Foreword

IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF THIS VOLUME, WE HAVE STRIVEN TO PRESENT TO THE STUDENT BODY A CLEAR AND COMPREHENSIVE RECORD OF NORMAL SCHOOL LIFE.

WE HEREWITH PRESENT IT TO YOU. IF IN THE YEARS TO COME, THIS BOOK CARRIES YOU BACK IN MEMORY TO THE GOOD OLD NORMAL SCHOOL DAYS, IF IT RETOUCHES THE PICTURES OF LONG-FORGOTTEN PLEASURES AND PAINS, IF IT REFLECTS AS ON SOME QUIVERING SCREEN THE GHOSTS OF OLD TIME DREAMS AND VISIONS, THEN WE SHALL BE CONTENT. OUR EFFORTS SHALL NOT HAVE BEEN IN VAIN.

The Iris Staff.

To Garry Eugene Culver

A SCHOLARLY GENTLEMAN, AN INSPIRING TEACHER,
A LOYAL FRIEND,

WE, THE SENIOR CLASS, TAKE PLEASURE
IN DEDICATING THIS 1923 IRIS.

THE 1923 IRIS

To-day

To the Seniors—Class of 1923

Dear Friends:

Were an assemblage of people asked to name the best day of the year, answers might include New Year's Day, Christmas Day, the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving Day, or special anniversaries.

Hear this clear note from Emerson, "Write it on your heart that every day is the best day of the year". To each one is allotted daily all the time there is,—twenty-four hours.

This is the quarry in which all work, and each gathers from it gold, silver, iron, marble, or worthless ore according to the depth and the intensity of his efforts. An hour of to-day is as valuable to you as any hour in the years to come.

Time is more valuable than gold, for if wasted, it comes not back again. Learn to use it wisely, for those who have learned to do honest work, excellently well done, day by day, have developed within themselves a power making unqualifiedly for the goal toward which we all strive and struggle—Success.

This habit formed in youth, and like all habits functioning through the years, welcomes difficulties because it develops at the same time the resolution and strength to overcome them; it gives you power commensurate to your tasks.

This habit, hopefully, for you who are Seniors and are about to receive the highest honor the School can confer, has been securely rooted in your character. When it is combined with your intellectual achievements and skill in teaching, your labors in the educational field will be a source of wellbeing and prosperity to others, as well as yielding to you one of the most enduring satisfactions of life. Praying that through this process you may continually elevate yourselves to higher and higher standards of living, I am

Your sincere friend,
JOHN F. SIMS.

Main Street

Our Faculty

OUR President doth always wear a smile.
 True friendliness is well known to be his style.
 Our Mr. Spindler looks so mild and meek,
 But when he talks, he knows whereof he speaks.
 Miss Allen teaches girls to sew and cook
 When through, they know their lessons like a book.
 She has three helpers who are wise and kind,
 And among them Miss Wilson you will find.
 Miss Meston teaches hers how bread to bake.
 And then, you'll find a nymph in graceful art,
 Miss Bronson here doth take the leading part.
 In literary work none can excel
 The pupils Mr. Burroughs trains so well.
 In science Mr. Clark cannot be beat
 He shows the pupils how to use sun's heat.
 "Put two unknowns together, what have you?"
 Asked Mr. Anderson in a review.
 With carbon compounds Mr. Rogers deals:
 His pupils study 'tatoes and banana peels.
 The music in the air sounds very sweet
 When Mr. Rightsell's radio's complete.
 Our beloved Mr. Culver's gone away,
 Till summer he intends to stay.
 O when it comes to cutting up a cat,
 To Mr. Evans we take off our hat.
 There is no flower in the wildwood green
 That is not known to our Miss Jones so keen.
 Miss Douglas, artist of our Normal School,
 Knows well her art and also every rule.
 To lead the singing in assembly time
 That work to Harold S. Dyer we assign.
 Our Mr. Collins leads all up the path
 To anything that's algebra or math.
 The many Primaries all like James E. Delzell
 A jolly story right well you'll hear him tell.
 Miss Hussey is our dean at Nelson Hall
 And as for deans we know she beats them all.
 The rural boys are taught to sow and reap
 For that Mr. LaDuke we wish to keep.
 Miss Miller is a reader of wide fame
 And all her pupils fain would be the same.
 Of Pharaoh's tombs and ancient mummies dead,
 This lore has Mr. Smith stored in his head.
 Then, too, there is our Mr. Steiner, dean of men,
 A teacher, and an athlete with the strength of ten.
 Coach Swetland trains a champion team in basketball
 And leads a football team to victory in the fall.
 Mr. Watson is grave, and tall, and stern,
 The grades we get from him we surely earn.
 Miss Mansur and Miss Welch c'o see
 That all are quiet in the library.
 A very congenial man is Mr. Neale
 Who the need for better rural schools doth feel.
 So full of fun and yet so dignified
 Miss Hanna teaches rurals with great pride.
 Miss Roach is surely full of life and pep
 If we don't watch, some man will get her yet.
 The Principal of our fine training school
 Is Mr. Herrick who knows each pedagogic rule.
 His helpers are the critics, eight in all,
 Who guide us in our problems great and small.
 Over planes and saws and jacks and files,
 Our Mr. Thompson many an hour beguiles.
 A lady of wide learning is Miss Gray,
 She teaches modern languages each day.
 This doth describe our faculty
 That taught us in the year of twenty-three.

Last Will and Testament

WE, the Senior Class of 1923 of the Stevens Point Normal School, being of sound mind and body (e. g. Evarae Shanklin and Walter Graunke) do hereby bequeath to the Junior Class, its heirs and assigns, forever the following things:

An abundance of dignity acquired by our several years' sojourn in these halls of the "Institution of Learning".

No small quantity of love for and loyalty to, our Alma Mater, a studied (?) regard for the rules and regulations and a lasting respect for all activities. Parker Clark's office of President, we bequeath to J. Wilbur Snyder.

Grace Johnstone's office of Editor of the Iris (a difficult position well filled) to anyone who wants it.

Clarence Krumm and Milton Spees leave their empty places in our Hall of Fame to anyone who will attempt to fill them.

Merna Mohr's captaincy of H. S. Department Basketball team to Alice Burns.

Bob Card's unfailing ability to bluff to his brother, Cecil.

Lillie Hansen's dignity to Georgia Payne.

Gage Taylor's speed to Rusty Hanson.

Walter Miller's vocal ability to Myrtle Watson.

Pueschner's haircut to Drury.

James Barron's high grades to Royal Cain.

Harley Powell's blushing beauty to Foster Owen.

Sauger's daintiness to Marion Brazeau.

Richard Horan's harem to Lee Guerin.

Julia Melchior's appetite for hot dogs to Elsie Evans, who has a delicate appetite, provided that Tom Trainor remains at S. P. N. to pay for them.

Garnet Knoke wills all of her sewing problems to Senior Home Ecs of 1924.

To the teachers, we leave the memory of those periods spent in almost hopeless endeavor to impart a bit of knowledge unto us.

To all members and future students of the Stevens Point Normal, we leave our desire to preserve the school spirit and a library composed of the following books:

"How to Win a Bright Man"—by Ethel Blake.

"Suggestions for Running the Counter"—by George Johnson.

"How to be Jolly, though Fat"—Belle Boe.

"Why I Never Smile"—by Volla Westenberg.

"How to Obtain a Drag with the Teachers"—by Leslie Huber.

"Swede, My Favorite Nationality"—by Harriet Starkweather.

"Blessed is the Man Who Invented Sleep"—by Lyle Casey.

"1924 Basketball Rules"—by Roy Normington.

"How to Win Popularity with the Ladies"—by Richard Horan.

"Our Window"—by Tiny Sauger and Helen Parson.

"Bringing Up Galloping Joe"—by Gretchen Martin.

"The Good Taylor"—by Ruth Sanderson.

"Aesthetic Dancing"—by Margaret Ryan and Lillian Betlach.

"Faith"—by Parker Clark.

"Precious Gems, Preferably Garnets"—by Kenneth Hale.

"Methods for Running Any Large School"—by Henry Haas.

In witness whereof, we have signed and sealed and published and declared this instrument as our will at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, June 7, 1923.

PARKER CLARK,
President.

Our School Songs

The Purple and the Gold

Let other Normals boast of victories galore—
Of laurels never lost, of triumphs by the score,
Let them tell you of their prowess
Of warriors strong and bold,
But their colors ever lower to the Purple and the Gold.

II.

Our men are all victorious through every State around,
Our athletes and debators are winning great renown,
'Though we're proud of all Wisconsin whose fame in story's told
Our heart's with Stev'ns Point Normal and the Purple and the Gold.

III.

To the banks of old Wisconsin when years are past and gone
When as school mates we have parted and our lessons all are done,
We'll return and show our comrades, we're loyal as of old
And cheer them on to victory, 'neath the Purple and the Gold.

Hail the Point! !

Gem of Normals of Wisconsin. We to thee our homage bring,
And with loving admirations, We thy praises loudly sing,
Thou the proud and strong young giant, Standing on the Wisconsin,
Fair art thou and self reliant, Proudly then to thee we sing:

CHORUS

Hail the Point—Hail the Point—First on platform, track and field,
Hail the Point—Hail the Point—Great the power that we wield,
Never shall thy students falter, All the State thy fame shall fill, Naught our loyalty can alter—Nor thy spirit of "I will".

II.

Come the students of Our great State, From the other states around,
Some of high and some low station, Seeking knowledge here profound,
With thy native sons and daughters, Aye, I shall love and honor thee, Till like sound of mighty water, This our song of praise shall be.

Home Economics Department

STEVENS POINT NORMAL is noted for its course in Home Economics. We are growing in numbers, which goes to prove that S. P. N. must be recognized all over the state as one of the best schools along this line of work. This success is due to our efficient director, Miss Allen. Her untiring efforts have built up the department so well, that it can not be excelled by any other school in the state. In a few years, three and four year courses will be as well recognized as and even more so than the two year course. This plan is now under way and bound to be worth while under Miss Allen's direction. Her extensive education and well planned method of doing things, cannot fail to make this extended course a success.

