day the remainder of the session. This test will be done as regular health work and without charge to the student.

Dorm Diary

by Janet

Valentine's Day brought varied events to Nelson Hall. As usual the postman was the most popular man around. Look at that big white satin pillow he brought Lucille Vaughan and that box of candy, too.

Wednesday also meant a combination birthday and Valentine party for the Dormites. Supper was served buffet style from tables decorated in the Valentine spirit. A large red cupid was the center of interest on the serving table. Red streamers and white candles completed the decorative scheme. Red roses and white candles placed before the mirrors added extra color and charm.

The birthday table was set for seven with Dr. and Mrs. Warren Jenkins as the guests of honor. Bess Jones, Mrs. Theresa Higgins, Lorraine Peters and Kathryn Kenney were those who celebrated February birthdays.

At the February house held Monday evening, President Geraldine Walters announced the names of the newly appointed floor managers: Third floor, Lucille Dunn, Edythe Ofstun; second floor, Frances Glaza, Doris Johnson; first floor, Arleen Sicklinger. The Dormites elected Jane Miller as firechief to replace Mary Murphy, who did not return to CSTC for the second semester.

Sgt. John Clements, in Oahu, one of the Hawaiian Island group, declares in a recent letter: "Now I'm on the island of Oahu, down here where you hear so much talk about the beautiful women and grass skirts. As yet I've not seen what you might call beautiful women, but I imagine they will get that way 'as time goes on!'"

Lt. (j.g.) Robert Malecki, "Bob" to his friends here, is in the Philippines. He reports: "We went to a native dance and they danced the same as we do. The hit of the evening was 'You Are My Sunshine'. It was an enjoyable evening. When we left the island, it seemed like the end of a Fitzpatrick travelogue."

Many students will remember Jean Meydam who is now a private in the WAC. She is studying physical therapy and is stationed in Denver. She states: "The patients are good sports. Sometimes their morale is way above ours."

PFC Eldred Judd, who is now in Burma, comments on receiving a recent issue of the Pointer. He says, "I was surprised at what most of the students wanted for Christmas. There is only one thing the fellows want over here and that's for the war to end."

Pvt. Olingey Visits Paris

PFC LaVerne Olingey in France brings in some interesting sidelights on his visit to Paris. "We have had occasion to visit Paris and it came way beyond my expectations. It is a very beautiful place. We rode on the metro, which surpasses even the New York subway system. You can get anywhere in Paris in very short order by the metro. I'm hoping to be able to see Katherine Cornell and Brian Aherne in person in The Barrets of Wimpole Street, which is now playing at one of the downtown theaters."

EXCHANGES

The February 6 issue of the Exponent from Platteville State Teachers college carries the story of an industrious patriotic janitress there who answered the demand for waste paper when others had given up. When little attention was paid to baling and storing the paper which was collected, she took upon herself the job of baling it herself. She saw that the paper was turned in by loading 500 pounds of it into her own car and taking it to the junkshop.

It was reported on the January 24 issue of the Echo Weekly from Milwaukee State Teachers college that the national "Go to School" movement was getting a few results, even from a member of the bird family. An industrious pigeon sauntered into the Harmony class and after showing approval of the class in progress, staged a flying exhibition about the room. Since the bird refused to leave at close of class, he was forcibly removed by two of the students.

The following are two items of interest from the "This and That" column of the Racquet, the La Crosse State Teachers college newspaper for February 5: "Oh Lord, please give me the strength to do my homework every night and if Thou cannot, give me the strength not to worry about it"..... "Lives of seniors all remind us, We should strive to do our best, And in parting leave behind us, Notebooks that will help the rest."

The December 11 issue of the Royal Purple, published by the Whitewater State Teachers college, carries a feature on the history of CSTC. It is an interesting article containing stories of class rivalry of years ago and shows several pictures of the school and campus.

Sgt. Duecker, four times decorated for "courage and skill in aerial combat", holds the Air Medal and three Oak Leaf Clusters to the Air Medal. During the course of operations, Sgt. Duecker has spent more than 150 hours at an altitude in excess of four miles, where a minute without oxygen would result in loss of life. He has often flown in temperatures which sometimes fall to 50 degrees below zero against targets which were defended by more than 400 heavy flak guns.

