"Leading-Edge Teaching and Learning"

Go Pointers: Homecoming 1998, October 3

The Pointers will battle the UW-Platteville Pioneers in the Homecoming 1998 football clash on Saturday, Oct. 3, at 2 p.m. on Goerke Field.

Roberta Flack will be on campus for a concert, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Quandt Fieldhouse. (Full details see page 9.)

Before the homecoming parade, alumni and friends are invited to enjoy coffee, juice and donuts at Berg Gym Lobby beginning at 9:30 a.m. The parade will begin at 10 a.m. Featured in the parade will be the Alumni Marching Band, high school and middle school marching bands, and floats.

After the game, football fans will gather for the Fifth Quarter Reception in the La Follette Lounge of the UC.

Former Pointers and teams will be inducted into the UWSP Athletic Hall of Fame at a banquet and "Celebration of Pointer Hockey" that begins at 6 p.m. Saturday at the Holiday Inn Expo Center. Cost of the banquet and induction ceremony is $15. A cash bar reception begins at 5 p.m.

Individuals to be inducted include Ralph Barahona, '90; Paul Caufield, '92; Todd Chin, '92; Tim Coghlin, '89; Pat McPartlin, '89; and coach Mark Mazzoleni. Teams to be inducted include the '89, '90, '91, and '93 National Championship Hockey Teams and the '92 Runner-up National Championship Hockey Team.

The African-American Alumni Chapter will hold its second annual Color Blind Dance for all Pointer alumni at 8 p.m. on Saturday in the Laird Room. The event is a fundraiser for chapter programs and student scholarships. Cost of the dance is $25 or $12 for students.

There will be other athletic events during the week. On Saturday, women's soccer alumnae will play at 10 a.m., the varsity women's tennis team is scheduled to play Ripon at 10:30 a.m. and Pointer softball alumnae will play at 11 a.m. The softball team will receive championship rings following the game. On Thursday, the Women's Rugby Prom Dress Game begins at 5:00 p.m.

The Pointer fastpitch softball team celebrates its first NCAA national championship title May 18 in Salem, Va. The lady Pointers defeated Chapman, Calif., in the final game of the 1998 Division III College World Series.

Ticket Information

For football tickets or tickets to the Roberta Flack concert, call the Arts and Athletics Ticket Office at 800-838-3378 or 346-4100.

UWSP earns #4 ranking in national poll

In the August rankings released by U.S. News and World Report, UWSP was named the fourth best public University in the Midwest in its category. Congratulations UWSP!

Tutor Reunion

Tutors who have worked in the Writing Lab, Reading Adjunct, Academic Achievement Center, and Tutoring-Learning Center, past and present, are invited to celebrate 25 years of academic tutoring at UWSP. A reception will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 3, in the Tutoring-Learning Center, lower level of the Learning Resources Center. For more information, contact Bonnie Maher at (715) 346-3528.

Distinguished Alumnus achieves extraordinary success

Ray Mundt

Ray Mundt, a 1953 alumnus, who professes that ordinary people can achieve extraordinary results, is the 1998 UWSP Distinguished Alumnus.

The chairman and chief executive officer of Unisource Worldwide, Mundt gave the commencement address to 1,100 UWSP graduates in May.

An Appleton native, he is the product of a Midwestern upbringing. He began his professional career as a sales trainee at Neenah-based paper manufacturer, Kimberly Clark. He learned many lessons in his early business career, which he shared with graduates during his address.

Mundt used the personal experience of his first sales job to make the point that "persistence pays." He set out to sell disposable towels to owners of small repair shops who might be using old t-shirts for rags. "For many buyers the purchasing decision seemed pretty simple," Mundt says. "Should I buy a box of Kim-Wipes to replace my rags, or buy a case of beer on my way home from work?"

He urged the graduates to "keep on trying, because the more you try, the more you will learn and the more chances you have to succeed."

Mundt spent 17 years rising through the ranks at Kimberly Clark. However, he followed a piece of advice he gave the new UWSP alumni and "embraced change" by accepting a new position at the Alco Standard Corporation of Valley Forge, Pa.

Under Mundt's guidance, Alco's once fledgling paper distribution group became the largest paper distributor in North America. In 1980 he was named chief executive officer of Alco.

By weaving his credos of "belief in ordinary people achieving extraordinary results" and "there are no big shots here" into the fabric of Alco, Mundt helped the company grow from $450 million in annual revenues to $8 billion.

Mundt retired as chairman of Alco in 1995, but when Alco decided to spin off its paper distribution business, he returned to take over the new public company called Unisource Worldwide.

An old friend of Mundt's once said of him, "He is a man who, very early on, decided he was going to live his life to the fullest."

STEVENS POINT, WIS.
PERMIT NO. 19

Greetings from Alumni Relations

On May 28th, my career dream came true . . . I was named permanent Director of Alumni Relations at UW-Stevens Point (nee Stevens Point Normal, Central State Teachers College, WSU-Stevens Point). It is the latest in the myriad of ways our university has impacted me professionally and personally.

We all have this in common: UWSP has dramatically impacted our lives.

I met my wife while I was a student and we've been sharing our lives for the past 12 years. The closest friends I have in this world are the people I met that first semester in 1981 living on campus in 2 West Baldwin Hall. What I learned in the classroom, experienced in extracurricular activities and gathered from interacting with the faculty, staff and other students, I still apply today at work, at home and in my community.

Think for a moment what UWSP means to you...I know you have similar stories to tell of love, learning and life at Point.

UWSP is quality. In every aspect of its academic programs, residence life and classroom instruction, it is leading-edge teaching and learning.

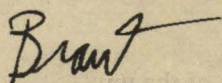

UWSP is place, a wonderful campus community that we all, at one time, called home.

UWSP is people; an outstanding group of alumni, friends, students, faculty and staff.

As we begin this journey together, a brief review is in order, Alumni 101, so to speak.

- You are an automatic member of the Alumni Association. (graduates and those students who attended but did not graduate are included.)
 - We are a non-dues paying organization. Your automatic membership includes a subscription to the Pointer Alumnus newspaper and invitations to homecoming, reunions and other events. Contributions made to the association are accrued in an association endowment to perpetuate alumni programming.
 - We are here to help you: To locate classmates and old friends, help you set up reunions in your area or for organizations with which you were involved on campus. To put you in touch with other offices on campus based on your needs. We are your link to your alma mater. Stop by, give us a call or send us an e-mail.
 - You can help UWSP. When you relocate, drop us a line with your new address, occupation and phone number. When you interact with other alumni in the course of your every day lives, make sure they are also getting Alumni Association correspondence. When you are invited to attend events, encourage other alumni to join you in gathering to renew friendships and create new ones. Recruit high school students in your area to attend UWSP and benefit from the Point experience.
 - Our continued support is necessary to sustain the quality, place and people that are UWSP. Share your time, talent and resources with UW-Stevens Point.
- Working on campus, I have the pleasure of seeing the impact UWSP has had on its alumni and the impact alumni can have on UWSP. I look forward to working with you to continue that mutually beneficial relationship.

Best wishes from your Alumni Association!

Pointers in the Caribbean

The UWSP Alumni Association is pleased to offer Pointer alumni, friends, faculty and staff an opportunity to cruise the Western Caribbean, March 14-21, 1999, courtesy of Costa Cruises.