An "If" For Girls

IF you can dress to make yourself attractive,
Yet not make puffs and curls your chief delight;
If you can swim and row, be strong and active,
But of the gentler graces lose not sight;
If you can dance without a craze for dancing,
Play without giving play too strong a hold,
Enjoy the love of friends without romancing,
Care for the weak, the friendless and the old;

If you can master Greek and French and Latin
And not acquire as well, a priggish mien;
If you can feel the touch of silk and satin
Without despising calico and jean;
If you can ply a saw and use a hammer,
Can do a man's work when the need occurs,
Can sing, when asked, without excuse or stammer,
Can rise above unfriendly snubs and slurs;

If sometime you should meet and love another,
And make a home with faith and peace enshrined
And you its soul—a loyal wife and mother—
You'll work out pretty nearly to my mind
The plan that's been developed through the ages,
And win the best that life can have in store,
You'll be, my girl, a model for the sages,
A woman whom the world will bow before.

Elizabeth Otis.

Primary Department

THE Primary Department, whose aim it is to train students to become efficient teachers of the Kindergarten, and the first three grades, does not only develop in the Primary student teachers, an understanding of child life and child development, but also a sense of responsibility for the right start a child should have in his school career and on his journey through life.

Our work has been made interesting as well as helpful through the efforts of our director, Mr. James E. Delzell, and the Primary critics, Miss Pritchard, Miss Mills, Miss Brevad, and Miss Oleson, whose pleasure it is to see us enjoy our work to the utmost.

The Primary Council, which is our department society, helps us in our training for efficiency through the instructive and interesting programs given at the meetings, which are held every two weeks.

Though our interests are, primarily, the little tots, we are active in all events pertaining to this Normal School.

High School Department

THE High School Department in the school is one of the most valuable assets, ranking as one of the best, if not the highest in all the school's activities. We have enrolled over one hundred and eighty members, a large increase over last year.

As a department, we have established a record that will not soon be forgotten in the history of the school. From our people, the most of the athletes of our famous basket ball, football, and track teams were drawn. The debate teams and orators were selected from us, showing the forensic ability in our department. Our musical aptitude is shown by the large groups of our students belonging to the Orchestra and Glee Club. We are an important factor in the religious efforts of the Normal. Because of our adaptibility to the school's various and many functions, we pride ourselves in being an all-round department. The Pointer and Iris Staffs are drawn chiefly from our students.

The success of the department has been due to the interest and direction of Mr. Smith and Miss Jones, the able assistant—our own friends and advisers. They have pointed the way to success by giving us every opportunity for our betterment. Because of the number of predecessors who have succeeded, we leave better prepared to assure ourselves of a successful future.

Even though none of the members of this department become noted or famous in the eyes of the world, we may all turn to this year book and recall the friendships made and happy times spent among members of our department, and in our Alma Mater.

Grammar Department

THE Grammar Department consists of the Intermediate, Two Year English, Junior High School, and State Graded Principalship Courses, with a total enrollment of 91 students. Although our department is not the largest, we believe it is quality rather than quantity that is most desirable.

We are proud to have as our adviser, Mr. Watson, a man of energy, patience, and ability. The growth and success of our department is due to his pleasing personality and faithful service.

Our departmental club, "The Round Table," which was initiated several years ago, now conducts its meetings once each month. Its aim is to promote good comradeship, and to discuss various problems of interest.

Some of our members are taking an active part in athletics and other outside activities. A number of our students have done excellent work as members of the Glee Club; Miss Stella Bestul was one of the soloists in the Christmas cantata. Miss Jeannette Wilson and Doris Crofoot played leading roles in the Shakespearean Drama, "Henry, the Eighth", which was given by the class in Public Speaking. In the oratorical contest, we were represented by Richard Horan.

THE Training Department was organized when the Normal first opened, in 1894. It has a very able and efficient director in Mr. Herrick, who has been here for the past three years, and the Department has made rapid strides in progress under his leadership, now being one of the best in the state.

The Training Department, consists of a Primary Department, Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Grades, and Junior High School.

The Normal students receive very beneficial training in the Departments with the help and guidance of the critics. By the use of the problem method, socialized recitation, and supervised study, the children are taught self-reliance, self-control, and co-operation. This year, intelligence tests have been given to all the children, and a classification made according to the results.

Junior High School

THE Mary D. Bradford Junior High School was organized in 1920. It comprises seventh, eighth, and ninth grades, each having a class organization with class officers, and holding weekly class meetings. This year, the ninth grade students have class rings.

The enrollment in the Junior High School is ninety. There are between fifty and sixty student teachers in the Junior High School.

One feature of the Junior High School is the report card. It is original with this Training School. This report card has not only a report of studies, but of habits and attitudes desirable for good citizenship and a health report. This report is a great improvement over the old type of report card, and is proving very successful.

The Junior High School is also prominent in athletics, having a football team, basketball team, and baseball team, and the girls have a volleyball team.

Rural Education

Oscar W. Neale

THE Department of Rural Education has grown steadily since its institution in the Stevens Point Normal until it is now the largest group in the school. The exclusion of eighth grade graduates at the beginning of the present year kept many young people away who wished to enroll, but it has been a great step toward putting the training of rural teachers on the same basis with that of other teachers.

The new course for rural supervisors which was first offered last summer is proving very popular, and promises to become a strong factor towards improving conditions in our rural schools.

The life of the department during 1922-23 has been marked by the usual happy spirit of deep interest and good will which has always existed among the students of this group. Any project which calls for united action finds every member loyal and ready to boost. The election of the rural candidate in the popularity contest at the Senior Mardi Gras is but one example of the unity existing in this department.

But this growth in numbers, this happy atmosphere, this loyalty, this vision for improved rural education point to our leader, Mr. Neale. Officially, he is Director of Rural Education, but to those of his department, he is far more. He is the friend who never fails, to whom we go for kindly advice and wise direction. Our esteem, respect and love for him can be expressed in the words of one of our students, who said, "He is the man who holds the place in our hearts next to that of our Daddies."

Rural Life Club

WITH its membership of one hundred forty-five wide-awake, enthusiastic students, the Rural Life Club has fully realized its purpose of preparing its members for community leadership. Besides giving the members the teacher's view point in the rural community, it has instilled in them an interest in rural life. From the social standpoint it has not been lacking as every meeting in itself has been a means of pure enjoyment, as well as profit for all.

Meetings were held every two weeks in the Rural Department Assembly room. Under the stimulating and capable guidance of Miss Hanna, the faculty adviser, and of Florence Hougum as president during the first semester, and Myra Brooks during the second semester very fine programs have been rendered. Among the important features of the year's programs were talks by Mr. Sims and various members of the faculty.

Through the splendid co-operation of its members the Club has responded well to the activities of the school. May this spirit of enthusiastic effort continue to grow and make this club a power in the Department of Rural Education.

The Work of the Demonstration Schools.

TEACHING in a rural school, with pupils of all ages, studying the whole round of subjects from the first to the ninth grade, with the necessity of making this school function in the community, is one of the most difficult tasks in the whole of public school service.

It has been the dream of those connected with the Rural Department of this Normal, to have a building located on the campus, where part of the practice teaching may be done and where it may be used as a laboratory in the teaching of school management. Students will learn first hand the value of correct heating, lighting, ventilation, and seating which is so essential in their training. The practice teaching will be done under conditions similar to those they will meet later. The manual and the daily program will be made the basis for their teaching and the school will be organized as a rural school.

The appropriation for this building was made by the legislature two years ago providing that the money would be available on July 1, 1922. It could not be secured, however, until favorable action of the Board of Education, was given the early part of March. We hope to have this building erected, and the school in operation at the opening of the fall term.

The Demonstration School at Stockton is under the direction of Miss Alice Winegarden. Two students each week are sent to this school, and do actual practice teaching. Our students are always enthusiastic over the experience gained at this school.

We are trying something new this year at the Casimir school located three miles north of the city. We do not have a critic at this school, but it is under close supervision of the faculty of the Rural Department. Two student teachers are there at a time. One acts as principal, and the other as assistant. The following week, the student who was assistant now becomes principal, and a new student is sent in place of the assistant. Each student teacher remains there two weeks. The money that would have been spent for salary is used by the district in buying equipment and fixing up the building in general. The teacherage is maintained at this school where the student teachers keep house. This school is very popular not only with the district, but also with those who do practice teaching there.

THE Girls' Glee Club, the orchestra, and the Schuman Quintet compose the music department of Stevens Point Normal this year.

The Glee Club is composed of fifty members, who were chosen from nearly two hundred applicants. The rivalry was very keen among the club as only thirty-six of the girls could go to Milwaukee. However, those who stayed at home served also by devising ways and means of raising money, and assisting the girls who went, in every possible way.

The orchestra this year is larger and better than ever. The members have spent much time and energy arranging and giving several fine programs.

The Schuman Quintet is a new organization, which under the directorship of Mr. Dyer, put on many pleasing concerts.

The three organizations participated in a Christmas Cantata, and a Spring Concert.

In promoting and directing these organizations, Mr. Dyer has spent much of his time and energy. The success of the organizations is largely due to his untiring help and encouragement.

STEVENS POINT NORMAL holds a prominent place in inter-normal forensics. This is made possible by the interest of our students and by the leadership of our able coach, Mr. Burroughs. For three years, he has served as forensic-dramatic coach and as such has given unceasingly of his time and efforts. His leadership and enthusiasm have made possible our success. We admire his ability and character, and wish him every success in his future efforts.

Oratory

Melville Bright

TO HAVE something to say, and to be able to say it well is an important factor for success. Oratory is an excellent way of preparing students to talk well, for it gives them confidence, spontaneity, and poise. Melville Bright, because of his excellent delivery and stirring appeal won both the local and state oratorical contests. His oration, "The Implements of Progress" held his audiences and everyone who heard him is glad that he is to represent Stevens Point Normal and Wisconsin at Cedar Falls, Iowa, on May 4.

Wisconsin Scores a Victory!

"POLARITY or action and reaction we meet in every part of nature."

The action occurred at Cedar Falls, Iowa, May 4, 1923 when Melville Bright, our orator, won first honors in the interstate Oratorical Contest.

The reaction took place Monday, May 7, in Stevens Point when the city and Normal School turned out to do him homage.

The contest was very close—Melville winning over the Iowa State Orator by two points. His final mark was 715 points out of a possible 800. The winner of second place held 713 points.

Melville's victory is first of all a victory for the school; it is also a great victory for him; and we feel mighty proud of the winner. He has spent much time in preparation and practice in order to bring the honor to Wisconsin. We have known all along that he has sacrificed pleasure in order to represent the school honorably and now he has fulfilled our highest expectations.

