THE YEAR

It was a world of tense situations and squabbles become too big for men to solve; a world where bloodshed, fear, and bitterness were the rule and peace the exception.

But at Central State, college life went on as always . . . the learning done in quiet classrooms, the laughter as the week-ends near, the knowledge that your friends are close and these are the years that last.

New friends now . . .

For the first few days the Freshmen are the most important people on the campus. Something is planned for every minute, and it seems they must be everywhere and do everything at once—all in a tremendous rush. They are welcomed from all sides, for the upper-classmen feel it is very important to "meet and know" the newcomers.

Classes start with a bang, and numerous freshmen, frantically trying to study their first assignments, groan that "high school was never this hard." School slips into a routine. The upper-classmen are suddenly too busy with their own affairs to give much more than a casual greeting in the hall. The freshmen find that they weren't really expected to read all five chapters for tomorrow. They begin to feel lonely as things slow down a bit, and wistful letters inquire about what's going on at home. Each freshman is certain that if he left tomorrow no one would notice or care. Decisions which have always been made for them, even minor ones like what to have for supper, become major difficulties when they must be faced alone.

All this is a part of being new, but soon the strangeness wears off and the letters begin to tell instead of ask—tell of good times, hard work, new friends . . . all the wonderful things that go into college life.

True friends ever . . .

Peter J. Michelsen, a name and personality that influenced the lives of many in our college, announced his retirement at the annual music homecoming in the spring of 1954.

Norwegian-born and educated, Mr. Michelsen came to Central State from Richland Center, Wisconsin, in 1931 to head the music department. He worked hard to make the music department serve all of Central Wisconsin. His many projects were: the annual clinics for high school bands and glee clubs, the band homecoming, and the President's Concert during graduation week. Above all we will remember his Christmas Concert with its traditional candle-lit procession winding through the darkened auditorium to a tree-banked state . . . the nativity tableau and Mary's song to the Christ Child . . . and the glorious climax with the voices of the entire group joining in the Hallelujah Chorus.

It's so good to be back . . .

September—the same exciting rush to get started on a brand new year. There's time for fall picnics when no one cares if the hot dogs have a smoky taste and rain comes through the shelter roof . . . it's good to see the gang again. There's time to get accustomed to the new room-mate who sleeps with the window wide open and peanut-pickle sandwiches before hopping into bed.

But classes too are part of school. You start out with a briefcase of good resolutions . . . only you over-sleep the first 8:15, and twice a week your econ class becomes a coffee hour.

It's so good to be back!

"Well, it happened this way . . ."

Time out to pose

registration.

... because, to tell you the truth, I am lonely.

Quoth the student, "NEVERMORE!"

And that leaves Basket-weaving 201

And practice teaching

Practice teaching! The rushing back and forth between college and the laboratory school with no time to spare for a cup of coffee with friends. The hours of preparation for more hours of plain hard work—all for as little as three credits! Sometimes you work with little monsters who seem to be waiting for you to make a mistake so they can pounce on it gleefully. Sometimes the supervising teacher informs you with a shudder that the bulletin board you were so proud of is ALL WRONG. Johnny raises his hand, and, giggling, informs the world in general, "I saw you on that corner with a MAN!"

The work becomes monotonous. Making lesson plans seems to be a dreadful imposition.

But those hours of hard work seem justified when you find that the class actually remembers what you told them last week. Sometimes you work with little angels who cooperatively respond to every suggestion. Sometimes the supervising teacher says that you handled a problem very competently. You're shopping downtown and overhear Johnny say to his mother, "There she is. I like to have her teach me." And every once in a while you see a look of interest on the faces of your pupils that somehow takes the monotony out of the routine.

ever.

But spring comes soon . . .

And the rush is over!

The school year closes with the conferring of degrees and the correcting of the last exams. Seniors say goodbye to college days, but underclassmen eagerly anticipate another fall.