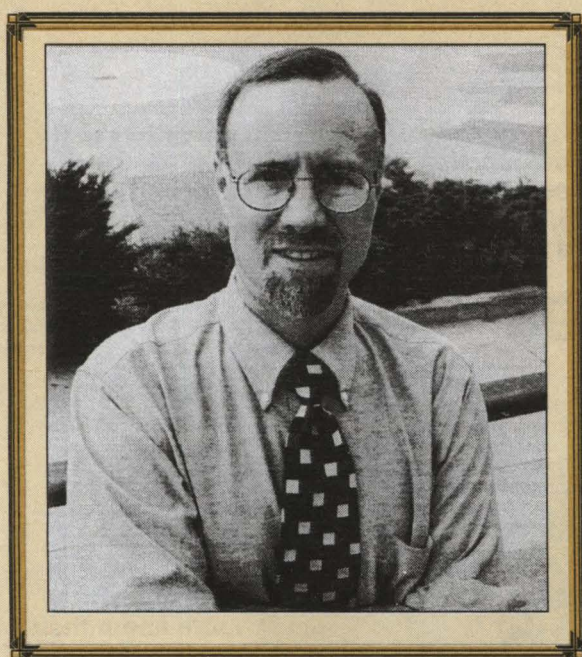

Rates for the trip are approximately: double occupancy, $1,200 per person; triple occupancy, $1,100 per person; quad occupancy, $980 per person. Cost is slightly more for outside cabins and there are price breaks for children.

The price includes a chartered flight from Milwaukee to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where we'll set sail for ports of call including Key West, Playa del Carmen, Cozumel, Ocho Rios, and Grand Cayman, with return flight from Fort Lauderdale to Milwaukee.

If you are interested in this Caribbean vacation, please call the Alumni Relations Office, 1-877-POINT01 (toll free), 346-3811 (local) or e-mail us at alumni@uwsp.edu by Oct. 15.

A message from Chancellor George

Chancellor Thomas F. George

Greetings,

UWSP has been reviewed for accreditation by the North Central Association (NCA), a professional accrediting organization for colleges and universities in this region. I am pleased to report that the university has been re-accredited for the maximum ten years.

The results of this evaluation are never certain. If the NCA finds difficulties in any aspect of campus life, accreditation can be partially or fully suspended or even denied. It would be a serious public relations setback for any higher education institution to lose its accreditation.

UWSP successfully completed the NCA review process during the past academic year with a strong positive showing. This good news is reflected in the six major strengths cited by the NCA team.

- The effectiveness of shared governance at the institution, both faculty/staff and student.
- The success in completing a planning process required by urgent budget needs while maintaining key programs and campus morale.
- The positive results accruing from the institution's commitment of resources to instructional technology and computer support.

- The promotion of beneficial partnerships with other institutions and with the community-at-large. (The reviewers were very impressed with UWSP's high standing in the community.)

- The exceptionally high quality of our faculty.

- The high quality of our programs heightened by faculty who are respected and appreciated by their students.

In summary, the NCA experts found your university to be the high quality institution of higher learning that we have always believed it was. All of our alumni can continue to wear the Pointer label with pride. And loyal alums can be confident that the support they provide their alma mater is contributing to the excellence of a highly acclaimed university.

Sincerely,

Thomas F. George

Schultz plays role in Foundation's success

"To build on the strengths of the university's development efforts with well-planned, coordinated, and focused fundraising programs that will identify and cultivate sources of private philanthropic support for the university."

Those words represent more than an objective on the resume of Scott Schultz, '72. They represent some of his life's goals as director of leadership gifts for the UWSP Foundation.

In his role as fundraiser, Schultz has been instrumental in expanding and improving the annual giving phonathon. He advised the Noel family regarding establishment of the Noel Compass minority scholarship program, implemented the Milwaukee Scholars Fund minority scholarship program, expanded the university's planned giving program to include gifts of charitable trusts and gift annuities and re-invigorated UWSP's direct mail annual campaign.

But his forte is making personal contact with alumni and friends urging greater financial support for UWSP and its students.

Stevens Point and the university became a focal point for him as soon as he arrived here in the late 1960s. A native of Marion and graduate of Appleton West High School, Schultz enrolled at Wisconsin State University at the suggestion of his high school principal. It didn't take him long to realize that he had found a university and community where he could plant his roots.

Schultz' leadership qualities soon surfaced as he became involved in the Student Government Association and was elected president in 1970. With a bachelor's degree in political science, he turned his sights on teaching and youth-related endeavors. But in 1978 he was lured back to his alma mater to serve as associate director of alumni relations for nine years.

Schultz' part-time involvement in local government eventually led to a larger role in the community and he was twice elected mayor of Stevens Point from 1987 to 1994. In 1994 UWSP beckoned again, and he returned to the foundation as director of leadership gifts.

"My focus and challenge is to engage alumni and friends of the university in supporting one of the state's finest universities," Schultz says. "To me, fundraising for UWSP is one way I can repay the university for all the opportunities I have been afforded as a result of my affiliation with UWSP. It is very personal, and it's the personal touch that is so crucial to any successful fundraising endeavor. The good news is that UWSP's students, programs, faculty, staff and traditions give the foundation an excellent opportunity to succeed."

Bergeron named Alumni director

UWSP's interim director of Alumni Relations has been appointed to the position of director.

Brant Bergeron, '85, who has served as acting head of the alumni office since January 1997, was named to the director's post by Chancellor George. Bergeron was chosen from a field of 75 applicants for the job. A nationwide search and screen process was conducted by a committee of faculty and staff headed by Dean of Letters and Science Justus Paul.

Brant Bergeron

Among other duties, the alumni director is responsible for all operational, budget and personnel activities of the Alumni Office. He manages a database of 54,000 records, coordinates the Alumni Association Board of Directors, produces publications, serves as liaison with special groups including the UWSP Foundation, Athletic Hall of Fame, Distinguished Alumni and First Nighters and coordinates sales of alumni goods through the University Bookstore.

Bergeron came to UWSP as associate director of Alumni Relations in 1990. While a student at UWSP, he had been involved with the campus radio station and received the Chancellor's Leadership Award and the Leland Burroughs Communication Scholarship.

He has worked as a radio anchor and reporter in Stevens Point, Green Bay and Killeen, Texas, and served as communications director for the Green Bay Area Chamber of Commerce. He assumed the interim director's role when longtime director Karen Engelhard opted for semi-retirement in December 1996.

Phillips named CNR dean

A specialist in plant ecology and biotechnology has been named dean of the College of Natural Resources.

Victor Duzerah Phillips succeeds Alan Haney as dean of the largest undergraduate natural resources program in the country. This spring Haney announced his retirement and return to the classroom.

Phillips believes "we are entering the environmental century in which humans must resolve problems associated with rapidly accelerated global change." He was a member of the Faculty of Resource Sciences and Technology at the University of Malaysia Sarawak before coming to UWSP. He holds degrees from the University of Colorado, Washington University and North Texas State University.

An associate professor of resource sciences and technology at the Malaysian institution for the past two years, Phillips formerly served five years as assistant director of the Hawaii Institute of Tropical Agriculture and Human Resources at the University of Hawaii at Manoa. He moved to Hawaii in 1984 and to Malaysia in 1996.

In Malaysia he has worked on science-based policy advising with the university administration, State of Sarawak and Malaysian Academy of Sciences to establish a Biodiversity Conservancy and a national biotechnology park. In congressional testimony about global warming, Phillips called for a massive tree planting program which has been adopted by the American Forestry Association.

Alumni

Tim Marcotte, '72, Stevens Point, was one of several alumni artists at the annual Festival of the Arts in conjunction with Open House '98. Other participants included Holly Rasmussen, '77, Plover; Rick Foris, '74, Ashland; Gene Reineking, '75, Almond; and retired faculty members Richard Schneider and David Smith.

Open House '98

The reptile show in the Albertson Learning Resources Center that included a 10-foot python was a big hit with the little ones.

