The Enrollment Mystique . . .
What's Happening Today?

The Dynamics Of Stabilization

DR. DAVID L. COKER
Assistant Chancellor
Student Affairs

The year 1972 has brought the University of Wisconsin - Stevens Point's first enrollment decline in nearly 15 years. During this time, an unanticipated and unprecedented growth rate caused the University's enrollment to soar from 4,400 in 1965 to 8,700 in 1970 — nearly double. Enrollment reached an all-time high of 9,100 in 1971; this year students number 8,700. Enrollment for the 1973-74 school term is projected at 8,500. In the following article, Dr. David L. Coker, Assistant Chancellor for Student Affairs, discusses the new philosophy of stabilization, and the renewed emphasis on academic excellence amid the problems generated by the declining enrollment.

Colleges and universities across the nation have been confronted recently with a decline in anticipated enrollments. This decline has had tremendous impact on all educational institutions, prompting a critical review of programs and a reassessment of priorities for the utilization of financial and personnel resources.

Throughout the country, numerous individuals and committees have spent many long and agonizing hours in analyzing the decline, and suggesting courses of action to meet the problems it poses.

The University of Wisconsin — Stevens Point has not been much different from other universities. We, too, are confronted with a decline in our anticipated enrollment. Our reaction, as an institution, however, does not entirely parallel that of our sister institutions.

We have felt for quite some time that the constant expansion of our enrollment would not be in the best interest of our educational efforts.

The spiraling enrollments of the past 15 years have kept us on the defensive, and struggling to try and catch up with these ever-increasing numbers.

In the midst of this soaring enrollment, the University made a commitment to focus on developing a first-rate undergraduate education program, and decided against entering the race to expand our graduate program, as many universities were doing.

The expansive enrollments left us many times without resources — financial, physical, personnel and programs — which we felt should be available. We continued to scramble each year to meet the new routine demands caused by the increase in sheer numbers.

This constant scrambling led to the consideration of placing a ceiling on enrollment so we could deal more effectively with the development of our educational programs.

The ironic factor regarding our decline in enrollment is the fact that it came at nearly the exact same time as when we reached what we considered an effective and efficient enrollment level. It was felt that the desirable maximum enrollment ceiling goal should be 9,000-10,000 undergraduate students. This enrollment level would provide the most effective and efficient use of resources.

With this enrollment figure of 9,000-10,000 undergraduate students we felt, and still do feel, we can have the most effective undergraduate program in the state of Wisconsin.

Consequently, the drop in enrollment is being greeted with mixed feelings. On the one hand, it has necessitated a sharp and critical review with cutbacks in many areas. On the other hand, it has meant we will be "stabilizing" our University, which affords us the opportunity to develop programs in a fashion which has not been possible before. From this perspective there is an affluence to stabilization.

It is necessary to distinguish between stabilization and stagnation — the two are not one and the same. Stabilization is not the same as declining enrollments or stagnant programs. A rapid decrease in enrollment can be as destructive to a quality education program as spiraling increases. Maintaining a constant number of students in the University each year need not mean stagnation either. Stabilization can be dynamic, and this is our goal as we begin student recruitment activities designed to help us achieve that ideal enrollment figure of 9,000-10,000 students.

Our student recruitment program at the UW - Stevens Point is new this fall. The program initiated is intended to involve all those concerned with the well-being of the institution, whether faculty, students, administration, alumni or friends.

While there are many facets to the program, a primary area of emphasis right now is the active recruitment of this year's high school seniors. We know, for example, there are approximately 80,000 high school seniors in the state who will graduate this coming June, and we need 3% of these next year as freshmen in this University.

While competition to attract these college-bound seniors will be especially keen this year as other universities seek to bolster falling enrollments also, we feel the UW - Stevens Point has a lot to offer. Our undergraduate program has the flexibility to meet most demands of the new student, plus an acknowledged quality which goes beyond merely being competitive. We also feel that after completing a four year program, our graduates are as well educated as other products of other institutions, which is validated in part, by the extremely high percentage of job offers and placements they obtain.

As an alumnus, we ask your support of our efforts to achieve the enrollment level at which we feel we can most efficiently operate, and more importantly, educate. On the following page are some concrete suggestions for your consideration.

