

IF YOU ASK ME

Compiled by Mike Dominowski

Do you feel that changes are necessary in the annual homecoming program and its rules? What changes would you make?

...better if more people would participate...

Linda Hegelund, 18, freshman, from Port Edwards, majoring in interior decorating, S224 Neale Hall.

I thought the homecoming activities this year were well planned out, but needed to be carried through better. There was always something to keep a person busy. I know I found it hard to find time to study between skits, games, concert, campaigning and working on the float.

Campaigning is a good idea. It really helps the students to become acquainted with their candidates. It also builds a lot of enthusiasm as long as it doesn't get carried away. I hope that it will be continued in the following years.

For a school of 7,000, it's too bad that more don't come to the "S" Club dance. The "Music Projection" were very good. Our "suitcase" college could be one of the reasons for the poor turnout. I think that homecoming could be even better next year if more people would participate and support their school.

Doug Bathke, 19, sophomore, from Wisconsin Rapids, majoring in physical education, commutating.

I enjoyed homecoming again this year. The football game was well fought, and the entertainment provided two very enjoyable evenings. However, I feel that student participation could be greatly improved. The students themselves should be allowed to elect the queen and her court, not having to evaluate the administration's choices. The students know their fellow students better than the faculty.

I also feel the students were not well enough informed to participate fully. Information concerning the event and its exact time should be posted earlier to allow advance planning. For instance, Saturday night's dance was posted only two days before, with two different times given. With more organization next year, there will be less embarrassment for the queen, and more participation and enjoyment by the students.

...complaints centered around lack of organization...

Barb Oberg, 19, junior, from Eagle River, majoring in kindergarten-primary education, 325 Neale Hall.

The high school bands performance, the "Brothers Four" concert and the many float entries made this year's homecoming better than that of other years. However, I've heard a lot of comments from students concerning the other activities. Probably the two biggest complaints centered around the lack of organization on the homecoming committee's part and the time element. With homecoming being so spaced out, most of the organizations on campus weren't as prepared as they could have been.

It takes time to get ideas for floats, to campaign for campus candidates and to get campus spirit moving. Campus spirit is what makes or breaks homecoming, and this year I can't honestly say I felt in the spirit of things.

Maybe a solution to these problems would be to let the organizations know the theme during second semester. Sure, a lot of creative ideas might be used, but wouldn't it be better to make our homecoming one to remember as being great and not "just there"?

government." COSIGN was also instructed to poll the Oshkosh students concerning its plans.

During THE POINTER interview, Roeder stated a poll was to be held Oct. 21 and 22 to determine student opinion of a district representation government. (No results were available at the time of this writing.)

Roeder said that under this governmental form, representatives would be elected from geographical districts considering student distribution. One legislator would represent 400 to 450 students, out of the approximately 11,000 enrolled at Oshkosh.

Stan Nagalski, a deposited sophomore SGL representative, showed his opposition to the district representation plan in a letter to the ADVANCE-TITAN.

Nagalski explained, "Those in the dorms have the advantage of being in a close unit, with an intercom system and ample meeting space. Those in off-campus housing would find a serious lack of communications with this representation."

Nagalski also charges that "when the presidents of each of the classes went to obtain the list of applicants (for appointments to vacant SGL positions), they were informed that the lists had "disappeared".

Frank feels the district system would "decentralize the government—get it down to the students." This is in contrast to the class representation system where there was for the representative virtually no identification to the constituents.

In another letter to the ADVANCE-TITAN, Vicki Floether, another deposited SGL representative, complained that "two SGL members resigned expressly for the purpose of denying a quorum to the legislature so that it would fail."

It was reported in the Oct. 3 ADVANCE-TITAN that "a statement had been sent to Richard F. Shumacher, faculty justice of the student court, asking the court to determine the constitutionality of the COSIGN move."

State U's Enrollment Hits 58,238

Final enrollment figures for the State Universities System this fall show a total of 58,238 students on the 12 campuses.

The increase of 7,242 students over last fall's total was 12.5 percent higher than predicted, said Eugene R. McPhee, Madison, system executive director.

Because the enrollment is higher than the figure on which the budget for the current year was based, the Board of Regents has authorized allocation of $434,000 in reserve funds to take care of the additional students, McPhee said.