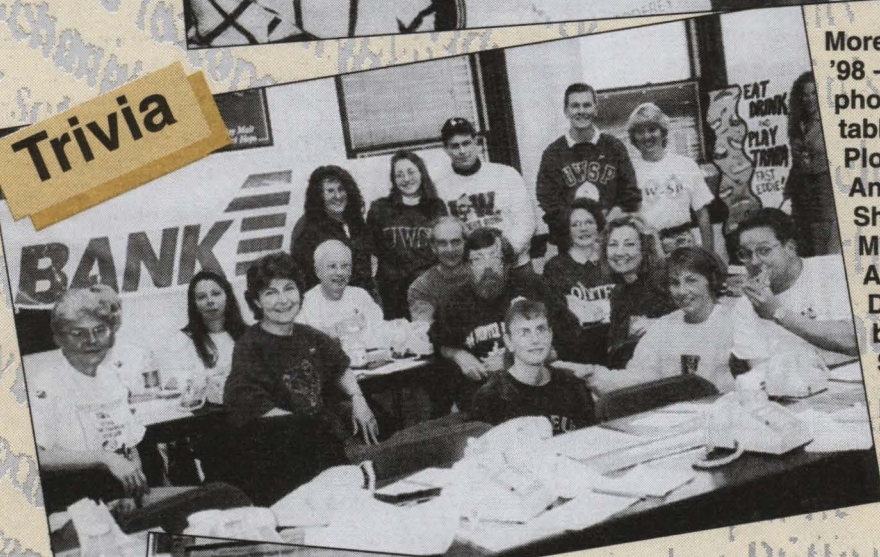

Open House '98 was a tremendous success . . . and that's no tall tale. Thousands of people from all over Wisconsin visited UWSP in April to learn more about their 105-year-old neighbor and alma mater. A future Pointer enjoyed the rarefied air near the Alumni Association booth in the University Center.

Dorothy Davids

At the April Board of Visitors meeting Assistant Chancellor for Student Affairs, Helen Godfrey, left, announced the dedication of a room in the University Center in honor of Dorothy Davids, '45, Gresham, center, the first Native American graduate of Central State Teachers College. John Regnier, right, and a dozen other board members were in attendance for the special announcement.

Trivia

Fox Cities Area Reunion

More than 115 Pointer alumni, friends and family members gathered in July for a Fox Cities Area reunion and Wisconsin Timber Rattlers minor league baseball game. They enjoyed a pre-game picnic of barbecue, brats and beverages and were entertained by baseball and numerous between inning festivities, including the Oscar Meyer hot dog cannon, sumo wrestling, T-shirt sling-shot, and of course the seventh inning stretch and "Take Me Out to the Ballgame."

Academy supports faculty and students

Since 1984, the College of Letters and Science (CLS) at UWSP has been supported by a body of 12 community leaders who serve as role models, as a sounding board to the dean and the college and as a base of moral and financial support for the activities undertaken by the college.

Created by Howard Thoyre, then the dean of CLS, the academy has continued to provide both financial and leadership support for the college's annual awards banquet, sponsoring lectures and on-campus days, and providing feedback to the dean and college.

The first group of 12 members, selected by Thoyre, established an organizational foundation and a charter. During the 1984-85 academic year, John Regnier, Stevens Point, a retired Sentry Insurance executive, served as the group's president.

The highlight of that year was the first spring banquet and awards program, held on April 20, 1985. Since its creation, the academy has honored many students, staff and community members at its annual spring awards banquets.

Twenty-eight outstanding students are honored each year. Two upper-class students are selected by faculty members from each department on the basis of high academic achievement and pursuit of a liberal education.

Two or three outstanding faculty members are honored annually for making contributions to education which support the principles and goals of a liberal education. In addition, one community or civic leader is recognized each year for contributions in support of education at all levels. They are selected for characteristics that exemplify a liberally educated person. Winners of the award since 1993 have included Helen Godfrey, assistant chancellor for student affairs; Al Noel, retired director of human resources for Sentry Insurance, Stevens Point; Thoyre; David Helbach, '72, public affairs, Wisconsin Power and Light; the late Eugene Katz, a partner in the Katz Company, a potato brokerage firm; and the late Marian Joanis, Stevens Point civic leader.

Since the initial presidency of Regnier, the following have served in that position: Lois Feldman, former Stevens Point alderperson; Fred Fleishauer, Portage County Circuit Court judge; Dwight Stevens, former Stevens Point school superintendent; Caroline Fribance, Sentry Insurance; Don Kropidowski, '74, executive vice president of Anchor Bank; Frederick Wenzel, '56, professor at the University of St. Thomas, Minneapolis, Minn.; Gerry Viste, retired president of Wausau Insurance; Thomas Nikolai, M.D., '52, emeritus physician, Marshfield Clinic; and currently, Jim Harmon, Basic American Foods, Plover.

Throughout the organization's first 15 years, the faculty has been represented on the academy by Marvin

Lang, professor of chemistry.

For 1998-99, the members of the academy are president Harmon, Justus Paul, dean of the College of Letters and Science; Carl Lemke, director of real estate and assistant secretary of Consolidated Papers; Sharon Maby, M.D., Marshfield Clinic; Kristina Peters, Stevens Point civic leader; Richard Steffen, retired United Methodist minister; David Thiel, senior project manager of Fluid Management, Inc., Port Edwards; Fleishauer, Fribance, Kropidowski, Lang, Viste, Nikolai and Wenzel.

Middle East specialist named chair

Neil Lewis

Neil S. Lewis, professor of history, has been appointed chair of the Department of History.

He succeeds Paul Mertz who held the chair for two three-year terms.

Since 1988, Lewis has coordinated UWSP's international studies major. His areas of expertise include Middle East history and politics, modern European history, German culture and history and U.S. history.

Before coming to UWSP in 1971, he studied in Arab countries and his Middle East expertise has been tapped by students and by local and state media. Lewis has some knowledge of numerous languages including German, Arabic, French, Turkish, Dutch and Hebrew. In addition, he has traveled and studied abroad in Germany, England, Ireland, Norway, France, Turkey, Egypt and Morocco.

He earned a bachelor's degree at Portland State University, a master's at Harvard University and a doctorate from the University of Michigan.

He has won several honors including the University Leadership Award in 1992, the Excellence in Teaching Award in 1980, the Academy of Letters and Science Distinguished Achievement Award in 1988 and the Teaching Excellence Award from the Wisconsin Association for the Promotion of History in 1988.

Williams appointed chair of English

Michael Williams, associate professor of English, has been named chair of the Department of English.

He succeeds Stephen Odden who has served the department for 15 years.

A native of Cardiff, Wales, Williams specializes in 19th century American literature, particularly the work of Edgar Allan Poe. He developed a course on the literature of former English colonies such as the West Indies, Nigeria, South Africa and India. In addition, he has served as faculty adviser and coach of UWSP's rugby football club for a number of years.

He received a bachelor's degree at the University of Wales, and a master's and doctorate at Washington State University, Pullman, Wash. He came to UWSP in 1989. Before coming to the U.S., he taught high school and technical college. As a student in Wales, Williams worked as a castle guide.

He has published A World of Words, a book about the writings of Poe, and a variety of articles on American literature. He has served as associate editor of the nationally known journals ESQ: A Journal of the American Renaissance and Poe Studies/Dark Romanticism: History, Theory, Interpretation and is currently on their editorial boards.

Bell chairs Biology Department

Robert Bell

Robert Bell, associate professor of biology, has been appointed chair of the Department of Biology. He succeeds Shelley Jansky who served a three-year term as chair.

In addition to teaching general biology, Bell specializes in plant biology, phycology (the study of algae) and algal ecology. Bell also participates in graduate student training through his joint appointment with water resources faculty.

He has provided professional expertise to the ecology section of the National Science Foundations of the United States and Israel. He was a participant in a Plant Sciences Delegation, a scientific research exchange to the former USSR in 1990 sponsored by the U.S. and Soviet Academies of Science.

Bell also has found time to volunteer for the Midwest Renewable Energy Association Fair, Wisconsin Odyssey of the Mind competition and as a faculty mentor for a residence hall.

Before joining UWSP's faculty in 1993, Bell taught at South Dakota State University and Loyola University, Chicago. He earned a bachelor's degree at Drake University, a master's at Illinois State University and a doctorate at Arizona State University.