Student Recruitment

Zeroing In On Dynamic Stabilization

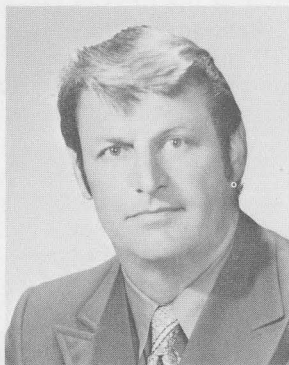

You, personally, are an integral part of this orchestrated effort to increase and stabilize enrollment. If, as you talk to those students who express interest in attending the UW-Stevens Point—be it at home, school, church, the golf course, ski hill or at work—you feel you need more information to help you in your recruiting efforts, please call or write: Dr. Leonard L. Gibb, Office of Student Affairs, Room 224-A, Main, UW-Stevens Point, Wis. 54481.

1. Be well-informed about your University. Share your knowledge. Spread the good word on the outstanding professional offerings in the fields of communicative disorders, home economics, natural resources, art, music, teacher education, etc.
2. Keep your eyes and ears open. If you know of an interested student, send us the name and address. The introductory literature we send may help the student to make up his or her mind in favor of the UW-Stevens Point.
3. Want to show off a bit of your alma mater to some good high school prospects? Write Dr. Gibb to arrange an appearance by one of the fine musical ensembles or the noted College Choir, or perhaps a theatre presentation by a traveling UW-SP troupe. These campus "outreach" groups build up good will and evoke student interest.
4. You can arrange a visit to your city's high school by our new Student Ambassador Corps. Let your UW-SP prospects get their answers from those who are already "into it"—personable young college students who are sold on their own quality education at the UW-SP.
5. Come to Stevens Point and tour the campus with a member of the Ambassador Corps tour guides. These students are familiar with all campus buildings, and can give everyone a "student's eye-view" of campus life. They also have the answers to the most commonly asked questions about campus life, the social life, residence hall living, etc.

For further information about any aspect of the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, feel free to call or write Dr. Len Gibb at the above address.

MID-SEASON COACHING CHANGE

Pointer Power On The Upswing!

BUILDER OF CHAMPIONS? Monte B. Charles named head coach for 1973 Pointer football season.

A dismal record of 19 consecutive losses, which chalked up the longest losing streak in the school's football history, contributed in part to an unusual mid-season decision by Chancellor Lee Sherman Dreyfus to request the resignation of head football coach Pat O'Halloran.

The surprise decision, announced only a few days prior to the Homecoming game with the LaCrosse Indians, was a controversial one. Coach O'Halloran, a soft-spoken and personable man who coached the Pointers the past three seasons, was well liked personally. He was unable, however, to draw from the Pointer squad the desperately needed winning performances.

At the Homecoming banquet Sept. 30 at the Holiday Inn, Chancellor Dreyfus announced that Monte B. Charles would serve as the interim coach for the remainder of the season.

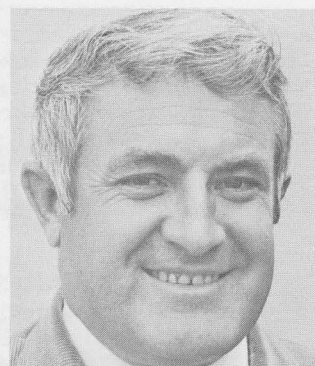

Charles, a Michigan native, produced conference crowns for UW-Platteville and UW-Superior in recent years after taking over both teams in the wake of long losing streaks.

The hope that he could do the same for the Pointers was fulfilled; after losing the first four games under Charles, who developed a "pass and a prayer" strategy core, the Pointers came alive.

On Nov. 4 and 11 against Superior and Eau Claire the Pointers won decisively. In a heartbreaking 20-17 loss against Oshkosh the Pointers almost brought the top-rated conference club to its knees in defeat. A Pointer fumble in the end zone, with one minute and 39 seconds of play left, cost the Pointers the victory.

