New $600,000 Hyer Hall To Be Dedicated Sunday

The dedication of the new $600,000 Hyer Residence Hall for women will take place from 3:30-5 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 8. The hall is named for the fourth president of Wisconsin State College here.

The dedication ceremony is set for 3 p.m. when residents of the hall and their parents will hear President James H. Albertson and Associate Dean of Students Orland E. Radke give brief talks.

Mistress of ceremonies for the dedication will be Doris Wadzinski, hall president. Marilyn Sherman will give the response on behalf of the 200 women students of the hall.

Hackner, Schroeder and Associates, La Crosse, were the architects and Ellis Stone and Construction Co., Stevens Point, was the general contractor. The building, on N. Reserve Street about 700 feet north of Pray-Sims Hall, is a three-story structure of fawn colored brick. The furniture is stationary and the drapery and upholstery are in pastel shades.

Each room houses two students, announces Miss Joan Doyle, an alumna and director of the new residence hall.

The building was financed through federal loans to be repaid from student fees.

Frank S. Hyer came to Stevens Point in 1904 as institute conductor, and later was appointed principal of the Model School, later called the Tarning School. He remained here until 1919 when he became president of Wisconsin State College, White-water.

During his tenure at White-water, the enrollment more than doubled in spite of the fact that there was keen competition from numerous colleges in the area and that Whitewater, the largest city in Walworth County, had a population of only 3,200.

Mr. Hyer was the only man ever to serve as president of two Wisconsin State Colleges.

Mr. Hyer died March 1, 1957 at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Invitations have been sent to Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Leishman, Elmhurst, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hyer, Wilmington, Del.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hyer, Grosse Pointe Wood, Mich., and Mrs. F. S. Hyer, Waupaca, his widow.

Twelve Tournaments Listed For Debaters

While the basketball team is devising ways to rack up more points, the debate teams are getting ready for another kind of intercollegiate competition.

Wisconsin State College debate team here, coached by Dr. Fred R. Dowling of the speech department is representing WSC at twelve tournaments this year.

The debate team is made up of two teams. The varsity, or experienced team, and the novice, or beginning team. Included in the varsity team is David Arneson, DeLyle Bowers, Charles Fischer, Rick Gass, and Gordon Mallick. The novice team includes Pamela Anderson, Mary Jane Lodes, Randy Porubcan, and Nancy Daniel.

The novice team debated in a tournament in Milwaukee recently, winning two out of eight debates.

Participating in the annual Oshkosh Varsity Tournament, Fischer and Bowers, seniors, and Mallick, a sophomore and Arneson, a junior, won six of their twelve debates to tie for ninth place in a field of twenty schools. Among their victories, Arneson and Mallick won over the Universities of Missouri and Minnesota and Bradley University, Peoria, Ill.

Bowers and Fischer won two of six debates, defeating Hamilton University and River Falls State. One of their losses was to Wayne State University, the tournament champion, a debate which was decided after the judge gave both teams an equal number of speaker points.

In reviewing the tournament, Dr. Dowling reported that no unit went undefeated, as the competition was extremely severe. Only four units of 40 had five wins of six debates. Three of WSC's losses were to three of the four top teams.

The proposition this year is: "Resolved: That the federal government should guarantee an opportunity for higher education to all qualified high school graduates." At each tournament this subject is further qualified. The debaters bring new information into the debate from outside readings. At the beginning of the year, the debaters only study for one side of the question. Later they must be prepared to debate both sides of the question. They do not know before the tournament which side they will have to debate.

This year the debaters are studying statistics such as why people go to college, who goes to college, the historical relationship in support of education, the economics of higher education, and the drop out rate in high schools and its effect on college. This research before the debates averages about six hours of study per week for each debater.

The same four debaters will not always be the ones to debate a chance throughout the year. The others will be given All people prepared to debate are taken along on the trips even if they won't have a chance to debate at that time.

Other schools to be visited this year are St. Thomas College in Minnesota, Wisconsin State Colleges at Eau Claire, River Falls and Whitewater, University of Wisconsin, Bradley University, Peoria, Ill., Illinois State Normal University at Normal, Ill., and State University of Iowa, Iowa City. Each year the debate team takes a long trip to debate in a national tournament. This year they hope to go to Denver, Col. The last two years found them traveling to Washington, D.C.

