History Teachers Discuss Revolution
The first of the WSU History Department's panel discussions was held Tuesday, February 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the Frank Lloyd Wright Lounge of the University Center.

Professor Nelson also pointed out that no one man controlled the Revolution at any one time. Professor Knowlton was second at bat with his topic of "Revolution in Latin America."

Professor Soroka talked on the Russian Revolution. He stated that this revolution, although taking many lives, was very much needed. The government was unable to cope with the running of the vast country.

Professor Walker filled in on the revolutions in China. He was very careful to mention that China has been reverting, in one form or another, since 221 B.C. Mr. Walker also mentioned that most of the revolutions in China.

UJC Sponsors Kodak "Garden Of Pictures"
The beautiful floral arrangements displayed at several of the recent garden shows will be featured in "A Garden of Pictures," the name of a new series of Kodak slides.

Tips on photographing indoor and floral scenes will be offered at the second garden show photography series at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 3, in the Wisconsin Room of the University Center.

Produced by the Eastman Kodak Company to assist amateur photographers, the series is being sponsored by the University Center Board Cultural Committee, in conjunction with John Schellkopf, WSU senior from Oxford.

"Adventures in Indoor Color Slides" will illustrate the "do's and don'ts" of flash photography and explore unique indoor subjects such as museums, sports events, and abstract colors.

Europe Seen Through Ellison's Eyes

(Editor's Note: Educational and cultural opportunities were offered in travel in Western Europe are highlighted in an article written by Ellison Ferral, of Gresham, student, Stevens Point University. Ellison writes about his visit to the country of Western Europe, his visits to beautiful art galleries and museums, including a visit to Florence which he claims his "true flavor" of Europe. His article will be published in four parts, this one of which appears today.)

ELLISON FERRAL
Ellison Ferral, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ferral of Gresham, a senior and an English major at Wisconsin State University, Stevens Point, has returned from an extended tour of most of the countries of Western Europe. For three months this summer on his own without benefit of packaged tour or guided travel, Ellison visited England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, France, Spain, Italy, Switzerland, West Germany, East Germany, Denmark, Holland, and Belgium, and returned again to England. At the age of twenty one, Ellison has experienced educational and cultural opportunities that most people would feel fortunate to have acquired in a lifetime. Mr. Ferral relates some of the highlights of his trip as follows.

I left New York June 16th and arrived at Southampton, England on the Sitar Line SS Castel Felice. I spent a week in London, visited the theaters at night. I am an avid playgoer, and among the most memorable was Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" at the Old Vic Theater, and "Dandy Dick" by Fenner at the Mermaid Theater, a converted warehouse a fine play and very well done.

I visited the British Museum. The highlights were the Parthenon works by Phidias and the great classic art of the ancients. Also by stretching a point I was admitted to the manuscript room open only to Students of advanced Study, where the originals of works by Keats, Byron, Temnyson, Browning, and Thomas were written names. I visited the famous Tower of London where the crown jewels of England and the fabulous Star of India, a diamond that weighs over 37 carats. I visited the dungeons of the Tower, where most grim side of England history was recorded. On the walls were written names of the famous people who were imprisoned there, many of whom were executed there as well.

I have sort of a personal family interest in the "Tower of London." My grandfathers Charles Russell Ferral visited there in the year 1892, at the youthful age of 22 years. On returning home, he wrote a very fine essay on the old Tower which was printing in the "Globe" magazine. I have a copy of this essay.

When London I traveled north thru the lake region, made thru the most beautiful English spots which lived there. I visited the most of the finest works of the English language. Two days travel in the Scottish highlands. I fell in love with this fine old city and the Scottish people as well. The main attraction of the street of Edinburgh is one of the most beautiful streets I have ever seen. It is a long, narrow, tree-lined park, and the opposite side is lined with fine stores. The Edinburgh is a fine old town, an ancient fortress of the Scots, hovers over the city like a brooding giant. Nearby is the home of Bobby Burns, I was in Glasgow, an industrial town, and then I visited the home of Thomas M. Burns, Jr. I visited the home of the Scottish Scot to Cullen Castle, pronounced "Cullen," which was a very newly made house. I visited the home of the "Red" where I took a ferry to Belfast, Ireland.