Already forgotten are the days we flew from class to class and crammed meetings in between. Unregretted the half-smoked cigarettes and the cokes we left unfinished . . . the Monday nights when we had three meetings scheduled for 6:30 P.M. and so went out instead. Forgotten, too, the ghastly feeling which comes at 2:00 A.M. when NO-DOZE pills run out and the text remains unread. We can even stand to think about that French final when we wrote down all we knew and only filled half a page.

Yes, we can forget all these things because college is something more than a hurry-scurry scramble and the fight against deadlines. It's living, learning, loving . . . and laughing all the time.

A FRIENDLY COLLEGE

WILLIAM C. HANSEN
President

The reputation of Central State wasn't built on the modern library, the plans for a field house, or the dreams of a new administration building. No, the real heart of this college is its people . . . busy, competent, yet always friendly.

Graduating classes and favorite profs may come and go, but as long as this friendly cooperation continues among the administrators, clerks, faculty, maintenance men and students, CSC will always be well-liked by the general public and loved by her alumni.

THE HONORARY AND PROFESSIONAL GROUPS

Once a student at CSC has established his major, he will become a member of a professional education organization to correspond to his teaching division, and he may be elected to an honorary society in his major field.

The professional organization will help the student prepare to meet problems in his division of education, give him an over-all view of job-opportunities, and recommend him to the college placement bureau before he graduates.

The honorary fraternity gives the student of exceptional ability in his major field an opportunity to meet and exchange, discuss and develop ideas related to his field. Each fraternity tries to promote stimulating extra-curricular work and thereby serve the college by encouraging sincere and active scholarship.

FTA

The Future Teachers of America serves as a central council for the four education divisions on campus. Representatives of each group belong to this council which works to promote teaching as a career.

COLLEGE THEATER

The College Theater enables speech and drama students to take an active part in dramatic productions, not only through acting but through directing, handling of scenic and technical problems, and working on the business and publicity ends of productions. Anyone who has in some way participated in one of the college plays may become a member. Miss Pauline Isaacson, Mr. Leland Burroughs, Mr. Robert Lewis, and Mr. Richard Blakeslee serve as advisors.

Three student-directed one-act plays were presented in November. Gladys Lehmann directed "The Boor" by Anton Chekhov; Frank Brocker presented the "The Devil and Daniel Webster" by Stephen St. Vincent Benet; and James Stasko produced "Shall We Join the Ladies?" by Sir James Barrie. A three-act play was given in the spring.

Who wouldn't like a Florida vacation in March? There was hardly a person in school that didn't envy the glee club men of CSC who, fortified with funds collected during a five month campaign and transported by the college bus, made the trip to Miami to sing under the auspices of the National Association of Federated Music Clubs.

This was a big year for the glee club—not every organization celebrates its 20th anniversary by going to Miami. So congratulations, director-founder, Norman E. Knutzen and your men.

THE POINTER

This year the "Pointer" was fortunate in obtaining exclusive rights to all press releases pertaining to Tufton Beamish, renowned expert on everything. However, even Tufton with his great knowledge couldn't help Editor Earl Grow solve his most difficult problems, such as explaining to the business manager how one gets five Cokes for a quarter from the machine ("Now you take this quarter, see . . ."), getting Will Shakespeare and Ernest Hemmingway to pick up their assignments, and helping the headline writers to use their favorite line, "Trample Those Titans." An editorial policy of _____ was adopted, guaranteeing satisfaction to all. Monday night Coke and carmel corn sessions when all the "due Friday" assignments were in and being worked on by the staff often gave Earl a bad case of nerves, but with a helping hand from Miss Glennon our 1955 Pointer Staff turned out the "best papers yet."

IRIS

This picture is no accident; you are seeing the Iris staff at its unsuspecting best getting a taste of waiting while the photographers "get ready."

