
THE POINTER

Vol. 23 No. 7

September 27, 1979

An interview with the Chancellor

Photo by Norm Eason

THE POINTER

A STUDENT SUPPORTED NEWS MAGAZINE

SEPT. 27

Inside:

News...

Wrone speaks page 5

Sports...

Pointers take dive page 19

Features...

M—M—Mel T—T—Tillis page 11

Environment...

Hunting survey results page 9

Pointer Staff 1979-80

Editor:
Susie Jacobson

Associate Editors:
News-Bill Reinhard
Asst. News-Leo Pieri
Features-Kitty T. Cayo
Environment-Sue Jones
Sports-Tom Tryon
Student Life-Jim Eagon
Graphics-Mike Heil
Asst. Graphics-Renee T. Bertolino
Photography-Norm Easey
Copy-Bob Ham

Management Staff:
Business-John Harlow
Advertising-Jodi Baumer and Nancy Goetz
Office-Kris Dorn

Photographers:
Gary Le Bouton, John Pence and Aaron Sunderland

Contributors:
Vicky Bredeck, Dave Beauvilla, Connie Chapman, Helen Nelson, Jeanne Pehoski, Fred Brennan, Greg Polachek, Julie Brennan, Paul Champ, Joe Van den Plas, Randy Pekala, Shannon Houlihan, Gary Weber, Steve Schunk, John Faley, Pam Hafermann, William George Paul, John Pence
Advisor-Dan Houlihan

The Pointer is a second class publication issued under the authority granted to the Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin. It is written and edited by the students of the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point and they are solely responsible for its editorial content and policy.

Letters to the editor will be accepted only if they are typewritten and signed, and should not exceed a maximum of 250 words. Names will be withheld from publication only if appropriate reason is given. The Pointer reserves the right to edit letters if necessary and to refuse to print letters not suitable for publication. All correspondence should be addressed to The Pointer, 113 Communication Arts Center, UWSP, Stevens Point, Wisconsin, 54481.

Written permission is required for the reprint of all materials presented in The Pointer.

p o i n t e r

OPINION

On students and the Square

The public square has been the subject of a recent surge of controversy and discussion by the city and the university. The concern centers around problems with safety, vandalism and noise. These are not problems that can easily be attributed to any one factor, although some city officials seem to think so.

According to William Hoppen, president of the Stevens Point Police and Fire Commission, "the university is a wonderful thing for the community, but it is also a curse." He said citizens have to contend with noisy students going home from the square at 2 a.m.

It is not known whether all the problems are caused by students, because often times, the perpetrators are never caught. Obviously some of the problems are caused by students, but the serious problems can probably be attributed to a very small group of people.

Safety is a major concern regarding the square. One need only look at the Stevens Point Daily Journal and read about the illegal incidents reported after a healthy turnout at the square. If citizens read those accounts, who are they most likely to attribute the problems to? Probably students.

William Nuck, Stevens Point Police and Fire Commissioner, says the problem with the square has existed since the drinking age was changed to 18 in 1972. He suggested legislators should raise the drinking age back to 21. Before 1972, students didn't drink on the square because they weren't able to by law. But they did go out on the roads drinking, and to other places where alcohol was sold and identification of age was not checked. If the drinking age was changed back to 21, what would happen to underage people who have come to accept the idea that using alcohol is an acceptable social activity? Most likely they would go somewhere else, and if they took to the road, they would be even more of a threat, both to their safety and to the safety of others.

Nuck feels that putting additional police officers on the square is like throwing gasoline on a fire. The situation he describes wouldn't occur if the mobs were controlled before they were formed, rather than after. If only a minority of people are causing the serious problems, they would be apprehended if the police protection was there. If safety is a main concern, then the police protection must be stepped up.

Right now several committees to study the problems at the square have been set up by both the city and the university. One of these is the Human Relations Committee, which was appointed by the UWSP chancellor in 1974. It is comprised of representatives from SGA, Faculty Senate, classified staff, alumni and a representative of the chancellor.

The committee is investigating what people are concerned about — the safety, vandalism and noise problems. It is addressing questions which must be answered before any decisions are made on the square. Questions such as, where can students meet socially after 11 p.m. on or off campus? What standards of behavior are being permitted by tavern owners? How many people are causing the problems?

These are only a few of the problems that need to be looked into, but we urge interested students and citizens to add input to the Human Relations Committee to insure that a cooperative effort between the university and the city results in alleviating the problems at the square.

Photo by Norm Easey

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Pointer,

How many times have you sat back and watched someone do something, ignoring the advice of all who offer it, determined to do it their way regardless of all others? And how many times have you watched that person proceed, finally resigning yourself to the realization that, no matter what, the person will have to "learn it the hard way." It is my hope that this letter will give some advice which will be taken in advance, to stop someone else from having to learn a very tragic lesson "the hard way."

Several Tuesday evenings ago, a number of fireworks were set off in Hansen Hall. The fireworks, which were set off periodically until 3 a.m., were a definite nuisance, disturbing valuable study and sleep time, but no physical harm was done to anyone or anything. On Wednesday evening that all changed. What was probably intended as a mere prank or hoax may have ended in tragedy.

At approximately 10:30 p.m., while sitting in my office, I heard a loud bang go off somewhere in the hall. Within a few seconds, two Hansen resident assistants were in my office, hurriedly telling me I was needed in the three-north bathroom. A firecracker had gone off and someone was hurt. When I arrived on the scene, a group had already gathered, and several people were attempting to aid the injured person. He was lying on the floor, bewildered, disoriented, and obviously in some pain. Something had apparently struck him near his right eye, but his most urgent complaint was that he could no longer hear out of his right ear, except for an extremely loud ringing noise. An ambulance arrived and he was taken to St. Michael's Hospital to be checked.

The victim was simply washing his face in the bathroom when the firecracker exploded. Apparently, someone had earlier placed the firecracker (if you consider an M80 just a firecracker) in the last stall on the three-north bathroom. A "time delay" fuse had apparently been attached, allowing the one setting the fuse to leave, and wait securely and apparently "innocently" at a safe distance.

The force of the hoax struck the victim from behind and to the right, momentarily knocked him unconscious, and sent him sprawling about eight feet to the left of where he had been standing.

After the victim had been taken care of, my mood changed from one of caring to one of anger. I vowed that if and when I found who had done it, they'd be out of school as soon as possible. "How could anyone be so stupid?" I kept asking myself and others. Slowly, my anger lessened and I realized that probably no action I would take against the perpetrator could compare to what he was doing to himself at that moment. I realized that that person, at that moment, was probably sitting alone somewhere saying to himself, "I just didn't realize..." or "I didn't mean to..." or "I never thought that..." But this realization came too late, and no amount of remorse or self-blame could undo the consequences of what had already been done. A little forethought could have.

I've written this letter not to blame, nor to try and instill guilt in some unknown person or persons, but hopefully, to begin people thinking. Serious accidents really do occur, and people really do get hurt, regardless of intent. Think ahead and realize what the possible consequences of your actions are. Please, don't be the one to cause the loss of an eye, a finger, a hand, or hearing, whether it be someone else's or your own. Don't allow a tragedy to occur before the lesson is learned. Don't be the one to "learn it the hard way."

What of the victim? The doctor said that a temporary hearing loss has already occurred. The ringing noise and headaches could last up to 14 days. After that, the chances are that there will still be a permanent hearing loss. Please, don't put something like this on your conscience, to live with for the rest of your life.

Sincerely,
Curt Galloway
Hansen Hall Director

To the Pointer,

I was a little amazed when I read the article in The Pointer about the City Council considering the abolition of the square downtown. I was brought up in Stevens Point and have always known the square as a part of this town. I had not been to the square since the semester began and decided to pay a visit there on Friday night after the Wheatstone Bridge concert.

Groups of people were blocking traffic in the streets, and as I drove up to Clark Street, trying to get through the crowd so I could park, my car was kicked and pounded while people

cont'd page 22

BUFFALO

CHIPKICKERS

Sponsored By Resident Hall Council
Co-Sponsored By UAB

Type Of Music — Blue Grass

Allen Upper

Sunday, Sept. 30

Time 8-11

Cash Beer Bar

Free From RHC

King assassination not fully investigated or evaluated--

Wrone says Ray was framed

By Leo Pieri

"James Earl Ray was framed by evidence not fully evaluated or investigated by the House Select Committee on Assassinations," said UWSP History Professor David R. Wrone, regarding research he has done on the assassination of Martin Luther King.

Wrone gave a presentation on campus Tuesday night in the Collins Classroom Center entitled, "Murder of the Black Messiah." The presentation dealt with the events surrounding the King assassination and is part of the Abraham Chapman Lecture Series sponsored by the Black Student Coalition.

Wrone is a respected authority on the assassinations of both King and the late President John F. Kennedy, and has been writing and publishing on the subject of assassination frame-ups, including a book entitled, The Assassination of John F. Kennedy: An Annotated Bibliography. Wrone has also directed a symposium and several discussions at UWSP on the subject.

During a personal interview with Wrone, the professor disputed the findings of the House Select

David Wrone

Committee on Assassinations (HSCA) that claimed Ray assassinated King for money provided by a conspiracy group consisting of white racists from St. Louis, Miss.

"If Ray killed King for money, why did he drive toward Atlanta instead of St. Louis where he could get the money," questioned Wrone. "Does that make sense, to shoot someone for money and not go get the money?"

Wrone also made remarks concerning the rifle used to shoot King and kill him at 6:01 p.m. on April 4, 1968, in Memphis Tenn. "It was one shot with a .30-06 rifle according to the HSCA's findings," he said. "But the bullet in King could not be linked to Ray, according to ballistics expert Herbert McDonald, who said it doesn't connect."

Ray and his brothers Jerry and John supposedly robbed a bank one year before the assassination, after they ran out of money, according to the HSCA. Wrone, who has worked on the assassination studies with such noted HSCA critics as Harold Weisberg, suspects that the bank robbery was a frame-up too. "Clarence Haynes, a key witness, held his testimony in top-secret before the HSCA, and he is a known perjurer," accused Wrone. "He said Ray was in the bank because he was in St. Louis. How many people are in St. Louis?" Wrone added that this was another mock-up on the part of the HSCA. "The HSCA framed from behind closed doors. They summarized statements, but you need the primary evidence," he said.

The HSCA framed Ray as a cheaper way out of the problem they faced regarding evidence pointing to the FBI, according to Wrone. "No one attacks the FBI and gets re-elected to office," he said. "The HSCA never set out to investigate the King assassination, they set out to investigate the Ray assassination." A suspicious correlation in which William Webster, who is now director of the FBI and was the federal judge in the Ray case, was also suggested by Wrone.

Wrone also attacked the HSCA key witness, "Bourbon" Charlie Stevens, who said he saw Ray come out of a bathroom at about four minutes before 6 p.m. in Memphis. Wrone says Stevens was found passed out in a drunken stupor on his bed by a taxicab driver who went to pick him up. "He was a known drunk, can you believe what he says?" asked Wrone.

"There are no eyewitnesses, no physical evidence, and Ray has an alibi, he was at a gas station getting his car fixed," said Wrone. "And the HSCA investigated the wrong gas station."

The major point of Wrone's research is to alert people to what kinds of corrupt things can happen in government. "People think something as incredible as this can't happen. That's the reality of politics, you think there can't be burglaries by the president, can there?" Said Wrone of Ray, "he's a crook, no saint. Who do you frame in our society? The poor and the weak of course."

According to Wrone there are plenty of documents available for study that sustain the frame-up of Ray. "It's a lousy, stinking operation," he said of the HSCA. "A discredit to our political institutions. Hopefully someday we'll be able to go over and right the wrong."

The Abraham Chapman Lecture Series will continue with Marleen Commings, the governor's advisor on women's initiative issues. Her talk is titled, "Black Women and the Liberation Movement." It is at 8 p.m. in the Wright Lounge.

The Black Student Coalition also said that it is working on getting Dr. King's wife, Coretta Scott King, and Flo Kennedy of the Black Feminist Party, to speak during Black History Week, Feb. 24 through March 1. "At this time," said a representative of BSC, "funds are a bit short and we are hoping interested groups and people can help make that week successful."

Student organizations must cut down on driving--

Mileage reduction implemented by the state

By Connie Chapman

Steps in conserving energy are being taken at UWSP. Mandated reductions in business miles traveled by state agencies, including student organizations, academic departments and administrations, have been implemented by Governor Lee Dreyfus and the legislature.

"I think it is a political move on the part of the governor," said Mary Ann Coleman, budget director at SGA and member of the Student Mileage Reduction Compliance Board (SMRCB). "He is doing it to assure that we are doing something to ease the energy problems."

Under this plan, UWSP, during the 1979-1980 fiscal year, is required to reduce miles driven on institutional business, whether in university or personal vehicles, by 15 percent based on 1978-1979 usage. UWSP has established a 17.5 percent reduction in mileage traveled for student organizations in order to form a pool. According to Coleman, this pool is for organizations who did not travel during last year but may wish to this year. This additional reduction of 2.5 percent will put 4325 miles in the pool to be allocated.

"We are in a better situation than other university departments," said Coleman. "This is due to the extra 2.5 percent we have to form a pool. This way there are miles available to those that are in need. Whereas the departments that only reduced their mileage by 15 percent won't have a pool."