School was dismissed at noon on the day of Melville's arrival home. He was met at the station by a large delegation of schoolmates and townfolk who gave him a royal welcome. The band led the procession to the Normal School. Here the victor was carried on the shoulders of his friends to the stage. The school gave many cheers for him. After the enthusiasm subsided, Mr. Sims gave a speech in which he paid Melville a very high tribute and expressed the thanks and appreciation to him from the school for his success. Mr. H. C. Snyder, City Superintendent of Schools, gave a short talk expressing every good wish from the city to the orator who is a product of the high school. Other talks were given by schoolmates and then Melville was given a chance to say a few words. After more applause and yelling the crowd adjourned until the evening.

At eight o'clock a large bonfire was built to honor the victor and the victory. A dance in the gym closed the celebration.

We are justly proud of this victory and wish to extend our best wishes to Melville. We wish also to thank Mr. L. M. Burroughs for his efforts in helping to make Melville an orator of the highest type. We are sure that we have one man in our class—

"With head above the fog—

In private duty and in public thinking."

Affirmative Team

The question for Inter-Normal debate this year was: Resolved: That an Unemployment Insurance Law embodying the essential features of the Huber Bill should be passed by the Wisconsin Legislature of 1923.

After the preliminary try-outs, the following people were selected for the affirmative team—Melville Bright, Stevens Point; Ben Schraml, Park Falls; and John Redfield, captain, Stevens Point, and Andrew Ryan, Waupaca.

This team met the La Crosse Negative here on March 2, and won the decision 2-1. Mr. Collins entertained the affirmative team here.

Debate

Negative Team

The negative team chosen was—Myron Finch, Stevens Point; Geraldine Rammer, Appleton; Walter Graunke, captain, Wausau; and Harold Reinhart, Wausau. On March 2, Mr. Burroughs, and the negative team went to Oshkosh, and although they lost the decision 3-0, they acquitted themselves very creditably.

THE Young Men's Christian Association of the Stevens Point State Normal School is in direct affiliation with the state association composed of local chapters, situated at the various state normal schools and Stout Institute. The Y. M. C. A. also is represented in the colleges of the state and in the University of Wisconsin. The work of these organizations is under the direct supervision of Ray V. Sowers, who is state secretary.

The local "Y" has not been unusually active this year, aside from the regular meetings, a party tendered the Y. M. C. A. by the Y. W. C. A. was as successful as any given at the local school in some time. A radio concert also was a decided success, while a party in honor of the Eau Claire football team was a remarkable social event. The "Y" also helped send the Glee Club to the State Oratorical Contest at Milwaukee, which was won by a member of the local organization, Melville Bright.

The Pointonians

NINETEEN Twenty Three marks the close of the fourth successful year for the Pointonians. The purpose of this organization is to boost forensics, athletics and to establish a higher standard of scholarship among its members.

A week or so after school started, the last year's members of the club began activities under the leadership of its new set of officers. The work of the club started along its regular lines, embellished now and then by a spirited initiation. The meetings are held every two weeks on Monday evening. At this time programs of value and entertainment are presented. Feeds and stunts are prominent features at these meetings.

Here's looking forward to a constant repetition in the future of the prosperous years of the past.

The Science Club

THE Science Club has been organized for more than two years. The membership includes: 1. active members, consisting of all faculty members teaching some science; 2. associate members, including other members of the faculty who choose to become members of the club; 3. student members who may be elected by the active members. The total membership is now twenty-two.

On the second Wednesday of each month meetings are held and, generally, two scientific papers are presented. One is usually presented by an active member, and the other by a student member. These presentations are followed by a general discussion in which all members participate.

The purpose of the organization is to bring the science into closer relation; to facilitate the dissemination of scientific news; to create a real live interest among the science students and to improve generally the quality of the work in the science department of the school.

The meetings are well attended and the papers very instructive. Much interest is always displayed which tends to make the club one of the most enthusiastic and instructive clubs in the school.

J. E. Swetland

STEVENS POINT is fortunate to have so able a man as Coach J. E. Swetland to direct its athletics. Possessing a personality which naturally leads men to do their utmost in athletics, he has succeeded in bringing Stevens Point to the front in all branches of sports. His devotion to the best interests of the men and the school has won for him the respect and admiration of all who have been fortunate enough to come under his guidance.

He established a name for himself in football, basketball, and track while at Ripon College. The same spirit which characterized his work there has carried him into chosen field-athletics.

Athletics at S. P. N.

By J. E. SWETLAND, Athletic Director.

TO WIN games is the ultimate aim of all competitive athletics. But when the moral and ethical point of view is forgotten or overlooked, athletics lose their main object, the teaching of sportsmanship, courage, and self control.

It is the intention, backed by the administration, of the Athletic Department of the Stevens Point Normal School to win our games, if we can but not at the sacrifice of our self respect. We all like to win, and this is indeed a worthy ambition.

For the last three years, we have not been blessed with championship teams, but I believe there has been a steady growth in the belief that if the team "give them all they've got" the real object in promoting interschool athletics has been accomplished. And there has been an increase in the numbers turning out for the teams. We hope this number will continue to increase as the men come to understand that a team is not made up in advance, and that there is always room for one more.

Our Football team was a good one, and the games we lost were the result of the breaks going against us, rather than poor work on our part. I have never seen a team have so many breaks go against it as our 1922 aggregation. And this is not offered as an alibi, either. We started the season by holding the veteran Lawrence to a close score, then defeated Stout decisively after having a rather easy time against Marquette, Mich., Normal. We next played the poorest game of the season against Milwaukee Normal, although poor decisions and fumbles made a possible victory turn into defeat. The next Saturday, we played and tied Oshkosh Normal. This was about the best game of the season, and injuries to players in this game, really cost us the last two games of the season against Eau Claire and Whitewater. Winning or losing, the team was always in the game, fighting even when everything was against them.

In Basketball, since we had lost the five regulars of the year before, predictions were general that the season would be a failure. However, with three substitutes and the new men, we had the most successful season of recent years, winning seven conference games and losing four. Three of the latter were lost on a three-game trip to the north. The climax of the season was reached when we decisively defeated Oshkosh Normal, thereby winning the championship for River Falls. That our team was one of which anyone might feel proud was shown by remarks when we were on foreign floors. The referee at Stout said "we were too clean," meaning not rough enough, a team for this conference, while Oshkosh, Superior, and Whitewater people all made remarks about our play being so free from fouls.

With many of the athletes of this year coming back another year, with Sauger and Davis to captain the football and basketball teams, respectively, 1923-24 should be even more successful than this year. At least we shall keep before us the slogan: "Win if we can, never quit fighting, but play the game fairly."

STEVENS POINT NORMAL has always been noted for its strong football teams. Although we have not held the championship for a long time, we have been a feared contender every year.

1922 was no exception to the previous years. When the call for candidates went out in the fall, a crew responded that would have gladdened the heart of any normal coach. Among the old men were Capt. G. Holman, E. Holman, Bright, H. Vaughn, Haasl, Hale, Playman, Redfield, and Sauger. Normington, a Lawrence letter man, was also out. The new men who responded and made good during the season were: Knope, Finch, F. Vaughn, Davis, Wiesner, St. Clair, Sigurdson, Cain, and Hertz.

After three weeks of practice under Coach Swetland, we met the strong Lawrence eleven on their home field. Lawrence, for two years champions of the Little Five, and of the mid-west League, expected to give their new men a chance against us. However, they were disappointed for it took the greatest playing of all their veterans to eke out a 12 to 0 victory. This game was very encouraging to Coach Swetland, for it showed him that the new men would stand up under fire and against odds.

The following week, Marquette, Mich., Normal came, saw, and was conquered to the tune of 37 to 0. The Stevens Point line tore great holes in the northerners' forward wall which our speedy backs were not slow in stepping through.

On October 12, we took a long trip by car up to Menominee to meet the Stout team. Stout, last year's Normal champion, was generally expected to repeat again this year. Here we lived up to our reputation as champion hope-wreckers. Putting up a great battle on a foreign field, we defeated Stout 10 to 0. In this game only two substitutes were used and the entire line went through without a substitution.

Home-coming week was ushered in with a great program. All week the school prepared to give the old grads a warm reception and the Milwaukee Normal eleven a still warmer one. The day before the game we had a great mass meeting and a parade. Saturday was a perfect football day. It was clear, chilly and not much wind. But it also started the greatest streak of hard luck that a team ever faced. The first half of the game was hard fought and well played until the last few minutes. Then Milwaukee got a questionable field goal and followed this with a long forward pass for a touchdown. With the score 10 to 0 in their favor, we came back mad and fighting. In the first minute of the second half, F. Vaughn picked up a fumble and ran 60 yards through a broken field for a touchdown. From then, the game seesawed around until the last few minutes when Milwaukee recovered the ball over the goal line for a touch down. This ended the scoring, and gave Milwaukee a 16 to 7 victory.

During the next week, we practiced hard and on Saturday, went and held the great Oshkosh team to a 10 to 10 tie. It was a beautiful game to watch. One spectacular play after another kept the people watching the game on their feet most of the time. Both lines held well, and most of the gains were made by skirting the ends.

The next two games were expected to be victories for S. P. N., but Dame Fortune refused to smile at us. With four regulars out of the game through injuries, the team lost a hard fought game to Eau Claire by a score of 10 to 3. The following week we closed the season by losing a 6 to 0 game to Whitewater.

While we did not win the championship or even come close to it, the season was really a success. We were not badly beaten once. The men were fighting from whistle to whistle, and after all it is the effort and the fight that will be remembered rather than the score in the minds of the men.

For next year, we have the following letter men: Capt. Sauger, Redfield, Finch, H. Vaughn, Cain, Wiesner, Davis and St. Clair. In addition we have several new men who have entered school, and more coming next year. Look out for S. P. N. next fall!

STARTING the season with practically all green men, and ending it with one of the best teams in the conference, S. P. N. can justly be proud of its 1922-23 Basketball team.

Our season started out with victories over Stout, Eau Claire, and Superior; and the hopes were that we were going to have a championship team this year, but our hopes were shattered by our trip to Oshkosh, and our northern trip, where we were defeated by Stout, Eau Claire, and Superior. The rest of the season's games were all victories for us. The clean playing of the team was recommended by all coaches of the opposing teams and also the referees and umpires.

Two members, McCoy and Normington, have played their last game for S. P. N.; but with five veterans left for next year, Coach Swetland will have plenty of material to start off in Championship style.

The work of Captain Hanson who will be back with us another year has shown the conference style which gave him the post of captain. We are confident that "Rusty" will do as well next year.