The budget request of $284 million approved by the board for the 1969-71 biennium also will need to be adjusted to reflect the increase, he said.

The system total this fall is 14.2 percent higher than last fall. The nine state universities and their three branch campuses have 55,171 undergraduate students and 3,067 graduate students.

Men outnumber women even more than last year. There are 32,971 men students, an increase of 3,854, and 25,267 women students, an increase of 3,388.

The student bodies include 49,967 students from homes in Wisconsin and 8,271 students from other states and foreign countries.

Percentage increases at the universities ranged from about 10 percent at Platteville, River Falls, Superior and Whitewater to over 17 percent at La Crosse and Oshkosh. The Richland branch campus at Richland Center reported a 30 percent increase to 376 and enrollment soared 83 percent at the Barron County campus at Rice Lake to 337. The new Fond du Lac campus enrolled 224 freshmen.

Total enrollments and increases over last year at each university: Eau Claire 7,248, up 952; La Crosse, 6,001, up 890; Oshkosh 11,096, up 1,652; Platteville 5,024, up 423; River Falls 4,052, up 361; Stevens Point 6,830, up 923; Stout (Menomonie) 4,330, up 471; Superior 3,318, up 290, and Whitewater 9,402, up 821.

Drew Pearson Lacking Some of His Famous Fire

By Scott Schutte

"I've stepped on toes in high places," Drew Pearson said at the beginning of an informative exploration of many of the issues that are facing the nation in this election year, Monday in the University Auditorium.

Yes, Drew Pearson has made a living by stepping on toes and some of that style showed through in his presentation. He began with his analysis of the situation that exists in the eastern communist block. The attitudes of the people in the fast falling iron curtain pleased Mr. Pearson and he is hopeful of better relations in the future. He then turned to congress and got down to naming some names in what he called the poor "ethical standard of the United States Congress."

The election was the next topic that Pearson dealt with. He told the audience that he had been predicting Nixon as the winner; but with the strong showing of the Wallace Party, he now thought that there was good possibility that the election would be thrown into the House where no decision would be made and the Senate, under the 12th amendment, would make Sen. Edmund Muskie president.

I expected to see a fire-brand muckraker who would speak with an earnest candor that would set the audience afire. This was not the Drew Pearson that battled with presidents in his heyday. The sword in his hand seemed to be rusty with age and he did not seem to be attuned to the urgency that college students, for example, feel in facing the issues of this world. He acknowledged their place, but he seemed to be so apart of the world of a fading generation. We owe all our Drew Pearson's a lot, but there seemed to be a few teeth missing in his bite.

The one time Mr. Pearson seemed to rise to the occasion, was at the press conference that took place after the lecture. It was a shame that the audience was not there. Mr. Pearson lit into our congressman, Melvin Laird, for manipulation of the tax payers money. He claimed that Laird had gotten a food testing laboratory moved from its proposed site in Maryland to Madison at an extra cost of $5 million dollars, in exchange for a swift passage in the House of all the Health, Education and Welfare fund requests, Channels 9 and 7, that were both covering the press conference conveniently did not have their cameras rolling at the time.

Drew Pearson is or was a representative of one of the most healthy elements in the fourth estate and it is to be hoped that the younger generations of America will create many more like him.

HALL-A-DAYS

By Judy Broeking

HANSEN HALL
After a short rest from the activities of homecoming 1968 the gears are again grinding at Hansen. General clean-up and the dismantling of the float was the first item of business at the latest hall council meeting.

A discussion of homecoming in general took place. Improvements for next year's participation were also discussed.

The academic committee of Hansen is working on converting a basement storage room into a study room and on improving the studying atmosphere in that room. They are also working on obtaining magazine subscriptions for the hall's main lounge.

The special events committee of Hansen is planning a Halloween record hop. The dance will be held Oct. 30 in the basement of the hall. To "spirit up" the evening, a juke band, "The Dismal Swamp," will put on a half-time show.

The basement will be "atmospheric" and there is rumor of a horror house located somewhere down there that night.

This weekend again the "streamers and streamers" will be at the home game, supporting their team and school.

NEALE HALL
Neale is looking into the possibility of purchasing a sewing machine for the hall. Sue Schmall, Pam Erickson and Elaine Netzer are on a committee to bring back information to the hall council on possibilities.