Student organizations fall under two types of accounts. The SFO (Student Faculty Organization) types have their own money, obtained by various ways such as fund raisers and dues. Accounts other than SFO are set up for organizations that receive segregated fees. Organizations of this type include SGA and The Pointer.

The policy reads: "All student organizations which traveled last year in fleet (university) vehicles or in personal vehicles for which travel costs were reimbursed by other than SFO account funds will have their potential travel mileage for 1979-1980 reduced by 17.5 percent. Student organizations which traveled in fleet vehicles in 1978-79 where mileage was paid for the extra 2.5 percent will also have their potential mileage reduced by 17.5 percent. All student organizations seeking SGA allocations for travel will be required to establish an institutional account (other than SFO)."

The SMRCB, comprised of Mary Ann Coleman, Director of Utilities Gerald Drier, and Lead Student Assistant Gina Nelson, was formed to monitor and allocate mileage to student organizations who did not travel last year but wish to this year. Also student organizations who wish to travel more than 82.5 percent of last year's total mileage will have to appeal to this board.

Mary Ann Coleman

"The SMRCB will meet every other Friday to hear appeals," said Coleman. "If a student organization wants additional miles, they must complete the necessary appeal form and take it to Student Activities. This must be done 15 days before the trip."

"Mileage figures for this year were figured out by a computer, using mileage logs," said Coleman. "The reduction of miles was based on the 1978-79 usage." Each student organization and SMRCB will receive periodical updates on the number of miles traveled, whether university or personal.

"It is very important if an organization wants to use a university car, to go to the Student Activities office first before going to the transportation department," said Coleman. "There they will give you the authorization form. If extra miles are needed, an appeal must be made to the board."

"Also, if personal transportation will be used," continued Coleman, "an authorization form must be obtained from them if reimbursement is expected from other than SFO accounts. This must be

cont'd page 7

Another reason why Point Beer is SPECIAL:

"A big brewery mass-produces millions of barrels of beer each year. Our small brewery brews a modest amount with emphasis on old-fashioned quality and flavor."

— PHIL SHIBILSKI, President

The Stevens Point Brewery will never be big. We know we'd lose something if we produced beer in millions of barrels.

Our limited production fits our way of life and our idea of a quality product seems to fit Wisconsin people very well.

One of our golden rules is: "Never rush the aging process." We make Point Special slowly . . . with personal care.

With our old-fashioned beer, superior in taste and quality, we hold our own against the giants. And we continually gain new friends who give us a try.

We believe you will find our efforts very satisfying.

The taste you're proud to share

Point Special

FROM AMERICA'S FAVORITE SMALL BREWERY
Stevens Point, Wisconsin

Varsity Bar Nightly Specials

- | | | |
|-------------------|--|-------------|
| Mon. Nite: | Pitcher Nite | |
| | 7:00-2:00 | 1.50 |
| Wed. Nite: | Happy Hour | |
| | Starting Wed., Sept. 26th | |
| | All You Can Drink Beer | |
| | 6:00-9:00 | 1.75 |
| | Free Popcorn & Juke Box | |
| | Sponsored By: | |
| | Association of Business & Economics Students | |
| Sun. Nite: | Pitchers | 1.75 |
| | 7:00-2:00 | |
| | Shot & 16 Oz. Beer | 1.00 |
| | Of Your Choice | |

Daily Specials

- | | | |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------|-------------|
| Mon., Tues., Thurs., | Pitchers | 1.50 |
| Fri., Sat. | 2:00-7:00 p.m. | |

Sat., Sept. 29th
First 1/2 Free On Us After The Game
Phone 344-2022

Johnson addresses SGA meeting

By Jeanne Pehoski

Dr. William Johnson, assistant dean of the College of Letters and Science, addressed the Student Government Sunday night on faculty advising. He informed the SGA that the Faculty Senate passed a resolution last year that now requires all students to get their advisor's signature on their class schedule before registration.

Johnson said that students need and profit from good advising, but he added that not all faculty members should be advisors, because not all are concerned about the students' needs.

A good advisor, said Johnson, will look at the student's grade point average to see if the student is doing well enough to complete his or her particular major. The advisor should not concentrate only on the student's major and minor courses, but also recommend general degree requirements that the student needs to graduate. A good advisor will also ask the advisee what he or she wants to do upon graduation, and will recommend courses that will help the student achieve his or her goal. Johnson added that a good advisor should be familiar with courses taught within the entire university — not just the ones in his or her specialized area, and will know how the placement office can help students.

Johnson wants to see an ongoing training program for people who would like to be advisors, and since full-time professors don't have time to do much advising, he would like to hire people who would be full-time advisors.

If a student is undecided about a major, Johnson recommended that he or she go to the FACS office, 105 Collins Classroom Center, to get advice. If a student feels that his or her present advisor is not helping him or her, Johnson suggested that the student get another advisor and complain to the chairperson of the department. Johnson also urged the SGA to take steps as a Student Senate to get better faculty advising for students.

In other SGA business, Senator Kathy McCoy introduced a resolution that, if passed, would urge the Stevens Point Transit Commission to "purchase better quality buses, such as the Greyhound Citi-Cruiser type as opposed to the modified school bus type, which they now intend on buying." Discussion on this resolution will continue next week.

The Senate approved the appointment of Tom Eagon as a student-at-large member of the Student Program and Budget Analysis Committee. It also approved the appointments of Jennifer Weindensee, Jim Valiga, Kitty Peterson, Ray Reynolds, Lori Beirl and Rhonda Bingman as Senators.

Bike ride slated for olympic fund

A bicycle achievement ride which will serve as a fundraiser for the United States Olympic cycling team will be held this Saturday, Sept. 29.

The event, which is being sponsored by the Miller Brewing Company's Lowenbrau brand, will start at 9 a.m. at P.J. Jacobs Junior High School.

Pre-ride registration forms may be picked up at Jay's Distributing Co., Campus Cycle Shop, Hostel Shoppe and Hetzer's Cycle Shop — all in Stevens Point. Contestants may also register the day of the race, at least one hour before starting time.

Proceeds from the ride, which is geared more toward recreation and participation than competition, will aid the U.S. Olympic cycling team in international competition.

The ride will encompass nine miles with participants receiving a T-shirt and certificate, as well as free refreshments.

The entry fee will be $5 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under.

UWSP Chancellor Philip Marshall will be joined in the ride by UWSP Athletic Director Paul Hartman, sportscaster Randy Allen of WAOW and former Stevens Point Mayor Jim Feigleson.

Chuck Roth, college rep for Miller Brewing, encourages all students who enjoy bike riding to enter the event. "The proceeds will definitely help the U.S. team improve its chances in the Olympic Games in Moscow. Also, it should be a good time for everyone entered."

SGA helps organizations with their budgets--

Budget workshop scheduled

A budget workshop geared toward helping student organizations with their fiscal matters will be held this Saturday morning in the University Center. The workshop is being sponsored by the Student Government Administration, and will run from 9 a.m. to noon in the Muir-Schurz Room.

The workshop is being divided into two sessions. The first will dwell on the logistics of student funding, such as where an organization could go for funds, how these monies could be applied for, and the correct way to use the allocation. The student mileage reduction will also be discussed.

The second portion of the workshop will deal with those organizations which have, or wish to have, an annual budget. The forms used by the Budget Administration will be discussed and explained. Other topics that relate to these organizations, such as the declining enrollment, will also be touched upon.

Mary Ann Coleman, student budget director, explained that the workshop has been planned with all organizations in mind. In the past many student groups have either been denied funds or had their requested funding reduced by Student Government. Coleman speculated that the SGA could have been reacting to a poorly formed budget in some of these cases. "We just want to make it easier for the organization to write a decent budget," she explained.

The workshop will have an informal atmosphere, Coleman said. She encourage organizations to bring questions and voice them freely throughout the sessions.

The response for the workshop has thus far been poor, in Coleman's estimation. Out of the nearly 100 student organizations on campus, only 10 have said they will attend. "I was hoping we'd have 30," she mentioned, "but I doubt if we will reach that number."

The workshop will go on as scheduled, whatever the attendance, Coleman promised. Anyone wishing more information is encouraged to call the SGA office at 346-3721.

TAUWF pushes for Collective Bargaining

By Helen Nelson

Collective bargaining participation in Wisconsin, assisted by The Association of University of Wisconsin Faculty (TAUWF) has been waging an uphill fight for ten years, according to Allen Blocher, UWSP physics and astronomy professor Blocher, is currently on leave from teaching duties to work with faculty organizations over the entire state system and help institute collective bargaining. Blocher's secondary purpose will be to help the collective bargaining process if it comes.

Four different bills have been presented to the legislature in the past, and the present bill this year appears headed for passage in the October session of the state legislature. The bill, known as SB 121, must be approved by the Joint Finance Committee when it meets during the last week of September or the first week of October. At this time, the Joint Finance Committee has modified the language of the bill, which will amend Public Law 111.80, which permits collective bargaining by public employees. Many views were expressed at hearings August 30 on the bill, and significant changes in the scope of bargaining were produced.

Blocher commented, "This is a state-wide affair, for there has been an erosion of shared governance, and faculty want to protect the rights they now have and be able to determine their own destinies and to have a mechanism to resolve differences. As it now stands, faculty spend hours debating problems, but administrations can veto their recommendations, leaving them with little input, and only an advisory potential."

There are 1800 members of TAUWF in the state, with chapters in the 11 four-year institutions and in several of the Center system campuses and at Milwaukee. There is no TAUWF organization in Madison, since they have their own organization. UWSP has nearly 300 members, representing almost 75 percent of the eligible staff. These people do not now have the right to bargain collectively, but they can conduct lobbying efforts through the legislature and the Board of Regents.

Newsletters attempting to keep abreast of events surrounding bargaining point out for Blocher and prospective members that, if collective bargaining becomes a reality, it will have an impact on governance. National experience has shown that this impact does not disappear. However, collective bargaining must not be regarded as a panacea; it will not cure all ills.

There has been misunderstanding among governance groups about what collective bargaining can and will do. One committee member voted against it because passage of the bargaining bill would enable faculty and academic staff to "gain too much."

Then, too, a regent, opposed to collective bargaining claimed it would cause higher tuition, while at the same time, he deplored low faculty salaries and urged everyone to work for higher salaries.

Student rights would be extended with the passage of SB 121. Students could be appointed as observers at collective bargaining sessions.

Mileage cont'd

completed and submitted to the Student Activities office within five days of completing the trip. They will then validate it for payment and submit vouchers to accounting within five days of receipt.

"We also encourage pooling," said Coleman. "If two organizations are traveling to the same area, we encourage them to go together to reduce our travel miles." A reduction in the speed of university vehicles is also encouraged. By reducing the maximum speed from 55 to 50 miles per hour, a reduction in gas consumption will result.

JJ's
FRESH
Pizza & Subs

Fresh When We Bake 'em
Delicious When You Bake 'em!

You've Tried The Rest, Now Try The Best!

Second St. Town Clown Main Street
Second St. MARKET SQUARE
J.J.'s Pizza Skoop Sara Polstones
Main Street

PH: 341-8178; Mon. thru Sat. 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Sun. 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.

We supply the tools and instruction...

...You supply the hands

arts & crafts center

346-4479

THIS MEETING'S
GONNA LAST AWHILE,
LET'S SEND OUT
FOR SOMETHING...

GIMME A COFFEE...
/ ME TOO...
/ RIGHT...

HAMILTON?...
WHAT'LL
YOU HAVE?...

COKE!

GASPI
GASPI
GASPI!

SUMMUS ^{CPS}
THE FORTY EIGHT TIMES 177

PEPSI?...

State Senator David Berger says the University of Wisconsin is going to have to tighten up its faculty code of ethics or expect the legislature to do it.

Berger is a co-chairman of the Legislative Committee on Administrative Rules. Staff members have been assigned to review the Wisconsin Administrative Code as it applies to UW and its campuses.

They are acting on a request by Representative William Broydrick (D-Milwaukee) who called the code of ethics "totally inadequate and terribly loose."

The request said the code permits a faculty member to sell products to the university without public notice or competitive bidding as long as the faculty member stays out of the purchase decision.

Tim Fleming, president of the United Council of UW Student Governments Inc., is looking for interested students to participate on two state-wide committees. Eight nominations are needed to fill the four student positions on the Undergraduate Teaching Improvement Council and United Council has three student positions to fill for the Council on Financial Aids. All appointments will be confirmed by United Council's Executive Board and expenses incurred by the student representatives will be reimbursed. For further information contact the United Council office: United Council, 1930 Monroe St., Rm. 305, Madison, WI 54711. Or Call (608) 263-3422.

The Office of Personnel Management has announced the opening of the Professional and Administrative Career Examination. This test is used to fill a wide variety of entry-level jobs in the federal government.

To be eligible for employment consideration under this examination, individuals must have a bachelor's degree, or three years of responsible experience or an equivalent of education and experience. Applicants who get a passing score on the exam are eligible for employment at salaries ranging from $10,507 to $13,014 per year.

Applications for the test can be obtained from your placement office and must be returned to the Office of Personnel Management no later than October 10, 1979.

Stevens Point was linked into a statewide women's network during a news conference and ceremony on Monday. The purpose of the network is to unify organizations throughout Wisconsin and to coordinate grassroot support for such issues as marital property reform, the displaced homemaker, reproductive choice, ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, and battered wives.

