CSTC Music Department Hosts to High School Band Clinic

To Demonstrate Band Festival Selections

Peter J. Michelsen and members of the Central State Teachers college band will act as hosts at the annual high school band clinic to be held in the college auditorium this Saturday, March 1.

From the 22 high schools, which are to be represented by band masters and students, a band of approximately 80 members is expected to assemble. All-state festival numbers in class A, B, C and D to be played by the group on Saturday will also be played later on in the season by all of the high schools in the state.

Guest conductors of the some 60 to 75 band masters expected to be present will include K. R. N. Grill, Wausau, Walter B. Wright, New London, Arnold Jendrick, Sparta, and Frederick Parfrey, Beaver Dam.

The high schools to be represented at the clinic are Winneconne, Waupaca, Weyauwega, Scandinavia, Boulder, Wild Rose, Wausau, Phillips, Nekooza, Clintonville, Wisconsin Rapids, New London, Grantsburg, Beaver Dam, Tomahawk, Wautoma, Abbotsford, Colby, Sparta, Marshfield, Valders and Minocqua.

All college students, faculty members and the public are invited to listen to the performance.

More CSTC Graduates Get Teaching Positions

Several graduates from CSTC have been placed in teaching positions recently. They include Harry Jones, who will be assistant principal and sixth grade teacher in a Wausau elementary school, Stanley Hanish, who will teach sixth grade in an elementary school in Beloit, and Rolla Shufelt, who has accepted a position as fifth grade teacher also in Beloit.

Raymond Parkinson has signed a contract to teach in the Special Education Department at Appleton. Richard Olk substituted in Mosinee on February 19, 20 and 21 and arrangements are being made for his filling out the year teaching social studies and English in Cuba City.

The Wm. Carnahans Are Parents of a Son

Of special interest to those who know William Carnahan, a 1946 graduate of Central State Teachers college, is the news that a son, Mitchell Andrew, was born February 13 at Milwaukee to Bill and his wife, the former Betty Ascher of Stevens Point.

While a student at Central State, Bill majored in general science and minored in U. S. history and mathematics. He was active in many extracurricular activities, especially athletics—both basketball and football, being captain of the latter team during his senior year. A member of Phi Sigma Epsilon, Bill served as president of the Greek fraternity both his junior and senior years. He also served on the POINTER and IRIS staff during his junior year. Bill is now teaching at Dorchester.

Concert Piano Is Gift From Wealthy Alum

One of the most interesting pages found in the history of CSTC is the story of the grand concert piano found in front of the stage in the main auditorium, and the tale of the person who donated it.

The money for the piano was given to the college in 1933 by the internationally famous Mrs. James Corrigan, wife of the Cleveland steel magnate and multi-millionaire.

Formerly Local Resident

Mrs. Corrigan was a girlhood resident of Stevens Point. Laura Mae Whitrock, as she was known as a girl, went to school here, attending CSTC when it was called the Normal school. After graduation she taught in this vicinity and then went to Chicago with the intention of doing clerical work. She finally became a journalist for a high school publication in that city.

After her marriage to Mr. Corrigan, she resided in Cleveland and New York, and eventually London. There she occupied a large mansion among the aristocracy, and maintained a complete staff of household employees. Even after her husband died, she did not return to this country but continued to dine and entertain the English nobility. While in England she was presented to Queen Mary, mother of the present king of England.

Remembered Her Home Town

Yet, despite her wealth, fame and fortune, Laura Corrigan did not forget her home town. She did everything possible for the welfare of her parents—Mr. and Mrs. Parker, who lived here all their lives. Her list of contributions to the city and community are vast. She built and furnished a home at 731 Main St. for her parents, she donated the money for the Goerke Park field house and when her parents died she did everything possible to honor them and perpetuate their memory. Mrs. Corrigan gave thousands of dollars to Stevens Point for charity and religion.

Presented CSTC With Money

To show appreciation to her alma mater, and pay a tribute to her parents, she gave a gift of $1,000 to the Normal school, to be used for any needed equipment. At that time the school was badly in need of a concert piano, so the money went for that purpose.

