

A POINTER ALUMNUS

FALL 1993

Mary Sipiorski

Quilt commemorates centennial

A focal point of UW-SP's centennial celebration will be an originally designed, hand-sewn quilt representing the institution and its programs.

Designed by Mary Sipiorski, a university staff member, and constructed by Sipiorski and the Friendship Star Quilters, the quilt was unveiled July 21 at the campus party celebrating the 100th anniversary of the Board of Regent's selection of Stevens Point to be the home of the state's sixth State Normal School.

Beginning with a modest $200 worth of fabric, the quilt evolved over a 12-month period into a work of art worth many times that amount.

The designer says the UW-SP model differs significantly from other commemorative quilts, which usually consist of small appliqued "picture" blocks sewn together. "Our quilt not only incorporates the UW-SP logo as the centerpiece, but the design uses traditional pieced patterns to symbolize the spirit of the university and its mission," she says. It is completely hand quilted with approximately 12-14 stitches to the inch.

Measuring 90 by 90 inches, the quilt incorporates an earthy palette of reds, greens, browns and purples. The back is a leafy fern print in a dull green which was chosen to blend, not clash, with the many colors of thread used in the stitching. Sipiorski thought purple should be used as a main shade since it is one of the university's official colors (the other is gold) and the complementary earth tones would be appropriate because of the reputation of UW-SP's natural resources curriculum.

Representing graduate programs, multihued mortarboards form the top and bottom borders. Tall dark-green pine trees framing the sides symbolize the City of Stevens Point, "Gateway to the Pineries," the institution's forestry major, and its internationally known environmental programs. The corner "Schoolhouse" blocks indicate the university's four colleges. All of the other blocks are traditional patterns such as "Bear's Paw," "Baby Blocks," "Pieced Iris," "Wisconsin," and 12 others, which are symbolic of various university programs. "Parquet Star," a design by professional quilter and published author Pat

Brooks Gaska, an alumna of UW-SP, has been used to represent the Department of Art and Design.

It took Sipiorski about six weeks to applique the center logo using a reverse process in which she cut away a top layer of fabric to expose another color of cloth underneath. The applique is an exact, super-sized replica of the UW-SP logo, originally designed by Katherine Vollmer, a graphic artist and colleague in the Office of News and Publications.

The quilt will be exhibited with a large poster explaining its history and significance at centennial functions, reunions, homecoming and other gatherings. It also may embark on a traveling itinerary before it is permanently installed on campus.

Sipiorski and her sister quilters plan to enter it in several shows, including ones in Wausau, Oshkosh and a prominent national juried exhibition in Paducah, Ky.

A fabric "dedication certificate" was signed by all 15 of the artists and sewn onto the back. ■

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-STEVENS POINT
ALUMNI RELATIONS
212 OLD MAIN
STEVENS POINT, WI 54481-3897

ADDRESS CORRECTION REQUESTED

Parents: If this issue is addressed to your son or daughter who no longer lives at home, please notify the UW-Stevens Point Alumni Association of the correct mailing address.

Nonprofit Organization

U. S. POSTAGE

PAID

STEVENS POINT, WIS.
PERMIT NO. 19

News

Working to meet public trust

By Chancellor Keith Sanders

The 1993 Governor's Task Force on University of Wisconsin Accountability recommended that UW campuses report to the public on progress in several crucial areas. One of the most important of these "accountability markers" was the "stewardship of assets," that is, the university's responsible use of the resources available to it. I would like to take this opportunity to describe two UW-Stevens Point successes in demonstrating our commitment to meeting the public trust in spending precious taxpayer and tuition dollars.

First, we have emulated the business and industrial community by reorganizing our executive office and other campus units to realize administrative costs savings. The Chancellor's and Affirmative Action offices have gone from 7.5 to 5.5 full-time employees, while the four line administrators reporting to the Chancellor have been reduced to three. These changes resulted in administrative cost savings of approximately $170,000 annually.

Recently, we conducted a study of faculty time assigned to administrative functions during the years 1975-76 and 1992-93. We discovered that in 1976, a total of 30 full-time equivalent (FTE) positions were assigned to this purpose. In 1993, this number had dropped to just over 26 FTEs. This reduction in administrative assignments not only resulted in more classroom time for our faculty but lowered administrative costs by over $120,000 annually. And the belt-tightening occurred during a period when our full-time student enrollment increased from 7,555 to 7,827.

A second example of UW-SP's "stewardship of assets" is in our responsible use of capital dollars to improve the campus environment over the past three biennia. During this period, capital expenditures at UW-SP have more than doubled. The benefits of these dollars can be seen in the university's new Health Enhancement Center, in residence hall renovations, in the new pedestrian mall constructed this summer and in the Science Building project scheduled to begin in May 1994. The most significant achievement during 1992-93 was in moving forward on obtaining approval to proceed with a nearly $11 million expansion of our College of Natural Resources. When our alumni visit their alma mater in the future, they will be impressed by the up-to-date facilities and attractive appearance of the campus. UW-SP grounds crews have transformed the environment through their landscaping and gardening, to complement the newly-constructed and renovated buildings. During this biennium alone, UW-SP will spend more than $17 million on renovations, buildings, and grounds.

While we are proud of these gains and our record as good stewards of available resources, the hard fact remains that in four of the last five years, the university's budget has shrunk in the face of inflation. This is one reason why support from our alumni is increasingly significant and valued. On September 10, 1993, the UW Board of Regents approved the appointment of Dr. Mark Boyce as our university's first endowed chair: The Dorothy Kopmeier Vallier Chair of Quantitative Ecology. Professor Boyce is eminently qualified for this special post and both UW-SP faculty/students and the State of Wisconsin are fortunate to benefit from his unquestioned expertise and experience in an important natural resources specialty. But we would have been unable to recruit and employ a person of Dr. Boyce's caliber without the largesse of such generous benefactors as Jacque and Dory Vallier, who donated much of the support needed to pay for the chairship.

Keith Sanders

During our 1994 centennial year, we are counting on the loyalty of all of the institution's friends and alumni, to help us meet the challenges ahead—to remain good "stewards of our assets," and, at the same time, to continue to grow as a quality institution of higher learning through the generosity of our university family. ■

Lee Burress, crusader against censorship, dies at 75

Lee A. Burress, 75, retired professor of English at UW-SP and a national leader in crusades against school censorship, died March 28. He had been ill with cancer less than a month.

A memorial service was at St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

"He was one of the most knowledgeable persons I knew in this country about censorship in public schools, and he was a keen observer of how important the free marketplace of ideas is, particularly in schools," according to Eunice Edgar, Milwaukee, recently retired executive director of the Wisconsin Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Edgar said Burress was called upon many times to assist her organization in "First Amendment issues," adding: "Aside from all that, he was a really nice man, a fine person."

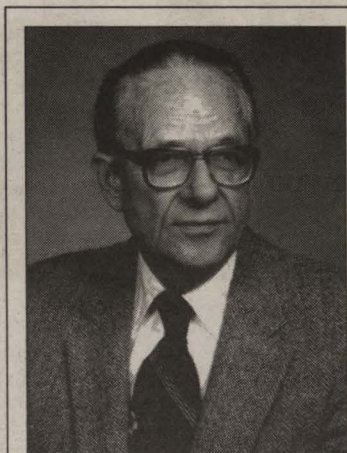

The professor conducted several national surveys to determine the extent of censorship in American schools, learning in later ones that the problem was on the rise. He then broadcast his findings via many professional journals, newspapers, books and speeches. The latest manuscript he authored is scheduled to be published this fall under the title "Critical Essays: Censored Books."

Whenever school librarians or teachers became embroiled in censorship issues anywhere in the United States, Burress usually got involved as well. His last skirmish was on local turf. In the Stevens Point School District during the past winter, he strongly defended use in the classroom of the book "Anastasia Krupnick," to which some parents and others objected.

Several years ago, he told a reporter: "Censors tend to read very selectively. They will object to a passage or a few words ... and ignore the main ideas of the book."

Hazel Koskenlinna, a retired professor and former chair of the Department of English at the local university, said Burress' work gave prestige to UW-SP and enhanced its reputation nationally.

"UW-SP became known as one of the leading institutions in that field (the study of censorship issues)," Koskenlinna added.

Lee A. Burress

Besides the ACLU, for which he currently was serving as a state trustee, Burress had worked on problems of censorship and freedom of expression within the National and State Councils of Teachers of English and the Wisconsin Intellectual Freedom Coalition.

Though serious-minded about his efforts, he cited one amusing incident among his battles when a farmer from Ohio called, polite in manner and gentle in sound, asking for assistance in a library controversy at his daughter's school library. The farmer said he had been told that Burress was the national chairman of a censorship committee and might be willing to help get rid of the publication.

The importance of Burress' work was recognized by others in his lifetime. Three years ago, the state

ACLU named him "one of Wisconsin's most courageous and consistent anti-censorship advocates."

The organization called attention to the fact Burress was unafraid of being heard on unpopular issues, noting that about 25 years earlier, he was one of only four people in Wisconsin who testified to legislators against a proposed anti-obscenity bill. Jurists later ruled it unconstitutional. More recently, Burress testified against other proposed anti-obscenity legislation and a University of Wisconsin System regulation calling for punishment for those using racist and sexist language.

What attracted Burress to the censorship fray? He told a reporter several years ago that as a young college teacher in Kansas, he became aware that his representative in the U.S. Congress was a member of a committee advocating establishment of a federal censorship board. Burress spoke out against the plan and wrote a letter to the editor that was published in the Emporia Gazette. When he left his job and came to Stevens Point, he was told there were several responses to the letter in the forms of calls to the college president to have Burress fired.

The professor served on the UW-SP faculty between 1958 and his retirement in 1988, and was one of the architects of several academic programs during his career. He was chair of the Department of English for his first 10 years here.

He was appointed to help develop the master's degree graduate program within the former Wisconsin State College System, and at his own campus as well. He also served on the first committee that successfully sought from the Legislature and then allocated monies at the state colleges for faculty research. Burress was the first chair of the UW-SP Peace Studies Program and an innovator in curriculum development who started several new courses, including one in folklore.

When, in 1963, the student government initiated a system of giving awards to faculty members for effective teaching, he was the first recipient.

The Kansas native held degrees from Wichita State University, the University of Kansas and Boston University, where he was granted a Ph.D. He also held a degree from the Garrett Theological Seminary and spent several years as a Methodist minister as a young man.

He began his career as a teacher of English, philosophy and psychology at Wichita State in 1946. Also in Kansas, he served on the faculties of Southwestern College in Winfield and the College of Emporia. During his tenure in Stevens Point, he took leaves of absence to serve a year in 1968-69 as a faculty member and administrator at the new Federal City College in Washington, D.C., now the University of the District of Columbia, and from 1971 to 1973 as dean of liberal arts at Fairleigh Dickinson University in Teaneck, N.J.

As an advocate for issues concerning faculty, he served as state president of the organization now known as The Association of University of Wisconsin Professionals.

Besides the recognition he received from the ACLU, Burress was the 1980 winner of the Chisholm Award from the Wisconsin Council of Teachers of English for meritorious service to his profession. He was one of the charter members and organizers of the council. In 1985, he received the Special Service Award from the Wisconsin Library Association for service to library professionals. Upon his death, friends established the Lee A. Burress Intellectual Freedom Award in his memory. Recipients are to be honored for demonstrating a strong commitment to intellectual freedom. A fund to support the award has been established in the UW-SP Foundation Office in Old Main.

Burress is survived by his wife, Maxine, three sons, three grandchildren and a sister. ■

Flowers adorn historic Old Main, the university's oldest building.

Meeting facility renamed for Melvin Laird

The name of Melvin R. Laird is now being used to identify one of the most heavily used facilities at UW-SP.

Permanent recognition of the Marshfield native and longtime state and federal government official is in what previously was the Program Banquet Room of the University Center.

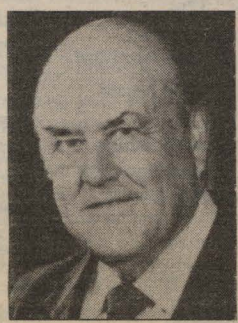

The Melvin R. Laird Room is in the newest section of the building, which was constructed in 1974, and accommodates more than 400 people.

The UW System Board of Regents authorized the tribute on a request from the UW-SP Campus Facilities Naming Advisory Committee.

Chancellor Keith Sanders said the idea of naming something for Laird was expressed after several people on campus sought ways to provide a special acknowledgement of the former U.S. representative and cabinet member's "generous support" of students here.

Since 1965, Laird has sponsored biennial youth leadership programs at UW-SP, each attracting nearly 300 high school juniors and seniors from the Seventh Congressional District, which he represented in Washington for many years. Some of the top people in government have been speakers for the daylong event, including former President Gerald Ford, former Secretaries of State Henry Kissinger and Lawrence Eagleburger, and many Secretaries of Education.

Melvin R. Laird

An endowment has been established to support the leadership days in perpetuity, and also to support scholarships at UW-SP for top students from this part of the state.

The chancellor called Laird a "distinguished national leader and one of the most influential Americans from Wisconsin."

The honoree was a member of the Wisconsin State Senate from 1946 to 1952; then as 7th District Congressman for 16 years, rising to the post of Chairman of the Republican House Minority; U. S. Secretary of Defense from 1969 to 1973, helping draft plans during that period to end the nation's involvement in the Vietnam War; and as Domestic Adviser to President Richard Nixon from 1973 to 1974. Since leaving government service, he has been senior counselor for national and international affairs for The Reader's Digest Association in Washington, D.C.. ■

Fritschel, retired dean, dies

Arthur Fritschel, 74, first dean of the College of Professional Studies at UW-SP and a former member of the Stevens Point Board of Education, died in his sleep Sept. 28 at his home in Stevens Point.

A memorial service was held at Trinity Lutheran Church.

He currently was serving as chairman of the board of St. Michael's Hospital and until recently had been director of the Grenadiers, a band for senior citizens. A longtime Rotarian, he was a former president of the local club and past district governor. He was active in affairs of Trinity Lutheran Church and served as president of the parish. His tenure on the Board of Education was from 1982 to 1985.

Mr. Fritschel came to UW-SP in 1970 as head of the College of Education, but it was reorganized shortly thereafter, and the programs in communicative disorders, health-physical education-recreation-athletics, home economics, medical technology and military science also were placed under his administrative aegis.

Don Amiot, former director of athletics here who now holds the same position at Mankato State University in Minnesota, remembered Fritschel as one who "always supported our plans and concepts but was firm in his decisions." The dean believed a hockey program here could be successful and promoted its establishment. It has since won four national championships.

Arthur Fritschel

Fritschel remained as dean until he retired from the university in 1985. He had spent a total of 45 years in the field of education.

He was born Sept. 27, 1919 in Minneapolis to the Rev. Theophilus and Else Fritschel. He received bachelor's and doctorate degrees from the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley and a master's degree from Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill.

He began his career in 1940 at the high school in Bennett, Colo., as principal, teacher, band instructor, football and basketball coach. He later served as vocal and instrumental director, football coach and acting principal and superintendent at Kimball County High School in Nebraska, and as band director at Estherville, Iowa and Kewaunee, Ill.

From 1946 to 1967, Fritschel was on the faculty at Western Illinois University in Macomb, rising to the position of chair of the education department. He then was vice president for academic affairs for three years at Northeast Missouri State University in Kirksville, before coming to Stevens Point.

After his retirement, Fritschel remained active in numerous education groups and was honored in 1989 by the local chapter of Phi Delta Kappa for outstanding contributions to the organization and the field of education.

Fritschel was married June 6, 1943, to Betty Reader in Kimball, Neb. They celebrated their golden wedding this summer.

Survivors besides his wife are two sons, Larry E. (Karen), Stowe, Ohio, and Allen E. (Joan), West Bend; two daughters, the Rev. Ann L., Atlanta, Ga., and Barbara L., Beaumont, Texas; five grandchildren; and one brother, the Rev. Edward Fritschel of Mount Vernon, Wash. ■

Robert F. Froehlke

Froehlke teaching management class

Fifteen students at UW-SP are spending part of the fall semester discussing management issues with a business executive who has headed two large insurance companies, an investment company and the U.S. Army.

Robert F. Froehlke is teaching a one-credit seminar course entitled "Managing and Leading Ethically in the '90s."

"We feel like somebody who stumbled into a chest of valuables," said James Haine, head of the Division of Business and Economics, in which Froehlke's class will be offered. Not all of the students accepted for the seminar class are business majors, Haine noted.

Haine said Chancellor Keith Sanders was instrumental in arranging for the longtime business leader's new link with UW-SP. "He piqued his interest about teaching," Haine said of the chancellor's salesmanship.

Froehlke is a Marshfield native who now spends considerable time in the Waupaca area, where he has a lake home. An attorney, he had a long affiliation with Sentry Insurance in Stevens Point and rose to the company presidency.

He was Secretary of the Army from 1971 to 1973, president of the Health Insurance Association of America and the American Council of Life Insurance, chairman of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S. and, until this year, president and CEO of IDS Mutual Fund Group in Minneapolis.

"This is really a great opportunity for our students," the division leader emphasized, adding: "Mr. Froehlke has some experiences of leadership and views of management issues that are very valuable for our students to have access to."

Haine announced that his division is interested in attracting more "distinguished" business leaders with different points of view who also could do specialized teaching. ■

Discrimination/harassment cases settled in favor of UW-SP

The last of nine sex discrimination/harassment cases filed against UW-SP has been settled in favor of the institution, it was learned on Sept. 3.

"We're gratified that the dark cloud which these false allegations created has now passed," observed Chancellor Keith Sanders.

The ruling was the ninth consecutive one favorable to UW-SP in as many cases. The Personnel Commission adjudicated seven cases, and two went to Federal Court in Madison, where a jury rejected a former student's allegations against former Assistant Chancellor Fred Leafgren. A mistrial was ruled in the other case and the complaint was dismissed with prejudice by Judge John Shabaz.

Sanders said seven cases were investigated on campus by a faculty/staff committee and the findings "have been substantially corroborated by the court decisions." ■

About this Publication

The Pointer Alumnus
Circulation, 39,000

The University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point practices equal opportunity, affirmative action policies.

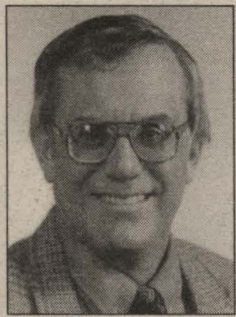

Editor
John Anderson

Associate Editors
Sarah Clanton
Marilyn Thompson

Computer Design and Layout
Katherine Vollmer

Photography
Michael Brisson
Dennis Chapman
Douglas Moore

Staff Assistants
Virginia Crandell
Elizabeth Schwerbel
Mary Sipiorski
Mark Gillette

William Skelton

That is the first question a UW-SP professor received from military officials after the recent release of his book, "An American Profession of Arms—The Army Officers Corps, 1784-1861."

William Skelton, professor of history, said that despite extensive research on the first 77 years of the officer corps, he did not uncover a single mention of homosexual behavior in that group.

The inquiry came from an official at the Center for Military History at the Army War College in Carlisle, Pa.

He recalls finding an entry in one journal to a disciplinary action taken against a man for behavior described as being so unacceptable that any knowledge of it would be of great embarrassment to members the soldier's family. Whether it was a reference to homosexuality could only be conjecture, Skelton explained.

If there would have been anything on the subject, Skelton suspects he would have found it because he pored over so much material in his 25 years of research for the book. In fact, one of his greatest prides in his work is its "comprehensiveness."

Fellow scholar/authors in the area of military history go a step beyond Skelton's appraisal.

Richard Kohn of the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, refers to the work as "immediately indispensable for understanding the military profession in America." Edward Coffman of UW-Madison and Peter Karsten of the University of Pittsburgh both called it "definitive."

The professor said he was motivated to develop his manuscript because historians have given little attention to the profession of arms during the nation's formative years. "Only a few studies have focused on the internal history of the officers corps, its relationship to the civilian world and the process of professionalization." He concluded that the emergence of a stable profession of arms occurred between the War of 1812 and the Civil War, which resulted in a significant rise in the number of career soldiers.

The book makes a case that the Army as a profession emerged earlier than was previously thought.

'School of Year' award honors dorm programs

UW-SP is the winner of the "School of the Year Award" from the state's United Residence Hall Association.

The university was cited for excellence in the programs it has arranged for students who live in campus housing facilities, for its efforts to promote leadership development among its residents, community service work by hall residents and successes achieved linking residence hall organizations with other campus groups.

A plaque was presented to representatives of the school at a state meeting in Eau Claire in March.

The organization that sponsors the annual recognition is comprised of residence hall and dormitory professionals and student leaders in public and private colleges and universities in Wisconsin.

Heidi Mostofi, Appleton, the student who submitted an award nomination in behalf of UW-SP, noted that students have taken an active part in recent renovations of several halls. They have selected carpeting for rooms, tile for bathrooms and, with help from interior design majors, have suggested floor plans, she said. A new residence hall self-government system also has been developed. Mostofi cited the quality of the programs that have been planned for hall residents and the success in getting a large percentage of students to the polls for the presidential election in 1992.

UW-SP has won several awards through the years for the quality of its residence hall program. About a decade ago, heads of housing programs across the United States voted the program the best one in the country. About 3,000 UW-SP students reside in 13 halls on campus. ■

Military book called 'definitive'

Do early United States government records contain references to gay soldiers?

An even greater surprise to the author was the revelation in research that early Army officers were more sympathetic to Indian causes and concerns than is generally believed today. Frontiersmen were more the problem in stirring ill will between white and Native American populations than military men, he learned.

However, Skelton concluded that soldiers "could be absolutely brutal" when they became involved in military action against the Indians.

One of the most enormous tasks pursued by Skelton was to take lists of officers from four different times in history and develop a biography on each person.

He was particularly interested in examining any data that would reflect how men got into the officers corps, the extent of their education and training, and even their family backgrounds, including their fathers' occupations.

The officers corps was tiny in 1786, with 38 members. By 1797 it had grown to 200, by 1830 it was 500, and by 1860 the number was 1,100.

Skelton realized in the course of his research that UW-Stevens Point has an unusually complete collection of government documents in its library, thanks to the work of several past documents specialists. The National Archives and Library of Congress provided much of the material for the professor's book, but he said he was impressed by how much data could be gathered locally.

The book is Skelton's first and is an outgrowth of his doctoral dissertation from Northwestern University. He has been on UW-SP's history faculty since 1969. ■

Faust heads alumni group

Gordon Faust of Waunakee is the new president of the UW-SP Alumni Association, an organization comprised of approximately 45,000 school graduates.

He succeeds Judi Stout Carlson of Stevens Point.

Faust, who received his bachelor's degree from UW-SP in 1958, is retired after 34 years of service to the state Department of Transportation. He now is employed as a real estate manager for S.E.C. Donohue Inc. of Madison.

The new association president-elect is Chet Polka, class of 1952, who recently retired as audiovisual services director for the Berlin School System. Diane Engelhard, class of 1986 and director of alumni relations for UW-Milwaukee, is the new vice president.

The association has four new members of its board. They are Mary Hermanson, class of 1977, Germantown; Robert Spoerl, class of 1982, Waupaca; Wanda Bembenek, class of 1976, Stevens Point; and Gordon Malick, class of 1966, Plymouth, Minn. ■

Forestry group renews accreditation at UW-SP

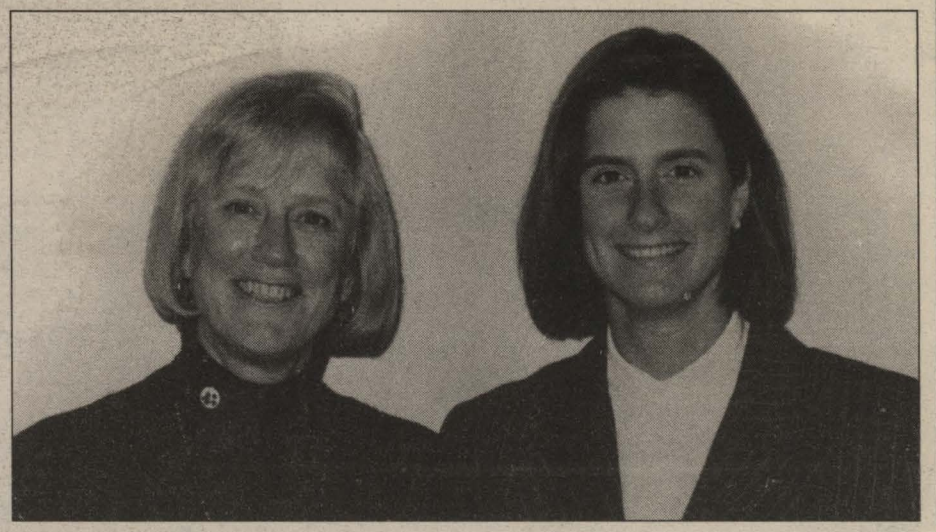

The Society of American Foresters has renewed its accreditation of undergraduate forestry offerings at UW-SP.

SAF president William Barton wrote to the institution that the endorsement covers bachelor of science degree options in forest management, forest administration, urban forestry and forest recreation.

Forestry is one of the major components in the College of Natural Resources. SAF is the specialized accrediting body recognized by the Council on Postsecondary Accreditation and the U.S. Department of Education.

After beginning the accreditation process in 1971, the examiners recommended that increases be made in curriculum coverage in the areas of policy and administration. The examiners acknowledged that those requirements are now met.

In addition, the program's faculty was commended for advancing its philosophy of integrating subjects to impress upon students, for example, the ways in which soils affect forestry and so forth. ■

Karen and Diane Engelhard

Mother-daughter alumni directors—a rare combination

Diane Engelhard, class of 1986, was in the sixth grade when she began training for her present position as director of alumni relations at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

That was in 1976, and it was when her mother, Karen Engelhard, was appointed director of alumni relations at UW-SP.

Less than a decade out of college, Diane is young for such a high-level position. But she brought unique credentials to her interview. She grew up in a university setting. Besides her mother's tie to the campus, her father taught forestry at UW-SP for 25 years until his retirement two years ago.

"I had no idea how much I was learning from my Mom and Dad (about her future job) at the dinner table each night," Diane says.

She recalls that it was interesting to hear her parents discuss alumni matters from the perspective of someone in the school's administration versus someone on the faculty.

"I'm not an expert, but I'm related to an expert," Diane says of her mother.

Diane worked in public relations positions before joining UW-Milwaukee two years ago. First she was coordinator of the constituent and corporate clubs, next as acting director of alumni relations and since last December, as director.

The mother-daughter duo is the only such twosome in the Lake States region of their professional organization, the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE). And they know of no other such team anywhere else in the country.

In their frequent conversations about alumni programs and problems, Karen says one of the things she has impressed upon Diane is the importance of being active in a professional group such as CASE.

Diane says she was interested in following in her mother's line of employment because "it was always obvious to me how much she liked what she was doing."

In their conversations, mother says she always wants to give daughter her best advice "because I want her to be successful (of course I know she will be)." Daughter says, "I always feel I can discuss things with my mother that I am not always sure I can discuss with colleagues."

Diane gets experience for her job from her continued role at UW-SP as a fourth-year member on the board of the alumni association coordinated by her mother.

Karen says she is proud Diane's job is already larger than her mother's. Karen heads a three-member staff for 40,000 graduates at UW-SP. Diane heads a five-member staff for 60,000 alumni. ■

Two new 'visitors' chosen

The UW-SP's Board of Visitors has two new members, Mary Ellen Boario of Waupaca and Alan J. Caldwell of Neopit.

Their nominations by Chancellor Keith Sanders were confirmed by the UW System Board of Regents.

The board has a total of 18 members, many of whom have been named since the organization was formed in the late 1980s. They are Lorraine Avery-Blair of Plover, Supreme Court Justice William Bablitch of Madison, John Baumgartner of Chicago, C.D. Besadny of Madison, James Crane of Kimberly, Dorothy Davids of Gresham, Frank DeGuire of Milwaukee, Judy Goldsmith of Fond du Lac, William Horvath, Marian Joanis, Edith Kraus, John Regnier, John Roberts and David Worth, all of Stevens Point, Martha Kronholm of Carbondale, Ill., and Jertha Ramos of Milwaukee.

The members function as an advisory body to the chancellor of UW-SP and convene three or four times per year.

The newest members are leaders in their home communities. Boario serves as representative for State Senator Joe Leean and is a member of the Waupaca Board of Education. Caldwell is principal of the Menominee Tribal School in Neopit and an education consultant to the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction. He is a former director of Upward Bound at UW-SP.

Boario and Caldwell succeeded the late Vern Holmes of Stevens Point and Dorothy Vallier of Mequon as 'visitors.' ■

Raymond Stroik

Stroik wins justice, peace commendation

Raymond Stroik, who has worked many years advancing the cause of peace between people of different races, religions and political dogmas, is this year's winner of the Brother James Miller Award.

Stroik, assistant archivist at UW-SP received his recognition in February during a program on campus honoring the life of Brother Miller.

A $1,000 cash prize from the Catholic Diocese of La Crosse is to be designated by the recipient for a peace and justice project. Stroik had asked that his money go to the school in Guatemala that Brother Miller was staffing when he was gunned down by masked assailants in February of 1982.

Stroik has a long list of organizations in which he participates for the sake of justice and peace.

The Stevens Point native who was the second in a family of eight children, believes his meager lifestyle as a young person contributed strongly to his present attitudes.

But it was a professor with few, if any, ties to organized religion who introduced him to the social teachings of the Roman Catholic Church. The late George Dixon, a sociologist at UW-SP, steered Stroik into issues of intellectual history, and in response, the student gave up plans to become an accounting major and pursued instead the study of liberal arts. That was in 1955.

In a recent essay, Stroik wrote: "My quest for social justice and global peace is rooted in a vision of individual liberty which is rooted in social equality and human community"

In describing the purpose of his work, he states: "I seek a faith that does justice, a liturgy that does justice, a community that does justice" As a believer in people working together, he argues: "I remain deeply convinced that I am called to do that which might ultimately eliminate the cause of our many unmet needs: our sense of individualism."

Stroik was graduated from UW-SP in 1957.

After serving in the military during the Korean War and earning master's and Ph.D. degrees from UW-Madison, Stroik spent nine years on the faculty of St. Norbert College in West De Pere. It took little time after he returned to Stevens Point and joined the university staff for him to become involved in social justice ministries.

Stroik has since contributed his expertise to the La Crosse Diocese Campaign for Human Development; the diocesan Justice and Peace Commission, which he has chaired since 1986; the area Nuclear Weapons Freeze Campaign; the Central Wisconsin Peace Coalition; the Portage County Peace in the Americas Committee; and the Overground Railroad of Stevens Point.

He had considerable influence on the formation of a sister-city program that now links Stevens Point with the Russian city of Rostov Veliky. In the 10 intervening years, about 75 people from each of the two cities have visited the others' homelands.

In Stevens Point, Stroik has been involved in forming the Inter-parochial Justice and Peace Committee and the Justice and Peace Committee at St. Peter Parish. He currently is a member of the Justice and Peace Committee at the Newman University Parish. Besides being one of the organizers of the award he received, Stroik also initiated the annual Brother James Miller Day to honor the martyred native of this area.

Perhaps the social activist is best known for his letters to the editor of the Stevens Point Journal. He has penned about 500 of them in the past 18 years. ■

Alumni receiving calls for donations

The annual Traditions in Action fund-raising drive is underway.

Fifteen students have been chosen to serve in phone solicitation positions to contact friends and alumni of UW-SP.

"We are expecting superb results from our student callers this year," said Terri Taylor, director of the annual fund drive, adding: "Each year the quality of the callers gets better and better. We know they will be successful in 'friend' raising as well as fund-raising."

The drive will complement the Centennial Campaign which started this summer under the direction of the UW-SP Foundation with a $5 million goal. The phone solicitation phase, which is identified as Traditions in Action, has a goal of $250,000.

Jeff Vollmer, who directs the phonathon operations said there are fewer callers this year than in the past

A winter scene of the James H. Albertson Learning Resources Center (library) in the hub of the campus.

Goblet collection permanently installed

The Vallier Collection of Early American Pressed Glass Goblets has been permanently installed in the Fine Arts Center at UW-SP.

One of the nation's foremost experts on pressed glass, Kirk Nelson, curator of glass at the Sandwich Glass Museum, Sandwich, Mass., and author of a newly published catalog identifying the top 50 pieces in the UW-SP collection, was a special guest at the installation ceremonies last spring.

Renee Gouaux of Stoughton, former director of the Carlsten Art Gallery and director of the goblet reorganization project, also participated in the opening ceremonies as did Dorothy Vallier of Tomahawk and Mequon. Dorothy and her husband, Jacque, donated the 1,200 pieces of glassware representing most of the pressed goblets manufactured on this continent between 1830 and 1900. The Valliers spent about 15 years accumulating the impressive representation of goblets, which were manufactured by "pressing" hot glass into metal molds of predetermined shapes and patterns.

The project involved many hours of research by Gouaux into the origin of each of the 1,200 pieces, identifying them, arranging the items alphabetically, individually labeling each one, then overseeing the catalog production.

Gouaux wrote the preface and Nelson, after careful examination of the collection, produced critical essays about the "Favorite 50" goblets, which are published in the catalog. Their efforts were financially supported by the Valliers. Mary Maher, a Stevens Point native who is a professional writer and editor with Mixed Media of Madison, assisted with editing the materials.

A major part of the project involved a survey of about 300 dealers, curators, collectors and other glass specialists, asking them to vote for their favorite 50 patterns. About one third of the experts responded and all of their selected pieces were found to be already contained in the Vallier collection.

The patterns formed upon the glassware depict major themes of the 19th century such as nature—"Beaver Band," "Bellflower," "Horse, Cat and Rabbit," and "Pigs in Corn"; celebrities—"Jumbo," P.T. Barnum's African elephant, and "Actress," which captured 11 different stage favorites of the 1870s and '80s; and historical images—"Lincoln's Drape," (from his casket), "Liberty Bell" and

"Westward Ho." Lead was used in making the glass before the mid-1860s, when manufacturers began to use a less expensive soda-lime formula. The lead, or "flint" glass can be identified by its heavier weight, its brilliance and its beautiful, bell-like tone when struck, according to Nelson.

The goblets are displayed in cases on the northwest and southwest upper-level areas of the Fine Arts Center. The building is accessible to the public throughout daytime and evening hours almost every day of the year.

The hand-built cases reside on both outside walls of the Carlsten Art Gallery. A newly added feature of the display will be an introductory section containing historical photos, an example of the molds used to press glass, diaries, reference books and explanatory text about the history of pattern glassmaking in North America.

The Valliers began their pursuit of goblets in the late 1960s, crisscrossing the nation to scour antique shops or to track down individuals who owned unusual goblets. Of all their sources John Mordock of Northbrook, Ill., a retired Sears executive, sold them the most single pieces. After he learned about the Valliers' plan to make their donation to UW-SP, Mordock decided to give the school his entire collection of various kinds of tableware in the Dakota pattern as a companion display. There are more than 100 pieces in that grouping.

The Vallier's ties to UW-SP began in the late 1970s, when they sought management help from UW-SP forestry faculty for their land near Tomahawk. The couple was looking for a way to assure long-term preservation of their 1,000-acre Treehaven, so the suggestion was made to donate the land to create a natural resources camp for the university. Today Treehaven has been developed into a year-round educational facility frequented by UW-SP faculty, students and nature lovers from throughout the state. ■

Vallier collection

The catalog can be purchased for $20, including tax, handling and shipping, from the Dean of Fine Arts, UW-SP, 54481. The title is "50 Favorites: Early American Pressed Glass Goblets."

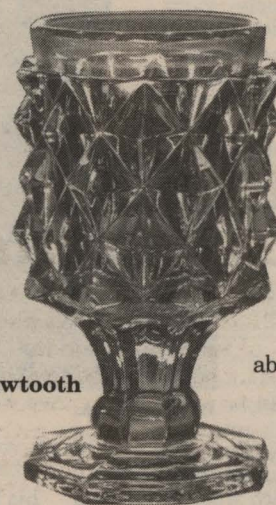

Frosted Leaf

Cable

Bull's Eye

Giant Sawtooth

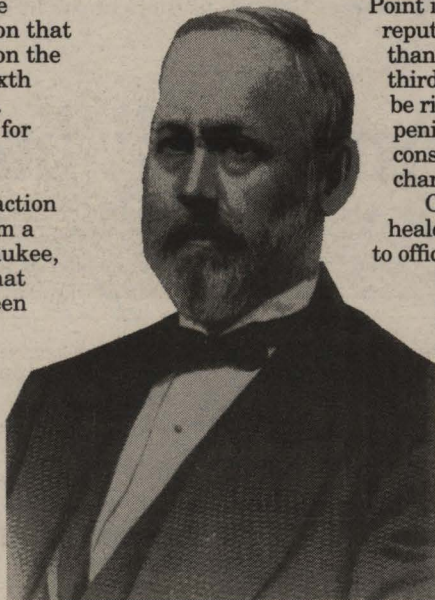

Centennial

Point celebrates 'The World is Ours'

Jesse Holt, telegrapher at the Wisconsin Central railroad depot here, agreed to work later than usual the night of July 21, 1893. After all, there was a chance news would be forthcoming that could change the fabric of the community.

At about midnight, it was Holt who received the message from Madison that Stevens Point had won the contest to host the sixth State Normal School. Superior was chosen for the site of a seventh school.

The first news of action to come here was from a telegrapher in Milwaukee, who only informed that Stevens Point had been victorious. Soon thereafter came local businessman G.E. McDill's message that would be quoted often in years to come. It stated: "To the boys of Stevens Point—The world is ours. Stevens Point wins on the 101st ballot."

G. E. McDill

A crowd of 2,000 people had assembled at the depot by the time the message arrived. Almost instantaneously, noisy celebrations erupted throughout the city.

"The World Is Ours" passage has been chosen as theme of the UW-SP centennial celebration, which is scheduled during the 1994-95 school year, exactly 100 years after the school's first year of operation.

In 1891, when the state Legislature authorized the normal school regents to expand their operations, there was much interest in numerous cities. Bids were placed by the cities of Fort Howard, DePere, West DePere, Grand Rapids and Centralia, Marshfield, Merrill, Neillville, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, La Crosse, Sparta, Tomah, Ashland, Washburn, Bayfield and Superior, Wausau and Stevens Point.

Competition narrowed rapidly and soon the contest, for a central Wisconsin site, was basically between Wausau and Stevens Point.

Stevens Point had 116 students enrolled in its high school, twice as many as Wausau, which was said to be a powerful argument. Beyond that, however, community boosters launched a powerful lobbying effort.

Wausau's leaders, who had often expressed optimism about their city's chance for the school, were bitter losers. One newspaper editor there charged that bribery, wire working, politics, jobbery and corruption went into the decision.

Another editor wrote that Stevens Point is a city "with a moral reputation which stinks worse than the Milwaukee River." A third editor proclaimed it would be risky to locate a penitentiary in Stevens Point, considering the city's moral character.

One hundred years have healed the wounds, according to officials in Wausau today.

Richard Olsen, executive vice president of the Wausau Chamber of Commerce, said he enjoys local history and is amused by the rivalry of yore. But today, Wausau is benefitting from the presence of a major university so close. "We put in our brochures that we are only 30 miles from a four-year university."

Donna Skiba Seidel, Marathon County clerk of court, who graduated from UW-SP about 20 years ago, said she believes most Wausau residents aren't aware of the scurrilous statements that were made by the editors in 1893. "It would have been interesting if it would have been located here," she muses, "but I liked going to school in Point."

The communities of Grand Rapids and Centralia (today's Wisconsin Rapids) reacted to Stevens Point's good fortune 100 years ago much differently than Wausau.

The editor of the Wood County Reporter wrote this: "The Normal School over which the interest of a large section of adjoining country has centered, and which the Twin Cities would have gladly welcomed, has been awarded by the Board of Regents to our sister city of Stevens Point. In its loss we have this consolation, it is convenient for Normal pupils from the Twin Cities to attend, and many of the advantages accruing from it as an education institution will still remain. . . . As our hopes were defeated we gracefully yield the palm to our more fortunate rival and extend congratulations."

Among a few people, strong opinions about the decision did, however, linger to the modern day.

Antone Smongeski, a longtime and oft-colorful Stevens Point attorney who died at age 90 in 1968, included a $5,000 bequest in his will that would have forever reminded UW-SP visitors of the 1893 rivalry.

He left $5,000 to the regents of the then Wisconsin State Universities for the erection of a boulder monument in front of Old Main bearing this inscription:

"In memory of the late Byron B. Park, former circuit judge, and his fellow Democrats from Portage County who persuaded the then Governor Peck to build a state teachers college at Stevens Point instead of Wausau."

The regents declined the bequest. Mary Williams of Stevens Point, then serving on the Board of Regents, was quoted in the Journal as saying the bequest was declined "with gratitude." She also reportedly said the board believed the university serves a broader area than Stevens Point, and that the inscription might incur resentment from Wausau people. Instead, the $5,000 went as part of another bequest, for approximately a half-million dollars to the UW-Madison Foundation.

Honors for Park were not to be denied, however. For his role as a member of the Normal School Board of Regents in 1893, when the Stevens Point decision was made, his regent predecessors three-quarters of a century later voted to approve a request from a UW-SP committee to name the Student Services Center in his memory.

The person who probably was the first to promote the idea of a normal in Stevens Point was a longtime physician, Dr. John Phillips. In 1876, he became the first local resident to serve on the Board of Regents for the Normal Schools. Early in his 15-year stint as a regent, he expressed hope for Stevens Point's chances. But when it became time to make such a choice, Phillips had left the board. He was a staunch Republican, and in 1891 there was a change in the leadership of state government.

Lisa Mallek, reporter for radio station WYTE in Whiting, interviewed UW-SP Alumnus K. B. Willett July 21, the night Stevens Point celebrated the 100th anniversary of the Board of Regent's decision to locate a normal school here.

Some of the 400 people who attended the picnic on the lawn in front of Old Main on July 21.

The 1903 obituary of Phillips notes that "one of his greatest ambitions being to secure a Normal School for Stevens Point, but that was not to be until after he had been succeeded by Judge (George)

Cate and Byron B. Park due to a change in the political complexion of the state."

Phillips' name remains in the lexicon of the city. In recognition of his service as a physician as well as state senator, assemblyman, regent and holder of several city offices, a street near the campus was dedicated in his honor.

Justus Paul, a historian and dean at UW-SP who is author and editor of a book to be published for the university centennial, believes the reaction of Wausau editors to the selection process of a new school site was the most "interesting" part of UW-SP's origin.

John Phillips

Meanwhile, editors of the newspapers in Stevens Point were as enthusiastic about the victory as their counterparts in Wausau were bitter.

The Gazette's Ed Glennon, besides devoting many columns of space to the campaign in advance and the good news when it actually materialized, did what many thought was an ultimate gesture. His wife delivered a baby girl the day of the regents' decision, and the infant was named Kathryn Josephine Normal Glennon. The future Mrs. Guy Rogers, who died in January of 1980, was to receive part of her education at the Normal School and take a lifelong interest in its development.

Edward McGlachlin of the Stevens Point Weekly Journal reveled with his pen: "The victory our people have achieved is therefore not a temporary one; we have secured something for all time. Why shouldn't we rejoice." ■

The hatchet has been buried

After Stevens Point beat Wausau for the site of a new State Normal School 100 years ago this summer, there were hard feelings for a long, long time between the two communities.

At the party held on July 21 to celebrate the vote that made Stevens Point a "college town," Bill Berry, editor of the Stevens Point Journal, and Mike Scobey, publisher of the Wausau Daily Herald, were special guests for the purpose of literally "burying the hatchet" between their two home towns.

A hatchet was buried on the lawn in front of Old Main but was retrieved soon thereafter and taken to the University Archives for safekeeping.

The party was attended by about 400 people and included a picnic supper in a tent on the front lawn of Old Main, where the hatchet burying was conducted in addition to the unveiling of the centennial quilt. Later, a re-enactment of the arrival of the news of Stevens Point's selection as a "college town" was held at the Wisconsin Central depot on Stevens Point's South Side. A small parade then wound its way from the depot to the downtown where several bands played and talks were given by Chancellor Keith Sanders, former Regent Mary Williams and UW-SP graduate Dick Toser.

