Plan Vote On Drinking Age-Hike

Thursday night, the Student Senate will discuss Governor Warren P. Knowles' Special Message on Traffic Safety, which includes the 21 year old uniform drinking proposal. The Student Senate will decide if they want to support the proposal "in full" or support segments of the proposal. A copy of any action taken by the Senate will be sent to every legislator in Madison.

This discussion will concern you, the student. Should the Student Senate support a state-wide uniform 21 year old drinking age? Should it support regular automobile and driver inspection? If you have an opinion, let it be heard. This matter will be discussed and voted on at the Student Senate meeting, Thursday, Mar. 2 in the basement of Hansen Hall at 6:30 p.m. In the next several weeks the Senate will be holding its meetings in the basement of various halls to give the purpose and an insight into the proposals of the Senate.

The following is the proposal to be presented to the Student Senate.

Whereas, the present traffic accident rate for the State of Wisconsin has risen dangerously resulting in 1,119 deaths last year. The deaths of these people demands a revamping of our present laws and the enactment of a comprehensive solution. The following program can adjust the present conditions.

In addition, we are supporting an evil and totalitarian regime which does not represent the will of the Vietnamese people. Missey said that the Buddhist as being the most logical group to govern in this area.

The "Vigils" also represents the right of dissent. Since the conference were Dean Zimmerman, Gary McLaughlin, Norbert Skibicki and Pat Fitzsimmons. Mr. Rogers, advisor, accompanied the team.

The conference was the largest mid-winter meet in the Midwest. Fifty teams participated.

Members of the Podium Society, which consists of the WSU Debaters are now planning an Inter-Hall speech event on the campus sometime in April offering awards for the temporary speaking. The committee will consist of Gary McLaughlin, Dean Zimmerman, Norbert Skibicki and Gordon Meyer.

The first problem of the editorial is setting up an initial copy of "The Sorcerer" which can be used in procuring financial backing for the magazine. Any original poetry, essays, reviews, cartoons, photographs or art should be submitted to: "The Sorcerer," 225 Main Street, Stevens Point, Wis.

University Objections Are Not Justifiable

WSU students were provided with a way to raise necessary money for Reserve St. repairs and maintenance when Jerry Stenz, owner of the Pour Haus, offered to help raise the funds through the use of his bar.

The administration was hesitant to accept his offer, primarily on the grounds of promoting the business of a beer bar and the implications of a university-tavern involvement.

I do not agree with the reasoning which kept the Senate from involving themselves in this venture. A student group (organization, and therefore not allowed to participate), to my mind, is the same as a group of students (individuals allowed to participate).

The Student Senate, I believe, should have entered into this project — under the auspices of the students and working for their benefit.

If it is the "type" of business that is bothering the administration — after all, we can't ignore the beer bars. Pretending they don't exist won't make them go away.

Assuredly, it is a two-way street. Mr. Stenz will give something and get something in return.

Dr. Essiet Comments On Language

Dear Editor: Will you please accept and publish this correction to the article published in the "Pointer" on Feb. 23, 1967 under the caption "Climate, Types Of Food Puzzle-Elim Ukpo".

The English spoken in Nigeria is not "Pigin" but a majority of people in the English spoken in that country is not "pigin" as was reported in the "Pointer" of Feb. 23, under the caption "Climate, Types Of Food Puzzle-Elim Ukpo".

It is true that for any language to be common to any country it should be spoken by a majority of people in that country. But this is not true of English in Nigeria.

There are several official languages in Nigeria, of which English is one. This situation is associated with the former status of Nigeria. Therefore those who are more or less bound to use English daily are the civil servants, teachers and students, politicians and some businessmen who come into daily contact with English speaking foreigners as said above.

The English taught in schools and used by these people is basically grammatical and without slang. Quite often opportunities are afforded students in many cases to learn good English, even in the grade schools, from teachers whose mother tongue is English.

It is only those who had no opportunity to attend good schools who speak poor and ungrammatical English, just as in certain farm areas, even in the United States, where English is the mother tongue.

3D's Found Refreshingly Different

Dear Editor, I have just finished reading this week's "Pointer". One article that caught my attention was the one on page four by Russ Baumgartner, entitled "Audience Uncritical, 3D's Disappointing". I, too, attended the closing program for Winter Carnival.

I must admit that Bill Rose did repeat parts of his previous performance, but some of the people on campus missed his performance with Mr. Yarbrough. I'm sure they all heard about it though and wished that they would have gone to see it.

I don't think he did as good a job this time either, but don't cut him for his material. He does write his own and I imagine it is kind of hard try-

There have been several letters and poems submitted to the New Pointer by anonymous authors. Though some of these articles are of acceptable quality they cannot be published unless the name of the author is submitted with the manuscript. Names will be withheld upon request in accordance with New Pointer policy.

Also unable to come and in this case the "I" regret that I cannot partake of Mr. Baumgartner's approval of Bill Rose's "relaxed style." I sincerely attempted it. His preparation, Mr. Baumgartner informs us, was somewhat in the lack except to those who had not seen his performance two months earlier. But then, as a "talented" young man, he had no need to prepare a new script did he?

I am sorry Mr. Baumgartner and I cannot share the same values. We are both guilty of weakening to the desire to criticize strongly. I admire a man who stands alone.

As for the 3D's, I'm sorry to hear that they haven't found a niche in Mr. Baumgartner's heart. I found the group refreshingly different. "Jezebel" is my favorite. I don't think that the audience had to be impressed with the word. People who really don't like a name don't usually let anyone else into anything.