PRESIDENT BARNER R. ULLSVIK (right) of Wisconsin State University-Platteville brought along an academic cap for Governor Knowles to wear when he issued a proclamation designating Feb. 25 as State University Centennial Day. Should Cheaters Be Exposed And Expelled?

(ACP) — Should cheaters be exposed and expelled? An educator professor at North Texas State University, Denton recently accused one of his students of cheating on a test. John A. Gaudin, his classmate, had evidence that he had been cheated on a test. "I have had quite a bit of exposure to this sort of thing and after several years have come to the conclusion that the best way to deal with it is by the teacher exposing the cheater before his classmates," he said.

The professor insisted that he leave the room, report to the registrar's office, and direct the course. He opened the door and said "good riddance" to her as she hurried out. "Mr. Jones...I didn't do it," the cop replied excitedly. "How can you accuse me of such things?"

(ACP) — The war in Vietnam has generated a good deal of debate on college campuses recently. Why do these people, and others, protest and boycott? We can imagine that the students of Oregon Daily Emerald, the present generation of college youth, has had this in the bowels of the greatest world war in history. Many of them have no living fathers because of that war and many other fathers bearing the lifelong scars of battle.

Today, many years after the end of the Korean war and fewer years after Quemy and Matsui, Berlin, Lehman, and Cuba America again faces a major war, this time with implications the world has only rarely seen. The situation in Viet Nam today's college student had little or no contact with developments which led to the present situation in Viet Nam. Precious few voices were raised in question when President Eisenhower first committed American troops to Vietnam as early as 1956. The adults who today criticize the student for inspecting his war, pay attention to the warnings sounded a decade ago about America's involvement in Asia.

So today's student watches draft calls rise and wonders who will be next. He watches Sen. Wayne Morse's predictions of "massive war in Asia slow become a reality and the rightfully questions Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's three separate and widely spaced forecasts that American boys would be home by the end of 1965. Most of all, he wonders about the real reasons for this war 8,000 miles from home, reasons which have yet to become a reality.

The fact is that many more college students should concern themselves with this war, even though they are not concerned. It may be the most important problem they will encounter in their lives. Whitewater. The Board of Normal Schools voted in Madison on Feb. 28, 1966 to establish the first two state normal schools at Platteville, where classes began the same year, and at Whitewater, where the school opened in 1968. The system now is tenth largest in the nation, with nine universities which enrolled 38,592 students last fall.

Sig Pi's
The brothers travel to Milton College March 5th for their annual province basketball tournament — and the Sig Pi's are the victors. Sigma Pi has had two successful rushes and pledging will soon be in full swing. At recent rush, Advisor Robert Jacobs, Vice-president of Sentry Insurance Co., spoke to the brothers. His speech was the first announcement of the brother's plan to build a new fraternity house.

Sig Tau's
Sigma Tau Gamma is now in the middle of its rushing program. A second rush (formal) was held in the Frank Lloyd Wright lounge last Monday at which Mr. Fred Leafgren spoke to the prospective pledges. The last rusher will be an informal one scheduled for this Thursday.

Sig Eps
The Sig Eps wish to congratulate the Alpha Phi's and the Sig Tau's on their Winter Carnival victories. The Sig Eps are proud of the fine effort they displayed in Winter Carnival. They had a traumatic experience in winning broom hockey.

Sig Kappa's
The chapter welcomes back George Kletler who took a leave of absence the first semester to work in a foundry. On his way back he stopped in at the Sigma Tau Gamma traveling trophy which is now back in Stevens Point. Our spring pledge program will be starting on March 8th.

KANSAS CITY, MO. — Misdirected campus idealism threaten a real disservice to the national interest in a little noted area, Lawrence A. Kimpton, of Chicago, said here.

"The idea seems to be abroad on the campuses that personal challenge and the opportunity to make a personal contribution to the world is found within a corporation," Kimpton said. "In my judgment this idea is both wrong and highly inimical to the best interests of the very society our young people quite commendably wish to serve.

"Coveries are converted into something of social value and utility and made available to all the people.

"For those of our young people who are not of high intellectual capacity, the determination and the vision that they are going to do it, and we have done far too much talking to ourselves. It is called 'talk' and we are communicating to others an understanding of the challenge and the promise of our economic system, which happens to be a very best instrument yet devised by man for the creation of a better world for our young so ardently desire."

IE Offers European Scholarships

The Institute of International Education announces that a limited number of scholarships for 1966 summer study are being awarded to qualified Americans by two Austrian and four British universities. All programs are administered by the IIE.