IN A SCENE FROM last year's Christmas Decorating Party, sponsored by the Union Board Social Committee, the festive atmosphere and joyous activities are seen on the faces of these girls as they decorate the bulletin board in anticipation of the Christmas season and their treat from St. Nick! This year's party will be held Sunday afternoon, Dec. 8 in the College Union.

Jolly Old Santa Visits Christmas Decorating Party

It's time to meet the Christmas spirit and "Deck the halls with boughs of holly, fa-la-la-lala..." What better way to meet the spirit than by joining fellow students from 1-4:30 p.m., Sunday afternoon, Dec. 8 in the Union?

The Christmas Decorating Party is being sponsored by the Union Board Social Committee, who will provide the festive materials and fun.

Meet jolly old St. Nick and get a Christmas treat from him. Christmas carols will also be sung to make "the season to be jolly."

Oratorio Honors Christ's Birth Through Music

Wisconsin State College students and Central Wisconsin residents will present Handel's "Messiah" at 8 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 8 in the Physical Education Building.

The oratorio depicts the prophesy and glorification of Christ's birth in an unacted drama set to music.

Dr. Hugo D. Marple, professor of music, will direct the "Messiah" featuring an orchestra of fifty persons and a chorus of about 200. The chorus will include the choir and choralers of WSC as well as community choruses from many communities in Central Wisconsin.

Four soloists will have numbers in the performance. They are Fumi Saito, Karen Daehn, David Dick of the music department faculty and Tom Cuitice, also of the music faculty.

The faculty and students are entitled to one free ticket. Additional tickets may be obtained for $1.00.

Student Receives Recognition For Literary Work

A Wisconsin State College junior recently was honored by the "Annual Anthology of College Poetry," a collection of the finest poetry written by college men and women of America.

Judith Ostrowski, a history and English major, received this literary distinction for her poem entitled, "In the Ole Ghost Town."

Miss Ostrowski said she was especially surprised when she heard of its acceptance because she had air-mailed the poem on Nov. 5, the deadline for entries.

This honor was not the first she has received for her writings. Miss Ostrowski has also had a poem entitled, "The Wise, The Precious," published in a high school anthology, which also won her a first prize at the State for the Catholic Daughters of America. (Continued on page 4).

"Rhinoceros" In Final Week Of Rehearsal

Fourteen Wisconsin State College students are rehearsing for "Rhinoceros" a play by Eugene Ionesco to be produced at 8 p.m., Dec. 11 through Dec. 14 by the speech and drama department in the auditorium.

The play, first produced in Paris at the Odeon in 1960, and later that same year by Orson Welles at the Royal Court Theatre in London, is a satire on herd conformity.

Ionesco ridicules the empty phrasings uttered every day by human beings, pokes fun at the use human beings make of logic and scores their pomposity.

Playing leading roles are James Mueller, Berenger, a pompous Frenchman; Jeff Rodman, Jean, the nonconformist, and Sue Siebert, Daisy, a beautiful young French girl who works in the office with Berenger.

Others in the cast are Joyce Wolter, the waitress; Kathleen Prakovich, the housewife; Jerome Kenas, the grocer's wife; Cynthia Hartwig, the grocer; Truman Flowers, an old gentleman, and Mike Worman, the logician.

Michael Berry plays the cafe proprietor, Gary Morgan, Duddard; Dennis Waid, Botard; Ellis on Ferrall, Mr. Papillon, and Joan Newby, Mrs. Bouef.

The play is directed by William M. Dawson, professor of speech.

Former President To Speak In Lounge

William C. Hansen, former president of Wisconsin State College here, will speak today, Dec. 5 in the Union Lounge in a program sponsored by the Phi Alpha Theta, national history honor society.

His topic will be based on a manuscript he is now preparing for publication.

Delta Zeta's Annual Dance Snow Swirl

With or without snow, Delta Zeta will present its annual dance, 8-11:30 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 7, in the College Union. This year's dance entitled Snow Swirl is a record dance.

During the intermission, the "flurries" will stage a floor show. This "Parade of Dolls" show will feature various girls in the sorority.

The attire for the evening is informal. Refreshments will be served and admission will be charged.