Business classes offered

People who want to complete their business administration degree while continuing their employment can now attend upper-level business classes in the evenings at UWSP and at the colleges in Wausau and Marshfield.

This fall, four business and economics classes are being offered simultaneously at the University of Wisconsin campuses in Stevens Point, Wausau and Marshfield through the Collaborative Degree Program (CDP). Three of the courses were offered during the spring semester last year and one during the past summer.

"People with UW associate degrees are ideal candidates for this program," according to Sally Traynor, CDP academic adviser.

"However, anyone may apply to the program if they have at least 30 credits from a UW college or an accredited university."

Faculty will drive to one of the collaborative campuses each week to have face-to-face meetings with students one third of the time. Two-thirds of the time, professors will rely on interactive technology to converse with classes on the other campuses.

Trust established for Division of Business and Economics

Retired distinguished professor and former head of the Division of Business and Economics, Richard Judy, has established a trust to benefit the department, its students and faculty.

Judy, who retired in May, and his wife, Mary Lou, have made provisions in their estate "to recognize the significant and life-long impact that UWSP has had on us during my tenure in the division." The $10,000 trust was established by the couple with the UWSP Foundation.

In a letter to Scott Schultz of the foundation, Judy said, "We hope that the proceeds will be targeted for student scholarships, particularly to those students with a special interest in small business. Obviously, this is based on my particular interest in entrepreneurship having developed as well as refined the entrepreneurship, small business and student team consulting aspects of our division's curriculum."

For 15 years prior to his retirement, Judy was involved with the Small Business Institute as regional president and national board member. He also hosted two television shows which focused on small business. In 1996 Judy was recognized as Citizen of the Year by the Central Wisconsin Chamber of Commerce.

The evolution of Home Economics at UWSP

In this sesquicentennial year, the Pointer Alumnus takes a look at home economics, one of the earliest missions of UWSP, and the three programs that have descended from it, family and consumer education, dietetics and interior architecture.

In 1902, Stevens Point Normal School became a pioneer for training public school teachers in "domestic science" when the Board of Regents approved establishing the department. Since then, the program has grown and changed, and continues to produce excellent graduates.

In 1927, the institution was given the power to grant bachelor's degrees. Only two were awarded that first year, both going to women specializing in teaching domestic science. Much of this accomplishment was due to the work of Bessie May Allen, who led the department through its first period of growth. Allen was the first woman on campus to serve as a department head and to become president of the faculty. She served the institution from 1913 to 1952.

Another important development during this early era was the building of the John F. Sims Cottage in 1915. For the next 37 years, groups of four students lived in each part of the "Home Management House" for part of a semester in order to practice household activities. They took turns acting as cook, dining room maid, housemaid and mistress of the house.

Beginning in 1956, Agnes Jones served as head of the School of Home Economics for 25 years. She oversaw expansion of programs to include undergraduate majors in five areas. In addition, graduate programs in nutritional science and in home economics education (now human and community resources) were offered beginning in 1961.

Although there is no longer a department called home economics, a number of areas remain that developed from its roots. Two of the programs, family and consumer education and dietetics, are now housed in the new School of Health Promotion and Human Development. The school also includes a major in health promotion and minors in child and family studies, nutrition, and safety and health protection.

The other descendant from home economics, interior architecture, has its own separate division in the College of Professional Studies. In addition, the two graduate programs continue to attract outstanding students.

An important part of the program is the Gesell Institute for the Study of Early Childhood. Named for one of UWSP's best known alumni, Arnold Gesell, this program serves as a laboratory in which majors in early childhood education and minors in child and family studies have "hands on" experiences with children age three months to school age.

Alumni careers reflect changes

The School of Home Economics has undergone many changes to become the School of Health Promotion and Human Development (HPHD) and the Division of Interior Architecture.

The careers of a number of UWSP alumni illustrate the variety of fields affected by the areas that had their genesis in domestic science nearly a century ago.

A 1960 alumna, Gretchen Speerstra, Madison, has developed a program to meet the needs of a culturally diverse student population in her middle school family and consumer education classes. She works with students who have various learning styles and language difficulties. Using work groups, the students conduct research on a variety of cultures and begin to take pride in their own ethnicity.

One aspect of her program focuses on the variety of ethnic cuisines in the cultures the students study. Although the program is designed for seventh graders, it has been adapted for mainstreamed cognitively disabled students.

Speerstra was named Teacher of the Year by the Wisconsin Association of Family and Consumer Sciences.

Another alumna, Karen Bogenschneider, '72, has seen the field of home economics change and her career has expanded and developed along with it.

Bogenschneider was an extension agent in Iowa County for 14 years. Now, with a master's degree and doctorate, she is an associate professor of child and family studies at UW-Madison and a family policy specialist with UW-Extension. One focus of her work is to develop and implement family friendly policies in schools, workplaces and the legislature.

"Changes in the field were brought about by the phenomenal increase of women in the labor force," Bogenschneider says. She saw the impact of this trend first-hand when Lands' End established their catalog headquarters in Dodgeville.

"This has had a ripple effect on child rearing, finances and family management," she says. It also meant looking for new ways to reach families and deliver programs like holding meetings at workplaces rather than at extension offices.

Laurel (Tonn) Hoeth, '69, master's '72, also works to influence school, government and workplace policies. She and Portage County District Attorney, Tom Eagon, a 1979 UWSP graduate, have begun to study the issue of infanticide. She and Eagon believe that it is extremely important to create a safe place for pregnant women to take their unwanted babies.

Hoeth taught home economics in Rosholt for a number of years, then came back to UWSP for graduate work. She now teaches "at-risk students" at Stevens Point Area Senior High School where she is Teen Single Project coordinator.

Her students created a play entitled, "Alice in Sexual Assault Land," which they perform throughout the state. During the summer Hoeth and her students worked on an advertising campaign that was aired on local radio stations to educate area residents about sexual assault and abuse.

Hoeth has worked with fellow alumna, Deb Knippel, '83, master's '89, on a smoking cessation class for high school students—one of the first such programs in Wisconsin. As a prevention specialist at the Community Alcohol and Drug Abuse Center (CADAC), Knippel often works with students on issues of tobacco, alcohol and other drug abuse. She is also available as a speaker for community organizations and has made presentations at UWSP.

"I never have a month that repeats itself," she says. She works with Portage County Intervention for Youth and is co-chair of the Tobacco Free Portage County Coalition. Her goal is to get people thinking about how they help children develop their assets so they will be better able to stay away from alcohol, tobacco, drugs and other risky behavior.

"I'm using everything I learned at UWSP," she says. "I'm using my background in human behavior and what I learned about developing people to their best potential. That's what my job is all about."

Another alumna who depends heavily on her background at UWSP is Mary (Glodowski) Sadler, '81, master's '84. Sadler works as a dietitian at St. Michael's Hospital in Stevens Point.

She works with patients in cardiac rehabilitation, weight control, hospice and other areas, both inpatients and outpatients. She has made presentations to various groups in the community, including speaking to dietetics students at UWSP, where her sister Judie Pfiffner is a faculty member.

Sadler's transition from the academic world to the hospital setting was an internship at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. Although no internships are offered by St. Michael's, Sadler often gets requests from UWSP students to "shadow" her and she always says yes. "We have a small program here, so students get to see everything we do when they come here," she says.

Not yet an alumnus, outstanding interior architecture student, Donny Victorianus, did an internship this summer with FRCH Design Worldwide, a firm in Cincinnati specializing in international design for retail and entertainment clients.

While there, he worked on a grocery store project, starting with design, and seeing it through to the contract phase.

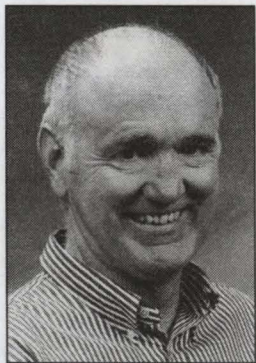

"The internship is helping me get in step with professionals in my field," Victorianus says. "I am learning how professionals work and how they deal with projects, with actual problems and solutions. Also, I can see my weaknesses and what I need to focus on when I get back to school."

