Under The Rug

Well, the exam schedules are out! One nice thing about them is that they always appear early enough to give us a head start. Just about a month left this time.

We've heard that Mr. Michelsen's house was filled to overflowing with band alums last weekend Anyway all the girls drifted over there in search of ties to wear with their uniforms, and we're sure the Prof didn't have that many himself!

Of course you've seen all the loungees on the campus these last few days. They certainly look carefree and blissful and happy. Have you seen the Millie Ross-Steve Speidel two-some strolling arm in arm? If you're behind recent developments you'll be interested to know that they have become engaged, by gum!

All the lovely weather may be outside, but Rene LaMaide seems to bring a lot in with her; it's her glowing expression, have you no-ticed? We caught Miss Barber digging in the Dorm lawn the other hep ideas. If you urge the brains day. Her reason? Transplanting the shrubbery.

If you read bulletin boards you'll have noticed that very shortly the Men's Glee club will give a concert in the auditorium here. On the side we've been told that the boys could use any stray tuxedos any male might have around school; the tall fellows (40, long) have been having quite a time getting something to fit, so if anyone can accomodate them by all means see Mr. Knutzen.

Attend Convention

Bess Jones, Betty June Maki, Kathryn Peterson, Betty Haberkorn Frances Kutchenriter, accomand panied by Miss Bessie May Allen, were CSTC representatives at a convention of the Wisconsin Home Economics College clubs in Madison last Saturday.

The convention opened at 8:30 o'clock on Saturday morning with a group of panel discussions on the following topics: "Making Your Home Ec Club Outstanding", "Keep-ing Your Membership and Raising Finance" and "Planning Interesting Meetings". A 12:30 luncheon was served in the Madison Room at the Memorial Union.

The afternoon meeting consisted of a series of talks on various careers in the field of Home Economics. This was followed by a tea at the Home Management House and a tour of the University campus.

One night last week, a bright flare suddenly appeared behind the Dorm. After the flurry of excite-ment, Marie Eisenhammer ran bravely out and tramped out the fire. Fooey, said the gals on third, who relish all sorts of excitement.

Perhaps some of you knew Eileen Kobs, an alum of CSTC, who died two weeks ago. We were sorry to hear of her death, for we remember her as a bright spot in college life.

Class Tree Planting Project Is Enjoyed

Students enrolled in conservation and forestry courses have been engaged in planting trees this spring as a reforestation project. The Forestry and Conservation Departments have combined their efforts and have set their goal at 25,000 trees. At the rate the trees are being planted, this goal should be reached by the end of the week.

The Boston forest, covering 20 acres, has been finished and a new one, situated four miles west of Plover, has been started. This one covers 120 acres.

Students who are doing this work are getting exeprience in both hand and machine planting.

How to recognize the wild flowers, which ones are not to be picked, and the correct way to pick flowers are topics on which the fourth graders are working. They have planted tomato seeds and flax and are anxiously watching their growth.

"Books We Like, and Poems We Wrote" is an interesting publication of the fourth grade. It contains short book reports, and original poems inspired by the season. Every youngster has contributed something to the project.

By fall educators expect at least 750,000 ex-G.I.'s to be enrolled in colleges and universities throughout the United States. Some of the state universities are already overcrowded. So far 41% of all back-to-school G.I.'s have packed into 38 schools, Dorothy Radtke, Aletha Westfahl largely ignoring 712 other fully accredited colleges.

Last month the University of Michigan reported an enrollment of 13,714, the largest in its 109 year history. Ohio State and Purdue have already begun to turn down out-of-state applicants. The Ameri-can Council on Education estimates that September over-all registration will be 25 per cent above the peak figure of 1,400,000 reached in 1939-40

If that computation will apply to enrollment at CSTC, we may expect 1490 students next fall, for our total enrollment in 1939-40 was 1192, including a college enrollment of 826 and 366 night school, special and post graduate students.

Ex-G.I. students are welcome on our campus because they are general-Dr. Trytten to Speak ly a serious lot, more mature, more seasoned, and better stimulated by a greater ambition to excel in their work than the average student.
