WSGA Will Sponsor A Halloween Mixer

A Halloween mixer sponsored by the WSGA (Women's Self-Governing association) for all college women, including the faculty, will be held Friday, October 29, at 8 o'clock in the Training school gym.

Those attending are urged to wear Halloween costumes, or blue jeans, if a costume cannot be procured.

Newly Formed Social Science Club Now Formally Launched

The newly-formed Social Science club convened in room 106 last Thursday evening and was called to order by Lewis McDermott, temporary chairman. Ken Veselak was elected temporary treasurer and made arrangements for those wishing to become members to pay their membership fees of 50¢ a semester.

Ed Pliska was appointed chairman of the committee to draft a permanent constitution for the club. He selected as his assistants, Reuben Beilke and Art Witalison. The committee was commissioned to have the constitution drafted and ready for the approval of the club members within a month's time.

Sophomore Election Questioned; Class to Vote Again on Tuesday

A re-election of Sophomore class officers will be held on Tuesday, November 2, under the supervision of the Student Council. This action was decided upon by the Council members after a protest was submitted to them by members of the Sophomore class regarding certain questionable practices that occurred in the supervision of the ballot boxes in the recent class elections held on Tuesday, October 12.

During the elections, the ballot boxes were supervised at certain periods by two members of the Student Council who were also candidates for the offices of president and vice-president of the Sophomore class. These members won the offices they were running for.

The Student Council does not doubt the integrity of these newly elected officers and feels that it is ridiculous to assume that a Student Council member would be responsible for swinging an election in his or her favor. On the other hand, the Council admits that a gross error

Watch Out Students! The Greeks Are at It Again

The Greek sororities and fraternities have launched their annual rushing and pledging season. This week marks the prelude to the initial three weeks of ceremonies in which proposals to prospective members are put to the test.

The present week has been a busy one for the Greeks with everyone from the presidents to the clean-up committees busy with rushing dinners, rushing desserts, and snokers. But, the new prospects get their turns, their chance to show whether they can live in the exacting tradition of pledging.

Watch for the "signs" of this pledging in the halls and in the classroom for the next three weeks. Be on the look-out for pink and blue ribbons, special ties, or about anything imaginable.

More than one of the pledges might wish it had never started, but before it's all over the underdogs will marvel at the skills which they have developed.

Should "hell-week" find the brave ones surviving, a lowly pledge that was once struggling for recognition will then be an honorary member of the group of his other choosing, namely: the Omegas, the Tau Gams, the Chi Deltas, and the Phi Sigs.

Ruth Page and Bentley Stone, premier dancing stars and co-directors of the Chicago Opera company's official ballet for nine seasons, will appear in the CSTC auditorium, at 8:15 o'clock this evening in a joint dance concert. Ruth Gordon, one of Chicago's finest accompanists, will play for them.

The petite Ruth Page has starred at the Metropolitan Opera and the Colon Opera company of Buenos Aires as well as with the Chicago organization. She made three round-the-world tours, twice with Harald Kreutzberg, and once with her own company, in addition to guest solo engagements in nearly every leading city of Europe, including pre-war Moscow, and Tokyo.

Comedy Dances Featured

Their program will feature several comedy dances, including "Flora and Zephyrs", a caricature of the old-school ballet. Miss Page has promised to perform her exotic number "Tropic", an impression of a native South Sea Island girl, which she has given more than 300 times by urgent requests and demand. And Mr. Stone also promises to include his comedy dance "Punch Drunk" about the prize fighter who entered the "squared circle" too many times.

John Martin in the New York Times called their performance "Richly entertaining, as well as artistically excellent."

The following program will be

Knitting Bazaar to Be Held by Omega Mu Chi

The members of Omega Mu Chi sorority have made plans to hold a knitting bazaar. No definite date has been set as yet, but it will be held sometime in December. Socks, mittens, baby clothes and miscellaneous articles will be sold, all work being done by the sorority members. Lorraine Thatcher will be general chairman of the sale, assisted by other Omegas.

Anyone desiring a certain article of definite size may put in an order with Lorraine, but this should be done soon as the members are not professionals in this line and may require a little time to complete their work.

Meeting of CSTC Alumni To Be Held in Milwaukee

Richard Marshall, president of the CSTC alumni association, has announced that there will be a meeting of CSTC alumni, students and faculty members in room 204A in the Vocational school in Milwaukee on Thursday, November 4, between 4 and 5:30 p.m.