Senator William Bablitch and Representative David Helbach represented legislative support for the network and both commended local efforts which brought about support for the network. Bablitch said he was especially pleased the group was pushing for marital property reform and more rights for the displaced homemaker — two issues he has worked hard for and will continue to support along with the network. Helbach said the "inauguration of the Wisconsin Women's Network...shows you intend to be taken seriously as a political force...and having accomplished that, the political system will respond seriously to the Women's Network."

Other speakers included Helen Sigmund, who is now on the Board of Directors for the Women's Network, and who previously sat on the Governor's Commission on Women, before Governor Dreyfus disbanded it earlier this year. Cindy Van Vreede, president of the local chapter of the National Organization of Women, Mary Patoka, coordinator of the Stevens Point Women's Center and Jody Rohrer of the Stevens Point Business and Professional Women, all represented organizations which were being linked into the network. As each speaker verbally committed their organization, they each attached a symbolic link to the chain.

For six straight years the number of college students taking up teaching as a possible career has declined, according to Willard McGuire, president of the National Education Association. There were 317,254 teacher graduates in 1972, as compared to only 190,266 last year.

There will be a meeting for all education students, sponsored by the Education Association today at 6:30 p.m. in room 125A and B, in the University Center. Georgia Duerst will present A.C.T. related to education, and Dr. Betty Allar will speak on the "Center Program."

ENVIRONMENT

Survey results in campus hunting profile

---recovering from the "Daniel Boone syndrome"

By Gary A. Weber

Hunting has a unique meaning for each individual. Even dictionaries vary in their interpretations of the word "hunting," as do hunters and non-hunters of this campus. Based on the Pointer student hunting survey, this article will explore the thoughts and beliefs of the contemporary hunter, and judgments and convictions of the non-hunter.

The Pointer survey contained a hunter's and a non-hunter's section. The hunter's queries included: sex, game preference, principle hunting method, estimated amount spent each season, and the areas mainly hunted. The non-hunter's solicitations involved: sex, did they ever hunt, would they like to try hunting, their feelings toward hunting, and should it be abolished. In addition, the participant could write a few lines to strengthen this argument. A partial cross-section of the campus replied, and the results were startling, to say the least.

The predominant group of responses came from the hunters. In fact, they exceeded the non-hunters by a 2-1 margin. Unfortunately, this group was 100 percent male — not even a single female replied. Their hunting preferences were diversified; 48 percent of the hunters concentrated on small game, big game received 40 percent of the attention, and 12 percent went to migratory birds. Modern firearms were the favored equipment among 73 percent of the sportsmen, followed by bowhunters with 22 percent, and 5 percent trappers. It was surprising to discover that 82 percent of these woodsmen kept budgets of $100 to $200 each season, while 18 percent spent over $200 each sporting year. Fifty percent of the hunters utilized public grounds and 50 percent favored private lands.

Of the non-hunters responding, 25 percent were female and 75 percent were male. Twenty-five percent of the entire group had tried hunting, but they were overshadowed by a 75 percent neutral group. However, 38 percent of this clan had the urge to go afield.

The most fascinating section of the survey was the non-hunter's thoughts concerning the sport. Sixty-three percent said it was fair to wildlife, 12 percent believe hunting is unfair, and 25 percent had no feelings on the subject. To conclude the questioning, the non-hunters were asked if hunting should be abolished. Twelve percent were in favor of this, while 88 percent were against the notion.

The most revealing section of this project was the essay question. The statements received were either deeply emotional, moving, and controversial, or amusing, humorous, and satirical. Both sides tenaciously supported their stand on this issue by using facts, personal knowledge, or basic assumptions.

Nearly all of the hunters viewed themselves as a part of nature, and a vital element at that. One huntsman commented, "My attitude toward hunting is one of becoming part of the ecosystem as a selective predator, harvesting game species for food in order to maintain the balance in nature."

Another major concern of the hunters was their rapidly decaying reputation. In defense of that misbelief, a veteran hunter added, "Hunters are the main reason we still have a vast variety of wildlife species. Hunting isn't cruel — it's humane! Slob hunters are not sportsmen and shouldn't even be considered in the same category as true sportsmen—like hunters."

The non-hunters' comments were an appeal to the public's emotions. A female non-hunter remarked, "I do not believe hunting in itself is wrong, especially for food. Yet, I don't see the thrill of seeing a creature and shooting the life from it. Hunters ask, 'What's wrong with deer hunting, you eat hamburgers, don't you?' Yes, I do, but I would never find sport in killing and butchering a cow. I think most of them (hunters) suffer from what is better known as the 'Daniel Boone Syndrome.'"

Another non-hunter reminisced about a past hunting experience by declaring, "I hunted once, but threw up in the blind. It's not necessarily the hunting itself, but those who participate in it, that leave a bad taste in my mouth."

The final non-hunting comment had some extremely truthful overtones. This person asserted, "I am neither pro-or anti-hunting. In the proper context, it can be a good management tool and a fine recreation. Unfortunately, it has the potential to be a wasteful, dangerous, and ruthless activity as well."

The hunters of UWSP generally conformed to the national averages of priorities for the sport as compared to a 1978 Field & Stream poll, although they seemed to have a higher regard and admiration for hunting than most others. The non-hunters were considerate and seemed to realize a justifiable purpose for this activity.

Nevertheless, hunting will probably always remain a controversial sport. Hunting is like a shadowy image; it can be easily misread or interpreted. Let's hope that we all can perceive its correct intent. The hunters depend upon this.

Trapping methods discussed at clinic

By John Faley

The purpose of last Saturday's trapping clinic was, said Dr. Neil F. Payne, assistant professor of wildlife at UWSP, "to educate new and experienced trappers in proper techniques of trapping and pelt preparation."

Nearly 250 persons attended the clinic held in the College of Natural Resources (CNR) Saturday morning and at Jordan Park Saturday afternoon.

Welcoming remarks were made by CNR Dean Daniel O.

Trainer.

Following was Ray Sebald of Sheboygan, immediate past president of the Wisconsin Trappers Association (WTA), who talked about the WTA.

Dr. Raymond K. Anderson, UWSP wildlife professor, spoke on the ethics and the responsibility of trappers. Dr. Payne, coordinator of the clinic, followed with a talk on ecology and management of furbearers.

Other speakers included Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) wardens Ronald Kubisiak of Wisconsin Rapids, on laws, enforcement, and riparian landowner rights. Don Gruber of Stevens Point presented a slide program on proper types of traps and trapping sets.

Rounding off the morning program was Wayne Leonard of Plover who demonstrated the use of several traps. On display were pelts, traps, stretching boards and other items associated with the trapping profession.

The afternoon session at Jordan Park was broken into 5 or 6 parts. Members of the WTA gave demonstrations of various sets in the field. Land, water, baited and scented sets were discussed.

Photos by John Faley

Trapper explains methods at Jordan

Also demonstrated were the proper methods for pelt preparation skinning, fleshing and storage prior to selling. Tips were also given on selling furs.

This event, which attracted people from as far away as Milwaukee and West Bend, was co-sponsored by the CNR, UWSP Division of Extended Services, DNR, and the WTA.

Ray Sebald demonstrates fox set

UAB Concerts Present . . .

The 1979 Homecoming Concert With
GENE COTTON

With Special Guest
Comedian Tom Parks

SAT., OCT. 13
8:00 P.M.

Quandt Fieldhouse

Tickets: $3⁰⁰ & $4⁰⁰
Reserved Seating Only

Michael Lorimer

"The ultimate in entrancing listening"
Chicago Daily News

Classical and baroque guitarist

Master Class

Thursday,
October 11
11:00 A.M.

Michelsen
Concert Hall

Sign up in room
B-109 COFA

UWSP
Students

1.50

Master Class

Thursday,
October 11
11:00 A.M.

Michelsen
Concert Hall

Sign up in room
B-109 COFA

UWSP
Students

1.50

PRESENTED BY UWSP ARTS & LECTURES
WEDNESDAY, OCT. 10, 1979 8:00 P.M.
MICHELSEN CONCERT HALL
TICKETS: 346-4666

FEATURES

Every which way with Mel

By Tom Tryon

There used to be a time when country music singers only sang country music at county fairs and honky-tonks.

Things have changed in the world of country music and Mel Tillis has been part of those changes. He has recorded "middle-of-the-road" songs, appeared in Las Vegas and is a frequent guest on the Tonight Show. He even co-starred with Susan Anton in his own television series and recently had a small part in the Clint Eastwood movie, Every Which Way But Loose.

Despite his success outside the confines of Nashville, Mel Tillis and his band, The Statesiders, delivered a strong country music show Sunday evening in Quandt Gym.

Tillis, the Country Music Association's "Entertainer of the Year" in 1976, played two hour-long shows in front of surprisingly sparse audiences.

Between shows, Mel made himself available to the press for a short conference. Tillis turned the press conference into an informal talk, discussing his past, along with future and present plans. Mel even disclosed a story about the time he met President Jimmy Carter after drinking Mai Tais in Hawaii and beer with brother Billy in Plains, Ga. "I was drunk for three days," said Mel.

In the conversation with Tillis, he proved to be a quite, unselfish and personable man. And yes, he really does stutter. It's not an act or an affliction. The stuttering began for the 47-year-old Tillis at age three, after a bout with malaria in his hometown of Pahokee, Florida.

The stuttering is something Mel has learned to accept and he even uses it as a focal point for most of the comedy in his act. "When I was in the Air Force, I wanted to be a pilot. They told me I'd run out of gas on the runway before I could get clearance to take off."

In the interview, Mel expressed his dislike for entertainers who are "selfish and on ego trips." This type of attitude was made apparent in the show when Tillis let his excellent ten-piece band perform several numbers while he stepped out of the spotlight.

Comedian Paul Lennon led

The Quandt Gym goes Grande Ole Opry with Mel Tillis and the Statesiders.

Photos by Gary Le Bouton off the show with a rather impressive routine that was well received by the audience. Lennon did both singing and talking impressions that were well-timed and surrounded by jokes about the economy and politics.

The Statesiders are led by an impressive fiddle section of four. The fiddle section displayed its form well in a rendition of "Orange Blossom Special." They performed a slow version of the classic, featuring precise pizzicato, then picked up the tempo when their leader asked for a livelier beat. This song brought the most life to a rather listless crowd.

"Orange Blossom Special" was contrasted by the slow, bleeding "Faded Love," which was originally recorded by Bob Wills and the Texas Playboys. This classic ballad allowed the fiddlers to display their excellent tone and quality.

The Statesiders lived up to their reputation as being one of the best bands in country music. They have been well compared to Merle Haggard's Strangers and Asleep at the Wheel, and they have a right to be.

When asked about his preferences in entertainment material, Tillis said, "I really like acting...it makes you feel like a kid again...pretending. But singing and writing country music is my first love. When I was young I used to listen to Eddy Arnold and Hank Williams on the Grande Ole Opry radio show."

His love for country music is apparent in the stage show. Of the fourteen songs performed, only one could be termed as "middle-of-the-road." That song was Mel's favorite, "I Believe in You." The tender love song gave Tillis the opportunity to exhibit his superb baritone voice.

"What Did I Promise Her Last Night" was another fine performance by the country star. "A love song with a message," according to Tillis, brought the sentimental snapshooters to the front of the stage and let the pedal steel's crying sounds echo through the gym. "Coca-Cola Cowboy" and "Send Me Down to Tuscon," songs that were taken from the movie Every Which Way But Loose, were performed well and to the delight of the crowd. Tillis did some adlibbing during the chorus of "Coca-Cola Cowboy," singing, "you've got an Eastwood smile and Porter Wagoner hair."

Also included in the concert were abbreviated renditions of hits, "I Got the Hos," "Good Woman Blues," and "Charlie's Angel." Tillis and The Statesiders combined vocal efforts to do "One in a Million," made popular by the Oak Ridge Boys, and did a commendable job. Lead guitarist Jerry Reid provided a rich bass part and was featured in the selection.

The concert closed with one of Mel's most famous writing pieces, "Detroit City." Tillis and his band gave a good performance, but like most country music concerts, it was short, and many of the songs were shortened in order to play most of the artist's previous hit recordings. The only disappointment was the absence of Tillis' most recognizable composition, "Ruby, Don't Take Your Love To Town."

"If it wasn't for the emergence of 'middle-of-the-road' songs in country music today, I don't think country music would be as popular as it is now. It would probably be comparable to the way bluegrass and jazz are today," Tillis said before the show.

Fans of country music should appreciate the varied talents of Mel Tillis and they should realize that Lonnie Melvin Tillis is still a gentleman despite his fame. He is a genuine performer and he showed it in Quandt Gym this past weekend.

Psssst . . .

The Album Secret

Is Coming To

90 FM

HENRY WINKLER SALLY FIELD

HEROES

P.B.R. 6:30 & 9:00

$1.25

Sept. 27th & 28th

From out of the West

University gets

By Leo Pieri

It's been just over three weeks since new UWSP Chancellor Philip Marshall became head of the university and already he has had to start looking at some of the problems that go with his higher education administrative position.

Marshall, who is the tenth man in UWSP's 85-year history to head the institution, has started to look at several pressing concerns involving student rights, faculty morale, vandalism, alcohol abuse and many other problems.

