Specialists Will Speak at Driver Education Institute This Saturday

The "Driver Education Institute" is going to meet at Central State Teachers College on Saturday, April 14, at which specialists in the fields of insurance, safety engineering, enforcement and experienced teachers of driver education will speak. Also, a movie, "Your Permit to Drive," will be previewed by Robert S. Lewis.

Albert E. Harris is to give the keynote address, "Psychology and Attitudes of Driver Education."

Len Walters of the Loss Prevention department of Hardware Mutuals will speak on "Preventing Highway Losses."

Ben Precourt of the A.A.A. is going to present a Motor Club Survey on the "Problems of Motorists."

The subject "Enforcement and the Driver Education Program" will be presented by Chief of Police R. J. Exner from Wisconsin Rapids.

Local Sigma Zeta to Send Some Members to Conclave

A group of CSTC students will attend an inter-state meeting of Sigma Zeta, honorary science society, next week. Scheduled for April 19, 20, and 21, the conclave will be held at Anderson college at Anderson, Indiana.

To be included in the program of activity are field trips to neighboring factories, speeches by outside speakers, and the presenting of student papers and demonstrations dealing with science. Edward Furstenberg, president of CSTC's Sigma Zeta, will present a paper entitled "Mathematical Fallacies."

Other contemplating attendance are Barbara Lewis, Beatrice Pepinski, Jeanette Holm, Gretchen Holstein, Alvin Long, Bernard Feigley, Norvin Holm and Allen Braem. Each of these people is majoring in either science or mathematics.

Gilbert W. Faust will accompany the group, who plan to travel by car and reside at hotels during their three-day stay.

Raymond E. Specht is to moderate a panel discussion, "Problems in the Car." Bernard Ostrowski, driver education instructor at Stevens Point vocational school, and E. L. Keeler, driver education instructor at Wausau High school, are to participate in the discussion.

Band Looks Forward To Spring Concert Season

The CSTC band, envoy for spreading good will and for recruiting new members for the college, will sally forth now that spring is here to display its perfected techniques, developed during long practice sessions this winter.

Concerts will be played at Neokosa, April 16; Colby, April 19; Greenwood, April 26; and Rosholt, May 1. Peter J. Michelsen will direct the group. The college bus will be used to transport the musicians.

Men's Glee Club to Sing To Students April 27

The student body will get their chance to hear the Men's Glee club on Friday morning, April 27, at the 10:05-hour, when the Glee club will again present its spring concert, under the direction of Norman E. Knutzen.

The concert will follow much the same pattern as the program of April 5, which proved to be very popular with the townspeople, for whom it was given.

CSTC Host to Conference

CSTC will be the scene of the annual conference of school administrators and supervisors on Monday, April 23. An impressive group of speakers have been lined up, including Charles B. Walden, state curriculum co-ordinator and George E. Watson, state superintendent of public instruction.

Five Teachers Will Be Dropped As a Result of Budget Slashing

Lecture-Discussions on Asia to Be Given Soon

Dr. Haridas Muzumdar, eminent Hindu scholar, will give a series of three lecture-discussions for the people of this community on the subject, "Problems of Asia." The first lecture will be given on April 25 at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium. Alpha Gamma, social science fraternity, is in charge of arrangements for his appearance. Subsequent lectures will be held on May 9 and May 16.

Dr. Muzumdar, a member of the lecture staff at the University of Wisconsin, has spent 20 years in interpreting oriental thought and action to people of Western cultures. In extensive writings and addresses he has sought to build better understanding and relations among the peoples of the old and new world.

Jenkins and Hansen Talk At Cornerstone Ceremony

Dean Warren G. Jenkins gave a brief talk at the cornerstone laying ceremony held Wednesday afternoon at the northeast corner of Delzell Hall, new men's dormitory. Following the talk, President William C. Hansen explained what documents and papers were being placed in the cornerstone, and then proceeded to place the stone in position.

With the advent of more suitable weather, work on the building is going along at a more rapid pace. The building should be ready for use at the beginning of the fall term of school.

Many Characters at CSTC:

Hollywood "Big Names" Study With Us Every Day

Attention, Hollywood scouts! In the city of Stevens Point, attending the fair, old, vine-covered CSTC are many talented pseudo actors and actresses. CSTC is the proud possessor of many of the most well known and outstanding show names of the business. Such famous names as Pat O'Brien, Jane Powell, and Terry (Gary) Cooper resound throughout the halls. Talent and looks are not guaranteed to be equal, but the names certainly are.