A mandatory leadership conference for members of the hall council is tentatively set for Oct. 26 to 27. The social chairman, Mary White, and the committee will make preparations for the conference.

Under the leadership of Marilyn Miller, Marsha Lipp, Ginny Rose, and Joan Smith, advisor to hall council, are members of a committee to tie up a slave sale with a men's hall as a means of increasing funds.

Selection of the men's hall to be asked as well as arrangements for the sale will be directed by the committee.

The Oct. 22 hall council meeting was held with Hansen Hall. A film on communications, "The Eye of the Beholder," was shown in Neale's basement. Miss Thompson was also present to discuss the film with the group.

WATSON HALL
Starting Monday, Oct. 21, Watson Hall will be operating "Rose's Pizza Parlor." A weekly pizza night. Pizzas will be served between the hours of 9 and 12 p.m. The price will be $1.

For Halloween, the women of Watson are serving their community, by sponsoring a Halloween party for the Reservation Indians. Approximately forty children are expected to attend. In addition to trick-or-treating, there will be a variety of games. The party will take place Nov. 2.

Graphics In Display

The Alfred Sessler Memorial Exhibition, featuring graphics by an acclaimed Badgerland artist, is on display at WSU-Stevens Point.

The show in La Follette Lounge of the University Center will continue until Oct. 25.

Richard Schneider, director of WSU art exhibits, says a few drawings by Sessler date from the late 1930's and are typical refined, delicate studies of people at work.

In these drawings can be seen the prototypes for the sad-eyed, mournful figures which seemed such a preoccupation in Sessler's later works, he explained.

No paintings are included in the show; but lithographs and woodcuts are printed in multicolor.

Sessler was a member of the art department at the University of Wisconsin for many years until his death in 1962.

Indian Tutoring Expands Program

Caravans with hope and good will for Indian youngsters have been rolling from WSU-Stevens Point.

More than 60 collegians are allotting at least one night of their busy weekly schedules to tutor pre-school through high school aged Indian youngsters in Keshena and Neopit in Menominee County and Wisconsin Rapids.

It's not a new program, but it's undergoing rapid expansion with strong support for WSU President Lee Sherman Dreyfus. He told the faculty this fall that the university will give a major thrust in aiding economically and culturally disadvantaged persons in the state.

Consequently, Mrs. Marilyn Hill, who nearly three years ago began taking tutors to Menominee County eight times per month, now finds her efforts expanded far beyond that tiny municipality.

The Office of Economic Opportunity, funded with federal dollars, has approved the Wisconsin Rapids program this fall after university students pro-a last spring their tutoring was needed there.

WSU, during the summer, was given authority to direct an "Upward Bound" program for Indian high school youths showing potential of making good in college or trade school. So after hosting those teenagers on campus for six weeks, the university now is starting programs for them in their home communities.

Study centers are being established in Black River Falls Reserve (near Hayward), Ashland, Lac du Flambeau and Crandon. Colleges and universities closest to those towns will send volunteer tutors.

Mrs. Hill is directing all activities with the new title of WSU Indian projects coordinator. She also has a new assistant, Mrs. Grace Davidson, wife of a new faculty member, who travels three times weekly with the tutors to Menominee County and Wisconsin Rapids.

Interest has run high enough on campus to assure one tutor for each of the 52 children at Wisconsin Rapids. This is ideal, according to Mrs. Hill, who stresses that individualized treatment as the key to her project's successes.

A few more volunteers are needed in Keshena and Neopit to assure this same 1-1 ratio.

Giving assistance to the youngsters in their own environment is a primary purpose, but Mrs. Hill is convinced taking them away for visits to this campus and on educational trips throughout the state is vital.

On Oct. 30, both sororities will collect donations for UNICEF.

The DZ's will also assist with formal national initiation and installation of Theta Phi Alpha on Oct. 26.

As a service project, the Theta Phi's are helping the alumni office. Last week 15,000 papers were refolded to be sent for alumni.

As a money making project, a contract has been signed with the News Service to assemble and deliver the Newsletter.

The WSU Department of Natural Resources would like to enlist the help of student hunters in building up its collection of wildlife study aids. If, in the course of your hunting, you can legally secure any of the following items, the Department would appreciate receiving them.