With one year's experience at the "U" on the Freshman squad, Davis gave us hopes for a championship team. As captain-elect, "Solon" will be with us next year.

"Ham" Williams, in his first year out of high school, has come up to Normal calibre, and we expect a great deal from him in the 23-24 season.

Wilbur Snyder did his part as yell leader.

"Mac" played his last game with us against Whitewater. The team will feel the loss of Mac's playing next year.

"Sonny" St. Clair, although small, has made up in speed, and teamwork for his size. Playing a consistent game of basketball this year, we expect much from Sonny next year.

"Dutch" Kramer was always a hard, clean player, doing his best that the team might win. He is another veteran who will help put S. P. N. on the map next season.

A great loss will never be filled when we lose Normie this June. A cool and efficient leader, who always did his share in the playing, cannot easily be replaced next year.

THE eighth annual interscholastic basketball tournament was a success, insofar as sportsmanship and excitement was concerned. The W. I. A. A. changed the number of districts from eleven to sixteen, thus allowing more competition among the high schools. Eight teams were represented in this district: Almond, Friendship, Marshfield, Stevens Point, Waupaca, Wautoma, Westfield, and Wisconsin Rapids.

Stevens Point Normal can be proud of the manner in which the tournament was conducted, and the good feeling which has been fostered among the high schools.

The efficient work of J. E. Swetland, Athletic Director, and H. R. Steiner, in refereeing the games of the tournament can be highly praised.

The presence of the local high school added interest, and increased the attendance, so that the gymnasium was filled to capacity at each evening session. The Eighth Annual Sectional Tournament joins the ranks of successful ventures of the Stevens Point Normal School.

†Ties old record.

Track Season-1922

FROM the standpoint of winnings, the 1922 track season could not be classed as a wonderful success. However, it was not because of the fact that our team was so poor, but because the other Normals boasted of some excellent performers on the Track and in the Field. We were not blessed with an abundance of material, but while the boys were gathering a few points, they were obtaining a great deal of very valuable experience.

At the State Normal Meet, the Pointers found the competition too keen for them, and while making a good showing were able to capture only 5 points. When we remember that in this Meet there were 11 records broken, and 1 tied we can find no fault with the work of the Stevens Point Normal.

While the work was rather discouraging during the season, the spirit of the team was highly praiseworthy. We hope that in 1923, we may have better success. An early canvas shows a great many signifying their intention of "getting out", but as usual they have had little or no experience. There is no branch of Athletics more beneficial to the competitor if done under the proper supervision. We have the supervision, and it is hoped that 1923 will see a big squad out for work on the track and in the field.

Girls' Athletics

Mary Bronson

THE development of character, that quality without which a girl is unable to do justice to herself and others is the chief aim of girls' athletics. The physical training and contests develop the fundamental qualities of courage, self-control, determination, co-operation, enthusiasm, cleanliness, and that indefinable thing which we call sportsmanship, all of which play an important role in a girl's life.

The girls' athletic association is doing much to encourage hiking, skating, skiing, and other activities by awarding honors. One hundred points is the requirement for membership, for four hundred points a bronze metal is given, and for six hundred points a gold metal.

Through the efforts of Miss Bronson the best of teams are being turned out in all the athletic activities, and every student should help her in this work by giving whole-hearted support to the teams.

Girls' Basketball

THE girls' annual basketball tournament was held in the Normal Gymnasium, February 19, 20 and 21. By winning every game, which they played in this annual Inter-Departmental basketball series, the High School-College girls took first place. Coach J. E. Swetland refereed the games, and Roy Normington acted as umpire.

At the end of the games, the percentage was:—

	W	L	Pct.
High Schools	3	0	1.000
Grammars	2	1	.666
Primaries	2	1	.666
Rurals	1	2	.333
Home Ecs	0	2	.000

Each department was represented on the side lines by a goodly number of rooters led by their own cheer leader. Around each group was draped the department colors, and symbols of the section's work.

The success of the tournament was in no small measure due to the coaching ability of the departmental coaches and Miss Mary Bronson.

Five first teams were finally chosen and the following girls were elected captains of the several teams. Helen Podeweltz, Josephine Breary, Annabelle Clark, Marjorie Pietenpol, and Volla Westenborg.

A series of six tournament games were played. Annabelle Clark's team won first place and Marjorie Pietenpol's team won second.

The Five Musketeers

EDISON solved a great question for humanity when he gave us the incandescent light, but Spees solved a greater one for a few of the boys when he donated his Ford to provide transportation to the Stout Game.

It was a chilly November morning when the illustrious President of the Senior Class; Gage Taylor, Treasurer—(No, he didn't use the class money); Milt. Spees plus his Beloved Ford; and my own illustrious self stood in front of the Hegg residence impatiently waiting for Erling to muster enough courage to climb out into the cool atmosphere. After we had waited an hour or so, he showed up and we encased ourselves in the diminutive Packard and the brave little band started merrily on its way. Columbus may have been a brave guy, but he had three ships and plenty of water, while we had only one Ford that would make the one horse shay look like a Rolls Royce, and five gallons of gas.

Everything went merrily till we arrived at Marshfield when Taylor suddenly remembered that he had omitted the morning ceremony of breakfast. This gave us all an idea; we stopped and invaded the local Delmonico's and partook of a stimulative repast of coffee and of rolls, that were so hard they could have posed for pieces of Plymouth Rock. Spees was unthoughtful enough to order pancakes; while he was occupied in getting outside of the last one, we were calmly reposing in the velocipede hoping he would have capital enough to cover our expenses.

After giving Liz a drink in lieu of breakfast, we again entrusted our lives and fortunes to the ability of our chauffeur and dashed up the road at the surprising rate of fifteen miles per hour against the wind. I was beginning to feel cheerful at the thought of having eaten at Spees' expense and began to give vent to my feelings by a little harmony when Clark spoiled it all by attempting a little super-harmony which brought all the dogs in the country to his assistance. Presently as we neared Abbotsford the Ford spied a gas station and started for it like a tramp for a stack of "wheats". We gave Liz a shot of gas which must have been white mule because she rattled her fenders and started off like a nigger in front of a load of buckshot. We made the next ten miles in nothing flat and were about to toss out the anchor when the car suddenly stopped, and we all climbed out to find ourselves at the foot of a young hill. Spees took the car's pulse and declared that although it was a forty horse power bus, thirty-nine of the horses must have died when they saw the hill. After much persuasion she made the grade and we again resumed our eventful journey.

It started to rain as we neared Eau Claire and we began to debate whether we should keep on or put reverse English on the car and go home. Suddenly from the back seat the cry rang out on the moist air, "Drive on MacDuff, drive on", and the debate was settled.

Slipping, sliding, and skidding over the roads we finally reached Eau Claire. This being Clark's old home, he could not resist the temptation to show the boys the town. We all suggested taking a side street but Spees couldn't get the limousine off the main drag. Luckily the main street was a straight one and when we reached the end Spees managed to swing her into a side street and we found ourselves in front of the Normal. Hegg suggested that they might be serving dinner so we put the feed bag on the Lizzie and went in. One of the first persons we met was President Schofield, who to our great surprise recognized Clark and, consequently, passed the glad hand to us all. Under his guidance we gave the school the double eye. Although there was a cafeteria we failed to see any free lunch signs so left the institution in disgust and decided to dine in Menomonie.

The old go-cart must have heard us talking about eating at Menomonie because it gathered speed that would put a Stutz to shame. Looking out of the back window I perceived that we were holding our own with a speed cop about forty rods behind; but as the Ford sighted a hill in the distance Taylor began to count the change in his pocket. When the car stopped Hegg was for hitting for the pastures, but found that he was too scared to move.

"Who do youse guys think yuh are, Barney Oldfield or somebody?" was the cheerful greeting we received from the speed cop.

"Aw come off," said Spees with a little quiver, in his voice, "We're goin' to a football game at Menomonie."

"Lay off the excuses," was the cop's reply. "Thirty is the limit in this state whether you're going to a funeral or a barn dance."

Before we could think up a comeback, Clark burst into the foreground with, "Pardon me for breaking into this little tete-a-tete, but aren't you Mike Dugan?"

"Well, if it ain't Clark," said the cop, putting his book and pencil back into his pocket.

Hegg came up from under the blanket with a "why-aint-I-dead" look on his face and Taylor, beginning to breathe easier, came clean with four of his dad's two-bit cigars. Clark would have talked all day but Lizzie interrupted with a flock of explosions, that would have made a German siege gun sound like a fly landing on a velvet cushion, and we were soon tossing good-bye kisses at the cop.

We were soon in Menomonie, decorating a table in the finest hash dispensary the hamlet afforded. The waiter came for our order, but I told him to start bringing the eats and we would tell him when to stop if he were still able to walk. We all had appetites that would have put a section hand to shame.

After paying for our dinner we were five minds with but a single thought: viz., "How can we get into this game without parting with any of our filthy lucre?" We hit upon the idea of decorating the car with enough of the players to get us by as an official car. This ruse was successful and we were allowed to view the game and keep our coin.

As you all know the game was won by S. P. N. and it wasn't long before we were starting home. Right then I was envious of Sheridan. You know he had to go only 20 miles when he started that famous ride, but we had 150 miles to cover.

About half way to Eau Claire we came upon a wreck and poor old Liz let out a sigh and stopped. We all dismounted to view the remains. Two men were standing in the middle of the road arguing whose fault it was Hegg walked up and asked them if they had had an accident. At this bright remark one guy fainted and the other handed him a look like a drowning man's if he had been thrown an anvil. Then Taylor came forward and offered to call a garage for them. I accompanied him to a nearby farmhouse and Taylor stepping to the phone called an Eau Claire garage.

"Say," said Gage as the garage answered, "Send out some help, I've turned turtle."

"Be yourself," answered a voice at the other end, "This is a garage, you want an aquarium." This was too much for Taylor so we went back, and found Spees trying to get our own ark under way. This was soon accomplished much to our joy as we were getting hungry and the prospects of dinner at Eau Claire loomed pleasantly before us.

Although we had been in Eau Claire once before that day we had neglected to let the mayor know at what time we should return and consequently the band was not out to meet us when we rolled into the village. Driving through the rain and over the muddy roads had made the old car look like the "Wreck of the Hesperus", so we parked it on a side street as we were afraid it would cause too much hilarity if we drove it through town. Clark was the first one out; he said to follow him and we should soon find ourselves at the local Ritz. After walking about ten blocks and passing what I thought was about three quarters of all the restaurants north of Chicago, I asked Clark if he thought we could get there by midnight.