Committee chairmen for the event are: Ann Henrichs, and Kit McCormick, general chairmen; Sue Sadowski, floor snow; Janice Lathrop, decorations; Jo Ann Schwebach, food; Lee Raguse, publicity; Sal Sherman, props, and Kay Rasmussen, skits.

Everyone's talking about Snow Swirl, so don't miss it.

Student's Work On Exhibition

A painting by William Landwehr, a student at Wisconsin State College here has been selected for exhibition in the Twenty-ninth Wisconsin Salon of Art at the Wisconsin Union Galleries of the University of Wisconsin.

The oil painting entitled, "The President Speaks," will be on exhibit through Jan. 7, 1964.

The purpose of the Wisconsin Salon of Art is to display the best work currently being done in the state by faculty members, professional artists, graduate and undergraduates.

Three hundred and eighty artists submitted 668 works of art in either oil, watercolor, graphics or sculpture with a limit of two (Continued on page 4).

A Small Act ...

"So close and yet so far away," seems to be the motto of many of our WSC students as they trek from the main building to the Union via the tunnel, depositing their gum wrappers and cigarette butts along the way.

The tunnel seems to be the main area where the wastebasket is more often missed than hit. This is carelessness on our part which there is no need for. Baskets have been provided and all we have to do is use them.

Not long ago I was walking behind a fellow student and that person actually threw his paper into the opposite corner from the basket! You would think the least the person could have done was aim in the right direction.

If this sloppy careless attitude is the way these same students do their school work, what type of citizen will he or she be. Maybe this is making a mountain out of a mole hill but many times the employer will look at the little things which make up our character when we have to begin looking for a job. Someone once said that it's the little things that count.

ID's For Wives?

by Don Heusterberg

During the past several weeks much has been said and written about school spirit. Yell Like Hell, Enthusiasm, and 'Lacerate La Crosse' are slogans that have appeared on the walls of Schofield Hall and in the Spectator. These attempts to revive school spirit have not been entirely unsuccessful as witnessed by students participating at recent football games.

However there is still a segment of society that would attend athletic events, adding to our cheering section, if they were given a little encouragement. These people are the wives and husbands of students, and student dates that do not attend college. These people must pay one dollar and fifty cents for the opportunity of watching Blugold football games.

To those of you that are not married and being put through school by Papa, $1.50 does not sound like much. But to the married guy or girl, this sum for five home games does amount to something.

So what is the answer? Many college students might simply suggest that you borrow another student's ID card. But this violates the uses of the ID card, cannot always be done on time, and cheats the function out of some money that it could have had. The answer of this writer is to issue ID cards to the wives and husbands of students, and then charge a more nominal price of these people.

We realize that this is not an original idea. At a recent meeting of the College Senate a motion to issue these ID cards was introduced, and then sent to the Commission on Student Welfare. It has not been heard of since.

At a meeting of the Student Wives, an organization composed entirely of student wives and open to all student wives, the matter of ID cards was discussed. The group favored issuing spouse ID, but took no special action to accomplish their goal.

It is too late to accomplish this goal for reduced prices at football games. But the basketball season is right around the corner, and the College Players will present four more productions this school year which could be enjoyed by more people if this spouse ID program were adapted.

If you feel that you want to help push this idea, or are just a rebel looking for a cause, you can help. Talk to members of the Commission on Student Welfare or any members of the Senate. Let them know how you feel about the idea, for they are your representatives and theirs will probably be the final verdict on the matter.

Letter To The Editor

Letter to the Editor:

A guided tour of the library probably doesn't sound extremely exciting to you. It certainly didn't to me when I was informed by my English instructor that our freshman English class was to experience just that — a guided tour of the library.

Simply being a freshman doesn't make one feel any too well, but to go parading around the library, confronting the superior and amused looks of the upperclassmen, seemed utterly ridiculous. However, I finally resigned myself to going since I could see some possible merit in such an excursion. As time was to tell, I was soon to become aware of the vast reservoir of knowledge that presents itself in the form of the library.

At any rate, the day of the tour rolled around, and off I went to the library. After everyone had arrived, the tour began. We were given the same old routine description of the card catalog, library regulations, and general services of the library. At this point, it looked as if my suspicions were correct. First of all, I had not learned anything new; secondly, the upperclassmen were watching us as though we were animals at the zoo.