The historic University of Vienna will hold a special summer session at its Wollanowicz campus in Strobi, Austria, from July 17 to August 27. Courses available to students will include law, political science and liberal arts courses and German language courses. The St. Wolfgang program is open to candidates who have completed two or more years of college and will cost approximately $340 which includes a $20.00 registration fee. An optional four-day trip to Vienna at an additional charge is also available.

The aim of the Salzburg summer school at Salzburg-Kressenstein is to provide American Society, its to provide students with an opportunity to learn the German language and acquire a basic working knowledge of Austrian culture and foreign policy. Although the program includes poetry, economics and politics will be taught in English, German and French. The German Language courses will be mandatory.

Total cost for the Salzburg program will be $215-$225 to cover room, board and tuition, plus a $20 registration fee. Applicants for the six-week sessions (from July 11 to August 14) must be between the ages of 18 and 40 and must have completed at least one year of college.

High-point of the two Austrian summer sessions will be the opportunity to attend the famed Salzburg Music Festival. Tickets to an opera and play included in the schools' fees.

Summer school opportunities Great Britain include choice subjects and historical periods, with study to be carried out at the appropriate university concerned. The study of Shakespeare and Elizabethan drama will be offered at Oxford and at the University of Birmingham; the history, literature and arts of England from 1870 to the present will be taught at the University of Oxford; Victorian literature at the University of London; and the history, philosophy and literature from 1688 to 1832 at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland.

The University of Edinburgh will hold their sessions from July 11 to August 14. The University of London, from July 11 to August 19. Fees, which include a $25 for insurance, will be $255 for the summer session.

Misdirected idealism threatens campuses

"I've added, 'it looks as if we have done a lousy job of getting young people to do business activity in this light, as they ride off in greater numbers in pursuit of assorted Holy Grails, without a background of understanding of our economic system."

"Here we sit as the inheritors of an economic system which is one of the genuine promises of our civilization, and we apparently can't even explain its significance to those who are going to have to take it over the day after tomorrow.

"American business has badly neglected the responsibility of stating its case effectively, and we have done far too much talking to ourselves. It is called 'talk' and we are communicating to others an understanding of the challenge and the promise of our economic system, which happens to be a very best instrument yet devised by man for the creation of a better world for our young so ardently desire."

Tutoring Clearinghouse Organized In California

(ACP) — A clearinghouse for on-campus tutoring is being organized in California. The program is designed to match college division students having trouble with their courses with upper division students who have had previous experience with the subject. The fee of $150 a year has been set for tutoring.

Paulley will keep a file of students who have volunteered to tutor in particular subjects and will have obtained approval from the faculty member teaching or the student may be directed to the dean to be matched with a tutor.

The tutoring will be different from tutoring scattered here from the guy across the hall." Dale Johnson, committee chairman, said. Arrangements may be worked out between tutor and student on an hourly basis.

The tutor may just help a student review prerequisites at the beginning of a course in a subject rather than study weekly. Or he may help with a study habit or assist with a problem. Johnson said. The program is designed to help faculty as well as students by helping members of the class who are behind. So class time can be better spent.

American Students Astound English Professor

CPS Release... A professor from England, teaching in the U.S. for the first time last year, was astounded when he faced his first class of American students and found that they had already solved the mystery by telling him, "It's Friday and a lot of kids like to go home so they skip class."

The following Monday, again facing his abbreviated class, the professor expressed his bewilderment. However, when someone told him, "A lot of kids aren't back from their long weekend yet," he accepted this.

On his way to the Wednesday class, the professor thought to himself, "At last I'll get to see my students."

However, when he started out at the empty seats, he asked, "Where's everybody? The classroom is everybody?" and a cooperative student in a back seat happily answered, "Today is everybody's day off."

Packing Corp. Offers Jobs

Are you in need of summer employment to help pay for a four-year education? The California Packing Corporation is constructing a new food processing plant at Flover, Wis. and will have several job opportunities available this summer for students who need that additional money to complete their education.

The work is varied and may consist of handling canned goods, operating machinery, sanitation and several other jobs. The hours are sometimes long and the plant will operate most of the season on a seven day week basis. Time and one-half is paid for all hours over 10 per day or 70 hours per week.