"Keep up the good work," answered Clark, "The first hundred blocks are the hardest."

"Well, boys, cheer up," said I. "If that is true the going will soon get easier."

Taylor was just wondering if we were still in Eau Claire when Parker turned a corner and soon steered us into a place called 'Ptomaine Joe's Eating Cafe.'

After devouring everything but the table cloth and a few toothpicks, we paid our bill and started the journey back to the car. If it wasn't at least seventeen or twenty-nine blocks to that bus I am the next King of England. Finally we got there and after a mad race for the front seat which was won by Taylor, the rest of us,—Hegg, Clark and I,—parked in the rear one and started a little harmony as Spees got the Lincoln Jr. started for the "City Worth While".

Taylor and Spees soon joined in and as our voices rang out on the clear night air it would have made the Orion Quartet sound like a tomcats' convention. We sang every song from "When You and I were Young, Maggie", to "Hot Lips". Then Spees wanted to render a solo. This idea was about as popular with us as a coon with the Ku Klux Klan, but of course we had to let him do it because he owned the car. He sang "Old Pal, Why Don't You Answer Me" and a hoot owl was the only thing that answered him. After he had finished he woke us up; Hegg claims he got about as much of a thrill out of Spees' singing as a taxi driver does out of an automobile ride. Taylor, who warbles a mean song, led us in "How Dry I Am" and, honestly, it was so good that even the old chariot started to steam like a locomotive.

Just as we arrived at the railroad crossing in Marshfield, a train was passing and we noticed two of S. P. N.'s spectators who were at the game, riding on the tank of the engine.

The rest of the journey was uneventful, and as we crossed the Clark Street bridge it was just "Three O'Clock in the Morning". Columbus might have been thankful when he landed on this side of the pond, but he didn't have anything on us as Spees was taking us home. Well that was the end of the trip and this is the end of the story.

What a girl heard at Nelson Hall when she was at the telephone, listening in:

"Are you there?"
"Who are you, please?"
"Watt."
"What's your name?"
"Watt's my name."
"Yeh, what's your name?"
"My name is John Watt."
"John what?"
"Yes."
"I'll be around to see you this afternoon."
"All right. Are you Jones?"
"No. I'm Knott."
"Will you tell me your name then?"
"Will Knott."
"Why not?"
"My name is Knott."
"Not what?"

Let's Go

Some might not think these jokes are funny. We threw a bunch of them into the fire and you should have heard it roar.

Taylor: I had money once, but I burnt it."

Otto: "Burnt it? How?"

Taylor: "With an old flame of mine."

Naughty.

The sofa sagged in the center;
The shades were pulled just so;
The family had retired;
The parlor light burned low;
There came a sound from the sofa
As the clock was striking two;
And the student slammed her text book,
With a thankful, "Well I'm through."

Mr. Rogers: "What is a nitride?"

Agnes: "That's what we dorm girls can't have."

Miss Jones: "Is there any connecting link between the animal and the vegetable class?"

Koenig: "Yes, hash."

Powell: (At 11 P. M.) "Well, I must be off."

Thea: "That's what I thought when I met you."

Cain's Driving Adventures.

I cranked her up,
The clutch was in.
The ground came up
And hit my chin.

The gas tank leaked
I lit a cigar.
The Ford stayed there
But I went far.

The front wheel broke
A fence we knocked.
And I to sleep
Was gently rocked.

I asked my girl
To ride with me.
A tire blew out
And so did she.

We met a mule,—
No more to tell:
The Ford's in Heaven
And I'm—getting well.

Why We are Tardy.

Snyder: Class began before I got here.

Cottage girls: Dishes didn't get done on time.

Crawley: My watch stopped.

Casey: Overslept.

Jay: "I wish the Lord had made me a man."

Alys: "Well, maybe he did and you haven't found him yet."

Sigurdson: "Going to have dinner anywhere to-night?"

Alice: "Why, no, not that I know of."

Sig: "Gee, you'll be awfully hungry by morning."

Hart: "There is one thing that the prohibitionists haven't prevented yet."

Davis: "What is that?"

Hart: "The street cars from getting full."

Krause: "What shall I do with my week (weak) end?"

Haas: "Cover it with your hat."

Mr. Rightsell: "What makes balloons go up?"

Card: "Hot air."

Rightsell: "Well, then what keeps you down?"

Dyer: "What is an opera?"

Violet Thorson: "An opera is composed by a man set to music."

Foster: "I think I shall join the army."

Julie H.: "I don't think you need practice in the use of arms."

M. Hall: "Any mail (male) waiting for me?"

M. Blaney: "Yes, I saw a Ford Coupe in front of the house."

Emma: "Did you write in your diary today?"

Julie R.: "No, I didn't have a date last night."

A Senior looking over the Juniors' pictures, made this remark: "What a good-looking crowd of Juniors we should have, if they all looked like their pictures."

Louis: "Gosh, I had a date last night."

Carl: "Oh, now I know why you collected your debt last night."

Faculty Meeting

Pres. Sims (stands until the buzz of voices dies down): "The meeting will come to order."

Roll Call.

Miss Hussey: "I wish to take this opportunity to bring before the faculty the disgraceful conduct of Parker Clarke at the Sen—."

Mr. Steiner (in haste): "That reminds me of some young men and women who occupy the rear seats of the assembly twittering like birds."

Miss Betts: "Birds! Why don't student teachers report for their bird hunts before breakfast time?"

Mr. Herrick: "Wride wasn't there Friday A. M. because he couldn't find his collar button."

Miss Church: "This may seem trivial but the young women of this school should be compelled to wear high co-lars."

Mr. Evans: "This is more important. I have offered Ruth Jones the opportunity for re-examination. She hasn't appeared."

Mr. Neal: "The following would like a raise in salary: Myself, Miss Roach, Miss Hanna, and Mr. Dyer. Besides, Mr. Thompson needs a new hat."

Mr. Rightsel: "Is it necessary for faculty members to speak to students in the halls?"

Miss Welch: "Why does Miss Mansur refuse to let students practice yells in the library?"

Miss Douglas: "Should students be allowed to sleep in assembly?"

Mr. La Duke rests his arm on the back of his neighbor's chair.

Miss Jones: "Everybody is looking—."

Miss Meston: "Should Home Economics students be allowed to wear black ties?"

Mr. Clark: "I move we adjourn."

Mr. Burroughs: "I second the motion."

Pink eared students in unison: "I wonder what they discussed in faculty meeting."

There is a Ruralite named Fischer,
She fished for a fish from the edge of a fissure
A fish with a grin,
Pulled the fisherman in,
Now they're fishing the fissure for Fischer.

If you have the big head, don't get the idea that you're in a class by yourself. You are no.. There are, alas, too many like you.

Moxon: "What does a dash before a sentence is finished mean?"

Ryan: "I know a guy who tried that and it meant five more years of hard labor."

Anna: "Can you string beans?"

Fae: "No, but I can kid gloves."

Mr. Culver (down South): "I suppose that you think that I'm the worst golfer you have ever seen."

Caddie: "No sir, there are a lot worse than you, but they don't play."

Inquisitive: "Say, what does your mother feed you on?"

Gretchen (tired of being razzed): "On the table."

Pearls come from oysters but diamonds usually come from some poor fish.

E'sie: "What does sewing on hooks and eyes make you think of?"

Elizabeth: "A verse in the Bible—"Ye have eyes but ye see not."

The biggest babies in captivity are on exhibition daily by Mr. Delzell, director of their performances.

Miss Hussey (in English class): "Les Miserable, is the greatest novel in the world outside of the Bible."

Social Events.

After dissecting the black cats, the Physiology class took inventory in the laboratory and store room, and then gave a banquet.

Money is the root of all evil. Oh Lord, give us more root!

Stevens: "I think the opening line of Tennyson's 'Break, Break, Break' are sad."

Finch: "I think broke, broke, broke is a good deal sadder."

Agnes Crawley disturbed the Physiology class by snoring. Why not let the rest of the class sleep in peace, Ag?

Mr. Smith: "If you've lost your voice, say so; don't sit there and stare!"

If you want to sing badly or if you want to play the piano worse I will be glad to teach you.—Mr. Dyer (classified ad).

Porky: "Officer, my car is gone."

Prexy: "That's all right—there'll be another one along in a minute."

Bill: "If you send me away I'll purchase a rope and commit suicide."

E la: "Well, don't be hanging around here."

Sayre: "Why did you come home so late?"

Normie: "I went to a wooden wedding."

Sayre: "What do you mean, wooden wedding?"

Normie: "Two Poles were married."

Advice to Sophs.

Don't study; it's bad for the nerves.
 Don't walk in the halls; running is better exercise.
 Don't whisper in assembly; talking aloud is more easily understood.
 Call the teachers by their first names; they like familiarity.
 Go late to classes after the rush is over.
 Don't recite too often; give the teachers a chance to talk.

Eyes of the World.

At 8 P. M. while Pa and Ma
 Helped entertain with Sis,
 Both Ethel and Melville in distant seats
 Were far apart like this.

At 9 P. M. as Pa withdrew,
 And sought his room upstairs,

 And nearer brought their chairs.

At 10 P. M. Mama decamped
 And then, Ye Gods! what bliss.

Pore grandpaw died at eighty-three,
 In the winter of '94,
 An' up to the last stood straight as a mast
 An' hale, an' sound to the core.

He ate his weight at ev'ry meal
 An' smoke, an' drank, an' swore,
 An' we used to say, in our ignorant way
 "He's good for ten years or more."

We didn't know what we know now,
 An' granpaw's tombstone bears these lines:

 For lack of vitamins."—Dunno.

A Call

I met a sweet young lady:
 Her name was Miss Primrose.
 I paid a visit to her home
 Dressed in my Sunday clothes.

A younger brother placed a tack,
 Upon a parlor chair.
 'Twas I who was to be the goat
 And gently sit down there.

But for some other reason,
 Another chair I chose,
 And on that tack the maiden sat,
 I'll say that Miss Prim—rose.

What kind of a vegetable is a policeman's beat?

Did you ever see the blush on the face of a clock?

Does a hen ever sing her lay?

Can you bring relief to a window pain?

Would you throw a rope to a drowning man just to bring that lemonade?

Can you mend the break of day?

Wilbur: "You are the sunshine of my life, you alone reign in my heart. Without you life is but a dreary cloud."

Mahala: "Is this a proposal or a weather report?"

Esther G.: "I want to dance the worst way."