Sgt. Alvin Price, technician fourth grade, had a grand visit with Pete Terzynski at McKloskey General Hospital at Temple, Texas, where Pete is a patient and Sgt. Price is in the personnel department. Pete had his foot amputated last fall and is now having further treatment. Sgt. Price, who is an alumnus of CSTC, was home on furlough recently and visited the college.

SIGMA ZETA WILL MEET

Charles C. Evans will speak on the subject of tropical diseases at a meeting of Sigma Zeta on Wednesday evening, February 21, in room 216. All members are invited to attend.

Lt. Spindler Writes Interesting Letter

Lt. Dearborn Spindler, somewhere in Southern France, recently wrote an extremely interesting letter describing his experiences there to his mother, Mrs. Frank N. Spindler. Lt. Spindler's father taught at CSTC from 1901 until the time of his death in 1935 and Lt. Spindler is a graduate of CSTC.

The Pointer takes great pleasure in printing part of Lt. Spindler's letter. He says, "Southern France is different than the States, but still not so different as I thought it might be. The biggest difference is just that the land, the trees, lawns, houses and people, even, seem older, mellowed, cultivated as compared to our country. I liked it and appreciate the fine things that this older culture has to offer, but I like the freshness and vitality of our land and its people. There are just as many things that they can copy from us as we from them, perhaps more.

"We stayed out of town in the chateau of a countess. It alone was an experience that I could not have, most probably, in peacetime. The place was luxurious, even now, and most of the original furnishings and decorations were left. There were huge oil paintings, marble statues, ornate glass chandeliers and wrought iron filigree everywhere one looked.

"The stables, now the messhall, were almost as large and well-built as the house of the countess itself. The only difference seemed to be the substitution of regular globes for chandeliers and portraits of horses instead of people. The family crypt and chapel were on the grounds, a most beautiful thing it was too. The estate included a forest of beautiful 'umbrella' pines, numerous pools, a stream and a small mountain.

"The countess owns several other chateaux much like this one. She lives in a small house nearby and has offered the use of her places to the army. Her husband and son are both dead."

STUDENT OPINION

To Whom It May Concern:

President Hansen misconstrues "A Student's Criticism." "A Student" feels he speaks for the majority of CSTC students when he says that he is more than pleased to have grade slips sent to the parents.

The main objection to the system now prevailing is the time it takes for students to receive their grades after they have been mailed home. The instructor, the office, the parents and the high school principal all are informed in advance of the student. "A Student" maintains that all students are entitled to know their grades as soon as possible. It is hard to see anything wrong in this.

The president suggests that the student ask his instructor for his grades. In the past, many instructors have refused to reveal this information. The office also refuses to reveal grades to students. Why couldn't an extra copy of grades be given or mailed directly to the student, or, failing that, make the information available at the record office?

Dangers Lurk About "Fountain of Youth"

By Paul Pasternacki

The act of drinking is undoubtedly one of the simplest in the every day humdrum life of a CSTC student. One just opens one's mouth and lets whatever liquid it is slide down his or her gullet. If one is lucky the liquid is Scotch, but we won't go into that here as this article is on CSTC drinking fountains.

With this devilishly clever type of drinking fountain one requires no cups or glasses, thus avoiding all possible danger of germ carrying. The danger of drowning we'll go into later.

Many students, unaware of the dangers that lurk around this "fountain of youth", are very apt to suffer painful surprises, to say nothing of untold agony and ending up in a watery grave, if they are not fully acquainted with its rather complicated mechanism. Therefore, it is the purpose of this article to show our many friends how to handle these contraptions in three distinct ways.

The first method is acceptable but is not recommended. Here it is: Approach the fountain, and bending over at an angle of 45 degrees, press the lever gently. When the stream of cool, refreshing water strikes you in the eye and cascades down your face and collar, take a handkerchief and wipe off the liquid. NOTE: It is advisable for beginners to carry a bath towel.

This second method is acceptable but also is not recommended: Approach the fountain guardedly, clasp the lever firmly in one hand, but before pressing it, bend over and place the mouth over the end of the faucet. After the mouth is closed tightly over the faucet, press the lever. This will cause compression which will, in turn, cause the water to gush out of the ears, which will, in turn, cause a bad case of seasickness to develop.