Victorianus was offered the job based solely on his portfolio and resume. He credits some of the classes he took at UWSP, career services, professors and friends with helping him create "the perfect resume."

"Donny communicates his ideas visually well above other students I have seen at his level," says Beth Neroni, vice president and design director at FRCH.

These alumni and many other graduates of the programs in dietetics, family and consumer education, and interior architecture hope to help people with the issues, challenges and responsibilities of today's world. Each one has been started on that road during their years at UWSP.

UWSP benefits from planned gifts

The UWSP Foundation can provide opportunities for you to enjoy the benefits of both helping higher education and prudently managing your own concerns.

Gifts of life insurance, bequests, annuities and charitable trusts are some examples of options that could make it possible for you to give a sizable gift in support of the university's mission. Most of these gifts yield tax benefits for a donor and some will provide increased income for the donor.

Baruch establishes scholarship

Professor Robert Baruch and his wife, Charlotte, have donated money to the UWSP Foundation to benefit top student members of The Players organization, which he calls "the backbone of the department." The student organization's executive committee will choose an annual $300 award recipient and the winners' names will be exhibited in the department on a plaque donated by the Baruchs.

A native of Germany who fled with his family in 1938, shortly after the Nazi takeover, Baruch was reared in Galveston, Texas. He says people who work at UWSP are "well off here." He credits campus administrators, faculty, staff and students for fostering and maintaining a high level of cooperation. He recalls he had the good fortune to work under strong chancellors.

The couple also has given money to the UWSP Library to augment the annual allocation to the Department of Theatre and Dance and donated approximately 600 volumes about theatre to the UWSP library and more than 70 books to an academy in Dallas, Texas.

New scholarships established

The UWSP Foundation reports the following newly named funds for the period of July 1, 1997 to June 30, 1998:

- African-American Alumni Association
- Aquatic Biology Fund/Endowment
- Baruch Award for Outstanding Achievement as a Player
- Baruch Library Fund - Theatre & Dance
- Beltone Hearing Aid Centers of Wisconsin Audiology Graduate Student Award/Endowment
- The Best Go With The Best

Hmong scholarship established

Henry and Theresa Chao of Wisconsin Rapids have established a scholarship fund through the UWSP Foundation for deserving Hmong students. Their initial gift of $1,000 was matched by Consolidated Papers with future Chao family contributions planned.

According to Theresa Chao, the area's Hmong deserve our support and consideration. The opportunity for higher education is one such consideration and both she and her husband are pleased to help deserving Hmong students excel and succeed in Wisconsin.

The annual award will be $500 with the purpose of helping Hmong students in Central Wisconsin succeed as students at UWSP. Besides financial need, students must be residents of Portage, Wood or Marathon counties with at least a 3.0 grade point average. Applicants will be asked to submit a short essay on career goals with their application.

Season opens with Roberta Flack

Grammy winner and top ten recording artist Roberta Flack will join the Central Wisconsin Symphony Orchestra in concert to open the 1998-99 Performing Arts Series at UWSP on Saturday, Oct. 3, Homecoming weekend.

Reserved tickets for the event are $25 for chair seats, $18 for lower bleacher seats and $14 for balcony bleacher seats. Tables of six at the front of the stage may be purchased for $225 or $35.50 per person, which includes wine and hors d'oeuvres during the concert.

Obituaries of UWSP Faculty Members

Leone Maves

Leone Maves

Leone Maves, retired assistant professor of education, died in July in Iron Mountain, Mich., following a long illness. She was 78.

She was widely known among teachers throughout North Central Wisconsin for courses she taught on reading. A native of Minnesota, she earned a teaching certificate from the county normal school in East Grand Forks, Minn., two degrees at Northern Michigan University (NMU) and a master's degree at Michigan State University in Marquette.

She began her 38-year career teaching in one-room schools in Crookston, Minn. Her maiden name was Miss Brooks, and she shared it in her early career with actress Eve Arden who played a teacher in the radio show, "Our Miss Brooks."

She taught elementary school in Channing, Mich., Iron Mountain and Aurora. She served as elementary principal in Florence.

She was away from the classroom for five years while she stayed at home with her three small daughters (two of whom eventually became teachers). That experience was helpful to her as a teacher, she said.

In 1963 she became a reading consultant for the Wisconsin Department of Education and in 1971, began her 11-year career at UWSP. At the same time, she taught evening and summer courses at NMU and in the Iron Mountain area. After retirement she continued to teach extension courses in reading for NMU and in Crystal Falls, Mich.

Her first husband, George Jensen passed away in 1971. She married Ernest Maves in 1972. After retirement in 1982, she and her husband moved to Aurora near Iron Mountain, Mich. Ernest preceded her in death in 1997.

Alexandra Kaminska

Alexandra Kaminska

Alexandra Kaminska, associate professor emerita, died in Stevens Point in February at age 80.

She was on the faculty at UWSP in the foreign language and comparative literature departments for 16 years until her retirement in 1979.

The daughter of an impressionist artist, she was born in 1917 in a village near Brzezany, Poland. She received a master's degree from the University of Lwow in Poland and taught at high schools and on the university level for about a decade. When World War II broke out, she was evacuated from one Polish city to another until she fled through Switzerland.

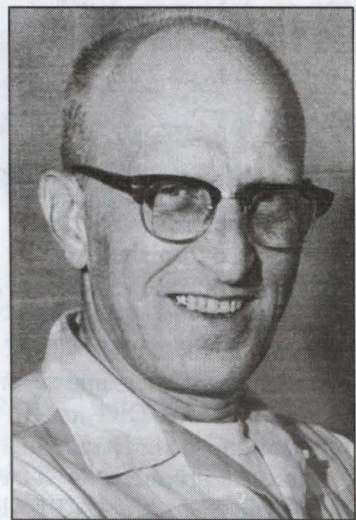

While studying at the University of Geneva, where she received her translator's degree in French, Russian, Polish and German, Kaminska secured a position to serve as an interpreter and translator at the United Nations' Atoms for Peace Conclave in Geneva in 1958. She said that recommendations she received from American participants helped her in securing a college teaching job in the U.S. She served at Monmouth College in Illinois for three years before coming to Stevens Point.

She completed her doctorate in comparative literature in 1972 at the University of Maryland and in 1976 translated an old French comedy, "The Indiscreet Lover or The Master Blunderer," by Philippe Quinault, for publication as a book.

She was the first professor at UWSP to teach Russian, but spent most of her career teaching courses in French and comparative literature. She was a charter member of the local chapter of Alpha Mu Gamma, the foreign language honorary organization.

Calvin Schmid

Calvin Schmid

Calvin Schmid, emeritus professor of chemistry, died Sept. 16 at age 77. He had lived in Colorado Springs, Colo. for the past 11 years.

A native of Plymouth, he came to UWSP in 1963 after a 20-year career in the U.S. Air Force. He retired from the military with the rank of major, having spent his last three and one-half years of service on the faculty of the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs. He held a bachelor's degree from UW-

Madison and a master's degree from the University of Texas in Austin.

He joined the armed forces in 1943 where he worked in photo intelligence, special weapons, research and development and teaching. Some of his research was done with materials that could withstand high temperatures for use in the pioneering space flight of astronaut John Glen.

Schmid taught freshman chemistry at UWSP for 21 years before retiring in 1984. He lived in Stevens Point for a number of years before moving to Colorado. After retirement, he taught senior adults at the Peterson Air Force Base and wrote several books of family history and genealogy.

His first wife, Norma, preceded him in death. He was married in 1987 to Patricia Lowery who lives in Colorado Springs.