The bored-looking scholar to your right so engrossed in Punch is in a most characteristic pose—waiting for his staff to get organized. Unfortunately he was too much of a gentleman to leave his cap on so this picture is not as funny as it might have been.

Neither assistant-editor, Marge Smith, nor dark-room chief, Norb Brost, could pose with us as they were, per usual, somewhere else cheerfully doing Jo's work. By far the hardest working man on the staff is Mr. Specht and he, per usual, was on the other end of this camera!

WRA

The Women's Recreational Association sponsors the Wednesday-night fun sessions for all girls, regardless of their skill in sports. The intramural basketball tournament is the highlight of the year as well as the annual "Christmas Cheer" and the Play Day for neighboring high schools. Orchesis, known more formally as the modern interpretive dance group, is the one organization at CSC which must practice behind closed doors or else be crowded out by interested spectators. Prancing about in their black leotards, the girls put in long hours of hard work and more hours of good-natured squabbling as to how it should be done.

Doris Moss was the courageous soul who led these artistes and finally got them into shape for the television production of The Juggler and the annual spring recital which played to a packed house of dance devotees.

Christmas at CSC

Probably no holiday means more to CSC students than Christmas. The Yule spirit descends on the campus early and by the day that suitcases are packed and weary students trundle home for vacation, all the college is seized with a fever of Christmas gaiety and good-will.

Typical of the holiday activities on campus are the W.R.A. Christmas cheer party and the all-school carolling party. W.R.A. serves free afternoon refreshments to college students and faculty. The all-school carolling was a new activity on the campus this year. Early in the evening about 130 students assembled on the post office steps to sing for shoppers in the downtown area. From there, the group split into three sections, and the different sections were carried to various spots in the city by bus.

Afterward, the carollers were served refreshments in the training school gym.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The highlight of the year according to the students, and the nightmare of the year according to Homer, was the sponsoring of a personal appearance by Eddy Howard. To prove their nobility, the council also tackled the out-dated constitutions . . . which meant throwing away an exciting conglomeration of unlimited and unused powers.

Keep an eye on the student council, CSC, it's going to go places!

Row 1: Crook, Wyman, Madison, Haas, Plumb
Row 2: Shuda, Glover, Purchatzke

DELZELL HALL

"LITTLE MEN"

Delzell Hall is the only men's dormitory on campus. Therefore you can plainly see that all men who do not live in rooming houses or trees, live in the dormitory.

Someone once described college as a place where girls without men meet the men without money. The Student Union is the place where the CSC girls may find these men. Movies (on T.V.) a juke box, and dancing enable these men without money to entertain the girls, no longer without men.

NELSON HALL

Nelson Hall may not have had any robbers strolling casually through the halls this year, but dorm life went on as usual with the nightly race to sign in, the shrieking dashes through the parlors in p.j.'s, the midnight parties which must be hushed by floor managers, and the daily crises which can only be found when 100 girls live together. . . .

Most CSC students live in private homes scattered over the city. It makes little difference whether there be two roommates or twelve, whether it be an apartment or a single room, all students enjoy the fun of living, fighting, and laughing with their new friends . . . the fun of sharing their memorable days of college.

SONG FEST

It was a "grand night for singing" from the moment the curtain opened on Marcie Skalski and Jim Richard's exhibition waltzing until the curtain closed on the faculty's hilarious parody.

Few in the audience realized the fun and grief which the nine groups experienced while preparing for that evening performance—the struggle to make the parody words fit the music, the search for a piano not yet in use, the frustration of trying to whip a twenty-voice choir into shape when only five members show up for rehearsal.

But the hard work and competition involved make the Songfest a favorite campus activity.

CWA

The College Women's Association is the former Women's Self-Governing Association all dressed up in a new title.

The council sponsors many events for the students at CSC, including the big-little sister program in the fall, the informal coffee hours for upper classmen and faculty members, the Song-Fest, and the banquet for graduating senior women.

This year CWA, headed by Ruth Ann Charlesworth and Roberta Vaugh also bought song books for the College Sings.