Because of inadequate seating space, no formal business meeting will be held. Ballots for voting for next year's officers of the organization will be prepared in advance and alumni visitors may vote while they attend the get-together.

The CSTC alumni luncheon is being omitted from the schedule of events as it was last year.

We contest it. We feel that our opposition had every right in asking for this courtesy and we will cooperate as best we can.

Alaska as Seen Through Eyes of Former Student, Ted Thompson

Ted Thompson, who left college a few weeks ago to work as a radio control tower operator in Anchorage, Alaska, has written a letter to Miss May Roach. Excerpts from the letter, telling something of the life there, follow:

"Anchorage is located on Cook Inlet. This is an arm of water which leads into the mainland from the base of the Aleutian Island chain. Anchorage is larger than Stevens Point. It is a fairly modern town with several noticeable exceptions.

It Will Be "Goodbye Harry" According to Student Cross Section

Local, state and national elections will soon be over and the results tabulated before you receive your next issue of the Pointer. Thinking in terms of the presidential election, what is the general consensus of opinion here on the campus?

The reporter took a small, random cross section of opinion among approximately 50 students, together with the opinions of several faculty members. The paramount feeling seemed to be that Thomas E. Dewey will definitely win. Other feelings, on the contrary, were that our two minor political parties, the People's Progressive party, headed by Henry Wallace, and the States' Rights party, championed by Governor J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, might take enough votes away from Mr. Dewey to give the election to President Truman. One opinion was that the "best man" will win, and the opinion of another, to the contrary, was that the best man may win.

It is the prime hope that a major party candidate will get in office so as to maintain our two-party system here in America.

Most political scientists believe that we benefit by a system of this kind. They claim that in a three or four party system none of the candidates would ordinarily receive an encouraging majority. A situation of this kind, as in France, Italy and other European countries, would lead to weakness in government.

Europeans are cool toward our election only as far as it contributes to their way of thinking or to their economy. Voters in the United States, on the other hand, are concerned down to the last stake.

Meet Barbara Kulas, the New Look in the Office

If you have seen a friendly dark-haired girl in the Record Office you've probably met Dr. Quincy Doudna's new secretary. She is Barbara Kulas, a last year's graduate of P. J. Jacobs High school here in Stevens Point.

When Barbara isn't busy taking dictation, typing, or filing away material in the record office, she finds time to enjoy hiking and almost all sports. She tells us that she enjoys her work at the office very much.

Thank You

I wish to thank the students and especially the band members and cheerleaders for their very fine support in behalf of the football squad at the Oshkosh game Saturday.

Such a display of enthusiasm and good sportsmanship on the part of students went a long way in having the boys emerge from the game victorious.

Ping Pong Pig Pen

Ye editor, who doesn't seem to be blessed with as much spare time as some of the other males around the college, capitulated and went to the men's lounge in the basement the other day to imbibe a coke. In the short time he was there he saw many strange and wonderful things — none of them being of any credit to the college.

Through the stifling clouds of cigarette smoke we could make out the interior of a badly neglected room. Cigarette butts and candy wrappers littered the floor where coke bottles hadn't beat them to it. The large sand-filled container in the middle of the floor, where such refuse is supposedly collected, was Spartan clean.

The lounge, which we understand was originally opened as a place where college men could go for a few moments of rest and relaxation from their studies, is now almost completely taken over by — of all things — two pingpong tables. This is somewhat disconcerting to certain staid members of the student body who conduct very learned discussions on the international situation and at the same time try to dodge celluloid pellets that bounce and careen off their lofty brows. The pingpong tables must go! We don't know where they should be taken but as an added incentive, we suggest that the pingpong artists — mostly Freshmen — be the subject of their own paddles!

What with the smoke, the noise, the refuse-laden floor and the erratic gyrations of the pingpong artists, ye editor gulped his coke in record time and raced for the comparative comforts of the Pointer office to glower over the typewriter and knock out this vindictive missive.

However, do not consider this a wordy spanking. The basement "loungers" need help instead of criticism and that help must come quickly or another good intention on the part of the college administration will go the way of previous ones just because the students didn't have enough pride in their school and themselves to keep it going.