The 1997-98 Pointer Hockey Team took home the silver trophy from the NCAA Division III National Championship in March. The Pointers (23-11-0) were defeated by Middlebury College (24-2-2) 2-1 in the championship game. Following their national runner-up finish, the Pointers were welcomed home by several hundred fans at the K.B. Willett Arena. Coach Joe Baldarotta and his team (pictured) took the ice one last time for the 1997-98 season at "Skate with the Pointers," an opportunity for many young fans to skate with and get autographs from the UWSP players and coaches. Since 1989, UWSP has advanced to the NCAA Division III championship game six times, winning four championships, an NCAA title record they now share with Middlebury.

Hockey teams join Hall of Fame

The NCAA Division III national championship teams of 1989, 1990, 1991 and 1993 and the national runner-up squad of 1992 will be inducted into the Hall of Fame Saturday, Oct. 3 at the Holiday Inn Expo Center.

Following is a short thumbnail sketch of each team.

1989: The first national championship team in Pointer hockey history, the team was making only its second NCAA post-season appearance in the program's history. They went an amazing 34-5-2 on the season, including a school-record 24-game winning streak that began with a season-opening 5-4 overtime win over UW-Eau Claire and ended the first week of February. The team also won the NCHA regular season and playoff championships as well as the WSUC championship. They defeated

Rochester Institute of Technology 3-2 in the deciding game on Rochester's home ice.

1990: Point made it back-to-back championships for the first time in NCAA III hockey history. The team finished 28-4-6 on the season, including winning the NCHA regular season and playoff championships and the WSUC championship. They defeated State University of New York (SUNY) at Plattsburgh 1-0 in a deciding mini-game at K.B. Willett Arena for the title.

1991: For the first time since the University of Michigan hockey teams of the fifties, Point made it three straight national championships. They went 27-9-0 on the season, including the NCHA playoff and WSUC championships. They defeated NCHA rival Mankato

State 6-2 in Elmira, New York, for the "three-peat."

1992: Looking for an unprecedented four straight national titles, Point fell short in a 7-3 loss to SUNY at Plattsburgh on Plattsburgh's home ice. The team went 25-7-4 on the season, winning the NCHA regular season and playoff championships.

1993: Point was back on top with its fourth gold trophy in five seasons. The team went 25-5-2 during the season, including the NCHA regular season, playoff, and WSUC championships. They defeated NCHA and WSUC rival UW-River Falls 4-3 in a thrilling sudden death overtime game in St. Paul, Minnesota.

Nelson leads nation

Brian Nelson, a senior centerfielder for the Pointer baseball team, was the NCAA Division III national leader in doubles-per-game in the final statistics released by the NCAA. Nelson had 24 doubles in 38 games for a 0.63 average, narrowly topping Aaron Rifkin of Chapman University, who came in at 0.62. Nelson was second to Rifkin in total doubles, 26-24. The NCAA Division III record for doubles in a season is 27.

Hall of Fame plaques available

The UWSP Athletic Hall of Fame was remodeled last year, with a dedication at the Homecoming celebration. Changes in the display added space, but many of the plaques that hung in the hall were returned to the individual inductees, their names now etched in brass.

Several Hall of Famers have died since their induction and the Alumni Association is looking for family members who would like the plaques mailed to them.

Please call the Alumni Relations Office at 346-3811 or toll free 1-877-POINT01 if you are related to and/or wish to have the plaques of the following Pointer Athletic Hall of Famers:

- ★ Chester Rinka
- ★ Don Johnston
- ★ Warren Becker
- ★ Nolan Gregory

Pointer teams finish seventh in Sears Cup standings

UWSP finished a best-ever seventh in the final 1997-98 Sears Directors' Cup standings. The Sears Cup program awards points based on team finishes in national competition. UWSP was the top finisher among WIAC schools, nosing out UW-La Crosse, who finished eighth. UWSP's previous best finish was 11th in 1996-97. Nine teams earned points for the Pointers: fastpitch softball (national champions), hockey (national runner-up), men's cross country (fifth), men's swimming and diving (fifth), men's track and field (sixth), wrestling (ninth), women's track and field (25th), women's soccer (33rd) and baseball (34th).

"This kind of success is a tribute to our student-athletes, our coaches, our support staff, the institution and the community," said Frank O'Brien, director of athletics. "It's a team recognition. This doesn't look at just one sport but is representative of every one of our sports and the strong overall athletic program at UWSP."

Earlier in the spring, the Pointer men claimed their second straight WIAC All-Sports Award.

'98 inductee profiles

Six individuals will be inducted into the Hall of Fame Saturday, Oct. 3 at the Holiday Inn Expo Center

Mark Mazzoleni, head hockey coach, 1986-91

Mark Mazzoleni brought Pointer hockey to national prominence. Fashioning a 138-52-10 overall record, he led UWSP to the first back-to-back-to-back national championships in NCAA Division III hockey history. Through his six seasons, Pointer hockey went 72-29-5 in Northern Collegiate Hockey Association play, including regular season crowns in 1989 and '90 and NCHA playoff champions in 1989, '90 and '91; 53-19-2 in Wisconsin State University Conference play, including championships in 1986, '89, '90 and '91; and 13-3-3 in NCAA Division III post-season play, including the three national championships in 1989, '90 and '91. Along the way, he was honored three times as NCHA Coach of the Year and four times as WSUC Coach of the Year. He is head hockey coach at the University of Miami-Ohio.

Ralph Barahona, forward, 1986-90

The first Pointer to play in the National Hockey League (Boston Bruins), Barahona graduated as all-time lead scorer at UWSP. He currently stands number two with 96 goals and 120 assists for 216 points. A member of Point's first two national championship teams, he also had 31 powerplay goals, and 12 game-winners. He was named All-American and NCHA Player of the Year in 1989.

Paul Caufield, forward, 1988-92

The most prolific scorer in Pointer hockey history, Caufield finished his career with 254 points on 126 goals and 128 assists. He ranks number one in six categories. Playing on three national championship teams and one national runner-up team, he also ranked number one in season goals, game-winners and hat tricks. He is a three-time All-American and three-time All-NCHA.

Todd Chin, goaltender, 1988-92

The best "big-game" goalie in Pointer hockey history, Chin was in the net for three UWSP national championships and one national runner-up finish. He finished his career with a 61-13-9 overall record, 2.65 goals-against-average, and four shut-outs. He stands number two in all Pointer hockey goaltending career and season categories and was All-American in 1992 and All-NCHA three times.

Tim Coghlin, defenseman, 1985-89

Coghlin was arguably the best defenseman in Pointer hockey history. He finished his career as the number 12 all-time scorer with 21 goals, 87 assists for 108 points. He served as captain of the first national championship team in 1989 and had 13 powerplay goals. He stands number one or two in all Pointer defenseman offensive statistics and was a two-time All-American and three-time All-NCHA.

Pat McPartlin, forward, 1985-89

The first Pointer hockey offensive star, McPartlin, along with Coghlin, was the catalyst for a program that rose to the top. He finished his career with 168 points (77 goals, 91 assists), which ranks him number four. He holds a UWSP record for fastest back-to-back goals (53 seconds) and was a three-time All-American and All-NCHA player.

Coach Loy steps aside

Marty Loy, who guided the Pointer wrestling program to national prominence during his 11-season tenure, has stepped aside as UWSP's head wrestling coach to devote full time to teaching in the Department of Health Promotion and Human Development. Johnny Johnson, Loy's top assistant for four seasons, has been named the program's head coach. Loy finished his career with a 125-57-1 dual meet record, five WIAC championships, three WIAC runner-up finishes, and seven straight NCAA Division III top ten finishes. During his tenure, he produced 34 WIAC champions, 27 NCAA III All-Americans and three NCAA III national champions.

Softball team brings home championship

The 1998 Pointer fastpitch softball team left its mark on the history books by bringing home UWSP's sixth National Collegiate Athletic Association national championship on Monday, May 18.