Reminiscent of UW-SP former coach Eddie Kotal of the 1930-40's, Charles is an active recruiter, and has been signed by Chancellor Dreyfus to remain on the athletic staff in that capacity for the remainder of the year. Chancellor Dreyfus also announced that Charles will be back in the fall as football coach for the 1973 season.

A team has been built, many Pointer fans agree, which appears will be a big power in the conference next fall.

TIME RAN OUT . . . for Pat O'Halloran. Loss record led to mid-season resignation as head football coach.

Academic Appointments

DR. NANCY MOORE, associate professor of English and acting dean of graduate students, to Special Adviser on Women's Affairs to the Chancellor. She will oversee the University's affirmative action plan for women and deal with complaints of sex discrimination in such areas as hiring, promotion, salary and tenure.

DR. DENNIS ELSENRATH, new director of the campus counseling center. Elsenrath came to the UW-SP in '65 as director of Baldwin Hall and since '66 he has been assistant to the director of campus housing.

DR. MICHAEL FORTUNE, professor of foreign languages, to chairman of the newly reorganized department of foreign languages and comparative literature. For the past five years Dr. Fortune headed the departments of English and humanities at Mundelein College in Chicago, and for 10 years prior to that, he taught in the UW-SP English department.

DR. FRANCIS SCHMITZ, associate professor of physics, to chairman of the UW-SP physics department. Dr. Schmitz, who has been a UW-SP faculty member intermittently since '59, succeeds Dr. Monica Bainter who has returned to full-time teaching.

MISS NANCY J. CLARK, to the post of curator of the UW-SP Museum of Natural History. Miss Clark will serve as museum guide to visitors, develop new displays and coordinate the formation of new programs and workshops that will be sponsored by the museum on its premises (first floor, Learning Resources building) as well as in area communities.

DR. ROBERT BOWEN, associate professor of health, physical education and recreation, to head the department of health, physical education and recreation. The gymnastics coach, Bowen hopes to provide leadership for establishment of a minor and possibly a major in health education at the UW-SP.

JAMES VANCE, to assistant director of PRIDE (Programs Recognizing Individual Determination Through Education). Vance, who is completing course work towards his bachelor's degree at the UW-SP, will coordinate special programs for young people on campus and serve them as an ombudsman with the University administration.

DR. JAMES G. NEWMAN, professor of natural resources, to assistant to the Dean of Natural Resources. Dr. Trainer said his new aide will be "particularly helpful in our key interests of environmental education and securing accreditation for our forestry major."

TRANSITION

ROBERT T. ANDERSON, associate professor of geography, relinquishing chairmanship of the geography department to return to fulltime teaching at the UW-SP. Currently in his 20th year on the UW-SP faculty, Anderson will be succeeded as chairman by Dr. David Lawrence Smith, formerly on the faculty of Portland State University in Oregon.

EUGENE N. BRODHAGEN, retiring as chairman of the health, physical education and recreation department to return to fulltime teaching within the department. Under Brodhagen, the UW-SP developed a strong emphasis on women's physical education.

DR. MONICA E. BAIN-TER, professor of physics, returned to full-time teaching this fall after retiring from the post of chairman of the physics department, a position she held since '59. A member of the physics faculty since '47, Dr. Bainter led the development of the 10 member department which is recognized as one of the outstanding physics departments in the state.

RETIREMENT

DR. WARREN GARD JENKINS, professor of history and former dean of the College of Letters and Science, has retired after 38 years as a member of the UW-SP faculty.

In 1970 Dr. Jenkins stepped down as dean of the largest college within the university, and for the past several years has devoted all of his time to history teaching. Granted the title "dean emeritus," Dr. Jenkins, who was a prime mover in theater activities in the early years of the University, is the namesake of the Warren Gard Jenkins Theater located in the Fine Arts building.

Come to Life!

MAPPING STRATEGY . . . Mrs. Barbara Farlow, Miss Sue Schrup, and Mms. Loretta Wyhuske, Susan Kramer and Jean Lange review plans for the third annual Continuing Education Day for Women. This year's theme is "Come to Life," and zeroes in on emerging, often conflicting alternate lifestyles and options open to women today.