The future of higher education is uncertain regarding federal and state funding, enrollment and academic structure, according to Marshall. But Marshall readily admits there will be a decline in enrollment, and funding will have to be adjusted. With his vast experience in higher education administrative work, Marshall, who comes to UWSP from Eastern Washington University, feels he has the capacity to deal effectively with future problems in higher education.

In a recent interview with The Pointer, Marshall addressed some of the current issues and problems that are of concern at UWSP. Below are partial transcripts of the interview.

Pointer: You've been here for about nine days. Has the campus lived up to your expectations so far?

Marshall: Generally it has. It's compact, but it's well constructed, and a well-planned campus. I think it's very good.

Pointer: Is there anything which you have seen thus far that disturbs you?

Marshall: I have found that in the Collins Classroom Center there seems to be a transmission of sound from one classroom to the neighboring classroom. I would hope that we can do something about it. But it may be structurally impossible.

I am also told that we have some faculty that have to share offices. That creates real problems in consulting with students. I hope we can do something about that.

Pointer: Former Chancellor Dreyfus was considered a great promoter of the university. His expertise is in the communication field. Yours is of a different type — in the chemistry area. During his years as chancellor, Dreyfus would go on the road to promote UWSP for enrollment. Do you feel your personality is as flamboyant and outgoing as that of Governor Dreyfus, and do you expect to be on the road quite a bit, promoting the university?

Marshall: I don't think so, no. I'm not sure I'd want to accept your definition of not being as outgoing as Chancellor Dreyfus. I don't know how outgoing he was. Certainly my field is not communication, and I don't expect to be on the road as much as Governor Dreyfus.

It may be that more presence on the campus, and dealing more directly with the faculty and students can also be helpful, perhaps more helpful.

Pointer: How about 24-hour visitation for dormitories? There's been a lot of controversy and discussion surrounding the subject. It's pretty much up to the chancellor to decide on it. Have you come to a conclusion yet?

Marshall: Well the chancellor hasn't decided anything on that yet. I do recognize that Stevens Point seems to be unique. There are only three other institutions that don't have 24-hour visitation (in Wisconsin). I'm not sure that we have sufficiently good reasons for not having it, but I haven't heard all the reasons why it wasn't used in the past.

I read Chancellor Dreyfus' letter when he declined to approve it. I know a committee of students including SGA reps. has been appointed by Dr. David Coker to study it. So far as I know there has been no report from that committee. I would want to see that report and discuss pros and cons with people before I make any kind of decision.

Pointer: United Council President Tim Fleming has said that open visitation concerns student rights, and that it is a consumer issue, involving minority rights. He said that if you don't have open visitation, you're neglecting minority rights. What's your view on that?

Marshall: I'm not sure I agree with that interpretation. If the enrollment at Stevens Point is entirely voluntary, and it is, then the student when he comes, has entered into an agreement, and if he knows what the practices are in the dormitories, then he accepts those by enrolling. Which is not to say that he shouldn't argue against them. But I

new Marshall

Don't think you can argue that the rights have been bridged if the enrollment has been entirely voluntary. I do recognize that we have a residence requirement on the part of freshmen and sophomores, in that they must live in the dormitories. I don't necessarily think that's an argument that says we must do it. And maybe we ought to do it. The practice of regulation has changed dramatically for dormitories in the last 15 years. When I went to college the philosophy was you locked up the women, and that solved your problems. There was a visitation period. Current students have got some good arguments, but I want to hear the arguments, on both sides.

Pointer: How soon will you make a decision on 24-hour situation?

Marshall: Well I would hope we would have a decision on it by this semester, but if we were going to go to a change, I would want the Academic Senate to make recommendations.

Pointer: You said in a press conference that you have to be alert to the faculty concerns. How about student concerns?

Marshall: You have to be concerned with both. The students certainly have to have the feeling, the understanding, that their views are listened to and considered. But there is, with regard to the faculty, a historical requirement. They believe, and rightly so, that the faculty is the institution, and the faculty are the ones to conduct classes, formulate the curriculum, and without them we have nothing.

The morale of the laborers is one of the most critical parts of the success of the institution. From my point of view, my first priority is dealing with the faculty.

Pointer: There has been a recent uproar concerning the problem with the Public Square, and the trouble with drunken, disorderly people. Many citizens are blaming the students. How do you approach a situation like this, to maintain good public relations with the city?

Marshall: I have to confess, I know virtually nothing about it. I don't have any particulars as to the certainty that all of them are students. I don't know how many students or how many people are involved. The problem one could say is not so much the students, but the concentration of taverns in that area. I was told there are more taverns per square block in that area than anywhere else in town, perhaps in the state. As soon as the town collectively creates that situation of putting all the taverns there, then they've created the other situations. That's something we have to investigate. I would certainly want to talk with people concerned about it, Mayor Haberman, the director of public safety, and what they perceive the problem to be. You're not going to solve the problem so long as the taverns are there.

Pointer: Many off-campus students have been bitter about eating on campus due to high prices in places such as the Grid, and the crackdown of the "Black Market" coupon sales. What's your opinion on this?

Marshall: I'm a little in the dark as to why there's a problem with selling those coupons to anyone else. But there are various things I don't know.

But as far as I can see, on those coupons, I don't know SAGA's side of it. I can't perceive why they would care, other than the fact that they're counting on making a profit on the coupons unused.

The mark-up on coupons is already there. I don't see why they want to worry about the other part of it. I know they lose money in those situations, but they ought to resign themselves to pricing those meals lower. They're just asking for trouble when they try to limit the resale that they don't need.

Pointer: What's your opinion of the student media, and how do you feel they should function?

Marshall: I can say The Pointer is better than most student newspapers I have seen. Nearly all. In comparison to other student newspapers it's a damn good paper. I can't speak about the radio station and television, because I have not listened to them, and couldn't make any comparison. I can only assume it's as good as the written media.

Pointer: What about job placement from this institution—how good is it?

Marshall: I don't have any doubt that this institution can prepare the students, provided the student is willing to put in his share. There is no way to give a student total assurance that his needs will be met.

Photo by Norm Easey

UWSP Chancellor Philip Marshall

We're going to have successes and we're going to have failures. The placement of students in certain areas is far better than others. Paper science graduates all have five or six offers, and unfortunately go out and make more than some of our faculty. You may have to accommodate to the market outside, you have to be flexible. There are many opportunities in the world. The report I have heard about the placement office indicates it is well above average.

Pointer: What about "Collective Bargaining" for faculty. You have said, in a recent press conference, that you're not in favor of it. If it comes about—passed by the legislature, how will you deal with it?

Marshall: We'll have to work with it. If the legislature passes the bill, and the faculty votes to go to collective bargaining, I don't have any evidence available to me that says the faculty will be successful in getting what they want.

I know university faculty want better compensation.

There are examples of students who were here, and go out and make more money than the faculty. The faculty should not try to claim they ate beans for the last half of the month. They're not poor, they're better than average.

The question is, are they going to get that money? Why would the legislature be willing to pay more under collective bargaining, than they would without it?

I indicated that there seems to be no evidence that faculties with collective bargaining have made more in the past, than those without it. There has been evidence that there have been losses in the student-faculty ratio. The greatest danger I see is that the faculty will go into collective bargaining with the conviction they are going to gain, and if they find that they haven't, they're going to be more unhappy afterwards. (Marshall also feels that if the student-faculty ratio goes down, then students won't receive the individual attention they need.)

Pointer: What's your opinion of the plus-minus grading system?

Marshall: I think it is helpful, it's not a deterrent. It is helpful to the faculty member and the student.

The GPA will vary from institution to institution. The average here is a little bit lower than the average institution. I don't think it involves the quality of the students here.

The addition of the plus-minus allows for a truer representation of what the student has really done. It has not changed the overall GPA to make any difference.

Pointer: Governor Dreyfus wore a red vest. What's your trademark?

Marshall: That's mine (pulling out his pocket calculator). But I wouldn't want to be known as simply a mechanical, number-cruncher. I believe that I am a humanist. I believe I can be both humanistic, and concerned with the efficient operation of the university to obtain the best possible education for the students, with the money that's available to us.

HALF-PRICE
PAPERBACK BOOK
SALE
OCTOBER 1

(on selected titles)

UNIV. STORE, 346-
UNIV. CENTER 3431

The Square-- Looking for trouble

Photo by Aaron Sunderland

"I'll be there until the bars burn down."
J.D. Souther

By Joy Cardin

The Public Square has been a source of controversy for years, and once again, the problems have generated somewhat of a hostility between certain facets of the community and university. Unjustifiably or not, college students are blamed for the vandalism, violence, and general chaos associated with the 1300 block of Second Street. Various actions by the city, such as an ordinance prohibiting "open intoxicants" outside of a bar, has done little to stop the influx of problems. Like so many years in the past, officials have insisted that something be done. This year a serious attempt to change the situation has begun.

Prior to 1972, the square was basically a local hangout, according to Mayor Mike Haberman. When Wisconsin lowered the drinking age, the downtown bars changed clientele. Local area residents and university students flocked to the square. Following them was a barrage of problems.

Several arrests have been made already this month, but police records indicated this is typical for the beginning and end of nearly every school year. The majority of arrests have been for violating the open intoxicant ordinance, loitering, and disorderly conduct. However, some recent, more serious offenses gained the attention and regenerated the concern of city officials.

Two weeks ago, a local resident was transported to Saint Michael's Hospital after he was beaten by a gang on the square. One person was forced out of his car, had his watch stolen, and got punched in the face. Still another area resident had his car stolen after he got out of the vehicle because some patrons were kicking it. These instances, all occurring around 2 a.m., happened when a driver attempted to maneuver through the masses in the street.

"The problems on the square this year," a Stevens Point police officer said, "aren't nearly as bad as in the past." He claimed people were finally fed up because the situation has been going on for years. "Anyone who attempts to drive through North Second Street," he adds, "is looking for trouble." Other police officers admitted the majority of the square's patrons have been well-behaved and orderly. The overflow of customers out into the street was attributed to the small capacity of the bars and natural curiosity.

"Most of the troublemakers are the freshmen and sophomores, just out from mommy's wing," one officer said, "The upperclassmen don't seem to get so hammered." Authorities claimed their presence on the square usually aggravated the situation, because some troublesome individuals need an audience.

During a recent address, Mayor Mike Haberman outlined the problems that face the city concerning the square's dilemma. "The number one problem," he said, "is the safety of the students." Vandalism came in second. Several merchants in the area have complained of extensive damage, which has resulted in hundreds of dollars in repair costs annually. Others have been reluctant to protest, according to Bill Hopper, Police and Fire Commission Chairman, for fear they would be subjected to more of the same.

The third concern Haberman cited involved the community's attitude toward the square and the university. He advised student organizations, as well as individuals, to get involved in the decision-making process. Finally, he commented on the taxpayer cost, since policemen and other city employees sometimes have to work overtime for additional supervision and cleanup. Haberman said a viable solution would be hard to come by, and he admitted, "notmaking that the place to go might be considered."

Some city aldermen have already considered going that route. At the last Common Council meeting, Ralph Olsen, 6th ward, wanted to know if the taverns could be forced to close at 5 p.m. Jerome Kaczmarek, 4th ward, suggested buying out the bars with federal community development funds. Louis Molepske, the City Attorney, was instructed to investigate the legalities involved with these and other recommendations. The Police and Fire Commission and the Public Protection Committee previously had decided to examine the problem jointly and report back to the Council.

What do the bar owners have to say about these recent developments? "It's ridiculous!" charged Ray Smith, proprietor of The Upper Wisconsin River Yacht Club. "If there's a car accident, they don't stop selling cars. If there's a shooting accident, they don't stop selling guns...Closing down the bars isn't the answer." Dick Morton of Joe's Bar said that, because of the square's tradition, even if some bars were shut down and only a few remained on the block, people would continue to flock there. He referred to the loss of several establishments in the past few years and how it has not resulted in a reduction of the

cont'd on page 18

c
The SHIRT
HOUSE

77E
FOCUS
95...

reg.
$10.95

now
$8.95

ON

WISCONSIN

UNIVERSITY STORE
UNIVERSITY CENTER

346-3431

“latest last concert”

Wheatstone Bridge

“It just goes to show that the campus community is behind alternative entertainment, and not just willing to settle for always going to someplace like the square, for example.”

Chuck Roth
90 FM
Station Manager

By Kitty Cayo

Last Friday evening, Sept. 21, the student rank and file were not in their favorite square stomping grounds, engaged in their usual square activities, contending for the pool table at Buffy's, perched upon red stools at The Yacht Club, engrossed in a lively game of dice, or jiving to the rollicking tunes of the jukebox at Joe's Bar.

Instead, the multitude of students could be found directly north of the square, at Bernard's Supper Club and Ballroom, 701 N. Second Street. The exuberant crowd was kicking its heels to the simmering sounds of the musical combo, Wheatstone Bridge.

The event was sponsored by the campus radio station, 90 FM, the theme being, “Autumn Kickoff.” According to Station Manager Chuck Roth, “the event was a big success.”

Approximately 550 people attended, creating a good-sized crowd in Bernard's spacious ballroom. The crowd also created a sizable lump for 90 FM's treasury. The proceeds from the concert will go toward purchasing a much needed antenna for the station. Quoting Rick Westenberger, 90 FM's chief engineer, “At any time that antenna could transmit its last ounce of power.”