Goose crops (fully); Gray and Fox squirrel tails; Cottontail humerus (upper arm) bones; Raccoon radius and ulna (lower arm) bones; Raccoon baculum (penis bone); Beaver baculum; Woodcock wings; Waterfowl wings (except Mallard); Goose tails; Sharp-tail grouse tails and wings and Hungarian partridge wings.

To insure that these materials will remain in usable condition, follow these procedures:

1. Crabs: Remove the crop and let it air dry on a small piece of newspaper. Do not put it in a closed container or wrap it in airtight material.
2. Bones: Clean the tissue from the bones and wrap them loosely in paper.
3. Wings and Tails: Remove them as close to the body as possible, and include shoulder feathers. Wrap them loosely in paper.
4. Submit your name, the date the specimen was collected, and the county in which it was collected.

Turn the specimen in as soon as possible to the Department of Natural Resources office on the third floor of Nelson Hall.

Deer hunters have taken over 70 percent of the variable quota deer permits available at county clerk offices in the northeast area. A variable quota deer permit is issued for each management unit until the unit's total local quota has been taken by hunters. Permits are available from county clerks as well as through IBM random selection at Madison. However, the deadline for mail applications was Oct. 18.

Deer management units were set up with major highway boundaries surrounding generally similar forest or agricultural types of deer range. A state map showing these units is published in the Wisconsin big game hunting regulations pamphlet each year. Presently, a deer management unit will include parts of two or more counties and each county clerk will have a proportionate share of the deer permits available.

Holders of a variable quota deer permit may harvest one deer of any age and any sex anywhere within the designated management unit until the November deer-gun season.

The status of the black bear as a trophy animal in Wisconsin is increasing every year. Six bear were taken during the first limited September season. The rapid growth in hunter interest since then is evidenced by the fact that according to nearly complete registration records, Wisconsin hunters bagged 383 black bears this September. In the past 11 years, Wisconsin has maintained an annual average yield of over 550 black bear.

The following is a series of quotes from Sgt. General Burrard's monumental book, The Modern Shotgun (A.S. Barnes and Company, New York, 1961), and contains some of the best advice on swing and lead to be found anywhere.

"The whole secret of 'swing' is to shoot with a moving gun. This movement need not necessarily be rapid, but it is essential that it should be maintained until after the trigger has been pressed. I am convinced that in all ordinary shooting it is useless for the average person to try to give any definite number of inches, feet or yards, as a forward allowance (lead). For to be successful shooting must be automatic; and it is impossible to be automatic if one is thinking whether the allowance should be 10 feet or 13. All that can be done is to realize that forward allowance is necessary, and to learn by experience how to make it correctly without checking the swing. Bring the gun up pointing behind the bird and then swing the muzzle past the bird in the direction of its flight. When the muzzle has completely passed the head of the bird, press the trigger without checking the movement of the gun in any way."

SCSA Presents Resources Of Russia Talks

The Soil Conservation Society of America, Stevens Point chapter, is sponsoring a program on "People and Resources of Russia and Central Asia." The program will be presented by Paul Baxter of the natural resources department on Oct. 30 at 7 p.m. in the Wisconsin Room.

All interested persons are invited to attend. Membership in the SCSA will be available to those interested after the program.

Bloodmobile Will Visit WSU Campus

The Red Cross Bloodmobile, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, will be making its first 1968-69 visit to the campus on Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 4 and 5, in the Wright Lounge. The hours for the bloodmobiles are from 11 - 5 on both days.

As has been done in the past, this year, there will be competition for residence hall and Greek places. In the men's fraternity division, Delta Sigma Phi had the highest percentage and Theta Phi Alpha had the highest percentage in the sorority division. Also, five girls' halls had a percentage higher than the men's residence hall winner.

This year we are again encouraging a mildly competitive spirit. Men, must five girls' dorms have a higher donation percentage than the winning men's dorm.

For those under 21 (unless married or a member of the Armed Forces), a consent slip is required. The printed form may be cut out and sent home for signature, with ample time before arrival of the bloodmobile. Consent forms may also be obtained at the University desk, or the main desk of each residence hall.