The event was a prelude to the UW-SP centennial which will officially begin on Sept. 17, 1994, the 100th anniversary of the opening of the school for its first classes. ■

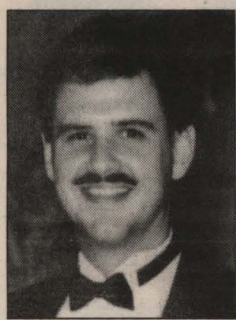

Bruce Lammers

Steve Brilowski

Dee Christofferson

John Mack

Robert Dehlinger

Kim Swanson Kaster

Six new inductees in 'hall'

Six star Pointer athletes between the 1950s and 1980s were inducted Oct. 9 into the UW-SP Athletic Hall of Fame.

Bruce Lammers and Steve Brilowski were leading members of the track and field team in the early 1980s and Brilowski was a standout in cross country as well. Others entering the Hall of Fame were three-sport star Dee Christofferson, basketball standout John Mack, Robert Dehlinger, leading member of the football team and swimmer Kim Swanson Kaster.

A two-time National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division III All American and UW-SP and conference record holder in the 60 and 110 meter high hurdles, Lammers was named Pointer Male Athlete of the Year in 1982. Bruce placed second in the nation in the 110 high hurdles his junior year and third in the same event his senior season. Bruce, a resident of Mukwonago, has been a teacher at Parkview Junior High School in Mukwonago for the past 11 years and is the head girl's track and field coach and assistant cross country coach at Mukwonago High School.

Brilowski completed his senior year undefeated in the 800 meters and won the 1983 NCAA Division III title in the 800 meter run. He was a member of the championship 800 meter relay team in the 1983 Drake Relays and retains Pointer records in the indoor and outdoor 800 and the mile relay. In the spring of 1983, he rejoined the Pointers as assistant track coach, helping with the men's and women's middle distance runners. During the summer of 1985, he traveled to Finland to train and participate in the World University Games. Steve and his wife, Ellen, reside in Stevens Point, where he works on the family farm.

Christofferson received 10 athletic letters during her four years at UW-SP, two in basketball and four in field hockey and softball. The 1985 Female Athlete of the Year, she was an all-conference member in field hockey and softball her senior year. Dee is currently pursuing a master of public administration and an undergraduate degree in nursing at UW-Milwaukee. She is employed at a long term health care facility in New Berlin and at Sacred Heart Hospital. Dee plans on becoming a family nurse practitioner and adding a master's degree in public health.

The fifth highest scorer in Pointer history with 1,451 points and an all-conference and all-district player his junior and senior years, Mack was Wisconsin State University Conference (WSUC) player of the year and third team National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) his senior year. In 1987, John earned a master of business administration from the UW-Milwaukee, and then received his high school teaching certification. He lives in Muskego and is manager of financial services for the Wauwatosa School District.

Dehlinger was an all-state performer of the Pointer football teams in the late 1940s and early 1950s. He earned four letters on Coach Hale Quandt's teams and was a member of the 1949 conference championship team. He completed a master of physical education degree from UW-Madison in 1955, and wrote his graduate thesis on the 24 second rule in basketball. Bob taught for 32 years, 31 in the New London School System. He served as head football coach, assistant basketball coach, physical education teacher and department head. He died in 1986 at the age of 55 and is survived by his wife and three daughters. Bob was born in Stevens Point and lived in Waupaca his final years.

Swanson Kaster, a member of the swimming and diving team for four years, was selected outstanding female freshman athlete and NAIA All American following the 1980 season. Additionally, Kim was a Wisconsin Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Association (WVIAC) selection and NCAA Division III national qualifier upon completion of her inaugural year. A two-time NCAA Division III All American, she is head naturalist at Bay Beach Wildlife Sanctuary in Green Bay. She and her husband, Dave, who is also a UW-SP alum, remain active swimmers. ■

Pointers join NCAA

UW-SP has ended its membership with the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Division I and, effective this fall, affiliated exclusively with the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division III.

Chancellor Keith Sanders announced June 28 he approved the change based on the recommendations of Athletic Director Frank O'Brien, Vice Chancellor Howard Thoyre, members of his administrative staff and the UW-SP Athletic Committee.

All men's and women's sports teams are covered by the change.

An important consideration in the decision, according to Sanders, is the fact that all other institutions in the Wisconsin State University Conference have aligned with the NCAA.

During the past year, three of UW-SP's 17 sports teams competed under the banner of the NAIA—men's basketball, women's tennis and men's golf.

Sanders said that UW-SP would consider returning to the NAIA in men's basketball if the association would change its rules and allow for schools to be a member in a single sport.

Virgil Thiesfeld, UW-SP's faculty representative for men's sports, applauded the change, saying it means that UW-SP athletes will now be subject to the same policies and regulations as other athletes in their conference.

The chancellor said there were some cost savings in making the change, which should not be ignored in times of fiscal austerity. ■

Participants in a recent 4th annual Pointer Invitational Soccer tournament were members of this alumni team: Front Row (l to r) Tim Foye '91, David Entwistle, John Clark '90, David Valentine '91, Paul Herold, Tom Groth '91. Back Row (l to r) Brendan Macarthy '90, Lance Peroutka '92, Robb Ansems '91, Ernie Wintergerst '91, Kris Sydow '92, and Mike Mitchell.

Brodhagen-Counsell room dedicated

A room for special events in support of athletics was dedicated Jan. 1993, at UW-SP to two longtime physical education professors.

Duaine Counsell

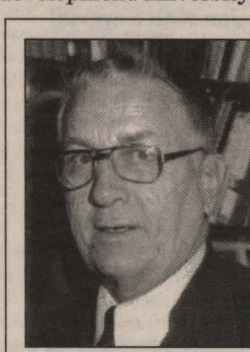

The facility in the Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics Building honors Duaine Counsell and the late Eugene Brodhagen.

The Brodhagen-Counsell Room was developed from a former athletic equipment facility. It has been carpeted, redecorated and identified for meetings, special events, and socials and press conferences following games. It is located at ground level, adjacent to Quandt

Gymnasium, and is comparable in size to two small classrooms.

Expenses of converting the space to its present use were defrayed by donations from Counsell and the Brodhagen family.

Helen Godfrey, assistant chancellor for student development/university relations and chair of the

Eugene Brodhagen

UW-SP facilities naming committee, said recognition of the two professors is appropriate because of their strong commitment and service to student athletes over a long period.

"We have a great appreciation for the generosity of their families, enabling us to carry out this project and thereby making it possible for us to perpetuate the good names of Professors Brodhagen and Counsell on our campus."

An invitational reception was held in the room prior to the Jan. 30 Stevens Point-Platteville basketball game. Athletic Director Frank O'Brien made a special presentation during the halftime of the game.

Brodhagen, who died in 1986, was the father of the university's physical education major for both men and women. It was a first of its kind in the former Wisconsin State College System.

His career from 1939 to 1983 included teaching stints at Grinnell College in Iowa, Phillips High School in Wisconsin and Winona State College in Minnesota. He came to UW-SP in 1956 and served here 27 years.

Counsell is an alumnus of UW-SP who served his alma mater 31 years as a faculty member. He retired in 1988 and now lives in Wisconsin Dells, where he manages the Midwest's largest American Indian trading post. ■

Have a job opening?

Does your organization have an opening that a new or experienced UW-SP graduate might fill? Are you looking for a new position or a career change? The Career Services Office may be the place to contact.

If your organization has openings, we encourage you to share this information with us. We will publish your position descriptions free of charge in our weekly vacancy center, or consider conducting on-campus interviews as needs dictate.

If seeking employment for yourself, you might be interested to know that Career Services produces two vacancy lists each Friday, the "Teaching Vacancy Bulletin" and the "Employment Opportunities Bulletin" (non-teaching openings). The "Employment Opportunities Bulletin" includes entry level as well as advanced positions. A recently added section lists opportunities specifically in central Wisconsin. These lists are available free of charge, if picked up in the office, or by subscription ($25 for six months).

For your convenience, we can be reached: by fax (715-346-3957), by phone (715-346-3136), by mail (134 Old Main, UW-SP, Stevens Point, WI 54481), or in person! We look forward to hearing from you. ■

Retirements

Mary Williams was influential regent

Mary Markham Williams retired in July as UW-SP's special assistant to the chancellor for affirmative action and legislative affairs.

Her 30-year association with UW-SP began when she enrolled as a student in its new graduate program and has continued through her service as a member of the Board of Regents and finally as a member of the university's administrative staff.

There was prophecy in Williams' selection to be president of the Women's Self-Government Association during her student days at UW-Madison in the late 1940s. Years later, women and members of minority groups would benefit from her advocacy in their behalf at UW-SP.

Says Williams, "The world's barriers are breaking down—it's our business at the universities to prepare people to live as well as work in any country in the world."

Gaining more diversity at UW-SP is important for students who are in attendance from area communities, she emphasizes. "After all, many of our students won't spend the rest of their lives here—they'll become part of a nation and world that is very different from Central Wisconsin."

When Gov. Warren Knowles appointed her in 1965 as a regent of the Wisconsin State Universities, she made history as the first student to serve in such capacity.

It was an exciting time, she recalls, with opportunities to effect much change and to be an advocate for many new programs and facilities at UW-SP. She believes her role in chairing a committee that selected Lee S. Dreyfus to be president of the Stevens Point campus in 1967 had one of the most profound impacts on the institution. About the same time, she served on the Kellett Commission, which looked into Wisconsin's education future and, among other things, recommended a merger of the state's two university systems. When Gov. Pat Lucey, a Democrat, proposed the merger, Williams, a Republican, was the only member of Mary Markham Williams

either board to support it. Later, Lucey reappointed her as a regent, in which term she was a proponent of mandating each campus to have an affirmative action director and more emphasis on minority affairs.

When she was hired as a ninth-grade teacher of English at Benjamin Franklin Junior High in Stevens Point in 1972, she became the first teacher to serve on the newly merged Board of Regents.

Her experience as a student helped her recognize the value in her regent work in promoting student involvement in university governance. Similarly as a teacher-regent, she recalls recognizing the importance of involving faculty in decision-making processes of the UW System.

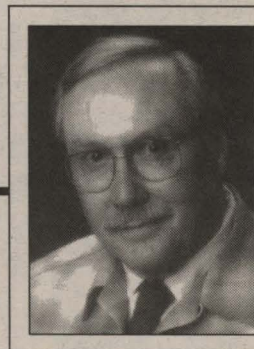

Williams resigned as a regent to become Dreyfus' special assistant in 1976, and says that being able to help secure approvals and funding for the Central Wisconsin Environmental Station near Nelsonville, Treehaven Field Station near Tomahawk, Schmeeckle Reserve and the Health Enhancement Center on campus were notable experiences.

A four-year leave of absence from the university to be Dreyfus' office manager and constituent relations representative after he was elected governor gave another dimension to her career. She also was Dreyfus' adviser for aging issues and nursing homes before she returned to UW-SP in 1983 to serve as an assistant to Chancellor Philip Marshall for facilities planning. The affirmative action and legislative duties were given to her in 1985.

In retirement, Williams, who is a native of Janesville, says she looks forward to working with her husband, Robert, on political campaigns, continuing her involvement as a member of the Wisconsin Humanities Committee and on the Supreme Court Planning and Policy Advisory Committee as Chief Justice Nathan Heffernan's citizen appointee. But her role as grandmother may take first priority. ■

Mc Caig received honors for teaching

Thomas Mc Caig

Before he began a career of preparing future teachers, Thomas Mc Caig gained an uncommon mix of insights by educating destitute minority youths of the inner city, affluent teenagers of suburbia and the mentally retarded.

It was invaluable practice, he recalls, because it impressed upon him that regardless of the circumstance, respect must be accorded to every learner and teaching must be personalized despite the size of a class.

Mc Caig, who retired this spring from the UW-SP School of Education faculty, stood at the head of classrooms for 41 years, 27 of them on the campus here. From 1973 to 1978, he served the institution as associate dean of the College of Professional Studies and head of the School of Education.

In an article published in "Wisconsin Ideas," he recalled experiences which he believes taught him that variety in teaching methods enhances the communication between teacher and student. One method he believes particularly effective is role-playing—being Mark Twain when he teaches about Mark Twain. He is leery of placing emphasis on the method of using audiovisual equipment, which he believes can be easily overdone.

Mc Caig has come to expect 20-year cycles in education concerning approaches, philosophies and methods of teaching. While the trends continue going round and round, things that work and don't work in motivating children were fixed in the professor's mind long ago.

In terms of the kind of preparation future teachers should have, Mc Caig believes everyone entering the profession should first earn a bachelor of arts or science degree, then pursue education as a graduate-level program.

The professor urges future teachers to pay more attention to manners and things considered in society as good and bad taste. Mc Caig warns that when manners are forgotten, a decline in morals will follow.

"We've lost a lot of dignity and graciousness, good taste and decorum in our society," he laments.

In their places are some twisted values, he charges: "If it feels good, do it. Get as much money with the least amount of effort. Never get old."

Children need to see fairness, justice and consistency in adult behavior, Mc Caig continues, lest they become frustrated and angry.

In schools, he calls for the re-creation of homeroom situations with homeroom teachers involved with students over a period of several years.

He would favor anything that would restore what was lost during the 1960s and 1970s, when "we blew it in education by diluting the substance of it."

While extremely positive about the future of schools in much of the heartland of America, he holds little optimism for what lies ahead in the inner-city educational centers. Racism, he believes, has become so insidious it may be impossible to eradicate.

"I really am reluctant to say it," says Mc Caig, "but it is becoming quite obvious to me that the white community will never accept blacks."

"Black Americans may have to accept the fact that in order to overcome their problems, they may have to re-form their own schools," he continues.

Mc Caig came to UW-SP in 1966 with three degrees from Loyola University in his native Chicago. He is a two-time winner of the Excellence in Teaching Award at UW-SP and won a previous citation while serving in the public schools of Chicago. ■

Charley White served 27 years

"Helping students develop an ecological perspective has been the most fulfilling aspect of my teaching career," says Charley M. White, a 27-year veteran of the UW-SP faculty who has retired.

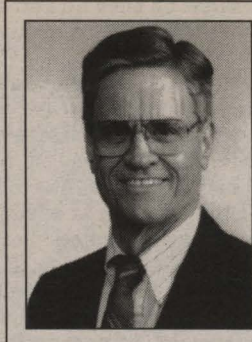

White hopes he has helped instill sound environmental ethics in his former students, "beliefs based on informed reality not emotion." One of the biggest problems he sees with current environmental issues is that no one seems eager to address human overpopulation. Curbing the birth rate throughout the world is humankind's most pressing ecological need, White believes.

A native of Rose Hill, Ill., White served four years in the Navy as a teletype communicator in Key West, Fla., and New London, Conn., during the Korean War. He holds an undergraduate degree from Eastern Illinois University and master's and Ph.D. degrees from Purdue University. White came to UW-SP in 1966 and became a full professor 12 years later, holding a joint appointment with the biology department and the College of Natural Resources. He plans to teach part time at UW-SP for two or three more years.

Many of White's fondest memories are from 18 summers spent working with students at Clam Lake and Treehaven field camps.

A white-tailed deer specialist, White has been certified as a wildlife biologist by The Wildlife Society, which he has served as president on the state and regional levels. He was elected as a delegate to the Wisconsin Conservation Congress for two terms, and has been extensively involved for about 12 years as a leader and trainer with the Boy Scouts of America and for about 15 years with Evergreen Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons. ■

Charley M. White

Chappell pioneered communicative disorders

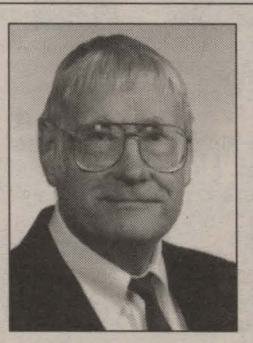

UW-SP's first faculty specialist in the area of communicative disorders has retired after 31 years of service to the institution.

Gerald E. Chappell left his profession with a special salute to his colleagues across the state. The Wisconsin Speech-Language-Hearing Association has given him the Frank Kleffner Lifetime Achievement Award for clinical contributions. Chappell will now compete for the national Kleffner Award to be presented later this year in California. He is the first UW-SP faculty member to be so honored with the recognition.

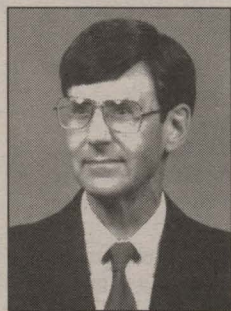

The professor came to UW-SP in 1962 as the first teacher for a new concentration in the speech major in speech and hearing therapy. Just out of Northwestern University, where he earned a master's degree, Chappell developed about 12 new courses and worked first in the former Campus Laboratory School with children who were experiencing articulation problems. He also assisted university students planning to become teachers who had voice and language disorders. For a time he was director of the speech and hearing clinic.

In the mid-1960s, he took one of the university's first teacher improvement leaves to earn his Ph.D. at UW-Madison.

Chappell has focused on language development and pathology as his key area of interest and has taught several therapy-based classes related to language disorders. One of his courses teaches students how to use computers and technological devices to help people with disabilities communicate with the outside world. ■ disturbance and learning disabilities at the undergraduate and graduate levels. He drafted the plans for UW-SP's major in exceptional education.

Gerald E. Chappell

Darwin Miller

He joins his wife, Marge, in retirement, following her departure, also from the UW-SP School of Education faculty, last year. The couple will become permanent residents of Phoenix, Ariz., but spend summers at a lake home in Wisconsin. ■

Miller was special education innovator

Darwin Miller, architect of special education programs in the curriculum of UW-SP, retired in June after a 22-year career on campus.

He is credited with developing special education teacher preparation programs, plus certifications in cognitive disabilities, early childhood-exceptional educational needs, emotional

A native of a farm near Marion, N.D., Miller received his bachelor's degree from Westmar College in Iowa, a master's from the University of Colorado, and an Ed.D. in counseling and education psychology from Ball State University in Indiana. He did postdoctoral studies in learning and behavioral disabilities at the University of Minnesota.

He began his career as an educator in Indiana, serving as a school psychologist in Blackford and Grant counties. After completing his doctorate, he obtained a private practice psychologist license and served part-time as a psychologist for Family Service Society in Marion, Ind.

Miller began what was to be a 30-year career in higher education in 1963 as an assistant professor and head of the psychology department at Taylor University in Upland, Ind. He developed an experimental psychology curriculum and laboratory there before coming to UW-SP in 1971. ■

Halver Swenson

Emma Swenson

The Years of Glory, 1930s CSTC and The College Eat Shop by Carroll (Cal) Swenson

Employees of "Pop" and "Mom" Swenson's College Eat Shop are shown in this 1938 picture. From left, Sam Gilson, Henry Klimick, Bob Cook, Cal Swenson, Ben Lasky, Charley Birch, Robert Segler, Leonard Olson and Lorraine (last name unknown).

An important social center for students at what used to be Central State Teachers College was the College Eat Shop near the corner of Main and Fremont Streets.

Halver and Emma Swenson, better known as "Mom and Pop," operated it during the 1930s with assistance from several employees, including students, and their son, Carroll (Cal) Swenson.

Cal, remembering the shop's importance to the campus community, says that when the business was discovered by his parents, it was a tired, poor, old darling at 1209 Main Street, just waiting to be wrapped in the arms of the Purple and the Gold.

The following account is by Cal Swenson:

It was the worst of times--depression, you know. After a sorrowful stint in a Wisconsin Rapids meat market, my parents were encouraged by friends to look for something in Stevens Point. I don't have to tell you what they found.

Many of you out there who are old enough to reminisce will recall the old store front building with an eight-room two-story house attached at the rear. In brief, there was a rusty, leaky soda fountain, a lunch counter with eight stools, a couple of sagging shelves from a former attempt at groceries, a small round table with three "ice cream" chairs and a much scarred-up wood-burning stove.

Plans were to open a small "convenience store" (never heard of in those days)--stack what groceries we had left from the crash on the shelves--install a gas hot plate--and possibly snag a few college kids for a hamburger and a malted. Before long the Eat Shop seemingly became annexed to Old Main as another classroom with a well-beaten path between. I found myself often on that path since I was a jobless graduate from Oshkosh Business College and came home to lend a hand to my parents, attend summer school, meet some of the 300 kids, and boost business a little. We didn't really get into gear until the fall of 1933. The enrollment was humongous--slightly over 600 of which I was one. The student body and faculty alike soon became well-acquainted with the Eat Shop.

Anybody remember Miss Bertha Hussey? At that time she was dean of women and headquartered at Nelson Hall. She was our first early morning customer. She would approach the door and rattle the latch to let us know who was coming. Poor Miss Hussey--everyone liked her and the girls were afraid of her. No boy ever got beyond that large reception room. She also taught a class in Ancient History 102 in the Training School for which I received an "A."

I should mention here that about this time the state closed Nelson Hall cafeteria which was a tremendous boon for us. Oh, yes! Plate lunches were twenty-five cents, hamburgers were ten and all homemade pies, five cents.

On Sundays, we could see Sue Colman with her father and mother, heading for our complete Sunday chicken dinner for $1.25, and right behind would be Norm Knutzen and his mother. Our adorable Miss Mildred Davis had already eaten.

We had 12 to 15 students working for their board. We gave up first one room and then another to install booths. It's a wonder the floor didn't collapse with sometimes as many as a 150 hungry ones waiting for a place to sit.

Bea Richardson was the popular girl's physical education teacher. She was well-liked, young, and wild as the rest of the girls! When Coach Eddie Kotal came in, he would dash behind the fountain and whip up malts and shakes.

Boys will be boys you know, and there were frequent altercations. There was the day Doc Vogel pushed Franklin Suit's face into the meringue of a lemon pie at the lunch counter. All in fun, to be sure!?

Remember Ben Lasky? (Really Laschkewitch.) He showed up that summer and was the first one to charm Mom into a job which lasted all through his college years. I remember the cold winter day he was in the basement which was entered via a trap door. I smelled something hot and saw flames. Ben was trying to shove the whole Christmas tree into the furnace. I was running for the phone when he yelled, "I got it!"

Remember Art Nygaard? A handsome Phi Sig who also charmed Mom into a job of long standing. How I would like to list all their names and the excerpts they wrote in our Iris yearbooks! I've been going through five of them and it would be a Herculean task to include their comments. I'm going to try. Where are you--Bleck, Nason, Steiner, Davidson, Cartmill, Knope, White, Skutely, Bassler, D. Pratt, Carmody, Bjarne J., Edna Earl, Veryl Nelson, Hotvedt, Swede Olson, Parfrey and Hinkley? Just a few of our big family.

How about the area? Has it changed? Of course you know our building once became a college book store and the site now graces an apartment building.

How about some of the changes? Did you know that immediately behind Nelson Hall and Schmeckle's Main Street house stood an old square mansion of sorts? It was very old even then and much in need of TLC. It was occupied by the two Wadleigh sisters or "girls" as they were occasionally called. Theirs was a sequestered life for sure. One of them, Ruth, frequently came through the Nelson Hall alley with a little tin pail for soup. I'm sure her sister's name was Judith. I got as far as the back door once with a small delivery. Ruth did show me to the parlor where I gasped upon seeing a gorgeous square Steinway grand piano literally blazing with mother-of-pearl inlays. The house was surrounded by so many trees it was scarcely noticeable. Today there is a multi-unit apartment house there, one of which was occupied by Miss Davis in her later years.

I haven't said much about my Pop. He wasn't just a permanent fixture around there. Being an ex-butcher, he did all the buying and planning for the meals. Most of all, Dad arose every morning at five and in winter built fires in three stoves and had the place opened by six.

By now we had given up all our living quarters downstairs and were feeding more than 100 hungry mouths every noon. I don't know how that small kitchen withstood the weight of the monstrous iron range, ice-box, and gas plate plus an island of plates in the center and two cooks and a pie maker! Monica was 70 years old and 200 pounds and made the best meringue pies in town.

Let's go to school. It was the summer of 1933. In high school I always leaned toward the English field--literature, grammar, spelling, so I decided to take courses relating to that endeavor. I enrolled in two classes that summer: Eng. Lit. 109, signed "Mildred Davis, Grade 87" and Anc. Hist. 102, Grade 96, signed "B. Hussey." No wonder I liked her so much!

A highly respected figure of our CSTC days was Dean of Men Herbert R. Steiner. He was gruff, but we loved him and quivered when called to his office. Yes, the girls too! He taught Hist. 205, "Industrial History of the U.S." To me, it was a rather dry required course but Professor C. had a sense of humor which added color to the class.

It was a stifling hot 1935 summer school day, the year of the "Dust Bowl" and the "Okies." This sweltering day even the campus air was the color of rust. Right in the middle of a lecture, Mr. S. paused briefly, "Don't look now but Oklahoma just blew by!"

There was no way any student entering our school could avoid taking one specific course, General Psychology 101 offered by Professor Frank Nicholas Spindler. Access to his den was by climbing a multi-crooked stairway to the third floor "attic." So open was the stairwell, I always had the urge to jump over from the top rail. I was always afraid of heights.

We loved "dear old Spin," yet we were somewhat afraid of him. One never knew what he'd say next. The one I remember best had been making the rounds for years--long before my time.

Professor Spindler accused a sweet young thing of cheating during a test, which she denied. A bitter exchange of words ensued and he told her to go to hell! She promptly stomped from the room and returned in record time with the school's president. The two burst into the classroom.

"Professor Spindler, did you tell this young lady to go to hell?" A split second of terrifying silence. "Yes, I did, but I didn't tell her to bring the devil back with her!" Two more seconds of electrical shocks were felt and suddenly everyone in the room burst into almost uncontrollable laughter. A true occurrence which to this very day is remembered by all who were fortunate enough to know him.

Professor Spindler died suddenly in 1935 at 70 and had been with the school since 1901.

In 1934 Professor Norman Knutzen broached the subject of forming a men's glee club, which was soon to be known as the Men's Chorus. Thirty young hopefuls turned out. They needed an accompanist and several had heard me muddling around on our old upright. Yes, I couldn't escape being the club's first piano accompanist. Not that I was that good. There just wasn't anyone else at the time.

There were no tuxedos that first year but there were invitations. The first was northward. That was 60 years ago, but I recall performances at various high schools. One was "so distant" it made an overnight stay necessary. We did a matinee and night session at the high school in Iron River, Mich. Townspeople provided lodging for us in their homes. Jack Burroughs and I were lucky. We were invited to the home of the Seldons. They were the prominent mine owners and we were to stay at the biggest colonial mansion in town! It seems like yesterday.

Then there was the annual short story contest sponsored by Sigma Tau Delta, a national English fraternity. I was surprised when Doris George came into the Eat Shop and told me my story won first place and would appear in the Jan. 24 edition of the school's publication, The Pointer. Oh, yes, I was surprised--and it was corny! By the late 1930s, we were no longer a small school. Two buildings could not possibly accommodate the influx of students and the need for expansion was obvious everywhere. Central State Teachers College had outgrown its infancy and was well on the way to becoming what it is today.

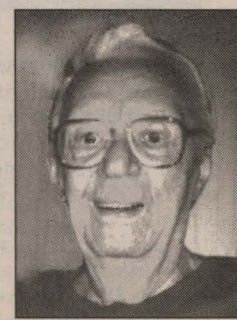

The big jolt came when President Frank Hyer announced his retirement at our 1937 commencement exercises in Old Main auditorium to a stunned and moist-eyed audience.

Mr. Hyer had come to Stevens Point in 1904, in the Normal and Training School and served more than 10 years in various capacities. He left to become president of the State Teachers College at Whitewater. Mr. Hyer returned to Stevens Point as president of Central State Teachers College in 1930 to the deep satisfaction of all the friends of the school.

Mom and Pop Swenson sold the College Eat Shop in 1940 to Merv and Irene Maston of Wisconsin Rapids knowing full well the tradition they promised to honor. ■

About the author: Carroll (Cal) Swenson now lives in Waupaca at E-1376 Grandview Rd. Born in Iola, he grew up in Waupaca, where his father was a one-time sheriff. Cal graduated from Waupaca High School in 1928, attended Oshkosh Business College, and received his degree from Central State in 1937. He was a teacher in Roshot, then an employee of the War Department's Foreign Service unit three years. From 1946 to 1956, he was owner and operator of Carroll's Music Shop in Stevens Point after which he taught in Westfield, Mosinee, New London and Weyauwega. His writings have appeared in several Wisconsin newspapers and have been published by Viking Press. ■

Faculty Recognition

Top faculty awards announced

Winners of the highest recognition UW-SP gives annually to members of its faculty were announced during spring commencement rites in May.

Cited for excellence in teaching were Karlene Ferrante of communication, Eric Yonke of history, David Ozsvath of geography/geology, Fred Copes of biology, and Elaine Hutchinson of mathematics.

Two winners of University Scholar Awards are Arthur Herman of philosophy and William Skelton of history. The university service award recipient is Robert Baruch of theatre and dance.

A prize of $500 was given to each honoree.

Students and faculty made nominations for the recognition, and a student and faculty committee chose the winners.

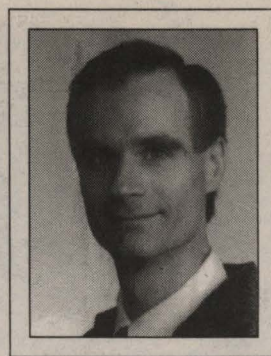

Among the top teachers of the year, Copes is both a veteran member of the faculty and an alumnus. He has been teaching courses and leading research in the area of fisheries since 1964. Hutchinson has served the institution since 1981, Ferrante since 1989, Yonke since 1990 and Ozsvath since 1987.

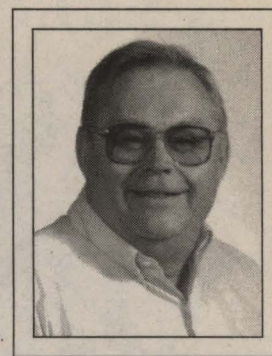

Karlene Ferrante

Eric Yonke

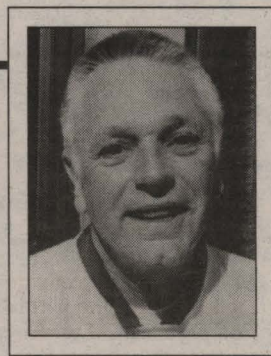

David Ozsvath

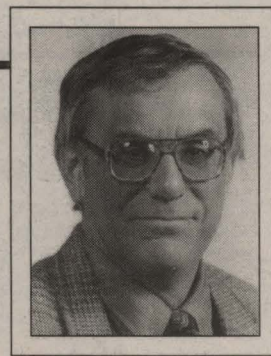

Fred Copes

Elaine Hutchinson

Arthur Herman

William Skelton

Robert Baruch

Baruch's service award follows his active involvement in a rigorous planning exercise undertaken more than a year ago by the faculty to achieve efficiencies and cost savings. He has been at UW-SP since 1967.

Herman won the University Scholar Award on the strength of his long-standing work as a specialist in the philosophy of India. He has written nine books, 55 major articles for professional journals and was invited by the government of India to participate in lectureships in the country several years ago. He has spent 28 years at UW-SP. Skelton, also recipient of the University Scholar Award, is a specialist in military history and author of a recently released book, "An American Profession of Arms—The Army Officers Corps, 1784-1861." Several reviewers have called it a "definitive" work. Skelton has served the institution since 1969.

Besides their prizes and recognition bestowed on them at commencement, the honorees were platform guests at the academic convocation in September and special guests at a luncheon that day with the speaker. Also, their photographs are on display for the next year in the La Follette Lounge of the University Center. ■

Sontag's paper rated a 'classic'

A professor/administrator at UW-SP is the winner of a place of honor in the history of special education, thanks to a recent national survey.

A paper co-authored 20 years ago by Ed Sontag, head of the School of Education, was recently rated a "classic" among all of the scholarly works ever published in the area of educating people with severe disabilities.

Editors of "Education and Training in Mental Retardation" sponsored the search for the "classics," starting the project with assistance from more than 400 experts who were asked to help in the initial phases of selecting judges and nominating papers. Voting was done by 172 educators.

The Sontag paper ranked second of all the nominations. Two of its main points:

- Children with severe disabilities should be integrated into regular public schools.
- The more handicaps children contend with, the more complex teaching skills their teacher needs.

These arguments defied conventional wisdom at the time. The article was the first to advocate the controversial practice of bringing children with severe disabilities into regular public schools. As for qualifications of teachers, it had been previously thought that paraprofessionals could adequately serve children with serious handicaps. The paper countered that fully certified teachers were needed and must possess at least baccalaureate degrees.

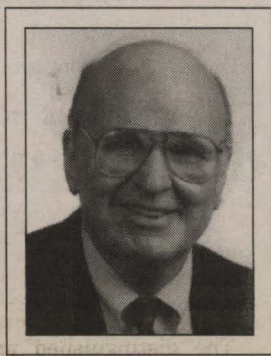

Purpose of the search for the "classics" was to identify significant contributions that have occurred to shape the field of educating the severely handicapped.

When the UW-SP professor's article appeared in 1973, in the journal of the Council for Exceptional Children, based in Reston, Va., Sontag was serving as a coordinator of state plans and administration for the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped in Washington, D.C. His fellow authors were Phillip Burke, a training officer in the same bureau, and Robert York, a professor at UW-Madison.

Pleased by the recognition of his early work, Sontag said "classic is a new word in my vocabulary."

Sontag joined the UW-SP faculty in 1992 after serving 20 years in federal service. He rose to positions of director of special education and later associate commissioner of rehabilitation service administration, both in the U.S. Department of Education, and deputy assistant secretary of the Department of Interior, responsible for developing and improving education programs for Native American children.

The native of Los Angeles holds a doctorate from Syracuse University. ■

Ed Sontag

New Yorker magazine salutes Doxtator

Professor Richard Doxtator of UW-SP was the featured teacher in the spring edition of the "Talk of the Classroom" publication for The New Yorker Magazine Education Program.

The article profiled Doxtator's approach to teaching, which includes the use of The New Yorker as a textbook for English classes.

The professor said the magazine helps him demonstrate various writing skills and introduce unfamiliar issues.

He even uses the literary magazine in the unlikely area of his class in sports journalism. Here, he focuses on the baseball pieces written by Roger Angell in The New Yorker.

Doxtator discussed his 15-year practice of The New Yorker as textbook at a Midwest regional conference of the National Council of Teachers of English last spring. ■

Richard Doxtator

Shaw's groundwater work earns applause

Byron Shaw's work in formulating public policy to promote environmental quality, notably in the area of groundwater, has earned him the 1993 Wisconsin Idea Award in Natural Resource Policy.

Shaw, who lives near Amherst Junction, is a professor of soil and water sciences at UW-SP.

The award, given annually by the UW-Madison Center for Resource Policy Studies and Programs, honors those who have made "significant contributions in the area of natural resource policy and whose efforts exemplify the 'Wisconsin Idea' of cooperation between the university and government for the benefit of the people of the state."

Shaw pioneered much of the research leading to policies and methods to protect both groundwater and surface water. Based on his research on pesticide and nitrate groundwater contamination, Shaw provided testimony leading to development of policies on pesticide use and regulation in Wisconsin.

He also has focused on groundwater quality in subdivisions, impact of barnyard runoff, impact of detergent phosphates and acid rain.

Through the UW-SP Environmental Task Force Program, which Shaw developed, he provides research, education and public service programs for the state.

Shaw, who is a native of Waunakee and holds three degrees from UW-Madison, is marking his 25th year on the UW-SP faculty in 1993. ■

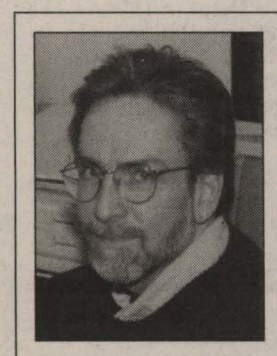

Byron Shaw

Prof wins National Fiction Prize

A novel by a UW-SP professor of English was a winner even before publication.

Lawrence Watson received $3,000 from Milkweed Editions of Minneapolis, whose judges chose his "Montana 1948" for its annual National Fiction Prize.

The book, published this fall, tells the story of a family and its Sioux housekeeper, living in northeastern Montana, engulfed by events that race out of control, changing each of the members' destinies. Part of the drama surrounds a white war-hero physician who exploits his position of trust by sexually abusing young Native American women.

Lawrence Watson

A total of 325 manuscripts were entered in the competition.

Writer David Huddle, who made the final selection, described Watson's entry:

"'Montana 1948' is a shining example of a literary work that demonstrates how a disturbing truth is preferable to a comforting lie. This story makes you turn its pages as fast as your favorite detective novel, but when you finish it, you have received gifts of permanent value—an appreciation of the moral complexity of our history, a refined sense of our weakness and our strength, a profoundly improved understanding of the American character."

Watson was born and reared in North Dakota, son and grandson of sheriffs. He drew from some of his own experiences of living in a small western town for his book.

The manuscript was prepared during the past three years. The author's first novel, "In a Dark Time," was published in 1980 by Charles Scribner's Sons. A review of it appearing in Publishers Weekly described the content as reflecting "uncommon imagination and insight."

Between that book and the start of his latest manuscript, he penned another novel, for which he has not found a publisher.

In the meantime, however, he has won a $20,000 creative writing fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts and a $2,000 grant from the Wisconsin Arts Board to support his work. And, his short stories and poems have been published in many literary magazines.

His story, "Where I Go, What I Do," originally published in Quarry West, was selected as one of the 100 Distinguished Short Stories in Houghton-Mifflin's 1978 collection of Best American Short Stories. His poetry has been compiled in a chapbook entitled "Leaving Dakota," published by Song Press in 1983. For several years, he has been an active book reviewer for the Milwaukee Journal.

Watson's bachelor's and master's degrees are from the University of North Dakota and his Ph.D. was granted by the University of Utah. He has been teaching in Stevens Point the past 15 years. ■

We'd like to hear from you!

Advocate for women hunters, fishers saluted

A UW-SP professor, who has been instrumental in helping women enter the sports of hunting and fishing, is the recipient of a state award for her pioneering work.

Christine Thomas received "The Special Service Award" this spring from the Bureau of Wildlife Management at its annual staff meeting in Brookfield. The bureau is part of the state Department of Natural Resources.

Thomas' work in introducing members of her sex to outdoor sports is gaining the nation's attention.

A weekend workshop she developed under the title "Breaking Down the Barriers to Women's Participation in Hunting and Fishing" has led to her invitation to help establish the event in Nebraska, Texas, Washington, Oregon, as well as Wisconsin.

These weekends, geared for 100 women, include experiences ranging from learning basics of firearm safety to identifying waterfowl.

The professor of resource management has written "Becoming An Outdoors Woman Planning Guide," which was recently published to help other agencies set up programs like the ones she organizes. In addition, she described her project to other educators at a speaking engagement in Washington, D.C.

Thomas, who has served UW-SP since 1980, is the first woman in the history of the College of Natural Resources to receive tenure designation therein. She has won citations for outstanding teaching, including the college's top award in that field last year.

As a mother, she has already introduced her 9-year-old daughter to the sport of deer hunting by taking her to a deer stand. ■

Christine Thomas

Pratt heads Faculty Senate

Judith E. Pratt is the new chair of UW-SP Faculty Senate.

She is a professor of communicative disorders who has been on the university faculty since 1973. A native of Detroit, she has a Ph.D. from the University of Illinois.

Judith E. Pratt

Carole Holmes was chosen as vice chair. She is an academic adviser in the Student Academic Advising Center.

Besides teaching, Pratt has held several administrative positions, including those of affirmative action administrative specialist, assistant dean of the College of Professional Studies, and director of the Center for Communicative Disorders, a clinical facility that has provided services to area residents of all ages with speech and hearing disorders. ■

German teachers honor Seiler

Mark Seiler, a member of the foreign languages faculty at UW-SP is one of nine American educators who will be honored this fall for "outstanding achievement in furthering the teaching of German in the schools of the United States."

The American Association of Teachers of German and the Goethe Institute will salute Seiler at the association's annual meeting Nov. 20 in San Antonio.

About 500 association members will be present when the nine honorees are given the Certificate of Merit Awards. This recognition was started in 1978 with the intention that no more than 15 members be singled out on a yearly basis.

Seiler was nominated by Charles James, a UW-Madison professor who is president of the Wisconsin Association of Teachers of German.

A native of La Crosse, Seiler holds B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from UW-Madison and has been a member of the foreign languages faculty at UW-SP since 1969. He served 14 years, until 1989, as chair of his department.

He is a past president of the state organization of German teachers, an active participant in Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction foreign language projects and a leader of Wisconsin Association of Foreign Language Teachers events.

Seiler has directed many summer institutes for high school teachers in Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota that have been funded with state, federal and Goethe Institute grants.

He was chosen this year to serve on the board of the Max Kade Institute for German-American Studies at UW-Madison. Since 1991, he has coordinated the UW-Stevens Point-Magdeburg Sister University Program for exchange programs between the American and German institutions. At his own campus, he also is supervisor of student teachers and director of master's degree candidates in the foreign languages. ■

Mark Seiler

Bauer receives distinguished title

Gregory P. Bauer, senior psychologist in the counseling center at UW-SP, has been granted use of the term "distinguished" for his title.

He is the first member of the academic staff at the university to be so honored.

The "distinguished" prefix is reserved for "a very limited number of individuals who have extensive and consistent records of exceptional performance and who have been recognized for expertise in their field both within and outside of the UW System."

Only a "handful" of academic professionals in the state have received the designation, according to personnel officials in the UW System office in Madison.

Approval of the title must be granted by a campus faculty/staff titling committee and the chancellor. At most campuses, the designation has not been awarded.

Bauer is a counselor who specializes in short-term therapy, assessment and crisis intervention. He has received national recognition in his field for his professional writings and participation in national meetings.

His third and fourth books, about transference and psychotherapy, are due off the presses this fall. Bauer also has written 13 articles for professional journals and is a member of the editorial boards of two professional journals.

Bauer grew up in rural Iola and was graduated from UW-SP in 1973. He did graduate study at Purdue University and at Oklahoma State University, where he received a Ph.D. He served a predoctoral internship and postdoctoral fellowship at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio. For seven years, he was an assistant director of counseling and director of the psychology internship program at the State University of New York's Counseling Center in Buffalo before joining the UW-SP counseling center's staff in 1988. ■

Gregory P. Bauer

Bowen leads 'Partners'

The Wisconsin-Nicaragua Partners of the Americas has opened a new state office at UW-SP.

Executive Director Sherin Bowen, a resident of Stevens Point who was appointed to her position last fall, staffs the facility in Nelson Hall.

Wisconsin and Nicaragua have been sister states for about 28 years, and UW-SP has been actively involved in that liaison since the mid-1970s. Stevens Point's partner city in Nicaragua for the past three years has been Esteli, which is located about as far north of Nicaragua's capital, Managua, as Stevens Point is from Madison, and has a population of 80,000. ■

Name _____
Maiden Name (if appl.) _____
Major _____
Minor _____
Class of 19 _____ or last year attended 19 _____
Employer _____
Position _____
Spouse (Maiden Name if appl.) _____
Major _____
Minor _____
Class of 19 _____ or last year attended 19 _____
Employer _____
Position _____
Home Address _____
City _____
State _____ Zip _____ County _____
Phone # _____
Information for the Alumni News Column _____
(please, no acronyms)

Please complete and return to: Alumni Relations,
UW-Stevens Point, 212 Old Main Bldg., Stevens Point, WI 54481

Menominee fulfills foreign language requirement

Students at UW-SP now have the option of fulfilling foreign language requirements by studying the language of the Menominee Indians.

For the first time anywhere, Menominee was offered on the collegiate level during the spring semester at UW-SP. A companion four-credit course is being taught this fall.

Marvin Stephen Askenette, 63, is the instructor. He also teaches Menominee at the tribal school in Neopit and the new tribal college in Keshena, pursuing his unprecedented assignment for the sake of cultural preservation.

Use of Menominee has been gradually on the decline, and "the loss of a language is the loss of a certain part of life," he emphasizes.

The new course is being offered to fulfill foreign language requirements, which David Wrone, professor of history and an expert on the Menominees, finds ironic. Until a land cessation via treaty in 1836, the site of the UW-SP campus, belonged to the Menominee tribe, he reports.

Wrone, who supported establishing the course in the curriculum, assists Askenette and participates in class sessions. The professor describes Menominee as "a living language—I can't imagine a finer intellectual challenge or more meaningful approach to American history than through this seldom-used door."

"We flee to Europe to look at the Renaissance paintings and perhaps they are beautiful, but we have pearls of great price at our feet and we should appreciate all the treasures that we have right here," Wrone continued.

Some of the students enrolled in the language course this spring were not Native Americans. Regardless if they are Indians, Askenette says, "I sincerely believe that for people who take the course, it will be a big influence on them because it would bring a certain pride of who they are, of self-identity. In the society that we live in now, it seems that all people are losing sight of who they are."