The lady Pointers defeated Chapman University of California 3-1 in the championship game of the tournament in Salem, Va. This is the first national title for the Pointer fastpitch program and the sixth in the history of UWSP athletics (women's basketball, 1987; hockey 1989-91, 1993). In addition, the win marked the pinnacle of the long journey to the top for the program under the guidance of coach Dean Shuda.

Shuda joined the Pointer softball program in November 1993 after five seasons at the helm of the Stevens Point Post 6 American Legion baseball team. He took over a program that was 28-58 during the three seasons before his arrival. Shuda nearly equaled that victory mark during his first year when his team posted a 27-14 record. From that point, there was no looking back for Shuda's Pointers as they played their way to the top, first in the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Association conference, and then in the nation.

This was the Pointers' second appearance at the national tournament in three years. The 1996 softball squad made UWSP's initial trip after completing a record-breaking offensive season. "Two years ago we were just elated to be at nationals," explained Dena Zajdel, a senior from Caledonia. "This year we had a purpose for being there. We wanted to win."

The preparation for the Pointers' playoff run began last September. During the non-traditional season, the Pointers played games against NCAA Division I opponents UW-Madison and Notre Dame and Division II powerhouse UW-Parkside.

"It is a great opportunity for student athletes to play against

Division I teams and see that we are good enough to compete with them," commented Shuda.

The Pointers also faced tough Division II competition during their spring trip to Hawaii. They left the islands with a 2-7 record, but with valuable experience gained from playing talented opponents. They put their experience to work immediately on the mainland by winning their next 23 straight games.

The Pointers advanced to the national tournament by defeating UW-Eau Claire in the championship game of the Great Lakes regional tournament. UWSP then tallied its first win ever at the national tournament by defeating Messiah, Pa., 1-0.

"That win gave us confidence," said Zajdel. "Once we got past the hurdle of winning our first game at nationals, we were convinced that we could win more."

UWSP then went on to win their next two games in deciding fashion by topping Salisbury State, Md., 10-1 and Chapman, 10-0. Chapman then came back and defeated the Pointers 6-3 in the first championship game, giving them their first loss of the tournament.

However, UWSP rallied the next day to beat Chapman and win the national championship. Powering the Pointers to victory were Jill Kristof, a junior from Wittenberg and Kelly Blaha, a senior from Stevens Point. Kristof started off the scoring in the bottom of the first inning by hitting her second home run of the tournament, a two-run shot that gave UWSP the lead for good. The other run scored unearned in the bottom of the sixth. Pitcher Blaha won her third game of the tournament, allowing eight hits and just one earned run to cap off a 20-5 season.

"That win put UWSP on the map again," said Shuda. "It will benefit the entire athletic department because a national championship within the department makes it a realistic goal that each sport can strive for."

The victory finished up a 43-15 season for UWSP and made the Pointers the first Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (WIAC) fastpitch team to win the national championship.

Alumni Game Planned

All Pointer softball alumnae are invited to attend the annual alumni softball game Oct. 3 at 11 a.m. during homecoming weekend. The 1998 Pointers will be presented with their NCAA championship rings after the game.

Softball staff named Staff of the Year

The national champion Pointer fastpitch softball coaching staff, led by Head Coach Dean Shuda, was named the Speedline/National Fastpitch Coaches Association Staff of the Year for NCAA Division III.

The Pointers set school records with 43 victories and 23 consecutive wins on the way to their first-ever national championship. Shuda has a five-season record of 154-70 with five straight WIAC Eastern Division titles. The team also finished the season ranked number one in the final Division III Coaches Poll, another first for the program. The staff will be recognized at the NFCA Convention in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Spring sports review

Fastpitch softball

The Pointer fastpitch softball squad reached the pinnacle when they defeated Chapman University of California for the NCAA Division III national championship. See a related story, this page.

Baseball

The Pointers proved that the magical 1997 season was no "one-year wonder" with their second straight NCAA Division III tournament bid.

Following a 6-5 spring trip to Ft. Myers, Fla., UWSP proceeded to win 23 of their next 25 games, including a school record 17 straight, on the way to a second place finish in the WIAC regular season. Point then advanced to the WIAC championship game before falling to UW-Oshkosh. Their stay in the NCAA III Midwest Regional was short-lived as they lost to UW-La Crosse and Wartburg College. Despite that early exit, Point showed that it is now among the elite, finishing with a 29-10 overall record, the second-most wins in school history, and a final #29 national ranking. Along the way, numerous individual and team records fell.

Track and field

The Pointer men, who finished second to UW-La Crosse in the WIAC outdoor championships, brought home nine All-American finishes from the NCAA Division III outdoor track and field championships to secure a final sixth place finish. All-Americans included Mike Hamilton, fourth in long jump; William Porter, eighth in long jump; Josh Metcalf, seventh in 10,000m; Shawn Moretti, fourth in 110m hurdles and fourth in 100m; Ben Douglas third in high jump; Mike Mead, seventh in high jump; Brett Witt, fourth in 800m and the men's 4x100m relay team which placed sixth.

The Pointer women, who finished third at the WIAC championships, rode a pair of All-American finishes by Sara Groshek to finish 25th at the national meet. Groshek finished sixth in the hammer and a third place in the javelin.

Fall sports preview

Information was still incomplete at press time concerning the 1998 Pointer fall sports season. The following are brief sketches of the teams.

Football

The Pointers are looking to extend their streak of .500-plus seasons to 12 as they enter the 1998 campaign. A returning squad of 50, including 14 starters, looks to improve on last season's 6-4 overall record and 3-4 mark in the WIAC. Among the top returnees for Head Coach John Miech, entering his eleventh season, are All-American line-backer Clint Kriewaldt and All-WIAC picks Len Luedtke, Dean Lew, Mark Fetzer and Andy Martin.

Volleyball

First-year Head Coach Kelly Geiger returns the entire 1997 squad that finished 21-14. Starters back to lead the way include All-WIAC picks Erin Carney, Sarah Kuhl and Kelly Gralinski.

Soccer

Following an injury-plagued 1996 season, the Pointers returned to form in '97 with a fourth NCAA Division III tournament bid. UWSP will also be looking to continue their dominance of the WIAC after winning their sixth championship in seven seasons. UWSP has lost just once in the history of WIAC play, both regular season and conference tournaments. Among the top returning players for Head Coach Sheila Miech are defenders Kim Cwik and Jessica Wickesberg, forwards Hope Wadel, Laura Gissibl and Kristin Severson, midfielders Michelle Mael, Jenny Davis and Jenny Lushine, and goal-keeper Abby Rabinovitz.

Golf

The Pointer women golfers, under Head Coach Scott Frazier, won the WIAC championship last season in only their second year of play. A very young squad accomplished the feat and looks to duplicate the effort in 1998.

Tennis

Head Coach Nancy Page's young 1997 squad battled through a tough season, finishing 3-7 in dual competition and finishing sixth at the WIAC championships in Madison. Leading the charge for 1998 are WIAC third place finisher Anne Renken and fifth place finisher Aimee Strebeg.

Cross country

The Pointer men are going for the "three-peat," having won the last two WIAC championships. A pair of now-graduated seniors led the way but Dan Schwamberger was 10th and Matt Hayes 13th to provide Head Coach Rick Witt with a pair of battle-tested pack leaders for '98. Also sure to contribute are Mike Peck, Justin Ratike and Jesse Drake.

The young Pointer women's squad improved as the season rolled along, led by MVP Sara Holewinski. Leah Juno, Lisa Pisca and Lisa Birling all figure to run in the front of the pack for Head Coach Len Hill.

Anderson's postcards featured in book

For the Love of Postcards: A Pictorial Celebration of Hometown Heritage is a compilation of postcards from the collection of the late John Anderson that has been published by George Rogers and Judy Anderson for the benefit of the John Anderson Fund of the Community Foundation of Portage County.

The book is available at bookstores in Stevens Point and some area businesses for $14.95. Books are also available from Anderson at 715-341-2786 or Rogers 715-344-9077.