Why not clean it up, prohibit annoying influences, and make it into an honest-to-goodness lounge for the purpose of relaxation and good fellowship? The present men's lounge is the best that can be afforded at CSTC at the present time. Unless a decided change is made on the part of the students for the betterment of the lounge there won't be one at all.

All Hallow's Eve Evolved over The Ages to a Night for Howling

Now, children, pull up a soft, slimy skeleton with knobby bones so you won't slide off, and listen to the story of how Halloween began.

All Hallow's Eve, the festival of all Saints, is connected with harvest time, being a mixture of Christian customs, mythology, and Druidism, and it is also a relic of pagan times.

The two chief characteristics of ancient Halloween were bonfires and the belief that on this night ghosts, goblins and witches were most likely to be found under the beds or any other place one imagined they could be.

On November 1, the Druids held their great annual festival and lighted fires in honor of the Sun God in thanksgiving for the harvest. Characteristics of Roman festivals and banquets were grafted on to old Scotch and English celebrations . . . and hence we have arrived at customs of using nuts, apples, and pumpkins in American tradition.

Cracking Nuts

The chief object of curiosity concerns the selection of a partner in life. In Ireland when a woman wants to know if her lovers are faithful she puts three nuts on the bars of a grate over a fire, naming the nuts after lovers and one for herself. If the nut cracks, the lover will be unfaithful. If the one named for a lover and for herself burn together they will be married. (Pass the nutcracker, mother, we're really crackin' em tonight!)

Ducking for apples was a great pastime, especially if initials of the people playing were carved on the apple beforehand. (After several near drownings trying to get the one they wanted, people gave up and changed to the present day custom of merely eating the apples and flirting with the one of their choice.)

A variation of this game is bobbing for an apple tied to a string, which although not too hygienic makes an interesting game if a boy is on one side and a girl on the other.

Black and Orange?
The colors black and orange are appropriate for Halloween. The orange represents the golden harvest and the ripened fruits and vegetables and black signifies mystery and magic.

Symbols depicting this spooky eve are pumpkins, corn-stalks, witches, ghosts, black cats, bats and other weird paraphernalia. (This is also a good time to shake hands with somebody after you sew a glove filled with wet corn meal onto your sleeve.)

For college students, the more juvenile delights of "soaping windows, ringing doorbells, etc., have been outgrown, usually because their spirits were dampened at one time or another by a pail of water dumped on them while they were engaged in the activity. Now, the average college man has a date for the evening. He finds a nice, dark, quiet spot where the wind howls at appropriate intervals and proceeds to scare a girl to death . . . by telling a ghastly ghost story. Or, if he is invited to her house and her parents are in the next room . . . they sit on the davenport. Then he puts on a green mask and pretends to be 'agobblin' . . . er . . . a goblin.

If college students are in a group and decide to have a party, the activities will no doubt take care of themselves, as there will be both witches and wolves present.

And there, children, we have the story of Hallowe'en, both then and now.

Why don't you go out and howl with the wind that night . . . hmmm?

Familiar Faces

A writer of portraits of campus personalities finds an ideal subject in Percy Voight. Beginning his college career in 1942, Percy has enjoyed being a part of every important phase of college life. Perhaps the reason he has at the same time established such an enviable collegiate record is explained in the statement "Percy has enjoyed being a part of CSTC."

When in school, Percy spends most of his time at work in the chemistry laboratory. The more time a new student spends in the lab the more he is impressed by the stock room with everything in its place. So it is that each association with Percy makes the impression that he has an arrangement for the "elements" of social and intellectual importance, based on their relative value.

What we would probably place under the heading "a sense of values" and the knowledge that whatever be your interests, ambitions or fancies you can find an interested listener and fellow enthusiast in Percy, is as nearly complete an introduction to this week's campus personality as two short paragraphs can project.

Percy is 25 years old, married, and in March of this year a son, Tommy, made his debut in the Voight family. Percy lives in Stevens Point, but refers to Loyal, Wis. as home. He entered CSTC in 1942, but spent several of the war years working in Indianapolis, Indiana, and Columbus, Ohio, as a flight test engineer. His duties included compiling data on the Army Air Force's B-29 and P-80. (We've also seen his Model A Ford "fly low.")

Returning to CSTC in 1946, Percy resumed his studies in chemistry, physics and math. He favors a teaching career rather than an industrial one.