Pay day is every Friday. A new cafeteria is also being constructed and will have wholesome food available at reasonable cost. Meal tickets can be issued to employees and deducted from earnings.

The California Packing Corporation also has plants at Arlington and Markesan, Wis. and will need summer workers. Should these locations be of interest, contact the plant manager at the above address.

Students in Great Britain have tried it and found it to their interest. And they go to classes too!"

Carl is a student at the University of Oregon and a member of the editorial board of The Oregon Daily Emerald.

How do the professors take to the critique? Most say they are pleased. Said one professor, "This is an excellent idea."

Only one responded: "I think the distribution method guarantees that each student will have the class with the professor about whom he complains."

The Young Democrats at a meeting held Wednesday night, took care of their major items on their agenda. The first was the election of a new publicity chairman, Scott Schute, by more than a thousand members of the executive board at large.

The second piece of business that one that might be of interest to those students running for election in the Student Senate. Chairman of the Young Democrats, Ron Smolinski said that the group has passed a resolution stating that the Young Democrats are going to support the candidates for the upcoming Student Senate elections.

The students holding other offices in the Young Democrats are, Andy Pierkarski, Vice Chairman; Ann Daniel, Secretary; Jim Marx, Treasurer; Harry Helwig, Sergeant at Arms; and Peter Keefe, Membership Chairman.

Survey Reveals Factors Of Job Applications

The ten most important factors you should tell prospective employers about yourself were revealed in replies received to a questionnaire sent to selected resorts and camps throughout the United States by National Directory Service, Cincinnati, Ohio.

- 1) What is your past work experience and training?
- 2) Are you willing to work and cooperate with others?
- 3) Are you mature, punctual?
- 4) What dates are you available to work? If applying to a resort, the sooner you can report and the later you can stay, the better.
- 5) Give three or four good references. Please, no friends or relatives. Teachers or other camp members and former employers are the best.
- 6) Give assurance that you will be pleasant and cheerful until the end of the working period.
- 7) Give assurance that you will be pleasant and cheerful.
- 8) State your special skills you have - something you can do or can teach others to do.
- 9) Give your reasons for wanting a summer job.

With this information included on your application, go get that summer job!

Schreiber Awarded Oregon Research Grant

Jonathan Schreiber, Mosinee, a senior in conservation at WSU-Stevens Point, has been awarded a research assistantship for 1966-67 at Oregon State University, Corvallis, Ore.

Schreiber worked with an M.S. degree in soil chemistry and do special research in the residual effects of pesticides on soil. The grant was announced by Dr. H. B. Cheney, head of the Oregon State Department of Soils, which was rejected by the Board. The Board then voted on a motion to censure Iverson for his failure to come up with an acceptable apology.

Iverson was warned that publication of similar material would be grounds for censure or dismissal.

Kramers And Students Attend N.Y. Conference

Speech students Walter Normington and Brian Hlingworth accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. William Kramer attended the National Theatre Association Conference held last weekend on the campus of St. Cloud State College in Minnesota. The three-day meeting featured a Directing Seminar by Herbert Blau, the director of the National Theatre at Lincoln Center, N.Y., and a keynote address by Charles C. Mark, director of the National Theatre on the Arts and Humanities, Washington, D.C.

Student Given Social Pro. For Remarks

(ACP) - A student at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., has been placed on probation for what were termed "defamatory" remarks in a letter to the student newspaper regarding statements by the college president on the college attitude toward student relations.

Jeffrey Lung, religion major from Duluth, was the subject of the disciplinary action, amounting to a warning on future conduct, for a letter in the Carletonian objecting to alleged administrative interference in the private lives of students and concern about student sexual behavior.

"You do everything in your power to degrade, humiliate, shame and insult people whose Big Crime is simply wanting to make love," he said. He called statements made by President John W. Nason on the subject "some of the most fatuous blather ever to slither from under an administrator's door."

In a second letter, Lung claimed students should be able to choose sexual values as they do political and religious beliefs.

The college's Board of Publications, consisting of four students and four faculty members, called the remarks "defamatory" to the president and demanded that Carletonian editor Peter Iverson write an editorial apology.

Iverson wrote an editorial in which he was rejected by the Board. The Board then voted on a motion to censure Iverson for his failure to come up with an acceptable apology.

The motion failed to pass by a 5-3 vote. Iverson was warned that publication of similar material would be grounds for censure or dismissal.