A costume quick-change artist with a gift for developing a "new" you; two professors with thoughts on how to grow old gracefully, and the ins and outs of everyday drugs and their effects on our lives; and a contemporary Catholic priest with concrete suggestions on female freedom in the '70s are the seminar speakers slated for the third annual Continuing Education Day for Women on Saturday, March 31.

Over 200 women are expected to "Come to Life" at the popular annual event, which was started three years ago by interested community women, and has been co-sponsored each year by the UW-SP Alumni Association and the Office of Extended Services.

The keynote speaker is Mrs. Eleanor Driver, who through her work at the Oakland (Mich.) University Continuum Center, has assisted hundreds of women in assessing their own capabilities, expectations and goals, and has suggested realistic paths to alternate lifestyles, or growing within the framework of one's own circumstances and lifestyle.

This year's Planning Committee is comprised of Miss Sue Schrup, Mrs. Loretta Wyhuske and Mrs. Jean Lange. Mrs. Barbara Farlow and Mrs. Susan Kramer, whose offices of Extended Services and Alumni Association co-sponsor the event, assist with administrative help.

For a free brochure which lists the day's itinerary in detail, write: Continuing Education Day for Women, Room 256, Main, UW-Stevens Point, Wis. 54481.

Natural Resources Banquet

His department's role in the state-wide fight against pollution will be the topic of main speaker Attorney General Robert Warren at the annual Natural Resources Student Recognition Banquet, slated for Saturday, Feb. 17.

The banquet is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the Wisconsin Room of the University Center. Tickets are available at $3.75 per person. Students may use their meal tickets towards the special student rate of $2.75 per ticket. Tickets can be reserved and held at the door, or sent direct to the purchaser by writing: Banquet Tickets, College of Natural Resources, Nelson Hall, UW-Stevens Point, Wis. 54481. The deadline is Monday, Feb. 12.

A final farewell to . . .

"The Ambassador of Goodwill"

Voices Raised in Song . . . through the years over 700 young men sang with the Glee Club. Pictured is the 1955 Glee Club in front of Nelson Hall, on the Club's 20th anniversary.

Norman E. Knutzen

The diminutive, soft-spoken, silver-haired gentleman who for 34 years on campus served as the director and motivating force of the Men's Glee Club, Norman E. Knutzen, 79, died May 26 at St. Michael's Hospital, Stevens Point, following a brief illness.

Mr. Knutzen, whose name is synonymous with the Glee Club which he organized and founded in 1933, almost singlehandedly developed and guided the popular singing group which came to be known throughout Wisconsin as the University's "Ambassadors of Goodwill."

Through the years, the Glee Club made more than 375 appearances throughout the country under Mr. Knutzen's baton. A voluntary organization, for which no course credit was given, the Glee Club nonetheless attracted over 700 young men to its total ranks.

In 1960 the Glee Club celebrated its 25th anniversary with a tour and trip to Florida. The Glee Club was inactive only once in its illustrious history, during the war years, from 1942-45.

A native of Manitowoc, Norman Knutzen came to the UW-Stevens Point as a student in 1911, and returned to his alma mater in 1931 as an instructor of English. His courses were popular with students, especially his course in works by Midwestern writers, which touched on the folklore of the region.

A lover of nature and the outdoors, he maintained a summer cottage at Pike Lake in eastern Marathon County, and during the winter months he lived with his cousin, Herbert Holm, in Tigerton.

Norman E. Knutzen Scholarship

In tribute to the man who devoted so much of his time and energies over the years to the development and continuation of the university Men's Glee Club, and in recognition of the encouragement and assistance he offered his students both in and out of the classroom, a scholarship has been established in Mr. Knutzen's name. Alumni, faculty and friends who wish to contribute to the scholarship fund may make their checks payable to: Norman E. Knutzen Scholarship, c/o the UW-SP Alumni Association.

A Milestone . . . Gilbert Busch (left), the Glee Club's first president (1934-35), and Rudy Horn, then current president, congratulate Glee Club director Mr. Knutzen at the 15th anniversary celebration of the Men's Glee Club in 1950.