However, our guide, a very congenial, capable, and well-informed man, proceeded to introduce us to much more than the basic and routine. We were soon acquainted with such valuable reference sources as the shelf list, the periodical index, the paper-back index, and the biographical references. The fact that WSC's library is a federal and state documents depository especially impressed upon me the amount of material that exists and that I had never been aware of.

Although it may have sounded juvenile at first, the guided tour of the library was a very valuable experience for me and should be for every college student.

JUST A FROSH

Focus

by Sue Stanke

The polar bears and parkas are back. Winter, with its magical transformation from green to white, also manages to transform the students at WSC.

Nobody ever gets lost at WSC in winter — snow tracks that go all the way into the Union, down the tunnel, and into the main building make it easy to find out where anyone has gone. And when the snow melts, there are always little puddles signifying that if not Kilroy — at least Joe, Mary, Pat and Tony have been here.

Although nobody may get lost, it is all too easy, if not impossible not to recognize your friends when you do see them. The men look like burly bears in hip-length boots, ten feet long neck scarfs (knitted by the girl back home), hooded ski jackets and gloves. The coed, stylishly attired in boots anywhere from ankle to cossack length, carcoats, neck scarfs (knitted by mother), shaggy hats and furry gloves are also uncomfortable.

It is not so much wearing all this paraphernalia, as getting all these things on — and then getting them off — between an 8:45 at Old Main and a 9:45 at the physical education building. The boots suddenly shrink two sizes, the scarf has mysteriously become knotted in three places, you can't find your gloves, and a button falls off your coat as you bend to pick up your books.

Getting from building to building during winter is an art in itself. One jumps from spot to spot in the parking lot in back of the Union, hoping to avoid the gopher holes, ruts, ice patches, and occasionally — when the sun comes out — huge slushy puddles. This is of course, in addition to the usual hazards — ducking snowballs, keeping an eagle eye out for the friend who has promised to throw you into the first big snowpile, and lunging out of the way of skidding cars.

Winter-stalled cars and snowballs, snowmen and skating, skiing and slush. Isn't it grand.

Figures Show Men Outnumber Women

The number of on-campus men students at Wisconsin State College here exceeds the number of coeds by 606, announces Gilbert W. Faust, dean of admissions and registrar.

"In other words, there are 22 per cent more men than women in the college," explained Faust. "Some 1,075 women are enrolled at WSC, in contrast with 1,681 men."

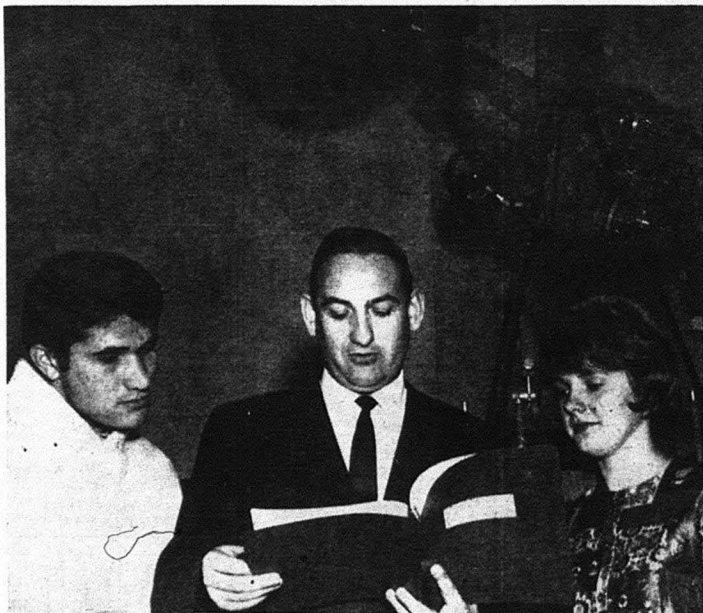

The freshman class includes 667 men and 395 women. Among the sophomores are 462 men and 290 women. In the junior class there are 305 men and 209 women; senior class, 233 men and 164 women. In the special student classification are 14 men and 17 women.

Of the total student body enrollment of 2,756, the freshman class includes 1,062 students. Of the total number of students, 752 are sophomores, 514 are juniors; 397 are seniors and 31 are specials.

The freshman class comprises 39 per cent of the student body, and there are almost two and three-fourth as many freshmen as seniors.