Heading the list of CSTC's lovely and talented actresses are such famous names as Fontaine, Freeman, Jones, Miller, Olson, and Williams.

Hollywood should be green with envy, for included in the college (as just mere students) are names that would set any girl's heart a-flutter — Andrews, Curtis, Douglas, Flynn, Harrison, Johnson, Lund, D. Martin, D. Morgan, Stewart, Taylor and Wilde. CSTC even has one of the Crosby's.

To head the list of the talent for the spine chilling mysteries, there are three — yes, three — Holms, resulting of course, in three times as many thrills and chills. The list wouldn't be complete without sharp shooters for the wild and woolly westens. CSTC has nothing but the best — the sharpest shooters of them all — two whole Hoppes and Roy himself.

CSTC may not have Lassie, but it certainly is a kennel for a host of four-footed friends. Where in Hollywood can you find a Fox, Hoag, Wolfe, Jersey and Holstein, with a college education? We even have the one and only Harvey. What's more, CSTC's Harvey is visible. CSTC also possesses its own sound effects — Ruff and Mews.

Curriculum Will Suffer Greatly

CSTC will lose three full time teachers as a result of the recent reduction in the college budget by the state legislature. In addition the vacancy in the physical education department created by the death of George R. Berg will not be filled and one part time instructor probably will not return next September.

Dropped from the faculty will be Frederick A. Kremple of the history department, James R. Hicks of the chemistry department and Walter R. Sylvester of the conservation department. Mr. Kremple and Mr. Hicks will continue with graduate work next year. Miss Harriet Wright, who has been teaching mathematics and education, will be transferred to the Training school as fifth grade supervisor. Edgar W. Pieper is the instructor who has been filling Mr. Berg's position for this year. Mrs. Warren Blodgett of the English department is the part time teacher who probably will not be retained.

Student Council Votes To Table Action on NSA

Two important actions were taken in a meeting of the Student Council on Monday, April 9. After a detailed discussion, the Council voted to table all business concerning NSA until next year. This year's investigating committee was instructed to hand in a complete report of their findings to avoid any unnecessary action next year.

Bob Cook was appointed to investigate the cost of erecting an identifying sign for Central State's campus. The sign has been made by Alpha Kappa Lambda, conservation fraternity, and was suggested by last year's Council. The sign is completed but posts must be purchased to erect it.

Nelson Hall Coeds Revive Weekend Dances

Operation Weekend was revived last Friday and Saturday nights at Nelson Hall with an informal party and dance in the converted dining room.

About 40 fellows and girls livened up the recreation room with songs and laughter Friday night. Group games were played, and card players had a chance to match their skills. The fireplace provided both warmth and a place to roast marshmallows, and everyone had a good time.

The Saturday night dance was a "first" for Nelson Hall. The tables were removed, and the mirrors and walls were decorated to give the dining room an atmosphere to match the April showers outside. The room was transformed into a dimly lit dance floor with a sometimes mellow, sometimes "hot" orchestra providing mood music. A part of the popular Phi Sig orchestra played as their contribution to "Operation Weekend." Couples danced on until the midnight curfew and are looking forward to the next Operation Weekend dance.

Dean Walter of Lawrence To Speak Here on Friday

The entire student body will have an opportunity to hear George B. Walter, dean of men at Lawrence college, speak Friday on the duties and responsibilities of American citizens in the present day and age. This speaker, obtained by the Secondary Division of which Raymond M. Rightsell is director, will be heard in the auditorium at 10 o'clock in the morning.

According to the many business and professional men and women who heard Dean Walter's address at the recent EBI Day dinner at the Hotel Whiting, his message should be a must for every CSTC student. The value of American citizenship in view of the serious problems of today is one of the vital points of Mr. Walter's address.

The reduction of teaching positions was based on enrollment estimates for the 1951-52 school year made in January by the Governor's office and the state Board of normal school regents. The salary budget for teaching personnel was slashed by $22,000.

Dropping the faculty members will result in the curtailment of some classes. Courses now being offered during both semesters will probably be offered only during one semester and courses which are now offered in two or more sections will probably be grouped.

Faculty members and students have been striving to prevent the reduction of CSTC teachers. Particularly active on the campus have been the Young Republicans. This group started the campaign several weeks ago and Monday they distributed letters to be sent to assemblymen and senators. The Stevens Point chapter of the Association of Wisconsin Teachers colleges, the Stevens Point Chamber of Commerce, the local chapter of AFT and the local Trades and Labor Council have come out against the reduction. Several other individuals and groups have also started a campaign against the budget act.