In London at Present

Mrs. Corrigan never returned to Stevens Point after she felt she had done all she could to honor her parents and community. At the present time she is in London. During the recent war, she sold her jewels, sables and finery to help with charity work in Paris and Vichy, France. She was looked upon as a goddess in the eyes of the American and French soldiers in hospitals and concentration camps. In London she established the "Wings Club" which proved to be a haven of refuge and rest for allied airmen. The club was commonly known as "Flyers Utopia", and undoubtedly many a GI from Stevens Point found shelter there, not realizing the manager was from their own town.

Though Laura Mae Corrigan may never return to Stevens Point, the piano in the auditorium will stand as a symbol of the charitable heart of a well-known woman, and every beautiful melody emerging from the ivory keys will continue to be a tribute to the unforgettable Mrs. Corrigan.

School Heads Here to Interview Candidates

Several superintendents, in addition to those named in last week's Pointer, have visited CSTC recently looking for prospective teachers. Interviewing candidates were Supt. V. F. Dawald from Beloit and Principal Roy Everill from Lincoln Junior High school, also in Beloit.

From Appleton came Supt. L. C. Mann and Miss Martha Sorenson, grade supervisor. Supt. A. B. Rothwell and Assistant Superintendent Leslie Johnson from Superior, Supt. Gilbert Bannerman and Miss Martha W. Mattson from Wausau and Albert Moldenhauer from Mosinee also interviewed candidates here. Among others expected soon is Mr. Layde from West De Pere.

Plans Completed for 1947 Summer Session

President William C. Hansen wishes to announce that the 1947 summer school term at CSTC has now been set. It will be a six weeks session opening on June 16.

There is also another summer session of interest to many Wisconsin students, namely the Trees for Tomorrow Conservation Camp sponsored by the Wisconsin State Teachers colleges.

The Camp is held at Eagle River, Wisconsin, in cooperation with the U. S. Forest Service and the Wisconsin Conservation department. The five weeks session, June 23 to July 26, marks the reopening of the camp, which was closed during 1943, 1944 and 1945 because of the war.

The buildings are owned by the U. S. Forest Service but they are operated and managed by Trees for Tomorrow, Inc. There are two dormitories with a capacity of 21 students each, an administration building with classrooms and offices, a large dining hall and two garages with shower facilities in connection.

In addition, there is also opportunity for parking camp trailers if some students would like to bring their families. President Hansen, who is in charge of applications because of his being located near the camp, states that reservations to date have completely filled the girls' dormitory, but there is room for five or six more men in the men's dormitory.

The instructional program at this summer camp is under the direction of the State Teachers colleges of Wisconsin which also supply the staff, equipment, text and reference books. Among the subjects offered will be elementary botany, zoology, nature study, conservation, outdoor sketching, nature recreation and related courses.

CSTC has been represented in the camp faculty by Arol C. Epple, who was science instructor there last summer, and by Dr. Edgar F. Pierson who taught biological science there in 1941 and 1942.

NOTICE

Students who expect to attend the 1947 summer session at CSTC and who would like or need certain courses in mathematics or physics, please report such preferences to Dr. Arthur S. Lyness here Friday, Feb. 28. The summer session schedule of classes is almost completed.

Pointer Editor Away Due to Ear Operation

This issue of the Pointer comes to you without the guiding hand of Editor Mary Juetten. Mary was confined to St. Michael's hospital last Saturday and underwent an operation on her ear Monday morning. Art Swenson occupied the editor's desk Monday night in Mary's absence.

Pointer Financing Is No Easy Task

How many students know how their weekly college paper is financed for publication? Many ask whether it is a money-making project or whether the funds come from the student activity fund. To clarify and answer some of the above questions, the Pointer has made a special effort to give its readers the financial facts of publication.

According to Betty June Maki, business manager and her advertising and business staff, much work towards the financing of the Pointer is done behind the scenes each week.

Activity Fees Contributed

Approximately one-half of the total printing costs per week (which amounts to approximately $73.00 for 1100 copies) is paid by the student activity fund and special subscriptions. One dollar per semester is taken from each student's activity fee for this publication.

Most Ads Are Local

The remaining half of the cost must be covered by advertisements from local concerns and the Milwaukee Coca Cola Bottling company. Each week it is the duty of the staff to solicit, collect, arrange and proof-read the ads that are to appear in the Pointer for that week. These ads are sold by the column inch, as they are in other publications.