The third method is acceptable but is not recommended. Here it is: If you have a friend, and by this time you certainly need one who possesses a diver's helmet, by all means borrow it. Also purchase a good serviceable raincoat, don said garment, and with fire in both eyes, approach the fountain determinedly and press the lever. Results of this method have not as yet been tabulated and are therefore inconclusive.

You could also go outside and pray for rain. This method is recommended.

Rurals Enjoy Program

Ramona Rozek and Jane Little were in charge of a program presented at a meeting of Rural Life club in the Student Lounge last Monday evening. Dorothy Below sang a group of three songs, Ramona gave a reading, Kathryn Phillips played a piano solo, Arleen Sicklinger directed a quiz on slogans and Anita Lang, Eileen Keller and Kathryn Phillips presented a play. The meeting ended with community singing. The club also made plans for an all-school party which it will sponsor on the evening of Saturday, April 7.

Valentine Party is Held

Gamma Deltans were entertained on February 15 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ross in Plover. In keeping with the valentine spirit, partners were chosen and "Hearts" was played, after which a buffet luncheon was served. The next meeting will be held on March 1 in the St. Paul's Lutheran church parlors.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICER

Pat Nelson was elected vice-president of Student Council at a meeting held last Monday evening. Pat fills the vacancy left by Rose Marie Howes, who is now teaching at Tomahawk.

The council discussed action to be taken to fill the vacancies left by former council members, Rose Marie Howes, Irene Mork, who is teaching at Reedsburg, Helen Braatz, who is teaching at Neenah, and Bob Cashin, who has joined the U. S. Navy. This matter will be definitely decided at the next meeting.

The Council also announced that the sale of War Stamps will be resumed next week Tuesday, February 27. War Stamps will be sold every Tuesday from the second floor booth.

Honorary Societies Are Explained

Most students are probably aware that there are three honorary societies active at CSTC, but some of them may have wondered what these societies stand for and what requirements of membership are. Sigma Tau Delta, Alpha Kappa Rho, and Sigma Zeta are the honorary fraternities.

Psi Beta is the chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity, established at CSTC. Every member in this organization is a junior or senior who has completed at least 15 hours of English and has earned a two point average in this field. He must have a good scholastic standing, good character, and a capacity to fill the needs of the organization. Then, too, he must show outstanding ability in literary criticism and creative writing.

Alpha Kappa Rho, honorary music fraternity, is open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors having a one point five scholastic average including music. A member must belong to one music organization and must have a semester's credit in directing. He should be a leader in the music department and have passed the test given by the faculty advisor.

Sigma Zeta, national honorary science fraternity, has a chapter, Zeta. Juniors and seniors who are majoring in science and mathematics

Students' Literary Ability Is Honored

Three members of Sigma Tau Delta were honored by having some of their original poems published in the Rectangle, the official magazine of the national honorary English fraternity. The selections are "Optimist" by Dorothy Davids, "Relativity", "The Rude Guest", and "With the Wind" by Florence Flugaur, and "I Have Always Loved the Sky," by Janet Good.

The Rectangle is made up of material selected from Sigma Tau Delta chapters all over the United States, and is published three times a year. It is with pleasure that the POINTER reprints the poem, "I Have Always Loved the Sky," by Janet Good.

"I have always loved the sky at night—
The myriads of lights that sparkled,
And told of far, mysterious worlds;
"I have built cities from the white clouds during the day;

and have a two point average in this field and a two point average in other subjects are eligible. Also, a member must have completed 12 hours in these fields.

I have followed the bird patterns,
And watched the soft butterflies
bounce in the wind;
I have blown soap bubbles to see them
Dance merrily away
And twinkle into a thousand sparkles.

"I have traced the course of a falling leaf,
And when it had touched the ground, left it
To follow another.

"So why should I not give my heart to one
Who also loved the sky?"

"His silver wings were strong,
And cut clean lines through the clouds;
But, they were not strong enough,
For like a wounded bird,
They also crumpled,
And like the dancing bubbles,
They too shattered....

"I did not linger long
With the wreckage upon the ground,
But lifted my eyes
To follow his gallant heart,
Which had already found its place
In a world beyond the stars."