OMEGA MU CHI

The record of Omega Mu Chi would seem to prove that the group which would enjoy itself, keep loyalty keen and preserve the sorority spirit should dedicate itself to a program of various social, service, and competitive activities.

The Omegas had a busy schedule in 1954-55. In the fall they won first prize on their homecoming float, a huge silver-foil dog sled with the caption "Eskimo to Team: Mush, Mush, Mush." The group participated in the college songfest, gave, among other entertainments, a party for sorority alums, and read weekly to the children at the hospital.

First semester president was Cleo Gilbert; Judy Clayton directed second semester activities.

"Look, Ma, I'm pinned!"

"I went to a tea and had so much fun."

PHI SIGMA EPSILON

The fraternity which must climb to the third floor each Tuesday in order to find a quiet meeting place, had plenty of energy left over to make 1955 a busy and worthwhile year, full of the happy traditions which can only be found among fraternity men.

They got off to a rousing start by sponsoring a pre-homecoming dance to honor the queen candidates, and then put on a spirited campaign which brought the queen's crown to their own candidate, Judy Clayton of the Omega Mu Chi sorority. The Phi Sigs also made a big hit on campus this year by putting on several special movies at the library theater. Probably the one event which took the most work and brought the most fun to the whole college was the spring style show, a production any group could well be proud of.

To Don Herrmann and Jim Goetz fell the task of leading these men.

PSI BETA PSI

"Valcommen" . . . it was a little bit of old Sweden at the Psi Beta Psi January tea to honor new students, replete with good coffee, costumes and a folk dance or two.

Whatever the event, the Psi Betas put all their enthusiasm to work and make of the project good fun and success. Whether it's a homecoming float, a rushing party with a Hawaiian theme, or a dance for the college called the Kandy Karnival, if it's a Psi Beta production it will be good.

First semester president of the Psi Betas was Frances Cook; second semester president was Lenore Gaylord.

Can't you KIEFER out of some of the pictures?

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

The Tekes are not yet a chapter of the national fraternity but they are in close contact with the central organization and have entertained the national officers. During their first year as a recognized group, the Tekes were able to hold many of their meetings in private homes where they were led by Doyne Parmalee and Lambert Schommer.

The Tau Kappa Epsilons are full-fledged Greeks at CSC and are represented on Pan Hell and Interfraternity. Their super-sized pointer added just the right festive note to our stadium at Homecoming time, and their other activities, such as ushering at the Songfest and sponsoring basketball dances, have made them quickly popular with all.

TAU GAMMA BETA

"Well, how do you get rid of an olive pit?"

"A sisterhood for common good" . . . down through the years since 1909, Tau Gamma Beta sorority has carried its traditions and ideals, maintaining a spirit of school service, social graciousness, and group loyalty.

The sorority was awarded first place and traveling trophy for its rendition of "In the Still of the Night" and a parody to the tune of "This Old House" in the annual college songfest.

Diane Seif served as first semester president and Lois Schlottman as second semester president.

Mud be nimble. Mud be quick. Mud beware of Sig Ep trick.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

The Sig-Eps, our "Tuesday boys" with the white shirts and red ties, had a year of fun and fame under the leadership of Earl Grow.

Their homecoming float was an inspiring example of what forty-five people can do when they really put their hearts into a job . . . especially when that job calls for grown men to make artificial flowers!

The annual variety show, Sig-Episodes, was another favorite project of this stage-happy crowd because they got an opportunity to show off their talents in acting and singing . . . and in all the other fields which only fraternity men can invent.

With due respects to the janitors who must worry about the roof of the boys' dorm, CSC owes the Sig Eps a sincere thank you for the Christmas tree they erected on the top of Delzell Hall.