Robert S. Lewis, Fred J. Schmeckle and Herbert R. Steiner went to Madison Wednesday for an interview with Governor Kohler. With them at the meeting was Senator Oscar W. Neale of Stevens Point.

More Graduates Accept Positions for Next Year

More graduates have taken positions for next year according to Dr. Raymond E. Gotham, director of placements.

Barbara Lewis of Augusta will teach at Columbus, ninth and 10th grades; Bruce Menzel of Stevens Point, at Milwaukee, Intermediate and Upper Elementary grades; Carol Tellock of Clintonville, at Matteson, second through eighth grade; Roberta Henderson of Mosinee, at Pulaskee, English; Ruth Lang, of Princeton, at Manitowish, kindergarten or first grade; Gerald Kitzrow, of Stevens Point, at Milwaukee intermediate grades; Kathryn McIntyre, of Fond du Lac, at South Milwaukee, second grade; Catherine Konop, of Junction City, at Junction City, first through eighth grades; Madeline Williams of Amberg, at Bowler, Home Economics; and Ila Williamson, of Brandon, at Manitowish, second and third grades.

Teachers Colleges Demand Justice

If the proposed budget for the state teachers colleges goes through, Central State is going to find itself in a very difficult situation. Several departments of the college are going to be understaffed and greatly hindered. The conservation, chemistry, math, English, history, and physical education departments are going to be reduced, yet it looks as if the enrollment next fall will be as large as this year and possibly larger. We can't afford to let this happen.

It seems that the good governor recommended approval of 70% of the University's request for budget increases, yet could only see fit to approve 28% of the requests of the teachers colleges. Yet, these are the colleges that have been understaffed right along. Even today, many of our classes, especially in the freshman and sophomore classes, are overcrowded.

The enrollments in the public schools are increasing. Thus there is a demand for more teachers. Superintendents want better and better teachers all the time. In order to do this, we must keep a complete curriculum and a complete faculty. Yet, all we can offer is a reduced curriculum and a decreased and overworked faculty. The scope of the curriculum will have to be cut down. It isn't fair to anyone.

There is still time for action. The Young Republicans showed us one way by having letters available for us to send to our assemblies and senators. But we can do even more. We can spread the word of this injustice to the teachers colleges. We can broadcast the word. We can get others to back us in our fight. We've been pushed around long enough. Let's fight back.

Schmeckle Protests Cut

The recent action taken by the Board of Regents should be more fully understood as to its significance by those who have followed and approved the development of the conservation education major at Central State Teachers college. The discontinuing of the position now held by Mr. Sylvester is a severe blow to the department. We are without the following courses when the fall term opens: Game management, ecology, geology, surveying, and conservation of water. Many additional services that were and would be carried on will also be curtailed.

If the load of the department is to be carried out by just two persons, it will be impossible to meet the demands of students who are planning to attend this coming year. Because of the subjects that will not be available next fall, sophomores will be stopped from going on because some of these courses are prerequisites. Juniors and seniors will not be able to fulfill the prescribed requirements for graduation. We cannot expect seniors to remain in college for a longer period of time, waiting until we can get around to teach the needed area.

Our course of study is a contract with students enrolled in our college, but because of the miserly budget set up for the teachers colleges, we are prevented from fulfilling this contract. The continuing of our major in conservation education is broken and unless this position is re-established, there will be a rather large number of young men, now in school and those who are planning to enroll as freshmen this fall, sorely disappointed and somewhat deceived — all because the State failed to provide adequate financial support for its teachers colleges.

No one denies that the intelligent use and management of our natural resources is vital. Our department is not only praised state-wide, but nation-wide, for the training of young men and women in this important area of education.

The State law passed in 1935 makes it mandatory that conservation be taught in the schools of Wisconsin, but when money is necessary to carry out this edict, they fail to provide it. How, then, is conservation to be taught if teacher training in this field is curtailed?

Every citizen interested in education and in the future welfare of generations to come should take this teacher training problem seriously.

F. J. Schmeckle
Director, Conservation Education

FAMILIAR FACES

The chorus line of the Phi Sig Spring Review took their final bows and came prancing off the stage. The last of these nimble-footed "cuties" was the gentleman in the limelight this week, Charles Bruce. He limped over to a chair near us and collapsed into it.