The textbook is a manual developed by Askenette and the format for the class is the traditional family-learning style, in which students and teacher are equals, working and learning together. People in the class who have children, especially Menominees, are encouraged to bring them to the weekly instructional gatherings in the Collins Classroom Center.

The same format is continuing in the class this fall. ■

Andrea L. Turner

Attorney leads equity issues

An attorney specializing in affirmative action cases for The Ohio State University became UW-SP's new special assistant to the chancellor for affirmative action and equity on June 1.

Andrea L. Turner succeeds Mary Williams, who retired.

Chancellor Keith Sanders said Turner was "recommended to me unanimously and enthusiastically by our search and screen committee." About 50 applicants from across the United States sought the position.

Sanders said Turner has "glowing recommendations and exactly the experience and background we need." He added that she will be "a great asset to the campus as well as to our community at large."

Turner holds an undergraduate degree in English literature from Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania, which she earned in 1983, and a juris doctorate from Case Western Reserve University School of Law in her hometown of Cleveland, Ohio, which she received in 1987.

Besides her university experience, she has served in the Ohio Legal Rights Service and been a self-employed consultant and legal researcher.

At The Ohio State in Columbus, she has conducted grievance investigations and recommended appropriate resolution, served as the principal university resource person regarding internal affirmative action policies and procedures, chaired a committee that rewrote the school's sexual harassment policy. She has written papers, made presentations, and prepared trainers in the areas of employment discrimination, disability discrimination, dispute resolution, racism, diversity and human resources management and sexual harassment.

Turner's responsibilities at UW-SP include keeping the institution in compliance with all federal and state laws regarding affirmative action. She has an education function of keeping members of the campus community abreast of affirmative action and equity issues. ■

Cheryl Fedje appointed

Cheryl G. Fedje assumed duties at the beginning of the fall semester as new head of UW-SP's School of Human Development and Nutritional Sciences.

She succeeds Diane Witte, who led the program for six years and has returned to full-time teaching as a specialist in nutritional science. Joan North, dean of the College of Professional Studies, made the appointment, based on a departmental vote, and gave Fedje the official title of associate dean.

Fedje has served at UW-SP since 1981, arriving when her unit was known as the School of Home Economics. Today, there are 12 faculty members in the program.

Besides teaching, she has received several grants from the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction to develop projects related to family and consumer education.

She recently completed a manuscript for a resources guide in the areas of family, food and society. The publication is to be used in state schools by family and consumer education teachers.

Fedje, who is a native of North Dakota, has degrees from St. Olaf College, North Dakota State University and a doctorate from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Before coming here to teach, she served on the faculties of the University of Oklahoma, University of Minnesota-Duluth and Kearney State College in Nebraska. ■

Cheryl G. Fedje

New Chairs

New physics chief

Professor Ron Lokken, one of several UW-SP faculty members who lost their jobs during a campus financial emergency about 20 years ago, is the new chair of the Department of Physics and Astronomy.

Lokken assumed leadership of the nine-member department at the beginning of the fall semester, succeeding Francis Schmitz, who did not seek reappointment, following a long stint in the office.

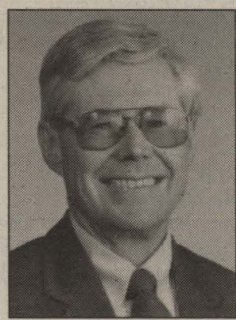

Lokken joined the UW-SP faculty in 1964 after serving as a research assistant under an Atomic Energy Commission contract at the University of North Dakota. The study investigated radiation damage in several inorganic compounds.

He was a tenured professor here in the early 1970s, when several faculty members low on the seniority ladder in various departments were identified for layoff because of a campus budget crisis precipitated by enrollment declines. He then received an appointment to teach at UW-Madison in the nuclear engineering program, but accepted a reappointment to return a year later, when his position was reinstated at UW-SP. By then, he explained, he had become enamored with life in Stevens Point.

Lokken has received two one-year leaves to teach physics at the Institute Technology MARA near Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, the most recent appointment being for the 1990-91 academic term.

In 1985, he was one of the first two recipients of Distinguished Service Awards from the UW-SP Academy of Letters and Science in recognition of outstanding teaching.

Lokken is a native of Valley City, N.D., and received his undergraduate degree at the state college in his hometown. He has a master's degree from the University of North Dakota and a Ph.D. from Utah State University. ■

Ron Lokken

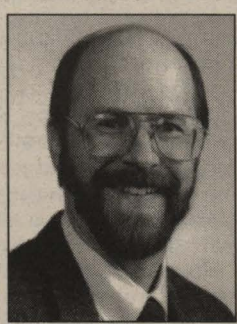

Bishop leads sociologists

E. Sherwood Bishop has been appointed chair of the Department of Sociology at UW-SP.

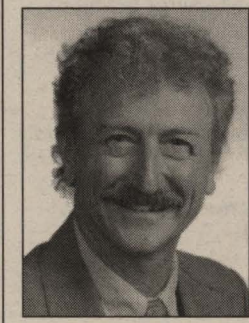

He replaced Eugene Clark, who served as chair for seven years and has decided to return to full-time teaching.

Bishop heads a 10-member department, which recently added a Native American and Rural Social Work minor to its curriculum. A specialist in social psychology and the sociology of mental health, Bishop has taught at UW-SP since 1972. The Kenosha County native holds degrees from Lakeland College, UW-Milwaukee, and Florida State University.

He has been recognized by the university for excellence in teaching and has served as his department's social work internship coordinator for several years. ■

Sherwood Bishop

Gary Hagen

Gerard McKenna, dean of the College of Fine Arts and Communication, who appointed Hagen, said he had "a lot of respect" for the new chair's administrative as well as creative abilities.

The department has 16 faculty members who serve about 260 majors. ■

Gary Hagen chairs art unit

Gary Hagen is the new chair of UW-SP's Department of Art and Design.

He assumed his duties at the beginning of the fall semester, succeeding Richard Feldman, professor of philosophy, who is a former chair of his department and was asked to assist with administrative duties in art and design on an interim basis during the past year.

A student enjoyed an afternoon outside the Professional Studies Building. The small facility that protrudes from the structure is a lecture hall that is named for Helen Parkhurst, a faculty member here before World War I, who became a noted educator in New York City.

Nash heads communicative disorders

Dennis Nash assumed leadership of the School of Communicative Disorders at UW-SP this summer.

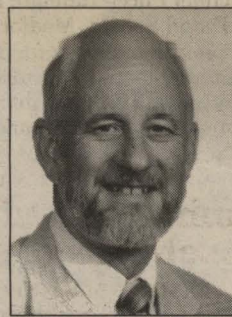

Elected by faculty colleagues, he succeeds LaRene Tufts, who did not seek reappointment after six years in office. She has returned to full-time teaching.

Besides teaching, Nash also has spent the past decade as director of clinical services for his school. A speech and language pathologist, he is a holder of a B.A. degree from Adams State College in his hometown of Alamosa, Colo., an M.S. degree from Colorado State University and a Ph.D. from the University of Kansas. Nash was an English teacher at the Alamosa High School, his alma mater, and in the Platte Canyon Schools in Bailey, Colo., before changing academic disciplines.

He came to UW-SP in 1970.

Besides his university involvement, Nash has been active in the American Cancer Society and in 1989 headed its Wisconsin Chapter. He is on the board of Hospice of Portage County and has served on the Portage County Child Passenger Safety Council.

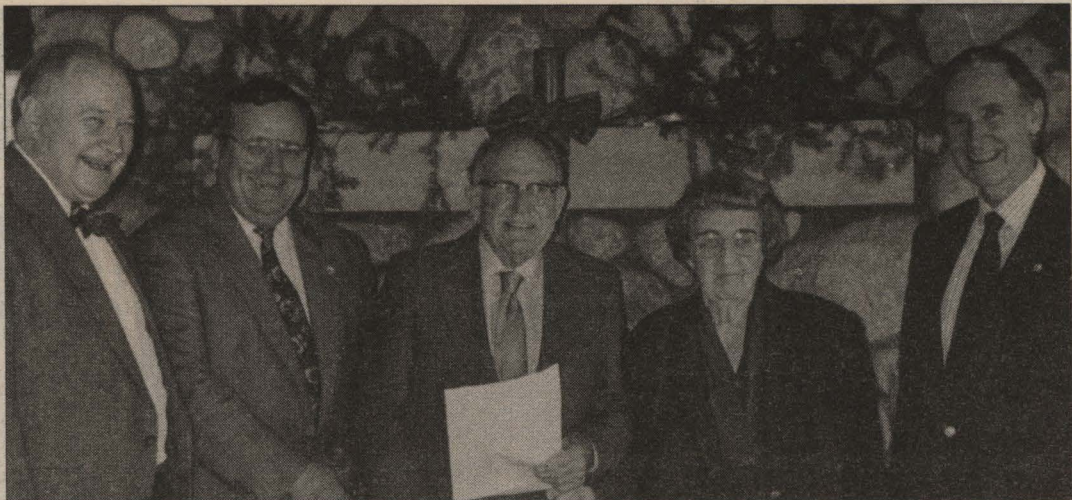

His School of Communicative Disorders has about 125 undergraduates and 55 other students pursuing master's degrees. In its curriculum, more programs are expected to be developed with the use of technology in an Augmentative Communication Laboratory. In public service, he said, the school will make an effort to increase its outreach on behalf of adults, including stroke victims and people with hearing impairments. ■

Dennis Nash

Gifts

Lawrence and Jane Sternberg, center, are saluted for a major gift to the UW-SP Foundation by Alan Haney, right, dean of natural resources, and Jerry Viste, left, president of the foundation, and Chancellor Keith Sanders.

$5 million centennial drive underway

The UW-SP Foundation has launched a $5 million fund drive geared largely for endowments to support student scholarships, distinguished professorships and classroom materials purchases.

Named the UW-SP Centennial Campaign, the drive has the largest goal ever pursued by fund-raisers in Stevens Point's history.

Chancellor Keith Sanders announced that pressing state needs in such area as medical assistance and prison construction are getting more of the state budget that used to go for higher education. Hence the need to seek new sources of revenue.

"Fortunately, the UW-Stevens Point Foundation is addressing the critical financial needs of our school through this campaign," the chancellor said. Solicitations will be conducted through the end of 1994.

Sanders announced that Leonard De Baker, retired president and chairman of the M&I First National Bank of Stevens Point, will chair the campaign. De Baker is a past president of the foundation and a longtime leader of activities to benefit the university.

Thirty-three alumni and friends of the institution chosen to serve as "distinguished cabinet members" are:

Judi Carlson, Michael Copps, Mary Croft, De Baker, Robert Engelhard, Alice Peet Faust, Caroline Fribance, Gordon Haferbecker, Eugene Katz, Don Kropidowski, Charles Nason, Mary Ann Nigbor, John Noel, George Rogers, Robert Schmidt, Scott Schultz, Daniel Trainer, Kenneth B. Willett, David Worth and Louis Wysocki, all of Stevens Point;

Also Patricia Curry, Wisconsin Rapids; Mark Hadley, Robert Hanes and Sharon Nemirow of Wausau; Dan Hauser, Detroit, Mich.; Mike Knapstein, Madison; Dr. Thomas Nikolai and Frederick Wenzel of Marshfield; Michael Pucci, Raleigh, N.C.; Paul Schilling, Milwaukee; D. David Sebold, Medford; Peter Seiler, state of Washington; and Lynn Sprangers, Thiensville.

Terry Porter, a former Pointer basketball star who now plays with the Portland Trail Blazers is the "honorary campaign ambassador."

Tomahawk students pursuing teaching careers to be aided

A scholarship program is being established at UW-SP for students from Tomahawk interested in pursuing careers as elementary teachers.

An annual award of $500 will be a memorial to Beatrice Chvala Mullin, a graduate of UW-SP and longtime teacher in Tomahawk.

Mrs. Mullin died July 27, 1992.

Her daughter, Clarann Mullin Stocker, a teacher in New York City, is sponsoring the award.

The first recipient is expected to be named next spring. Students living in the Tomahawk area interested in pursuing the study of education at UW-SP are eligible.

Mrs. Mullin attended UW-SP during the Depression, working her way through as a domestic in the home of Professor Raymond Rightsell. She received her degree in 1934 and then taught in White Lake, Port Edwards and Cleveland, Ohio, before returning to her native Tomahawk, where she spent about a quarter of a century in her profession. ■

Willett donates $35,000 for lectures, fine arts

A longtime Stevens Point business leader is the benefactor of two endowments totaling $35,000 to the recently launched Centennial Campaign of UW-SP.

The donation from K.B. Willett is being placed in accounts to perpetually finance lectureship programs in a different college each year and to advance the arts in various ways.

Willett, a director of First Financial Corp., former owner with his wife of a travel agency business and before that, an executive at what is now Sentry Insurance, began working in local businesses when he was an 8-year-old boy. He attended UW-SP in the early 1920s.

He has been one of the university's most active community boosters for many years and has served on the board of the UW-SP Foundation, sponsor of the fund drive, most of the time since it was organized in the mid-1960s.

Willett has given $25,000 to the College of Fine Arts and Communication for a Lucille and K.B. Willett Endowment for the Arts.

The dean of the college is designated to identify needs where the annual endowment income should be spent. Examples might include, but not be limited to, guest lecturers on various subjects in the arts, guest set designers and directors, underwriting of art exhibitions and guest visual arts lecturers, guest music lecturers and De Baker said that while the university has a worldwide influence, it has a very important impact on the quality of life of every family of the Central Wisconsin region.

The largest amount of the drive is earmarked for endowed scholarships—$1.4 million. Endowed chairs and visiting professorships would receive $800,000, while distinguished professorships would be funded $300,000. Endowments for library acquisitions and classroom materials purchases would amount to $650,000. Other proceeds would go for a variety of projects ranging from business and educational partnerships to awards for outstanding teachers. ■

Mosinee student winner of UW-SP tuition lottery

Julie Lietz of Mosinee is attending UW-SP this year without charge, and the UW-SP Foundation is $15,000 richer following a first-of-a-kind fund-raising campaign.

The foundation collected the money from parents of existing students, offering them tickets that were used in a drawing to determine the winner of a year of free tuition worth more than $2,100.

Ten other winners received $50 gift certificates to be used in the University Bookstore.

The foundation earned $18,600 for selling 4,514 tickets at $5 for singles or five for $20. Jeff Vollmer, who coordinated the project, said the receipts were almost exactly what he and colleagues expected. The $15,000 figure is the net income.

Only parents of existing students were invited to participate in the contest. But next year, Vollmer said, the campaign is likely to be expanded to include parents of incoming freshmen.

Julie, who has attended a technical college, is a sophomore at UW-SP, majoring in communication. She was employed this summer in a sandwich shop, driving a beverage vehicle at Indianhead Golf Course in Mosinee, and doing computer work for Wausau Imports. ■

Georgia-Pacific gives to paper science unit

Georgia-Pacific Corporation has contributed $10,000 toward a scholarship endowment for the paper science program at UW-SP.

According to Gerry Ring, associate professor of paper science at the university, Georgia-Pacific's gift will help generate funds for a scholarship to be awarded every fall to a junior enrolled in the program. Each student recipient will be required to demonstrate financial need as well as a high grade point average.

Ring said Georgia-Pacific is among eight paper companies that have endowed scholarships for the program, which is part of UW-SP's College of Natural Resources. Approximately 30 students graduate from UW-SP each year with bachelor's degrees in paper science. ■ performers, guest dance specialists and other related programs.

The K.B. and Lucille Willett Endowed Distinguished Lectureship Program has been established with a $10,000 account. It is intended to bring top scholars, speakers and persons of renown in various fields of endeavor to UW-SP each year for a guest lectureship.

The program will begin next year with the College of Natural Resources and then rotate to the other three main academic units of the university, namely the Colleges of Fine Arts and Communication, Letters and Science, and Professional Studies.

Willett said his late wife Lucille's interest in the arts and her long involvement as a patron of them here prompted the larger of the two gifts.

He also observed that through the years athletics usually has little difficulty gaining major shares of proceeds in community fund-raising endeavors. "But it's a lot harder to get money for the arts," he argued, adding, "and the arts are very important."

Gerard McKenna, dean of fine arts and communication, said Willett's gift is the largest unrestricted endowment ever established for the benefit of his college. "The possibilities are endless and the impact on our programs will be felt for years to come," he said. ■

Sternbergs donate property

The UW-SP Foundation is the recipient of 126 acres of land near Mosinee donated by Jane and Lawrence Sternberg of Wausau.

The property is one of the first major gifts in support of UW-SP from Wausau donors.

The main parcel in the gift is 86 acres named "The Patch" by its longtime owners. It has a house and storage buildings. The property is notably wetlands, but has mixed features, including Bull Junior Creek running through it. A nearby 40-acre tract pine woodlot was included in the gift.

Both parcels are in Marathon County's town of Kronenwetter.

In recognition of his support of UW-SP and his many contributions to environmental protection, Sternberg was named by Chancellor Keith Sanders as an honorary fellow in the College of Natural Resources. Mr. and Mrs. Sternberg also received a print of two grouse from the foundation.

Though the property will be made available to faculty and students in any program on campus who have use for it, the property will be managed by the College of Natural Resources. ■

Florence Donermeyer endows $10,000 fund

Florence Donermeyer

Seventy-five years after her graduation from UW-SP, Florence Donermeyer has established a $10,000 scholarship endowment at her alma mater to assist high-achieving students in the School of Communicative Disorders.

Interest from the fund will finance an annual scholarship to a student completing the senior year in the program and preparing to begin graduate study there.

The Florence C. Donermeyer Award will be based exclusively on academic excellence. Special consideration is to be given to candidates who are pursuing careers in the field of education.

The school prepares professionals to serve people of all ages with speech and hearing disorders.

Donermeyer, who lived until recently in Stevens Point, now resides with relatives in Marshfield. She is a retired teacher who spent most of her career in the Oak Park, Ill., school district.

In 1959, Donermeyer was named the first Teacher of the Year for Partially Seeing Children, a national recognition, and given the Winifred Hathaway Award. Earlier, the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness named her its state's Teacher of the Year. At the time, she had a class of 10 boys and four girls in grades 5 to 7, all of whom were partially sighted.

Donermeyer, a Stevens Point native, completed a two-year teacher-training program at UW-SP, then the Stevens Point State Normal School, in 1918. She completed her bachelor's degree there in 1939, then earned a master of arts degree from Northwestern University.

Her nearly half-century of teaching included stints in several Central Wisconsin communities before she was hired at Oak Park in 1928. She remained there until her retirement in 1966. ■

Bank One Stevens Point to sponsor scholarships

Bank One Stevens Point has announced it will sponsor ten $1,000 scholarships during the next five years to assist students from Portage County to attend the UW-SP.

James Rothenbach, president of the bank, said a $10,000 grant to the UW-SP Foundation will finance two scholarships each year.

Qualification for the scholarship should be based on leadership qualities, community and school involvement, and financial need, according to Rothenbach.

James Radford, executive director of the foundation, said the university will credit the donation toward its newly begun Centennial Campaign to raise $5 million, much of which will support student scholarships. ■

Marriages

Tracy Cooper, '93, to Jonathan Cronce. She is a teacher and he is a civil engineering technician at Gremmer & Ohm Architects and Engineers. They live at 1807 Chestnut Drive, Plover.

Christine Fellenz, '92, to Craig Mares, '92. She is a customer service representative at Risk Management Inc., Mequon, and he is a staff accountant at Dental Associates, Wauwatosa. They live in Port Washington.

Tina Mitchell, '92, to Eric Moore. She is an early childhood teacher at Child's Play, DePere, and he is an automotive technician at Bergstrom of Appleton. They live in Appleton.

Kelly Kiffe, '92, to Jasen Jansen. Both are teachers. They reside in Combined Locks.

Mary Foley, '92, to Patrick Quinnell. She is a speech and language clinician with the Adams-Friendship School District and he is employed by Woodruff Lumber Co., Vesper. They live in Wisconsin Rapids.

Janeen Guenther, '92, to Peter LaBorde, '91. She is employed with Merrill Area Public Schools and he is with Mid-State Contracting, Wausau. Their address is 1007 Jefferson St., Merrill.

Kristin Doleman, '92, to Robert Charles, '92. They live in Iowa City, Iowa, where she is completing her master's degree at the University of Iowa and he will attend law school in the fall.

Jean Behm, '92, to Steven Wiechman. She is employed by St. Mary's Hospital and he is an attorney in private practice in Milwaukee, where they live.

Alison Peters, '92, to Timothy Talbot. She is a lead teacher at Community Childcare Center and he is a commercial lender for First Financial Bank. He also is a student at UW-SP and a member of the Army National Guard. They live in Stevens Point.

LeRoy Cater, '92, to Becky Rosnow. She teaches seventh through 12th grade classes at Elk Mound High School for students with behavioral disorders. Their address is 312 N. Third St., Abbottsford.

MaLinda Neumeyer, '92, to Jeff Babl. She is a teacher and he is employed by Schneider Consulting, Mosinee. They live in Schofield.

Traci Friday, '92, to Tony Biolo, '93. He coaches football and track in Wisconsin Rapids, where they live.

Kristin Moore, '92, to Gerald Zett, '92. They live and work in Janesville.

Chad Mistele, '92, to Rebecca Leinen. He teaches at and attends the University of North Carolina and she is employed by Sterling Business in Chapel Hill, N.C., where they live.

Bruce Maatta, '92, to Pamela Messing. He works at Harvey's Amoco and she is employed at Shopko. They live in Stevens Point.

Martha Steinhart, '92, to Jeffrey Bunkelman. A student at UW-SP, he is employed with Wausau Homes. They live in Stevens Point.

Mary Southworth, '92, to William Kures. He is assistant manager of a restaurant in Cincinnati, where they live.

Warren Janisch Jr., '92, to Heidi Markee. He is a programmer/analyst at CUNA Mutual Insurance Group, Madison, and she attends UW-SP. They reside in Mount Horeb.

Sarah Sonnemann, '92, to James Krueger, '91. She is a staff member at the Marshfield YMCA and he is a teacher in Pittsville. They live in Marshfield.

Tami Siddall, '92, to David Horzewski, '92. She is the community wellness coordinator at Berlin Memorial Hospital and he is a supervisor for the Wisconsin Conservation Corps in Green Lake. They live in Ripon.

Todd Sprang, '92, to Nadine Janik. He is employed as a process engineer with Kimberly Clark Corp. in Lee, Mass., and she is attending the National Academy of Paralegal Studies.

Wendy Leder, '92, to Paul Schlaefel. She works at Consolidated Papers, and he attends UW-SP, works for Northland Cranberries and is a member of the U.S. Army Reserves. They live in Stevens Point.

Valerie Lueke, '92, to Craig Kaiser, '89. She is a teacher and he is an arborist at the Milwaukee Country Club, River Hills.

Julie Waldvogel, '92, to Lee Pritzl. She works for Sentry Insurance and he is a student at UW-SP and works for the Stevens Point School District. They live in Stevens Point.

Andrea Bailey, '92, to Brian Cain. He is a student at UW-SP.

Tabitha Degenhardt, '92, to Chris Salzman, '92. He is employed at WSAW-Channel 7, Wausau. They reside in Schofield.

Steven Mitchell, '92, to Diane Thomson. They reside in Scranton, Pa., where she is a process engineer with Procter & Gamble Co.

Nanette Herning, '92, to Andrew Adams. She is a fifth-grade teacher at Lakeshore Elementary School and he is a graduate student at UW-Oshkosh. They live in Fond du Lac.

Beth Spielvogel, '92, to Ronald R. Revels Jr. He is an electrical engineer employed by UPS. They live in Houghton, Mich.

Kelly Cote, '92, to Kristian Hugdahl. He works at ITT Financial in Minneapolis. They live in White Bear Lake, Minn.

Brian Dreves, '92, to Charee Wendorf. He is employed by Hoida Lumber and she is a secretary at R. J. Jacques and a student at UW-Green Bay. Their address is 141 S. Locust St., Green Bay.

Kim Mogged, '92, to Matthew Burie, '91. She is a substitute teacher and a bridal consultant in Appleton, and he is a sales representative with Printco Industries in Pulaski. Their address is 1823 KE Robin Way, Appleton.

Shane Fenske, '92, to Beth Derezinski. He is employed in operations management at Neenah Papers. She works at a child care center. The couple lives in Neenah.

Christopher Hoffman, '92, to Janet Schneider. They reside in Pecatonica, Ill.

Dawn Booth, '92, to Erik Olson. He is employed by Information Age, Wausau. The couple lives in Plover.

Kelly Conrad, '92, to Michael Janssen. He is a manufacturing engineer at Jack's Pizza, Little Chute, where the couple resides.

Andrew Naumann, '92, to Julie Glickman. The couple resides in Stevens Point.

Rhonda Zietlow, '92, to John Belmont. She is a teacher with the Weslaco, Texas school district. He is a welder in Weslaco, Texas, where they reside.

Kristi Kutscher, '92, to Mark Westover. He is an account manager with Menasha Corp.-LEWISystems, Torrance, Calif. They reside in Torrance.

Kristin Carlson, '92, to James Eberhard. She is a waitress and he is assistant manager at Taco Bell restaurant.

Anthony Braun, '92, to Sandra Bauer. He works for M & I First American National Bank. She is the director of occupational therapy at Heritage Haven Care Center, Schofield. They live in Rothschild.

Martin Kurzinski, '92, to Susan Goelz. They are both employed at Wausau Hospital Center in Wausau and reside in Schofield.

Karen Merila, '92, to Bradley Staats. He is a chemistry and physics instructor at Weyauwega-Fremont High School.

Deborah Schmiedlin, '92, to David Pakyz. She is employed at Red Lobster and CPI Photo Finish. The groom works at TJ's Club House, Middleton.

Virginia Smith, '92, to Gregory Jones. She is a secondary biology and special education teacher.

Mark Gehring, '92, to Karen Novachek. The couple resides in Stevens Point.

Monica Widner, '92, to Kenneth Klaason. He is employed by Sentry Insurance as an applications programmer in Stevens Point, where they live.

Melissa Sahli, '92, to Todd Price, '92. She is employed by American Can Graphic Center and he is with the Menasha Corp. The couple resides in Neenah.

Laura Wietrzykowski, '92, to Michael Polum. She is a resident assistant at Evergreens, Plover, and he is a student at UW-SP studying computer information systems. The couple resides in Stevens Point.

Pamela Pape, '92, to Mark Schroeder. She is a self-employed freelance writer. He is employed by Wisconsin Public Service, Wausau. They live in Stevens Point.

Ann Kramer, '92, to Joseph Bechle. He is a machine operator with the Kohler Co. They live in St. Nazianz.

Jill Kieliszewski, '92, to Todd Pierret. He works for Communication Support in Appleton where they live.

Wendy Nemitz, '92, to Martin Luchterhand. He has completed his second year at Wisconsin Lutheran Seminary and is currently serving a one-year vicar assignment in Vassar, Mich.

Diane M. Johnson, '92, to Bruce P. Bruscoe, '91. She is an analyst with Hazeldon Environmental Services of Madison and he is a teacher with the De Forest Area School District. They live in Madison.

Robert R. Koehler, '92, to Shawn K. O'Brien. He works for Nilco Landscape Maintenance, Huntley, Ill., and she is a nursing assistant who worked at North Central Health Care Facility, Wausau. They live in Woodstock, Ill.

Tracy Tophooven, '92, to Steven Schuetz, '91. She is employed as a wildlife biologist by the U.S. Forest Service, Cadillac, Mich., and he works for Baker College, Cadillac. They reside in LeRoy.

Thomas Cox, '92, to Laurie Bellisle. He is an exercise specialist in cardiac rehabilitation at St. Francis Medical Center and she is a "take heart" specialist at St. Francis Heart and Fit Center, both in Peoria, Ill. Their address is 56B Georgetown Road, Washington, Ill.

Sherry Becker, '92, to Gary Peppler. She is a collector for Corporate Collections, First Financial Bank, Stevens Point, and he manages Wisconsin Management Co. of Madison. They live in Stevens Point.

Eric Paneitz, '92, to Loralie Zimpel. She is employed at Mint Flowers. They live in Stevens Point.

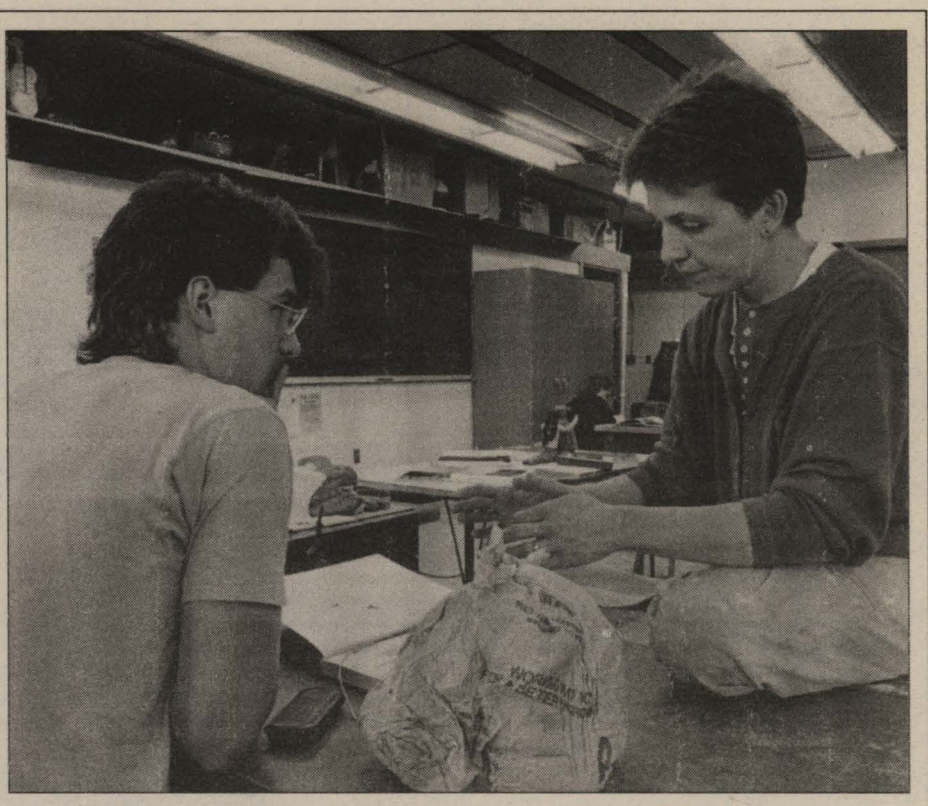

Richard Tarter, '92, to Kristine Johnson. She is a medical social worker at St. Joseph's Hospital in Marshfield, where they live.

Kathleen Gostomski, '92, to Marty Klish, '90. She is employed at the Stevens Point Area YMCA and he is a substitute teacher. They live in Stevens Point.

Patty Platt, '92, to Lenny Mayer. She is a substitute teacher and he is employed by Riberich Inc., in Reedsburg, where they live.

Kari Borens, '92, to Thomas Lazars, '92. She is employed as a social worker at Lincoln County, and he is employed in wildlife management for the DNR in Antigo. They live in Merrill.

Christopher Jansen, '92, to Deborah DeGoey. He is employed at P.H. Glatfelter of Neenah. She is pursuing a degree in French education at UW-Oshkosh. They live in Oshkosh.

Art faculty member Anne-Bridget Gary assists a student in the Fine Arts Center.

Denise Mack, '91, to Robert Huebner, '90. A student activities coordinator at Columbia College of Nursing, she also is attending UW-Milwaukee, where she is pursuing a master's degree. He is employed as district manager at Wiscofit Inc., Milwaukee.

Holly Olson, '91 to Gary Stevens. She works at The Copy Shop, Neenah, and he is with IDS Insurance Co., Green Bay. They live in Appleton.

Jay Wojcik, '91, to Christine Meier. He is a graphic artist at Image Design Advertising, Wausau, and she is manager of Oshkosh B'Gosh Factory Store. They live in Stevens Point.

Kami Brost, '91, to Brian Lobner. She completed a speech and language pathology externship with the Wisconsin Rapids Public School District and he works for Consolidated Papers Inc. They live in Wisconsin Rapids.

Michelle Lockwood, '91, to Michael Steiner. She is a nutritional specialist and he is a student at UW-Madison pursuing a triple major. They live in Madison.

Katie Decker, '91, to Joseph Senesac. She has been a teacher at Wonewoc Center High School and he has worked for Armour Pharmaceuticals, Kankakee, Ill. The couple plans to relocate near Madison.

Kelly Fleischman, '91, to Craig Borchardt, '86. She is a teacher at Trinity Day Care and he is a computer operator at Herrschners of Stevens Point. Their address is 2206 Maple Drive, Plover.

Kimberly Alwin, '91, to Darrel Baker. She is a first-grade teacher at St. John Sacred Heart School, Sherwood, and he is a fire fighter with the City of Appleton. They live in Menasha.

Denise Prahl, '91, to Daniel Dondlinger, '91. She is a medical technologist at St. Michael's Hospital and he is a substitute teacher. They live in Stevens Point.

Kelly Meverden, '91, to Todd Schmidt. She is a special education teacher at Birnamwood Elementary School and he is a self-employed dairy farmer. They live at W17288 Church Road, Birnamwood.

Debra Hagedorn, '91, to Richard Pederson. She has been a groundskeeper at Sentry World Golf Course, Stevens Point, and he is a student at Davenport College in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Susan Zdroik, '91, to DeWayne Burant. She is with ICI Specialty Inks, Neenah, and he is employed by Pieper Power, Milwaukee. They live in Appleton.

Sharon Heinz, '91, to David Tupa, '89. She is an English teacher and he is a science teacher. They live in Weyerhaeuser.

Rochelle Anderson, '91, to Jeffrey Evenson, '87. She teaches dance at Pat Fletcher Dance Studio and he is employed at West Industries, both of Hudson.

Paul Huettner, '91, to Shannon Meagher. He is employed at Norm's Amoco in Amherst and she is completing her degree at UW-SP. They live in Amherst.

Lora Bray, '91, to David Kloth, '91. She is a library and information studies student at Northern Illinois University where she has an assistantship in government publications. He is a graduate assistant in applied probability and statistics at Northern Illinois. They live in DeKalb, Ill.

Sue Reynolds, '91, to Dave Harding. She is a teacher at Grant School and he is service manager at Warsinske Motors. They live in Wisconsin Rapids.

Kellie Clark, '91, to Cody Bohn. She is a music teacher in Neenah-Menasha and he is employed by Menards of Appleton. They live in Appleton.

Colleen Ostrowski, '91, to Ronald Shnowske, '89. She is a substitute teacher and salesperson at the ID Boutique. He is the director of public affairs at Chiropractic Health Group, Wausau. They live in Schofield.

Sheila Zdun, '91, to Todd DeDecker, '91. She is a residential counselor at Youth Services of Mid-Illinois and he is a programmer/analyst at State Farm Insurance. They live and work in Bloomington, Ill.

Mitchell Rasmussen, '91 to Cynthia Potocki. He is a laboratory technologist at Riverside Hospital and she is manager of Ritz Camera Center in Minneapolis, where they live.

Eric Nelson, '91, to Kathy Rodrian. He is a seventh and eighth grade science teacher at Tri-County Middle School, Plainfield. She graduated from UW-SP last spring. They reside in Plover.

Ann Kollross, '91, to Rick Ott. She is a physical education teacher at Marshfield Junior High School. He is self-employed as a farmer. They reside in Marshfield.

Daniel Miller, '91, to Jodi Wiedenhoef. He is employed as product sales coordinator of card services at First Financial Bank in Stevens Point. She is a senior at UW-SP.

Faith Selby, '91, to Brian William Arndt. She is a substitute teacher for the Marshfield School District. The couple resides at 210 N. St. Joseph Ave., Marshfield.

Bradley Derks, '91, to Jennifer Bartel. They reside in Wausau.

Sherry Thompson, '91, to Kraig Terpstra. She is a third-grade teacher for the Stevens Point School District.

Cynthia Wallace, '91, to Christopher Wills, '91. They live in Madison.

Russell Wilke, '91 to Peggy Johnson. He is a route salesman with Krueger Wholesale Florists in Mosinee. They live in Schofield.

Mitchell Rasmussen, '91, to Cynthia Potocki. The couple resides in Minneapolis where he is a medical technologist at Riverside Hospital and she is the manager of Ritz Camera Center.

Ron Falkowski, '91, to Patricia Persen, '92. The couple lives in La Crosse where he is a hydrogeologist for Davy Engineering Co. and she is a kitchen designer for Cabinets by Design-Ross Builder.

Scott Matti, '91, to Heather Dalton. He is a Second Lieutenant in the Army Reserves. She is a student at UW-SP. The couple resides in Stevens Point.

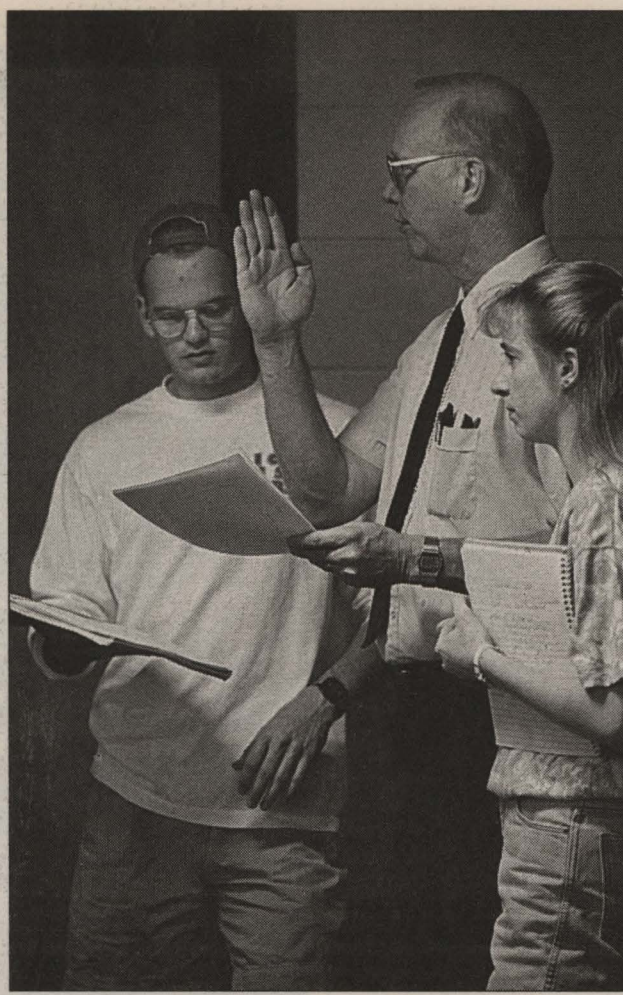

Paul Dimka, '91, to Beth Zuleger. They are teachers in the Wausau School District and reside in Schofield.

Brian Frank, '91, to Ingrid Olson. He is employed by Capitol Indemnity Corp. of Madison and she is employed by First National Bank of Baraboo. Their address is 5254 Brindisi Court, Apt. 8, Middleton.

Terri Klepper, '91, to Daniel Harris, '91. He is attending graduate school at the University of Illinois and is enrolled in its sports medicine and athletic training program. They live in Champaign, Ill.

Julia A. Gehrmann, '91, to David A. Hickinbotham. She is employed by Valley Bank and he is with Stock Lumber Co. They live in Appleton.

Steven Robillard, '91, to Michelle Zieske. They live in Stevens Point, where she is employed by WSPT Radio.

Biology Department Chair Virgil Thiesfeld explains a test question to students.

Prior to that, he served four years of active duty in the U.S. Air Force. The couple lives in Stevens Point.

Susan K. Wolf, '91, to Michael Kirchner. He is a project engineer at Woodward Governor Co. in Stevens Point, where they live.

Ruth Pierce, '91, to Richard Gore, '91. She is a speech-language pathologist with the Fairbanks North Star School District. He works as a waste minimization manager. They reside in Fairbanks, Alaska.

Robert Cochran, '91, to Lisa Larson. She owns and operates First Impression hair salon in Wisconsin Rapids, where they live.

Robert Berceau, '91, to Rochelle Worachek. He is a soil tester for George's Soil Testing and she is a customer service assistant at Schneider National. They live in Luxemburg.

Rachel Smith, '91, to George Helbach. He is a pilot with United Airlines. They live in Mosinee.

Paul Borek, '91, to Catherine Coley, '91. He is employed by ABB Process Automation and she works for Mount Carmel Health Care Center in Columbus, Ohio, where they live.

Natalie Podner, '91, to Jay Brochtrup. She is a speech-language pathologist for the Menasha Joint School District, and he is a business data processing consultant for Advanced Information Management, Menasha. They live in Neenah.

Lori Walter, '91, to Robert Burns, '91. She is employed by the Janesville School District and he works at the Janesville Athletic Club. Their address is 3107 Palmer Drive, Janesville.

Lori Haack, '91 to Jeffrey Petrie. She teaches elementary school and he is employed by Konz Wood Products. They reside in Appleton.

Leslie Schulz, '91, to David Hagengruber, '91. She is a substitute teacher in Carbondale, Ill., and he is a graduate student and instructor at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, and a consultant to L.L. Bean Inc., Freeport, Maine. They live in Carbondale.

Karlene Vogel, '91, to Craig Giese. She works at M&I Bank and he is employed by Copps Corp. Their address is 2609 Jefferson St., Stevens Point.

James Giese, '91, to Leanne Baginski. He is pursuing a master's degree in clinical psychology at Marquette and she is a fourth-grade teacher in Waukesha. They live in Milwaukee.

Karen Trzebiatowski, '91, to James Healy. She works at Ponderosa, Menomonee Falls, and he is a case manager at Goodwill Industries, Milwaukee. They live in Menomonee Falls.

Jodi Susen, '91, to Thomas Lanser. He is a civil engineer for Gremmer and Ohm Architects and Engineers, Stevens Point.

Heather Spitz, '91, to Jason Jones. Both are employees of Enterprise Systems Inc., Bannockburn, Ill. They live in Palatine, Ill.

Gregory Pulchinski, '91, to Dawn Peplinski. He is a process engineer for Consolidated Papers, Wisconsin Rapids, and she is employed at Cee Dee Acres, Plover. They live in Stevens Point.

Elwin Melbrech II, '91, to Karen Kuchenbecker. Prior to their marriage, he was a video consultant at Preferred Video, Stevens Point. She is studying clinical psychology in a master's program in Wheaton, Ill., and works as a psychiatric counselor. They reside in Wheaton.

Christine Pawelski, '91, to Kenneth Kluck. She works at Shopko and he is a mechanic at Wisconsin Central. They reside in Rosholt.

Amy Rasmussen, '91, to Kyle Franson, '91. She is a teacher in the Neenah School District and he did his practice teaching at Rhinelander High School. They reside in Neenah.

Stefan Fabian, '91, to Christine Meyers. He is employed by Portage County in the natural resources field. They live in Stevens Point.

Chad Bushman, '91, to Tricia Weinfurter. He is a partner in Bushman Masonry and she is a salesperson for Buyers Guide. They live in Wisconsin Rapids.

Christine Rauen, '91, to Joseph Blair. Both are employed at Kolbe & Kolbe Millwork, Wausau. They live in Wausau.

Fred Hebblewhite, '91, to Lori Stillman. He is a manager trainee with Menards, Milwaukee, and she is a manager of Door County Confectionery. They live in Milwaukee.

Heidi Helbach, '91, to Charles Pronschinski, '92. She is a graphic designer at New Hope Graphics, Amherst, and he is a physical education and health teacher at Laona High School. They reside in Laona.

Tammy Garrison, '91, to Neil Jeske, '91. She is employed with WGEE/WIXX radio as a news reporter and he is with Fort Howard Paper Co. Their address is 1106 Roland Lane, Green Bay.

Robert Roloff, '91, to Kelly Jensen, '92. He works at Woodward Governor and she is a graduate student at UW-SP. They reside in Stevens Point.

Michelle Glodowski, '91, to Travis Knopf, '92. She is an assistant manager at Maurices and he is a second-grade teacher in Wausau, where they reside.

Kimberly Olski, '91, to Thomas Kromenaker. She is employed by Tom's Paint and Decorating and he works for Consolidated Papers. They live in Wisconsin Rapids.

Jennifer Evers, '91, to Douglas Rose. She is a placement specialist with Spectrum Services and he is a supervisor at Creative Leather & Vinyl Mfg., Grafton. They live in Port Washington.