Conscientious Objectors Meet Monday

The Stevens Point Council of Conscientious Objectors will meet Monday evenings in The Hole in the Wall, a coffee house at 2224 College Avenue.

The meetings will follow the meeting of the Stevens Point chapter of Students for a Democratic Society.

The council was organized to aid individuals who are seeking I-0 or I-A-0 Selective Service classification. Information is made available through educational material speakers, draft-counselors and members of the clergy.

Anyone interested in counseling the members, I-0 or anyone who objects to killing is urged to attend.

Klazura Pats Y-Dems On Back For Work

By Mary Jane Rogers

The state president of the Young Democrats, Dennis Klazura, spoke to the campus Young Dems organization on Wednesday, Oct. 16.

Klazura gave the Stevens Point unit a "pat on the back" for its work this election year. He decried the lack of workers in the senior democrats of Wisconsin. According to him the Y-Dems here have "pretty well supplanted the regular Democratic party in this campaign."

Klazura expressed the hope that the Y-Dems in this unit would be a solid base on which to build a more active party in the future.

Holding a Y-Dem membership card should mean more than the fact that you have paid your $1.50 membership fee, according to Klazura.

"A Y-Dem is working and learning by experience not only the methods of getting someone elected but also how to differentiate mere hot air from the message or meat of a speaker," he said.

While emphasizing the goodness of partisan politics, Klazura admitted some Republicans are better than some Democrats, but a party's long-range goals are not centered on any one individual's ideals.

Klazura stated that the Democrats were particularly relevant to college students because of its concern for education. He stated that the Republicans had never wanted to educate the masses.

It seemed to him that the Republicans in Wisconsin were trying to limit the educational system on the basis of economic background. He cited examples of Knowles and Leonard attacking the University of Wisconsin.

He went on to say that Humphrey was not the "Messiah" that would deliver this country from all its ills. Humphrey is only human. He added that we at least know where Humphrey stands on the problems in the cities, on the farms and in Vietnam.

Klazura said that Nixon has not said much about these subjects and though Wallace talks a lot, a look at the record in his home state will raise questions about what he says.

Klazura emphasized the fact that no one will ever agree entirely with a party's platform, but it is necessary to agree on its major points because the outcome of this presidential election will have a "lot to do with your lives and the lives of your children."

Dennis Klazura attends the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, majoring in economics. He has been in the Y-Dems for six years and at twenty-eight considers himself to be one of the oldest Y-Dems. He has been president of the state organization for 25 months.

Pointers Defeat Blue Devils, 20-14

Point Withstands Late Stout Surge

By Tim Lasch

WSU-Stevens Point played its best half of football all season long in the first half when it withstood a last quarter surge by WSU-Stout to take a 20-14 verdict in a WSUC game last Saturday at Menomonee.

The win left Coach Duane Counsel's charges with an even 2-2-1 record in conference and 2-4-1 overall. Stout dropped to 1-5 in the WSUC and 2-5 overall.

The weather was anything but ideal with the temperature at 40 and a strong, cold wind blowing throughout the game but the homecoming crowd filled the stadium to capacity.

Stevens Point won the toss and Karl Kolodzki returned the opening kickoff to the Point 36. With Bob Main at quarterback, the Pointers put together a 64 yard drive in 8 plays to score.

Added by three Stout offense penalties, the Pointers reached their own 46. Main then passed for two more first downs, the first to Kolodzki at the Blue Devil 44 and the second to Clarence Weichowski at the 39.

Main then came back with a passing play that had narrowly failed only two plays before Kolodzki delayed momentarily before going out and Main, given good protection, found him all alone at the Stout 20 where he gathered in the pass and went to score untouched. Pat McFaul then took a 7-0 lead with the Pointers took a 7-0 lead with the 10:50 remaining in the opening period.

The Pointer defense, which held Stout to 57 yards in the first half, held and Donn Reich's punt was downed at the Stevens Point eight yard line.

The offensive unit, which had been having its troubles all year, put together another strong march. Bob Rhode, who picked up a whopping 109 yards in 19 rushing attempts in the first half, carried for two first downs out to the 29.

On the next play Main after a beautiful fake, gave to Rhode on a crossback over left tackle. He got several fine blocks at the line and tore loose from a tackle and went all the way to the Stout 17 before he was dragged down from behind. The Stout covered 54 yards.