Hegg: "Oh, Miss Hussey might object."

Agnes: "Speaking of fruit, I hate dates,
 They're what get me into trouble."

William: "What! Are you on the Pointer staff?"

Wilbur: "Oh, I'm just the business manager of 'The Pointer' and janitor of the 'Iris' room. I sweep it out once a month, so we can find 'The Pointer'."

Hark! Hark! Listen and mark!
 Garnet has entered the hall.
 Soon you will see
 Where Buck will be,
 They'll chat for an hour, that's all.

Miss Anderson: "All pupils who eat their noon lunches in school take your lunches to the proper room and eat same."

It was exactly eight o'clock when Julie Horn came running up the steps. She scraped off her feet conscientiously, screwed them on again quickly, and flew up to the class room, carefully folding her wings before entering.
 Nevertheless, she was late and Mr. Delzell threw a stony glance at her. It crushed two fingers of her right hand, so she placed them on the arm of her chair. She has been in the infirmary ever since.

The Man Below

A wondrous place is Nelson Hall
As you have oft been told.
There are many winsome lassies there,
We find both young and old.

There are maidens there with gay bobbed hair,
They wear trim French-heeled shoes.
These maidens dare wear earrings fair,
And some do dab on rouge.

Others there are who with fun are not so full,
They would not make a sound.
No telling tho' what stunts they pull
When Miss Hussey's not around.

Now if some gentleman so meek,
To Nelson Hall doth go,
With quivering hand he rings the bell
And waits down there below.

Then what a scurrying above
When maids descend the stairs,
To view the man who waits below,
They take him unawares.

Rub Leonardson and Weiksy come
Their eyes do with him play.
While Petey's smiles and Helen Lund's
Just take his breath away.

Lotzow: "Hey! Vic, Where ya goin'?"
Prochaska: "Out to the cemetery to dig up a girl for the night."

Burke: "Do you see that barn over there on the horizon?"
Gert: "Yes."

Burke: "Can you see that fly walking around on the roof of the barn?"

Gert: "No, but I can hear the shingles crack when he steps on them."

Shoot Again!

The greenest sopp
We know is the bird
Who when his girl
Asked him if he Didn't think girls
Should wear skirts
Any longer, blissfully
Inquired what they would Wear in place of them.

Davis: "What did you do after the Frat dance?"

Leak: "Nothing to speak of."

Davis: "Oh!"

Watson: "Give for one year, the number of tons of coal shipped out of the United States."

Stevens: "1492, none."

"That's my idea of a broad, educated man" said the driver of the steam roller, as he glanced back upon the corpse of the professor he had just run over.

Webster: "What do they call potatoes in Sweden?"

Walterbach: "They don't call 'em, they dig 'em."

Loretta Broecker hops about
With Charlie in the rear.
Florence Kleist and Elsie Evans trot
Without a bit of fear.

E'en Galli-Curci Watson now
Deserts her music book.
The office force runs gaily out—
He e'en makes Lulu look.

Now Harriet eyes him carefully,
This poor rejected sir.
If he's not like the Montello guys,
He was never meant for her.

L'Entoi

I wonder if in After-life,
When all's been said and done,
Are dormitories on the other side
On this same basis run?

If so, what scrambling there will be—
When St. Peter's call doth go—
In accents quaint and solemn
"There is a MAN below."—R. H., '23.

With faces all awry,
I feel so sorry for them all
I'd really like to cry.

November 3rd

Dear Ray,

Received your letter and I sure was glad to know that you had not completely forgotten me. I am kicking along about as usual. I am carrying a little harder course than I am used to, but guess I will keep my head above water in case all the professors get deaf, dumb, and blind. Last semester things were pretty soft, but it's about as much fun now as going to the wrong funeral in a rain storm.

I am worrying about Dad because he sent me a check for 100 bucks yesterday: I think he must have softening of the brain. As usual he handed me the old line about his not running a counterfeiting plant and for me to lay off the little games of African golf.

Basket Ball practice starts next week and I am going out and do my stuff. There is a big rube named Davis trying for center but he don't know the game like yours truly. If I don't beat him out, I'll never take another bath and I haven't missed a Saturday night in 12 years. The fellows all tell me I'm good, and suppose when the gals see me sinking baskets from all over they'll forget all about Valentino.

We had a class meeting the other day and elected officers. Nobody knew I was there I guess, as I wasn't even nominated. I don't care, tho, as I have a lot of other stuff to do anyway.

I will have to close now as I hear the boys eating soup down stairs, so supper(dinner they call it here) must be served, I remain,

Yours till Niagara Falls,
Joe.

Nomal girls and Nomal boys,
Whither do they wander?
Upstairs and downstairs,
But never in Assembly.

Hansen: "Say, why are you studying Greek?"

Weisner: "Well, a guy has to eat, doesn't he?"

Theda: "Did the girls wear their dresses very long last night?"

Harley: "So far as I know they wore them all evening."

Ye Gods!

Laura: "Did he kiss you goodnight?"

Andrea: "Yes, right on the dormitory steps."

Grace: "What's all this bunk about vitamins? I don't believe a word about it. My ancestors got along without them."

Miss Allen: "Yes, but look at your ancestors. Dead, all dead."

In Physiology.

Evelyn: "Let me feel your pulse."

Margaret: "Haven't any, the doctor took it when I had the 'flu'."

Danielson: "How come you left your boarding house?"

Boylan: "Well, the first week an old cow died, and we had nothing but beef, beef, beef. The next week, an old pig died, and we were fed on pork, pork, pork. Monday, the landlady's cook died;—I'm not from the Fijis."

Everybody wondered why Evelyn McCormick could give such a wonderful report in Dietetics about the dangers and perils that are faced by underweight people. Claire Gillette also charmed the class with minute details of susceptibility and delicacy which our over weight friends experience. Ethel who had Brights' Disease to tell about, solved the mystery by informing us that they like herself had had years of experience.

Harriet: "You should see our Police Force in Monte'lo. He's an awfully nice fellow. Our Fire Department is a good scout too."

Kathryn (after hearing about anapaestic feet in poetry): "This is an antiseptic verse."

Newton: "I have seen nineteen summers."

Dona: "How long were you blind?"

Alida and Ruth used an oil lamp and a ten cent curling iron for various reasons. One was that nobody donated an electric iron until recently.

Brilliant Florence called one day during a curling process and curiously asked, "How old is that lamp?"

Ruth replied, "About five months."

Then Florence said, "Turn it down, it's too young to smoke!"

I stood upon the mountain,
I looked down on the plain,
I saw a lot of green stuff
That looked like waving grain.
I looked again and closer
I thought it must be grass;
But lo! unto my horrors
It was the Sophomore Class.

Oh the lesson was so easy,
I swear I had it in my head.
But then when I was called upon
I found my lesson cruelly gone.
My throat grew dry and wheezy,
Who said, "To die is easy"?

During President Sims' absence some time ago, Anne Shrank had her eyes fixed firmly on an especially desirable seat in the back of the room. Before she could reach it an exceedingly annoying young man whose name we shall not mention (his initials are L. G.) claimed the seat. He found her eyes so sharp that he immediately arose with an agonized shriek and fled to another seat. Anne replaced her eyes and seated herself calmly.

Thorson: "Are you a Primary Council?"
Graunke: "I'm for 'em (forum)."

Alida N: "What did Dante write?"
L. Guerin: "Divine Comedy."
Alida N.: "Sure?"
L. Guerin: "Er—well maybe he did paint it."

We have with us Professor Clark
Who at questions is a shark.
When you get up to bluff,
He sure treats you rough;
And—without getting sore
Says, "Study that some more."

"Do you know Jack Zimmerer?"
"Yes, but not very well, he camps at the dormitory."

Bill: "Did you know I was a salesman?"
Buck: "What are you selling?"
Bill: "I'm a salt cellar:—shake."

Mr. Burroughs: "Please stand in front of the class to read."
Knope: "It's too dark over there."
Mr. Burroughs: "I didn't know you were afraid in the dark."

It is better to have come and flunked than never to have come at all.

In Physiology Class.

"What do we notice accompanying a fever?"
Home Ec.: "A high temperature."

Apologies to Kipling and Dyer.

In Geometry Class.

Mr. Collins: "Now watch the board, while I go thru it again."

The pounding and the tumult dies,
Professor and Primaries depart;
Still goes that awful exercise,
The Rubinstein we know by heart.
Great Hamlet's Ghost! Aren't you through yet?
Let us forget! let us forget!

Just as we think we are making both ends meet they move the ends.

Just Picture—

In School Management Class.

Pres. Sims: "What was the ordinance of 1787?"
Clarence: "I don't know."
Pres. Sims: "Guerin."
Guerin: "I don't know."
Pres. Sims: "Who else knows?"

Doudna when he grows up.
Ethel without Melville.
Tess recklessly spending his coin.
Evans with a toupee.
Zimmerer talking to other fellows.
Georgia Payne without half socks.
Leone without Spriff.
Sigurdson in short pants.
The Faculty voting for an indefinite vacation.
Moxon eight feet tall.
Miss Hussey using slang.
Miss Miller without perfect articulation.

If you do not like these jokes,
And their dryness makes you moan;
Just stroll along occasionally,
With some good ones of your own.

Ruth: "Oh, I hate you. Every time I say anything you stand there and contradict me."

Varney: "Why, I do not!"

McVoy: "Why is an ice-cream cone like a billiard ball?"

Casey: "I'll bite."

McCoy: "Because neither one can ride a bicycle."

Hart (in the Pal): "I have calf's brain, cow's liver, and pig's feet."

Holman: "I came in to get something to eat, not to hear you brag."

"Flunked in Math, Failed in Chem,"
We heard Bill softly hiss.
"I'd like to find the guy who said,
"IGNORANCE IS BLISS'."

Saturday.

Everything's a-flying,
We hear the girls a-crying,
Half the house is sighing,
Rip! Rip! Biff! Clang! Storm!
See the busy women—
Crash! Bang! It's cleaning day at the Dorm.

Mr. Dyer (in assembly): "We shall now make the round of three blind pigs ah-er-ah-I mean we shall sing the round of 'The Three Blind Mice'."

Haasl: "We have a cuckoo clock in our room."

Krumm: "Ours doesn't work very well either."

Mr. Steiner: "I was once principal actor at a great public function when the platform fell."

Mr. Smith: "Horrors! did you fall to the ground?"

Mr. Steiner: "Oh, no! the rope stopped me."

Mr. Smith is still puzzled.