Traci Ceballos, '91 to Andrew Pronga, '90. She is a teacher in the Wisconsin Rapids School District and he is a process engineer for Consolidated Papers, Wisconsin Rapids, Kraft Division. They live in Wisconsin Rapids.

Karen Koch, '91, to Michael Blum. She is a substitute teacher for the Wausau and D.C. Everest school districts and he is a teacher and coach at Wausau West High School. They live in Schofield.

Kelyn C. Murphy, '91, to Jeffrey L. Meyer. She is a fifth-grade teacher at Allenton Elementary School and he is with Rickmeyer Floor Covering, Germantown. They live in Richfield.

Shawn DeHahn, to Kevin Bonnin. She is a teacher at Keshena Head Start and he is engaged in farming. They reside in Bonduel.

Wendy Chaussee, '91, to Kevin Jacobs. She is an interior designer at Betty Johnson Interiors, Kohler, and he is a carpenter with Steffes Builders, St. Cloud. Their address is 2016A Wisconsin Ave., New Holstein.

Ann Claussen, '91, to Rick Brantmeier. She is a public relations assistant at St. Nicholas Hospital, Sheboygan, and he is a service advisor at Dick Brantmeier Ford/Lincoln/Mercury. They live in Sheboygan.

David Van Grinsven, '91, to Nikol Marquardt. He is employed by Wisconsin Clock Co. of Clintonville and she is a sales clerk/receptionist. They live in Shawano.

Debora Chapman, '91, to David Olson, '90. They live in Washburn.

Tammy Baumann, '91, to Jeffrey Hyler. She is a substitute teacher and he is employed with Insulation & Supply Co., Appleton. They live in Neenah.

Meredith Schwoch, '91, to John Heldt. She is a production control technician at Hurd Millwork Co., and he is a glass supervisor at Lincoln Wood Products in Merrill, where they live.

Jill Natz, master's '91, to William Oswald. She is a speech and language pathologist for the Watertown Unified School District and he is a purchasing agent with Wisconsin Electric in Milwaukee. Their address is 415 S. Water St. Apt. 105, Watertown.

Corey Meyer, '91, to Rochelle Miedema. He is a registered representative for MetLife and she is a secondary German teacher in New London. Their address is 473 W. Cornell Ave., Stevens Point.

Becky Gordon, '91, to Scott Morrison, '89. She is pursuing a master's degree in counseling at UW-Oshkosh and working at Travel Guard International. He is a management accountant at Consolidated Papers. They live in Stevens Point.

Kellie Jo Vandenberg, '91, to Kelly Peters. She is with the Neenah-Menasha Red Cross and he is with Countryside Veterinary Service, Appleton. They live in Seymour.

Kris Washtock, '91, to Brian Reas. She is a trust processor at Mellon Bank and he is a student at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh. They live in Library, Pa.

Pamela Baltus, '91, to Charles Kaffine. She is employed with the Menomonie School District.

Ann Burke, '90, to Thomas Rogers. She is a substitute teacher who also works for Shopko Pharmacy, Appleton, and he is a flight instructor for Magnus Aviation of Manitowoc and a pilot with a West Bend National Guard unit. They reside in Appleton.

Brian Hermann, '90, to Peggy Nackers. He is employed by Pro Label Inc., Appleton, and she is with Green Bay Food Co., Green Bay. They live in Black Creek.

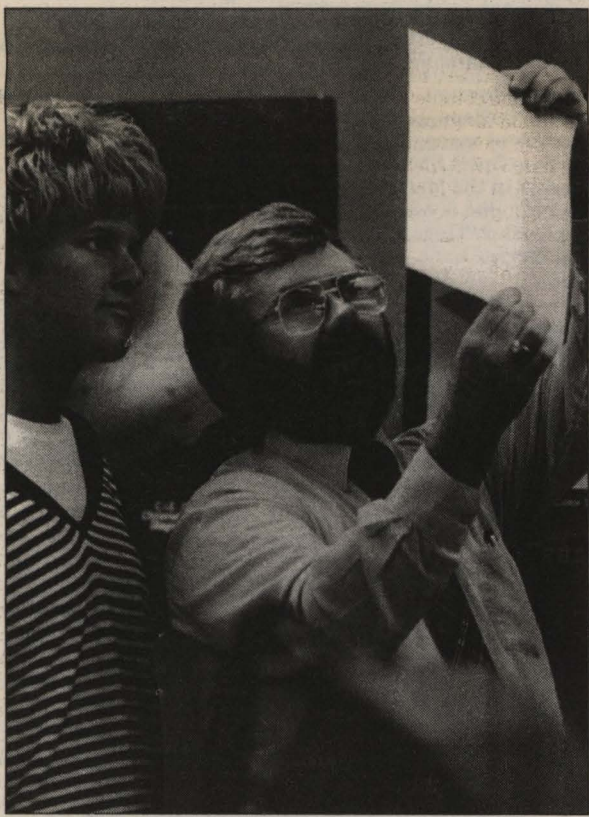

Joanna Meyers, '90, to John Laukant. She is a third-year medical student at the Medical College of Wisconsin and he is employed by WDA Associates. They live in Mukwonago.

Patricia Hollingsworth, '90, to Joseph Nemeth. She is a program administrator at Johnson & Johnson Health Management Inc., Santa Monica, Calif., and he is a sales representative at the Kennedy Co., San Diego. They live in Long Beach.

Keith Feind, '90, to Karen Schmitt. He is a groundwater monitoring technician at Waste Management and she is an early childhood educator. They live in Lake County.

Lynette Lingford, '90, to Michael Weis. She is a first-grade teacher at Franklin Elementary School and he is a department supervisor for Metals Corp. They live in Wausau.

Jesse Kaster, '90, to Kelly Ganzel. They live in Rhinelander where he is a clinical dietitian at Petersen Health Care and she has been a student teacher at Professor Jerry Ring of the paper science program examines a project of one of his students.

Tracy Waskiewicz, '91, to Tom Groth, '91. She is a teacher in the Appleton Area School District and he is with Rollex Corp., Elm Grove, Ill. The couple resides in Menasha.

Jennifer Prange, '91, to Patrick Stoiber. The couple resides in Wisconsin Rapids where she is a psychometrician at Clinical Services and he is a chiropractor at Riverside Chiropractic.

Collin Albrecht, '91, to Rachel Lukich. He is employed by the Waupaca Foundry and she is pursuing a degree in art education at UW-SP. The couple resides in Plover.

DuWayne Bonkoski, '91, to Toni Meyers. He is employed as an information center analyst at Figi's, Marshfield. She is a UW-SP student. The couple resides in Chili.

Scott Lyons, '91, to Allison Lading, '91. She works for Printron Engravers and he is with Un Inc., Appleton. They live in Appleton.

Peter Ross, '91, to Terri Fuller. He is technical supervisor for Public Paperboard Co., Commerce City, Colo. They live in Denver.

Timothy Feit, '91, to Jennifer Thew. He has a cytotechnology internship at the Marshfield Clinic and she is director of communication for the Woodland Girl Scout Council.

Susan Hodell, '91, to Michael VanderLoop. She is a head teacher at Wausau Child Care and he is employed by Baers Beverage in Schofield, where they live.

Jacqueline Damm, '91, to Steven Bartz. He is a student at UW-SP and a member of the U.S. Air Force Reserve.

Pine Lakes Elementary School.

Elona Schoblocher, '90, to Grant Winslow, '89. She is a science teacher at Notre Dame Academy in Green Bay and he is employed by the city of DePere, where they make their home.

Amy Chier, '90, to Martin Wenig. They both work at Berlin High School, where she teaches English and he teaches industrial arts. They live in Berlin.

Kim Lasecki, '90, to Cynthia Berner. The holder of a master's degree from UW-Platteville, he is a social worker with the Dane County Department of Social Services, and she is a student at UW-Madison School of Medicine. They live in Oregon.

Nancy Denk, '90, to Richard Brown, '90. She received her master's degree from Mankato State University in 1992. He is a corporate sales representative at Northwest Health Clubs. Their address is 7700 Penn Ave. S, Richfield, Minn.

Randy Gleason, '90, to Beth Heier. He is a substitute teacher and coach for the D.C. Everest School District, and employed at Bausch's 29 Super, Schofield. She is a personal banker with Citizens Bank and Trust, Schofield.

Kelli Cramer, '90, to John Urrich, '85. She is an actor in the Chicago Area and he is administrative assistant for the General Council on Finance and Administration for United Methodist Church in Evanston, Ill., where they live.

Kerry O'Hearn, '90, to Ryan Kluck, '91. She is pursuing a master's degree in speech/language pathology at UW-SP, and he is a process engineer with Consolidated Papers, Wisconsin Rapids. Their address is 408 Bukolt Ave., Stevens Point.

Jay Zimmer, '90, to Mary Bryan. He is a junior high teacher and she is a day care worker in Stevens Point, where they reside.

Amy Kedrowski, '90, to Lee Kubisiak. She is a substitute elementary teacher and he works at the Donaldson Co. They reside in Stevens Point.

James Erickson, '90, to Darcy Wagner. They live in Hudson.

Heidi Singer, '90, to Kody Brost. She is employed by Travel Guard International and he is a radiologic technologist at St. Nicholas Hospital, Sheboygan. They live in Sheboygan.

James Affeldt, '90, to MaryAnne Jankovich. He is employed at Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah. She works at Valley Packaging. They live in Appleton.

JoAnne Przybylski, '90, to John Lasinski, '91. She is a paralegal at Michael, Best and Friedrich, Milwaukee. He is a computer programmer and analyst at Johnson Controls, Milwaukee. They live in Muskego.

Linda Tomtshak, '90, to James Cotnoir. She is employed with Avery Appraisals, and he works for Kimberly-Clark, Corp., Hendersonville, N.C., where they reside.

Keith Dupuis, '90, to Michelle Hintz. He is an account executive with WOFM Radio, Mosinee-Wausau and co-owner of Paper City Lanes in Mosinee. She is a special education teacher in the Mosinee School District. The couple lives in Mosinee.

Stacy Hoyer, '90, to Anthony Menting, '90. She is employed with Visual Systems Inc. He is completing his final year for a juris doctorate degree at the Marquette University School of Law, Milwaukee. The couple lives in Milwaukee.

Greg Ruthsatz, '90, to Beth Hoffman. They are employed with American United Life Insurance Co. in Indianapolis and reside in Fishers, Ind.

Julie Bortz, '90, to Wayne Opichka, '89. She is a substitute teacher in the Whitehall School District and he is a social worker for Whitehall's Department of Social Services. They reside in Whitehall.

Lisa Fochs, '90, to Joseph Jakusz. She is employed with Mosinee School System.

Susan Kuehl, '90, to Lawrence Van Asten. She is a social worker at Tomorrow's Children in Waupaca.

Lisa Rhode, '90, to David Zeihen, '90. The couple lives in Appleton where he works with WiscoLift. She is employed by Neenah Foundry Co., Neenah.

Diane Jesko, '90, to David Mielke. They reside in Marinette.

Kris Aaseby, '90, to Daniel Kutschera. The couple lives in Appleton where she is a social worker.

Julie Murphy, '90, to Michael Vander Loop. She teaches fifth and sixth grades at Rudolph Elementary School. They reside in Stevens Point.

Daniel Merk, '90, to Julie Rzentkowski, '91. He is an accountant for Sentry Insurance and she is an accountant for Wipfli Ullrich, Bertelson, CPAs, Wausau. They reside in Wausau.

David Faucett, '90, to Christine Brown. The couple resides in Green Bay, where he is a treatment plant operator with Green Bay Metropolitan Sewerage District and she is an injury investigator with American Medical Security.

Joseph Kearney, '90, to Carrie Lehnher. They reside in Stevens Point, where they are employed by Sentry Insurance.

Tracey Zernia, '90, to Michael Nowack. She is a substitute teacher for the Brevard County School System in Merritt Island, Fla., where the couple resides. He is employed at Lockheed Space Operations Co., Kennedy Space Center.

William Laidlaw, '90, to Hydie McDowell. The couple resides in Stevens Point where he owns Pampered Pets and works for the Stevens Point Public School System. She is a student at UW-SP and a proof operations specialist at Bank One.

Joseph Walbrun, '90, to Lori Konrad. He is with Gemini International, Kimberly She is with Creative Group Inc. The couple resides in Menasha.

Jeffrey Griepentrog, '90, to Jayne Kafka, '90. He works for Kafka Forestry, Mosinee, and she is with Kafka Granite in Stratford, where they live.

John Du Mez, '90, to Julie Jensema, '92. He is employed by the Dodge County Survey and Description Department as a cartographer. Their address is 310 1/2 Beaver St., Beaver Dam.

Paul L. Borens, '90, to Kristine M. Mitchell, '91. He is a substitute teacher and coach in Marshfield and she is a facility planner for Sentry Insurance of Stevens Point. Their address is 1508 S. Adams, Apt. 209, Marshfield.

Donald E. Neve II, '90, to Tracy Fox, '91. Both teachers, they live in Pittsville.

Jodie Geisel, '90, to Jesse Schartner, '90. She is a credit analyst at Bank of Sturgeon Bay and he is a research specialist at the UW-Peninsular Experimental Station. Their address is 730 Ebttide Place, Sturgeon Bay.

Anne Schmitz, '90, to Douglas Ablor. She is a laboratory animal technician at Hazleton, Madison, and he is a meat cutter at Sentry Foods, Waunakee. Their address is 4318 Melody Lane, No. 102, Madison.

Elizabeth Sindlinger, '90, to Donald VandenHeuvel, '90. He is a process engineer with Champion International, Houston, Texas, where they live.

Dennis Tlachac, '90, to Julie Zoromski. He is employed by the DNR and she is studying pharmacy at UW-Madison. They live in Middleton.

Jennie Senft, '90, to Mark LeMere. She is employed by the March of Dimes and he works for Fort Howard Paper Co. They live in Ashwaubenon.

Connie Wavrunek, '90, to Timothy Bell. He is an F-16 avionics specialist. They live in Germany.

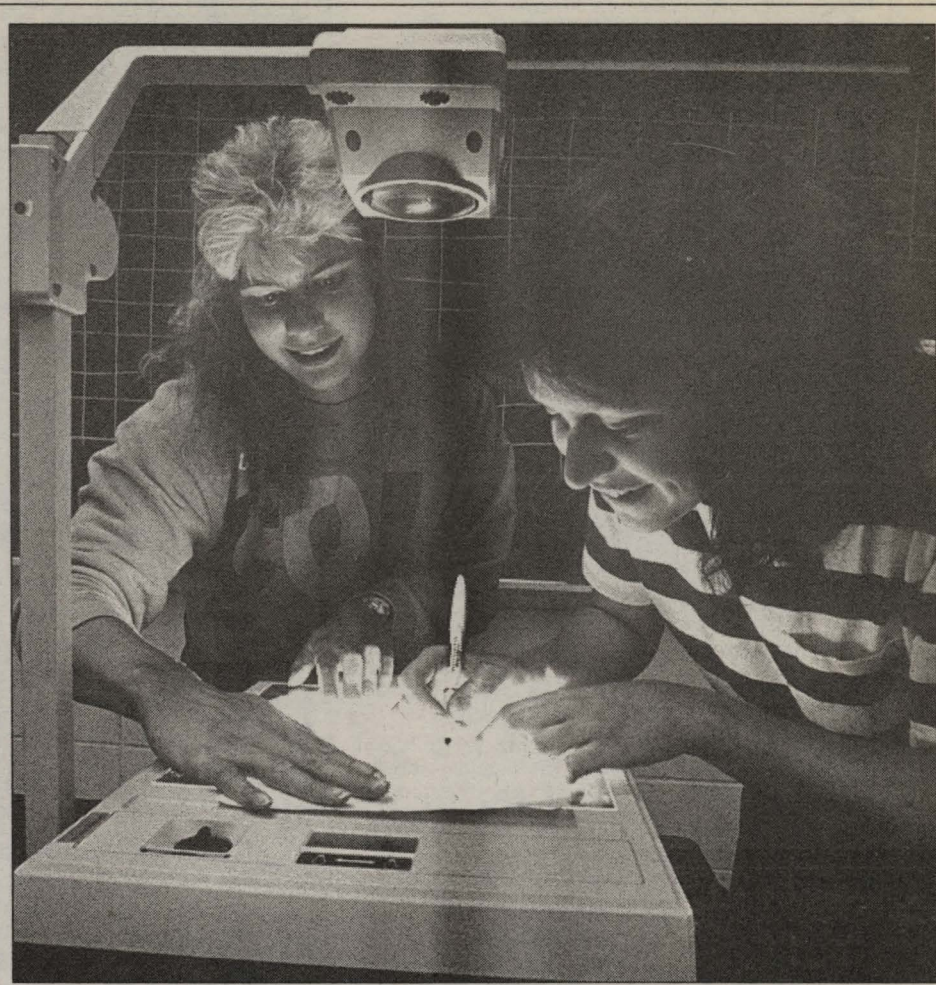

John Besaw, '90, to Janmarie Kleisner. He is a student at UW-SP and she is employed by Modern Interiors, Stevens Point.

Janice Jerzak, master's '90, to Alexander Reichl. She is a special education teacher in Rosholt and he is executive chef at The Restaurant and Pagliacci's. They live in Stevens Point.

Timothy Wentworth, '90, to Jill Delzer. He is news director at WOMA Radio, Algoma, and she is a physical therapist assistant at Bellin Memorial Hospital. They live at 3059 Albert Drive, Green Bay.

Mark Knaack, '90, to Gayle Trask. He is pursuing a graduate degree at St. Thomas University, St. Paul, and is a hydrogeologist with Leggette, Brashears and Graham Environmental Consultants, Roseville, Minn. She is enrolled in the master's program at the University of Minnesota and is a speech pathologist in the St. Paul Public Schools. They live in Roseville.

Kenneth Pozorski, '90, to Michelle Schuster. He is employed by the Stearns County Soil and Water Conservation District and the Technology has changed dramatically in recent years and teaching aids can do remarkable things. However, the overhead projector remains a popular and important tool for students and professors alike.

Sauk River Watershed District. She is deputy city clerk in Sauk Centre, Minn. They live in Alexandria, Minn.

Ellen Entwistle, master's '90, to Bretton Fish, '91. She has worked as an audiologist at Madison Medical Center. They now live in Seattle.

Brian Blatz, '90, to Kelly Killian. He is employed by General Motors and she works for Dee Kay Enterprises, both of Detroit. They live in Sterling Heights, Mich.

Anne Lintereur, '90, to Michael Merryfield. She teaches English as a second language at Lincoln School, Wausau School District. He is an estimator at Schuette Metals. They live in Wausau.

Tammy Koskey, '90, to Derrick Bushman. He is a vice president of Harmony State Bank in Harmony, Minn., where they live.

Melissa Platt, '90, to Kirk Lantz. She is a second-grade teacher for the Delavan-Darien School District and he works for Lloyd's Plumbing and Heating. They live in Janesville.

Linda Olson, '90, to Paul Bratz, '90. She is employed at First Wisconsin Bank and he is with Wisconsin Analytical and Research Services. They live in Madison.

Tamlyn Thomas, '90, to Stephen Clabots. She is a pre-med student at UW-SP and an EMT on Plover First Responder. He works for TW Masters Overhead Door Co. They live in Plover.

Peter Serena III, '90, to Peggy Studzinski.

Sarah Hodges, '90, to Scott McMullen. She is a prenatal childbirth educator at South Carolina Dept. of Health and Environmental Control and a First Lieutenant in the U.S. Army National Guard. He is a marketing director at St. Andrew's Parish Parks and Playground Commission. They live in Charleston, S.C.

John G. Gajewski, '90, to Tracy Somers. He is office manager at King's Campers and she is an operations supervisor at First Financial Bank. They live in Wausau.

Janell Johnson, '90, to Jeff Fischer. She is a teacher and an employee of Northwest Fabrics & Crafts. He works for Hub City Foods. They live in Stratford.

James Erickson, '90, to Darcy Wagner. They live in Hudson.

Leah Soffa, '90, to Jason Luzerne. She is employed with Curwood Inc., Oshkosh, and he is with Matthew's Tire & Auto, Appleton. They live in Neenah.

Tammy Tremelling, '90, to Thomas Hardinger. She is a registered dietitian at Marshfield Clinic and he is a civil engineer with the Department of Transportation, Wisconsin Rapids. Their address is 8401 Fox Lane, Marshfield.

Robert Glennon, '89, to Shawna LaRene. He is a department manager at the One Stop Sport Shop and a sergeant in the Marine Reserves. She is employed with Qualex. Their address is 4424 Terrace Lane, Stevens Point.

Korner Child Care Center and he is employed by Neyra Corp. They live in Wisconsin Rapids.

Jessica O'Keefe, '89, to Jason Busse. She teaches sixth grade at Gibraltar Schools and he is a car salesman at Port Plaza Auto, Sturgeon Bay. Their address is 5720 Gordon Road, Sturgeon Bay.

Debra Kieslich, '89, to Frank Shuda, '89. She is a senior consultant at the Milwaukee office of Anderson Consulting, and he is a programmer/analyst at M&I Data Services, Brown Deer. They live in New Berlin.

Michelle Belohlavek, '89, to Gary Shulfer, '86. She is a medical technologist at A guitar, TV and suitcase at curbside near a residence hall. Must be time for semester to begin or end.

Anne Kwitek, '89, to Kevin Black. She is pursuing a Ph.D. in human genetics at the University of Iowa and he is a vocational coordinator for Systems Unlimited Inc., Iowa City. They live in Coralville, Iowa.

Kimberly Gardner, '89, to Lenn Robison. She is assistant director at Kids

Riverview Hospital, Wisconsin Rapids, and he is an instructional specialist with the UW-SP chemistry department. They live in Stevens Point.

Scott Wildberg, '89, to Amy Frankki. He is self-employed as a cleaning contractor and owns Central Janitorial and Paper Supply in Medford.

Small children and those with handicapping conditions participate in programs in the therapeutic pool in the Health Enhancement Center.

She is a bank teller and a summer school teacher. They reside in Medford.

DeAnn Kuse, '89, to Michael Steinwagner. She is a fourth-grade teacher at St. John's School and he is a warehouse supervisor at Figi's Inc. Their address is 506 S. Cedar Ave., Marshfield.

Lori Staudinger, '89, to Michael Sorge, '90. She is an account manager at NCR Corp., and he is an environmental specialist with the Wisconsin DNR. They live in Wausau.

Brian Wiktorek, '89, to Lisa Roulrier. An aviator and First Lieutenant with the U.S. Marines, he will be stationed in Okinawa, Japan.

Gina Behnke, '89, to Steven Paschke, '88. She is an estimator at Menasha Corp., and he is the owner of Tru-Green Lawn and Landscaping. They reside in Appleton.

Greg Pederson, '89, to Elizabeth Hayhoe. He is employed by Mead Paper in Escanaba, Mich. She is a registered nurse. They live in Gladstone, Mich.

Carol Dehlinger, '89, to Matthew Putman. She works for International Paper Co. and he is employed by GTE. The couple lives in Erie, Pa.

John Mountford, '89, to Teresa Sisel. He is a sales representative at West Twin Distributors, Shoto. She is a hair stylist at Excellence in Styling, Two Rivers.

James Lehr, '89, to Kim Roehl. He is employed by Mid-State Supply, Fond du Lac. She is an assistant manager in fashion merchandising at Westport, Ltd., Oshkosh.

Charles Springer, '89, to Jody Shubat. She is employed by Kimberly-Clark Corp., Irving, Texas. He works for K-C Aviation, Dallas. They reside in Grapevine, Texas.

Linda Trzebiatowski, '89, to Timothy Schuh, '88. She works at the Foot and Ankle Clinic, Milwaukee. He is employed at a Milwaukee landscaping and sprinkler company.

James Woyte, '89, to Pamela A. McKinney. They reside in Milwaukee.

Michael Glodowski, '89, to Elizabeth Mendenyke. He is a process engineer at Champion International in Minnesota.

Keith Feind, '89, to Stephanie Palecek. The couple lives in Fremont, Neb., where he is an accountant for George A. Hormel and Co.

Kevin Feind, '89, to Lori Schultz. He is employed in Greenwood as a police officer and she works at the Marshfield Clinic. They live in Greenwood.

Michele Hett, '89, to Rick Trawicki, '90. She is a teacher in the Whitefish Bay School District and he is with Lombard Electric, Wauwatosa. The couple resides in West Allis.

Teresa Lane, '89, to Anthony Grapsas. She is a teacher in Athens and he works at Jay-Mar. The couple resides in Mosinee.

Robert Tepp, '89, to Jennifer Piotrowski. He is a process applications engineer at Georgia Pacific, Nekoosa, and she is studying elementary education at UW-SP. The couple resides in Wisconsin Rapids.

Sharon Kasten, '89, to Thomas Lammi. She is assistant manager at Pizza Hut and he is manager at Pizza Hut in Two Rivers.

Polly Vande Hei, '89, to Scott Kimball. She is an accountant at Wisconsin Veterans Home, King. He is with Van Handel Excavating, Appleton. The couple resides in New London.

Carla Scaffidi, '89, to Danny Gilchrist. She works at Scaffidi Motors and he is a dentist. They live in Stevens Point.

Sally Koppelkam, '89, to Brian Lindow. She is a third-grade teacher at Jacobson Elementary School, Tracy, Calif., and he is a computer scientist and educator at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory and the University of California-Berkeley. Their address is 1375 Busca Drive, Tracy, Calif.

Megan Furrer, '89, to Bradley Pagel, '89. She is the territory manager for Decorel, Mundelein, Ill., and he is the sales manager for Premier Industrial, Cleveland, Ohio. Their address is 1639 Bond St., Green Bay.

Timothy Olson, '89, to Kim Bemowski. He teaches social studies for the Oshkosh School District, and she attended the university and did her student teaching in Oshkosh, where they live.

Jill Urban, '89, to Robert Donahue. She is a chemist at James River Corp., Neenah, and he is general manager of Bob's Yamaha City and a color commentator for ESPN television network. They live in Wisconsin Rapids.

Brenda Boutin, '89, to Timothy Rechner, '89. She is a customer service representative at BMI Inc., Palatine, Ill., and he is a sales representative at Wisconsin Tissue Paper Mills, Chicago, Ill.

Thomas Zurawski, '89, to Julie Webb. He is a news photographer at WAOW-TV, Wausau, and she is a junior at UW-SP. They live at 2808 Leahy Ave., Stevens Point.

Laura Thorpe, '89, to Charles Jurgella, '90. She works for Guardian Life Insurance, Appleton, and he works at Repap Wisconsin Paper Mill, Kimberly. They reside in Kaukauna.

Julie Huss, '89, to Richard Miskoviak. She is employed by Tomorrow Valley Cooperative Services, Manawa, and he works at Lee's Welding, Little Chute.

Ryan Urmanski, '89, to Debbie Bushman. He is a materials manager with ASHCO Inc., in Wausau, where they live. She is a workers compensation claims service representative with Church Mutual Insurance, Merrill.

William Russell, '88, to Ann Stein. He is a buyer and merchandise analyst at Menards corporate headquarters in Eau Claire and she was a registered radiology technologist at St. Joseph's Hospital, Milwaukee. They live in Altoona.

Kevin Kuckkan, '88, to Kathryn Kileen. He is a teacher at Butler Middle School, Watertown, and she is an account executive for AT&T. They live in Pewaukee.

Diane Thompson, '88, to Gregory Pezl. She holds a master's degree in counseling psychology and is a therapist at Inner Management Institute. He is the head golf professional at the Stevens Point Country Club. They reside in Stevens Point.

Michael Joseph, '88, to Wende Wanta. He is a salesman at Fahrner Asphalt Sealers, Plover, and she works at Sentry Insurance. They reside in Stevens Point.

Darren Kramer, '88, to Jill Fraticco. He is a news anchor for a television station and she is an account coordinator for an advertising firm in Spokane, Wash., where they live.

Kim Fellbaum, '88, to Paul Gorski, '87. She is a casualty insurance underwriting assistant and he is a certified public accountant in public practice, both in Brookfield. They live in Milwaukee.

Theresa Nussbaum, '88, to Mica Kohanski. She is employed with MCC Corp., Appleton, and he is with the Neenah Joint School District. They live in Appleton.

Laurelle Hollar, '88, to Daniel Rathke. Employed by Belarus, she holds a master's degree from Mankato State University. He is employed at JorMac in Grafton, where they live.

Andrea Gardner, '88, to Randall Zentner. She is employed by Curwood Inc., and he is the vocal music director at Oshkosh North High School. They live in Oshkosh.

Cynthia Talbot, '88, to David Westenberg. She is a registered dietitian at Community Memorial Hospital, Oconto Falls, and he owns and operates a dairy farm near Oconto where they live.

Jodie Murray, '88, to David Kadonsky. She is a speech/language pathologist for CESA No. 6 and he is senior layout draftsman for Oshkosh Truck Corp. They reside in Oshkosh.

Joel Jensen, '88, to Brenda Somerville. He is a sales manager for Jensen Motors, Spencer, and she works at Marshfield Savings Bank. They live in Spencer.

Karla Groose, '88, to Craig Krueger. She is employed at Wilkinson Medical Clinic and he at J & S Floor Covering. They reside in Ixonia.

Mary Johnson, '88, to Basil Day. She is manager of Mountain Valley Greenhouses, Mosinee, and he works for Joern's Health Care in Stevens Point, where they reside.

Kristin Sadogierski, '88, to James Swak. She is a clinical dietitian specialist in cardiology at Sinai Samaritan Medical Center, Milwaukee. He is a corporate quality assurance facilitator at Sanofi Bio Industries, Waukesha.

Amy Alger, '88, to Scott Krzykowski, '88. She is assistant manager at Maurice's in the Wisconsin Rapids Mall. He is employed by Eagle Construction. They live in Wisconsin Rapids.

Susan Pliska, '88, to John Basill, '88. She is a mental health practitioner and he is a personnel specialist. They reside in Minneapolis.

Theresa Behl, '88, to Richard Braatz. She is a medical technologist at Oshkosh, where the couple lives.

Mary Kremer, '88, to Rodger Allen Beyer. She is an underwriter at Sentry Insurance.

Debra Bannach, '88, to Dale Morey. She is a supervisor at First Financial Bank.

Heather Emslie, '88, to Lon Lorbecki. They both are employed by Sentry Insurance. They live in Stevens Point.

Ronald Weber, '88, to Diane Thomson, '91. The couple resides in Weyerhaeuser where he is a science teacher at Weyerhaeuser High School and she is a training specialist with Community Industries.

Tim Thoma, '88, to Julie Kobernus, '89. The couple works in Minneapolis where he is regional sales manager for Process Control Systems and she is a network coordinator for General Office Products. They reside in Orono, Minn.

Cindy Dollevoet, '88, to Terry Woller. She is employed by Menasha Corp., Neenah, and he is with Mills Supply Co., Appleton. The couple resides in Appleton.

Angela Oehler, '88, to Douglas Forstner, '92. The couple resides in Stevens Point, where she teaches fifth grade at Grant School and he is employed by Consolidated Papers Inc.

Troy Tepp, '88, to Regina Radloff. She is an elementary education student at UW-River Falls and he is a loss control consultant with Sentry Insurance. He holds a master's degree in safety from UW-Whitewater. The couple resides in Oakdale, Minn.

John Schuster, '88, to Heidi Gilbertson. He holds a master's degree in guidance from UW-Stout and is a guidance counselor for the Colby School District. She is an elementary guidance counselor for the Loyal School District. Their address is 2401 Monique Lane, Marshfield.

Lori Wink, '88, to John Pitcher. She is a data entry clerk at Midwest Hardware Association and he is a truck driver for deBoer, Sherry. They reside in Plover.

Lori Johnson, master's '88, to George Goltz. She is a speech therapist at MJ Care and he is pursuing a master's degree at UW-Milwaukee. They make their home in New Berlin.

Sherrie Hebert, '88, to Thomas Hamus. She is a medical technologist at Marshfield Clinic and he is self-employed. They live in Auburndale.

Katherine Thiel, '88, to Gregory Grobe, '81. She is a product manager at Candle Corp. of America, Oshkosh, and he is an attorney with Liebmann, Conway, Olejniczak & Jerry. They live in Appleton.

Brian Strigel, '88, to Kristine Tepp. He is operations coordinator and she is a payment products specialist, both at First Financial Bank. Their address is 3033 Oak St., Stevens Point.

Gary Kluck, '88, to Kristy Peters. They reside in Plover.

Karen Strick, '88, to Dan Keyzers. She is a teacher at Freedom High School and he is with Appleton Papers Inc. They live in Appleton.

Jean Leary, '87, to Keith Isken. She is a product manager at Zander Corp. and he is a production manager with Marino Construction. They live in Greenfield.

Michael Smith, '87, to Kristin Berg. He is an accounts manager with EBI Companies and she is employed by Novus Laboratories in Appleton, where they live.

Stephanie Dailing, '87, to Lawrence Bishop. She is a senior designer with Bachman's of Minneapolis and he is manager of the Guitar Center, Roseville, Minn.

William Demmon Jr., '87, to Sara McKillips. He is a chemist at Aldrich Chemical Co., Sheboygan Falls, and she is a first-grade teacher in Sheboygan. They live in Elkhart Lake.

Lori Holling, '87, to John Bechard, '90. She is a speech pathologist at Sacred Heart Rehabilitation Hospital in Milwaukee. He is a physical education teacher and coach in the West Allis School District. They live in Greenfield.

Lori Bohman, '87, to Donald "Claus" Schmitz, '87. She is a medical technologist at the VA Hospital in Madison and he is employed as a computer consultant for UW Hospital and Clinics. They live in Madison.

Paul Cieslewicz, '87, to Carlene Alwin. A biologist for the Missouri Department of Conservation, he holds a master's degree in fisheries biology from the University of Massachusetts-Amherst. She is a pediatric nurse at Cox Medical Center. They live in Springfield, Mo.

Margaret Wimpey, '87, to Neal Lutz. She is the owner of Margaret's School of Dance Arts, and he is employed with Midway Concrete Products. Their address is 2210 Green Drive, Plover.

Tammy Dombrowski, '87, to Thomas Jelinski. She is general manager of Select Temps and he is a manufacturing engineer at Data General Corp. They live in Raleigh, N.C.

Gregory Wanta, '87, to Barbara Blatz. He is a superintendent at International Paper, Green Bay, and she is a hair stylist at J.C. Penney Co. They live at 1103 S. Baird St., Green Bay.

Wade Zernicke, '87, to Jane Friske. He is a sales representative for Roadway Express of La Crosse and she is a student at UW-La Crosse. They live in West Salem.

Pamela Klever, '87, to Daniel Listle. A speech therapist with Novacare in Lake Mills, she earned a master's degree from Marquette University. He is a foreman with Thermotech in Watertown. They live in Helenville.

Sara Spielvogel, '87, to Russell Ross. She is an electron microscopist. He is working on a doctorate in chemical engineering at UW-Madison. They reside in Oregon.

Steven Grumann, '87, to Carrie Ankam. He is an environment chemist at SEC Donahue, Sheboygan. She is a scan coordinator at Supersaver Sentry, Manitowoc.

Jill Van Dien, '87, to David Suchowski. She works in mortgage lending with First Financial Bank. He is an electrician with K&M Electric, Wausau. They reside in Stevens Point.

Kenneth Dredzon, '87, to Carrie Fidler, '92.

Sara Hilgart, '87, to John Esser. She teaches sixth grade in the Wisconsin Rapids Public Schools. They reside in Arpin.

Neil Milkowski, '87, to Heidi Feil. He is a finance and insurance consultant for GMAC in Brookfield.

Patricia Knupp, '87 to James Moore. She is a habitat biologist for the Virginia Department of Game and Inland Fisheries. The couple resides in Crozier, Va.

Connie Ketter, '87, to Steven Sopol, '88. She is employed at Morgan Products, Oshkosh. He works for Kimberly-Clark. They reside in Neenah.

George Slattery, '87, to Paula Strong, '91. She is a programmer analyst with Northwestern Mutual Life, Milwaukee. The couple resides in Oak Creek.

Peter Zeller, '87, to Lisa Johnson. He is an area representative for Salomon/North America and she is a sales representative for NCR Corp. Their address is 1784 Camarillo Court, De Pere.

Sandra Meunier, '87, to William Kraklow, '87. She is a second-grade teacher in East Troy and he is a graduate of the Medical College of Wisconsin serving an internal medicine residency at Froedert Hospital, Milwaukee. Their address is 3590 S. Rivershire Drive, Apt. 7, Greenfield.

Joan Fox, '87, to Michael Maloney, '87. She is a commercial property underwriter at Aetna Life & Casualty Insurance Co., Milwaukee, and he is a teacher in the West Allis-West Milwaukee School District. They live in Wauwatosa.

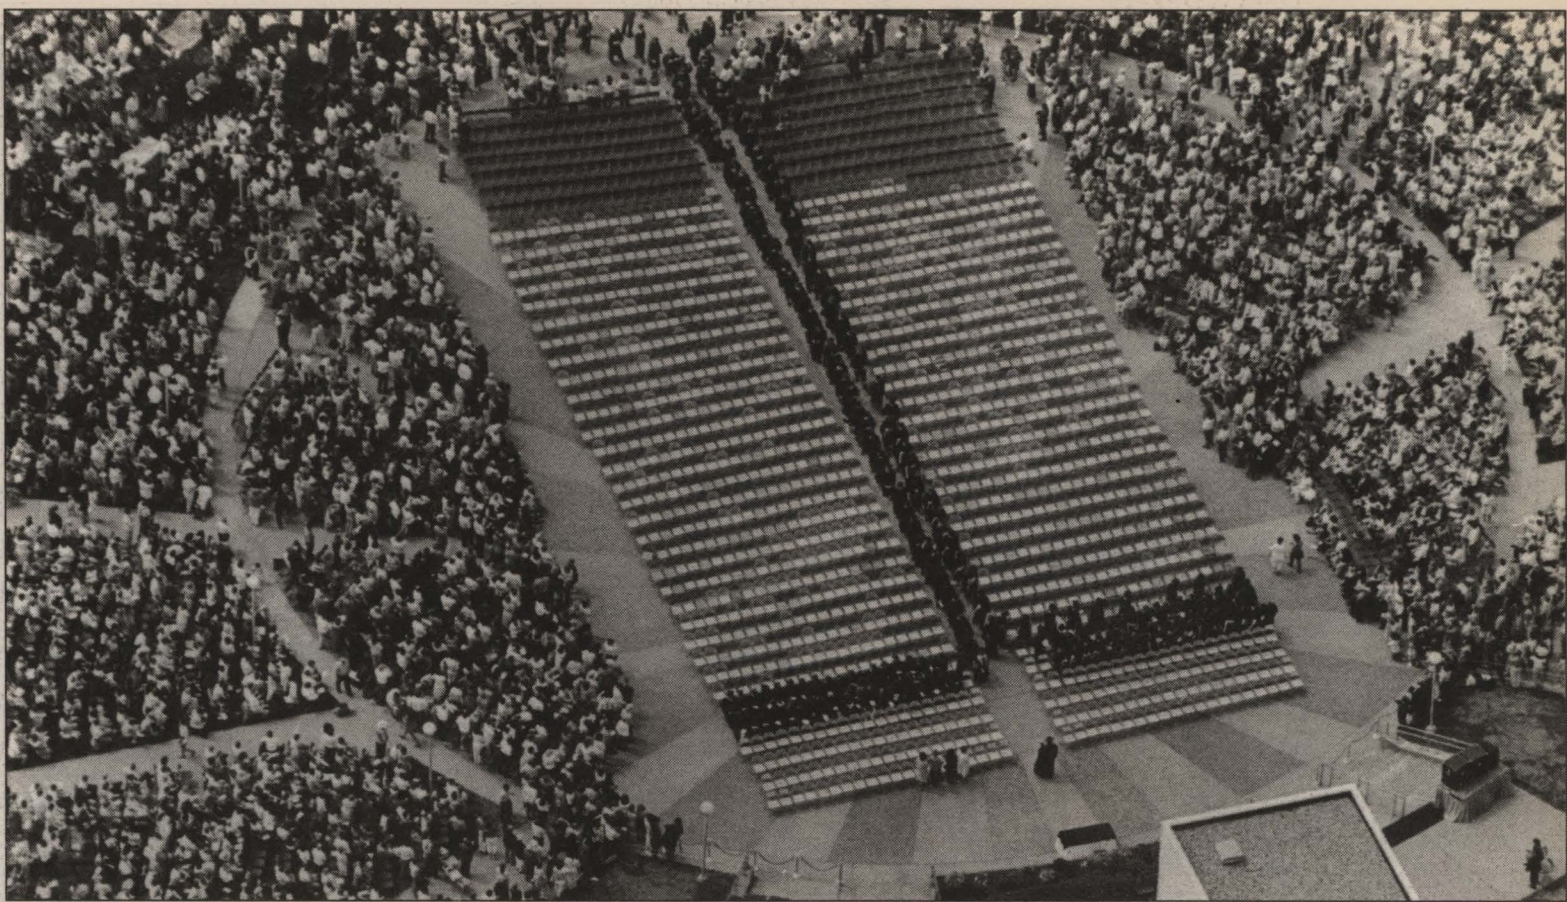

Colleen O'Brien, master's '87, to Joseph Janssen. She is a speech therapist with the Minneapolis Public Schools and he is an account executive at Trans Advo, Minneapolis.

Renee Ebert, '87, to Jesse DeWitte, '90. She has received her master's degree from the Institute of Paper Chemistry in Atlanta and he is a process engineer for Lake Superior Paper Industries in Duluth, Minn. They live in Carlton, Minn.

Judith Minor, '87, to Thomas Zettler. She works for Schubbe Family Chiropractic, and he is with Central Products, Menasha. They live in Appleton.

Julie Johns, '87, to George Dalbec. She is employed at Shaw's Jewelers and the Wausau Racquet and Health Club and he is a customer service representative with Wausau Metals. They live in Merrill.

Susan Jakusz, '86, to Thomas McCoy. She is an interior designer at Krueger International and he is employed at McCoy's Harley Davidson in Green Bay, where they live.

This pattern of people is formed each spring during the commencement ceremonies on the Raymond Specht Forum, between the Fine Arts Center and Albertson Learning Resources Center.

Helene Dickas, '86, to David Blowers. She is a corporate merchandising systems coordinator and he is a recovery specialist with Belk Store Services in Charlotte, N.C., where they live.

Lauri Binius, '86, to Bruce Droster. She holds an MBA from Edgewood College and works for the brokerage firm Dain Bosworth Inc. They reside in Madison.

Holly Lundquist, '86, to James Eberle. She is an interior design consultant and he is an investment executive in Brookfield. They live in Waukesha.

Thomas Schnell, '86, to Nora Maldonado. He is employed with the Bureau of Land Management and she works at Arizona State Savings and Credit Union. Their address is 2980 12th Ave., Safford, Ariz.

Lori Dishinger, '86, to Thomas Krostag. She is a certified public accountant-supervisor for Schenck and Associates, Stevens Point, and he is manager of Sassy Brass, Plover. They live in Plover.

Robert Repischak, '86, to Christine Coughlan. He has a private law practice and she is employed with Econo Print Inc. They reside in Franklin.

Patricia Patoka, '86, to Daniel Rashke, who attended UW-SP. She is a finance analyst at Meriter Hospital, Madison. He is vice president of Insurance Center Administrators, Madison, where they reside.

Jane Strohfeldt, '86, to Michael Hemming. They are both teachers for the Portage Public Schools. They reside in Portage.

Ellen Sikich, '86, to Nils Melberg, '84. She is an elementary school teacher and he is employed with Environmental Chemistry in Green Bay, where they live.

John Damman, '86, to Vickie Lancelle. He is director of loss prevention at the Copp's Corp., Stevens Point. She is loss prevention supervisor at Kohl's Department Store, Green Bay.

Vicki Janke, '86, to Mark Botner. She is a librarian at Richland College in Dallas, Texas. He works at Convex Computer Corp. They reside in Plano, Texas.

Robert Fassbinder, '86, to Kristin Anne Petroff. He is an assistant manager of a Target store in Milwaukee. They live in Mequon.

Mark Van Hefty, '86, to Kristy Brown. He is employed by Betz Paper Chemical, and she is in accounting at Benson Family Chiropractic Center, Escanaba, Mich. The couple lives in Gladstone, Mich.

Anne Oswald, '86, to Scott Huebner. She is an analytical chemist at Schwarz Pharma, Mequon, and he is a sales representative at Insulation and Supply Co., Manitowoc. They live in Shorewood.