Weichowski made a fine diving catch of a Main aerial at the Stout six to give the Pointers another first down.

and the Pointers led, 14-0 with 1:18 left in the first quarter.

Later in the quarter, the Pointers put together a third scoring drive, relying mainly on the running of Rhode and Kolodzki. Rhode had the big gainer on the drive, a 30 yard scamper around left end from the Stout 31 to the one. Kolodzki plunged the last yard to paydirt. McFaul's conversion attempt following a high pass from center sailed wide, but the Pointers had a comfortable 20-0 lead.

Steve Johnson intercepted a Rocky Maxson pass in the waning moments of the half to preserve the 20-0 lead at the half.

Stout dominated play throughout most of the second half but could not score against the Pointers until late in the final period. The Blue Devils reached the Point 31 in the third stanza but the Pointers held for downs.

Way through the fourth quarter, Stout drove to the Point 12 but Maxson was stopped one yard short of a first down on fourth down.

Following a Breaker punt three plays later, Stout struck quickly for its first score. On the first play, Maxon hit Reich with a screen pass on the left flat at the 30. He picked up some time downfield blocking and went all the way to score. The play covered 34 yards. Rob Van Valkenburg converted and the Pointer lead was whittled to 20-7 with just 4:49 left in the game.

Mike Counsel recovered an attempted onside kick on the ensuing kickoff, but the reprieve was only temporary.

The Pointers were unable to move again and Breaker punted to the Stout 19. The Blue Devils gamely put together another scoring drive, mainly on the passing of Maxson and the receiving of Gregg Sipek and Nick Misch.

They drove 81 yards in 16 plays with a Pointer offense penalty on a crucial fourth down play allowing Stout to retain possession. Maxson found Misch with a touchdown pass from 11 yards out with just 54 seconds remaining. Van Valkenburg's kick narrowed the Pointer lead to 20-14.

Joe Schneider returned another onside kick attempt to the Pointers 34 and the Pointers retained the remaining minute of time to preserve their victory.

Oshkosh Unbeaten

WSU Pointers Host Conference Leaders

The WSU-Stevens Point gridiron will host the first annual Oshkosh Titans in a WSUC contest at Goerke Field this Saturday, Oct. 26, at 1:30 p.m.

Oshkosh has 31 returning lettermen on the squad, including three first team all-conference choices from last year. They are defensive linemen Claire Rasmussen and Dave Teresinski and linebacker Frank Orzel, who was an offensive guard last year.

Jim Goeckerman, the WSUC's first team leader last year, also returns as does his favorite target end, Dwight Anderson. Hard running backs Brian Burby and Ron Carbo have had good years also. The Titans' weakness has been their defensive backfield.

Oshkosh this year has beaten St. Thomas of Minnesota, LaCrosse, Eau Claire, Stout and River Falls and last week lost to undefeated St. Norbert. The Titans had a fortunate break two weeks ago in their game with second place Plattville.

Trailing 12-0 with five seconds left in the third quarter, the lights went out and the game had to be called. It will be continued from that point on Nov. 16 in Oshkosh.

In last year's meeting, the Titans handed the Pointers their only conference loss of the year by a 32-9 score after the Pointers led, 9-7, at the half. Stevens Point holds a wide edge in the all time series with 32 wins against 20 losses. Six games ended in ties.

Harriers Win Triple Dual At River Falls

By John Breneman

On Saturday, WSU-Stevens Point traveled to River Falls for a triple dual meet in Cross Country. The visiting Pointers emerged with a 15-43 victory over Eau Claire. The victories were the fourth and fifth for the Pointers in the last six dual meets.

Point was led by Darryl Hawley, who ran the 4.4 mile course in the time of 25:55. Hawley finished second.

Don Hetzel had his best finish of a time of 26:03. The Pointers also had the next three places. Paul Haus was fourth, Terry Ammon fifth, John Dahke sixth, Wendell Krueger ninth and Jim Hass twentieth.

Of the seven Pointers who ran, five are freshmen and two are sophomores.

The Pointers have a home meet on Friday at the Wisconsin River Country Club. They will have a triple dual with Stout and Superior.