Miss Jones: "The class will now name some of the lower species of animals, starting with Mr. Normington."

Girls Heed!

When the year begins,
Since the chances are few,
Seize your opportunity
Grab him while he's new.

Danielson: "What is your idea of the tightest man in school?"

Krause: "The guy who won't take a shower because they soak you too much."

Julie was beaming with joy,
As she looked at him and said,
"The night air is awfully chilly,
I've nowhere to lay my head."
Fos gave her just one startled look,
And then in haste, he said,
"I'll take you home, if that's the case
So you can go to bed."

Davis: "Here, I don't want a suit without pockets."

Hegg: "You still owe me for your last suit, I didn't think you had anything to put in them."

The north dormitory blushed a scarlet,
And said in tones distressing,
"We really cannot help it,
Don't look!—the 'Herricks' are dressing."

Senior: "When does a man have four hands?"

Junior: "Gee, I don't know."

Senior: "When he doubles his fists."

When ice cream grows on bushes
And Sahara's sands are muddy;
When cats and dogs wear necklaces
That's when we like to study.

"Oh, Spearmint, I feel so Wrigley", led by Julia Melchior, and sung by Krumm, Trainor, Williams, Johnson, and Koenig—in Iris room, March 20 at 11 P. M. after a repast consisting of hot dogs, cream puffs, and pop. The song was inspired by George Johnson's donation of four cents to this feed.

To Chili.

In the middle of February, year '23,
 There were Weiksy, and Elsie and Julie, we three.
 Our tummies were empty; we needed some food.
 When Ruby suggested: "Chili'd be good."
 "I'll furnish the mustard," Florence did puff,
 "I'll season the hamburger and other stuff."
 Said Leila: "I'll get the beans and the rest that we need.
 And Joe: "If no one disturbs us, we'll have a good feed."
 At the hour we set, 'twas early and bright,
 The aces and queens flew left and right,
 It's easy to win when a feed is in view.
 Said Ruth: "Hurry up with the chili, I'm ready to chew."
 Such remarks to make at a real live party!
 They made us all laugh, terribly loud and right hearty.
 Tap, tap, at the door. "Why aren't you in bed?
 "You're a bit too noisy," our new dean said.
 So off to our rooms we sadly did turn
 And left the chili to cook and to burn.
 In the dark, quiet night, when others rested in peace,
 Still we were hungry and wanted to feast.
 We went back to those children in '23,
 For chili to eat and crackers to chew.
 And in conclusion, we wish to say:
 That chili is good on a very cold day,
 But heed all the rules, obey her commands,
 Lest you fall ignominiously into Miss Bronson's hands.

Philleo: (Singing) "Don't I sound like a bird?"

Coleman: "What kind of a bird?"

Philleo: "A jail bird."

Coleman: "You are out too much for that."

Merna: "Have you read Ivanhoe?"

Grace: "No, those Russian novels bore me; the Iris is all I have time for."

Mr. Spindler: "Order!"

Cain (Sleepily): "I'll take mine straight."

When you're fooling at the dorm
 Having heaps of fun,
 A-laughing and a-shoutin'
 Making things all hum
 Be careful what you do
 Take care if you should shout,
 For Miss Hussey's sure to catch you
 If you don't watch out.

If you can't laugh at the jokes of the age, laugh at the age of the jokes.

Ode to my Fountain Pen

A bottle of ink and you
 And a sheet on which to write.
 A theme that's overdue
 Just has to be written tonight.

Gold, black and gold,
 And full of true blue ink.
 You're pretty, there's no doubt,
 But you don't help me to think.

"In vain, in vain, it's all in vain," said Anne.

"What is, old dear?" asked Rachel.

"The letter 'I'."

Marion Manderville: "Mr. Evans said that we should turn somersaults frequently."

Bertha Londo: "No wonder he hasn't any hair on his head."

Written by Edgar A. Guest

Harold S. Dyer.

SINCE THE BABY CAME.

Time was that I could lie me down to sleep an hour or two
Or take a friendly book in hand and sit and read it through;
Time was that I could hum a tune or loudly sing the same,
But that was in the distant past before the baby came.

Once I was master in my house and boldly had my way
I'd cross my threshold with a grin and shout a glad hooray!
But mightier monarch rules the home, and I am in eclipse.
The shout of joy is silenced by her finger on her lips.

Time was I bravely slammed a door or called downstairs for aid,
Or boldly walked from room to room in search of things mislaid;
But now I tiptoe round the place, a narrow path I take
And I must hold my tongue until that little tyke's awake.

The home is not as once it was, we've built our lives anew
We're doing not the things we choose, but what he makes us do;
A tiny tyrant rules us all, the house is his to own
And that small crib wherein he lies is mightier than a throne.

In whispers now I speak my wants where once I loudly spoke.
The very walls are silenced, too, where once the laughter broke;
And though the ways of old are gone, their joy I'd not reclaim,
We do not want the home we knew before the baby came.

Pet Phrases.

Miss Church—"Your directions have not been followed; this shows a lack of co-operation."

Miss Miller: "All right, inasmuch as, etc.—"

Miss Allen: "I'll warrant you if the bricks start falling, and etc.—"

Mr. Burroughs: "We shall now take the assignment—Pardon me, but we shall take a general survey."

President Sims: "Say it as though you meant it."

Florence Kleist: "Oh, for a cry out loud!"

Mr. Evans: "When the president of Rush Medical had the opportunity to chat with me one day.—Heavens on earth! anyone with any common sense—"

Anne Anderson: "Oh, murder!"

Mr. Clark: "That reminds me of a story."

Elsie Evans: " & & . . . (???) (' . "

Miss Hussey: "Let's have self control."

Mr. Culver: "Well, chicken."

Mr. Delzell: "Wake up."

Owen: "Hey, how did you get your hand bruised?"

Knope: "Oh, I was coming from our banquet last night, and some clumsy yap stepped on my fingers."

The little brown chemistry is covered with dust

The poor yellow manual is sadly mused,

And its pages are covered with mold.

Time was when the physics was new

And the manual was passing fair.

That was the time when the student flunked,

Threw them, and left them there.

Avoid the bed,—That's where most deaths occur.

Physics Class.

Haasl: "I can't talk today. I have a sore foot."

Rightsell: "S'matter? Hoof and mouth disease?"

Lives of football men remind us
We can kick and bunt and hug;
And departing leave behind us
Footprints on another's mug.

Yes, dear, our football men are different from the rest, in that they boast elephantine chests, and they limp in their hind legs.

Miss Jones: "What is a caterpillar?"

Undertone: "An upholstered worm."

Ode to Miss Miller.

There is a lady in our school.
And she is wondrous wise.
She asks us many questions
And smiles at our replies.

Sunday's tribune on Monday.
Is the bane of all the class.
She scans her book, looks at us all.
Then calls upon a lass.

Miss Miller is at her best
When lecturing to us all
'Bout books like "Babbitt" and "Main Street".

She says the latter missed its call.

But this I'll say for Miss Miller,
If her I won't offend.
That she's a real nice lady,
If she'll only give me a "10".

Tess: "You may think I don't love you, but you don't know what is in my heart and mind."

Alice: "Oh, yes I do, I've studied physiology."

Give it the laugh if the joke's on you
For we've slammed you all the same;
Force a smile if it isn't true
Come on, be game.

If everybody should get sore
At a joke that's played on him,
Nice world this!—Oh, what a bore,
How gloomy, sad, and grim.
Please don't get "a mad" on us
For it won't do any good,
Seniors are too old to fuss
So take it as you should.

'Tis said that life is what you make it.
Seems to us, it's what the pedagogues make it.

Mr. Evans (in physiology): "I have known some beautiful cows in my day."

The girl that is not good looking but can dance like a million is like an Elgin movement in an Ingersol case.

Shanks: "Why Sis, you have your shoes on the wrong feet."

Sis: "But, Leonard, they are the only feet I have."

"The biggest joke in school this year is The Pointer."

Evans: "Those who are writing without arms had better move to the front."

LaDuke: "How did your potatoes turn out this year?"

Mervin: "They didn't turn out I had to dig them."

Wanted:—One or more credits by an unfortunate senior."

"It's a mean job," said Anne Schrank in the Iris room, Feb. 18, 1923 while entertaining part of the staff. Ask her or Grace Johnstone.

Rose: "Let's ask Mr. Evans for our averages."

Julie H.: "I'm afraid I'll get heart failure."

Rose: "I'd just as soon have Mr. Evans catch me as any one."

Evans (drawing diagram on the board after the bell had rung): "We will continue this line until _____."

Verna: "Monday."

Class departs.

Mr. Evans: "How do you breathe, Marion?"

Weltman: "I don't know."

Evans: "How long have you been breathing?"

Weltman: "That would be telling."

(Voice in rear): "For ages."

The day "Ham" Williams arrived in town from his home in the Northern woods he was strolling along Main Street and noticed a sign in front of the Tuxedo which read
"Billiards and Soft Drinks". Walking up to Hale he said, "Gimme a billiard." Buck looked puzzled for a minute and then handed him a glass of dishwater. After drinking it, Ham smacked his lips and says, "You know if I wasn't an old, hardened billiard drinker
I'd swear that was dishwater."

E. Evans: "Wonderful things have been done in horticulture. If we feed a pumpkin sugar, fat, flour, etc. we get pumpkin pie."

Julie H.: "Could you cross pig weed and egg plant and get ham and eggs?"

Shanklin (selling shoes): "Do you prefer long or short vamps?"

St. Claire: "Personally, I like the short variety."

President Sims thinks that smiles cost less than electric lights, and they make life brighter.

Over the Phone

Heine: "What are you doing?"

Krumm: "Washing my B. V. D.'s."

Central: "I'm ringing 'em. I'm ringing 'em."

What do they Do?

Grace Johnstone, Editor in Chief of this Testament:

Sits in the Iris room

Puts her feet under the desk, and

Bawls out the staff;

Henry Haasl, Business Manager,

Who keeps Grace company,

Signs a check now and then,

And talks to anyone

Who will listen to him.

Fern: "I wonder how many men will be sorry when I marry."

Floy: "It depends on how many men you marry."

The Most Popular Poem of 1922.

The girls no more are flappers,
No more can you hear them coo
As they did two score and ten ago,
Back in 1922.

No more can you hear the flip-flap
Of galoshes on the street,
For overshoes now are buckled
'Round the ankles tight and neat.

Their cheeks were ever rosy,
They never did look faint,
For they always had them covered
With rouge, and powder and paint.