Craig Schopf, '86, to Lisa Seehafer. He is assistant store manager for Menards, Waukesha, and she is a design drafter for Everbrite Inc., Greenfield. They reside in Waukesha.

James Jensen, '86, to Michelle Richmond. He is a senior account executive with ADP and she is a teacher for Milwaukee Public Schools. Their address is 8843 W. Cheyenne St., Milwaukee.

Terry Wrolson, '85, to Laurie Neubert. He is a loan specialist at First National Bank and she is a classified advisor at the Herald Times Reporter, both of Manitowoc.

Michael J.D. Brundidge, '85, to Dona J. Scharf. He is a production supervisor for Linetec of Wausau, and she is a respiratory therapist for Homex Healthcare of Marshfield. Their address is 11458B Stadt Road, Marshfield.

Rebecca Kolelis, '85, to Steven McGuire. She is an interior designer and an aerobic instructor and he is with Badger Sheet Metal. Their address is 1441 Springdale Lane, Green Bay.

Susan Lewandowski, '85, to Michael Bongard. She is a customer service agent and he is an aircraft mechanic with Mesaba Airlines and Northwest Airlink, Mosinee. Their address is 3509 Bush St., Stevens Point.

Peter Schanock, '85, to Karen Lilyquist. He is a procurement forester at Marion Plywood Co. and she is an administrative assistant at the Bank of Park Ridge. They live in Plover.

Linda Buckman, '85, to Joel Baranowski. She is an elementary school teacher in the Green Lake School District and he is co-owner of Schroeder's Sport Shop in Green Lake, where they live.

Kathryn Kawleski, '85, to Keith Dunton. She is an employee of Deluxe Data Systems, New Berlin. He works for Hamilton Investments, Waukesha.

Yvonne Annis, '85, to Richard Thompson, '90. She is a speech pathologist at North Central Health Care Facility, Wausau. He is a sales representative for Tombstone Pizza Corp.

Cynthia R. Chambers, '85, to Patrick H. Meyers.

Amy L. Trecek, '85, to Timothy M. Comeau, '90. The couple lives in Markesan and works in Fond du Lac. She is employed at Service Motors and he works for Ross Inc.

Daniel Gapen Jr., '85, to Lisa Martin. He is a chemical engineer with Amoco Oil Research and Development in Naperville. They reside in Aurora, Ill.

Lisa Miller, '85, to Walter Allen. A guidance counselor at Oconto Senior High School, she holds a master's degree from UW-Stout. He is the owner of Allen Dairy Farm. They reside in Abrams.

Nils Melberg, '84, to Ellen Sikich, '87. The couple resides in Green Bay where he is employed with Environmental Chemistry and she is an elementary school teacher.

Lori Schwartz, '84, to David Sievers. She is employed with the School District of Janesville as a speech therapist and he is employed by Kerry Ingredients, Beloit. The couple resides in Janesville.

Catherine Hale, '84, to Robert Lukacsek. She is the chief dietitian at ARA Services, St. Margaret's Hospital, Hammond, Ind., and he is an accountant with Commonwealth Edison, Chicago. They live in Griffith, Ind.

Linda Jurgella, '84, to Brian Danielson. She is an attorney and he is deputy clerk of the U.S. Bankruptcy Court. They reside in Eau Claire.

Joel Herring, '84, to Becky Bergman. He works at Wilson-Hurd Manufacturing and she is employed with Wausau Insurance Companies. They live in Wausau.

Robert Gluck, '84, to Leslie Langan-Chilcott. He owns and operates Robert M. Gluck Tree Care and she is an elementary school teacher for the Sheboygan Area School District. Their address is N2319 Hwy. 28, Adell.

Laurie Fox, '83, to Bill Skierka. She is employed at Northwest Fabrics and Crafts, Schofield. He works at Consolidated Papers, Whiting. They live in Stevens Point.

Bruce Goers, '83, to Kay Joseph. He is employed at VFP Inc. in Dousman. She works at Cost Cutters in Watertown. They reside in Dousman.

Stephen Brilowski, '83, to Ellen Tweedy. He works at Brilowski Farms, as an assistant track coach at UW-SP and as a freelance journalist. They live at 1419 N. Brilowski Road, Stevens Point.

Jill Rogers, '83, to Dennis Hinz, '77. They are teachers at Nekoosa High School and live in Port Edwards.

Sandra Popelka, '83, to Richard Phillips. She is employed at UW Extension and Shawano County as 4-H and youth agent and he is a self-employed carpenter. They live in Shawano.

Patrick Purcell, '82, to Sharon Haley. He holds a master's degree from Southern Methodist University and is a district manager with UARCO, Fort Worth, Texas. She is an account manager for Sears Contract Sales, Dallas. They live in Arlington, Texas.

Scott Olson, '82, to Deborah Kurowski. He works at Olson Paving Inc., and she is employed at Wausau Paper Mill, Brokaw. They live in Wausau.

Karen Diedrick, '82, to Michael Hanamann. She is a fourth grade teacher in the Kimberly Area School District and a master's candidate at Viterbo College. He attends Fox Valley Technical College and is employed at Clark Oil Co. Their address is 1930 Newberry St., Appleton.

Charles Rochon, '82, to Jackie Blosser. He is a learning disabilities teacher in the Oconto Falls School District. She is a physical education and health teacher in the same district.

Paul Cunningham, '82, to Peggy Hines. He is employed by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources in Fisheries Management. The couple resides in Madison.

Margaret Wilson, '82, to Thomas Bachinski, '84. She is a purchasing/customer service representative at Spectracytics, Minneapolis, and he is engineering manager in research and development with the Donaldson, Co., Minneapolis. They live in Lakeville, Minn.

Cheryl Wildman, '82, to Terry Rusch. She is employed by the State of Wisconsin and he works for Taxman Investment Co. They live in Milwaukee.

Theresa Kay, '81, to John Meredith. She is involved in nursery sales and landscaping for Schmalz Custom Landscape, Darboy.

He is a landscape architect. They reside in Appleton.

Joseph Bartoszek, '80, to Mary Nelson. He is a manager at Shopko and she is employed by Mason City Clinic. They live in Mason City, Iowa.

Robert Storer, '79, to Beverly Tocci. He is a water quality specialist for King County and she is the assistant director of transportation for Seattle. They live in Bothell, Wash.

Christopher Knudtson, '79, to Nancy Antenucci. He is a freelance massage therapist and she is a freelance choreographer and performer. Their address is 1278 Charles Ave., St. Paul, Minn.

Carol Brantmeier, '78, to William Roche. She is employed by Columbia Hospital. They reside in Brown Deer.

Barbara Tennie, '78, to Ronald Steffanus. She is employed by New London Public Schools. They reside in New London.

Susan Fontaine, '78, to Joseph Meyer. She is employed as a driving instructor and supervisor by Tri County Driving School and he is a dispatcher with Lazer Services, both of Appleton. They live in Little Chute.

Steven Smith, '77, to Renee Louis. He is head of the business department at MSTC in Stevens Point, where they live.

Patricia O'Brien, '77, to Eugene Benka. She holds a master's degree from UW-Milwaukee and is a supervisor social worker for the Jefferson County Department of Human Services. A youth counselor, he is studying for his bachelor of science degree in nursing at Carroll College. They live in Waukesha.

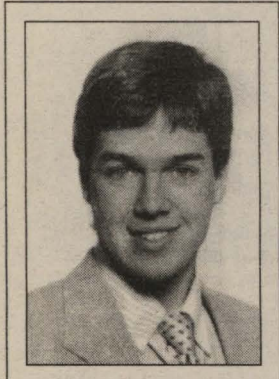

Dennis Krueger, '77, to Vicki Johnson. He is a real estate broker with Novak and Nelson Real Estate, Dillon, Colo., and she is a bookkeeper for the Summit County Government, Frisco, Colo.

Andrea Pickard, '74, to Thomas Beschta. She is a kindergarten teacher and he is an art teacher for the Valders Area School District. Their address is 552 S. Liberty St., Valders.

Richard Wilke, '73, master's '75, to Sarah Kirsch Stowell. He earned a doctorate from Southern Illinois University and is the associate dean of UW-SP's College of Natural Resources. She is a registered nurse at Amherst Family Medical Center. They live in Amherst Junction.

Obituaries of Graduates

Nanette (LaCoe) Wadnal, '92, Rome, was killed in a tour bus accident in January 1993 in Cancun, Mexico. She was 37. Her mother, Margaret LaCoe of Chisholm, Minn., died in the same crash. Nanette was born in Minnesota and received an associate degree from Community College, Hibbing, Minn. She had been employed by Ore-Ida Foods, Plover, since 1978. Survivors include her husband, Dick Wadnal, and one daughter.

Erik S. Munson, '91, of Ames, Iowa, died in November 1992 in Champaign, Ill. Born in Minneapolis, Munson had been an honor student at Ames High School and an honors graduate from UW-SP. He had been recognized as an outstanding student by the College of Natural Resources for three consecutive years. He was working toward a doctorate at the University of Illinois. Survivors include his parents, Bruce R. and Barbara N. (Nelson) Munson, of Ames, a brother, a sister, a paternal grandmother and maternal grandparents.

Karen (Jose) Smith, '87, and her husband, Richard Smith, of Wautoma, died in March 1993 as a result of injuries they suffered in an automobile collision. Karen was born in Sunderland, England, and grew up in the Almond-Bancroft area. She was the choir director at Trinity Lutheran Church, Wautoma, a substitute organist for St. Paul Lutheran Church, Wild Rose, a member of the Waushara Community Choir and a piano teacher. Richard was employed as a truck driver for Gulf Northern Transport, Wisconsin Rapids. They are survived by a daughter who was three weeks old at the time of their death. Other survivors include Karen's father, the Rev. R.D. Jose, Nelsonville.

Nancy Jill (Novak) Steiner, '86, died in August 1992 in Stevens Point. A Rhinelander native, she was 47. Survivors include a son, a daughter and her parents.

Pamela (Okan) Davison, master's '85, Marshfield, died in January 1993 at age 40. Born in Great Falls, Mont., she grew up in Portage and married Harlan R. Davison in 1978. He survives. She taught in Marshfield at Washington School until 1983. Other survivors include a son, a daughter, her parents, Robert and Patricia (VanderPerren) Okan, and two grandparents.

Paul Robert Schleppenbach, '85, Valparaiso, Ind., formerly of Eau Claire, died in March 1993 at his home. He was 30 years old. A Chippewa Falls native, he was assistant project scientist at Weston-Gulf Analytic Lab in Chicago, and a member of a band. He is survived by his parents, Robert and Sheron Schleppenbach of Eau Claire, and a brother.

Mark A. Johnson, '81, a city forestry crew leader, was killed in Milwaukee in September 1992 when a large tree he had been cutting toppled the wrong way and fell on him. The Milwaukee city forester said the fatal accident was the first of its kind involving a city forestry worker. Johnson, a native of South Milwaukee who had worked for the public Works Forestry Division since 1985, is survived by his wife, Theresa, and a young son.

Michael E. Colby, '77, Abbotsford, died in June 1992 at age 41. A LaCrosse native, he grew up in Abbotsford and graduated from Columbus High School, Marshfield. He was a construction worker and a salesman for Marawood Structures of Marshfield. He served as a sergeant in the U.S. Army from 1970 to 1972. Survivors include his parents, a son, sisters and brothers.

Gary Orsted, '77, died in November 1992 in Chicago at age 38. A Door County native, he moved to Chicago after graduation and worked at John M. Smyth as a designer until opening his own firm, G.R. Orsted Design. He was an associate member of the American Society of Interior Designers and winner of the Gold Key Award. He is survived by his parents, Gardner and Margaret Zak Orsted, Baileys Harbor, a sister, a brother, nieces and nephews.

Phyllis (Kolstad) Locher, '62, master's '75, town of Rudolph, died in January 1993 at age 68. A native of Auburndale, she married Albert Locher in 1947. He died in 1965. She was an elementary teacher in Rudolph for 45 years. Survivors include three daughters.

Donald Aron, '73, Wisconsin Rapids, died in May 1993 at age 50. A veteran of the Vietnam War, he was married to Marguerite Schroeder, who survives. He worked for Wood County in the Land Conservation Department, Wisconsin Valley Concrete, and Consolidated Papers. Other survivors include his mother, Bessie Aron, Dexterville, and two daughters.

Todd Anderson, '72, M.D., died in Phoenix, Ariz., in December 1992 after a long illness. He earned a Doctor of Medicine degree in 1983 from UW-Madison. In Alaska and in Arizona, he devoted much of his time to health care for Native Americans. From 1989 until the time of his death, he practiced internal medicine in Phoenix and provided long-term care in nursing homes. He also provided major support for the Nature Conservancy program. From 1973 to 1976, he had taught history and English and coached wrestling at Oregon Junior High School. He was a former member of the Dane County Board from 1976 to 1980, and headed the town of Oregon's bicentennial committee during which time he arranged the purchase of 20 acres of woodland for the Bicentennial Park. He is survived by his parents, Lyman and Patricia Anderson of Oregon, two brothers, one sister and her children.

Peter E. Nast, '71, West Allis, died in September 1992 of cancer. He was 43. He was vice president of M&I Bank and was active in the community, including Rotary which honored him as a Paul Harris Fellow. He was a member of two Chambers of Commerce and several boards. He is survived by his wife, Vicki (Killian), a daughter and a son. An education fund has been established at the bank in the names of his children.

Doris (Williams) Day, '70, died in June 1992 at age 77. Born in New Point, Mo., she married Dean Day in 1933. He died in 1960. They farmed in the town of Cleveland for many years, and she taught in the Gilman school system from 1964 until her retirement in 1978. Survivors include one son, two daughters, 12 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Robert Allen Stillman, '70, died in August 1992 in Chicago. He was 47. Born in Marshfield, he grew up in Pittsville. He was employed by Amtrack Communication and Transportation Inc., Chicago. Survivors include two brothers and nine sisters.

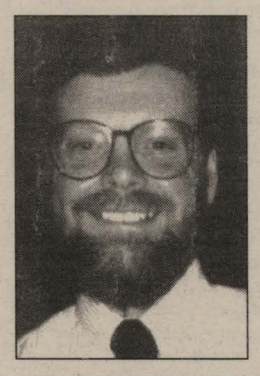

Sharon S. Pitzke, '70, Medford, died in April 1993 in an accidental drowning. She was 45. Born in Milwaukee, she received a master's degree in music from UW-Madison in 1972. She worked for several Medford businesses, including Weathershield Mfg. for several years, Douglas Eggert CPA for five years, and Timberline Trucking, at the time of her death. She is survived by her mother, Lucille M. Pritzke, of Medford, her twin sister, and one niece.

Steven M. Boehm, '69, town of Pacific, died in November 1992 at age 45. A Green Bay native, he was manager of Spurgeon's stores for more than 22 years and worked for the Portage Community School District as maintenance supervisor at the time of his death. He also was a seventh and eighth grade wrestling coach, a wrestling official and a teacher at Madison Area Technical College. He served with the U.S. Army during the Vietnam era. Survivors include his wife, Susan (Crotteau) Boehm, three children and his parents, Henry Boehm of Lakewood, and Helen Reeves of St. Paul, Minn.

Peter Andrew Johnson, '68, died in October 1992 at his home in the Mission District of San Francisco. Born in Ladysmith, he worked in systems analysis and data base management for American President's Line of Oakland, Calif. He is survived by a daughter and Jobuo Yamaji, his companion.

A night, winter scene of the Park Student Services Building. The structure, now 40 years old, originally served as the school library.

John M. Glinski, '68, master's '82, of Appleton, was posthumously honored this spring at the commencement ceremonies of Menasha High School with the "You Made a Difference" award. He was chosen by the valedictorian of the class as the teacher who had most profoundly influenced her education at the school. An engraved school bell was given to the Glinski family. John died of cancer in March of 1993 in Stevens Point. A native of this city, he had taught history and speech at Menasha High for 23 years. His survivors are his parents, Joseph and Eileen Glinski of Stevens Point, two brothers and three sisters.

James A. Mueller, '65, died unexpectedly in January at his home in Hopkins, Minn., at age 49. A memorial service was held at a Medford funeral chapel and remains were interred in Evergreen Cemetery there. A memorial gathering for his university friends was held near Antigo on Aug. 1. Mueller, an English, drama and speech major, participated in many theater productions here and taught on campus about a year after his graduation. He also taught at high schools in Marathon City, Madison and Neenah before moving to Los Angeles, where he was a marketing representative for Public Employees Insurance Co. He moved to Hopkins, a Minneapolis suburb, last October. Survivors are his parents, Albert and Twylah Mueller of Medford; one sister and one brother.

Kenneth H. Herrmann, '65, Clintonville, suffered a fatal heart attack in the summer of 1991. A teacher and coach at Clintonville Senior High School for 26 years, he was survived by his parents, Kenneth F. and Clara Herrmann, Milwaukee, and a sister. An annual scholarship to the outstanding business student at the high school has been established in his name.

Wilhemina (Cizewski) Lepak, '65, Stevens Point, died in January 1993 at age 78. Born in the town of New Hope, she worked as a teacher for 37 years in Portage County schools. She retired in 1979. She was married to Henry V. Lepak in 1934 and he died in 1983. The couple resided in the Town of Stockton until they moved to Stevens Point in 1945. Survivors include two sons, one daughter, six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Irene (Zarda) Ullenbrauck, '64, Antigo, died in December 1992 at age 82. Born in Aniwa, she taught in the town of Aniwa, Shawano County, town of Harrison, Marathon County, and River Grove Elementary, Langlade County, retiring in 1975 after teaching for 32 years. She and her husband, Harry Ullenbrauck, owned and operated Harry's Tavern in Aniwa for 28 years. She moved to Antigo in 1959. She was preceded in death by her husband. Survivors include two daughters, one son, seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Cora (Sowers) Johnson, of Antigo, died in January 1993 at age 90. She married George Johnson in 1926 and he died in 1953. She taught grade school for 20 years, retiring in 1970. Survivors include a foster daughter, two sons, 11 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Adele (Drager) Groskreutz, '64, died in March 1993 at her home in Wautoma. She was 78. Born in the town of Dakota, Waushara County, her teaching career spanned 31 years and included several schools in Waushara and Marquette counties. She also was active in her church and community. Her husband, Gaylord Groskreutz, preceded her in death in 1980. Survivors include four children, six grandchildren, two step-grandchildren, and five step-great-grandchildren.

Jack P. Kardules, '64, Sheboygan, died in March 1993 at age 49. A native of Wheeling, W. Va., he grew up in Ohio. He earned a master's degree in social work from the University of Illinois-Chicago, and was employed as the intake supervisor at the Sheboygan County Department of Human Services at the time of his death. He also had worked for the Dodge County Department of Human Services. Survivors include his wife, Barbara (Anderson) Kardules, and two daughters.

Ruby Meyer, '63, Stevens Point, died in May 1992 at age 93. She worked at First National Bank in Stevens Point as a bookkeeper and teller for 25 years. A Northland native, she married George F. Meyer in 1925 and they operated Meyer Drugstore in Rosholt until his death in 1935. Survivors include one son, five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Thelma (Randorf) Lauer, '63, Plainfield, died in May 1993 at age 86. Born in Adams County, she was married to Raymond Lauer in 1935. He died in 1971. A teacher for many years in Waushara County until her retirement in 1972, she is survived by four sisters and one brother.

Peter F. Ahles, '63, Medford, died in January 1993 at age 51. A Wausau native, he was in his 30th year of teaching biology and science at Medford Senior High School. In 1966 he married Carol Rozmenoski, who survives. Other survivors include his parents, Arthur and Stella Ahles of Wausau, two daughters, and one son.

Myrtle (Schwantes) Greeler, '62, of Marshfield, died in November 1992. She was 86. She taught at rural Clark and Marathon county schools and for the Spencer School District from 1957-72. Following her retirement, she served as a substitute teacher in Marshfield for several years. She was married to George W. Greeler for 46 years until his death in 1974. Survivors include two sons, one daughter, eight grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Kenneth K. Schmidt, Fridley, Minn., died of cancer in May 1993. He was 57. Born in Sheboygan, he served in the U.S. Navy for two years. Following graduation, he moved to Fridley, where he married the former Susan Linnquist who preceded him in death in 1986. He was president of Key Medical Products which he founded with his wife in 1980. He is survived by three children, two grandchildren, his mother, Carmen Schmidt of Sheboygan, and his fiancée.

Thomas Raymond Gurtler, '61, Marshfield, died in July 1992 at age 55. A Wisconsin Rapids native, he had been employed by Wood County Department of Social Services and most recently by Roy's Delivery of Marshfield. Survivors include three sons and one daughter.

Lucetta (Lucy) Wells Kroll, '61, New London, died in June 1992 at age 82. She and her husband, Gilbert, who survives, marked 58 years of marriage a month before her death. She taught in Waupaca and Outagamie County rural schools and the New London Public School System for 38 years before the couple moved to Florida in 1980. They continued to spend summers in the New London area. Other survivors include a daughter, four grandchildren and a great-granddaughter.

Jerry R. Quandt, '61, died in March 1993 in Green Bay. He was 57. The son of Florence Bellis Quandt, Greenleaf, and the late Hale Quandt, he was married to Helen Kidd who survives. He held a master's degree from UW-Superior and was a teacher in Wausau and Cecil before becoming a principal at various schools including Bonduel and Madison, Fla. He was administrator at Marion Public Schools from 1972-1977, then joined the administrative staff at Two Rivers where he served as assistant superintendent for business from 1987 to 1989. Other survivors include two sons, two daughters, two stepsons, two stepdaughters, and nine grandchildren.

Ada E. (Schultz) Schrader, '60, died in August 1992 in Marshfield at age 84. A Milladore native, she was an elementary teacher for 30 years. She was married for 40 years to Oscar Schrader who died in 1983. She had taught in rural schools in Wood County, at Our Lady of Peace in Marshfield, and at the Gilbert Knapp Elementary School in Racine until her retirement. Survivors include a sister and numerous nieces and nephews.

Geraldine (Fields) Case, '60, died in January 1993 at her home in East Mesa, Ariz. She was 61. Born in Ladysmith, she received a master's degree in 1970 from Northern Arizona University, Flagstaff, and taught high school English in Wisconsin and Arizona. She is survived by her husband of 38 years, Bob Case.

Ronald N. Nelson, '60, Wausau, was killed in a car accident on Highway 29 in Clark County in 1991. He had taught in Wausau Schools for 25 years. His wife, Judith (Heintz) Nelson, '57, describes him as "a very dedicated, well-liked teacher, husband, and father."

Gladys Lydia (Rhode) Morris, '59, Neshkoro, died in December 1992 at age 72. A Madison native, she had taught in various schools, retiring in 1982 from Washington School in Berlin after teaching for 39 years. An active community volunteer, she was married to Orville Morris who survives. Other survivors include a daughter and six grandchildren.

Irene Belle (Nourse) Wilson, '59, Waupaca, died in December 1992 at age 83. Born in Waupaca County, she married George M. Wilson in 1931. He preceded her in death in 1975. She taught school for 32 years, 16 of them in the Waupaca Public School System. Survivors include one son, one daughter, seven grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Alma (Franz) Lain, '59, formerly of Auburndale, died in Madison in January 1993. She was 102. Born in Lowell, she taught in Wood County schools before her marriage to Arthur L. Lain in 1915. He died in 1936. After his death, she returned to school, then to a teaching career in Dodge and Walworth counties until retiring in 1964. She resided in Madison with her great-granddaughter and family at the time of her death. Survivors include a granddaughter, two great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren.

Nellie (Knight) Seeburger, '59, Phillips, died in January 1993 at age 83. Born in Kennan, she taught in rural county schools, then for many years in the Central School District at Phillips Elementary School. She was married in 1933 to George Seeburger, who died in 1961. She also was active in church and community organizations. Survivors include three sons, four grandchildren, and a great-grandchild.

Archie Peronto, '58, Madison, died in November 1992 at age 86. Born near Algoma, he was an educator in the counties of Forest, Dane, Grant, and Rock for 44 years, serving as a teacher and administrator. He also had earned a master's degree at UW-Madison. Following his retirement in 1971, he pursued a hobby of woodworking, attending Black Hawk Technical College and MATC, where he focused on furniture crafting and picture framing. He and his wife Sadie moved to Madison in 1973. She died in 1987. They are survived by four children, 12 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Grace A. (Anderson) Ferber, '56, Menomonie, died in October 1992 at age 58. A Rudolph native, she was married to Edward Ferber, '57, for 35 years. He survives. She substitute taught for several years in the Cornell and Holcombe school districts before the couple moved to the town of Lucas in 1984. Other survivors include three daughters, a son, and her mother, Kathryn Anderson, Junction City.

Chester H. Segawa, '55, died of a heart attack in January 1993 on his way home to Honolulu, Hawaii, following a business trip to Los Angeles. He was a district manager with Parke-Davis, a pharmaceutical company. During his career with Parke-Davis, he had received many awards for outstanding salesmanship, performance and dedication. He also was active in various health and community organizations. Survivors include his wife, Mildred, three daughters, a grandson and a granddaughter.

Patricia (Rickel) Wojtal, '55, co-pastor of Shalom Christian Center of Madison, died at her home in April 1993. She was 61. Born in Waukesha, she married Edward Wojtal in 1966. He survives. She received a master's degree in reading and taught in Milwaukee and Madison before retiring from teaching. She and her husband opened the One Way Christian Bookstore and co-pastored the Shalom Christian Center, a non-denominational church from 1972 until 1991. She was ordained in 1979 from the International Seminary, Orlando, Fla., and received a doctorate of divinity degree in 1983. Other survivors include two daughters, one stepson, and four grandchildren.

Mary Woodzick, '73, Hazelhurst, died in April 1993. She was 82. Born in Chicago, she moved with her family to Hazelhurst when she was very young. During a long career, she taught at many school districts including Sugar Camp, Hazelhurst, Minocqua, Port Edwards, Marshfield and Wauwatosa. While teaching, she earned her bachelor's degree from UW-SP. She retired from the Wauwatosa School District after more than 40 years of service. She then returned to Hazelhurst where she became involved in community activities. Survivors include one sister, nieces and nephews.

Everett R. Moore, '54, died in January 1993 at his home in Sheboygan. He was 64. A native of Gary, Ind., he earned a master's degree in guidance from UW-Madison and was certified as a school psychologist. He served in the U.S. Air Force during the Korean Conflict. He married Betty Martin in 1956. He was employed by Watertown High School from 1959 to 1966, then served as senior school psychologist for Sheboygan public schools from 1966 until his retirement in 1986. He was a past president of the Mental Health Association of Sheboygan County and past president of Wisconsin Psychologists Association. He served as chairman of the board of the Rehabilitation Center from 1972-1985, co-organized the Sheboygan School District's Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse Task Force, and implemented the student assistance program. Following his retirement, he was a consultant to two school systems, a member of the Suicide Prevention Team, and board and newsletter editor of Phi Delta Kappa. He is survived by his wife, three children and two grandchildren.

Blanche Clare Price, '52, died in Wycena in June 1992 at age 89. She taught for 25 years at Frank Allis Elementary School in Madison, retiring in 1968. She was a member of the Congregational Church and the Retired Teachers Association. She is survived by nieces and nephews.

James B. Dalnodar, Millry, Ala., died in January 1993 at age 66. Born in Wausau, he was a World War II Navy veteran, served 13 years as alderman supervisor for the City of Schofield and as mayor of Schofield from 1967 to 1969. He was employed at the James River Corp. in Rothschild and Alabama. He is survived by his wife, Jeanette, two daughters, one step-daughter, four grandchildren and two step-grandchildren.

Robert W. Andrews, '51, died in Portage in April 1992 after a long battle with colon cancer. He was 62. Following graduate school at UW-Madison, he was first employed with the Florence County Department of Social Services becoming the youngest director in the state. He was appointed director of Columbia County Department of Social Service in 1958 and retired in 1992. He was a member of the Wisconsin County Human Services Association and was presented with its Distinguished Service Award in 1991. He also was awarded an Honorary Life Membership of the Wisconsin Social Services Association. He is survived by his wife, Julie (Zellmer), his mother, Susie Andrews of Stevens Point, two daughters, a son, and six grandchildren.

Dorm rooms are not large at UW-SP, but students know ways of getting considerable amounts of odds and ends and visitors into the space.

Edward "Jack" Knope, '49, Stevens Point, died in September 1992 at age 68. He owned the former Continental Clothing Store until 1965 and was associated with Campbell's and McCain's until they closed in 1985, when he retired. Married to Lois (Mozuch) for nearly 40 years, he was a member of the American Legion and the 14th Air Force Flying Tigers Association. He is survived by his wife, one son, three daughters, and six grandchildren.

Raymond J. Parkinson, '47, Appleton, died in December 1992 at age 74. A Burnett County native, he served for 3 1/2 years in the U.S. Army as a paratrooper with the Signal Corps during World War II. Following his honorable discharge, he married Hazel Burhite in Wisconsin Rapids, and completed a master's degree from UW-Madison. He taught at several elementary schools and then became principal of Columbus School and later Jefferson School in Appleton. He retired 12 years ago. He is survived by his wife, four daughters, one son, 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Eunice (Goeler) McGibbon, '46, died in March 1993 at her home in Monona, following a courageous battle with cancer. She was 67. A Marshfield native, she taught high school English at Medford, Monroe and Madison Central. She had lived in Monona for the past 35 years. Survivors include her husband, Donald "Mac" McGibbon, three sons, a grandson, and her mother, Laura Goeler of Spencer.

Adrian LaBrot, '43, Alton Ill., died in February 1993 at age 74. A Wisconsin Rapids native, he was married to Joyce Larsen, who survives. He worked at Olin Corp., East Alton, Ill., for 16 years and also worked as a chemistry teacher at Alton High School, retiring in 1985. He was a World War II Navy veteran. Other survivors include one daughter and three sons.

Eunice (Lemke) Arndt, '41, died in July 1992 at age 70. A resident of the town of Medford, she and her husband, Paul, had farmed in the area for about 30 years until they retired in 1976. She also had served as treasurer for the Mathey School in Medford for a period of time. In addition to her husband, she is survived by one daughter, two sons, and seven grandchildren.

Estella Bock Davis, '41, died in May 1992 in Crandon. She was 91. Born in Three Lakes, she was raised in Crandon. In 1946 she married Frank J. Davis who preceded her in death. She taught grade school for 50 years in Wisconsin and Illinois, completing her career as a language arts instructor at Racine-Kenosha County Teachers College, Union Grove, which closed in the early 1970s. She was involved in Methodist church activities, Eastern Star, and several education organizations.

Lily (Stirling) Reich, '41, died in May 1993 at age 87. A native of South Dakota, she grew up in North Dakota and moved to Wisconsin in 1929. The holder of a master's degree from Winona State University, Lily's teaching and administrative career spanned a 42-year period in Clark, Trempealeau and Vernon counties. She and her husband, Walter G. Reich, owned a variety store business in Independence until their retirement in 1969. Survivors include one daughter, two granddaughters, and two great-granddaughters.

Kathleen (Stone) Fredriksen, '40, Wittenberg, died in December 1992 at age 76. A Wittenberg native, she married Bertran Fredriksen in 1950. He preceded her in death in 1954. A teacher at Lincoln School in Watertown and at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater, she held a master's degree from UW-Madison. Survivors include a daughter and a sister.

Ruby O. (Ottem) Allen, '39, Stevens Point, died in August 1992 at age 75. A Stevens Point native, she married Kenneth Allen 50 years ago. He survives. A teacher in both grade schools and junior high schools, she also taught educational psychology and headed the Instructional Media Center at UW-SP. Other survivors include four daughters, one son and nine grandchildren.

Orville A. Miller, '38, of Algoma died unexpectedly in July 1992. He was 80 years old. Born in Brussels Township, he taught school in several Wisconsin communities, including Door-Kewaunee Normal School for 16 years. Ten of those years, he was president of the normal school. A veteran of WWII, he served in the army for four years. He also was a past clerk of circuit courts of Kewaunee County. He is survived by two sisters, nieces and nephews.

Mark W. Maguire, '37, Durand, died in February 1993 at age 80. Born in Halder, he and his wife, Adeline Nussberger, lived most of their married life in Durand. After service in World War II, he taught school in the Durand area for about 10 years. He then worked for Pepin County Human Services until his retirement. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, one son, seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Ruth (Bennett) Hagstrom, '36, Washburn, died in November 1992 at age 94. A native of Three Lakes, she taught in public schools in northern Wisconsin for a number of years prior to her marriage to Axel Hagstrom in 1924. He died in 1985. Survivors include two sons, two daughters, 10 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

Sadie (Klimeck) Mundt, '35, died in May 1993 at age

Natural resources students use area streams for their fishery and water projects.

78. Born in Stetsonville, she was married to Adolph Mundt for 52 years. He survives. She had been a home economics teacher in the Owen-Withee School District for about 20 years until her retirement in 1973. From 1985-90, she and her husband spent winters in Texas. Other survivors include one daughter, one son, five grandchildren and two great-granddaughters.

P.J. Jacobs High School, Stevens Point Public Library, UW-SP Learning Resources Center and Mosinee Middle School until her retirement in 1978. She was married to Jerry Buggs for 30 years until his death in 1968. Survivors include two daughters, two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Born in Nekoosa, she was married to Howard L. VanNess in 1934. Her husband died in 1983. They met while both were teaching in Rudolph. After their marriage, they moved to Lodi, where she began teaching mathematics in 1955. A dedicated educator, she was active in all aspects of teaching, took university courses throughout her life, and was honored by the American Legion with the 1991 Teacher of the Year Award. She also was active in her community and church. Survivors include four children and three grandchildren.

Jeannette (Wilson) Scribner, '27, died in January 1993 at age 87. She had taught in Oak Park, Ill., Milwaukee, and Stevens Point before marrying Dr. Leonard C. Scribner in 1929. Her husband was a longtime dentist in Stevens Point and the couple lived here throughout their married life. She was preceded in death by her husband and an infant son. Survivors include a daughter, a son, seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Agnes (Okray) Finnessy, '27, Stevens Point, died in June 1993 at age 82. She retired in 1990 after 17 years as secretary and bookkeeper at Okray Family Farms. She also had been employed at Hardware Mutual and AT&T. Her husband, Charles Finnessy, died in 1969. Involved in several religious, social and community activities, she is survived by two sons, two daughters, 17 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Margaret (Byrne) Seiler, '27, died in Wausau in February 1993. She was 100 years old. Born in Langlade County, she taught in Langlade and Shawano counties before moving to California after her marriage to Robert W. Seiler in 1936. After teaching in California for several years, she returned to Wisconsin in 1955. Her husband preceded her in death in 1984. Survivors include two nieces.

Carl (Whitey) Schroder, '27, Crivitz, died in March 1993 at age 89. A Crivitz native, he married Myra B. Hill in 1929. She died in 1989. He was a teacher and administrator at several school districts from 1927 until his retirement in 1968. He then established a blue spruce Christmas tree plantation at Crivitz and remained active in his business until last year. Survivors include a daughter, three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Elizabeth (Carteron) Kuehni, '26, of Belleville, died in July 1992 at age 86. She was married to Gottfried Kuehni for 63 years. He survives. She had served as a church organist for 50 years and had taught in the Paoli area. Other survivors include a sister and nieces and nephews.

Pearl Abraham, '26, died in August 1992 in Ironwood, where she had moved with her parents as an infant. She was 89. Her long career in education included teaching Indian children at St. Ignace and teaching elementary school in Bessemer, Phelps, Ironwood, Eaton Rapids and Lansing. She retired from Ironwood Public Schools in 1963. Survivors include two brothers, one sister, and several nieces and nephews.

Josephine Bolton Field, '26, formerly of Madison, died in September 1992 in Chippewa Falls. She taught at Union Center, Oak Park, Ill., and at Marquette Elementary School in Madison for 37 years until her retirement in 1966. In 1971 she married Edward Field, who died in 1983. She resided in Sun Prairie until moving to Chippewa Falls in 1989. She is survived by two brothers, nieces and nephews.

Clara (Stalker) Neilson, '26, formerly of Friendship, died in March 1993 at age 87. Born in Oxford, she taught school for two years, and later became administrator of Friendship Manor Nursing Home in Friendship. She is survived by a son, two grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Iva (Bender) Parkin Beech, '26, died in April 1993 at Berlin. Born in the town of Pine Grove, she married Hollis Parkin of Coloma in 1939. He died in 1954. She married Edward L. Beech in 1956 and he died in 1968. She taught school for 16 years, then lived in Coloma, where she was employed by the U.S. Postal Service. She retired as postmaster in 1973. She is survived by two sisters, and numerous nieces and nephews.

Helen (Lehman) Olson, '26, Rice Lake, died in February 1993 at age 86. An Athens native, she taught elementary education at Shell Lake and at Neillsville for several years. She married Gilbert Olson in 1935 and he died in 1988. Survivors include a daughter, a son, six grandchildren and three step-grandchildren.

Lucielle (Collins) Kelly, '25, died in August 1992 in Woodruff. A Kendall native, she was married to Frank Kelly in 1934. He is deceased. She was employed at Sentry Insurance, Stevens Point, until her retirement in 1966. Survivors include one daughter, one son and four grandchildren.

Evelyn Werner Andrews, '25, Pittsville, died in November 1992 at age 87. Born in Wisconsin Rapids, she was employed at the Speich Creamery, Pittsville, prior to her marriage to Fred Huber in 1927. The marriage ended in divorce. She married Frank Andrews in 1952 and he died in 1983. Survivors include one sister, nieces and nephews.

Evelyn (Yach) Sherwin, '25, died in August 1992 in Stevens Point. She was a school teacher in Wisconsin and Michigan before her marriage to David Sherwin in 1936. He survives at 443 Granite Ridge Road. Following their marriage, she taught for one year. They lived on Portage Street in Stevens Point for 40 years.

Grace M. (Doyle) Dupuis, '24, of Mosinee died in August 1992 at age 86. Born in Lanark, she married Marvin L. Dupuis in 1928. He died in 1982. She was an elementary school teacher in Portage and Marathon Counties for 26 years, and was a social worker for Marathon County until her retirement. Survivors include two sons, two daughters, 11 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Ethel Shampnor, '24, died in December 1992.

Verna (Crocker) Accola, '23, of Baraboo, died in May 1993 at age 90. A Stevens Point native, she married Walter "Dick" Accola, who preceded her in death. They were longtime Baraboo residents. She was a home economics teacher in Mazomanie and Prairie du Sac. Her survivors include one son, one grandson and seven great-grandchildren.

Robert Andrews, '22, of Stevens Point died in August 1992 at age 93. A native of Oxford, he was believed to be the last surviving member of the Student Army Training Corps that was on active military duty at the Stevens Point State Normal School in the fall of 1918. There were less than 100 soldiers in the unit during those closing days of World War I, and their headquarters were in Nelson Hall on campus. After graduation, he taught at Phillips and Westfield High Schools. He worked for the Milwaukee County Department of Public Welfare for 10 years. In the late 1940s, he and his wife Susie (Shepherd) moved to Stevens Point, where he worked for the State Department of Public Welfare as a district supervisor until his retirement in 1964. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, three grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren. His son, Robert W. Andrews, '51, preceded him in death in April 1992.

Margaret (Sweeney) Trepes, '22, of Kendall, died in April 1993 at age 93. She had taught school for eight years before her marriage to Frank T. Trepes in 1928. They had farmed in the Kendall area, lived in Chicago, and moved back to Kendall upon their retirement in 1963. Survivors include her husband, three sons, two daughters, 18 grandchildren and 35 great-grandchildren.

Helen (Zuelke) Laessig, '21, died in August 1992 in Wausau. She was 90 years old. A Stratford native, she married Reuben Laessig in 1925. He died in 1976. She had taught at the Stratford Elementary School and was active in community organizations. Survivors include two daughters, 10 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Lydia (Bauer) Thomson, '18, of Frederic, died in May 1992 at the age of 94. Born in Waupaca County, she was married to Carl Thomson for 40 years until his death in 1964. They owned a variety store in Frederic from 1938 to 1954, then purchased and ran a Ben Franklin store in Kingsburg, Calif. for about 10 years. After Carl's death, Lydia returned to Frederic where she was active in the Lutheran Church and the American Legion Auxiliary. Survivors include two sons and three grandchildren.

Blanche I. (Schoonover) Quale, '18, Madison, died in August 1992 at age 103. A Lone Rock native, she taught English and biology in Hudson prior to her marriage to Oscar O. Quale in 1934. They lived in Hudson where he managed the Hudson exchange of The Wisconsin Telephone Co., and she was active in community organizations. Her husband died in 1972 and she moved to Madison in 1978. She is survived by a stepson, two grandsons, and a great-granddaughter.

Amy (Nelson) Hugunin, '18, Green Bay, died in December 1992 at age 94. A Green Bay native, she had been a teacher before marrying Leland W. Hugunin in 1919. He died in 1969. Survivors include two sons, a daughter, eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

A student at work in a campus science laboratory

Agnes (Henriksen) Cappelletti, '35, died in January 1993 at age 89. Born in Waushara County, she taught in the County Normal School System. In 1939 she married John Cappelletti and helped him run the family business, Wislanco Stone Co. in Lannon. He survives. Other survivors include a daughter, three grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and two foster children.

Agnes (Madsen) Thorsen, '34, died in June 1992 after a long bout with Alzheimer's Disease. She was 78. Born in Withee, she was married to Al Thorsen for 40 years. He died in 1976. They had managed a Sherwin Williams Paint Store in Fond du Lac for many years. She remained in Fond du Lac until 1982 when she went to live with her daughter in Appleton, then became a resident of Good Shepherd Home in Seymour. Survivors include two daughters, four grandchildren, and a great-granddaughter.

Dorothy (LeRoux) Buggs, '34, Stevens Point, died in May 1992 at age 80. A librarian, she worked at Gilbert Busch, '34, of Rhinelander, died in November 1992 at age 83. After teaching in Rhinelander for a few years, he served in the U.S. Navy during World War II in the South Pacific, earning the rank of lieutenant commander. He returned to Rhinelander and served as an agent for Standard Oil for the district from 1948 to 1970. He was a member of the board of education, the city planning commission and a founding member of Trout Unlimited. Survivors include his wife of more than 50 years, Marianna (Bruhn), two daughters, one son, nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Eleanore (Albert) Walloch, '30, Wisconsin Rapids, died in August 1992 at her home. She was 79. Born in Rudolph, she taught in Portage County until her marriage to Sylvester Walloch in 1937. The couple farmed in the Rudolph area until 1971 when they retired and moved to Wisconsin Rapids. He died in 1974. Survivors include two sisters.

Marie Mollen VanNess, '30, died in March 1993 at age 84.

News of Alumni

Whatever happened to good ol'...

1992

Robin Doane, '92, was an entrant in the Miss Wisconsin USA Pageant in November 1992 in Madison. She is currently employed as a supervisor at Trig's Food and Drug, Rhinelander.

Susie Morrison, '92, is manager of Sears Portrait Studio in the CenterPoint Mall in Stevens Point.

Loreli C. Reiersen, '92, is an art teacher in Beaver Dam's Unified Catholic Parish School. She taught summer school in Pardeeville.

Jennifer Stephani, '92, teaches fifth grade and coaches junior varsity volleyball and freshman basketball. She lives in Marshfield.

Ricardo Abud, '92, is a project engineer at the Thilmany division of International Paper in Kaukauna. He works in the technical services department.

Sam Eddy, '92, teaches fourth grade and coaches hockey in Tomahawk.

Michele Noel, '92, teaches private piano and saxophone lessons.

Ginger Lee, '92, is a family and consumer education teacher at Perry Tipler Middle School, Oshkosh.

Tami Horzewski, '92, is the Community Health Network's wellness coordinator. The program serves a five-county area, including clinics in Berlin, Markesan, Montello and Princeton.

Will Stagl, '92, has established Will Stagl Associates, a writing, public relations and marketing services company in Waukesha.

1991

Kathleen Theisen, '91, was selected as one of seven finalists in the Wisconsin Public Radio Neale-Silva Young Artists Competition in April. Active as a private piano teacher, accompanist and free-lance jazz and classical musician, she received the 1991 Wisconsin Music Teacher Association Award of Excellence for piano teaching. She studies with Lily Chia Brissman at the Wausau Conservatory of Music.

Boyd Richter, '91, works for the Wisconsin DNR as a conservation warden in Rock County. He coordinates law enforcement activities dealing with environmental protection and resource management in the county. He resides in Edgerton.

Brad Fisher, '91, works for Membrane System Specialists as director of accounting. He directs, manages and forecasts the financial needs of the company and is responsible for all accounting services.