Lasch's Sports Flashes

by Tim Lasch

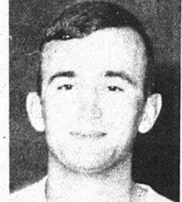

The Pointers' first half against Stout was easily their best half of football all season. For once a tenacious defense was combined with a ball control offense. Stout, however, took control of the game in the second half, but not enough so to score until the last five minutes of play.

It is a virtual certainty that those Pointers who played last year have not forgotten our dear friends to the east whom they entertain this Saturday. Oshkosh handed the Pointers their only loss of the conference season, and it eventually cost the Pointers a share of the WSUC championship.

It will take an effort like they put out at Stout in the first half last week to beat the Titans, but the memories of last year's "Waterloo" may just keep the Titans on their launching pads.

The University of Wisconsin's football team sure has been badgered around this year. Supposedly playing against one of the weakest defenses in the league (Iowa) they did not score one point. That's three games in a row without a single point. Wisconsin's offensive average per game is now 5 points per game—less than a touchdown. Opponents have averaged 35 points per batting practice (game).

Marquette's basketball team got off to somewhat less than an auspicious debut at practice—starting center Pat Smith, the tallest 6-3 center in the nation, got himself kicked off the team for showing up a day late for practice.

TIM LASCH

There's that old adage about "coming back to haunt" your old teammates after you've been traded. Well, Witt Chamberlain did just that Friday against his old team, the 76'ers. He poured in a whole 15 points and was his usual deadly self at the free throw line, sinking 5 of 11. The Lakers will have to solve the personality conflict of "The Dipper" to make full use of the three superstars they have.

That great high school football power has its longest winning streak in three years—two games. You all know who it is!

The Old Pro says this weekend's game will terminate as follows: Oshkosh 21, Stevens Point 14 Green Bay 24, Dallas 21 Northwestern 34, Wisconsin 7 Delavan 27, Elkhorn 13

Pointer Spotlight

By Dave Burton

JOHN HARRIS

A three year Pointer veteran, John Harris was asked to comment on this year's team in regard to past Stevens Point teams he has played on. Harris remarked that this year's squad was young and had a rough time coming back from a very slow start.

His comment corresponds to previous answers received from Pointer vets. The 5'9" senior defensive back from Beloit admitted that as far as experience goes this year's squad may rank behind last year's.

Harris added, however, that the team was coming on well for a solid finish.

LARRY GLADIUS

Larry Gladus, 6'2", 230 lb. sophomore, was asked to comment on the long term effects of the tie with Superior. Gladus remarked that the would definitely figure into the standings but that the Pointer spirit wouldn't dim as a result of the game.

Gladus, defensive tackle of the Pointers didn't believe the game would have a demoralizing effect on the team for the remainder of the season.

BLAINE REICHEL

Last on the Pointer roster, numerically only, end Blaine Reichel wears number 46 for Stevens Point. At 6'4" and 186 lbs. Reichel rates his line well by stating that winning the protection is there the Pointers' passing game is tough.

The freshman receiver from Akeley specializes in the weak sideline pattern.

PETE BIALO

If you need to know Point's defense in a nut shell, defensive back Pete Bialo has outlined the battle plan. Bialo, a junior end major, noted that containment of the Stout's quick backs was a major factor last Saturday.

Fearing the outside threat of the power sweep and side line pass patterns, Point's defense chose to the occasion and halted the threat, downing the Blue Devils 20-14.

Cross Country Team Splits Triple Dual

By John Breneman

The Stevens Point Cross Country team, under Coach Bob Bowen, traveled to Winona Oct. 16 to engage in a triple dual against Winona and Mankato, both Minnesota schools. The Pointers came home with a split beating Winona 18-43, but losing to Mankato 15-50.

Leading the way for Point was Darryl Hawley, a freshman who has been doing well in recent meets. Hawley finished eighth overall with a time of 21:15. This compares to the winning time of 19:58 by Dave Jones of Mankato.

Paul Haus finished second for the Pointers, finishing ninth overall with a time of 21:27. Following Haus was John Dahke in twelfth, Don Hetzel in fourteenth, Terry Ammon in sixteenth, Jim Hass in eighteenth, and Wendell Krueger in twentieth.