After proper arrangement they must go along with the other Pointer copy to Worzalla's Publishing company on Tuesday. When the Pointer is ready for public distribution on Thursday morning the work of the business and advertising staff is far from complete. The group must begin anew to solicit ads for the coming week's paper.

Upkeep Costs Money, Too!

With the new and larger Pointer this year, publication costs have risen and must be covered. Besides the printing costs, there are incidental fees for the upkeep of the Pointer office, typewriters and equipment.

Business firms that advertise in the Pointer should receive patronage and grateful thanks from the readers of the college newspaper, as it is through their loyal support that the publication survives.

Co-Eds' Purses Contain Everything but Money

Pointer Sleuth Garners Vital Information

To quote from Webster, Purses (purs) n. A small bag or pouch, esp. to carry money in.

There it is, clearly and concisely stated, but Webster would spin in his grave if he could see the oversize descendants of the "hanky-and-smelling-salts" type. By unobtrusive but careful observation, (aided considerably by a judicious jostling and elbow-swinging in crowded booths) and delicately placed queries, this reporter has learned a great deal about women's purses—at least the purses found under the arms of CSTC co-eds.

A question, somewhat similar to the old saw about "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?", has been raised about this purse situation. The debate rages on as to whether the purses are being made larger to contain an increasing number of items, or whether girls are finding more items to prevent their purses from presenting that "de-lated" look. The argument will not be settled by a single story, but perhaps the results of this writer's research will enable the reader to form an opinion on this vital question.

Several Standard Items

There appear to be certain standard, or "stock", items which scatter from every self-respecting purse when dropped. A compact, comb, lipstick, handkerchief, billfold (fill-

CSTC Debaters Profit By Eau Claire Trip

CSTC was represented in a sectional debate tournament at Eau Claire State Teachers college on Friday and Saturday. Four teams journeyed there by bus, spending Friday night at the Hotel Eau Claire and returning on Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

The teams won five debates, losing 15. The trip was a success, however, because of the amount of experience which was gained. The teams were Byron Crowns and Jack Zichlke, William Golomski and Ed Przybyski, Dorothy Olson and Marne Guth, and Betty Richardson and Dolores Jelinek. Crowns also took part in an after-dinner speaking contest and Doris Ockerlander in an oratorical contest.

Forty-six schools were represented at the contest. River Falls and Beloit were all around debate winners. On Friday evening, dinner was served to all schools, as was lunch on Saturday noon. Entertainment included a dance to a seven piece orchestra in the Eau Claire gymnasium.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland M. Burroughs accompanied the teams. At least two teams will be entered in a tournament at St. Thomas college in St. Paul, Minnesota, on March 15.

Education Course Presented at Rapids

Open to all persons interested in an extension course, "Philosophy of Education", which is being presented by Dr. Raymond E. Gothan, director of the Training school. The course was begun February 18 and will continue for 16 weeks. It is being held in the County Normal school of Wisconsin Rapids.

Twenty-five teachers from the Wisconsin Rapids area are attending the classes. Included in these 25 are persons from Port Edwards, Nekooza, Adams-Friendship, Marshfield and the surrounding vicinity. The course is well worth while and new applicants are welcome.

ed usually with pictures, old and new activity tickets, small bits of paper with what appear to be Sanskrit comments on them, addresses, memos of various types, clippings and perhaps a few odd coins), and a mirror seem to form the nucleus of an average purse's contents. From here on in, the choice of items is up to the individual, and only a casual treatment of the various combinations will be possible.

"Belles-lettres" too

Nail files, glasses and emery boards enjoy widespread favor, as do small tissues for the blotting of lipstick. Letters seem to be carried about in large numbers, but no decision has been reached as to whether they are used to supply accurate quotes for the "girls' as to what 'he' said, or whether they replace the lipstick tissues missing in some purses. Perhaps they serve a dual purpose. Bottles of nail-polish are occasionally tucked in, for a quick touch-up job, no doubt. Stray bobby-pins, and an occasionally safety pin may often be found lurking in the dim, seldom disturbed corners, as can half-sticks of gum, and venerable and moldy aspirins.

Smokers Have Troubles

The purse of a smoker presents a problem to the carrier. Unless an efficient type of case is in use, the lower regions of the purse become thickly layered with tobacco, which creates a unique but annoying situation.