These figures do not include students enrolled in extension and Saturday classes.

APPROXIMATELY 2,400 PEOPLE flowed throughout the doors of the Science Building's open house last Sunday. Robert T. Anderson, chairman of the publicity committee, said that it was a "fairly successful" open house with an almost continuous flow of people from the time the doors opened until they closed. People from in and outside of the Stevens Point area came to tour the facilities. Pouring over a folder beneath the projector in the Spitz planetarium are Dominic Zappia, Allan F. Blocher, assistant professor of physics, and Sally Kausa.

Pointers Humble Alumni, Jayvees Win; Grapplers, Finsters On Winning Road

Led by Stevens Point's Mike Fortune, the Pointers of Wisconsin State College defeated a strong alumni squad, 72-63, Saturday night at the fieldhouse in their opening game of the season.

Fortune scored 15 points to lead the WSC attack on the old grads, 11 of those points coming in the first half as the varsity raced to a 42-28 halftime advantage. The only other Pointers to score in the double figures were Kaukauna guard Bill Borchardt, 12, and Phillips center George Borchardt and Pouba combined for 12 of the final 14 points scored by the varsity in the closing minutes of the contest as the alumni closed to within five points twice in the waning portion of the game.

Bill Kuse, currently head basketball and baseball coach at D. C. Everest, counted 16 points to lead Coach Hale Quandt's "Old Men." Kuse had a hot second half, hitting six of 10 field goal attempts and two of three free throw tries.

The Everest coach personally accounted for 10 of the last 14 points scored by the alumni.

WSC coach Bob Krueger stated he was well satisfied by the Pointers' opening game performance. The game was marked by usual first game mistakes as the boys gave the ball away 22 times.

On the basis of performance against the alumni, Krueger decided that his cagers are still pretty equal. "We'll give everyone a chance this week (four games scheduled) and then make decision on a starting lineup for our conference opener against Platteville," he said.

Game statistics point out a weakness that will more than likely plague WSC all season long, rebound strength. The alumni grabbed off 41 rebounds compared to 33 for the varsity. A further breakdown indicates the current Pointer squad particularly weak on the offensive boards where they snared only five loose balls during the game.

Getting fewer rebounds the Pointers relied on greater accuracy from the field and the charity line to come through with the victory. The varsity canned 22 of 31 free throw attempts, whereas the grads were able to cash in only nine of 25 tries, and therein lies the story.

Outscored from the line, the Jums field goal advantage wasn't enough to provide a winning margin. Quandt's charges made good on 27 of 78 field goal attempts, a 34.6 per cent average. The varsity, on the other hand, took fewer shots and had a better percentage, 40.9, making good 17 of 41 attempts.

Plagued by errant passes in the second half, the varsity took only 25 shots, compared to 41 for the alumni.

Krueger started a veteran lineup, using his five lettermen to open the game. Al Temte and Jerry Lawetzke opened at forwards, George Pouba at center, and Pat Dann and Grant White at guards.

Opening for Quandt's alumni were Chuck Millenbah and Don O'Neil at forwards, Lavern Luebstorff at center, and Kuse and Jim Marko at guards.

Throughout the game, the alumni platoonned their personnel. Playing together much of the time were members of the 1963 team and another unit with players from 1959 through 1962.

The game got off to a slow start with neither team showing any deadly accuracy from the field. The varsity moved out in front, 7 to 4, before the alumni reeled off six straight points to take their only lead of the game.

White hit a jumper from the side to cut the margin to a single point. Then Lawetzke hit his only bucket of the game to give the varsity a one-point lead and they never again fell behind.

The alums managed to pull within one point at 15-14, before the varsity ran off eight straight points for a 23-14 lead.

With about six minutes to go in the half, the varsity hit another hot streak on buckets by Bryan Wirth, Fortune and Borchardt to move in front by 15 at 33-18.

With a little under two minutes left in the first half, the varsity opened the gap to 17 at 41-24, on a layup by Borchardt. That was their biggest lead of the night.

Fortune came off the bench with about five minutes gone in the first half and started dropping in lone one-handed jumpers.

Twice in the second half, the alumni closed the gap to five points. But each time, the current edition of the Pointers refused to collapse.

With 8:20 left, Kuse closed it to 56-51, on a jumper from the top of the key. Guard Howie Ochs dropped in two free throws and Kuse matched them to make the score 58-53, with 4:20 left in the game.