"My dogs are killing me." He groaned and licked his Lady Sylvia lipstick. "Three years as a hooper in that show and I'm about dead."

We stated our needs as he slipped his outfit over his head.

"Well, I was born on July 23, 1927, down in Plymouth, Wis. Don't live there any more, though. Living in Sparta now.

with me first."

His striped shorts drew a whistle from a passing stage-worker. "I'm majoring in Intermediate Education, and I'm a member of the Intermediate Roundtable and the Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity. I've been on quite a few intramural teams, but my time at present is taken up by Carole Gilbertson." A faroff look came into his eyes and he sat for a minute looking at the floor.

"About the most fun, though, was going to the out-of-town games. Wow, we really used to have some times!" He winked wickedly for emphasis.

"Guess that's about all that's printable."

We thanked him and left him to soak his aching dogs.

Omegas Entertain Alumni With Party at Dormitory

The dorm recreation room was the scene of an Alum party given by the actives of Omega Mu Chi sorority, Tuesday evening, April 10. Virginia Gmeiner, president of the sorority, welcomed the alumni. A few of the alumni talked on their experiences when they were active in the sorority.

Committees were: Food, Beverly Tibbetts, chairman; Sally Connor, Jean Robertson and Isla Mae Friberg; entertainment, Beverly Ellingson, chairman; Ruth Schein, Ann Phelan and Ardis Raaths; decorations, Mary Schademwald and Molly Knope co-chairmen; Barbara Hanson, Betty Crook, Joanne Cuff and Margie Benson; clean up, Nancy Sannes and Susie Swanke.

Da Boids dey sing, de spariows choip,

What a spontaneous overflow of powerful feelings! We've felt that swelling up within us for a long time and just couldn't suppress it any longer.

The plugs which were put in for Mayor Alois Jacobowski by the Phi Sigs at their Style Show last Sunday and Monday evenings really were effective. He was re-elected on the same Tuesday. Congratulations, Mayor Jacobowski, and keep on "doing a good job."

Our English teacher was telling us that during the First World War it was often said that a soldier had "gone west" rather than that he was dead. Immediately the inevitable back row "Will Rogers" popped up and said, "Then Horace Greeley's 'Go West, Young Man, Go West' was nothing more than a polite way of saying 'drop dead.'"

Many of us have been following with keen interest the battle of wits between Tom Lund and Alex Wallace. Lund is a CSTC student who claims that the main reason for the amazing success of the 1951 state championship Wisconsin Rapids High school basketball team was the addition of fluorine to the city water supply just about six weeks before tournament time. Alex Wallace, was the big force behind the anti-fluoridation movement which was so successful in Stevens Point this past year. The battlefield for this playful skirmish was the Public Opinion column of the Stevens Point Daily Journal. The whole affair came to a rather abrupt halt when Mr. Wallace took to poetry, in which Mr. Lund conceded that he was no match for the "sage of Stevens Point."

We saw a real cute cartoon the other day. Two boys of grade school age were squaring up to each other and one said to the other, "Oh yeah, if you're so tough why doesn't your mother have to pay the baby sitter a bonus?"

"Say, Amos, why do dat doggoned dog o' yours stop at every tree he come to?"

"Ah don't know, Rastus, unless it be dat he is a tarrier."

Levis Urges Pointers To Balk Budget Cut

The following letter appeared in the Stevens Point Journal on April 7:

"Our local organization of the Association of Wisconsin Teachers Colleges has requested me to write an interpretation of last night's news release concerning staff reduction at CSTC. We would like the people of Stevens Point to have a fuller explanation of the problem, which should be of vital interest to everyone in this community.

1. Instructors have been dropped from our faculty "as a result of the recent reduction by the state legislature in the budget." This action of the board of regents is premature. The budget was introduced only yesterday. It has not been passed.

2. Wisconsin has a tenure law for its teachers college faculties. Some of these teachers are on tenure. In spite of this, they have been released.

3. These reductions were made on enrollment estimates made in January. Present indications are that enrollments next fall will maintain the present level or go higher.

4. In regard to the budget for Wisconsin teachers colleges, the governor recommended approval of only 28 per cent of the requested increase; yet, at the same time, he recommended approval of 70 per cent of the increase requested by the University of Wisconsin.