Basketball Profiles

Warner Christian

One of CSTC's fine athletes is Warner Christian. Christy, as he is known, hails from Wausau where he started his basketball career. Upon graduation in '42, Christian served a three and one half year stretch in the Navy and enrolled in CSTC last fall. Hockey and baseball are his favorite sports when the basketball season is over. As for the game at Whitewater, "We should beat 'em", Christy says, and that's the way everyone feels.

William Ludwig

William (Moose) Ludwig, another ex-navy man, comes from Eagle River. Although Bill has had trouble with fouls, he has taken care of his center position nicely. Hunting, skating and skiing are the "Moose's" favorite outdoor sports. To anyone who cares to listen to exciting tales, Bill may be tempted to tell the one about his single handed fight with a wounded deer when his rifle jammed during last year's hunting season.

George Emmerich

George (Fuzzy) Emmerich played abksetball for Mosinee before coming to CSTC. His present interest, interest lies in conservation, the field in which he plans to major. For a pastime, when he isn't playing basketball, George chooses hunting and fishing.

Darl Marvin

One of the youngest men on the squad is Darl Marvin, a former Rapids player. Marvin is taking a pre-engineering course her at CSTC and plans to finish his studies at the University of Wisconsin.

Leonard Rhode

Leonard Rhode entered college at Oshkosh in pre-war days. After spending three years in the Army he came to CSTC as a junior and plans to major in conservation. Rhode comes from Marion, where he played high school basketball until graduating in 1940.

The Fifth Quarter

The Pointers will play the final game of the season on Friday against the Whitewater peds. The game will be played at Whitewater.

As the basketball season draws to a close the officiating seems to get better. Bud Lowell and E. J. Schneider sure did a bang up job on Saturday night.

The College League really let the pins fly last Wednesday night. High individual games turned in were Knope-212, Lewis-211, Capacasa-210, Minton-207, Berdan-202, Link-200, and Negard-200.

Though no one around here has officially seen a robin yet, Coach Berg is already outlining a spring program which will take in track, golf and tennis. The program will be announced soon.

Now is a good time to be considering soft ball. With the huge male enrollment at present there is no reason why a soft ball league can't be organized. For the immediate future, volleyball, ping pong and numerous basketball contests are being scheduled, so get out there and give them your full support.

Vets Hold Lead In Cage League

V-5's	3	3	.500
Chi Delts	3	3	.500
Rural Life	2	4	.250
Knotheads	2	4	.250

In games played last week Wednesday Ray Blaskey's "Vets" edged out the Chi Delts 34-32 to maintain first place in the league. The Knotheads eked out a 34-33 win from Price county while Morgan Manors delivered a decisive 40-35 defeat to the Rural Life quintet. The V-5's, though remaining idle, won also by virtue of a forfeiture.

Coach Berg Announces Intramural Sports Plan

Coach Berg has announced the beginning of intramurals in the following sports: Volleyball, table tennis and free throws. Volleyball will consist of an eight team league with each team allowed eight men.

The table tennis and free throw tournaments will be conducted on an elimination basis. So all men who like some lively competition in an interesting sport are urged to sign up now. A list has been posted on the basement floor outside Coach Berg's room.

Paced by Link's 509 series, Moxon House swept a three-game series from the front-running Poor House Pros to take undisputed possession of second place.

Roberts and Lee were the main cogs in the Chi Delts' two out of three victory over the Umbrigos. This puts the Chi Delts in a tie with them for third place.

Lewis Hits 565 Series

The biggest series of the season was turned in by the Continental Clothiers as they defeated the Phi Sigs three in a row. Lewis rolled a torrid 565 series and Knope rolled 537, while the team had games of 843, 813 and 722 for a 2428 series.

In the fourth set of games rolled last week, Pitt's won three games from the Faculty with Capacasa's 530 series leading the scoring.

Numerous High Games
The quality of bowling was excellent last week with several fine scores being recorded. Among the high series were Lewis-565, Knope-537, Capacasa-530, Negard-512, Link-509, Roberts-508, Sengstock-506, and Lee-500.

High individual games included Knope-212, Lewis-211, Capacasa-210, Minton-207, Berdan-202, Link-200 and Negard-200.