Tracy Neve, '91, teaches fourth grade in the Pittsville School System. While growing up, she attended Pittsville schools for 10 years.

Sterling Strathe, '91, is the director of the Outdoor Skills Center at the Sheboygan County Fair Park in Plymouth. The only locally owned and operated outdoor skills center in America, the facility offers a variety of educational programs and activities, geared toward the outdoors and nature. Strathe developed a master plan for the center when he was a graduate assistant at UW-SP.

Mike Anderson, '91, is an underwriter at Sentry Insurance. He lives in Bancroft.

Brian Schmitz, '91, is an insurance agent with Cain, Ruh & Wink Insurance Services, New Holstein, dealing with farm-related insurance products. He previously worked on his father's farm in Charlesburg.

Raquel Johnson, '91, received an Army Achievement Medal from her battalion commander for outstanding operations in support of Operation Hurricane Andrew in Florida, during September and October, 1992. She is a finance officer stationed with the 10th Mountain Division, Fort Drum, N.Y.

Lisa Rose, '91, passed the examination to become a certified public accountant. She works at the Rhinelander office of Wipfli Ullrich and Bertelson, the largest Wisconsin-owned certified public accounting, management consulting and computer service firm.

Eric Roller, '91, is the juvenile court supervisor in Langlade County. He was previously employed by the county in the department of social services with the intensive in-home program. He also works part time at a Stevens Point group home. He said his main goal as supervisor is to establish restitution and community service programs.

Lee Ann Kittleson, '91, teaches third grade at Westfield Elementary. She has lived in Westfield for the past four years while student teaching and substitute teaching there.

Scott Eckholdt, '91, recently completed training at the U.S. Army Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga. He is now designated as a qualified light-weapons infantryman and indirect-fire crewman in a rifle or mortar squad.

Debra Tepp, '91, is director of Antigo's Friendship Manor.

Rhonda Oestreich, '91, teaches fourth grade at Washington School in Oconto.

Brenda Joy, '91, is the head teacher at The Little School Inc., Portage. A pre-school

Johnson's butterfly research featured

Scientific research by an alumnus of the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point is featured in a series of papers about South and Central American butterflies published by the UW-SP Museum of Natural History.

The work of Kurt Johnson, Ph.D., of Brooklyn, N.Y., a research associate at the American Museum of Natural History, plus information gathered by several of his colleagues throughout the world, has been included in 10 publications printed and distributed by UW-SP. Frank Bowers, the UW-SP museum's director, says these important publications are "renowned" in the "butterfly world."

Several new species of subtropical "hairstreak" butterflies have been identified by Johnson and others, and described in the museum journals. Scientists from throughout the world have contributed to the publications through "networking" their information, which Johnson assembles into the finished works.

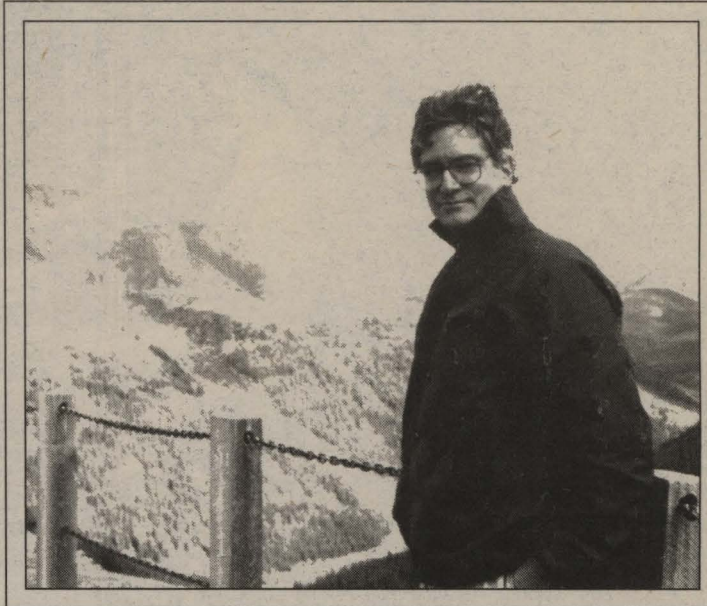

One of the groups of butterflies which the journals have identified and discussed was first discovered in the 1940s by Russian novelist Vladimir Nabokov, who began his career as an entomologist at the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Harvard.

About 250 of the publications have been sent to libraries and professionals worldwide. Through UW-SP's sponsorship, the books can be done quickly and reprints can be made inexpensively, Bowers says.

Johnson, who has spent many years studying butterflies throughout South and Central America, graduated from UW-SP in 1969. His father, Alvin M. Johnson, was a UW-SP geography professor. The first UW-SP student to be awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, Kurt began publishing articles about butterflies while a sophomore on campus. He went on to receive a master's degree in zoology at the University of Northern Iowa, and a doctorate in evolution and systematics at the City University Graduate Center, New York City.

He has been associated with the American Museum of Natural History since 1976 and has published about 100 scientific articles and four books on the taxonomy, evolution and biogeography of butterflies. He has become recognized as an authority on "hairstreak" butterflies, and recently has begun publishing actively on a sister group of these butterflies, the tropical "blue" butterflies. He has been invited five times to present papers at international lepidopterists' meetings.

Johnson formerly has been a research associate at the Florida Museum of Natural History and the UW-SP museum's curator of education. In addition, he has been an Episcopal chaplain and an executive secretary at a legal firm.

operated by a non-profit organization consisting of parents, it offers morning and afternoon classes to 3, 4 and 5-year-olds.

Morris Pettarelli, '91, is part-owner of a restaurant in Highwood, Ill., where he resides.

Cathy Pessig, '91, teaches sixth grade at Medford Area Middle School.

Amy Grenier, '91, works as a naturalist for the Trees For Tomorrow Natural Resources Education Center in Eagle River.

Cheryl Walsh, '91, teaches computers to grades six through eight at St. Mary's-St. Patrick's School. She resides in Whitelaw.

Jeanne Raffin, '91 teaches fourth grade for the Manawa School District. She lives in Manawa.

Peter Serena, '91, is a science teacher for Maine Township High School District. He and his wife live in Arlington Heights, Ill.

Lynn Kleisner, '91, teaches freshman physical science and algebra and coaches freshman volleyball for Weyauwega-Fremont High School.

Tammy M. Kostusak, '91, teaches at The Montessori Children's Center. She lives in Wisconsin Rapids at 5220 30th St. S.

1990

Lisa Peterson, '90, is the orchestra director at Owatonna Junior High School. She resides in Owatonna, Minn.

Edward Ripp, '90, is one of the helicopter pilots in Task Force 5-158 of Operation Restore Hope in Somalia. The pilots provide airlifts for troops, equipment and relief supplies. A lieutenant, he received his helicopter training at the United States Army Aviation Center, Fort Rucker, Ala. He is married to Mary (McNulty).

Scott Kolpien, '90, is the publisher of Popular Ceramics, the nation's oldest publication in the ceramics field, published by Jones Publishing in Iola. He also is marketing director of Jones, which is the position he had when joining the company in 1991. He publishes Job Training and Placement Report, a monthly newsletter serving administrators and professionals employed by sheltered workshops, rehabilitation centers and job training centers. He resides in Iola.

Keith Feind, '90, is a groundwater monitoring technician for Waste Management. His wife, Karen, is an early childhood educator for Seton Children's School, Cedarburg. They were married last year and reside in Lake Church.

Jena Nordlund, '90, is a pharmaceutical sales representative for Solvay Pharmaceuticals. When hired in January 1992, she worked in Milwaukee before being relocated to Stevens Point. She was promoted to sales executive in January 1993, and was transferred back to Milwaukee. She also is a free-lance model recently signed with Arlene Wilson Agency, Milwaukee.

Keith Dupuis, '90, is an account executive for WOFM Radio in Mosinee. He previously was promotions director and creative director at WSPT-WSPO in Stevens Point.

Ruth Sisko, '90, after completing a two-year co-op with the United States Forest Service in the Siskiyou National Forest, Oregon, gained a full-time permanent forester position in the silviculture department of the Galice Ranger District in the same forest. She is involved in reforestation, timber stand examinations, reforestation survival surveys, writing silvicultural prescriptions and fighting forest fires. The proud owner of a purebred Alaskan husky named Cody, she says she is still an avid Packer and Brewer fan.

Timothy Gehring, '90, is Brown County landfill specialist with the solid waste department. His duties include supervising landfills, coordinating projects, planning long-term solid waste handling goals and publicity. He previously worked as an environmental engineer at Waupaca Foundry.

Rick W. Dallmann, '90, is process manager of finished products at the Thilmany Division of International Paper in Kaukauna. He previously held the positions of technical service engineer and senior project engineer.

Danielle Varney, '90, is the facility clinical dietitian at Boscobel Area Health Care, Blue River. She coordinates nutritional care planning and counseling for hospital and psychiatric patients and residents of the nursing home. Before moving to Boscobel, she served a year's residency program with St. Francis Medical Center, Peoria, Ill.

Cheryl Schopper, '90, teaches seventh and eighth grade science at Medford Area Middle School, coaches seventh and eighth grade track, and coaches eighth grade volleyball.

Susan Eilola, '90, teaches Spanish and works in the middle school remediation laboratory in Medford.

Mary Kay Becker, '90, accounting manager at Travel Guard International, Stevens Point, has passed the certified public accounting examination. She lives with her husband, Chuck, and their son at 3273 Whiting Ave., Stevens Point.

Laurie Pohnl, '90, is a second-grade teacher at Pelican Elementary School in Rhinelander. She also is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, the curriculum council and the arts council. Her address is 706 N. Stevens St., Rhinelander.

Pat Wherley, '90, works for Farmer and Noskowiak, certified public accountants, as a staff accountant, handling individual and corporate taxation, as well as auditing.

Brenda Schwandt, '90, is a live-in nanny. Her address is 537 Mt. Parnassus Drive, Granville, Ohio.

Roy Diver, '90, is a soil conservationist in Minnesota for the USDA-Soil Conservation Service. His address is 168 1/2 W. Main St., Wabasha, Minn.

Holly (Seifert) Ryan, '90, works for UW-Milwaukee. She and her husband, Jerry Ryan, live at 8636 N. 106th St., Milwaukee.

Brian Vaughn, '90, is a map maker who has co-authored a book entitled, "Fishing Wisconsin's Top 50 Muskie Lakes," published by Fishing Hotspots of Rhinelander. He mapped each lake featured in the book. Vaughn resides in Rhinelander with his wife, Tracey, and two sons. He currently is working on maps of Wisconsin bicycle trails.

Bart Sexton, '90, is the Oneida County solid waste manager. He is completing a master's degree at the University of Minnesota.

1989

Sally Lindow, '89, is a third-grade teacher in the Tracy Unified School District, Tracy, Calif. Her husband, Brian, is a computer scientist at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. They were married last year and now reside in Tracy, Calif.

Penny (Wallace) Yagodinski, '89, works for the Barber Colman Co. in the motor division. She is a buyer for the Rockford, Ill., Crystal Lake, Ill. and Darlington plants. The division she works in manufactures subfractional motors. Her husband, Dan, is a senior buyer for Sundstrand Corp. in the aerospace division. They reside in Rockford.

Randy Thomas, '89, is an inventory coordinator at Consolidated Papers Inc. He started at Consolidated in 1988 as a laborer at the Wisconsin Rapids Division.

Mark Ziminske, '81, master's '89, and Elaine (Cole) Ziminske, '87, reside in Africa. An associate peace corps director for the U.S. government, he has spent the last seven years working in Africa. The director for Burundi, he oversees three programs: inland fisheries, parks and conservation and small business enterprise. Elaine is a physical education teacher for the American International School of Bujumbura, a primary school. Mark would love to hear from some of his old CNR buddies. Their address is Department of State/Bujumbura, Washington D.C., 20521-2100.

Elizabeth Olin Jones, '89, has been named Civil Servant of the Year by the Federal Executive Board of the Twin Cities. She is responsible for the development and implementation of the Environmental Education Program at the Minnesota Valley National Wildlife Refuge, Bloomington, Minn..

Joanne Powell, '89, says she worked as a counter person at a local bakery in order to save enough money to attend graduate school. Following her graduation from UW-Stout last year, she accepted a position as a K-12 guidance counselor for the Wilmot (S.D.) School District. Her address is Box 34, Wilmot, S.D.

Linda Domoracki, '89, is the human resources manager for Canvasbacks Inc., a woman's sportswear manufacturer in Milwaukee. Her address is 2340 N. Lefebvre Ave., Wauwatosa.

Debbi Tauferner, '89, teaches elementary school and is pursuing a master's degree in Milwaukee. Her address is 804 S. 29th St.

Jennifer Nemitz, '89, an interior designer for Thomasville Gallery, is pursuing a master's degree at UW-Madison. Her address is 109 Prairie St., Fall River.

James E. Sekel, '89, is a social studies teacher and coach with Cadott Community Schools, and his wife, Amy (Tuttle) Sekel, '88, is the manager of Country Treasures. He is pursuing a graduate degree in educational administration at UW-Superior. Their address is 605 Bridgewater Ave., Chippewa Falls.

Renee Petit, '89, is a high school mathematics teacher and drama coach, and Joseph Mullen, '86, is an editor for Amoco Oil Co. publications. They met on the semester in London and were married two years ago. Their address is 6S. 531 Naper Blvd., Apt. 10, Naperville, Ill.

Thomas Schubart, '89, has been promoted to specialist IV in the data processing department at State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company's home office, Bloomington, Ill. He lives at 1819 Taft Drive, Normal, Ill.

Tim Coghlin, '89, has been named head hockey coach at St. Norbert College, DePere. He was selected after a nationwide search. He spent the past two seasons as the top assistant to UW-SP coach Joe Baldarotta.

Sandi Anderson, '89, is associate director of the Metropolitan Builders Association. She coordinates the Home Builders Expo and Parade of Homes, as well as assisting the overall management of the association. She previously worked for the Kasten for Senate Committee, where she was assistant finance director and facilitator of fund-raising activities for the campaign. She resides in Milwaukee.

David Panetti, '89, and Kate (Quirk) Panetti, '89, reside in south Minneapolis. He is working toward teacher certification at Hamline University in St. Paul. She is a human resources representative at Optional Care Systems in St. Paul. They have a young son.

Rebecca (Dollevoet) Hyland, '89, is a computer programmer for State Farm Insurance. She and her husband, Eric, reside in Normal, Ill.

Robin Fox, '89, is the director of UW-Whitewater's Children Center. She was formerly a teacher of four and five year-olds at the center for two years. A native of Port Edwards, she taught and directed at the Headstart Program in Wisconsin Dells for one year. She is pursuing a master's degree in early childhood education/exceptional educational needs. Her duties include setting policy and procedures, hiring new teachers and meeting National Association for the Education of Young Children standards.

Stewart Stone, '89, is an environmental educator for George Williams College, Downers Grove, Ill. He teaches fifth and sixth graders through a residential program the college offers. He says he is "still quite single" and lives in Williams Bay.

Debbie Gustafson, '89, teaches fourth grade at E.P. Rock Elementary School in Hudson. She formerly taught for two years at Prentice School. She also is the girl's softball coach and assistant girl's basketball coach. She attended a whole-language seminar in Auckland, New Zealand, and toured Australia during the summer of 1992.

Bob Schroeter, '89, is lead forestry technician on an inventory crew in the Olympic National Forest in Butte Falls, Oregon. His crew coordinates various inventory projects ranging from Pacific Yew and old growth, to managed stands on the Siskiyou, Umpqua and Rogue River National Forests. His wife is a recovery nurse at an area hospital.

Amy Schertz (Bendorf), '89, is a research analyst for The Psychological Corp. She and her husband live at 11955 Parliament, Apt. 710, San Antonio, Texas.

Helen Frye-Osier

Katie Schult Stout

Mary Nepper Glodoski

Lynn Riviere

Top alumni awards presented

Last spring several academic departments on campus recognized their outstanding alumni. These are the recipients for 1993.

Helen Frye-Osier, Ph.D., Cross Plains, director of audiology at William S. Middleton Memorial Veterans Hospital, Madison, a 1972 UW-SP graduate, was honored by the School of Communicative Disorders. She was chosen for excellence in program development, service to the school, supervision, publication, research and service to the profession. She has become nationally known for her work with assistive listening devices and communication strategies for the hearing impaired.

The outstanding alumna of the year in education was Katie Schult Stout, Stoughton, a 1970 graduate who is now the Wisconsin Education Council's instruction and professional development consultant. She is a native of Appleton who taught in her hometown for 14 years, two years at UW-Madison and four years as a staff member at the Department of Public Instruction before taking her current position.

Mary Nepper Glodoski, a graduate in 1983 and 1984, with bachelor's and master's degrees, respectively, received the award in the area of human development and nutritional sciences, while Lynn Riviere, a 1981 graduate in fashion merchandising, was similarly honored in her field. Now a resident of Hayward, Glodoski is a self-employed consultant for parenting education, giving programs on child development and parenting techniques. She is a former long term care coordinator for the Department of Social Services. Riviere of Chicago has been with the Polo/Ralph Lauren Corporation for seven years and currently is regional manager for Ralph Lauren Women's Wear. Her major markets are Detroit, St. Louis, Cleveland, Chicago and Minneapolis.

Lisa Thiel, '87, of Menasha, and Lt. Col. John Krysa, master's '82, of the Washington, D.C. area, have been named by the Division of Communication. Thiel owns and operates R.S.V.P. Event Planning and Marketing, which provides services such as planning for conventions, sales meetings, company parties, and fund-raising events. Her company also helps develop marketing tools including slide presentations, brochures, newsletters, sales flyers and logos. A Winneconne native, Thiel currently serves as board member and secretary of the Wisconsin Festivals and Events Association and president of Wisconsin Mini-Grand Prix Association.

Krysa of Burke, Va., works with the Drug Enforcement Administration coordinating the U.S. Army's military support for federal law enforcement in Central America. Assigned to the Joint Chiefs of Staff Operations Directorate in Washington, D.C., he is in charge of developing policies and fostering intergovernmental cooperation in order to curtail drug-related activities. Formerly he was stationed at Spandau Prison in Germany, served on the army's ethics committee, and studied and taught at Command and Staff College, Fort Leavenworth. A Chicago native with a bachelor's degree received in 1975 from the University of Illinois at Chicago Center, Krysa's thesis topic at UW-SP was a study of values in communication, and his book, "Leadership Counseling," has just been re-released by the Army.

Kenneth A. Ottman, '71, Milwaukee's assistant city forester and president of the International Society of Arboriculture, was cited by the College of Natural Resources. He holds a master's degree in arboriculture from Michigan State University where he received the Garfield Research Award. He began work in Milwaukee in 1979 as head of the Street Tree Division and became assistant forester in 1991. Ottman has served on the Wisconsin Arborist Association (WAA) board of directors since 1981 and was elected as its president in 1983. He was named to the board of the 7,000-member international society and currently serves as its president. In addition, he maintains contact with UW-SP urban forestry students and was instrumental in developing a scholarship program for them through the WAA.

Janet Nelson (Gelwicks), '89, is a boyswear merchandiser for Oshkosh B' Gosh. Michael Nelson, '91, is a sales representative for Wisconsin Cycle and Supply. They live at 373 N. Perters Ave., Fond du Lac.

Patti Trecker, '89, is a massage therapist for the Aurora Presbyterian Hospital. She resides at 16497 E. Alameda Place, Apt. 304, Aurora, Colo.

Eric J. Todd, '89 is a timberlands forester in the timberlands department of Consolidated Papers Inc. He resides in Minocqua.

Jamie Waite, '89, is a crew leader for the Wisconsin Conservation Corps. Kris Hupfer-Waite, '92, is a substitute teacher for various school districts. They live in Barron.

Rhonda Mroczewski, '89, has been named operations officer with Central City Credit Union. She lives in Marshfield.

Technical College's Marshfield Campus. She is a registered nurse in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Virginia.

LuAnn Larson, '88, works for the Waunakee Tribune as an advertising sales person. She previously worked for the Daily Tribune in Wisconsin Rapids. She lives in Sun Prairie.

Dan Seidensticker, '88, is a cartographer for the Dane County Regional Planning Commission. He received his master's in geographic and cartographic sciences at George Mason University in Fairfax, Va. He resides in Madison.

Jake P. Bourget, '88, a soil specialist, is the new executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Portage County. He previously worked for the Soil Conservation Service in Clay County, Ill., from 1988 to 1989, and since then has worked for Soil Conservation Service in Eau Claire. He and his wife, Monica, and their three children live in the Stevens Point area.

JoAnne Kozlovsky, '88, is the physical education teacher and track coach at Denmark Middle School. She previously worked at Little Chute as a physical education teacher and volleyball, basketball and track coach. She and her husband, Larry, are involved in farming.

1988

Lisa Anderson, '88, is a German teacher at Yuma High School, Yuma, Ariz. The volleyball and cheerleading coach, she is working toward a master's degree and spends summers with her parents in Sun Prairie. She resides in Yuma.

Barbara Wyman, '88, is a health unit coordinator instructor at Mid State

Gene Welhoefer, '88, teaches geography, U.S. history and issues of democracy for grades nine through twelve at Grantsburg. He previously taught in the Northland Pines, Phelps, and Three Lakes school districts. He resides in Frederic.

Susan Michelkamp, '88, is cost accountant in the controller's department at Consolidated Papers in Wisconsin Rapids. She previously was employed as a cost and special projects accountant at Wigwam Mills, Sheboygan.

Diane Thompson, '88, is a psychotherapist for the Inner Management Clinic in Stevens Point.

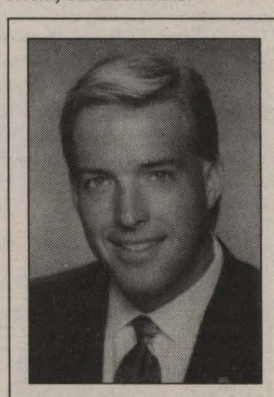

Paul E. Gindt, '88, works at Younkers as a human resource director in Marshfield, where he resides at 606 W. 13th Street.

John Wilterding III, '88, has completed a master's degree in entomology and is pursuing a doctorate at Michigan State University.

Gregory J. Edge, '88, is a forester in Dane County with the Department of Natural Resources. He holds a master's degree from UW-Madison. He and his wife, Michelle Treleaven Edge, a student affairs coordinator at UW-Madison, live at 4210 S. Clair St., Madison.

Scott Thomas, '88, is a microbiologist for Johnson & Johnson (Vistakon) at a disposable contact lens manufacturing facility in Jacksonville, Fla. He develops and validates new processes and production equipment for the microbiology and quality engineering department. His address is 1549 Ridgeland Road, Jacksonville.

Ken Stellmacher, '88, works for the Promus Companies Inc., the parent company of Harrah's, Embassy Suites, Hampton Inn and Homewood Suites. The holder of an MBA from Memphis State University, he was one of 12 recipients of the company's 1992 Chairman's award for outstanding achievement.

Kent E. Sykes, '88, has been commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation from the Air National Guard Academy of Military Science at McGhee Tyson Airport, Knoxville, Tenn. An Iola native, he is assigned to Truax Field, Madison.

Mike Vogelsang, '88, has been named the DNR fisheries biologist for the Madison chain-of-lakes. He joined the DNR in 1990 and formerly worked at the Northern Highland Fishery Research Area near Boulder Junction.

1987

Leah Miller Heath, '87, is the first woman to hold the position of tribal chair of the Stockbridge-Munsee Community. She is a parent of four children, including a daughter who is a graduate of UW-SP and two others who attend UW-SP. She formerly was community planner with the Great Lakes Intertribal Council.

Larry Nelson, '87, and Anne Krafve-Nelson, '89, reside in Birmingham, Ala. He received his doctorate in renal physiology from the Medical College of Wisconsin. He is working as a post-doctoral fellow at the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

Heidi Zinda, '87, is the AODA prevention project coordinator and social worker for Door County Schools. She holds a master's degree in social work from UW-Milwaukee with certification for both family and individual counseling and school social work. She formerly worked with delinquent teenage boys in Manitowoc and Two Rivers.

Mark Smith, '87, is a first lieutenant who was deployed at Camp Doha, Kuwait. He participated in a training exercise whose mission was to demonstrate U.S. commitment to the security and stability of the Persian Gulf region. An aviation/flight operations officer assigned to Glenview Naval Air Station, Glenview, Ill., Mark is married to Linda (Daberkow).

Paul Cieslewicz, '87, is a fisheries management specialist for the Missouri Department of Conservation. He received a master's degree in fisheries management from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. His wife, Carlene (Alwin) is a pediatric nurse at Lester Cox Hospital. They reside in Springfield, Mo.

Paula Gruentzel, '87, is a band director at New Holstein Elementary School.

Brian Martin, '87, teaches freshman science and sophomore biology at Medford Area Senior High.

Jean Bruncker Lownik, '87, is marketing and sales director at Cunningham & Welch Design Group Inc., a graphic design firm in Madison. Responsible for the firm's marketing, public relations and sales efforts, her most recent position was an account executive with Market Square Communications, a Stevens Point advertising agency.

Marah Nelson, master's '87, was named principal at Wabeno High School in November 1992. She previously was a business education teacher at Marion High School for more than 11 years. She had prior teaching experience at Mellen, Boyceville and Sauk Rapids, Minn. She earned a second master's degree last year from UW-Superior in educational administration. Married to Daniel Nelson, who is pastor at Zion/Immanuel Churches in Tigerton, they have two sons.

Debra J. Wentz, '87, is an alcohol and drug abuse counselor at The Sheboygan Clinic. She was certified by the state of Wisconsin as an alcohol/drug counselor level II in 1989. She became nationally certified in 1990. Her seven years of experience in the field include positions at St. Michael's Hospital, Stevens Point, Sheboygan County Human Services, The Turning Point, Hearthside, Inc., and Sheboygan Memorial Medical Center.

John A. Cicero and Charlotte A. (Connolly) Cicero, '87, are teachers living in South Milwaukee. John works for the South Milwaukee Public Schools and Charlotte teaches at St. John's Parish School. They have two children.

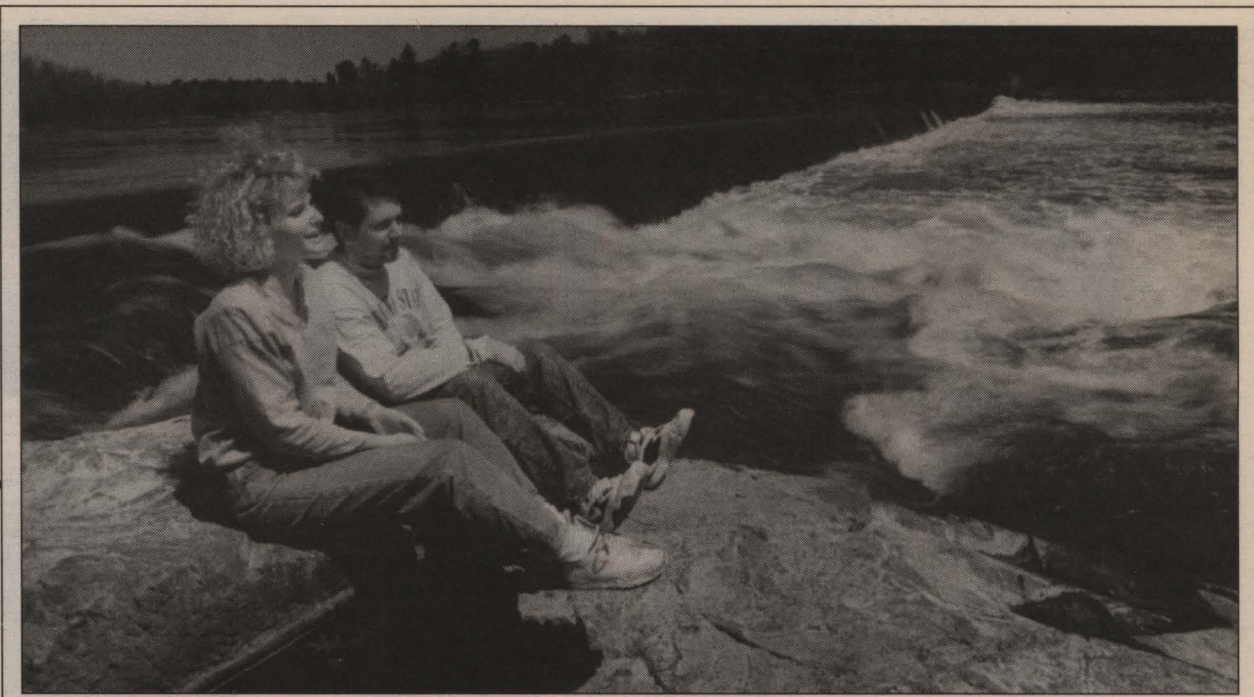

Jason Tishler, '87, is a forestry technician. He spent last summer plot-sampling on the Siskiyou, Umpqua and Rogue River National Forest in Oregon for the United States Forest Service. He returned in the fall of 1991 from a tour with the U.S. Peace Corps in Paraguay.

1986

Diane Engelhard, '86, has been named director of alumni relations at UW-Milwaukee. She had been acting director prior to her permanent appointment. Coordinator of the alumni association's activities and manager of the office, she began in May 1991 as coordinator of the association's constituent and corporate clubs. Previously she was director of public relations for Universal Medical Buildings and an account executive at the Bishea, Meili & Associates public relations firm, both in Milwaukee. She currently is president of the Wisconsin College Republican Alumni Association Board of Directors and vice president of the UW-SP Alumni Association Board of Directors. She lives in Milwaukee.

Connie Willfahrt, '86, is a computer software applications instructor at Mid State Technical College's (MSTC) Marshfield campus. She previously taught at MSTC and Marshfield Senior High School. She worked for the Marshfield Clinic as a software consultant for three years.

Chris Nepper, '86, teaches civics to sixth and seventh graders in the Pittsville

The spillway on the Wisconsin River, just south of Stevens Point, is a popular visiting place for UW-SP students.

School System. He has taught in Pittsville since he graduated from UW-SP. He is freshman football coach and eighth-grade basketball coach.

John Trobaugh, '86, is research coordinator of technical services, for Georgia-Pacific Corporation's newly formed natural resources division. He serves as liaison between division staff specialists and forestry operations conducted on 500,000 acres the company owns in Wisconsin, Maine and New Brunswick, Canada. He monitors regulatory issues involving wetland preservation, nonpoint pollution and endangered species protection. Responsible for Georgia-Pacific tree nursery and seed orchards in Saratoga, he provides technical support for reforestation and pest management on company-owned lands. John was previously reforestation forester for the company's woodlands in Wisconsin and was hired by the company as a nursery supervisor. He came to G-P from the Wisconsin DNR in Madison, where he was lab technician. He held forestry-related positions for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Services, Oregon State University and UW-SP. He and his wife, Mary Birkhead, have a son and a daughter and reside in Wisconsin Rapids.

Leslie Lynn (Perrizo) Kaldenberg, '86, is a self-employed health promotion program consultant. Her business is called "Wellness Wise." She is a board member and program chairperson for the Clallam County Division of the American Heart Association. Troop leader for a junior girl scout group, she recently completed her first marathon of 26.2 miles (Portland Marathon). Her husband, Charles, works at Daishowa America. She says her education at UW-SP "has opened many doors," leading to a "life full of wonderful moments and a wealth of opportunities."

Eric E. Luther, '86, and Laurie J. (Geary) Luther, '86, live in Baraboo. He is a transportation supervisor at Walgreen's Inc. She is a loan operations supervisor at Baraboo National Bank. They have two children.

Joanne Powell, '86, is community relations director for Petersen Health Care, Rhinelander. She previously was activities director at Riverview Terrace Nursing Home in Tomahawk. Joanne is vice president of Tomahawk Wood Products, a company owned by her family. She and her husband Mark have two sons and a daughter.

Lori Waterson, '86, is an elementary special education instructor for the Hortonville School District.

Rod Kramer, '86, is a senior corporate accountant for Wausau Insurance Companies. He was awarded the professional designation of Chartered Property Casualty Underwriter (CPCU) by the American Institute for CPCU. To attain the designation, he needed to complete a 10-course program and meet "rigorous academic, ethics and experience requirements." He resides in Mosinee with his wife, Wendy, and two children.

Kirk Booher, '86, was promoted to audit manager with The Prudential's auditing staff in Chicago. He previously served as senior auditor with the company's auditing staff in Minneapolis. He joined the company in 1989. He and his wife, Lynn, have two sons.

Alan Bardole, '86, is the manager of the Wipfli Ullrich Bertelson CPA office in Wisconsin Rapids.

Karl Ader, '86, is a therapist for the Manitowoc Family Service Association.

Sue Alberti, '86, has been awarded a Kohl Teacher Fellowship for her achievements as an English teacher at Medford Senior High School. She and her husband have two daughters and reside in Medford.

Lynn (Landreman) St. Aubin, '86, is an artist for Kristine Marie Jewelry. Her husband, Lee St. Aubin, is an architect for S.J. Baish and Associates. They live in Kaukauna with their son and daughter.

Gretchen Varsik-Mueller, '86, runs a family day care/preschool in her "home in the woods" near the southern Kettle Moraine Forest. She says she plans to educate her two young sons at home. Her husband, Gregory Mueller, is a carpenter for Stebnitz Builders. Their address is 029D Bluff Road, Eagle.

1985

Beth Goeppinger, '85, is the naturalist at Bong State Recreation Area which encompasses about 4,500 acres of prairie, woodlands and wetlands in northwestern Kenosha County. She holds a master's degree from Northern Illinois University and formerly served as naturalist at Kohler-Andrae State Park and as assistant director of an environmental center in Illinois for 3 1/2 years.

Don Kissinger, '85, is the DNR's coordinator of urban and community forestry for the 10-county north central district and seven counties of the northwest district. He previously worked as an urban forester in St. Louis Park and Plymouth, Minn.

Roger Glocke, '85, was named high school teacher of the year in Port Edwards. He teaches mathematics, physics, physical science and computers. The district's computer coordinator, he has had 30 years of teaching experience, 25 in the Port Edwards District. He has completed graduate work in the National Science Foundation Study of Mathematics at Kansas State and the Academic Year Institute in Mathematics at San Diego. A member of the village board, Roger and his wife, Marcia, reside in Port Edwards. They have two daughters.

Michael J. LaLiberte, master's '85, head of the athletic department at Wausau West High School, was named 1992 athletic director of the year for District II. His address is 4026 Henry St., Wausau.

Perry Smeltzer, '85, and his wife, Kristy (Carpenter) Smeltzer, '85, live in northern Michigan. He is a district conservationist with the USDA Soil Conservation Service and she is a homemaker. They have two children. Their address is 8161 Mullett Lake Road, Cheboygan, Mich.

Brian Nickel, '85, is assistant administrator of the Stevens Point Nursing and Rehabilitation Center. He formerly served as the administrator of a nursing home in Princeton.

Linda Buckman, '85, teaches second graders in the Green Lake Public Schools. She is married to Joel Baranowski, the owner of a sports shop. They reside in Green Lake.

Mark Farnsworth, '85, master's '87, and Michele Farnsworth, '87, reside in Green Bay. He is a speech and language pathologist for the West DePere School District and she is an assistant manager at Walden Books. He worked as a speech and language pathologist in Kenosha for five years before moving to Green Bay. They have one daughter and two sons.

James Zahasky, '85, is a forest administrator. He was previously employed by the USDA Forest Service, Black Hills National Forest, Bearlodge Range District, in Sundance, Wyo. He also has worked as an independent contractor. He and his wife, Cheri, have a son and a daughter. They live in the town of Peeksville.

Dawn Block, '85, teaches early childhood development and coaches women's basketball at Coloma.

Peter Gaulke, '85, is an interdisciplinary forester in the Galice Ranger District of the Siskiyou National Forest, Oregon. His duties include timber sale planning and coordination of the National Environmental Policy Act, Freedom of Information Act, and writing the district's environmental documentation. He formerly was assigned with the U.S. Peace Corps in Guinea, West Africa. His wife Lisa is an ecologist on the Rogue River, and Siskiyou and Umpqua National Forests.

Pat (Hochhalter) Martinez, '85, is an ecologist working on vegetation classification of the Rogue River, Siskiyou and Umpqua National Forests in Oregon. Her husband, Luis, is an architect. They have a one-year old daughter.

Todd LeRoy, '85, is a high school English instructor and the varsity assistant football coach in Park Falls.

Monica Folk, '85, is a stewardship assistant for The Nature Conservancy. She lives at 4825 Ditrus Drive, St. Cloud, Fla.

Mike Michalski, '85, is the superintendent for Bridgeman Landscaping. He lives at 8650 W. Summerdale, Chicago, Ill.

Elaine Thorn, '85, has been promoted to manager in the Rhinelander office of Wipfli Ullrich Bertelson CPAs.

Pauline J. Weston, '85, serves as the education supervisor for instructional staff and as lead teacher for the Social Development Commission. She lives in Milwaukee.

1984

Kevin Schilling, '84, is a forester-ranger for the Wisconsin DNR in Columbia County and Eastern Sauk County. He coordinates fire control operations, works with local fire wardens and administers fire safety programs. After graduating from UW-SP, he worked for Northwest Hardwoods as a timber buyer. Kevin joined the DNR in 1991 and managed the federal stewardship program in Monroe and Vernon counties. The program was implemented to help private landowners maintain their forestry resources. He and his wife Pat live in the Poynette area.

Mark Moesch, '84, is the associate business systems manager at the corporate office of Oscar Mayer Food Corp., Madison. He has been with Oscar Mayer since 1986 and resides in Waunakee.

Heidi Klessig, '84, is an anesthesiologist in Eau Claire. She received her medical degree from UW-Madison and completed her residency in anesthesiology in 1992 at UW Hospitals. During that year, she was chief resident of the anesthesiology department.

Dan Niquette, '84, is a research technician for the Savannah River Ecology Laboratory at the University of Georgia. He received a master's degree in wildlife/fisheries ecology from Mississippi State University. He is involved in a radioecology program at the Ecology Lab in Aiken, S.C., studying radioactive contamination in the environment and the use of radionuclides as tracers in plants and animals. He lives in Jackson, S.C.

Ellen (Gumm) Feller, '84, is a first-grade teacher in the Manitowoc Public Schools. She received a master's in education from UW-Oshkosh in 1990. Her husband Robert is an English teacher in the Manitowoc Public Schools. They have a two-year-old daughter.

Cindy A. Brzezinski, '84, teaches fourth grade at Buffalo Intermediate School in Buffalo, Minn. She will receive a master's of education from the University of Minnesota in the autumn of 1993. She has served as the secretary for the Buffalo Federation of Teachers for four years. She lives in Plymouth, Minn.

Sally (Heiring) Lutz, '84, is a speech language pathologist/hearing impaired instructor for the Charlotte County School Board in Florida. She and her husband, Dave, who is a children's pastor at the church they attend, have two sons. They live in Englewood, Fla.

Laure Blanchard, '84, is the executive director of the Women's Community of Wausau. She lives with her husband at 1320 E. Bridge St., Wausau.

Phillip Buch, master's '84, Wausau West High School choral director since 1981, has been named as a recipient of a 1993 Kohl Teacher Fellowship. He was selected for the honor "because of his skill as a leader and agent for positive change, and his superior ability to inspire love of learning." He also serves as artistic director and conductor of the Wausau Lutheran Choir. He has directed choral presentations throughout the United States, and in London and Vienna.

Scott Behrens, '84, is a professional trapper and predator control specialist who has developed his own brand of lures. "Barons Brand" lures are designed to attract fox, bobcat, coyote, mink, raccoon, deer and fish. They are available at sporting goods stores. Scott and his wife, Kathy, live in Spring Valley.

Donald Tomaszewski, '84, is office manager at Goodman Forest Industries. He and his wife, Barbara, and their two sons reside in Armstrong Creek.

Patrick J. Mitchell, '84, is a systems analyst for the Vollrath Co., Sheboygan. His wife, Sara (Larsen) Mitchell, is a registered nurse at Sheboygan Memorial Medical Center. They live with their son at 535 Erie Ave., Oostburg.

Christopher E. Celichowski, '84, is an associate attorney with Chadwick, Johnson and Condon, P.A. His wife, Bonnie J. Sons, is a special projects engineer with Northwest Airlines. They live with their two children at 5935 McKinley Place, Shorewood, Minn.

Marcia (Holmstrom) Nowicki, '84, is a marketing programs services advisor for Wisconsin Public Service, and her husband, Keith R. Nowicki, is a general partner in Independent Installation Services. Their address is 813 Eliza St., Green Bay.

1983

Suzan Sramek Brostowitz, '83, teaches craft classes and sells painted fabric clothing. She and her husband, Mark Brostowitz, an insurance agent, and their two young children live at 3228 Bremerton Court, Aurora, Ill.

Terry R. Sneller, '83, is a Wisconsin sales representative for Sargento Cheese Inc. He sells to stores between Madison and Milwaukee. Sneller has 16 years of retail grocery experience. He was most recently the territory manager for Sales Coordinators Inc. of Brookfield. He is a resident of Nashotah.

Sandra Madden, '83, is the general manager of the Madison Civic Music Association, the umbrella organization of the Madison Symphony Orchestra, Symphony Chorus and Opera. She was selected for the position, unanimously, from among 40 applicants from throughout the country. She has previously served as general manager of the Rockford (Ill.) Symphony Orchestra before moving to Denver to manage the Denver Chamber Orchestra. She then became executive director of the Colorado Childrens Chorale.

W. Daniel Schmidt, '83, recently graduated with a Ph.D. from Purdue University in physical education with an emphasis in exercise physiology and health promotion. He and his wife Lisa have one son. They live in New Jersey where he has accepted a position as assistant professor of physical education at Trenton State College, Trenton, N.J.

Michelle Anderson, '83, works as a massage practitioner in Baltimore, Md., where she lives at 3416 Hopkins Ave.

1982

Debra Pagel, '82, is employed at Wausau Insurance Companies home office as a team development facilitator in residual market services. She has been with the company since 1987, beginning as a human resources counselor before being named compensation analyst in 1988 and human resources manager in 1989. She became a human resources specialist in 1991, before receiving her current position. She has completed many of the company-sponsored management training courses.

James Derleth, '82, is a Fulbright lecturer at the American University in Bulgaria, Blagoevgrad, the first private American University in Eastern Europe. He is on leave of absence from the School of International Studies at the University of Pacific, Stockton, Calif. A Russian specialist, he had completed two master's programs and a course of study in the Soviet Union prior to receiving his doctorate in Soviet Studies from the University of Maryland in 1990. His areas of expertise include comparative politics, international relations and international security.

Kimberly Bushey, '82, began duties last year as vice president of Forward Janesville Inc., the "parent company" of the Janesville Area Chamber of Commerce. She formerly had been executive director with the Elkhorn Chamber of Commerce. She also has been executive vice-president of the Antigo Area Chamber of Commerce and program director of the Central Wisconsin Chamber in Stevens Point. She and her husband Tom live near Delavan with their two-year old daughter.

Susan (Busse) Betcher, '82, and Allan Betcher, '88, reside in Luray, Va. She works for the Page County Schools, helping 15 to 18-year-old high school dropouts prepare for the GED. She also works with the English department, helping students who are behind on their assignments. He is a personnel officer for the Shenandoah National Park.

Tom Weinkauff, '82, is assistant manager and investment executive at the Wausau Branch of Piper Jaffray Inc., headquartered in Minneapolis. He manages a staff of 14. He and his wife have three children.

Kathy (Stephens) Pinkart, '82, shares a fourth grade class with the assistant principal in Oconto.

Lynda (Lyndsey) Otten, '82, received a 1992 American Business Resource (ABR) Corp. Prosperity

Award. As an office manager of ABR in Manitowoc, she helps provide employment services to employers and job seekers.

Tom Van Haren, '82, is the warden supervisor in the five-county Dodgeville area for the Department of Natural Resources.

Ted Ave'Lallemant, '82, is a forestry work unit supervisor for the DNR and his wife, Cynthia (Goetz), is a registered nurse at Langlade Memorial Hospital. He reports, "Life in the woods is nice and laid back. We have two daughters and a dog that's also a female, so I'm way outnumbered. Still have many nostalgic thoughts of days at Point." Their address is W9866 Forman Road, Deerbrook.

John Michael Peck, '82, is an operations manager for Wacker Corp., and his wife, Laura Donnelly Peck, is an account manager for Xerox Corp. They live with their son at 508 Bel Aire Drive, Thiensville.