The 90 FM staff should be commended for its excellent planning and execution of alternative entertainment. Both atmosphere and setting were appropriate for the affair. The ballroom was constructed for wedding receptions and other large gatherings. It was crowded, but everyone had enough breathing space and the designated dance area was clear at all times for those wishing to pursue that pleasure.

There was a large, rectangular bar, complete with four professional mixologists, who adequately accommodated the energetic crowd. Their service was expert, in providing the thirsty people with any one of their favorite cocktails.

90 FM's wisest decision, however, was reflected in the choice of musical entertainment, one of Stevens Point's best-received bands, Wheatstone Bridge. The price of tickets at $1.50 in advance, and $2 at the door, was quite reasonable.

The band is composed of seven talented members. Rick Boehn from Mosinee, and Bob Schultz from Stevens Point are the group's drummers. Toni Menzer's creative nature seems to take on many facets. He not only supplies the band with a powerful bass, but is also a community artist, a master at designing innovative and intriguing pottery.

The other guitarists include Kevin Oliver (rhythm) of Minocqua and the nomadic Ray Skorzewski of Milwaukee, Madison and Stevens Point, providing lead. Mike Mueller, who plays a lively banjo, is a native of Milwaukee, a UWSP graduate, currently holding a position there at Mueller Bros. Fish Co.

Otis McLennon is the group's lead vocalist. The entire band, however, contributes to the vocals. The lyrics are sung crisply, and McLennon has an incredibly flexible vocal range. McLennon is also responsible for the harp and percussions.

Each member performs on his own instrument in a much more than mediocre way. The blending of vocals is good. The harmony created is excellent. Wheatstone Bridge did a fine job of consistently keeping the audience in high spirits. Some of its most well-received renditions were “Can't You See” and “Fire on the Mountain,” originally by The Marshall Tucker Band. The group also borrows some tunes from Grateful Dead.

The band also does a couple of original pieces. “Jesus Lives at the Grand Ole Opry” is your “classical country tune,” according to the composer, McLennon. “Stars,” a song with multi-interpretive lyrics, is sort of a jazz-ballad with lots of high energy.

The group's history can be traced back to the fall of 1974, when the original trio, McLennon, Skorzewski, and Oliver were organized under the name of Poker Face. Some may recall their performances at the old Steak, Brat and Brew, coffeehouses, and local bars.

In spring of 1975, the combo we know today as Wheatstone Bridge slowly began to take form. Not all the members are permanent Stevens Point residents, and the group has seen many different stages of development, as the members come and go.

After four years of working and striving together, Wheatstone Bridge says it will disband, at least temporarily. Reasons for this move are given by McLennon: “Everyone has something they just have to do. We're all in this on a part-time basis, to make it full-time would take a huge commitment. As of now, no future performances are scheduled beyond the 29th. However, the band could be in Lost and Found items! If you are missing anything (books, notebooks, folders, keys, mittens, gloves, scarves, and misc. junk.) please come and see if we have it!

HELP! THE UNIVERSITY INFO DESK STAFF IS DROWNING

All items lost between Aug. 27 and Sept. 21
They will be given to

must be claimed by Oct. 5.
Goodwill after that.

HELP DIG US OUT OF THIS MESS!!!! Claim your lost items now!

UAB Cinema “HEROES” 6:30 & 9:00 P.M.
Sept. 27 & 28 PBR $1.25

UAB Coffeehouse Gil Plotkin
Sept. 27, 28 & 29 8-10:30 p.m.
also Sept. 28 3-4 p.m. in Granny's

STUDENT COMMUNITY DATES

Sept. 28, 3-6 p.m. in Granny's

HOMECOMING MEETING Oct. 2 7:00 p.m.
Van Hise Room

UAB Courses & Seminars

- * Photography 10/2, 9, 16—7-8:30 p.m.
- * Miniatures 10/2, 9, 16, 23—7-8:30 p.m.
- * Tatting 10/2, 9, 16, 23—6:30-8:30 p.m.
- * China 10/9, 16, 23—7-8:30 p.m.
- * Mixology 10/3, 10, 17, 24—7-9 p.m.
- * Wine Apprec. 10/4, 11, 18, 25—7-9 p.m.
- * Hypnosis 10/3, 10/17—7-8:30 p.m.
- * Eating Around The World 10/3, 10, 17—6:30-9 p.m.
- * Stained Glass 10/16, 23, 30 & 11/6—7-9 p.m.

Last day to register for the above is the first day of class.

UAB Trippers Oct. 6, 7
Beginners Bicycling to Eau Claire Dells
Beginners Rock Climb at Eau Claire Dells
$1.50 Plus Membership

Sign up Wed., Oct. 3, 10-2 at U.C. Concourse Booth 6.

cont'd on page 16

Want To See Your Creative Efforts On TV?

Student Experimental Television wants to show your student-made films or slide-shows put to music.

How about it? Get in touch with Randy Moreau (341-8217) or Emily Gander (341-6413) Producers of "Toonz"!

University Film Society Presents

THE WOMEN

George Cukor's biting comedy about the scalpel-tongued Park Avenue set.

Joan Crawford, Paulette Goddard, Norma Shearer, Rosalind Russell.

Tuesday and Wednesday
Oct. 2 and 3 7 and 9:30
PBR $1.00

ATTENTION!

Please note a change of location and participants for the NUCLEAR ENERGY DEBATE on September 29 at 2:00 p.m.

The debate will be held in Room 125 of the Collins Classroom Center.

The participants will include a representative of the Badger Safe Energy Alliance in Eau Claire, and a representative of Wisconsin Power and Light Company in Madison. Moderating will be C.Y. Allen of UWSP's Communication Department.

Wheatstone Bridge cont'd

revived."

On Saturday night, at The Bar, 1274 Second St., Wheatstone Bridge will conduct its last performance. The group, however, has been known to say this before. McLennon refers to this as the group's "latest last concert." This time, though plans seem more definite.

This is unfortunate since the Stevens Point followers will miss the kind of entertainment Wheatstone Bridge has offered them. The group expressed sentiments along the same line regarding the Stevens Point audience. Says McLennon, "Yeah, the crowd was excellent. We really enjoy playing in Point. We aim our music specifically to that crowd. There's more enthusiasm generated here. There's just something about that Stevens Point crowd."

Anyone who has the opportunity should see Wheatstone Bridge at its "latest last concert" this Saturday night at The Bar.

With any luck the next "latest last concert" will be sooner than we think.

Hyer Hall bids farewell to Mary

By Kathy Kennedy

Mary Hencik started working at Hyer Hall before most of its current residents were born. Last Friday she ended over twenty years of service as the dorm's maintenance person.

When Mary began her job in the fall of 1959, things were a lot different. The students weren't nearly as friendly. "When I started working here," she says, "the kids hardly talked to me at all. It was a shy generation." In those days, the smaller size of the campus made it easier for Mary and other UWSP employees to get to know one another. Lately, three or four months might pass before Mary would see some of her old friends. Rumor had it Mary used to break something just to have one of her buddies come to fix it. According to Mary, who swears the rumor is unfounded, this was one of the many things she used to be teased about. Kidding never bothered Mary, though. "I can honestly say that the whole time I've been here, the kids never hurt my feelings."

In fact, it was the students that made Mary's job so enjoyable. After the initial period of shyness, Mary feels the students became more outgoing with each passing year. Of course that could have had something to do with Mary's cheerful disposition. That cheerfulness is so well-known that freshmen at Hyer Hall have come to Mary to tell her, "You must be Mary. We've heard all about you."

On occasion, Mary's sense of humor has come in handy. A serious person probably wouldn't be too amused to find a frog swimming in a toilet. But, when Mary found just that she took it in stride. She doused it with disinfectant until it stopped hopping around. Mary has found the bathroom to be a frequent source of pranks, such as putting saran wrap or

SHURE® DOUBLE HEADER

No. 1 Cartridge Clinic

(Bring in your turntable and magnetic cartridge of any make)

FREE

- Cleaning and inspection of the stylus
- Turntable speed
- Arm balance and stylus tracking force
- Phase check
- Channel balance
- Channel separation
- Antiskating
- Trackability

No. 2 Cartridge Sale

Three of Shure's best cartridges at huge savings. One day only. Upgrade your system now!

| | |
|------------------|---------|
| Shure M95HE | |
| List $97.50 | $29.95 |
| Shure Type IIIHE | |
| List $115.00 | $69.95 |
| Shure Type IV | |
| List $165.00 | $89.95 |

Sale And Clinic One Day Only!
Thurs., Sept. 27th—Noon-8:00 P.M.

TODAY ONLY!

Hi Fi Forum

Post Road - Bus. 51 South
4 Blocks South of McMill Pond
Stevens Point, Wis.

cont'd on page 18

Saturday in the park

By Lori Jungbluth

Perhaps the Lord looks favorably upon artists, or maybe He was just giving the area children one last chance, on the final day of summer, to enjoy the warmth of the sun as it streaked through the already coloring trees at Iverson Park. Whatever it was, Saturday seemed to be an ideal day for Stevens Point's annual Art in the Park, sponsored by the Children's Art Program.

The Stevens Point community has been acquainted with Art in the Park for several years and has seen it be transformed from a relatively small operation to a major event in the town. All around the Iverson area, streets and parking lots were buzzing with the activity of people coming on bikes, in cars, on foot, and even in little red wagons. Originally sponsored basically for children, the event has been growing through the years, and each year more artists are bringing in their wares. Consequently, though still with an emphasis on children, the "adult" art has become a major attraction.

A large variety of art can be found at the fair, including "live" art such as dancing, singing, and gymnastics. This year's entertainment was provided by such varied groups as the SPASH Jazz Band, Suzuki Strings, and the Blue Mountain Bluegrass Band, to mention a few.

But of course, the music is only a small part of the Art in the Park. That's just an added attraction for most. The great majority of the people attending the event are there to simply browse past each exhibit, and perhaps to stop and purchase a few things for themselves, a friend, or even for early Christmas presents.

Talking with the artists, it's interesting to find exactly why they take the time to come to the fair. Their answers are almost as varied as the crafts themselves. Unusual as it may seem, the reason isn't always "to make money." Donna Bartelt is one of these artists. When asked why she came she said, almost embarrassed by the fact, because it was great for her ego to see how much the children enjoyed her work and to hear the adults commenting on how fine it was. This is her third year of "doing it for fun" and, considering the fact that it takes her 12 hours to make dolls she sells for $12 she must be telling the truth. Donna had sold 90 percent of her wares by 1 p.m.

Photos by Norm Easey

Little girl walks her shark at Art in the Park

Another team, Marianne and Mary Beth, of The Thistle Stop, stated they came primarily to let area people know about their small, home-based business. They sold natural and dried flower arrangements and only had only about one-fourth of their arrangements left three hours after the event started.

Upon asking the artists what makes their field worthwhile to them, they gave some sound reasons. For instance, Sue Jenzak, an occupational therapy major at UW-Madison, may find her sketching therapeutic. Then there was William Stark, whose art is photography and making furniture. He would like to make this his full-time job simply because it is what he enjoys doing.

All in all, it was a good day in the park, among balloons headed skyward, leaving sad little faces behind them, young artists dabbling in clay, dancers, singers, and most of all, people enjoying the September sun.

Rock's ^{at} it's best played with Comfort

Just pour Comfort[®] over ice, and sip it. It's smooth. Mellow. Delicious. No wonder it's so popular on-the-rocks. Fantastic solo...great in combo with cola, 7UP, fruit juices, milk, too.

Nothing's so delicious as Comfort[®] on-the-rocks!
SOUTHERN COMFORT CORPORATION, 80-100 PROOF LIQUEUR, ST. LOUIS, MO 63132

RETREAT

"The Non-violent Lifestyle"

Exploring:

Nature of violence

Military myths

"Just war" theory

Systemic violence

The alternative of active non-violence-- SATYAGRAHA

Date: 7pm Sept. 28-1pm Sept. 29

Place: UCM (Newman) Center, corner of Fourth and Reserve

Leaders: Thom Saffold and Jim Missey

Sponsors: UMHE¹ and the Community of Non-violent Ethics

Cost: $3.00 (bring a sleeping bag)

UNITED MINISTRY IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Affiliated with the UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN MINISTRY

Editor's Note:
Mini-Course sign-up for Rec Services, UAB and Arts & Crafts starts Sept. 20th, not Sept. 27th as stated in last week's Pointer.
 (Also) Omitted from the Arts & Crafts course list was Beginning Pottery, Mondays 7:00-8:00/$8.00 student, $10⁰⁰ non-student.

THE HOME OF SUBMARINE SANDWICHES
TOGO'S
 32 Varieties Of Hot & Cold Sandwiches
 • Vegetarian Delight
 • Torpedo Steak
 • Bomb Steak
 • American & Italian Cold Cuts
 Open: 11 a.m.-midnight daily
 11 a.m.-1 a.m. Fri.
 11 a.m.-2 a.m. Sat.
 249 Division
Dial 341-1111
 For Fast Service

CAR WASH
Sept. 29, 10-3
 South Hall Parking Lot "W"
 Highway 10 East
Donation $1.00

Grin & Beer It
 (On The Square)
Sun.: Afternoons 1-6
1.25 Pitchers
Tues.: Ladies Nite
7-10 15¢ Taps
Wed.: Pitcher Nite
8-11 1.25

square, cont'd from page 14

crowd. Morton said most tavern owners on the square have complied with the city's request to substitute plastic cups for glass, and all have expressed a desire to cooperate in the future meetings. "We can't babysit the customers, once they're outside of our bars," he said, "but we'd all like to help in alleviating the situation."