Central State Religious Groups Have 280 Members

The seven religious groups at Central State can claim about 280 members this semester. The Newman club, which has the largest group from which to draw, leads with 77 members. Gamma Delta has been increasingly active this semester, and boasts of 75 members. Wesley has 55 members, and LSA and Trigon each have about 25. The Baptist group, Wayland, has 15, and the Canterbury discussions draw about 10 regular members.

Greetings From Peru

The following is a translation of a letter written in Spanish by Dr. Quincy Dounda, dean of administration, who is now in Lima, Peru. It was written to Miss Mildred Davis, Spanish teacher at CSTC.

Esteemed Senorita:

I am very happy to greet you. I will try to write this letter in Spanish, although I know I will make many mistakes. I have not studied this language before coming to Peru and also I have not much time since coming. I can speak a little with the people in my office, with the chauffeur, etc. I can also read and translate very well. I have written the first twenty lessons in the book "Basic Spanish" which has helped me very much.

My children speak fairly well and know how to read simple books and write a little. They have matriculated in a school that is called the College of St. Isidore. The teachers are men of a Catholic order and are Spanish. At this time there is no school, because there is vacation until April. The teachers speak only Spanish. Because of this, school is very difficult for our children, but I believe that it is the best way to teach them the new language.

We have a large house on the outskirts of Lima that is called St. Isidore. Our house is new and we are the first persons to have lived in it. The house is white and is of Spanish style. I like it a lot, but not as much as our own house in Park Ridge. We have four bedrooms for ourselves and two others for the servants. Behind there is a garden with a very high wall.

It is summer now, but I like the summer very much, but I don't like the other seasons, especially winter. In winter the days are all cloudy. There is no rain, but it is cold. It isn't as cold as in the United States, naturally, but the temperature is the same in the house as it is outside. There aren't any houses with inside heating.

I was going to ask my secretary to read this letter, but I have decided to leave all the errors. Possibly your students will like to read it.

Politely, Quincy Dounda

5. The teachers colleges have been consistently understaffed and, in view of the proposed reduction of the budget, will continue to be so.

6. Enrollments in public schools are still increasing. The teachers colleges must supply an even greater number of well trained teachers. To do this, the colleges must maintain a complete curriculum. This means that there must be no reduction of staff which inevitably causes curtailment of classes. Combining of classes into too-large sections deprives the student of effective instruction.

It is not too late for the people of the Stevens Point area to act on this all-important issue. The legislature is the body having final decision on the budget. Amendments still can be made. Faculties, student bodies, and

Coffee Confab

By Chuck

Attention, college men! Did you know that within the past few months we have been called everything from cowards to traitors? Sure you do. But all we ask is, why? Why us? What have we done?

Around Christmas time some of us decided to enlist because of pressure from the draft board. This pressure, we figured, was a result of a serious situation. So what happens? We were called traitors.

Now, after months of indecision, insecurity, and pleading for some consideration of our problems, we got relief and a sense of security out of the new college draft deferment program. So what do our fellow countrymen call us now? Draft-dodgers! Elite! Cowards! How can you win?

None of us have done one thing to deserve such criticism and debasement. Each man wants to do the best for himself and his country. We want to remain in college as long as we can so we can make better soldiers and citizens.

We would like to ask some of these critics some questions. Since when does deferment mean that life time exemptions make better soldiers? Is the situation one in which we want to develop a long term mobilization of high caliber? How many men ran to the farms during the last war for deferment? Weren't they a farming elite?

The critic might want to call on his pet question: What about the poor boy? Send him around to this reporter and we will give him a list that will knock his eyes out, a list of boys that are poor but in college. It's a matter of ambition, not money.

About the new program as it stands, sure, it needs connection. Don't they all? We say it would have been smarter to leave the deferments and tests up to local draft boards, but the present administration likes to set up new bureaus with alphabetic names. We all agree that the test should be very comprehensive. It will be that way, too, because of the present pressure.

In conclusion, the present program may have its faults, but a program is needed! We can't be called much worse names, fellas, so let's keep on fighting for a program. Whether they like it or not, we should take a stand for our education so that we can be secure students and thus be great soldiers and citizens.

Dr. Johnson once said, "Our supple tribes repress their patriot throats and ask no questions but the price of votes."

all friends of education must act to inform the legislators of these issues and to point out to them the necessity for the restoration of the budget as originally requested. Write to your senator and assemblyman or see them personally and write to Senator Foster Porter, chairman of the joint finance committee, state legislature, Madison, Wisconsin.