Some of the activities and organizations Percy has supported are: Sigma Zeta, honorary science fraternity, Chi Delta Rho, social fraternity, College Theatre, Student Council, and the Men's Glee club. One of his most enjoyable activities is singing with the illustrious "Firemen's Band," of special interest because he is one of the "founding fathers."

Off campus hunting and fishing are certain to receive hearty approval from Percy. Another hobby is cooking up ideas on good things to eat, and then demonstrating them in his sales of Wearever Aluminum products.

Through his work in the chemistry lab and in his associations with the school since 1942, Percy has seen many students enter and leave the halls of CSTC. This, and his own loyalty to the Alma Mater, prompted the reflection, "A college education is a wonderful thing, especially at CSTC."

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

YWCA

New members were initiated into the YWCA at a candle light ceremony Sunday evening, October 17.

The initiates were: Barbara Clark, Irene Beaver, Marion Erickson, Jeanette Holm, Shirley Brechler, Rita Belle Fontaine, Beverly Tibbetts, Sally Birkholz, Lois Conahan, Joan Jewell, Edith Phillips, Marjorie Laurie, Bette Rae Warner, Marion Drewsen and Anne Hantzicker.

Tau Gamma Beta

Miss Bobby Sox was a popular character at Tau Gamma Beta's rushing party on Sunday evening, October 24, at the home of Mrs. William C. Hansen. The ever-present "socks" were duplicated in miniature, tied with pink and blue ribbon and given to each guest as she arrived. Other comic characters were evident in drawings pinned to the back of each participant. Fun and hilarity reigned as each guest attempted to find out "who" she was.

Lola Van Ornum introduced new games in keeping with the character of the party, and old, familiar games were also played. Prizes were presented to the winners.

Later in the evening each guest made her own "Dagwood" sandwich, copying the techniques of that famous "funny paper" personality. Cokes and ice cream were also served.

The party was in honor of prospective pledges of the sorority, and was given by the members. Lola Van Ornum and Pat Anderson were co-chairmen of the event. Committees were as follows: Refreshments, Rosemary Ramsay, chairman, Ila Williamson and Winnie Church; clean-up, Loretta Fenelon, chairman, Lenore Arnette and Carrie Krogness.

Omega Mu Chi

The Omega Mu Chi sorority held its first rushing party in the form of an Indian pow-wow, Tuesday night, October 19, at the home of Jean Crosby. Priscilla Sullivan and Ruth Finch, attired in Indian costumes, greeted the actives, advisers, and rushees as they entered the house.

Indian games were played and a parody of "Hiawatha" was read. Each guest was presented with a head-dress, an Indian atmosphere was acquired by the use of Indian terms and language. The theme was carried out in the attractive centerpiece which resembled an Indian teepee, surrounded by acorns and cranberries. Pumpkins were used to decorate the fireplace. Coffee, mints, nuts, ice cream and angel food cake were served.

Lucy Chappell served as general chairman, assisted by the following: Invitations, Mary Shadewald; transportation, Mary Ellen Gmeiner, chairman, Margie Roberts and Jean Crosby; Food, Julie Dean, chairman, Pat Jones, Alice Schram, Joan Kenney and Lois Mozuch; decorations, Margaret Hull, chairman, Andrea Olson, Jackie Hall, Ruth Finch and Mary La Marche and entertainment, Marjorie Kohler, chairman, Althea Boorman, Marion Hummel and Helen Offerdahl.

Rural Life

Mrs. Marjorie Kerst and the student teachers of the Rural Demonstration school entertained the members of the Rural Life club and the advisers at a Halloween party held in the Rural Demonstration school last Monday night.

They were introduced to the Hall of Horrors, bobbed for apples, did relays, had their fortunes told by Delores Jones and heard Mary Stimers read the "Tell Tale Heart" by Poe.

Folk dancing was called by Bernice Yoncke, while Margaret Doherty accompanied on the piano. Refreshment (See ORGANIZATIONS, page 4)

Our Unsung Heroes, the Maintenance Staff, Keep the Buildings in Shipshape Condition

During the summer months the maintenance staff has been busy keeping the college buildings in the best condition possible. Some of the big improvements that may be noticed in the building are the rearranging and furnishing of the smoking room, the cleaning and painting of the chemistry lab, the washing and painting of the auditorium, the painting and floor sanding in the home economics department and the painting and rearranging of many classrooms.