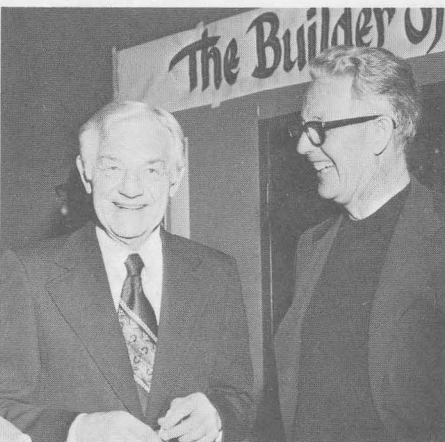

A Singular Honor . . . In 1960 the UW-SP students paid tribute to the popular retired professor, and dedicated Winter Carnival to Mr. Knutzen, who is shown lighting the torch which traditionally signals the start of the weeklong campus celebration.

UW-SP Rolls Out The Red Ca

A WAVE FOR FRIENDS AND FANS . . . from Kotal, who served as honorary parade marshal, his wife, "Hank," and from Paul "Tank" Younger, official representative of the L. A. Rams, for whom Kotal scouted until his recent retirement.

EDDIE GREETED his former players at the morning alumni reception following the parade. That's Waldo "Jug" Marsh, a member of the championship '32-'33 basketball team with him.

THAT 'OL GANG OF MINE? Pat Vaughn, Frank Klement and George Staffon share a laugh at the alumni morning registration following the parade.

It was the biggest back-slapping, hand-pumping, tears-in-the-eyes, lumps-in-the-throat sentimental reunion ever.

Everyone was welcome, but the Homecoming '72 weekend Sept. 29 - Oct. 1 obviously belonged to former UW-SP Coach Eddie Kotal and his "boys" — athletes of the 30's and 40's who, under Kotal's tutelage, brought eight championship football and basketball crowns to then little-known Central State Teachers College at Stevens Point.

Unchanged, except for snow-white hair, Kotal welcomed back his athletes at an informal beer 'n brats get-together Friday evening at Bukolt Park. With a delighted "Hello, Jack!" or "My Lord, is it really you, --!", Kotal would grab first one, then another by the shoulder, as his former players pressed forward, crowding around, eager to say hello and shake his hand. One and all, they loved it! The same mysterious charisma that spurred them on to give their all on a football field or basketball court 30 years ago was still there, and from the smiles and grins that lit their faces, it was easy to tell the trip back to Stevens Point for these men was worth everything.

Saturday dawned bright and glorious, proving Chancellor Dreyfus' oft-repeated maxim that at Homecoming "God is German" and supplies sunny weather for the parade. The weather was brisker at halftime of the Homecoming game against UW - La Crosse. It was an emotional moment for Kotal and his former athletes as they strode onto Goerke Field, where they were honored in special ceremonies. Only the Pointer team was unable to add to the luster of the day, as they were defeated on the field 41-6, by the La Crosse Indians.

But all was merely prelude to the banquet Saturday evening at the Holiday Inn. Alumni "S" Club President Dick Berndt served as master of ceremonies; he introduced Black athlete Paul "Tank" Younger of the L. A. Rams, whom Kotal scouted years before, and Dominic Olejniczak, President of the Green Bay Packers, for whom Kotal played football, and later served as a scout.

In the packed room before an overflow crowd of 425 people, Eddie Kotal was inducted into the Alumni "S" Club Hall of Fame by Berndt. His eyes suspiciously moist and his prepared speech a blur before him, Kotal stood, acknowledging the standing ovation that seemed to go on and on.

A living legend, some said. A man who would do anything for his players, a winner, the very first to recruit and encourage Black athletes, and considered to be the father of modern scouting methods.

Eddie Kotal, the "Builder of Champions" had come home.

FIVE YEARS OF SERVICE as president and chancellor of the University of Wisconsin — Stevens Point were celebrated by Chancellor Lee Sherman Dreyfus, shown here with Mrs. Dreyfus, at a student reception honoring the Chancellor the Friday before Homecoming.

Carpet for Eddie And His "Boys"

AT NOON, Eddie Kotal and his alumni athletes met in front of Old Main, where game tickets were distributed, and they walked as a group to Goerke Field for the Homecoming game.