David D. Springer, M.D., '82, is an anatomic and clinical pathologist at St. Francis Medical Center. His address is 2205 State St., LaCrosse.

Debra Ostrander Katerzynske, '82, teaches home economics and family relations at Little Wolf High School. She is pursuing a master's degree in education with an emphasis on "at-risk" students. She has had overseas teaching experience in Poland and Hungary and is now training peer counselors and coordinating the student assistance program for the Manawa School District. Her address is 1203 Royalton St., Waupaca.

Diane (Wimme) Slipher, '82, is a homemaker. She and her husband, Clark E. Slipher, an actuary with Towers Perrin, and their two children live at 3980 S. Avon Drive, New Berlin.

Sarah J. Tesch, '82, is a live-in personal care attendant, who is involved with Amnesty International and the U.S.S. Phoenix, a Star Trek fan club. Her address is 1630 S. Sixth St., D1406, Minneapolis, Minn.

Kevin Kritz, '82, is a wildlife biologist with the Bureau of Land Management in the Coos Bay (Ore.) District. He handles management and research needs for threatened and endangered species, including spotted owls, marbled murrelets and bald eagles. His address is 1945 Cedar St., Apt. 1, North Bend, Ore.

1981

Dawn Olson, '81, was featured in a one-person art show in Taos, N.M., last December. Formerly an art teacher in Colby, she has been painting and exhibiting in New Mexico for the past three years in addition to leading workshops and teaching private lessons during the summer.

Sandra Mae (Ainsworth) Swietlik, '81, and John M. Swietlik, Jr., '81, reside in Milwaukee. She is a teacher for the Milwaukee Public Schools. He is an attorney for Cook and Franke, S.C. She earned her master's degree from Cardinal Stritch College in January.

Bryan Pierce, '81, is Oneida County Community Resource Development Agent with the University of Wisconsin Cooperative Extension Service. As an assistant professor in the university system, his major responsibilities are to provide educational assistance and leadership in the areas of community, natural resource and economic development. For the past four years, he has served as development coordinator and naturalist for Trees for Tomorrow Natural Resources Education Center in Eagle River. Prior to that, he was environmental education coordinator for the Des Moines County Conservation Board, Burlington, Iowa. In that capacity he directed the Starr's Cave Nature Center, part of a state geological and nature preserve. He and his wife, Gail, reside in Anvil Lake.

Patty Wallesvard, '81, resides in Iron Ridge. She is a high school English teacher in the Horicon School District. She has seven years previous experience at a high school in Sussex.

Paul D. Luisi, '81, serves as pastor at Concordia Lutheran Church in Watertown, N. Y. He holds a master of divinity degree from Wartburg Theological Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa, and is a licensed physician's assistant in the state of New York. He and his wife, Mary, are the parents of two daughters and a son.

Shelley Moore, '81, has won a mystery writing contest sponsored by Family Circle magazine and judged by best-selling novelist Mary Higgins Clark. Her story, the first-place winner from about 5,000 entries, was published in the July 20 issue of Family Circle. Several of her other stories have been accepted for publication by small press magazines. Her address is 12045 Walnut Road, Bagley.

Janet (Stephenson) Reible, '81, is an assistant shift supervisor at the Golden Nugget in Laughlin, Ariz. She and her husband, James A. Reible, who is self-employed, live in Fort Mohave, Ariz.

Russell Jensen, '81, is a vice president for human resources at the Hawkeye Bank of Des Moines. His wife, Terri (Laurion) Jensen, who was a dancer at UW-SP, received her degree from Drake University in 1983. She is the owner and president of Integrated Software Solutions. Their address is 506 NE Eighth St., Ankeny, Iowa.

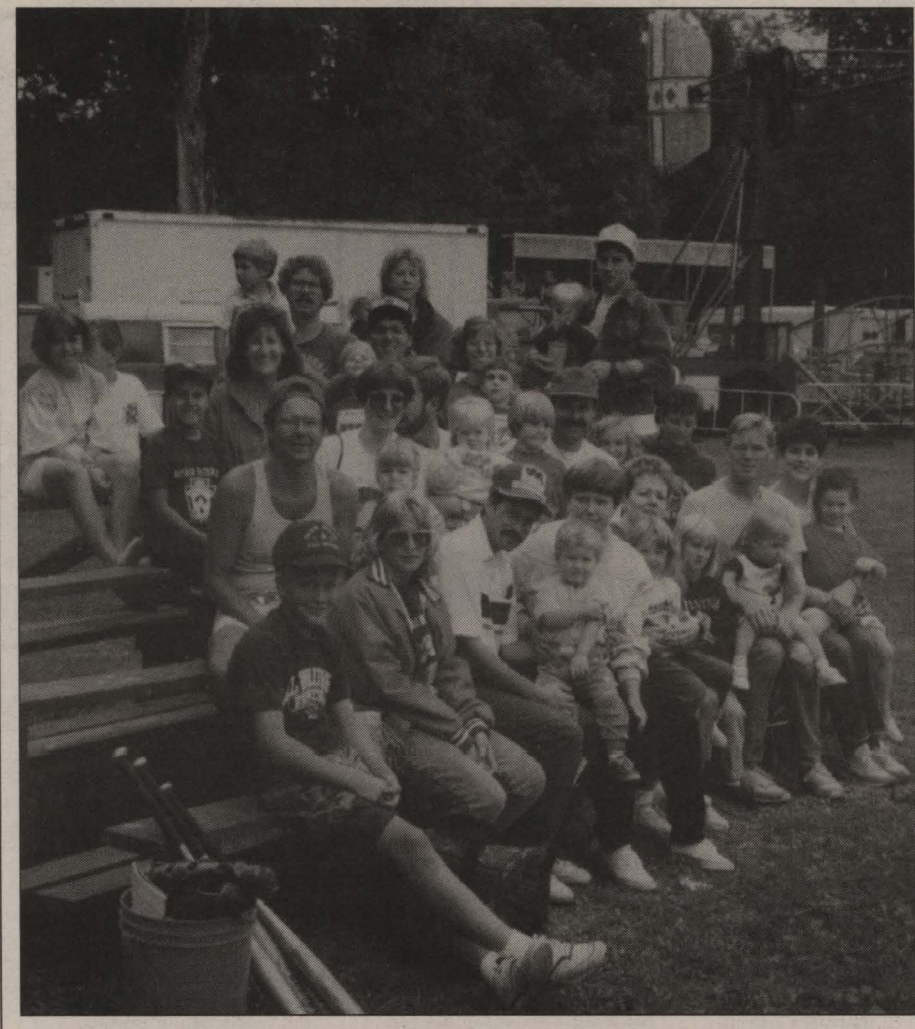

Julie (Hans) Luedtke, '81, is a registered dietitian and instructor at Wisconsin Indianhead Technical College. Her husband, James Luedtke, is the owner of a Culligan water conditioning business. Their address is 315 Hilltop Drive, Rice Lake.

Mark Zanoni, '81, is a naturalist who operates Earth Skill Adventures, a program that trains people to have comfortable experiences in the North Woods and to obtain a feeling of reconnection with the earth. He conducts wilderness workshops and outdoor programs for inner city youth.

Edward Fluekiger, '81, is an inspector with the U.S. Postal Service. He is on the fraud and prohibited mailing team in the Kansas City division of the postal inspection service. He has received special achievement awards the past two years in a row.

1980

Debra (Leuman) Gagnon, '80, is the principal of Forest Glen Elementary School in the Howard Suamico District. She and her husband, John, and their daughter live at 3167 Molly Brown, Green Bay.

A fountain outside a downtown Stevens Point bank provided an ideal background for a photograph.

Therese Ryan Jastrow, '80, holds a Ph.D. in neuroscience and works as a research investigator in the Department of Neurology at the University of Michigan. Her husband, Fred Jastrow, is a middle school science teacher with Tecumseh Public Schools. Their address is 1208 Westport Road, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Nancy Lind, '80, is an associate professor of political science at Illinois State University. She resides in Normal, Ill.

Michael Serchen, '80, is the vice president of RS&A Consulting, a company that helps investors manage their money. He says he would like to "touch base with people from Thompson Hall during 1976-79 for possible homecoming party plans." His address is 2975 South 128 St., New Berlin.

William F. Pentler, '80, is a zookeeper for hoofed stock at Lion Country Safari in Florida. His address is 1484-H Lake Crystal Drive, West Palm Beach, Fla.

Paul Szalajka, '80, is a sales manager for First Distributors, a wholesale cut flower business. He and his wife and two-year-old son live at 1109 Vickrey, Rio Linda, Calif., where the "weather is sunny and beautiful."

Jackie (Bley) Miller, '80, and her husband, Tony Miller, are the co-owners of Raven Golf, a wholesale and retail golf business with an indoor driving range and private PGA lessons. Their address is 4235 S. Coventry Court, New Berlin.

Bob Birdd, '80, is an employee of Hillsboro's water and sewer department and serves as city forester. Since his additional appointment last year, he has been working on a tree management plan for the city. He and his wife, Ann, have one daughter.

James Van Dreese, '80, is a quality systems technician for Consolidated Papers. He recently received the Samoset Council Silver Beaver award, the highest honor given to an adult volunteer in scouting. He lives at 351 Drake St., Wisconsin Rapids.

Philip Graber, '80, of Argyle is self-employed at Solar-Time Autobody.

Debra Roberts-Cordero, '80, is involved in the restoration of the Grace Episcopal Church, which was almost completely destroyed by fire, to its original 1895 English Gothic interior. The project has taken four years at a cost of $8.7 million. She lives in Marion, Mass.

David Stone, '80, teaches introductory and advanced biology at the University of Illinois Laboratory High School. He received a master's in entomology from the University of Illinois. Awards he has received include the Tandy Technology Award and the 1992 Entomological Society of America's Outstanding Secondary School Teaching Award. He and his wife, Marian, live in Urbana, Ill.

Mark Kanitz, '80, is a wildlife artist for Wisconsin Ducks Unlimited, the Wildlife Federation and Turkey Stamp and Sportsman Magazine. He enters many state and federal stamp contests and says painting is a way of keeping some of the memories of his outdoor experiences and sharing them with others.

Jack Kolb, '80, is an income maintenance specialist for the state of Illinois. He received a master's degree from the University of Illinois. His wife, Marie (Orszulak), is an admissions representative at Marianjoy Rehabilitation. They have a son and reside in Palos Hills, Ill.

Tim Zander, master's 80, was named 1991-92 junior high school teacher of the year for the Wisconsin Rapids Public School District. He joined the district as a German teacher in 1974 and was instrumental in developing the Japanese Language and Culture Program in the district. Chairman of the School Evaluation Consortium Foreign Language Committee, he has made numerous presentations to the state Foreign Language Association on language instruction techniques.

Patricia Kanziara, '80, is an environmental health and safety manager for the University of Wisconsin System Administration. Her office sets policy for compliance with environmental health and safety regulations applicable to the 26 campuses in the University System. She also operates a private environmental consulting business.

Tim Cogney, '80, is a service technician for Robert B. Hill Co., Richfield, Minn. He moved to the Twin Cities area after he graduated and worked in sales in the water treatment industry. He is licensed as a water conditioning contractor and certified water treatment specialist. He and his wife Carrie, who is a computer programmer for Xerox, have two daughters.

Randall Stanke, '80, is a practicing attorney and dean of students at St. Bernard's High School, St. Paul, Minn. He graduated from Hamline University Law School in 1984. His wife, Kathryn, is a computer systems analyst at 3M. They reside in Roseville.

Gerard D. Phillips, '80, is an administrator for the Crockett County Hospital in Ozona, Texas, where he resides.

Brad Kildow, '80, is a forester for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources in Eau Claire. He and his wife live with their three boys at 5266 Darwin St., Chippewa Falls.

1979

Cheryl Lavin-Meyer, '79, has worked at the Mayo Clinic for nine years. A professional member of ASID, she offers advanced drafting programs which include architectural detailing and in-depth lighting plans.

Marlene Neve, '79, teaches fifth graders at Pittsville Elementary School. Her entire teaching career has been in the Pittsville School System. She was previously an insurance secretary, a bank teller, and a small business/food service owner. She received her master's degree at UW-La Crosse.

Paul Bruggink, '79, works for the Wisconsin DNR as a recreation specialist at the Northern Highland/American Legion State Forest. He is the recreation work unit supervisor for the forest and the Bearskin State Park Trail. He has worked for the DNR since 1981 and has held several positions across Wisconsin before settling in the Northland. He lives in Hazelhurst.

Bobbie Pollesch, '79, is the chief financial officer at Ripon Memorial Hospital. She was previously board president at the hospital, serving for four years. She has been a partner at a public accounting firm and has been involved in several community service activities.

Gretchen Sustachek, '79, is a family preservation worker for the Alameda County Child Protective Services. A licensed marriage and family psychotherapist, she is married to John Chong. They have a daughter and live in Fremont, Calif.

Fred Silloway, '79, and Ann (Keller) Silloway, '80, reside in Delafield. He is vice-president of C.D. Baird. They have a son and a daughter.

John E. Steuber, '79, is a district supervisor/supervisory wildlife biologist in the USDA animal damage control department in Moses Lake, Wash. His previous position was assistant district supervisor/wildlife biologist with the same agency in College Station, Texas.

Allan M. Wanta, '79, is the owner of "Wanta Framesets," a bicycle-frame business. He and his wife reside at 5384 Hollister Ave., Santa Barbara, Calif.

Susan DeRouchey, '79, is assistant vice president of marketing at M&I First American in Wausau. She is on the market research committee for the United Way of Marathon County and is president-elect of the Mid Wisconsin Ad Club. Philip Venzke, '82, has published more than 35 poems in literary magazines nationwide. They live at 51 Park Ridge Drive, Stevens Point.

Marty Engel, '79, of New Richmond, a senior fisheries biologist with the DNR, has been named outstanding professional fisheries manager for 1992. Selected by a panel of his peers, he has been stationed at Baldwin since 1988.

Dawn (Kaufman) Foster, '79, is self-employed in child care, teaches religious education classes, volunteers with PTA, is a member of Friends of the Portage Library, and serves as a 4-H leader. She and her husband, Matt Foster, '79, have three daughters. An assistant manager, Matt is beginning his 13th year with K Mart, and has volunteered with United Way and PTA. They live at 408 W. Pleasant St., Portage.

Sheila (Cavanaugh) Braun, '79, works in fire management for the Forest Service in Eureka, Mont. She and her husband, Eugene Braun, and their two sons live in Trego, Mont.

Bob Radtke, '79, is an information management specialist for the U.S. Army. He is beginning his seventh year in the Army. He works and lives in Seoul, South Korea, a city of 11 million people. He manages satellite earth station installations and installs automation equipment throughout the Republic of Korea.

Ann (Glinski) Leahy, '79, master's '89, is a lecturer in communication at UW-SP. Her husband, Frank, is publisher of the Stevens Point Journal. Their address is 5970 Westminster Court, Stevens Point.

Anne Weir Jagunich, '79, is a mineland reclamation specialist with the Minnesota DNR and her husband, Nicholas Jagunich Jr., is an instrumentation repairman with LTV Steel. Their address is 1902 E. Long Lake Drive, Eveleth, Minn. Anne says she would like to hear from Fred, Randy, Donna, Connie and all of those who used to study and drink beer together, also Rachel Rambo.

Jerry R. Allen, '79, is an eighth-grade science teacher and basketball coach with Stanley-Boyd Schools, a second-term alderman, and owner of Allen Custom Golf & Repair. He and his wife, Terri (Rygiel), a bookkeeper and tutor, have two children.

Mona Vold, '79, is a professional writer who has co-authored, with Helen Myhre, "Farm Recipes and Food Secrets from the Norske Nook," published recently by Crown Publishing Co. The proprietor of the well-known restaurant in Osseo where people stand in lines to get a taste of her "from scratch farm cooking," Myhre, with Vold's writing assistance, has included prized recipes, a collection of Midwestern folklore, helpful hints, cooking secrets and short anecdotes from Myhre's life.

1978

Stephen Deminsky, '78, has been promoted to home office personal property manager for General Casualty of Sun

Prairie. Currently a member of the Wisconsin Automobile Insurance Plan's board of directors, Deminsky joined General Casualty in 1978 and has held a variety of positions in both personal and commercial underwriting. A New Auburn native, he and his wife, Sharon, and their four children live in Cottage Grove.

Scott Neubert, '78, plays lead guitar for country singer Hal Ketchum. He and his wife, Nancy (Hagen), a graphic designer, live in Nashville.

Gary Nye, '78, is a senior physician assistant in emergency services at Mayo Regional Hospital and his wife, Darlene, is a staffing coordinator at the hospital. He says he is "still playing hockey as a goalie in a 'cardiac' league." Their address is Route 1, Cambridge, Maine.

Kim Kolumba, '78, is an early childhood exceptional education needs teacher with the Wisconsin Dells School District. She has been included in the latest edition of Who's Who in American Education. Her address is 922 Minnesota Ave., Wisconsin Dells.

Denise Stroik, '78, is a buyer with Gantos Corp., and her husband, Chris Ostrowski, is a regional sales manager with Eastern Marketing Associates. Their address is 17472 W. Spring Lake Road, Spring Lake, Mich.

Allen Schuette, '78, and Karen (O'Connell) Schuette, '77, reside in Chilton. He is head of development at Best Software. His 13-year-old company was recently acquired by Office Technology, allowing its products to be marketed on a much larger scale. She is a teacher for Chilton Public Schools. They have three children.

Robin (Hron) Pfothauer, '78, is a church organist and junior choir director at a Methodist church in Hartford. She also sings in a 12-member ensemble in West Bend and occasionally performs as a soloist for local concerts and with the city band. She and her husband, a physician, have two boys and a girl.

Denise L. Shields, '78, is an AT&T account executive. Her husband Tom Kvasnicka is a corporate credit manager for Regal Ware Inc. Their son was born last year. They live in Brookfield.

Lee Barth, '78, is the vice-president of field service for the American Heart Association of Wisconsin.

Darlene Kubik-Barth, '79, is a business education instructor at DeForest High School. They live with their two children at 865 Sunnyview Lane, Sun Prairie.

1977

Marianne Yach, '77, is a computer programmer for CESA No. 7. She worked in medical research for 10 years and homemaking for three before returning to school for data processing.

Roger Holman, '77, was appointed to the Wisconsin

State Radioactive Waste Review Board by Gov. Tommy G. Thompson. The board represents Wisconsin citizens on the issues of radioactive waste disposal, transportation and other issues. The Waupaca County solid waste and parks-recreation director, he has also been the vice-chairman of the Waupaca County Radioactive Waste Committee since its formation in 1986. He and his wife Joan have three children.

Todd T. Brown, '77, is the vice president of paperboard operations at Hutchinson, Kan. and Denver, Colo. He and his wife and son live in Hutchinson.

Diane Wood, '77, is coordinator of gifted education with the Grayslake School District, Lake Villa, Ill. Recently elected to fill a two-year term on the Burlington Area School District Board, she lives at 33800 Oriole Court, Burlington.

Monica Judd Russell, is a major with the U.S. Army working for intelligence and security command at Fort Belvoir, Va. She and her husband, Michael T. Russell, a contract attorney with the army, have three children. They live at 2502 Cavendish Drive, Alexandria, Va.

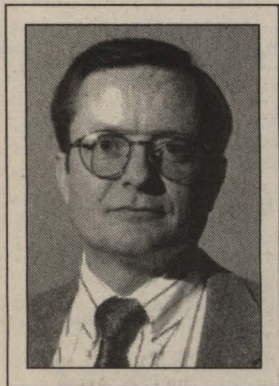

Matthew Gonring, '77, is vice president of corporate communications for USG Corp., a Fortune 250 holding company whose subsidiaries are market leaders in the manufacture and distribution of building products. He is responsible for financial and employee communications, news media and marketing communications. He was formerly director of corporate communications and joined USG as public relations director. Prior to his USG career, he was manager of external communications for United Airlines, UAL and director of public relations for Northwest Airlines in St. Paul, Minn. He received a master's degree in public relations from American University in Washington D.C. He serves as graduate faculty member in the integrated marketing communications program at Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism. A member of the board of directors for the USG Foundation and the Youth Foundation Council of Chicago, he serves in a variety of committee assignments for non-profit institutions and is a member of a number of professional communications organizations.

Bill Steinike, '77, was named the junior high school teacher of the year in Port Edwards. He teaches science and is the audiovisual

The walk between the University Center and Communication Arts Building, from the Park Student Services Center, is now tree-lined and shaded.

Edwards. He teaches science and is the audiovisual coordinator for the district. He has taught for 29 years in the Port Edwards schools and six and one-half years in Baraboo schools. Physics, chemistry, physical science, algebra and trigonometry are among the subjects he has instructed. He enjoys hot air ballooning and steamboating. He and his wife, Roberta, live in Port Edwards. Their daughter, Heidi, has been honored as teacher of the year in the West Salem School District.

Wayne McCaffery, '77, was one of 100 teachers chosen from across the country by the National Council on Economic Education to lead the movement to improve understanding of the American economy. Additionally, he is promoting the Advanced Placement program in economics. A participant in a three-week training institute last summer at the University of Minnesota, he and a member of the Center for Economic Education at UW-SP are developing a regional teachers' institute on economic education. The center will be based on the model funded by the National Science Foundation. He also is working to improve advanced college-level economics courses taught at Stevens Point Area Senior High, where he has taught for 15 years.

George Jirak, M.D., '77, is an obstetrician/gynecologist with the Two Rivers Clinic Ltd. He has been there since 1989 and also works at the clinic's Manitowoc office. A graduate of the UW-Madison Medical School, he completed a four-year residency in obstetrics and gynecology at Brooke Army Medical Center, San Antonio, Texas. He has four years of extensive experience, two at Ireland Community Hospital, Fort Knox, Ky., and two as gynecology chief of Letterman Army Medical Center, Presidio of San Francisco, Calif. He is a fellow of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology and also of the American Fertility Society.

Jack A. Norquist, '77, is supervisor of assembly operations for USBI, a company that supplies portions of the solid rocket boosters for the space shuttle program. His address is 5971 Sunflower Drive, Cocoa, Fla.

1976

Thomas A. Jacobs, '76, has been promoted to the position of manager of woodlands and wood procurement for Badger Paper Mills. He formerly was a forester for Badger, worked for the U.S. Forest Service and for Marinette County. He and his wife, Leslyn, and their two children live in Peshtigo.

Donna (Behn) Moll, '76, is the director of curriculum and instruction with the Middleton-Cross Plains Area School District. She holds a Ph.D. in education administration from UW-Madison. Her address is 3406 Kasten Court, Middleton.

Robert Kahn, '76, received a master of arts degree in education-administration and supervision from the University of Phoenix. He taught mathematics at Columbus High School and is currently teaching at Glendale High School, Glendale, Ariz.

Dale Holen, '76, plans to complete his doctoral work in biological sciences at UW-Milwaukee next December. He also received a master's degree from UW-Milwaukee. Before returning to school, he worked for both environmental and engineering firms from 1976 to 1984. He then enrolled in graduate school. He plans to obtain a post-doctoral position or teaching appointment. His research interests are protozoan-bacterial interactions in aquatic environments. His wife, Kathy, is department manager at Marshall Fields & Co. They live with their two children in West Allis.

Mary McComb, '76, is an assistant professor of communication arts at Marist College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. She has received a Ph.D. in speech communication from Pennsylvania State University. Her address is 38 E. Market St., Rhinebeck, N.Y.

Wendy (Brandt) Wieser, '76, is a K-8 music teacher with New Holstein Public Schools. Her husband, Joe Wieser, is a principal. Their address is 1704 Mayflower St., New Holstein.

Thomas P. Kempen, '76, is a senior staff support analyst for Schneider National and his wife, Mary (Van Beckum), works part time as a bookkeeper. They live with their three sons at 1567 North Road, Green Bay.

Kathryn Flemming, '76, teaches elementary and adapted physical education for Henrico County Schools. Her address is 3322 Kensington Ave., Richmond, Va.

Bruce Wulff, '76, is a specialist with AT&T Communication. He and his wife, Teresa, have two sons, "being raised in Bulls/Bears/Cubs country."

Their address is 4324 Elm, Brookfield, Ill.

Tom Nigus, '76, has been named wildlife supervisor for the DNR's five-county Horicon Area. A 14-year veteran with the agency, he formerly guided a habitat restoration program. A resident of Beaver Dam, he holds a master's degree from Iowa State University.

Virginia Weiner, '76, is the director of the Muehl Public Library. A resident of the DePere area, she formerly worked in libraries in Tomah and Ashwaubenon. She and her husband, David Weiner, an engineer, have three children.

Mike Brogan, '76, has been an early childhood exceptional education needs teacher in Pittsville for 10 years. He also coaches wrestling and girl's softball.

Karen Warner, '76, is a homemaker and mother. A school volunteer, she lives at Route 1, Almond.

Susan (Schroeder) Schultz, '70 and master's, '76, wrote cooking directions for the tons of food donated to Dubna, Russia, as part of a La Crosse community program, sponsored by Quillin's Grocery Store. Her directions for preparing food unfamiliar to the Russian people were translated into Russian. Director of consumer affairs of the American Heart Association of Wisconsin and home economist at Quillin's, she has organized home economists and dietitians to present programs, conduct grocery store tours and teach cooking classes. She also has written and edited nutrition articles for newsletters published by Lutheran Hospital and the YMCA. For her work with the Heart Association, she received a 1992 Award of Distinction and an outstanding program award. She resides in Onalaska.

James Reimer, '76, is a general administrative manager for Ajinomoto U.S.A. Inc. He formerly was a rehabilitation counselor in Wood County and a production superintendent and human resource manager at Ore-Ida Foods. He lives in Ottumwa, Iowa.

T. Gregg Watson, '76, serves as vice president of quality and resource management at Sheboygan Memorial Medical Center. He is pursuing a master's degree in public health administration from Loma Linda University in California. He lives in Sheboygan with his wife, Carolyn, and their three children.

Greg Enstrom, '76, is the geographics information systems coordinator and silviculture prescriber at the Siskiyou National Forest in Butte Falls, Oregon. He is working in the Gold Beach Ranger District. He attained a master's degree in silviculture from the University of Washington. His wife, Cindy, is the district ranger for the Power Ranger District in the same forest.

Jeff Littlejohn, '76, is the director of Project Hope. He and his wife Susan (Jentz) Littlejohn, '79, live at 9284 Double Ditch Road, Lynden, Wash.

1975

Jane (Pirsig) Shudy, '75, works part time as a speech/language pathologist for the Appleton Area School District. She has three children and resides in Appleton.

Chris Sandquist, '75, is assistant vice president of operations administration in the home office of Wausau Insurance Companies. With Wausau since 1978, she has held positions as research and development coordinator, director of research and development, senior workers compensation specialist, and assistant vice president, regulatory administration. Chris holds the Chartered Property Casualty Underwriter designation and has taken classes in the company's ongoing management development program.

Robert Heitzinger, '75, is a private voice teacher at Elmhurst College, Ill., and is self-employed as an actor/singer. He also works as a spokesman at trade shows for Sprint, Kodak, Thomson Industries and Proxima, among others. He's involved with musical comedy and is a member of the national governing body of the Actors Equity Association. He and his wife, Mary, reside in Evanston, Ill.

Jeff Christie, '75, was the first recipient of the Forest Appreciation Week Award, selected by Gov. Tommy Thompson's Council on Forestry and the Society of American Foresters. He is a forester with Webster Industries Inc. of Bangor, and, in his capacity as manager of forest resources, he aids local schools with resource education programs. The award recognizes efforts by individuals and the industry in promoting awareness and appreciation of the state's vast forest resource and the benefits derived from it. A member of the Society of American Foresters, vice chairman of the State Tree Farm Committee and director of the Wisconsin Forest Productivity Council, he has been a forester for 17 years and an advocate of diversity and wise utilization of forests. He lives in rural Eastman.

Mari R. Barr, '75, serves as special assistant for labor relations to U.S. Housing and Urban Development Secretary Henry Cisneros in Washington, D.C. She formerly was executive assistant to the chancellor at UW-Green Bay. A Stevens Point native, she holds a master's degree from UW-Oshkosh.

Robert Brown, '75, is a major in the Air Force and chief of training for navigators and pilots at Fairchild AFB in Washington. His wife, Jule (Kohls) Brown, '76, has completed a master's degree and teaches for the Spokane School District. They live with their two children at S3903 Bernard St., Spokane, Wash.

Dennis F. Kugle, '75, is a project manager for Eder Associates Consulting Engineers, a national environmental consulting company. He is involved with hazardous waste, groundwater investigations and environmental compliance for industrial clients. He formerly worked for Donohue Associates and the Department of Natural Resources. He and his wife, Nancy Wiest Kugle, a kindergarten teacher with Monona Grove School District, live at 705 W. Dean Ave., Monona.

Jack R. O'Brien, '75, is the owner of O'Brien's Stagecoach Bar. His address is 222 16th Ave. E, Ashland, and he says he would be interested in hearing from old friends and classmates.

John Thom, '75, works at Wood County National Bank, Wisconsin Rapids, as assistant vice president and commercial loan officer in the bank's lending department. He had been assistant vice president and cashier at Pioneer Bank, Auburndale State Bank, in Auburndale. He is a coach for the Portage County Youth Soccer League and a member of the Stevens Point Soccer Club. A volunteer with the Boy Scouts, he is secretary/treasurer for the Wood County Bankers Association.

Michael J. Koch, '75, is an investigator with the State of Oklahoma Pardon and Parole Board. He formerly worked for the FBI and the Oklahoma Dept. of Corrections. His address is 828 S. Yorktown Court B, Tulsa, Okla.

1974

Elaine B. James-DeVries, '74, is an assistant professor at Parks College of St. Louis University. She and her husband, Tom DeVries, a distribution manager for United Industries, have two sons. They live at 2540 Cheshire Drive, Florissant, Mo.

Giovanna Sciarrone, '74, is a substitute teacher in Stevens Point and her husband, Frank, is a retired physician. Their address is 2517 Prais St.

LexAnn (Carlson) Hitchcock, '74, is a K-6 physical education teacher with the Neenah School District. Her husband, Michael Hitchcock, is a machinist with Appleton Manufacturing. They live with their two children at 1379 Wedgewood Lane, Neenah.

Steven Searns, '74, has been named director of Heritage Hill State Park in Green Bay. A historian with the National Guard Bureau in Washington D.C., he conducts historical research for the Air National Guard and supervises a field history program of over 100 military historians. Steven served as first curator of interpretation for Old World Wisconsin from 1975 to 1980 and was the director of education for Conner Prairie Pioneer Settlement near Noblesville, Ind., from 1980 to 1983.

Philip W. Esche, '74, is employed in advertising sales with the Journal/Sentinel Inc. He has been active in employee groups and with his son's and daughter's Indian Guide activities. His wife, Jeanne (Rozman) Esche, '76, has received a master's degree in reading and is teaching at Kettle Moraine High School. Their address is 830 Comanche Lane, Waukesha.

Ed Christopherson, '74, is area supervisor of McDonald's Restaurants in Plover and Stevens Point. He had been general manager in Stevens Point since 1984. While general manager, he received the Outstanding Manager Award seven times, which recognizes the top 10 percent of managers in a region of more than 200 services. He and his wife, Marilyn, have two children and live in Stevens Point.

John Bohl, '74, is a mortgage loan representative and chairman of the New Berlin Housing Authority.

Allen O'Leary, '74, works for Northland Cranberries Inc. as assistant vice president of environmental resource management. He and one other individual share responsibility for managing the plant, wildlife and water resources found on the company's more than 15,000 acres of wetlands, forest and ponds. He worked for the Wisconsin DNR for 14 years.

Sue (Shower) Heninger, '74, and Tom Heninger, '73, reside in Watertown. She is a self-employed piano instructor/performer. Sue has accompanied a choir at Carnegie Hall, was a piano soloist for the Watertown Area Chamber Orchestra and is an active accompanist at UW-Madison. He is a music instructor in the Watertown Unified Schools.

Alexa (Posny) Pochowski, '74, and Donald Pochowski, '73, reside in Overland Park, Kan. She is a director of curriculum and instruction for Research and Training Associates Inc. She works for one of six federally funded Technical Assistance Centers. She develops and disseminates curriculum and instructional materials to staff who work with teachers of disadvantaged youth. He is a senior international services analyst for Yellow Freight System. A major in the U.S. Army for the 418th Civil Affairs Unit of Richards-Gebauer Air Force Base, Kansas City, Mo., he earned commendations and recognition for serving in Desert Shield, Desert Storm and Provide Comfort.

Bonita J. Zaborski-Beck, '74, has had several poems published in various anthologies. She has received several poetry awards, including Who's Who in Poetry in 1988 and 1992. Her first poetry chapbook was published by Yes Press in 1992.

Kevin Tarvid, '74, is pastor at First Presbyterian Church in Oconto. He earned his master of divinity degree from Louisville Presbyterian Seminary in Louisville, where he also served as seminary assistant at Buechel Presbyterian Church. He and his wife, Sally, have a daughter.

Ken Camlek, '74, is the elementary principal in Rosholt. After beginning his career in 1974, he taught band and general music for 13 years in the Stevens Point Catholic School System. During the past three years he has been assistant principal at Antigo Junior High School. He earned his master's degree and specialist degree from UW-Superior. He and his wife Margaret, two daughters and a son, live outside Stevens Point.

Thomas P. Halverson, '74, is an accounting operations manager for Royal Insurance. He and his wife live at 6101 Carriage House Lane, Charlotte, N.C.

James Riemer, '74, is a project manager for the Yellow River Priority Watershed in Barron County. He and his wife and their two children reside at 1575 Grove St., Cumberland.

Georgia Shaw, '74, is an outpatient counselor at Community Alcohol and Drug Abuse Center, Stevens Point. She provides adult and adolescent individual counseling and is the group facilitator for the codependency/family program and the Adolescent IMAGES program. She recently was certified by the state board as an AODA Counselor III.

Gerald Brien, '74, master's '76, has been named Special Services Teacher of the Year in the Kaukauna Area School District. He joined the district as a speech and language clinician in 1974 and completed a master's degree in communicative disorders two years later. In addition to implementing innovative and beneficial techniques and programs to help his students, he also assists in the district as coach, volunteer and chaperon. A Special Olympics volunteer, he is a member of numerous professional organizations for speech and language clinicians as well as teacher organizations, Elks Club, barbershop chorus, community players, Irish Club, and environmental organizations. He and his family hosted a visitor from Russia last summer and he is serving as a coordinator for a group from the U.S. to travel to Russia during the summer.

Visitors in Schmeekle Reserve, the nature preserve on UW-SP's north campus.

1973

Lawrence Vine, '73, is a wildlife research technician for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources. In the spring of 1984, he formed a non-profit organization, Marsh Haven Nature Center, to design and build a modern nature center at the northern end of Horicon Marsh. He says his experience and training at UW-SP were important factors leading to the success of the organization.

Sally M. (Vennie) Dowd, '73, is a fifth-grade teacher in the Sheboygan Area School District. She has taught at Sheboygan for 20 years. Her husband Roger works for United Parcel Service.

Peter Finley, '73, is a pilot and lead biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at the Innoko National Wildlife Refuge. He also is the refuge law enforcement officer.

Barney Slowey, '73, is the principal at Chetek High School. His previous positions were principal at Birchwood (K-12) for the last four years, where he also was boy's basketball coach. He taught one year in Ladysmith, 16 years in Phillips and five at Birchwood. He teaches American history, English and instituted the Power of Positive Students (POPS). POPS, the basis for workshops he conducts for various church and parents groups, is used by over 300 schools state-wide. He lives in Birchwood with his wife, Tamara, who is a principal at St. Joseph's in Rice Lake. They have two children.

Donna M. Ballard, '73, has worked as a speech/language therapist in the Rockford (Ill.) School System since 1991. Additionally, she has attained a degree in nursing.

Keith E. Potter, '73, is Sheboygan County jail administrator. He began his law enforcement career as a deputy assigned to patrol duties. For two years, Potter was assigned to the district attorney's office, then he went back to his duties in the patrol division. In 1982 he was promoted to lieutenant of training and planning. He became a captain in 1988 when he also assumed duties and responsibilities as Sheboygan County emergency government director. He and his wife Sue have two children.

Linda Tangri, '73, is vice-president of Northern Trust in Homewood, Ill., where she lives with her husband and two children.

Jon Christian, '73, a science teacher at Mitchell Middle School, was named Teacher of the Year in Racine. He has been at the school for five years. Before that he spent three years in the Army's Special Forces as a radio operator. He and his wife, Faith, have three children.

Blanche (Jewell) McNulty, '73, has retired after 19 years of teaching in the Wabeno School District. She also taught in summer programs for Native Americans for the past 17 years. She and her husband, Harold, have two daughters who are both teachers, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mary Gruenewald, '73, master's '78, is the UW-Extension home economist for Jefferson County. Residing with her husband in the town of Hebron, she has worked as an extension home economist in Wisconsin, Wyoming and Idaho.

Estelle Krzykowski, '73, has been a third-grade teacher at Pittsville Elementary School for 19 years.

Fred Wilk, '73, is secretary/treasurer of the Sheboygan County Bar Association. A graduate of Lewis and Clark Law School, Portland, Ore., he founded the Wilk Law Office, Sheboygan, in 1988.

Michael J. Valiga, '73, who holds master's and Ph.D. degrees in educational measurement and statistics, is the director of Educational and Social Research for American College Testing. His wife, Donna (Beatty) Valiga, '73, is a secretary at the University of Iowa. Their address is 1565 Glenn Drive, Iowa City, Iowa.

Linda (Brettmann) Copas, '73, master's '82, is an elementary teacher with the Tri-County Area School District who has received a Herb Kohl Fellowship Grant and has been named Tri-County Elementary Teacher of the Year. Her husband, Michael R. Copas, '73, is a self-employed farmer. They live at Route 1, Plainfield.

Ronald T. Conradt, '73, is an auditor for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. His address is 7502 N. Hubert Ave., Tampa, Fla. He wants to know if students still have 50 degree parties at the local park. He says, "br-r-r," he will never forget those enjoyable memories.

Mary (Vanden Avond) Hansen, '73, master's '92, is a family and consumer education teacher at DePere High School. She and her husband, Len Hansen, have two daughters and one son. They live at 377 Swiss Hill Drive, Green Bay.

Tom Howard, '73, area wildlife manager at Dodgeville, has been honored as the DNR's Wildlife Manager of the Year. The award is given annually to the manager who best demonstrates outstanding accomplishments, commitment and contributions to Wisconsin's wildlife profession. A 17-year DNR employee, he was chosen by a committee of his peers. He and his wife, Nancy, and their three children live in Dodgeville.

1972

William Maher, '72, and his wife, Bonnie, own the Dreams of Yesteryear Bed and Breakfast. Bill extends an invitation to other alumni to explore the Victorian era when visiting Stevens Point.

Kurt W. Revolinski, '72, has taught seventh and eighth grade for 25 years at Pittsville. Charlotte Coon, '77, has taught second grade at Pittsville for 24 years, and Jim Krueger, '91, the K-6 physical education teacher, is a newcomer to the system.

Vicki Hanrahan Ainslie, '72, is a research scientist with Georgia Institute of Technology and is serving on the institution's Olympic committee. William B. Ainslie, '83, is a wetlands scientist with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. They live with their twins at 403 Ponce de Leon Place, Decatur, Ga.

Joan (Bauhs) Rudolph, '72, works at Dave's Home Center, and her husband, Robin Rudolph, is a self-employed general contractor. Joan had a watercolor painting included in the Midwest Watercolor Society's annual show last summer in Green Bay. They live in Davenport, Wash.

Nancy (Gorski) Wilhelmi, '72, is a teacher at Lowell School in Waukesha and her husband, Thomas, is a lieutenant with the City of Waukesha Fire Department. She completed a master's degree two years ago. They live with their two children at 162 S. James St., Waukesha.

Steve Mihalko, '72, is a social studies teacher at St. John Middle School. His address is 1138 E. Walnut, Green Bay.

Robert Schade, '72, is a coating technician in the research and development division of Consolidated Papers. He started at Consolidated in 1976 in the Kraft Division.

Earlene France Olson, '72, has retired from a longtime career in education. She began teaching in one-room rural schools, was the first lay teacher at St. Mary's Catholic School, and served as a substitute teacher in area schools. She and her husband, John E. Olson, also raised three children. He is deceased. Her address is 101 Schmidt Ave., Rothschild.

James C. Fisher, '72, is a teacher and coach at Lincoln High School. He formerly was an assistant football coach at UW-SP in the mid-'80s. His address is 1330 Wedgewood Trail, Nekoosa.

Bruce B. Runnels, '72, is a typesetter at Berlin Journal Publishing Co., the organist for a Baptist church in Saxeville, and violist and cellist with the Little Wolf Chamber Ensemble. His address is 8331 S. Oxford St., Wautoma.

Sheila D. Koplitz, '72, is the choral director at East High School and at Franklin Middle School in Green Bay. She is assistant director of the Fox Valley Sweet Adelines which represented the state at an international competition last year. They placed 23rd out of 223 groups. She also is a member of a quartet which performed for the state music teachers convention last fall. Her address is 3336 Wiggins Way, Green Bay.

James P. Collins, '72, is a teacher with Milwaukee Public Schools and his wife, Suzann (Zukowski) Collins, '73, also is an educator. Their address is 5864 S. Trinthammer Ave., Cudahy.

Susan Summerton Gamble, '72, is a proof reader for the Chicago-based Dartnell Corp., a leading business publisher. She proof reads and edits material for various publications and news releases. She previously worked for the National Merit Scholarship Corp. in Evanston, Ill., where she was a staff assistant in the administration department. She resides with her husband, son and daughter in the Bowman neighborhood of Chicago.

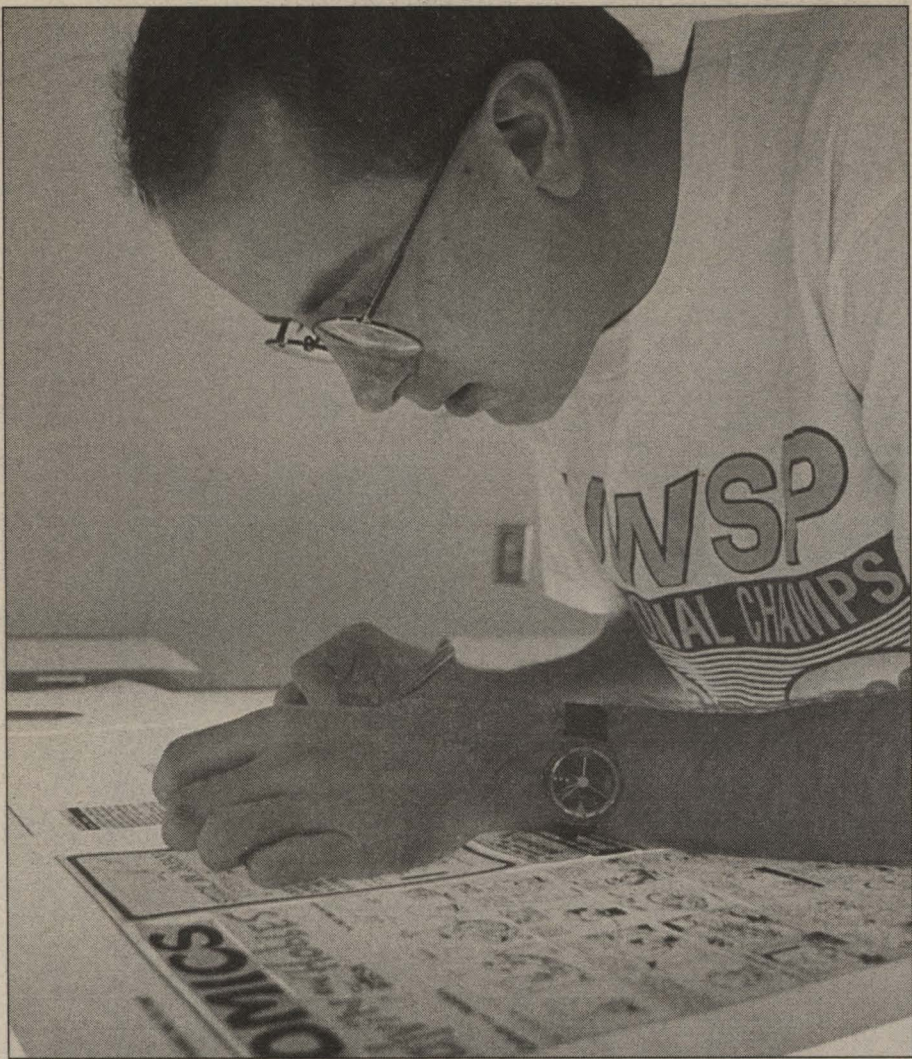

Gail Johnson, '72, is the speech and language teacher in the Pittsville School System. She has taught for 18 years, 10 of them in Pittsville. She previously taught in the Johnsbury School District in Illinois, Manitowoc County Handicapped Educational Program, and as a substitute at Wisconsin Rapids.