Extensive repairs have also been performed in the Training school. Acoustic material is on hand for the hallways and will be installed in

OVER A COKE

Here comes the band

Comment need be made on the Phi Sig pep band that entertained so royally at the Oshkosh-Stevens Point game last Saturday. According to reports, Wally Peterson, Jim Whelan, Al Malm, Lewis McDermott, Fred Brewer, Jack Whitney and Carman Lane, led by Charley Bruce, toured the city letting everyone in hearing distance enjoy (?) all four of their numbers!

Quotes and misquotes

Said a typical professor, "We won't discuss that because we haven't talked about it."

Description of a frightened student giving a speech before his class: "He talked like water coming out of a jug."

Student's reaction after an exceptionally hard test: "I knew a lot but I couldn't think of it."

Here's what happens when a student gets a little nervous when presenting a topic. "Hoover Dam is the highest tower in the dam." A joke of the weak!

A man went into a butcher shop and asked for a yard of pork. Not to be outsmarted, the butcher promptly gave him three pigs feet. Males beware!

The girls are becoming well-read on all the rules concerning Sadie Hawkins Day!

This is an example of the advertising being displayed.

Come to the Dance

Don't try to look like Queens - But wear your dirty old blue jeans

Find a man — if you can

If your method doesn't work

Don't be a jerk.

But come anyway!!

Don't worry about your hair.

Cause we're all hopin' to C U there

Get a yug, don't be shy.

If at first you don't succeed

On another try, your deed.

For it's Sadie Hawkins Day!!

For that Monday morning feeling —

It's been suggested that more people stay here for week-end and then, perhaps, there wouldn't be so many of these dragged-out looking people on Monday morning. It takes them 'til midweek to get back to normal. Then they start thinking about the week-end and they can't keep their minds on their work for the rest of the week.

A witchin' note

If some one asks you where you parked your broom — don't gnash your teeth — grin like a jack-o-lantern, and knock 'em down with a ripe squash!!

Will she rub noses?

Ted Thompson, former CSTC'er, who is now working as a radio control tower operator in Anchorage, Alaska, sent a letter to the boys at the Wickmann house telling them about his escapades. One paragraph stated that he would send John Stanton an Eskimo squaw if he still wanted one. John apparently jested a bit before Ted left.

Those employed by the maintenance staff are: Lawrence Davis, supervisor; Victor Okray, Steve Skalski, Frank Mansavage, John Rasmusen, John Urbanowski, William Epwright, Vernon Spence and Mrs. Frances Jones. Messrs. Epwright and Spence are new members of the staff.

Pointers Wreck Oshkosh Titans In Big Second Half Explosion

The Pointers spoiled the Oshkosh Homecoming Saturday as the Quamtmen crushed the Titans in a 21-0 battle at Oshkosh. Dave Bliese, Jim Koehn and Duaine Counsell each hit the pay line for six points and Tom Curry added three points via the conversion route.

The first half was a battle between defenses as the score was a 0-0 tie at the end of the first half. Early in the third quarter the Pointers finally found themselves as Dehlinger stole the ball from an Oshkosh back and carried it down to the opponents 13 yard line. Listle, Titan halfback, stopped the drive as he intercepted a pass on his own five. Listle punted to the Oshkosh 45 and the Pointers began their first touchdown drive.

Bliese Scores
A long pass from Counsell to Thompson put the ball on the enemy 21. Dave Bliese carried it the remaining distance for the first six points. Curry converted.

The next touchdown was set up by Tom Curry as he intercepted a Titan pass and carried the ball 36 yards to put the pigskin on the Oshkosh six yard strip. A series of penalties moved the ball back to the 20, but Koehn took a neat hand off and went over the goal line for another six. Curry made the score 14-0 with his kick for the extra point.

Titans Threaten
Oshkosh carried the ball deep into Point territory but the heavy CSTC line prevented them from scoring. Point took over early in the fourth quarter and some snappy running by Thompson, Bliese and Koehn put the ball on the Oshkosh four. Again penalties moved the ball back and Point failed to score. Curry punted into the end zone.

Counsell Intercepts
On the next play Counsell intercepted a Titan pass and dashed 18 yards to a touchdown. Curry made the score 21-0 with his third consecutive conversion.