Accomplishments of CSTC Alums Bring Many Honors to Alma Mater

Projects of Local Alums Interesting

CSTC can be proud of the excellent quality of teaching which several alumni have produced in projects carried out this year in Stevens Point and Portage county. Mrs. Geneva (Foster) Borden '26, principal and kindergarten teacher at the Garfield school, has had a bird feeding project on the school grounds since last November. All of the children have participated in the project by hanging popcorn, cranberries, suet, bread crusts, apple cores and carrots on the branches of an evergreen tree which was planted last fall. A sign on a tree nearby explains the purpose of the projects and asks passersby to record any birds or animals seen. A note pad and pencil is kept in a wooden box under the sign.

Miss Lucy De Base '30, first grade teacher at the Garfield school, has directed the children in making instruments for their own unique band. Crude drums were made from cast-off materials such as coffee cans, nail kegs, and cheese boxes. Miss Dorothy Vetter, music supervisor, furnished scraps of real sheep skin secured from the high school band department and a local music store. The skins were soaked in water and stretched taut to make the drum heads. Tamborines were made from old pie-tins and bottle caps which the kindergarten children helped collect. Musical sand blocks were made from wood scraps secured from a local manufacturing company which the children visited. Flutes were made from paper towel tubes.

Carl Strassburg '50, social studies teacher at the Emerson school, directed a project in the 8A history class on the method used by the early Neanderthal species to pass on education. The artists in the class produced a chalk mural on the blackboard depicting "How the present came from the past." Comparisons of the governments and social customs of the people of ancient times were made with those of today. Stress was placed upon neatness, and correctness of spelling and English form in the written work of the project.

U.N. on Display

Another interesting project under the direction of Mr. Strassburg, was a unit on the United Nations. The students had on display replicas of flags of 22 countries, most of which were made by them. In the project, the students studied the UN in operation, and attempted to label its success and failures, and future usefulness as an international organization.

Under the guidance of Miss Helen Sager, '36 the 7A and 7C geography classes at the Emerson school, have broadened their background and knowledge of the state of Wisconsin and their local community. A tape recording consisting of interesting accounts of the early French explorers and of the logging and lumbering industries in Wisconsin was given by Alex Wallace of Stevens Point. Following a comprehensive study of Wisconsin, 30 students in the geography classes formed a junior chapter of the Wisconsin Historical society. Miss Sager is the chapter advisor.

Pioneer Honored

Mrs. Ramona (Putnam) Harder '49, teacher at the McDill school, and Miss Loretta St. George '51, another teacher at the school, paid tribute to Thomas H. McDill, a pioneer lumberman of Portage county, when an oil portrait was unveiled at the school recently. Mr. McDill, for whom the school and area were named, was a prominent pioneer in the state of Wisconsin, having served as a member of the legislature and the territorial commission. Senator Oscar W. Neale of Stevens Point delivered a short address at the ceremony.

Knowledge of town government, a project initiated by Miss Rowena Allen, '36, Portage county superintendent of schools, was imparted to the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades in the county recently. The pupils and their teachers met with the local town and village officials to learn about town and village government. The town officials did an excellent teaching job, discussing the duties and responsibilities of their offices, and explaining how and why the annual meeting is conducted, the voting process, where the town and village gets its money and how this money is spent. All of the pupils went to their respective village and town halls on April 3 to observe voting and to cast ballots, using sample ballots provided.

Four Alumni Are Officers of Teachers Association

Four CSTC alumni are serving as officers in four of the nine districts of the Wisconsin supervising teachers association. Clarence R. Wentland, '25, supervising teacher of Oneida county, is president of Group 4. Nora Le Roux '37, supervising teacher of Monroe county, is secretary-treasurer of Group 5. Marion Blatchley '43, supervising teacher of Winnebago county, is vice president of Group 6. Mayo Blake '37, supervising teacher of Waukesha county, is president of Group 8. The districts have been organized to better serve the members and schools of the association.

Ahl Prospects for CSTC

Library Gets Pray's Book

The college library now has a copy of "Social Work in a Revolutionary Age," by Kenneth L. M. Pray, son of Theron B. Pray, first president of the Stevens Point Normal. Kenneth Pray, who was dean of the Pennsylvania School of Social Work, Univ. of Pennsylvania, died in March, 1948. Mr. Pray was a graduate of the four year Latin Course of the Stevens Point Normal, class of 1901.