Their hair was ever curly,
That made them wond'rous fair,
But for the curling iron
Their waves would not have been there.

The dads ne'er paid bills for hairnets.
In this way they never were robbed,
For every girl in the city
Most surely had her hair bobbed.

There were many other adventures
And crazy things to do
When Grandma was a flapper
Back in 1922.

A Toast

Here's a toast to those whose names don't appear

In poem, grind, jingle or joke;

For you've offered your bribe and shed many a tear

To escape the cruel pen of the Iris Folk.

Will you observe Joe's upper lip?

Surely twasn't meant to make a hit.

Of course it isn't a mouth disease,

It's a moustache, if you please.

Visitor: "Are you a student here?"

Ruth J.: "No; this is where I go to school."

E. Mazanec (to Practice Class): "Where's

Rural: "I et it."

Miss Meston: "This cream is good."

Verna: "It ought to be, I just whipped it."

What sweet dreams Harriet S. must have with a picture of the captain of our 1921-22 basket-ball team under her pillow!

Miss Hanna (in Literature): "It was about 1439 when I began this lecture."

Miss Church: "While sewing on this problem, will you please have your gauge (Gage) here all the time, Miss Sanderson?"

Ruth: "I'm sure he'd like to come."

Remember the devil lived in Heaven until he started knocking. Now see where he is.

Horan: "No, I don't accept candy from married men."

"Much Ado About Nothing."

How many people would not walk ten miles and mortgage the old flivver to witness a race between these two human eagles, Joey Ray and Charley Paddock? But few of you probably realize that these two notable athletes are attending our institution, as both are from small towns near here and enrolled under assumed names. Every sport writer in the country would have been here on that eventful night in March to write up the race if they had known that it was to take place here. Of course you must understand that it was only by accident that it was run, and therefore the witnesses were few, but the rest of us would have given our last cold simoleon and our best pair of suspenders to have been there.

Both Joey and Charley had settled down for an evening of study on that now famous night in March, but a few of their adventurous companions prevailed on them to stroll about the city with them and fill their chests with the cool, refreshing night air. While passing one of the houses on Ellis Street they heard cries from within as of a woman in distress. Stopping they heard the loud menacing shouts of a moonshine-crazed husband. Never fearing, each rushed to the porch resolved to rescue the woman from the wrath of her husband. Hardly had the porch been reached when the door was flung open and out stepped the infuriated husband with a gun in his hand. One, two, three shots rang out on the night air. Both our heroes forgot their mission and thought themselves back on the track. Joey had anticipated the gun and was off slightly before Charley. Before the sound of the shot had died away they were leaving Stockton. At Amherst both passed the bullet.

They were both out to win. The race was getting hotter every minute and as they passed Waupaca both removed their overcoats and collars. Despite the fact that No. 18 was running behind time and doing its best to make it up, both runners passed it just this side of Oshkosh. At Fond du Lac both took water on the fly. Not a moment was lost and with a burst of super-speed, Paddock caught up with Ray and at Milwaukee they were running neck and neck. News of the race was telegraphed to Chicago, but they had both hit their stride and so fast were they traveling that they reached that city two seconds ahead of the telegram.

Still neck and neck at St. Louis both were going strong and neither could pass the other. Just twenty-eight minutes had passed since they had left the Point. As they passed thru Memphis, Paddock was a block ahead of Ray, but the race was by no means won. At New Orleans, Joey had gained half a block and on the swim across the gulf, had passed Paddock. Over mountains, down valleys, and across rivers, they soon left Central America behind and with one jump both crossed the Panama canal.

The sweat rolled off their brows as they raced, — with Ray in the lead,—across Brazil. Paddock smiled as he again thought of victory when he saw Joey trip on the equator and fall. Hardly had Paddock passed him however, when Joey was up and ready for 5,000 more miles. Two speed cops chased them as they sped thru Argentina, but it was useless.

The sun was now just rising over the eastern horizon and seeing the south pole only a few paces in front of him, Paddock made a leap for it and climbed to the top. Ray wasn't much on the climb and parking at the bottom of the pole looked up at Paddock and said, "You win, Charley, pick up the Marbles."

you right?" asked the hostess.

"The porch light was on and he couldn't kiss her," said the host from the distance.

"You bet he did," replied Gladys to the hostess.

Why Teachers go Insane.

1. I don't understand the question.
2. I don't know the assignment.
3. I had my theme all written but left it at home.
4. Shall we write on both sides of the paper?
5. Miss Bronson, may I please borrow your key?
6. Gene Hathaway's questions.

Why do Normal students patronize neighboring stores when the counter is willing to soak them?

Gertie's hair is golden,
Please don't call it red.
It may be gray when she is older
If it's still on her head.

Miss Douglas: "My father always said,
'Remember you're a Douglas'."

Clarence: "What if my dad had said,
'Remember you're a crumb'?"

Claire: "My watch must be wrong. I thought I was getting in at ten o'clock and it is eleven."

Laura: "What's the matter, did your hands get caught?"

P. S. There are other Fellows in S. P. N.

Which instructor was it who said goodbye to the garbage and threw his wife into the furnace before going to classes?

Returning from Milwaukee,
All the girls stream up the walk
Heads all covered with things they've bought.
Leaves, flowers, cabbage, and stalks.
Summer hats and some are not.

Little bits of knowledge,
Little puffs of wit
Make the simple Juniors
Think the Seniors "it".

A little test in History,
A little quiz in French,
Of the far vacation
Thoughts from us do wrench.
Thus the worthy teachers
Charming though they be
Make those last few hours
Seem eternity.

Heard in Composition.

Miss Miller: "Compare the word, 'fore'.
Helen: "Is it four, five, six?"

Here's to the teacher who doesn't use red ink too often, no matter what other weaknesses or ailments she may have.

He was sitting in the parlor,
And he said to the light,
Perhaps both you and I old fellow,
Will be turned down to-night.

In Our Lunch Room.

Customer: "There's an angleworm in this soup."

Rural: "Wha ja expect for ten cents?
Silkworms?"

There are some very husky chaps,
Who play on our basket ball team.
And when they come out on the floor
The girls begin to scream.
When they cage the baskets
Making two points or more.
The girls go nearly wild
And the scream becomes a roar.

Brad Willett intends to study the whys and wherefores of electrical engineering: he has had experience with Mr. Spindler's door bell.

Violet K.: "What a peculiar looking thing on your upper lip."
 Jos. Klosowski: "My dear girl, never knock a mustache when its down."

Sh—————H.

Sauger has a date once a week.
 Hanson practices basket ball with the alarm clock.
 A. Smith uses axle oil on his hair.
 St. Clair uses Colgate's Baby Talc.
 Mr. Evans uses "Danderine".
 Normie uses "Gets It".

Bacchus: "Where did you get those shoes?"
 Wride: "From shoe trees."

Review of Reviews at the Dorm.

Oh, bounteous dish of hash,
 So lovely smelling,
 Do you know what you're made of?
 I hear no one's telling.

They say you hail from Hungary,
 But this to me sounds rash:
 For how could folks be hungry,
 Surrounded by gculash?

Mr. Smith (talking of Trojan War):
 "How old was Helen?"
 Sauger (Just waking up): "Eighteen her last birthday."

When asked to define lunch, J. Wilbur Snyder replied, "Lunch is what you have for dinner when father is away."

Light Occupations.

Postmaster at the North Pole waiting for leaves to grow on hall trees.
 Raising auto trucks on a truck farm.
 Trying to tickle the crazy bone on the elbow of a stove pipe.
 Looking for the Board of Education of S. P. N. in a lumber pile.
 Waiting for elms on the campus to leave.
 Preparing a lesson for Miss Miller.
 Calling up a girl at Nelson Hall on Sunday.
 Trying to get 100% from Miss Wilson.
 Being Mr. Evans' barber.
 Trying to beat George Johnson out of a cent.
 Blowing smoke out of the boiler room.
 Laughing at Mr. Delzell's jokes.

My Life—by LOUIS LEAK.

I.

I come into the world.
 I belong to the onion family.
 I make eyes at my nurse.

II.

Mamma dear sends me to school.
 Teacher scolds me.
 I put my arms around her neck.
 Oh, how I love her.
 She stops whipping me.
 "It pays to fuss."

III.

I go to Normal.
 I find a lot of teachers there.
 It doesn't "pay to fuss."

IV.

I fall in love with another man's auto.

V.

I'm eating bread and water, but I love that too.

Miss Roach: "Why were you late to school today?"

Grabb: "I heard that there shou'd be a sign out in front, 'Go Slow'; so I did."

Maude Miller on a summer's day raked the meadow sweet with hay and the sun shone out as was his biz, in that familiar way of his, till Maude broke out with prickly heat, and then her language shocked the wheat.

Wiedenhoeft: "Why is Mr. Dyer so quiet? Hasn't become dumb has he?"

Ullman: "Dumb? Why, I hear that he is so dumb that he wears gloves when he plays the piano so he won't wake the baby."

Bright (when he returned from Cedar Falls): "I'm too full for words."

Wiesner: "He's holding out on us."

Edith: "Are you two faced?"

Vera: "Of course not!"

Edith: "I didn't think so, if you were, you wouldn't be wearing the one you are."

Mildred D.: "Which month has 28 days?"

Eleanor T.: "All of them."

"I knead thee every hour," sang Mahala Erickson as she finished the bread her practice class had begun.

Well, children, after casting your most attractive eyes over our attempt at humor I suppose you will be sadder than a Jew parting with a whole nickel when you find out that this is the last page. We have a lot more jokes, though, that didn't get by the censor and if you will call at the Iris office we shall let you laugh them off.

MANY TIMES we are urged to purchase merchandise "that can be sold at a price." But we often find that the QUALITY as well as price is low. Goods of this character are often pleasing to the eye and promise economy to the pocketbook. You'll find them expensive in the end. QUALITY—that is the keynote of this store's merchandising. Hand in hand with quality are prices as moderate as is consistent with good storekeeping. We never use the lure of "sensational bargains." Good VALUES are here EVERY DAY.

"82 Out of Every 100 Die Penniless"

Many of us do not realize when we are young and in the prime of life how important it is to save. The majority of Americans neglect this until they are old and it is too late. A United States Government report states that:

- of every 100 people in America, 82 die penniless.
- 46 of every 100 average American men have saved nothing at 45 years of age.
- ONE PERSON OUT OF EVERY 10 who die today in our large cities is buried in a Potter's field.