The Pointers can be congratulated on their fine all-around game and especially on defense, as they held Oshkosh to only five first downs.

Intra-mural Basketball To Get Underway Soon

Intra-mural basketball for college men is expected to get under way November 8, under the direction of athletic director George R. Berg. There will be two leagues in operation again this year, the Alphabet league and the Independent league.

The Alphabet league, or Pointers league, will play on Monday and Wednesday nights after school, with games at 4:15 and 5:15 p.m. The league is open to all college men and these men will play on the team corresponding with the first letter of their last name.

The Independent league will play on Tuesday and Thursday nights after supper, with the games starting at 6:30 or 7 p.m. These teams may be composed of anyone with no restriction as to what team a man may play on. The captains of each team in this league are asked to get the signature of the men he intends to use and hand it in to Mr. Berg before November 2.

No member of the varsity team may compete in this league and a player in the city league is also ineligible for the Independent league.

Many Hunters Harassed Game on Opening Day

Last Saturday, gun in hand, many hunters plodded wearily over the country side ready to shoot everything but the old goat who lives across the street. In case you haven't guessed already, hunting season opened on almost all of the wild game throughout the state. Reports say there are more hunters than game this year.

According to the duck hunters, (the duck season started October 15) there was an average of about one-half duck shot for every duck hunter. Maybe that's why they were so hard to hit. Reports from the Horicon marsh, a feeding spot for our feathered friends, give 1,400 hunters a bag of 1,000 ducks over a Friday, Saturday and Sunday period. In other regions hunters did even worse.

Pheasant, partridge, rabbit and squirrel will be stalked by local hunters who won't be able to travel far from home. Rabbit and squirrel will, of course, be the most sought after game. Fall is usually the hardest time to find these little furry creatures but there are always a few who venture out during this time of the year and they will most likely end up on some lucky hunter's table.

With the price of meat at its present height, we look with envy upon the successful nimrod but to those unfortunate hunters who come home with nothing but tired, aching feet, we can offer nothing but our deepest sympathy.

Let's Show Mondovi We're 100% Behind Our Team Too

The support of student spectators at the Point-Oshkosh game on Saturday was unexpected and overwhelming. Things are looking up around here in the way of student support but the situation can be better still as proved by the following contribution made to the sports section of the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune by Howard L. Kolstad, coach at Mondovi High school and husband of "Jackie" Stauber, CSTC alumnus and former Pointer editor.

"Coach Howard L. Kolstad at Mondovi has a pat on the back for fans there and the marvelous manner in which they support the team," reports the Tribune.

"I'm not writing you about Mondovi's valiant line nor her hard-running backs," says Kolstad, "but about the rabid fans of this community of 2,400 and the support they give our boys . . .

"The good burghers of Mondovi may not remember who the Olympic winners were, nor the batting averages of the Cleveland Indians, but when it comes to football they take a back seat to no one . . . At every home game you can depend on the same crowd to be at the game — that is to say everybody in town . . .

"Invariably, the Mondovi people outnumber the home crowds when the team is on the road . . . A couple of weeks ago the 'gang' jumped in cars, trucks, busses and motor scooters to travel 65 miles to watch the kids play Galesville in Galesville's homecoming . . . The Mondovi rooters outnumbered the hometowners three to one . . .

"And what about the kids themselves? . . . Do they like it? . . . Well, they have practically put the athletic association in the red trying to put proper equipment on all of the boys who want to play . . . You should see the swell little halfback we have coming up in the third grade . . .

"Yes, sir, Mondovi chooses football . . . If Minneapolis is the 'hotbed' of American football, we're sure that Mondovi is one of the brightest coals."

Eau Claire was the sole possessor of first place in the State Teachers' Conference as they handed River Falls a 13-7 drubbing at River Falls Saturday. Cardinal caught a 45 yard pass and then kicked the extra point for the River Falls scoring. Walker and Schoof each scored a touchdown and Emmanuel converted to give Eau Claire the distinction of being the only undefeated team in the conference.

Milwaukee and La Crosse played to a 13-13 deadlock to remain tied for third place. La Crosse led 13-7 with only 15 seconds left to play when Tarantino passed to Minnesota to tie the score.