 A university group, the Human Relations

Committee, has also planned on being a part of the "negotiations" to offer constructive input. If you would like to take part in the meetings, contact Bob Borski for further information.

Mary, cont'd from page 16

petroleum jelly on porcelain fixtures.

A favorite recollection of Mary's concerns a fad of a few years ago: streaking. Mary recalls, "All of a sudden you'd hear a yell and then a bunch of them would go running. It was really cold out then, too. I remember a shy guy telling me he streaked, but I wouldn't believe him. He showed me a picture of himself, then I believed him."

As far as jokes go, Mary sometimes got the last laugh. She remembers the first time Hyer Hall had liquor. "I pretended I was drinking too. I started laughing and stumbling around. Then I acted like I was going to sit on a bed. I missed and landed on the floor. My face got red from being so silly. Then the dorm director walked in and said, 'Shame on you kids for getting Mary drunk,' and I never had a drop!"

That was the closest Mary came to drinking on the job, even on her last day, when two brown paper bags had been left for her by the vending machine man. He was one of the many well-wishers who stopped in on Mary's final day. In the course of half an hour, nearly everyone who passed by the front desk stopped to kid around with Mary once more. "They do it because they know I can take it. If some old grump worked here, they'd never talk to her. You have to have a sense of humor." A friend said, "Mary's terrific. We love her around here."

Though the school undoubtedly buys them more often than every other decade, Mary found one she liked and stuck with it. In fact, when she comes back for a visit, she hopes the mop will still be around. "I just wouldn't feel comfortable around here without that old mop in my hand."

Besides her occasional visits back to Hyer Hall, Mary plans to spend more time with her husband, who is also retired. She looks forward to sleeping later than 6:00 each morning. In the future, she'd like to visit relatives in Texas and California. Back at home, she'll have more time to enjoy her grandchildren, aged 14 and 9. Before she can do anything though, she'll have to get used to being a lady of leisure. Mary has figured a way to make the adjustment. "I'll clean the bathroom sink thirty-two times a day."

The feeling is mutual, which made it a little hard for Mary to leave. Hers was a job she had few complaints about. Mary liked her supervisors, and working alone appealed to her since, "You can't argue with the walls." Mary takes pride in the fact that she's used the same mop for 18 years.

OPEN THE DOOR TO BETTER GRADES

CLIFFS NOTES

Cliffs Notes help busy people...

- study more effectively.
- increase understanding of novels, plays and poems.
- review quickly for exams.

Come in today! We have more than 200 Cliffs Notes titles to help improve your grades and save time.

Available at:

B. Dalton BOOKSELLER

WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER

Needed; project volunteers

Volunteering sounds like a drag, right? It's been associated a lot with boring or unenjoyable work. People rarely benefit from doing it and often times the personal satisfaction just isn't enough motivation.

Well, how would you like to assist in publishing a bi-weekly newsletter, answering an information-and-referral crisis phone line, or coordinating workshops dealing with topics of interest to women? The skills you perfect, and the experience you gain, may enhance your resume and increase your employability.

In getting involved at the Women's Resource Center, you will also be exposed to a whole new group of people, both co-workers and clients. It is an opportunity to do constructive things with your time, and enjoy doing them.

If you are interested in becoming a "projects volunteer," there is no formal training session. Just drop in to discuss your interests or talents and ideas and we will work something out.

There is a formal training session for people interested in working on our phone lines. It consists of two one-hour sessions with staff and additional time to familiarize workers with various resources. There is no minimum number of hours that we request you work. A training session is scheduled for Wednesday, October 3 at 6:30. Anyone interested in volunteering is welcome to attend.

If you don't have time to spare, stop in and find out what we're doing. We appreciate any interest in the Center. We're across from Old Main on the corner of Main and Reserve Streets.

SPORTS

Pointers toppled by St. Norbert

By Joe Vanden Plas

Perhaps still stunned by its crushing defeat to UW-La Crosse last week, the UWSP varsity football team dropped a 15-0 decision to a hungry St. Norbert squad on Saturday at Minahan Stadium in De Pere.

The Pointers, who fell to 1-2, have now scored only one touchdown in their last 10 quarters of football and are having continuing difficulty in trying to move the football and score consistently. UWSP gained the same amount of yardage (259 total) as the Green Knights, but couldn't put any points on the scoreboard.

Every time the Pointers got something going, the drive was stalled by a penalty, a costly turnover, or a lack of execution. Head Coach Ron Steiner stated that the problem is a lack of experience. "On offense we have new personnel. Sometimes we have breakdowns where we have trouble blocking the right people or our backs are having difficulty in reading the right hole."

It was St. Norbert who failed to capitalize on its first scoring opportunity. Green Knight quarterback Greg Cavanaugh, St. Norbert's all-time leading passer in only his junior year, led his team downfield late in the first period only to have the drive stall on the first play of the second quarter. On fourth down from the UWSP four, Pointer defensive end Jeff Groeschl stopped fullback Joe Hoerning on a sweep to the right.

The Pointer offense seemed to get some life when freshman running back Jerry O'Connor burst up the middle for a 39-yard run to his own 43. Jerry Schedlbauer, who is suffering from an aggravating shoulder injury, ripped off 10 yards on the next play, but the drive stalled and the Pointers were forced to punt.

The Knights took over at their own 15 and proceeded to drive for their first score. The big plays on the drive were a 16-yard Cavanaugh-to-Bob Grapentine pass, a 15-yard pass from Cavanaugh to split-end Greg Eiting, and a 27-yard flea-flicker. On the next play, fullback Joe Hoerning, who gained 91 yards on 32 carries, scored to make it 6-0 at the 7:14 mark of the second quarter. Andy Blodgett's PAT attempt was wide to the left.

The Pointers' deepest penetration of the half was to the St. Norbert 25-yard line as quarterback Brian Demski led the Pointers from his own 16-yard line on short passes to his backs and receivers. However, two costly penalties halted the drive as the half ended.

After Point held St. Norbert on its first possession of the second half, halfback Jerry O'Connor fumbled and St. Norbert recovered on the UWSP 40. The Knights then drove to the Stevens Point eight, where the defense stiffened and forced St. Norbert to settle for a 25-yard Andy Blodgett field goal to make it 9-0 with 5:48 left in the third period.

Another Pointer turnover

led to the next St. Norbert's score. On third and 9 from his own 36, Demski went back to pass and was heavily pressured by the St. Norbert rush and threw an interception to linebacker Pat Baye, who returned it to the Point 14-yard line. Four plays later Hoerning scored from the one. Blodgett's PAT was blocked and the score stood at 15-0 with 3:42 remaining in the third quarter.

On the next series, Point was led by Demski who passed 11 yards to tight end Scott Erickson. A 14-yard deflected pass to wide receiver Phil Hassler put Point on the Knight 35. On first down, running back Mike Gaab went to the 27. Then a ten-yard pass to Hassler gave UWSP another first down at the 17. An incomplete pass to Hassler, and a 3-yard run by Gaab gave Point a third and 7 situation. Hassler made an excellent juggling catch on the right sideline, but was still a yard short of the first down. On Point's best scoring opportunity of the day, St. Norbert rose to the occasion and stopped Mike Gaab on fourth and 1 as the third quarter ended.

Plagued by almost a dozen dropped passes, Point gallantly tried to score again. Demski, operating from the shotgun formation, moved the Pointers to the St. Norbert 20, but the drive was thwarted when a Demski pass was broken up in the end zone on fourth down.

It was the first time since 1975 that St. Norbert's has defeated Point on the gridiron.

Coach Steiner refused to say whether the overwhelming loss to La Crosse had adversely affected his team. "No, I just think we lack enthusiasm now with all the new people we have. The team has to get to know each other so they can jell and play as a team."

The Pointers now face tough UW-Whitewater on Saturday at Goerke Field. Game time is 1:30.

UWSP Spikers remain unbeaten

The UWSP women's volleyball team owns a perfect 4-0 record after its opening week of competition and now looks forward to a big match with the University of Wisconsin this Friday in Madison.

The Point spikers hosted Marquette University in their home opener last Wednesday and upset the Warriors, who were led by 6-foot-3 Kathy Andryowski. UWSP won three of the four matches 15-8, 15-7, 8-15, 15-10.

Coach Schoen stated, "We played with intensity, especially in the first two games. We were not intimidated by Andryowski, they blocked and hit around her. The team thought well on the court and capitalized on Marquette's mistakes. It was an excellent team effort."

The Pointers had a busy schedule on Saturday when they competed in a triangular meet at Oshkosh. The Pointers faced Northern Illinois in the first match and lost the first game 15-5 but rebounded to sweep a pair from NIU, 15-12, 15-11.

UWSP captured two games from UW-Whitewater in its second match, posting scores of 15-12 and 15-11.

The Pointers met their stiffest challenge to date in their final match of the day against UW-Oshkosh. Each game was decided by a mere two points and the Pointers prevailed 16-14, 13-15, 15-13.

"Overall, I feel the team displayed tremendous teamwork in all matches," said coach Schoen. "Their mental toughness became especially apparent in our final match against Oshkosh. When two teams are equally skilled, as was the case in our match with Oshkosh, the team with the greatest desire and superior physical condition will prevail."

Schoen had special praise for veteran starters Sharon Backman, Lori Cox, Barb Stollenwerk and Cheryl Post. Schoen also cited first year players Mary Jo Wamser and Melanie Breitenbach for their consistent play.

UWSP will be competing in the UW-Madison Invitational Tournament this weekend at Madison.

Women Netters win a pair

By Tom Tryon

The UWSP women's tennis team posted a pair of wins against one defeat last week. The Pointers defeated UW-Green Bay 6-3 Wednesday afternoon and slipped past UW-Eau Claire 5-4 on Saturday. The Point netters dropped their second match Saturday to UW-Oshkosh, 7-2.

The Pointers overpowered Green Bay, taking four of the six singles matches and two of the three doubles events. Anne Okonek and Sheryl Schubert won the top two singles matches for the Pointers, then teamed to capture the first-ranked doubles match.

Kerry Meinberg and Kim Gabrovich were also winners in doubles competition with a three-set victory. Meinberg won her match at the No. 4 spot in two sets and Jennifer Firer wrapped up singles play with a 6-3, 6-3 win.

Against Eau Claire, Schubert and Okonek repeated their previous performances by winning their individual matches and then went three sets to win the No. 1 doubles match 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

In other singles action, Kim Gabrovich and Maggie Burns each won their matches, Gabrovich in three sets and Burns 6-2, 6-2.

The Pointers were not as fortunate against Oshkosh, as they could only manage one win in the singles and doubles. No. 4 Kerry Meinberg took her match 6-3, 6-2 while the No. 3 doubles team of Seiler and Shannon outlasted their opponents in three sets 4-6, 7-6, 6-0.

Coach Dave Nass was pleased with the overall performances of his squad and cited the play of Okonek and Schubert as outstanding. Nass also emphasized the importance of winning at the No. 5 and No. 6 positions and was pleased with the performances at those slots.

"We're winning matches, but we're definitely making entirely too many mental errors," added Nass.

The UWSP netters will travel to Appleton for a match with Lawrence University on Wednesday and will host UW-La Crosse and Marquette University at the UWSP courts on Saturday.

Smashing serve delivered by a Pointer

Photo by Norm Eassey

ALDO'S
Italian Restaurant
2300 STRONGS AVENUE (IN SKIPP'S BOWLING CENTER)

CARRYOUT AND DELIVERY SERVICE
341-9494

FEATURING:

| | |
|-------------|--------------------------|
| Lasagna | Spaghetti |
| Ravioli | Veal Parmesan |
| Mostaccioli | And Our Delicious Pizzas |

Campus Delivery Charge
50¢

Harriers finish strong second

Photo by Norm Eassey

Point runners set the pace

The UWSP cross country team took a surprising second place finish in the UWSP Cross Country Invitational, Saturday at the Stevens Point Country Club. The Pointers finished with 61 points behind Eau Claire's 41.

Rounding out the scoring was UW-Milwaukee with 72 points, UW-Oshkosh 82, UW-Stout 205, and Northern Michigan University 256.

The top finisher for UWSP was freshman Dan Schoepke in 25:13. Jon Novak of Eau Claire took the race in 25:08.

Greg Schrab finished 5th for Point in 25:27. Pat McEldowney was 8th in 25:32, Dave Parker 15th in 25:48, Dan Sparks 21st in 26:04, and Jeff Ellis 26th in 26:15.

Next Saturday the harriers travel to Oshkosh for the Titan Invitational.

BILL'S PIZZA
ALL KINDS OF PIZZA

YOU NAME IT, WE MAKE IT!

TRY ONE OF OUR HOT SANDWICHES

- ITALIAN MEATBALL • ITALIAN SAUSAGE
- ITALIAN BEEF

CALL US FOR FAST DELIVERY SERVICE 344-9557

the pigskin prophets

By Rick Herzog & Kurt Denissen

The Prophets' predictions by tea leaves failed last week. They were trying to read instant tea remains and scraped out a 6-8 record, bringing their total to 37-19 on the season. The way this season is going, it wouldn't help to forecast the games at halftime. Lambeau Field in Green Bay will host its first Monday Night Game ever and the Prophets will be in attendance. If you want to tailgate for a Packer victory, look for a green Chevy pickup truck in the southeast parking lot of the stadium. The truck should be in row 1 with a 1/4 barrel.