The comedy of the group was similar to that of the Smothers Brothers. Comparing the 3D's to others of the same name nothing to me is it wrong for a group not to be the same or to dare to be different? I think that should be thankful that we got such an entertaining group on such short notice.

DR. OTON ESSIET

Opposes Baumgartner's Criticism

Dear Editor, In responding to an article written by Russ Baumgartner concerning the commendable efforts of Bill Rose and the inadequacies of the "3 D's". Perhaps it was the appearance of the "3 D's" which immediately drew me to these three honestly, honest manner and their obvious determination to do their best for our audience even though they were third preference.

Concerning their wit, it was good, clean, "folksy" humor. Most of our audience agreed, judging from their applause. Perhaps our audience was too uncritical, but they would naturally be most difficult to please in view of their disappointment in the "Sandpapers" and Chad Mitchell.

As to the playing of the instruments of the "3 D's", I am completely unqualified to judge the merit or demerit of instrumentation. To me, however, the guitars and other musical equipment enhanced a not detracted from the vocal harmony.

I was sorry to read Mr. Baumgartner did not appreciate the literature of the "3 D's" presentation. I tremendously enjoyed hearing my favorite poem, "Annabel Lee," set to music. "Gunga Din," "Jezebel," and "The Charge of the Light Brigade" caught me up so in their words and rhythm that I perhaps was unable to make a critical judgment.

In mention of Bill Rose, my first sinking feeling when he slid onto the stage was to ask myself, "Are the '3 D's' another function of the resures on the walls of the main floor of Old Main that are supposedly "art." But, should such trash and dirt be considered "art"? To us, it's garbage. We'd be totally ashamed to have our parents see these pictures.

We think that with all the beautiful things of nature and man around here, there should be something else for the art majors to paint. Mr. Runke should be ashamed to have such things going on in his department.

We hope that this situation will be cleared up in the near future.

Criticism Of Old Main Art Exhibit

Dear Editor: This is our second year at WSU-Stevens Point, and recently we have noticed a rash increase in the number of picture on the walls of the main floor of Old Main that are supposedly "art." But, should such trash and dirt be considered "art"? To us, it's garbage. We'd be totally ashamed to have our parents see these pictures.

Heart-n-Darts Played By Nelson Girls

Nelson Hall had its traditional "Heart-n-Darts" program for Valentine's Day. Originally scheduled to end with the all dorm party on the 14th, due to Winter Carnival activities it was held from Feb. 13-15.

Each girl was given the name of another girl in the dorm and they were supposed to do nice things for them until the party Wednesday night.

The party was held in the TV lounge in the basement. Each girl had purchased a small gift and gave it to her "dart." Refreshments were served and Mr. and Mrs. Hoekstra judged the valentines which were submitted by each room.

Nelson eliminated Winter Carnival activities with open house on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. It was already packed with week-end guests from all over the state.

Sunday morning, parents, friends and boyfriends started arriving. By noon Nelson's lounge was beginning to fill.

Joyce MacDonald who was in charge of open-house activities made sure that there was plenty of cold punch and "donut holes" to eat, with music playing in the background.

Phi Sigma Epsilon

The Interfraternity Council recently elected officers for the coming year. They are president, Peter Bratz of Sigma Tau Gamma; vice-president, Doug Cybela of Sigma Phi and secretary-treasurer, Bud Carlson of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The Council is presently looking into the possibility of supporting an underprivileged Korean orphan.

Pointers Down Titans In Overtime, 87-83

The Pointer basketball team upset the conference champions, the Oshkosh Titans, in overtime 87-83 Saturday night Feb. 25, at Oshkosh to snare a four game losing streak and hand the Titans their second conference loss in 15 games. Despite the loss the Titans clinched the WSUC crown as second place Stout was eliminated by losing to Superior 88-81. They have only one game remaining and lead the WSUC by two games.

The victors improved the Point record to 4-9 in WSUC play and 7-11 overall, as the team came from behind for its upset.

In the first half the Pointers applied a full-court press, but frequent fouls allowed Oshkosh to post a 46-38 halftime edge.

The first ten minutes of the second half found the Titans hit by 17 points, 66-49; but the Pointers fought back.

By the five minute mark Point was down by five, 74-69. But Oshkosh managed to increase it to six points, 78-72 with a left hand shot.

A three-point play by Jim Menzel and a tip-in by Dennis Carberry around a free throw made it 79-77. After Oshkosh missed a free throw, Point rebounded and with 45 seconds left Jim Fitzgerald tied the score 79-79.

In the remaining regulation time, Oshkosh twice called time out to set up for the 1st and 2nd shot, but three times, shots missed their mark.

In the five minute overtime period the Pointers got off to a 82-79 lead on Dick Ritzenthaler's free throw and Carberry's lay-up, but Oshkosh bounced back to take an 83-82 edge on baskets by Ron Hayek and Malone with 1:40 remaining.

Fitzgerald's basket on a lay-up a minute later put the Pointers ahead for good. Menzel's tip-in and Dick Ritzenthaler's free throw closed out the scoring.

Four Pointers hit in double figures with big Dick Ritzenthaler the high man with 21 points. Ken Ziegler had 16, Fitzgerald 10, Malone was high man for both teams with 22 points on 6 and 11 shots and 10 of 13 free throws. John Lissenack and Bruce Miller each added 18 points.