Stout crushed Superior as they rolled up a 33-19 victory at Superior. Stout scored three touchdowns on passes and two on the ground. Two aerials and one run were responsible for the three Superior touchdowns.

Whitewater won its first game of the season Saturday as they drubbed Platteville 37-33 before a large Whitewater homecoming crowd. Whitewater and Platteville hold the ninth and tenth places, respectively, in the conference standings.

Next week the Teachers' Conference draws to a close. The most the Pointers can hope for is a fifth place berth and they must win to keep that. Eau Claire and River Falls could tie if Superior beat Eau Claire and the River Falls Falcons can down La Crosse.

Hawaiian Islands Can Boast Of Freshman Attending CSTC

An interesting newcomer to our campus this fall is Chester Segawa, a freshman who hails from Wahiawa, Oahu, in the Hawaiian Islands group.

Segawa, of Japanese ancestry, is a true Hawaiian native, never having left the islands until this summer. He attended Schofield Barracks High school on the Army post near his home town. There he met Sam Rogers, a former Stevens Point resident, and when Sammy came back this year to start college at CSTC, he brought Chester with him.

Now that Chester has been here two months, he has had somewhat of a chance to get acquainted with these new surroundings. His reaction is good. He likes it, but "It's cold!" To a hardened Wisconsinite, that phrase might sound a little out of place in October, but according to Chester, the temperature in the islands ranges between 65° and 85° all year around. He is going to need more than sympathy, come next January. Can someone spare an extra overcoat?

While in college, Segawa is going to concentrate solely on studies. His football days at Schofield Barracks are over as far as he's concerned. His immediate plans are to stay here for a couple of years and then go back to the islands. As for the future, he "just doesn't know."

Accompanying Chester to the States was his Army brother, and his sister, who is studying missionary work in Georgetown, Kentucky. Incidentally, there are eight brothers and three sisters in his family. The trip over was really thrilling. They flew to San Francisco and took a train to Chicago. Chester was impressed by the "size of everything, especially the cities."

Getting accustomed to living in Stevens Point was not hard for Chester since his hometown of Wahiawa has just 20,000 people. It is only 20 miles from Honolulu, the metropolis of Hawaii. His home is also near Pearl Harbor, so he got in on a lot of activity on December 7, 1941. Chester can't remember much about this except that his people thought the smoke and explosions were only maneuvers until they got word of the attack. Then they set to work digging shelters. School was closed for six months after the bombing, but aside from that, everything went on as usual.

Chester, by nature, is a friendly fellow, and he welcomes the cordial reception that CSTC has given him.

to find a room for $65.00 a month (I'm told). Food prices are terrible. It costs about four dollars a day to eat as well as I'm accustomed.

"As I've told you, I work in the control tower of the municipal airport. The name of it is Merrill Field. This is the base of operation for the famous "bush pilots" of Alaskan fame. I'm rapidly getting acquainted with most of them. They are a swell bunch of happy-go-lucky fellows. One has already offered to take me hunting.

"To the east of the field lies a huge range of mountains. They are about 8,000 feet high and are half covered with snow. When the sun breaks through the clouds, they are very beautiful. It seems that Anchorage is a bright spot shining in the midst of a wilderness. The country becomes a wilderness at the edge of the city limits.

"The weather here has been damp and cold. Usually a cold wind comes from the bay. We've had a little snow, but it didn't stay. The streets are covered with mud and it's very slippery to walk on. I imagine we'll have snow to stay soon. Every day the snow line on the mountains drops a little lower. Soon it will be time to go skiing and skating.

"The CAA people here have been very nice. I work with a fine group of people at the field too. I understand that I'm being trained to go down the bay to Naknek next spring. That is an isolated place where men are detailed for six months. It will probably be a lonesome spot. It has one redeeming factor. There is very good hunting and fishing there. It is supposedly a fisherman's paradise. I'll like that."

selves in this position if it had not been for a deficiency in Student Council members in taking care of the election.

"The ranks of the Student Council have increased and we are sure that the coming election will be to everyone's satisfaction."

Edward Pliska
Patricia Lasecke

The re-election next Tuesday will include all Sophomore class officers. Only those candidates whose names were on the original ballot will be allowed to have their names on the second ballot. Voting will be conducted between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Since this election is being held on the same day as the Nationwide general elections all Sophomores should be able to remember to vote for class officers at least.