EDDIE KOTAL, A "BUILDER OF CHAMPIONS" during his tenure as a coach at the University of Wisconsin — Stevens Point from 1931-1942, displays the plaque which marked his enshrinement into the Pointer Athletic Hall of Fame Saturday night. With Kotal at left is Dick Berndt, president of the Pointer Alumni "S" Club.

THE ODDS PILED UP, and soon it was evident La Crosse would win the Homecoming Game. Nonetheless a special section reserved for returning Kotalmen at the game was packed with loyal — but unbelievable! — alumni.

EDDIE AND HANK KOTAL greet old friends and former players following the banquet.

THE EDDIE KOTAL SCHOLARSHIP FUND was announced during the banquet by Louie Drobnick, chairman of the special Eddie Kotal Homecoming Committee which arranged the tribute to Coach Kotal.

Jeanette Fierek

JEANETTE FIEREK, a civil service employee working for the U. S. Air Force, manages to "keep her itching feet pretty well scratched" in an unusual way.

Jeanette, whose title is Education Services Officer, is responsible for the operation of the Air Force on-base education programs which include remedial, elementary and high school training, as well as degree granting programs, both graduate and undergraduate, for all military personnel.

Jeanette's 23 years civil service career has taken her to Korea, Japan, Greenland, England, Labrador, and Guam, with March AFB, Calif., as her "home base." In November '68 Jeanette went to Tan Son Nhut Air Base, Saigon, to establish an education program. Jeanette was in Saigon two years developing the program, which is similar to stateside education offerings, except for graduate work. It was not practical to offer graduate work, due to the shortness of the military tour.

The degree of military participation in Air Force education offerings is high, Jeanette reports, and every year hundreds of military personnel earn diplomas and degrees through this off-duty or on-duty study.

RIVALS HIT THE MAT
WHEN "FOGHORN" BILL
CARNAHAN COACHES

William Carnahan

A man who prides himself on not owning a coach's whistle because of, as he puts it, his "foghorn voice," William Carnahan '46 is making waves in wrestling circles.

Bill, who has been head wrestling coach for four years, and head baseball coach for two years at Northland College, is close to becoming a member of the 100-win Wrestling Coaches circle.

His overall record as a wrestling coach is 98-39-1, and his record at Northland, where he has been on the staff since 1968, is 37-21-1. His wrestling coaching efforts paid off last March when Northland student Barry Casper captured the NAIA national crown in Klamath Falls, Oregon.

A former outstanding athlete himself, Bill lettered four years in football and three in basketball at Stevens Point, and was football captain his senior year. During his sophomore year he was a member of the Stevens Point basketball team that went to the NAIA tournament in Kansas City, Kan.

Bill, a widower, has four teen-age children. In addition to his coaching duties, he found time to help organize the Ashland Little League in '58, and has served as its president since 1965.

Mr. Knutzen's enthusiasm for the outdoor life and local folklore were a source of inspiration to more than one student. One of his students who hit the big time is Ted Olsen '55, who took a course in creative writing from Mr. Knutzen.

Olsen, also an advocate of the simple life who does his writing at a cottage in Rhinelander, wrote "The Stalking Moon," which was adapted into a movie starring Gregory Peck and Eva Saint Marie. His book "Arrow in the Sun" was also made into a movie, "Soldier Blue." In an interview two years ago, Olsen gave credit to Mr. Knutzen, and considers him a catalyst in encouraging his literary efforts.

During his retirement, Mr. Knutzen enjoyed painting and his love for nature is evident in the water-color sketches which hang throughout the country in the homes of friends and former students.

At the time of his death, he was still involved in special projects for the Alumni Association, and he often accompanied the Director of Alumni, Rick Frederick, to state and area WEA and NWEA meetings, greeting alumni in the teaching profession.

Mr. Knutzen, who never married, is survived by one brother, Edwin, Seattle, Wash.; a sister-in-law at King; and several cousins.

ALUMNUS

fall/winter 1972

SHOWING OFF Sara Munn (left) and Mary Schaefer, coeds who work parttime in the Alumni office, pose in the recently redecorated director's office reception and conference area, which is done in an eye-popping purple and gold color scheme. Items for sale on the display shelf include coffee mugs, letter openers and beverage glasses, all of which bear the crest of the University. A price list is available upon request from the Alumni office.
