Men's Glee Club Concert For Students This Sunday

The Men's Glee club will present its spring student assembly on Sunits spring student assembly on Sunday evening, May 6, as originally announced. This will be the last time that CSTC'ers will be able to hear the Glee club this year.

The group, under the direction of Norman E. Knutzen, will present much the same concert as given for the townspeople last month.

Highlight of the evening's sing-ing will be the "Twilight Scene," in which the men are grouped informal-ly about the stage in a living room scene. This makes for an air of familiarity between audience and per-formers and has been very well received by former audiences

The concert is open to the entire student body and faculty and also to a limited number of outsiders. There will be no admission charge, and no collection of any kind will be taken.

Recognition will come to deserving CSTC students at the annual Awards Day assembly to be held at 10 o'clock on Monday, May 14. Trophies and awards by CSTC organizations honoring outstanding students make this assembly one of the highlights of the college year. All organizations planning to present an award are asked to fill out the application blanks which can be obtained in the main office. The school year means the close of the year's sport program.

It has been a rough year on many of the big school campuses. An un-believable basketball scandal was exposed and several schools withdrew from football due to lack of manpower. Administrations also were concerned about the "bigness" of football. "Scholarships" and pro-fessionalism were and still age identical

It has been a rough year every-where the observer concludes... Not only on the sports scene but everywhere has the ugly and cancerous head of dishonesty exposed her wounds.

'However, to most of us, all the dishonesty and gambling charges have been far distant and remote charges. Yes, it could happen out East but here in the virgin Midwest - never!

And so we go, the faults of men are not our faults. It is not possible for us to visualize mistakes that men have already committed that may be in turn committed by ourselves. The faults of others are remote considerations.

Dishonesty has several degrees severity. False impression is the gravest offense of dishonesty. When a person lacks sufficient talent he is inclined to make up the deficit by inclined to make up the deficit by creating false impressions. Now none of us have any trouble determining whom to impress. All of us recognize the people who have jurisdiction over us and at once we proceed to coat ourselves with a veneer of niceness and goodness. Consequently upon obtaining our goal we retreat into our former selves. False impression cheats the other fellow who should have held our position. But through our own false showmanship the judge erroneously awards the position to us. false showmanship the judge er-roneously awards the position to us.

This form of dishonesty is prevalent everywhere. Students employ false impressionism to obtain various rewards from unsuspecting teachers.

Hence dishonesty is not a remote fault. And reform is not going to start out East or out in Washington unless it starts with the individual - you and me.

More Emphasis on Intramural Sports?

As the CSTC school spirt is seemingly increasing, our attention is turned to the sports within our own school. During the past) year the coaches and those who have participated in the intramural sports have done a fine job, but the question done a fine job, but the question comes to us whether more emphasis should be placed on these activities along with more student participa-

The views of the college students on this subject are as follows:

Bill Clayton: I think that intra mural sports are important and that they are being handled adequately.

Delores Jones: Yes, I think more memphasis should be placed on intra-mural sports. Especially, they should be publicized more. There are many good players and teams of which we never hear.

Walter Samelstad: I think that so water Sameistad: I think that so far they have been handled very well, and through more student co-operation they could be improved. Rose Christophersen: Some of the intramural sports such as basket-ball and bowling have been written up quite well, but what about the others?

Gib Chick: Yes. I believe there should be more emphasis on intra-mural sports. Participation in the various sports tends to provide a so-cial lift as well as physical.

Mary Johnson: The intramural sports have been well directed and the opportunities provided are sufficient for those who are interested in participating.

Bob Feit: I believe that we have a intramural sports program

Connie Callsen: I think what has been publicized is OK but more em-phasis could be put on sports other than basketball and football.