The book, a selected collection of his works on public welfare and penology, was made possible by generous gifts of workers all over the United States and Canada, in response to a press announcement of his death suggesting that something

Friends of Education Urged to Back Colleges

To the Friends of Education:

I believe it would impair the efficiency of the Teachers Colleges at the present time if the budget originally requested by the Board of Normal School Regents were reduced. This is particularly dangerous when the supply of teachers is very limited and the population of public schools is increasing rapidly every year.

We in the Teachers Colleges recognize our responsibility to you, and we want to provide you with good teachers for your children at all times. We would be critically handicapped in this by any reduction of our teaching staff or inability to supply proper equipment and maintenance in our colleges.

If you see this problem as a personal responsibility you can help greatly by contacting your State Senator and Assemblyman, either personally or by writing to them at the State Capitol, Madison, Wisconsin, immediately since the budget is already under consideration in the Legislature and will undoubtedly be ready for action this week. Urge your representative to work for the restoration of the Teachers College budget as originally presented by the Board of Normal School Regents.

After serving as librarian at the college from Sept. 1929 to Sept. 1938, Mr. Allez accepted the position of assistant director at the University of Wisconsin Library School. Three years later he was made director of the school. Under his directorship, the Library School reached "new peaks in teaching, research, and public service."

A George C. Allez Memorial Fund has been established by alumni of the Wisconsin Library School to perpetuate his memory. Because Mr. Allez strove to develop a feeling for books as a basic part of the philosophy of librarianship, the committee in charge of the fund chose books and related illustrative materials as the goal of this effort.

Contributions to the fund are not restricted to Wisconsin Library School alumni only. Friends may mail their contributions to the George C. Allez Memorial Fund, The Library School, 811 State Street, Madison 5, Wisconsin.

Mr. Schmeackle's Bald Eagle Is Here to Stay

CSTC's Conservation department picks up new additions in the oddest ways.

Several months ago, the last thing Baldy the eagle was worrying about was looking Fred J. Schmeackle in the eye. After all why should he worry? Food was plentiful and there is no animal that argues with an eagle with seven feet of wingspread even if he is only two years old.

Baldy made one mistake though. He overlooked the fact that his size made him a perfect target for someone who worried about neither Baldy's legal protection nor his harmlessness.

What happened next is something of a mystery. Anyway, Baldy eventually came to CSTC with the compliments of Harlan Stull, Plainfield taxidermist.

Now the question is what is Mr. Schmeackle going to do with Baldy? Is he going to teach Baldy to pick pockets and thus enrich the Conservation Department, or is he going to kick Baldy's older cousin out of his case on the third floor? Whatever he does, we know that Baldy has come to CSTC to stay.

Another Pointer Alibi

Our Excuse for Misspelled Names

We Americans may brag about the United States as the "melting pot of nations," and rightly so. However, newspaper staffs certainly cannot rejoice over the fact, and the Pointer staff is no exception. The plague of family names from all nationalities has left us newspapermen and women bleary-eyed and frustrated. Our only joy is that Uncle Sam isn't welcoming the Ivan Didenkovs and Peter Nicholas Pirogovs of Russia with open arms.

The CSTC plague of typical names from all lands, with their various intricate spelling idiosyncrasies, has blighted the Pointer staff no less than any other paper. Just witness this array of names (?) taken from the Student Directory: Zakrzewski, Stankevich, Reuterskiold, Doede, McCutcheon, Cudnobufsky, Czerniewski, Gieslewicz, Fossatti, Gryniowski, and Hill. Besides feeling sorry for ourselves as far as the spelling is concerned, we would like to express our sympathy for the poor professors who have to pronounce these names — especially Miss Smith who had a terrific time pronouncing the simple name Laszewski.

We of the Pointer envy the Point Journal — all they have to worry about is the "skis" and "cheks" of the Point Poles. But CSTC has Deutchers from Weyauwega, Swedes, Danes, and Norwegians from Iola, Frenchies, 'Airy Ole Englishmen, and so on.

May we here insert the plea to be patient with the poor Pointer reporter. If, when you are interviewed, don't get peeved if the reporter asks you if your name ends with sen or son — or if you capitalize the Guire as well as the De or the Arsdale as well as the Van. Or whether you are Delores or Dolores.

Please don't tell us that the Student Directory is the answer to all of our woes. Jones is easy to spell, of course, but how does the poor reporter know which one you are if you don't tell him.