SIASEFIS

The mysterious name, Siasefi, actually has a meaning! Anyone with enough time, patience, and luck can find it in a certain dusty volume in the College Library. This newest of CSC's organizations was founded a little over a year ago as just another social group. It was officially recognized by the College in February and will soon be giving the Greeks a run for their money.

HOMECOMING

RECIPE (CSC favorite since 1894)

Take 900 some college students,
Add a generous pinch of football weather,
Sift in a good measure of school spirit and blend in some hustle and buzz.
Stir well for a week.

Toast over a good-sized bonfire,
Decorate with three lovely queens and a colored parade
And serve on Saturday afternoon after every touchdown.
(Save some icing for the evening dance.)

It is not a bad recipe at all
And they always come back for more—
Ask the alums!

FOOTBALL

Eleven men in the black and white uniforms of CSC move down the field for the kick-off; the stadium at Goerke Field goes wild with the excitement of another college football season. For the next hour the hearts and hopes of hundreds of spectators will be with those eleven men maneuvering up and down the long field.

For these brief afternoons of glory even the men on the bench can smile at the memory of sweltering work-outs under the hot August sun while classmates enjoyed the last days of vacation; the temptation to forget training hours and rules; the daily practise grinds which were anything but glorious on a muddy field or in weather so cold that no amount of chafing could keep hands warm.

There were only eight games, eight scores . . . but behind those dry statistics lie the thrilling story of a team working together as one man for the honor of their school. Whether that college is Notre Dame or Central State, that is football!

BASKETBALL

Hard bleacher seats with no room for long legs . . . a rumpled-up program . . . a score board which shows only the last eight minutes of the half.

Shrill whistles clamoring for attention over the din of a frenzied crowd . . . the thrilling volume of a pep band beating against the roof . . . the buzz from the table and a swell of applause as a favorite player leaves the game.

The excitement when Richards broke the scoring record of 35 points in one game . . . the pure joy of watching Haefner dribble down court . . . our warm pride in Marko as the most valuable player and Koepke as the honorary captain. . . .

These are the memories of a Point basketball season.

Wrestling is fast moving out of the category of minor sports at CSC. Saturday afternoon meets no longer bring out a handful of spectators; now even the girls have become avid fans and speak glibly of such things as pins, decisions, and escapes. If coach Roberts could only find some way to replace that revolting "spitting towel" he could probably pack the house. . .

Till then, hats off to all our grapplers, especially Harold Smith who won the most outstanding wrestler award for 1954-55.

CROSS COUNTRY

Cross-country runners are the forgotten men of college sports. They race over a gruelling 3 to 5 mile course, cross the finish line without the cheers of spectators, and go to the showers knowing that the papers and their classmates probably never even realized that there was a meet.

When men like Ron Porter finish only seconds behind the Illinois state champ who set the unofficial record for the 3-mile, and when CSC is one of the few state colleges boasting a cross country team, it is time we gave our harriers the backing they deserve.

The Iris is proud to be one of the first to bring these men into the limelight where they belong!

ON THE SIDELINES

A student body sticking with their team when the score stands 103-60; an older faculty member turning out for every game; players on the bench eagerly cheering their team-mates—this is what gives a small local college the proud tradition of the fighting purple and gold.

"FROM THE BANKS OF OLD WISCONSIN . . ."

Stevens Point . . . only a Wisconsin town to many people, but a second home for some 900 college students during the year 1954-55.

During the week most of us lived in private homes throughout the city, and on Friday we jammed the transportation lines to points all over the state. After classes we hurried to part-time jobs in the downtown district, or wandered through the stores to buy as much as "poor students" could afford . . . and more! The city parks were almost part of the campus during the pleasant weather, and at night the entertainment spots were filled with college students.

To Stevens Point, Central State is more than just a state college; it is the CITY'S college. It cheers our teams, comes to our social functions, and, in ways such as this advertising, proves that it is a loyal supporter of "the Purple and the Gold."

To all the people of Point go our thanks for making this city a pleasant place in which to spend a college year.