BUFFALO (2-2) OVER BALTIMORE (0-4) This will be a close contest with Joe Ferguson's precise passing arm coming out on top. Bills to beat Colts by 2.

DALLAS (3-1) OVER CONCINNATI (0-4) After Monday night's loss to the other Ohioans, the Cowboys will get sweet revenge on the Bengals. Cowboys by a dozen.

HOUSTON (3-1) OVER CLEVELAND (4-0) The Astrodome will be the sight where these gladiators collide. Dust will be flying and the Oilers come out alive. The Browns fall by 4.

MIAMI (4-0) OVER NEW YORK JETS (1-3) The Jets have given up the most points in the NFL, 137. Final score: Csonka 39, N.Y. 17.

DETROIT (1-3) OVER MINNESOTA (2-2) When the Lions gain momentum with a victory, they keep on rolling. Jeff Komlo to experience this second win. Purple People drop by 6.

NEW ORLEANS (1-3) OVER NEW YORK GIANTS (0-4) The only way the Prophets would pick the Giants is if they played P.J. Jacobs. Archie Manning and the Saints by 11.

PITTSBURGH (4-0) OVER PHILADELPHIA (3-1) Injuries will not halt the Steelers. The Eagles will be playing for their lives. Steel Curtain to win the battle of Pennsylvania by 9.

DENVER (3-1) OVER OAKLAND (1-3) Old Faithful Craig Morton should star this game and sink the Raiders to (1-4). Broncos by 5.

SEATTLE (1-3) OVER KANSAS CITY (2-2) The Chiefs are the most unbelievable squad this season posting a couple victories. Jim Zorn is going to zap the Chiefs defense by a touchdown.

LOS ANGELES (2-2) OVER ST. LOUIS (1-3) The Rams were disappointed in a battle with Tampa Bay last week. The Rams are going to turn the table this week and stomp the Redbirds' eggs by 4.

SAN DIEGO (3-1) OVER SAN FRANCISCO (0-4) Rout of the week. The so-called stubborn 49ers will be submissive to the Chargers in this week's game. Running back Clarence Williams will storm all over the 49ers by a pair of TD's.

CHICAGO (2-2) OVER TAMP BAY (4-0) Coach John McKay's Bunch Defense will not be enough to stop Walter Payton's onslaught. Bear by 4.

ATLANTA (2-2) OVER WASHINGTON (3-1) The Falcons and their rambling defense must stop QB Joe Theismann. Skins lose a close one by 3.

GREEN BAY (1-3) OVER NEW ENGLAND (3-1) Why Not? It isn't every week or year that the Packers get to play on Monday Night Football. The nationwide coverage should fire the Packers up to show off Lambeau Field. Bart Starr and his hungry Packers by 2. Eat your words Howard C.

THE GREAT ESCAPE.

You dream about it at night... the day you can close your books, get out of this place and forget about studying for awhile.

Well, the Great Escape is here... this weekend, with Greyhound. Escape to the country or go see some friends. Just decide which escape route you want and we'll do the rest.

We'll get you out of town and away from the books so you can clear your head. It doesn't cost much and it'll do you a world of good.

So make the Great Escape this weekend... with Greyhound.

| To | One-Way | Round Trip | You Can Leave | You Arrive |
|-----------|---------|------------|---------------|------------|
| Appleton | 5.35 | 10.20 | 3:20 p.m. | 5:40 p.m. |
| Green Bay | 7.25 | 13.80 | 3:30 p.m. | 5:25 p.m. |
| Oshkosh | 5.35 | 10.20 | 3:20 p.m. | 6:20 p.m. |
| Madison | 7.85 | 14.95 | 7:20 a.m. | 10:30 a.m. |
| Milwaukee | 10.35 | 19.70 | 3:20 p.m. | 8:30 p.m. |

Contact Allen Center Student Manager 346-3537

GO GREYHOUND

We accept

Golfers set record win

By Joe Vanden Plas

The UWSP golf team, helped by a blistering second day score of 372, set a school record for a two-day tourney and went on to finish first in a field of eight teams in the Phoenix Open held at the Northbrook Country Club this past Friday and Saturday.

UWSP held a narrow two-stroke lead after Friday's 18 holes with a 384 while host UW-Green Bay was at 386. The Pointers came back with their 372 score on Saturday for a 36-hole total of 756. UW-Oshkosh took second with a 771 mark and UW-Green Bay finished third at 772.

Fred Hancock of the Pointers finished second in the individual scores with a 143, which included rounds of 75 and 68. His second round 68 is believed to be a school record. Todd Jugo also had a fine tournament, finishing fourth individually with rounds of 72 and 76 for a total of 148.

Jugo led the Pointers in the Eau Claire Invitational last Saturday with rounds of 77 and 74 for a total of 151. However, UWSP finished eighth in the 16-team field at Eau Claire.

STUDENT LIFE

sponsored by the UWSP Student Life Offices

Homecoming '79

Bringing friends together to celebrate

By Jim Eagon

As the autumn season wraps around us, and we prepare for the winter months ahead, one occasion gives us a chance for a great celebration. Homecoming '79 brings to Stevens Point not just the games and activities traditional to the yearly event, but a time for celebrating, making new friends, and even a time to prepare for the year yet ahead.

For students it means a time to let go and have a good time. For alumni it's a chance to get together again and reminisce. For the university and city, it's a time to renew a friendship long ago agreed to.

For student organizations, Homecoming is a unique opportunity to bring together new members and develop a strong commitment for the organization in its members. Over one hundred student organizations are now building their memberships with new people. The next step in establishing a viable organization is to develop a sense of "team" within the group by identifying a common goal or task. Homecoming activities naturally attract student organizations that are interested in a successful year. As an organization commits itself to a goal, such as building a float, gaming, or whatever, the individual members become committed to the organization and its success.

Many student organizations, which, at the beginning of the school year, found themselves struggling for a dedicated membership, have come to enjoy a very good year after becoming involved in the activities of Homecoming. This includes residence hall groups as well.

Sharon Sitka, this year's Homecoming Chairperson for the University Activities Board, promises many activities for students to be involved in. The week of October 7-13 is filled with the festivities, games and fun that will give every student and organization a reason to have a good time.

Sitka, a sophomore, hopes that Homecoming '79 will "bring students closer, especially freshmen and transfer students." Her campus-wide event will instill a sense of identity with

Stevens Point for those students new to the campus, as well as for those veterans of college life here. Sitka in Homecoming '79, most will continue to be active in other campus activities.

Organizations wishing to be included in the festivities (and wanting to develop a dedicated membership) should contact the UAB office in the Student Activities Complex in the University Center. The phone number there is 346-2412. Dozens of activities are on tap for excitement, from Sunday's Jazz Festival to Saturday's parade, football game, and Gene Cotton concert. In between are lots of fun games and cultural events, too.

Homecoming '79, a time for celebrating autumn, friendship, good times and togetherness. Don't miss the party, as Sharon Sitka says, it's time for "getting out and having a good time."

Sharon Sitka

anticipates that of the many students who will be involved

Thursday, September 27
ALTERNATIVE ENERGY SOURCES — James Skiles, director of the Energy Research Center in Madison, will speak at 7 p.m. in the Turner Room of the University Center

Friday, September 29
NUCLEAR POWER DEBATE — between representatives of each side in the question of nuclear power plant moratoriums. 2 p.m. in Room 125 of the Collins Classroom Center.

Saturday, September 29
FOOTBALL — Point vs. Whitewater at 1:30 p.m. at Goerke Field.

FIELD HOCKEY — Point vs. La Crosse at 4:30 p.m. Coleman Field.

Thursday through Saturday, September 27-29
GIL PLOTKIN brings his special music to campus for three exciting nights from 8-10 p.m. in the UC Coffeehouse. On Friday, he'll host a musician's workshop in UC's Granny's Kitchen at 3 p.m. All events are free, sponsored by UAB.

Sunday, September 30
THE BUFFALO CHIPKICKERS — They don't play disco, that's for certain. Don't miss this exciting, foot-stompin' band at 8 p.m. in the UC PBR, sponsored by UAB.

Thursday, September 27
LOST HORIZON — Frank Capra's classic story of plane crash survivors in Shangri-La. 7 p.m. in Room 333 of the Communications Building. Admission is absolutely free.

Thursday and Friday, September 27 & 28
HEROES — Starring Henry Winkler and Sally Field in the romantic story of a young man's travels. Both evenings at 6:30 and 9 p.m. in the University Center Program Banquet Room. Only $1.25, presented by the University Activities Board.

Sunday, September 30, Monday, October 1
THE CHEAP DETECTIVE — The very funny murder mystery starring just about everybody (except Bernard Shakey). Sunday at 8 & 10 p.m., Monday at 7 & 9 p.m., both nights at DeBot Center (get that?) Presented by Residence Hall Council.

Tuesday and Wednesday, October 2 & 3
THE WOMEN — George Cukor's 1939 biting comedy study of the "Park Avenue set," starring an all-female cast including Joan Crawford and Rosiland Russel. 7 & 9:15 p.m. in the UC PBR. Sponsored by the University Film Society, admission is just $1.

LOOKING FOR MORE EVENTS? Call Dial Event for a daily listing of activities. 346-3000.

Saturday, September 29
POINTER FOOTBALL — Point vs. Whitewater on Channel 3 TV at 8 p.m. A presentation of University Telecommunications.

Monday, October 1
MARK RUSSELL, COMEDY SPECIAL — America's leading political humorist manages to leave nothing sacred in this live performance at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 20, WHRM-TV.

TWO-WAY RADIO — This week's call-in show features discussion of the future of "the student square" and other town-gown issues with city officials. 10 p.m. to midnight on WWSP 90FM, 346-2696 (call before midnight tonight!).

WWSP's 11th Hour Specials
Thursday, September 27, Karla Bonoff — "Restless Nights"
Friday, September 28, Molly Hatchet — "Flirtin' With Disaster"

Saturday, September 29, Steely Dan — "Can't Buy a Thrill"

Sunday, September 30, Persuasions — "Comin at Ya"

Tuesday, October 2, Tom Johnston — "Everything You Heard Is True"

Wednesday, October 3, Jimmy Buffet — "Volcano" These albums can be heard in their entirety (and from your radio) by listening each night at 11 p.m. to 90 FM, Your Album Station.

Through October 21
BIRD ART EXHIBIT — "There's nothing comparable to it in the world," 100 original bird paintings and carvings now on exhibit at the Woodson Art Museum in Wausau. Audubon, Eckelberry, Coheleach, and other's works are featured every day (except Monday and Friday). For directions call 1-845-7010.

Sunday, October 7
KENNY LOGGINS CONCERT at the Milwaukee Arena, call (414) 358-0200 for details.

Saturday, October 13
GENE COTTON — Fine electric acoustic guitar musician to climax the Homecoming week. Pick this one to be sure, reserved seating is just $3 & $4. Tickets are available at the UC Information Desk. Presented by UAB.

Want your event listed here? It can be, free of charge if you send all the necessary information to: Comin' Up, Pointer, Communications Building. Please indicate date, time, cost, organization, and location, for best results. Send in today and receive a free copy of your event listing in next week's POINTER.

LAST WEEK THAT OUR COUPONS CAN BE USED
EXPIRE 9/29/79

- ERZINGER'S
JEANS 'N THINGS
1137 MAIN ST.
- ERZINGER'S
ALLEY KAT
1320 STRONGS AVE.

FAMOLARE
HIGH THERES

$15 COUPON $15
$15 OFF REGULAR PRICE GOOD TOWARDS PURCHASE OF ANY PAIR FAMOLARE HIGH THERES
NOT APPLICABLE ON PRIOR PURCHASE.
EXPIRES 5 P.M. OCT. 6TH

$15 COUPON $15

SHIPPY SHOES
Open Mon. & Fri. Nites Downtown Stevens Point

PART-TIME HELP WANTED

Four students to work 4 hours per evening, 4 evenings per week. $3.75 to $4.25 hourly average. Call Mr. Krueger Thursday, September 27 from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. and Friday, September 28 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Holiday Inn-Stevens Point.

1-715-341-1340

Thursday Night at the Movies.
LOST HORIZON
Frank Capra's spectacle that tells of the survivors of a plane crash who chance upon the lost city of Shangri-la.

Tonight—Sept. 27
7 P.M. Room 333 Comm. Bldg.
FREE
Sponsored By University Film Society

HIGH ON HEALTH
sponsored by s.h.a.c.

Nutritional Task Force in action

What's on the menu? That question is asked daily by hundreds of students who dine at one of the University's three dining centers on campus. As one of the favored places of both compliment and complaint, and as an area that affects thousands of students almost immediately, a cooperative effort has been launched to provide students with some variety and change in food service.

The goals of the Nutritional Task Force are two-fold. First, to serve the ever-increasing number of people who are concerned about developing a nutritious diet as well as one in line with new United States dietary goals. This includes such things as increasing the percentage of complete carbohydrate, reducing the amount of red meat and cutting back on the use of foods containing large amounts of sugar, salt, and fat. A second goal is to provide the necessary information about food nutrition to enable students to make good choices in the foods that they eat.