Speaking of first names brings up this interesting digression. Here are a number of firsts suggested by various Pointer staff members as "strictly richter": Wilferd (not Wilfred), Dorotheanne, Isaac, Quinten, Memo, Thora, Sidone, Leah, Frederich, Syble, Hale, Dean, Jacqueline, Hermelinda, Letitia, Hugo, Royal, Elbridge, Bertram and John.

And now we come to the Pointer "boner" department (where Dr. Wiewel became Weivel and Mr. Pieper turned into a Peiper). Miss Glennon declares, "There is no excuse for misspelling any name" but we of the staff can always make up some sort of excuse. Of course the reporters blame it on the proof readers and vice versa. If nothing else plausible offers, we can always blame our mistakes on the printers. But how can we justify making Dave Ross into the Yamous orchestra leader, Dave Rose, and spelling our own dear sports editor, Dick Turzanski's, name wrong in a headline?

We regret that we could not include in this story all the outlandish names that deserve our cultural recognition. We suggest this topic as the subject for some ambitious person's term paper.

P. S. All mistakes in this story ardue too printin erers, we tink.

Phi Sig Keglers Take Two From League Leaders

After many weeks of bitter struggling, the Phi Sigma Epsilon bowling five finally accomplished a much desired task by climbing out of the cellar position they have held so long. They did so at the expense of the league leading Knudston team by whipping them twice. Bob (I-rish) McMahon blasted out a terrific 240 game, 567 series and Gib Chick hit a 202 game, 528 series to pace the Phi Sigs. Walt Weing's 514 series was the Knudston's keggers best effort.

Belke's Lumber Co. failed to take advantage of an opportunity to strengthen their climb towards the No. 1 spot by dropping three to the Brunswick boys, R. Parkin, of the losers, had the best count of either of these two teams with a 213 game, 512 series, while Jim Greathouse countered a 202 game to pace the Brunswick team.

It seemed to be a Greek night all the way around as Johnny Mallow with 211 game, 546 total and Frank DeGuire with 507 series paced the Chi Delta Rho pinsters to a clean sweep over the Campus Cafe five. Thomas led a losing cause with a 500 count. In the leagues other action last Wednesday, Don Larson's booming 235 game, 556 series paced Don's Coney Island to a two game victory over A. K. L. In so doing they lessened the space between these two teams who hold down the third and fourth positions in the league.

Three Big Tournaments Planned for "Sportettes"

The newly organized W R A is planning three big tournaments which are to be held in the near future. The games which are to be played are table-tennis, shuffleboard, and badminton.

These tournaments are being sponsored by the individual sports division of the W R A, headed by Carole Gilbertson.

The organization sent Amy Kampenga as its representative to the National convention of the athletic Confederation of American Women held at the University of Michigan on April 10-14.

The purpose of this convention is to promote high standards of recreational activities in which a system of intra-murals is stressed.

FIFTH QUARTER

Now that the snow and rubble of another winter has been cleared away, various reports of spring sports are coming in from several precincts.

Down at La Crosse where the big boys take their basic training out on the various members of the Teachers Conference, baseball, spring football, track, and swimming are on tap.

Coach Clark Van Galder welcomed 500 Clark football prospects. On May 5 an intra-squad game will be held. A morning clinic is also on tap. Those guys are really going all out!

At Quakerland, Coach Schwager welcomed back 10 lettermen. In last year's state meet Whitewater won fourth place.

Tennis Squad Begins Work for 1951 Season

A homeless tennis squad under the tutورشip of Coach Bernard F. Wiewel began work-outs this week. All the squad's matches will be on the road because of the erection of Delzell Hall on the site of the former courts.

Leading a contingent of six returning lettermen is Bill Bart. "Blasting" Bill has been Coach Wiewel's number one man for the past two years. Other returning monogram winners are Bob Johnson, Dave Case, Earl Korth, Kelly Douglas and Jim Benton.

At this date two dual meets and the conference conclave are on the net men's schedule. The first match is at Oshkosh on April 28. The other has been tentatively scheduled for May 5 at Whitewater and the conference meet is at La Crosse on May 19.

Seventh Graders Finish Study by Madison Trip

The Training school seventh graders accompanied by Miss Alice Hansen, supervising teacher, and student teachers Nancy Sannes, Rae Sturzl and Irving Mozuch visited Madison recently. The trip to Madison was the culminating activity in a general study of Wisconsin which the Training school pupils had been making.

The group attended sessions of both congressional houses, toured the Capitol building and Union hall, and visited the Civil War museum and the Badger Historical museum. Senator Oscar W. Neale of Stevens Point greeted the group at the capitol.