At this point, Borchardt and Pouba took over. Borchardt hit from the side to run it to 60-53. Don Kottke hit on a free throw and Borchardt came back with a jump shot from 15 feet out, Kuse cut the margin to 62-56, on a tip-in.

Pouba dropped a pair of free throws and Kuse connected with another one-handed jump shot. Borchardt made two more free throws and Kuse another jumper to make the score, 66-60.

The Pouba hit four straight points on a layup and two free throws to run the lead to 10 points, at 70-60.

Jack Ulwelling made good on a charity toss and O'Neil a driving layup before Temte hit a jumper with three seconds left to close out the scoring for the game.

The 11-man alumni squad was composed of Don O'Neil and Bill Kuse (1962); LaVern Luebstorff and Jim Marko (1959); Sammy Sampson and Don Kottke (1961); and John Krueger, Jim Hansen, Chuck Millenbah, Bill Nelson and Jack Ulwelling (1963).

The next home game for the Pointers will be Wednesday night, with the opposition provided by Lawrence College of the Midwest Conference.

Better that they should die fighting than live to die of a lack of living.

Stevens Point

Officials — Jerry Quandt (Cecil), Ron Knoll (Wausau).

Wisconsin-State College junior varsity turned on the steam in overtime to beat Willie's Bar in a preliminary game before Saturday night's alumni tilt. The final score was 96-91, as the JVs outscored Willie's 13 to 8 in the five-minute extra period.

Willie's took an early lead but fell behind, 43-28 at halftime. At one stage in the game, the amateur quintet was arrears by as much as 13 points.

Jay Warner sent the game into overtime by sinking a 20-foot jump shot with 16 seconds left in the regulation contest, tying things at 83-83.

JV guard Jim Fitzgerald missed a golden opportunity to end things when he failed to drop a free throw with three seconds showing on the clock. Fitzgerald, however, redeemed himself by sinking three baskets in the overtime.

Fitzgerald led a balanced JV attack with 22 points. Others scoring in double figures for the JVs were Jim Vance and Jim Hackbart, 14 apiece, Doug Johnson, 13, and Bill Clerkin, 11.

Big Hank Misna led Willie's offensively with 31 points. Also scoring well were Dick White, 19, Don White, 15, and Pat Taylor, 12. Willie's Bar played the game with only six mtn suited up but stuck right with the collegians all the way.

With six returning lettermen on the squad, the 1963-64 WSC swimming team faces a new season. Coach Bob Jones didn't attempt to predict anything as of yet, but he noted that the team has very high spirit and great potential.

The six veterans are Greg Engler, Ed Peters, Ken Wingeneder, Dick Larsen, and divers Tom Broderick and Aubrey Fish.

Freshman who have impressed Jones thus far are Tom Frank, John Mundy, Bill Wellwicks and Dave Huczinski. Jones pointed out that some of the other boys on the squad are pushing hard for a starting spot.

The swimming schedule for this year's swimmers is:

Dec. 7 — Platteville, 2 p.m. (H)
 Dec. 12 — La Crosse, 4 p.m. (H)
 Feb. 1 — River Falls, 4 p.m. (T)
 Dec. 7 — Platteville, 2 p.m. (H)
 Feb. 1 — River Falls (T)
 Feb. 8 — Oshkosh (T)
 Feb. 12 — La Crosse, 4 p.m. (T)
 Feb. 15 — UW-M (T)
 Feb. 22 — Mich. Tech, 2 p.m. (H)
 Feb. 28-29 — Conference Meet at River Falls
 March 7 — Winona, 2 p.m. (H)

Jones hopes to have an intrasquad meet sometime in January.

A swim consists of 11 different events. In a dual meet two men are entered from each school in each event. The events are: 50 yd., 100 yd., 200 yd., and 300 yd. freestyles, 400 yd. freestyle relay, and a medley relay consisting of 400 yds, and a variety of strokes: breaststroke, butterfly, backstroke, 200 yd. butterfly, 200 yd. breaststroke, 200 yd. individual medley where one man does a variety of strokes, and finally diving.