Pioneers Sharpshooting Too Much for Local Cagers In Fourth Conference Loss

Unable to cope with the effective shooting and rebound work of the Platteville Teachers, the Central State cagers dropped a 65-52 decision to the Pioneers in a game played at the P. J. Jacobs high school gym Saturday night. The game constituted the fourth loss for the Pointers as against three Conference wins.

The Pioneers displayed a veritable battery of sharpshooters as they rolled up their victory. McKeown showed a fine shooting eye as he led his mates with 19 points on eight field goals and three free throws. Butts, a tall boy from Monroe, Wisconsin, was particularly impressive and turned in 13 points before leaving the game on fouls. Ketter followed with 10 points and Steffens contributed eight points before being eliminated on fouls.

Flugaur and Ludwig Star

Particularly impressive for the CSTC cagers were Flugaur with 16 points on six buckets and four charity tosses. Ludwig following with 14 points on seven field goals and Hartman with seven points on two baskets and three free throws. Both Ludwig and Hartman left the game on fouls. Ludwig, playing at the center position, turned in his finest game to date, and looked very well on both offense and defense.

Platteville opened the scoring on a free throw by Ketter. Hartman followed by dribbling in neatly for a close shot to place the Pointers ahead 2-1. Both teams settled down to playing close ball and fought on even terms until the middle of the half when Gerry Miller tossed in a free throw to put the CSTC quint ahead 17-16. The Butts-McKeown machine then began clicking and the Pioneers forged ahead. The half ended with Platteville leading 37-26.

Pointers Stage Comeback

The second half opened with the Bergmen making a terrific comeback. Ludwig began the spurt with (See POINTERS, page 4)

Don Walker, a Phi Sig alumnus, gave an address on "What the Fraternity Means to Me." The balance of the evening was spent in playing cards, after which refreshments were served.

The first rushing party was also held at the Pal Cafe on February 17.

The main speaker of the evening was Dr. Edgar F. Pierson, who gave a short address concerning the advantages of joining a fraternity. The party was presided over by Don Larson, vice-president, who welcomed the rushees on behalf of the actives.

Warde Whitaker gave a brief history of Kappa chapter after which the group adjourned to play cards. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Odd bits of jewelry, kerchiefs, gloves, pamphlets, pencils, matches, erasers, keys, bus, train and class schedules, shopping lists and small notebooks appear regularly. There are other things, more unusual, which seem to express individual personality, rather than a general trend. A few of these are socks, (probably for use after a Phy Ed class), Band-Aids (a practical thought), a yo-yo, small calendars, lint-covered cough drops, a half-

Harmony Masters Are Enjoyed Here Recently

The Harmony Masters, a vocal quartet from Chicago, held a packed CSTC auditorium entranced with their renditions of old favorites at an assembly program held on Tuesday evening, February 25.

Composed of Messrs Ray Steiner, director, Bernard Van Heft, Leonard Balsamo, and Howard Berhalter, the quartet was one of the best-received musical attractions to appear here in recent times.

Accompanied by Mr. Phillip Jorgenson, the group sang selections such as "John Peel," arranged by Andrews, "On Wings of Song," by Mendelssohn, "Deep River," by Burleigh, "Lift Thine Eyes," by Logan, and concluded with "Great Day," by Youmans, selected cowboy tunes and favorites from "Rio Rita," by Tierney.

Mr. Jorgenson, in addition to acting as accompanist, played Chopin's "Nocturne," and as an encore, "Mala Guena," by Luecona.

The Harmony Masters were hand-pressed to leave the stage because of the amount of applause they received from the audience. In response to the ovation, they sang "I Got Shoes," a Negro spiritual, and "Thine Alone," by Victor Herbert.

CSTC will be fortunate indeed in the future to have for its paid assemblies entertainers of the high caliber of the Harmony Masters quartet.

This is but a shallow survey of a subject which every well-informed adult should be able to discuss intelligently. If this article has served in some measure to throw a little light upon the question, then it has served its purpose.

Vets Take Scholastic Honors at Platteville

The veterans are proving themselves to be among the best students at Platteville Teachers college. The Exponent, PTC paper, states that the veterans held 57 per cent of the scholastic honors for the first semester of 1947. Of the 88 students receiving honors 51 were veterans.