Chuck Hemenway, '72, teaches fourth graders in the Pittsville School System. His entire teaching career has been with the Pittsville System.

Steven Enz, '72, is the division manager at the Kraft Division of Consolidated Papers Inc., Wisconsin Rapids. He has been in the Kraft Division since 1979, first as production engineer before being promoted to production manager. Prior to working at Consolidated, he was pulp mill superintendent for Diamond International in Grovetown, N.H., and served in several engineering and technical positions for St. Regis Paper Co. in Rhinelander, Columbus, Ohio and Bucksport, Maine.

Donald Larson, '72, is the captain of police for the city of Tomah. He has worked in law enforcement for 19 years.

Tom Mack, '72, is an emergency physician at Two Rivers Community Hospital. He served his residency at

Design and page layout experience is one of the benefits of being a member of The Pointer newspaper staff.

John R. Laehn, '72, is assistant vice-president, national managed care, in the employee benefits business center at Wausau Insurance Companies. He joined the company in 1976 as a service representative and has been in the managed care development department since 1985. He holds a membership in the American Association of Preferred Provider Organizations.

Darwin Zwieg, '72, is the Clark County District Attorney. He is married to the former Ruth Krainz and has two sons. They make their home near Willard.

1971

Ron Swanson, '71, is the athletic director at Wabeno High School. He also is the football and basketball coach and teaches civics, history, and social studies.

Coordinator of the At-Risk program, he first taught at Bowler and Crandon, before returning to Wabeno, the school from which he graduated. He and his wife Kay have two sons and a daughter and live in Wabeno.

Gary Christopherson, '71, has been an earth and physical science instructor for 19 years with the Appleton School System. He and his wife Joanne live in Appleton.

Paul Glienke, '71, works at St. Michael's Hospital in Stevens Point as a hematology supervisor. His wife Kristin is the supervisor of radiology. They reside in Plover with their two sons.

David A. Liebergen, '71, and Maureen (Wachtl) Liebergen, '72, live in De Pere. He is vice president of human resources/corporate secretary of Shopko Stores. She is a homemaker. They have a daughter who was on the cover of Seventeen magazine in October 1992.

Dennis Bertolino, '71, is a junior high school art teacher for Bethel School District in Graham, Wash. He and his wife live at 2205 State Highway 702 St., Roy, Wash.

Robert Leis, '71, and Linda (Vennie) Leis, '72, live at 26205 Fairlawn Ave., Webster, Minn. The couple met at UW-SP and have been "happily married for 21 years." They say they enjoy the country life of rural Minnesota. He is a rural mail carrier and she is a research technologist at the VA Medical Center in Minneapolis. They also tend an 800-tree apple orchard.

Marjorie Sogn, '71, master's '75, is a K-6 reading specialist with D.C. Everest Area Schools. She and her husband, Robert Sogn, live at 5113 Elm St., Schofield.

Renee (Shebesta) Mihal, '71, works part time as a florist and her husband, Thomas Mihal, is a senior partner in Mihal & Steffens, S.C., a law firm. Their daughter is in her third year at UW-SP and their son is a senior in high school. They live at 2700 Newcastle Court, Waukesha.

Donald C. Zander Jr., '71, is the superintendent of the Wausaukee School District which is currently constructing a $7.3 million K-12 school facility. He holds a master's degree from UW-Oshkosh, an administration certificate from UW-Madison and an administration certificate from UW-Superior. His address is W2803 Homewood Ave., Shawano.

David J. Garber, '71, is executive director of the U.S. Curling Association and editor of its newsletter. He says curling will be an Olympic medal sport in the 1998 Winter Olympics in Japan. Ann Wilcox Garber, who holds a master's degree from UW-Madison, is president of Market Square Communications. Their address is 5893 Clark St., Stevens Point.

Dick Luebke, '71, is a research program director with the Texas Parks & Wildlife Dept., and his wife, Karen (Vegter), is a teacher's aid. Their address is 1510 Nixon Lane, Kerrville, Texas.

1970

Elliot Keener, '70, serves on the theatre faculty of the New Orleans Center for Creative Arts. He is acting in a new film with Dennis Quaid and Kathleen Turner and costarring in "Hard Target" with Jean Claude Van Damme. He and his wife, Dona Emanuel, reside in New Orleans, La.

Dean Zimmerman, '70, master's '76, has completed his first year as assistant principal at Plymouth High School. A native of Wisconsin Rapids, he served for 17 years in a junior high school there, first as a social studies teacher, later as assistant principal. For two years before moving to Plymouth, he served as curriculum and instructional coordinator and middle school principal in New Glarus. He has two adult children.

Dale Brux, '70, is the junior high school mathematics teacher in the Pittsville School System. He has taught in Pittsville for 21 years and also served in the military. He has a master's degree in administration from UW-Superior.

Allan Glinski, '70, is production manager at Consolidated Papers' Kraft Division. He was technical manager since joining the company in 1989. He earned master's and doctoral degrees in paper science from the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Appleton.

Mark Chepp, '70, is director of the Springfield (Ohio) Museum of Art and Jean (Brindowski) Chepp, '70, is director of programs for children with disabilities at the Springfield Rotary Club Foundation. They moved to Springfield two years ago from Milwaukee, where they both worked at UW-Milwaukee. They have a daughter and a son.

Bruce Barlow, '70, is a self-employed builder and his wife, Jean (Petersen) Barlow, is a physical therapist at the Wisconsin Veterans Home. They have two daughters, four grandchildren, and live at E1414 Radley Road, Waupaca.

Dennis Kirschbaum, '70, is a conservation warden, and his wife, Julie, is a teller supervisor at Peoples State Bank. In 1991 Dennis received the western district outstanding employee of the year award from the Department of Natural Resources. Their address is 1505 E. Parrish, Prairie du Chien.

Ellen (Waggoner) Kenseth, '70, after 19 years in the classroom, is spending a large part of her time at home as a homemaker and mother. She also does some billing and receptionist work for a chiropractor. Her husband, Michael Kenseth, is a senior civil engineer with Woodward Clyde Consultants of Middleton. The family's address is 634 W. Wisconsin St., Portage.

Nora Seбора, '70, is the public relations/development director for St. Joseph's Community Hospital of West Bend. She previously worked for Krause Publications, Iola, and St. Michael's Hospital, Stevens Point.

Carol Phillippi, '70, has been a first-grade teacher in the Pittsville School System for 23 years.

Donna (Luecht) Ochsner, '70, is a vocational coordinator at CESA 3, which encompasses the Ithaca, Kickapoo and Weston school districts. She and her husband Robert have a daughter and a son, and live in Plain.

M.E. Sjolín, '70, has been recognized for her service by the National Association of Extension Home Economics. She has worked in Clark County as a home economist for 19 years.

1960s

Lynette Johnson, '69, teaches third graders at Pittsville Elementary School. Her entire 27-year teaching career has been in the Pittsville School System. She said her professional goal has been to encourage students to work to their fullest potential.

Barbara (Bredl) Vechinski, '69, is a homemaker, coach of a girl's softball team, volunteer for Children's Home Society and involved in competitive ceramics. Her husband Gregory is a nuclear/mechanical engineer at a nuclear power plant. They have two daughters and a son and live in San Diego, Calif.

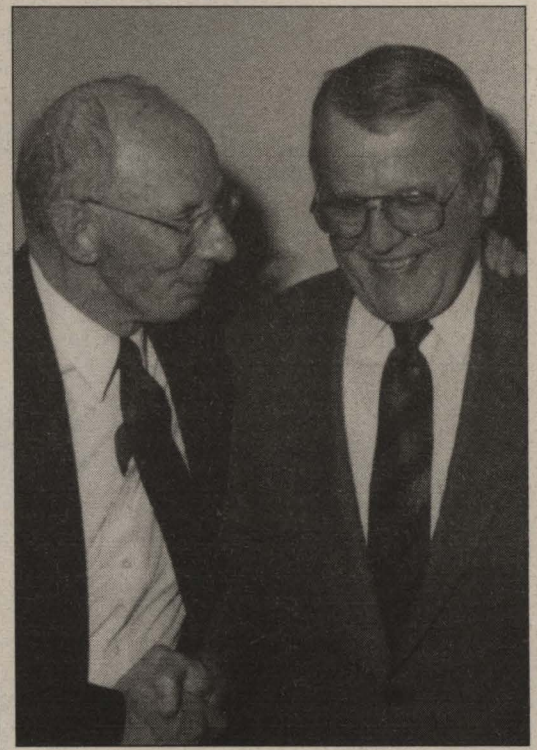

Harlan Weber, '69, teaches mathematics at South High School in Sheboygan.

Nolan R. Pluke Jr., '68, is a field supervisor for the State of Wisconsin Department of Corrections-Protection and Parole, 1500 Strong's Ave., Stevens Point. He and his wife, Linda (Heil) Pluke, a program assistant with UW-SP Cultural Diversity, live at 3411 Coach Lantern Drive, Wisconsin Rapids.

Linda K. Olson-Hellerud, '69, master's '72, is a teacher with the Wisconsin Rapids School District and her husband, Harley A. Hellerud, is the business manager for Waupaca Public Schools. Their address is 120 11th St. N, Wisconsin Rapids.

Eleanor Schram Lapp, '69, is a teacher with Phelps Schools, and her husband, Richard Lapp, is self-employed. She is the author of six children's books and winner of the Celebrate Literacy Award. Their address is 2355 S. Shore Road, Land O'Lakes.

John Yrios, '69, is a professor and chair of the natural science department at Edgewood College. He holds a Ph.D. in medical

Dr. Thomas Nikolai, '52, right, is the 1993 recipient of the Gwen D. Sebold Research Fellowship at the Marshfield Clinic, where he has been a member of the medical staff for 30 years. The award, which carries a $5,000 prize, recognized Nikolai's work in the field of endocrinology and thyroid diseases. Frederick Wenzel, of UW-SP's class of '56, who serves as executive director of the Marshfield Clinic, made the presentation. A third alumnus of the university, D. David Sebold, '67, established the award as a memorial to his sister, Gwen, who was employed as a stenographer at the clinic for many years. Nikolai received his M.D. degree from Marquette University. In addition to his practice, research and educational responsibilities, he also has been active in fund raising endeavors on behalf of the clinic's Lawton Center. This summer, Dr. Nikolai accepted an invitation to serve on the Centennial Campaign cabinet for UW-SP.

microbiology and loves teaching. He says that George Becker, a retired biology professor, motivated him toward graduate school and teaching. He and his wife, Yvonne (Stueber) Yrios, who works in personnel placement for Goodwill Industries, live at 1700 Main St., Cross Plains.

James E. Richardson, '69, master's '74, is retired from the military and retired from teaching, and "living the good life." His wife, Mary Lou (Amundson) Richardson, is executive secretary of the Water and Light Commission in Wisconsin Rapids. Their address is 1649 Aniwa Court, Nekoosa.

Philip J. Kinzel, '69, is a deputy and crime prevention officer for the Manitowoc County Sheriff's Dept. He and his wife, Judy (Zahn), a puppeteer, travel to county schools presenting crime prevention and safety programs. He formerly taught high school, and worked in the business world until beginning in law enforcement in 1983. He most recently has developed a book for children about domestic violence and child abuse. The couple has three children, one of whom attends UW-SP. Their address is 944 N. Sixth St., Manitowoc.

Lou Fortis, '69, a six-year veteran of the state Assembly, was defeated last fall in the Democratic primary race for state Senate. Fortis, who holds a doctorate in economics from the University of Massachusetts, is now working as an economic consultant, primarily dealing with legal cases ranging from environmental issues to business litigation. A resident of downtown Madison, he also is extensively involved with community organizations.

Elbert Rackow, '68, master's '70, and his wife, Hulda, who have been married for 44 years, are both retired. He has served as a Stevens Point alderman for the past two years. The couple has one daughter and two grandchildren. They live at 1824 Gilkey Ave., Stevens Point.

Lois Potts, '68, a second-grade teacher, has taught for 24 years in the Pittsville School System. She plans to retire soon.

Peter Herrick, '68, is associate managing director for program analysis at the Federal Communications Commission in Washington D.C. He and his wife Robin reside in Falls Church, Va.

Nedra (Newman) Ebsen, '68, '75 and '81, works for the Wisconsin Department of Transportation as a motor vehicle representative. Her department issues all the special and personalized plates for the state, which she says is very interesting work. She resides in Middleton.

UW-SP Reunion Day • June 12, 1993 • Central State Teachers College • Class of 1943

Front row (l-r) Agnes Madson Ferg, Norma Anderson Kolstad, Patty Markee Brill, Marjorie Reitan Hardrath, Alva Thompson Spengler, and Melba Waag Nelson. Back row (l-r) Norma Uher Bymers, Mary Bubnovich, Virginia Bertz Bushnell, James Saunders, James Kulidas, Lois Vanderheiden Bastian, Myron (Mike) Sharkey, and Janet Hlava Ophoven.

plates for the state, which she says is very interesting work. She resides in Middleton.

Tim Verhey, '67, is the principal at Gilman's middle and high schools. He recently earned his master's degree in educational leadership from Marian College. He was a substitute teacher in the Fond du Lac area while pursuing the degree. His teaching career began in Greendale as an art teacher. He was a high school art teacher for 14 years in Brown Deer and taught at St. Lawrence Seminary near Fond du Lac. He and his wife Jeanie have three daughters.

Thomas Heine, '67, is the executive director of the Combined Health Appeal of Wisconsin, an umbrella charity that raises money for 23 non-profit health agencies. He holds a master's degree in health care administration from St. Francis College, Joliet, Ill. He formerly was a manager of Madison General Hospital, executive director of the Wisconsin Association on Alcoholism and Other Drug Abuse, and executive director of the Coulee Council on Alcoholism in La Crosse. He and his wife, Merrilee Pickett, live in Madison.

Anita (Torkelson) Roland, '67, is a first-grade teacher with the Ashwaubenon School District. Voted elementary teacher of the year, this is her 26th year as an educator. She and her husband, Gary Roland, who works for a construction company, live at 1273 Sunny Creek Drive, Green Bay.

Jim Maas, '67, has been selected to serve as representative for the 7th Congressional District to the executive committee of the Libertarian Party of Wisconsin. He also is president of the UW-SP Alpha Phi Omega alumni association.

Giles Williams, '67, has been a district school administrator in Union Grove for the past 10 years. He also has served as a trustee of the Village of Union Grove.

William W. Schenk, '66, is a deputy midwest regional director with the U.S. National Park Service and his wife, Julie (Reiner) Schenk, is an office manager with State Farm Insurance. They live at 15818 Douglas Circle, Omaha, Nebr. He asks, "Which Sigma Tau Gamma member in the mid-'60s was affectionately known as 'The Frog'?"

Augusta (Jensen) Freiboth, '65, retired in 1989 after teaching for 37 years. She is involved with traveling and community volunteer work. Her address is 407 S. Fourth St., Medford.

Alice Weickelt, '65, teaches English as a second language at Lincoln Elementary School in Eau Claire. She recently was recognized with an honorary doctor of humane letters degree from Ripon College for her efforts on behalf of Hmong refugees. She founded the Friends Teaching Friends program which pairs Hmong students with other students who want to learn the Hmong language and culture. She also has worked for the Bureau of Indian Affairs on the Navajo reservation in New Mexico and has presented several papers about innovative ways to teach English as a second language.

Edward Gross, '65, is the Siskiyou National Forest Westside Forest (Oregon) soil scientist, stationed in the Chetco Ranger District. He completed his master's and doctorate degree from the University of Minnesota.

David Crosby, '64, a stockbroker at Dain Bosworth in Denver, Colo., won $10,000 in a stock-picking contest. He and his wife and four children live in Denver.

Virginia (Roth) Overzet, '64, is a teacher at Petaluma Christian Academy and her husband, Gerald Overzet, is a staff appraiser with GAB Business Services Inc. They have a son who is a California highway patrol officer, a daughter who works in retail, and a two-year-old grandson. Their address is 312 Ridgeview Drive, Petaluma, Calif.

Terry Beining, '63, has taught at Wabeno High School for 26 years. He teaches economics, social problems, civics, social studies, world history and junior high "project challenge" social studies.

Jean Haffa, '63, was chosen as Stratford Elementary School's Teacher of the Year.

She is a 35-year teaching veteran, including 31 years at Stratford Elementary.

Kathleen (Colcord) Trescott, '63, known as "Kitty," is president of the Midwest Region of U.S.-China Peoples Friendship Association. She also serves on the association's national board and is director of the Center for Teaching about China. Her husband Paul is an economics professor at Southern Illinois University. They reside in Carbondale, Ill.

Thomas J. Kowalski, '62, is president of his own oil marketing company, T.K. Enterprises Inc. His wife Jean, (Reisner) is a student at UW-Madison. They have two grown children and live at 1175 Garvens Ave., Brookfield.

Judith (Ungrodt) Evenson, '61, is a piano teacher at the Neighborhood Music School. She says she has attended several American Suzuki Institutes at UW-SP. Her husband, Robert Evenson, is a professor of economics at Yale University. Their address is 2 Edgehill Road, New Haven, Conn.

Glenn A. Zipp, '61, is a regional director with the National Labor Relations Board. He formerly has served as a visiting professor at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, and at Templeton College, Oxford University, United Kingdom, through an Academic Senior Executive Service sabbatical. His wife, Julie (Colwell) Zipp, is a sales person at a retail children's clothing store. Their address is 12111 Old Hickory Grove Lane, Dunlap, Ill.

Elaine L. (Lange) Zuge, '61, teaches language arts at Manawa Middle School. She is looking forward to retiring in a year and says teaching "has been a rewarding profession ... I love my job." Her daughter, Melanie J. Oppor, became one of the youngest female principals in Wisconsin when she accepted a position at Ripon in 1990. She was 28 years old at the time.

Richard Stroede, '61, is associate academic dean at Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio. His primary responsibilities are in the areas of general education and assessment. He continues to serve as the chair of the college's lecture series and concert series. Since his arrival at the college in 1964, he has been associate chair of music and chair of the fine arts division.

Donald J. Ryskoski, '60, has been the department chairman of physical education and health at Green Bay Southwest High School for six years. He taught mathematics, general science and physical education at Madison for eight years before obtaining a master's degree in physical education. He has coached football, gymnastics and track in addition to teaching physical education in Green Bay. His wife Patricia Ann (Fields) is a homemaker.

Beth J. Hoskins, '60, works as a broker for Don Lee Realty. She and her husband reside at 911 W. Pleasant St., Portage.

Luella Fleischman, '60 has retired as principal of River Grove Elementary School, after 41 years of teaching in the the same township. After several years of educating students in one-room schools, she became principal of River Grove in 1965. She holds a master's degree from UW-Superior.

Gladys (Heyer) Rieck, '60, marked her 90th birthday last February. She was a longtime teacher in Weyauwega and her late husband was the postmaster. She has one daughter and two grandsons.

John G. Sheridan, '60, has been a pharmaceutical salesperson for Merck & Co. for 30 years. He and his wife, Nancy, live at 267 Lakeview Drive, Mason City, Iowa.

Vera E. Tveten, '60, is a substitute teacher for the Antigo Unified School District, and her husband, Douglas Tveten, is retired. She also has traveled to Peru and Costa Rica as a missionary. Their address is 114 Lincoln St., Antigo.

1950s

Jay F. Thurston, '59, is an elementary school principal in La Crosse. He reports that 1992 was one of his most successful years as a canoe racer. He and his partner entered 16 races and took first place 13 times, including two gold medals at the Badger State Games. He lives in Melrose.

Terese (Taylor) Costigan, '59, is a retired grade school teacher. She taught in Montana, California and Wisconsin. She enjoys writing poetry and traveling. She and her husband John live in Racine.

Charlotte Butler, '58, and her husband are retired teachers from Kimberly Area Schools, living in Appleton.

She paints, travels and takes photographs. They spent three weeks in Germany last summer.

Adeline (Tausch) Tork, '58, has retired. Last year she received a District 7 Super Senior Award sponsored by First Financial Bank and the Coalition of Wisconsin Aging Groups. Her address is 403 W. River Drive, Stevens Point.

Harlan Ware, '58, has retired from a 36-year career in the Antioch (Ill.) School System, including 25 years as an elementary principal. He and his wife, Dorothy, live at 586 Parkway Ave., Antioch, Ill.

John M. Ross, '58, is a development officer at Indiana University, representing the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. He has retired from university teaching after 25 years and now directs philanthropy workshops throughout the U.S. for federal resource agencies. He and his wife, Nancy (Bartholomew) Ross, live at 5455 E. James Road, Bloomington, Ind.

Mary Ann Powell, '57, is a kindergarten teacher at Washington School in Stevens Point. She also has taught in Green Bay and Mosinee and worked with many student teachers and practicum students. Her address is 2333 Prais St., Stevens Point.

Judith (Heintz) Nelson, '57, is an English instructor at Northcentral Technical College. Her husband, Ronald N. Nelson, '60, was killed in a car accident two years ago. Her address is 1105 Gilbert St., Wausau.

Raymond Stroik, '57, was this year's winner of the Brother James Miller Award in recognition of his many years as an advocate for peace and justice. He is chair of the La Crosse Diocese Justice and Peace Commission, the area Nuclear Weapons Free Campaign, the Central Wisconsin Peace Coalition, the Portage County Peace in the Americas Committee and the Overground Railroad of Stevens Point. He initiated the annual Brother Miller Day to honor a martyred native of the Stevens Point area.

Jeremiah Farrell, '57, is a retired staff sergeant from the Alaska Army National Guard. He served for about 23 years of active and reserve duty beginning in the late 1940s. A combat infantry veteran of the Korean War, he and his wife were made honorary members of the Third Scouts Alaskan Army National Guards Arctic Battalion when he retired. He continues a part-time private psychology practice.

Melvin Sonnentag, '57, is president of Laona State Bank. He and wife Ellen reside in Laona.

David E. Jersey, '57, is marketer/owner of Jellystone Park Camp-Resorts near Knoxville, Tenn. He also is a sales representative for Jim Calfee Insurance, headquartered in Broomfield, Colo.

Rosemary (Polzin) Schumann, '55, has been a teacher with the Rochester (N.Y.) City School District since 1976. She says she'd love to hear from any UW-SP grads living out her way. Her address is 206 Thompson Road, Rochester, N.Y.

Sharon (Sutton) Rand, '54, is a retired teacher from the Greendale Public Schools. She and her husband Keith reside in Waukesha.

Roy J. Habeck, '53, master's '59, is retired and his wife, Phyllis (Hazelwood) Habeck, '53, is a counselor at Northeast Wisconsin Technical College. Their address is W2345 Weber Point Road, Shawano.

Lawrence Zalewski, '53, is a retired elementary teacher and his wife, Genevieve (Kurzynski) Zalewski, is a retired school secretary. He retired in 1975 after 40 years of teaching, 10 years in rural schools, and 30 years in Rosholt. Their address is 151 E. Grand Ave., Rosholt.

Bryan Purchatzke, '53, retired after more than 34 years as a principal and teacher with Wisconsin Rapids and Oshkosh Public Schools. He and his wife, Arlyss (Borchardt) Purchatzke, also retired, live at 833 W. 18th Ave., Oshkosh.

Marvin A. Mayer, '52, is a retired school administrator, who is active with Kiwanis, as host, with his wife Lauretta, for exchange students, and as a volunteer in Memoninee schools. Their address is W4678 Twin Creek Road, Memoninee, Mich.

Robert Gilbert, '52, retired in the spring of 1990. He worked for more than 34 years in the fields of science, biology and environmental science. He and his wife Mary live in Wild Rose.

Eugene Polzin, '52, taught mathematics in the Shawano School District for 13 years and the Janesville School District for 19 years before retiring in 1984. He received his master's from mathematics for a total of 30 years in the Shawano, Janesville and Medford School Districts before retiring in 1991. They reside in Medford.

Brice Warner, '51, is a retired elementary school principal. He taught for two years at Gilman Elementary School before becoming a teacher and principal for 34 years at Tri-County Area Schools, Plainfield. He received a master's degree from the University of Northern Colorado.

1940s

William A. Golomski, '48, is the editor of a The Quality Management Journal, a quarterly research journal. He lives at 20 E. Jackson Blvd. in Chicago, Ill.

Warren H. Soeteber, '48, is a retired superintendent of schools, and his wife, Dorothy (Lister), is a retired registered nurse. They are involved in volunteer activities, traveling abroad and visiting their children in Texas, Iowa and Wisconsin. Their address is 3110 Cherokee Drive, Sheboygan.

Harold F. Schmidt, '48, has been retired since 1986 after 39 years in the classroom. He spent four years at Mellen and 35 years as a teacher and assistant football coach at Rhinelander High School. He and his wife, Delores, live at 721 Messer St., Rhinelander.

Rosemary Nelson, '47, master's '66, retired in 1985 after 38 years of teaching high school English in Stevens Point. She also has been honored by St. James Catholic Church of Wausau for 50 years of service as organist and choir director. Her address is 1910 Third St., Wausau.

Jack V. Perry, '47, and his wife, Joanne (Kronitz) Perry are both retired. They live at 550 Meadow Lane, Winneconne. Jack plays cornet in the Oshkosh Area Community Band, writes a column for the Winneconne News, and tutors high school students. He says he will always have fond memories of Central State Teachers College, especially Peter Michelsen, Harold Tolo, Herb Steiner, and Bertha Glennon, also Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity.

Georgia (Newby) Cook, '44, is retired from the Purdue University staff where she worked for 10 years. She taught all eight grades in a one-room schoolhouse for one year following graduation. She then joined the U.S. Army, where she served for six years and met her husband, William. The couple and their daughter have been stationed in Panama, Trinidad and France.

Gertrude (Quinn) Boesch, '44, is a retired teacher. She has volunteered to help gather fellow graduates for a 50-year reunion in 1994, "a great opportunity" with the 100th year celebration of the school's founding at the same time. She lives in Thiensville.

Diana Kamke, '42, is a retired English teacher. She retired in 1981 after teaching for 39 years. Upon visiting campus last fall, she declared it "another world," as compared to when she attended. She lives in Schofield.

Leslie W. Trowbridge, '40, has retired after teaching at the University of Northern Colorado for 29 years and teaching science for a total of 50 years. He was named a distinguished alumnus in 1988. He and his wife Dorothee (Kohring) Trowbridge, live at 2001 21st St., Greeley, Colo.

Elida Hanson, '40, is a retired teacher and resident of Elkhorn. She was born in Merrill, and taught in two different districts before returning to Merrill. A member of Merrill Teachers Association, she has a twin sister who lives in Sun City, Ariz. She has a son, a daughter and two granddaughters.

Norman Benson, '40, is self-employed and partially retired. He pays tribute to his wife, Joyce (Sullivan) Benson, '39, calling her the "world's best wife, mother, girl friend and homemaker." Their address is 238 W. Oshkosh St., Ripon.

1930s

Lois (Peden) Soderberg, '39, is a retired teacher. She says she is proud to be the first of three generations to have UW-SP as an alma mater. Her son, Russell Soderberg, was a member of the class of '65, and her granddaughter Beth Soderberg, graduated in 1990. Lois is a resident of 724 Roy Ave., Green Bay.

Libby (Prusow) Heiman, '38, retired after 29 years of teaching in Milwaukee. Her husband, George Heiman, died 15 years ago. Her address is 6999A N. Green Bay Ave., Glendale.

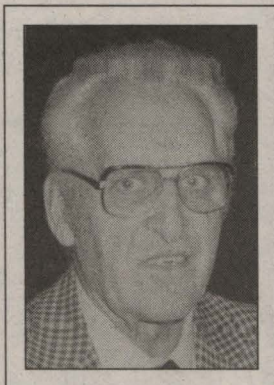

Glen Harris, '38, is a retired principal. He spent 28 years as a principal in the Colton (Calif.) School District. His first teaching job was in a class of 42 fifth-graders. He had difficulty teaching that year, not only because of the size of the class, but because nearly all the students spoke Spanish while he only spoke English. At the end of that year, he was promoted to vice-principal. Soon after, he was named the first principal of Wilson Elementary School, where he worked for 16 years. He spends a good deal of his time caring for his wife Aura, whom he met while on a five-year Army tour in Panama. She suffered a stroke in 1980. He also is a volunteer with the USDA's food distribution program for low-income residents.

Millicent (Wilson) Sprtel, '36, taught school in Portage and Milwaukee counties for six years after graduation. She married John Sprtel, now deceased, and has a son and daughter. Her grandson, Brett, currently attends UW-SP. She resides in Stevens Point.

Lucille (Eskritt) Mortensen, '36, is a retired public school teacher and freelance writer. Her husband passed away in January 1991. During World War II, they lived in Washington State, working for Boeing Aircraft.

Kenneth A. Olson, '36, and his wife, Agnes, are both retired. They live at 214 Grand Ave., Neillsville.

Frank Klement, '35, who became one of foremost experts on U.S. Civil War history, was honored last fall by Marquette University with the establishment of a lecture series in his name. The series, called "Frank L. Klement Lectures: Alternative View of the Sectional Conflict" acknowledge the longtime Marquette professor's achievements. He taught at Marquette from 1948 to 1976 and has since held the title of emeritus professor. He is the author of four Civil War books, sections or chapters in six others and more than 80 scholarly articles. The Milwaukee Civil War Round Table made the first contribution toward the lecture series, which will involve a guest speaker making a presentation once per year. Klement, whose hometown is Leopold in Shawano County, was president of the Phi Alpha Theta fraternity, a national honorary history society, from 1973 to 1975.

Nolan L. Gregory, '35, and Regina R. (Schwebke) Gregory, '37, live in Stevens Point. They are both retired. Nolan was inducted into the UW-SP Athletic Hall of Fame in 1976. He taught and coached for 13 years at Hawkins and Ashland. He also coached basketball and was a football assistant at P.J. Jacobs in Stevens Point.

Arthur Kussman, '34, is a retired American National Red Cross representative. "Art" taught band and history for eight years following graduation and then served in the U.S. Army Medics (mostly in Europe) for two years. He was discharged to work for the Red Cross, eventually being transferred back to the U.S. to work for Red Cross chapters. In 1970, he retired as administrator of the Montana Red Cross Blood Center. From 1970 to 1975, he was a health educator with the Montana Department of Health and Environmental Science. Since that time, he has been a volunteer and an angler. He and his wife, Clyde, have lived in Helena, Mont. since 1970.

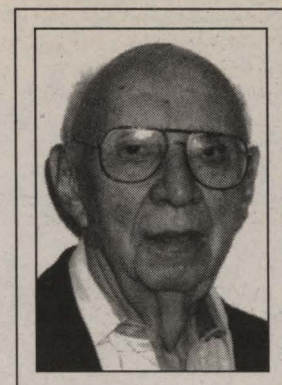

Robert Van Raalte, '32, master's '41, and Jenette (Doughty) Van Raalte, '37, reside in Madison. He was a principal and she was an elementary school teacher.

Edith (Sansom) McCall, '30, was the recipient of the 1992 Captain Donald T. Wright Award for Maritime Journalism, for "Conquering the Rivers: Henry Miller Shreve and the Navigation of America's Inland Waterways." Louisiana State University Press, (1984). The award was presented to her in St. Louis last year.

Evelyn (Disher) Meadow-Croft, '30, is a retired accountant. She worked for Ampex Corp. for 21 years. Prior to that, she was employed by Kraft Foods, Air Service Command and Hardware Mutual Casualty Co. (Sentry Insurance). She has two daughters and four grandchildren. She says, "It is they who keep me young in spite of my 80 years." Her address is 1306 Whipple Ave. #1, Redwood City, Calif.

1920s

Harlan E. Smith, '26, was honored at a party in July in his hometown of Waupaca marking his 90th birthday. Still working, he operates H.E. Smith Wholesale Heating, which supplies heating equipment to companies across the state. Smith started in the heating business in 1930 with Cary Manufacturing in Waupaca. In 1948 he became an independent supplier of equipment to heating dealers. He travels extensively throughout Wisconsin. Born on a farm in the southeastern corner of Portage County, Smith was graduated from Waupaca High School in 1920 and came to Stevens Point State Normal School in 1922. Working his way through school, he took several semesters off to earn spending money. He recalls one of his classmates who became widely known as the "World's Tallest Man." Clifford Thompson of the Iola-Scandinavia area was so tall he blocked the view of the blackboard in Professor Joseph Collins' math classes. The professor remedied the problem by having Thompson work his problems on the board while seated at a chair, Smith recalls. In a written debate between several alumni in this publication more than a decade ago, it was decided Thompson was about seven feet, five inches tall. Smith says Thompson towered seven feet and nine inches. The Normal School, according to Smith, was filled with interesting teachers. Raymond Rightsell wore a little mustache, Smith recalls, "so he wouldn't look like another one of the kids." He called May Roach a "buzzbomb—very outgoing." Smith met Myrtle Hunt of Tomah, while attending the Normal School. They were married in 1929. Her death last November ended 63 years of wedded life for the couple. Smith's hobbies are fishing and hunting.

Lucille Lamb, '25, currently lives in Madison. Her husband Paul Patterson died in 1976. She has a daughter, two grandsons and two great-grandchildren.

Kathryn P. (Jesmier) Easter, '24, was employed in the display advertising department at the Wisconsin Rapids Tribune for 40 years. Her husband William Easter is deceased. She is retired and lives in Wisconsin Rapids.

Jessie Soule, '21, celebrated her 90th birthday last year. She is a resident at the Portage County Health Care Center.

1910s

Ann Schreiner, '11, has lived in Lancaster since 1916. A resident of an elderly care complex since age 99, she was born in Stevens Point in 1889. She taught at Ladysmith and at the Stout Institute in Menominee. Her late husband, H.E. "Bert" Schreiner, was a mayor of Lancaster and cast the deciding vote for paving the square. The two also operated a general store. Her relatives donated money to the city for a municipal library, called Schreiner's Library. Her son, David, was an all-American football player at UW-Madison and was the most valuable player in the Big Ten. A member of the NCAA college football hall of fame, David was killed in World War II and his number was retired by the university.

Lela Williams Ruff's 88th birthday party in February in Stevens Point was also a UW-SP alumni reunion. Mrs. Ruff graduated from the old Stevens Point Normal School with a teaching certificate in 1922 and received her bachelor's degree in 1951. Her grandson, William R. Ruff, left, a Department of Natural Resources employee in Sturgeon Bay, graduated in 1982; her granddaughter, Janet Zei Ryan, and grandson-in-law, Terence Ryan, who live in Hermitage, Tenn., earned degrees in 1976 and 1974, respectively (Terence is a management employee for Gibson Instrument Co. and Janet is employed by a pediatrician); and daughter, Ruth Ruff Zei, retired school counselor at Janesville Parker High, is a 1947 graduate. Mrs. Ruff, a retired elementary school teacher, and her daughter, Mrs. Zei live together at 1901 Main St., Stevens Point.

Calendar of Events '93-'94

December 10, Chicago Area Alumni Reunion, Walter Payton's America's Club

December 12-14, CASE-Council for Advancement and Support of Education, District 5 Conference, Chicago

January 22, 1994, Alumni Basketball Game, Quandt Fieldhouse

February 25, First Nighters Dinner/Theatre, "Idiot's Delight," Jenkins Theatre

March 18, Central Wisconsin Educators Conference/Alumni Hospitality, North Central Technical College, Wausau

March 31, Terry Porter Day, Turner Hall, Milwaukee Milwaukee Bucks vs Portland Trail Blazers.

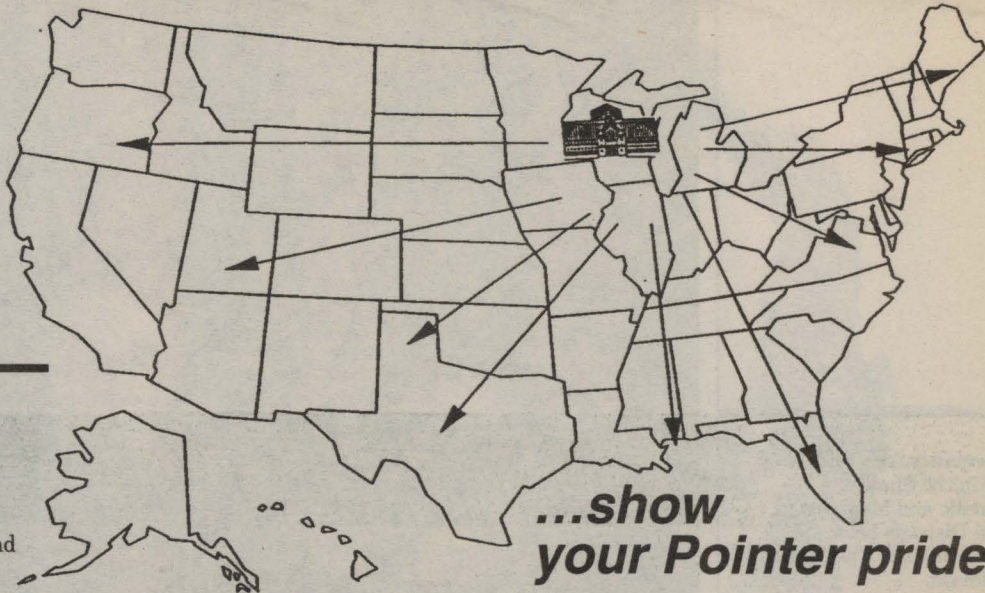

April 15, First Nighters Dinner/Theatre, "Lend Me A Tenor," Jenkins Theatre

May, Appleton Area Alumni Reunion (invitation to follow)

May 6, First Nighters Dinner/Theatre, Danstage '94, Jenkins Theatre

June 10 & 11, Reunion Day '94, UW-SP campus

Wherever you live...

...show your Pointer pride!

Alumni Sales Items

- 1. UW-SP Classic Sweatshirt
M-L-XL $20.00
XXL-XXXL-XXXXL $22.00
Gray, Navy or Purple
- 2. Old Main Sweatshirt
M-L-XL $25.00
XXL $29.00
Gray Only
- 3. Old Main T-Shirt
M-L-XL $10.00
XXL $11.00
White or Gray
- 4. Alumni T-Shirt
M-L-XL $11.25
XXL $13.00
Gray or Purple w/Gold Lettering (new design)
- 5. Alumni T-Shirt
M-L-XL $14.50
White Only
- 6. Corduroy Baseball Cap (adjustable) $11.50
Purple or White
- 7. 4" Ceramic Coffee Mug
White $11.00
Black $12.00
w/ Gold Lettering
- 8. UW-SP Plastic Tumbler
$1.50
White Only
- 9. UW-SP Ceramic Stein
White $12.25
Black $13.50
w/ Gold Lettering
- 10. Alumni Sweatshirt
M-L-XL $22.75
XXL $26.25
Purple or Gray
- 11. Tradition T-Shirt
M-L-XL $16.00
XXL $17.65
Navy with multi-colored lettering "UW-POINT A COLLEGE TRADITION SINCE 1894"
- 12. Youth Sweatshirt
(2-4); (6-8); (10-12); (14-16) $16.25
Gray Only
- 13. Youth T-Shirt
(2-4); (6-8); (10-12); (14-16) $8.00
Purple Only
- 14. Pennant
30" $7.00
Purple / Gold
- 16. Wood or Brass Key Chain
$5.00
- 17. UW-SP Lapel Pin
$4.50
- 18. UW-SP Refrigerator Magnet
$1.25
- 19. "Crest" Alumni Sweatshirt
M-XL $30.95
XXL $34.95
Navy (Gold embroidery)
Ash (Black embroidery)

Do you know someone you believe to be an outstanding alumnus?

By Karen Engelhard

We know that more and more alumni of the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point are distinguishing themselves in their communities, states, in this nation and abroad . . . with careers in government service; politics; as CEO's of small and large businesses; through outstanding teaching careers; careers in law and medicine; as civic leaders; in volunteerism to UW-SP; as authors, athletes and in many other ways. We couldn't be more proud!

Your Alumni Association Board of Directors has recently revised and strengthened the criteria and procedure for granting a DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS AWARD. It has always been, and will continue to be, the most prestigious award and the finest compliment this association can give to one of its own.

Nominations are accepted year around from any person or group associated with this institution. All nominations remain active for a period of five years. Nominators are informed about the progress of their nomination. Supporting material is required as well as the names of two people whom the association could contact for more information about the nominee.

We evaluate vitas, occupations, post graduate experience and study, professional organizations, specific awards, honors and publications, and any miscellaneous information provided.

Award luncheons are held in May, June and July for presentation of the award. However, some events offer opportunities for presentation at different times of the year. We require, with only a few exceptions, that a recipient be present to accept an award.

So, please think about it. Do you know someone you believe to be a good candidate for consideration? Tell us by filling out the form found in every issue of the Alumnus. Send it to the Alumni Office; we'll do the rest to see that your nominee is considered. We can't possibly know all there is to know about an alumni population of 50,000 plus. We need your help. Thank you!

Help Us to Help You!

Fortunately, we're able to send this publication to you twice each year; unfortunately, resources are not available to publish 3 or 4 issues. Cost increases in paper, printing, postage occur continuously, while at the same time we continue to add new graduates to our alumni population, as well as experience success in finding formerly "lost alumni." As your numbers grow, we find it necessary to ask your assistance in two areas. First, and most important, please let us know when you move. If six months pass without our updating your address, the post office will no longer forward your mail, so we lose you. We don't want that to happen! Not only is it expensive for us to mail to inaccurate addresses but we and you miss the opportunity to share information about UW-SP and events which may interest you.

Second, and very important, we have enclosed a self-addressed envelope in this issue with a request for your financial support. We want to continue mailing the Alumnus to you and all other alumni and need your help to do so. It's not an unusual request; universities throughout the country have found it necessary to seek alumni support for publications that are for and about alumni.

Please do whatever you can to help us ensure that two issues keep coming your way. We suggest a gift of $10. With the support of an alumni population the size of ours, this will make a significant difference. Our thanks for your consideration. ■

UW-Stevens Point Alumni Relations Staff

Karen Engelhard, Director
Brant Bergeron, Associate Director
Pam Betro, Program Assistant

UW-SP Alumni Association
212 Old Main
Stevens Point, WI 54481
(715) 346-3811

Show Your Pointer Pride

ORDER FORM

FOR OFFICE USE

ORDER# _____

CTX: _____

QTY.	ITEM	DESCRIPTION	SIZE	COLOR	UNIT PRICE	TOTAL PRICE

Please specify size and color choice when applicable.

PLEASE PRINT

Name: _____

Address: _____

City: _____ County: _____
(Do not list a P.O. Box#-UPS will not deliver to a P.O. Box) (Must Complete)

State: _____ Zip: _____ Daytime Phone: _____

Visa/Mastercard#: _____ Exp Date: _____

PLEASE MAKE YOUR CHECKS PAYABLE TO UW-SP AND FORWARD TO: UW-SP ALUMNI RELATIONS OFFICE, 212 OLD MAIN, STEVENS POINT, WI 54481-3897. Please allow 4-6 weeks for delivery.

Merchandise Subtotal: _____

Shipping & Handling: $3.25

SUBTOTAL: _____

WI State Tax (5%) _____
(WI residents only)

WI County Tax (.5%) _____
(if applicable)

TOTAL DUE: _____

Prices guaranteed through March 15, 1994.

Distinguished Alumnus Award

Do you know of graduates or former students whose achievements since leaving UW-SP have been exceptional? The UW-SP Alumni Association is in search of people of distinction for consideration as potential recipients of the Distinguished Alumnus Award. Criteria for nomination include:

1. Outstanding professional achievement.
2. Contributions to society/civic involvement.
3. Achievements having brought honor and distinction to UW-Stevens Point.
4. Recognition and reputation extending beyond the immediate environments in which he/she live and work.
5. Continued involvement in and support of UW-Stevens Point and/or its Alumni Association.
6. Alumni status at University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point (received degree(s) or attended classes)

Nominee Name(s) _____

Address _____

City, State, Zip _____

Year of Graduation (or when last attended) _____

Please include a letter or other materials stating the nominee's qualifications and names/addresses of two people we may contact for more information about the nominee.

Please mail nomination form and supporting information to UW-SP Alumni Relations, 212 Old Main, Stevens Point, WI 54481.