Seven Lettermen Return To Team

Seven lettermen returned to the WSC wrestling team this year. The veterans are: Tom Dlugos, 167; Bernie Christianson, heavyweight; Pete Seiler, 177; Rich Sommer, 137; Gary Van Wormer, 157; Jim White, 147, and Tod Wise, 123.

Following is a list of the top Pointer candidates in each weight division:

- 115 — Mike Ebsen
- 123 — Tod Wise
- 130 — Rick Riley
- 137 — Rich Sommer
- 147 — Jim White
- 157 — Gary Van Wormer
- 167 — Tom Dlugos
- 177 — Pete Seiler
- 191 — Roger Johnson

Heavy — Bernie Christianson

This year's team should give all newcomers very strong competition and shouldn't be beaten very badly by anyone.

The schedule is as follows:
 Nov. 30 — Marquette (T)
 Dec. 7 — WSC Invitational
 Dec. 14 — State Collegiate (Madison)

Dec. 19 — Oshkosh (T)
 Jan. 11 — La Crosse (T)
 Feb. 1 — UW-M (T)
 Feb. 3 — Platteville (H)
 Feb. 8 — Eau Claire (T)
 Feb. 15 — Stout (H)
 Feb. 18 — Whitewater (H)
 Feb. 22 — River Falls (H)
 Feb. 28-29 — SCC Meet (Sup.)
 March 12-14 — NAIA Meet (Spearfish, S.D.)

WRA Begins New Series Of Activities

As of Nov. 25, the Women's Recreation Association began a new series of activities.

Apparatus equipment—including a trampoline, parallel bars, rings and a horse—is available on Mondays at 6:15 p.m. Also at that time, badminton will be offered for those interested.

Synchronized swimming will continue until semester time.

WRA also plans to have a bowling league if the participation is sufficient to warrant one. The games will be played late in the afternoons instead of Monday evenings.

WSC Students Evaluate, Coach Speech Events

Students of the Wisconsin State College speech department here will be critics at an invitational Speech Meet being hosted by the Campus Laboratory School from 12:30 - 4 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 7.

This third annual meet is centered around the theme of Christmas. Special guest will be Dr. Gladys L. Borchers, professor emerita of the University of Wisconsin, Madison. She will give her evaluation of the merits of forensics participation. Professor Borchers has had long experience with speakers of all ages, and has shown much interest in junior high school students.

College students throughout the year have worked coaching and evaluating the speech activities of the junior high students at the Campus Laboratory School.

Also involved in the speech activities are Dr. Pauline Isaacson, chairman of the speech department, Dr. Terrence J. Snowden, director of the Campus Laboratory School, and Miss Irene Gray, Forensics Club sponsor.

Carolyn Beetem of the Pirate Press, Ventura College, Ventura, Calif., writes: "Sometimes my conscience and I have glorious fights. Last Friday we had a dilly. Having to decide between the prospects of leaving Friday night for a weekend in Las Vegas and studying for two tests coming up Monday morning presented a most twitchy dilemma. Common sense won out. The weather was cool in Las Vegas, and . . ."

Martin Thanks College, Students For Cooperation

The United Fund of Portage County has gone over the hump in their drive to raise $57,000 for 15 charitable and service organizations.

The total amount received is $57,320 in a campaign directed by Stratton Martin, chairman, and Robert Fick, co-chairman. John Bedore is United Fund president.

Mr. Martin thanked the college and its students for their wonderful cooperation in the drive.

Although the drive officially ended Saturday, a few contributions are still coming in. Whatever is collected above the $57,000 goal will be placed in a surplus fund.

This is used for emergencies and to make up the shrinkage which occurs annually when people move away or for other reasons do not fulfill pledges and payroll deductions.

Last year, the UF drive fell $507 short of its quota of $56,546. The goal had been raised $3,000 from the year before, and that apparently was too big a jump. This year, the increase in the quota was limited to less than $500.

The six-week campaign started in mid-October and moved ahead of last year's pace at times and then lagging.

Art

Landwehr is a senior in art education, currently student teaching at P. J. Jacobs High School here. He is president of the Student Art League and also a member of the Union Board Cultural Committee.

It's the kind of beautiful day that makes you sorry you're not alive.

Poetry

Although she has been writing poetry since her senior year in high school, she is interested in poetry primarily as a pastime.

Advice is like snow; the softer it falls, the longer it dwells upon and the deeper it sinks into the mind.