Rumors have been flying about what exactly the changes are to be. Billed as the "Wellness Menu," additions will begin on October 1, 1979, at Debot Center and in the Pinery at the University Center. The actual additions include an extensive salad bar and other items included seasonally as they become economically feasible. Fruit items will include apples, oranges, bananas, grapefruit, and other season items.

In addition to this produce variety, there will be a meatless entree offered at meals. Some of these dishes, including Eggplant Parmesan, Vegetarian Crepes, and Broccoli Cheese Bake have begun already to appear periodically in the food centers. Whole grain breads, cottage cheese and yogurt will be included at these centers.

This effort is an off-shoot of Student Life, the College of Home Economics, Presidents Hall Council, Student Health Advisory Committee, and the Food Service Committee. Informational efforts included a food survey and information booth last week. This week there will be periodic radio announcements on nutrition. Next week will begin the educational thrust in the dining centers themselves.

The formula for success is a reduction in the consumption of meat items and an increase in salad bar use. This would make it financially possible for University Food Service to continue to offer variety as well as improving the quality of the students' diet.

INCREDIBLE EDIBLES
SPONSORED BY S.H.A.C.

If you're planning on a camping trip or a tailgate party for a favorite team, here are two recipes that will add the finishing touches. Cider Nog and Granola are not only tasty treats, but also include many nutritional values, such as carbohydrates, iron, protein, fiber and vitamins A and B.

SHAC urges everyone to try one of these snacks in place of the usual caloric and non-nutritional munchies.

Cider Nog
1 egg
1 teaspoon honey
1/2 cup crushed ice
3/4 cup cider
Shake egg, sugar and ice. Strain and add cider. Garnish with a sprinkle of nutmeg.

Granola
4 cups rolled oats
1/2 cup sunflower seeds
1/2 cup sesame seeds

1/2 cup raisins
1/2 teaspoon sea salt
1/4 cup honey
1/4 cup corn oil
1 teaspoon vanilla

In large bowl, combine oats, sesame and sunflower seeds and salt. In another bowl mix sweetener, oil and vanilla, then add to dry ingredients. Mix thoroughly to an even consistency and spread out in a shallow baking pan. Set in 325 degree oven to bake for about 40 minutes or until fairly dry and golden brown. Be sure to stir mixture regularly, at least once in 10 minutes, to prevent from burning. When complete, remove, add raisins. Makes 5-6 cups. Also can add: wheat germ, coconut, soy grits, buckwheat, almonds, cashews, currants, dates.

correspondence cont'd

yelled obscenities at us. The last time I remember seeing the square like that was when they first changed the drinking age to 18. After those people got a handle on their drinking habits, the square returned to normal.

Hopefully those people who are lined up on the streets will get a handle on their drinking habits, too. Otherwise this town has every right to make the decision of doing away with that group of bars known for so long as the square. And maybe these delinquent actions are another reason why many states have raised their drinking age back to 21 to restrict the intake of alcohol to adults only.

Jacqui Luciano

To the Pointer,

I'd like to thank Cynthia Dvergsten for her fine article covering the Schmeckle Reserve in last week's Pointer. Her story helped to clarify many policies that returning students have questions about. Unfortunately, there was an apparent error in editing or reporting that resulted in a misstatement. I did not say that swimming will be allowed in University Lake in the future. I do not know for sure, when or if swimming will be allowed. That decision will be made by the Schmeckle Reserve Board based upon information that we are beginning to collect now.

There are several reasons why we have been asking people not to swim at this time. First, large numbers of people make it difficult for vegetation to gain a foothold on the sandy shore. In addition, water tests are not measurable when large numbers of swimmers use the lake. Since this new lake is still changing, we are uncertain of the quality of water that will finally result. Until we know what the water quality will be and when the shore will be stabilized, it is premature to make blanket statements about swimming.

The many people who have visited the Schmeckle Reserve this year deserve all the thanks I can give them. The vast majority of visitors have been honoring the posted rules even when it has been an inconvenience for them. With everyone's continued support and patience the Schmeckle Reserve will develop into a unique natural area usable by many people.

Ron Zimmerman

To the Pointer,

All residence halls, SGA, UAB, PHC, RHC and other organizations on campus are invited to attend the Great Lakes Area of Colleges and Residence Halls (GLACURH) conference. It will be held in Dekalb, Ill. on Nov. 9, 10 and 11.

Representatives from the above organizations are

cont'd page 23

free student

CLASSIFIEDS

for sale

For Sale: Large African Violets, $2.50. 1332 College Ave. Behind the Post Office.

For Sale: Sherwood S7100-A receiver. Walnut cabinet, excellent condition. 22 watts per channel. Price negotiable. Call 341-0575.

For Sale: Dual 1215S turntable, base, and dust cover with Stanton 500EE Elliptical cartridge. Fully automatic. $165. Vivitar 20mm f3.8 fully automatic lens, wide-angle (Canon mount). $150. Call 346-4874.

For Sale: Hart Skis 140cm, Nordica boots size 5, poles, gloves. $125. Excellent condition. Call 341-2070 after 5.

For Sale: Men's 10-speed, 26-inch bicycle. Good condition. $40. Call 341-3675, ask for Valerie or leave message.

Rummage Sale: 317 Sixth Ave. (By Bukolt Park). Saturday, Sept. 29 only. Clothes, housewares, books, albums, etc.

For Sale: 1972 VW Super Beetle. $900. For more info. call 341-0940.

For Sale: 54-inch Dietzgen Parallel Rule for drafting board. Call 341-8672 or 317 Sixth Ave.

GIGANTIC HOUSEPLANT SALE. Over 500 remaining with an excellent selection. Prices REDUCED! Open DAILY through Sept. 30 from 11 a.m.-7 p.m. Located east edge of Nelsonville on County trunk SS. Turn right at fire station getting onto High St. Go 1/4 mile to yellow farmhouse. (715) 869-3442. HOPE TO SEE YOU!

Need to sell: Honda 450, and Honda 350 motorcycles. Both in excellent condition. Best offer. Call Gerry or Kim at 341-6589.

wanted

Services Offered: Heartland Stringed instrument repair. Used and HANDMADE instruments. Gary Bartig. Nelsonville, WI 869-3482.

Wanted to buy: 20, 12- or 16-gauge double-barrel shotgun, preferably side by side. Call Tom at 344-0142.

lost and found

LOST AND FOUND

Lost: Sleeping bag and jacket inside dark blue stuff bag. Near Fine Arts Bld. Sun., Sept. 16. Reward offered. Call Wes 345-0618.

Lost: Glasses in pocket of green leather jacket. Both missing from Bernard's, Sept. 21. I desperately need my glasses! Please call Barb, 344-6491, leave message.

We have a leather jacket (girl's) that was apparently found by our maintenance crew in the COPS building. Owner may claim jacket in Room 112 COPS.

announcements

CNR students: Stream Improvement Day is this Saturday on the Little Plover River. Assist in the building of bank structures which will improve trout habitat. Rides leaving N.E. CNR parking lot every hour until noon, beginning at 8 p.m. Free beer, brats, potatoes afterwards. Sign-up sheets outside 322 and 114. Bring waders if you can.

Talent auditions for anyone interested in TV personality work for Student Experimental Television will be Mon., Oct. 1 from 6 p.m.-7:30 p.m. Studio A in the Comm. Bldg.

UWSP Chemistry Department Colloquium presents Dr. Leo A. Ochrymowycz, who will speak on "The Synthesis and Sonophoric Evaluation of Macrocyclic Polythiaethers." All interested persons are invited to attend.

The 2nd Monday of every month ECKANKAR holds a discussion class. This month it is ECKANKAR and the Spiritual Life. Contact Greg Wooten 341-5276, Campus Coordinator if any questions. PERSONALS His Jose! Oh, not bad!

SHAC is sponsoring a 3-MILE PREDICT RUN on Wednesday, Sept. 26, at 4:15 p.m. Speed is not important; just predict your finishing time for the 3-mile course. If your finishing time is closest to your predicted time, you win. T-shirts will be given as prizes. The event will begin in front of Quandt Fieldhouse. There is no entry fee. All Students are welcome.

Are you interested in Telepathy, Clairvoyance, Psychokinesis, Astral Projection, Kirlian Photography, Dowsing, Psychometry, Acupuncture, Ghosts, Magic, Altered states of Consciousness, or other phenomena of the mind not readily accepted by today's scientists? If the answer is yes, then a local study group could be set up to investigate these areas. If interested in becoming a member of the group, call John R. Sandraco, 341-7781, after 5 p.m. for more info.

Services for Yom Kippur will be held at Congregation Beth Israel, 1475 Water Street, as follows:

Sunday, September 30, Erev Yom Kippur: Kol Nidrai, 6:20 p.m.

Monday, October 1: Morning service, 9:30 a.m., Yizkor service, 11:45 a.m., concluding service, 6:45 p.m.

For additional information please call 344-4814 or 344-9270.

AL-A-TEEN — Let's Talk About It. Having an alcoholic in the family affects everyone — whether it be a brother, sister, or parent. Come to our next "Al-A-Teen" meeting and see how others live and grow in the same situation you live with. The meeting is directed for teenagers (12-19 years of age). Come and see what it's all about at "Woodview," 3122 Post Road every Sunday at 7 p.m. Refreshments served.

correspondence cont'd

needed to present programs that our campus has utilized such as wellness, energy conservation and hall parties. Also, it provides an opportunity to learn how other campuses handle their visitation policies, R.A. selections, resident hall governments and many other policies.

If it sounds interesting to you or you are wondering how your organization could gain from the conference, contact Linda Catterson, 122 Thomson, No. 4720, or attend the GLACURH meetings Wednesdays at 4 p.m. in the NPDR (Debot Center).

Signed,
Linda Catterson
NCC for GLACURH
122 Thomson
No. 4720

EAR PIERCING

A sterile, medically approved procedure performed by trained personnel

ERZINGER'S ALLEY KAT EAR PIERCING CLINIC

FRIDAY, SEPT. 28TH 5 P.M.-8:30 P.M.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 29TH 10:30 A.M.-3 P.M.

Have your ears pierced in our Fashion Jewelry Department . . . professionally and antiseptically by trained personnel using the most modern medical equipment. It's done with 24-karat gold-finished or surgical stainless steel ball earrings. All you do is sign a special consent form. If you're under 18, bring a parent or guardian. Sorry, no one under 8 years.

$8.50 PLAIN BALLS

What month were your ears born?

- January GARNET
- February AMETHYST
- March AQUAMARINE
- April DIAMOND
- May EMERALD
- June ALEXANDRITE

Now you can let the whole world know. With Birthstuds. The latest fashion in ear-piercing. With Birthstuds, you can have your ears pierced and choose from 12 simulated birthstone designs. From January to December. Birthstuds. The beautiful alternative.

BIRTHSTONES $10.50

WHIMS & SIMULATED STONES $12.50

- July RUBY
- August PERidot
- September SAPPHIRE
- October ROSE ZIRCON
- November TOPAZ
- December ZIRCON

1320 STRONGS AVE.

PH. 344-8798

OPEN: MONDAY & FRIDAY 9:30 A.M. TO 9 P.M.

Attention: Students in the Dorms

McDonald's™ UNITED WAY DAY Tuesday, October 2

Get a change of pace from your everyday meal—walk over to McDonald's for a good meal and a good cause.

McDonald's feels a strong commitment to share in the good works of our community. On Tuesday, October 2 we want to say "Thank You" in a very special way by donating all our receipts to the United Way campaign.

Get your free button to show that you care about community service in your college town. And remember...

Thanks to you it works for all of us!

OPEN DAILY
AT 7 A.M.

ERZINGER'S MINI MALL ANNIVERSARY SALE

1320 STRONGS AVE. 1125-1137 MAIN ST. PH. 344-8798

Open:
Monday & Fridays
9:30 A.M. To 9 P.M.

Sale Starts
Sunday Sept. 30, 1979

ALLEY KAT SHOP

ERZINGER'S FOR MEN

GIRLS
JEANS
REDUCED 20%
NOW

SIZES 3/4 TO 15/16

GIRLS
SWEATERS
REDUCED 25%
NOW

* SPECIAL GROUP $6.00

GIRLS
DRESSES
SHORT & LONG
SAVE
25% TO 75%

SIZES
5/6 TO 15/16

GIRLS
CORDS & SLACKS
20% OFF
NOW

- Boot Leg
- Straight Leg
- Regular Bell
- Big Bell

MENS
JEANS & CORDS
$12⁸⁸

Waist
25-40
Lengths To 38

MEN'S SWEATERS
25% OFF
NOW
$12²⁷
TO $26²²

MEN'S FASHION
JEANS
1/3 OFF
WAIST SIZES 28-34
LENGTHS TO 36

HOODED SWEATSHIRTS
$9⁸⁸

60% COTTON
40% ACRYLIC

SIZES
S-M-L-XL

JEWELRY

LARGE GROUP
2/$1⁰⁰

REG. TO
$8.00

NECKLACES — EARRINGS — BRACELETS — RINGS

"BONUS"

ADDITIONAL 10% OFF ALL REGULAR AND SALE PRICE MERCHANDISE "SUNDAY ONLY"

OPEN SUNDAY SEPT. 30TH 12:30 P.M. TO 4:30 P.M.