The book contains 122 historic postcard reproductions that show scenes of Portage County's past from part of the collection owned by his widow, Judy. Anderson collected 18,000 postcards during his lifetime.

"This project will benefit our community in several

This postcard from For the Love of Postcards depicts one of the murals in the Whiting Hotel bar room. E. John Pfiffner, who painted the murals in 1946, said the work contains two real-life characters. The pipe-smoker leaning against the bar is his grandfather, E. J. Pfiffner; and the white-bearded man next to him is his great-grandfather, James Meehan.

ways," Judy says. "Not only does it record our area historically through photos, but it also will be a keepsake for many of us area residents."

The photographs are supplemented with text written by George Rogers, former editor of the Stevens Point Journal. While most of the old postcards were printed in black and white, four color reproductions depict murals at the Whiting Hotel. Cards in the collection feature everything from floods and train wrecks to the more traditional street scenes, churches and public buildings.

Anderson was director of UWSP News Services for 27 years until his death in 1994. He wrote a column for the Stevens Point Journal entitled "A County Sampler" and was deeply interested in Portage County history.

He hoped to preserve the distinctive culture of Portage County. He had a keen interest for old cemetery epitaphs and sometimes presented colorful slide presentations about tombstones.

Worzalla, Stevens Point, printed and bound the book gratis and Spectra Print, Stevens Point, donated conversion of some of the photographs to book form.

"As John's fund grows, many good causes will be helped," Judy says. "Everybody wins, that's just wonderful."

The World Is Ours for sale

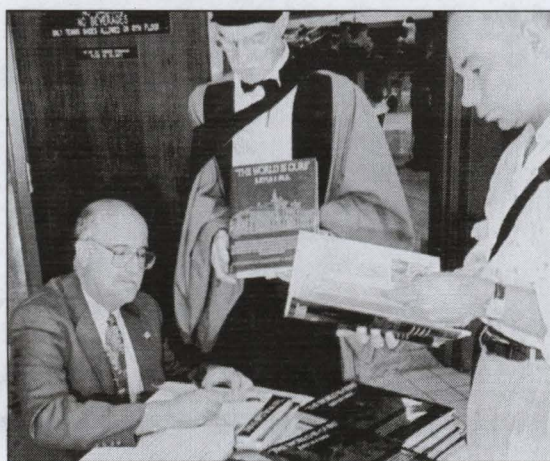

A history-filled book written in 1994 in celebration of UWSP's centennial is still available for purchase through the UWSP Foundation.

The World Is Ours by Justus Paul, dean of the College of Letters and Science, may be purchased for $25 by calling (715) 346-3812. All proceeds go to the UWSP Foundation, the fund-raising arm of the university.

The book contains a chapter about each era at UWSP, from its creation as a Normal School through the changes of the early 90s. It includes nearly 100 photographs of campus personalities and scenes.

The book's title refers to a statement made by G.E. McDill in a telegram to the citizens of Stevens Point, as he announced that the Normal School would be built in the city. The heated and sometimes hostile competition that grew between Wausau and Stevens Point as both vied for the school is described at length in the book.

A 32-year faculty veteran and former chair of the Department of History, Paul specializes in recent United States history as well as state and local politics. He and his graduate students have been involved in studies on other area institutions, such as the Stevens Point Brewery and the Marshfield Clinic.

Justus F. Paul autographed copies of The World Is Ours at Convocation in 1994 when the book was first published.

The Worzalla printing company of Stevens Point donated materials, design and printing. The project's art director and designer was Peppino Rizzuto, Port Edwards, and Palmer Publications, Amherst, did the typesetting.

Assisting Paul with research was Liz Vehlow, '89; Carol Marion Wick, professor emerita; William Paul, UWSP archivist; and Ellen Gordon, former political science faculty member.

Portage County history published

The history of Portage County is told in a book that was written and edited by students at UWSP last fall.

Out of the Shadows: Memorable People in Portage County, a collection of 15 essays by six writers, is being published by the Portage County Historical Society and printed by Palmer Publications in Amherst. It will be a companion to Portage County Shadows, a book published by the student-run Cornerstone Press in 1990.

Both books are available at Book Garden and Little Professor bookstores in Stevens Point. Out of the Shadows sells for $10 and Portage County Shadows sells for $9.95.

George Rogers, retired editor of the Stevens Point Journal, came up with the idea for a book that would showcase the "good side" of Portage County history to compliment Portage County

Shadows, which focused on such things as robberies and poltergeists.

One local personality profiled in the book is of Mandana Hale Bliss, who was Portage County's first school teacher more than 100 years ago. World War I memories of Joseph Formella and a biography of P.J. Jacobs are also included.

UWSP student, Kyle Drefcinski, Stevens Point, reviewed and selected articles for the book. Other students who worked on the book were Sheri Hagen, Spooner; Abigail Heller, Eagle; and Michelle Trudeau, Suamico. Jeff Allen, Stevens Point, designed the layout and cover.

The students worked on this project in addition to the work they did with On Wisconsin, the book published by Cornerstone Press last fall. Cornerstone Press is a project of the editing and publishing class led by Dan Dieterich, professor of English.

Children's history book created by students

A book for third and fourth grade students that tells the history of Portage County has been created by UWSP students.

Journey Through Portage County Past: Travel in Time with Hunter and Friends will be distributed to local schools and libraries through the efforts of the students, the Stevens Point Woman's Club and Worzalla, a book printing and binding company in Stevens Point.

When Woman's Club members began the project as part of Wisconsin's sesquicentennial celebration, Michelle Ristau, a student from Green Bay, came forward to help with research and writing. She assembled a group of university students to do the creative work. Worzalla took them on as interns and agreed to do the printing and binding of the book as a community project.

The students were all studying full time in addition to the work they did on the book. "We all worked really hard," Ristau says. "It was rewarding to see the results when it was finished."

"We followed the book through all aspects of publishing," says Christina Bando, Fremont, one of the students who worked on the project.

The book is intended to help third and fourth graders and their teachers study Wisconsin history. The university students collected drawings and historical photographs to tell the story of four cartoon characters who use a time machine to explore various decades. The characters were drawn by Stephen Schlachtenhaufen, Neenah. Many of the photographs were selected from the collections of the Portage County Historical Society and the postcards of John Anderson, the late director of UWSP News Services. While most of the photographs and postcards are black and white, the cartoon characters are in color.

Other university students involved in the project were Jason Renkens, Appleton; Tara Zawlocki, Green Bay;

An illustration from the book Journey Through Portage County Past depicts time travelers Hunter and his dog, Nova, visiting Old Main.

Kitty Saunders Sebold remembered by friends

One of UWSP's premier scholarships bears the name of an alumna who is fondly remembered.

In the mid-sixties, Kitty Saunders attended Wisconsin State University at Stevens Point, and like many other students, she was idealistic, bright and had a zest for life.

"We had a lot of fun together," says Mary Ann Nigbor, a childhood friend who became Kitty's roommate at UWSP. "She was well liked," she adds. "She had her own way of being a leader."

Another college roommate, Kate Anderson agrees. "She was fun loving; she had a great sense of humor and a great heart."

Mary Beth Rokus, another longtime friend notes that Kitty was active at Assumption High School in Wisconsin Rapids in cheerleading, drama club, honor society and other activities.

While attending UWSP, Kitty met D. David "Dewey" Sebold. During his college years, Dewey worked at his father's mink ranch and became the first route salesman for a new business, Tombstone Pizza.

After they both graduated in 1968, Kitty joined Clark County Social Services in Niellsville and Dewey joined the U.S. Navy in San Diego, Calif. In 1970, they were married and Kitty continued with her career as a social worker in San Diego.

"She had a deep commitment to help children in need," Dewey says. "Her case load was overwhelming, but she never complained to the very day she had to give up her career."

Shortly after their marriage, just as their careers began to develop, their lives changed dramatically. Kitty was diagnosed with ovarian cancer and two years later died at age 28.

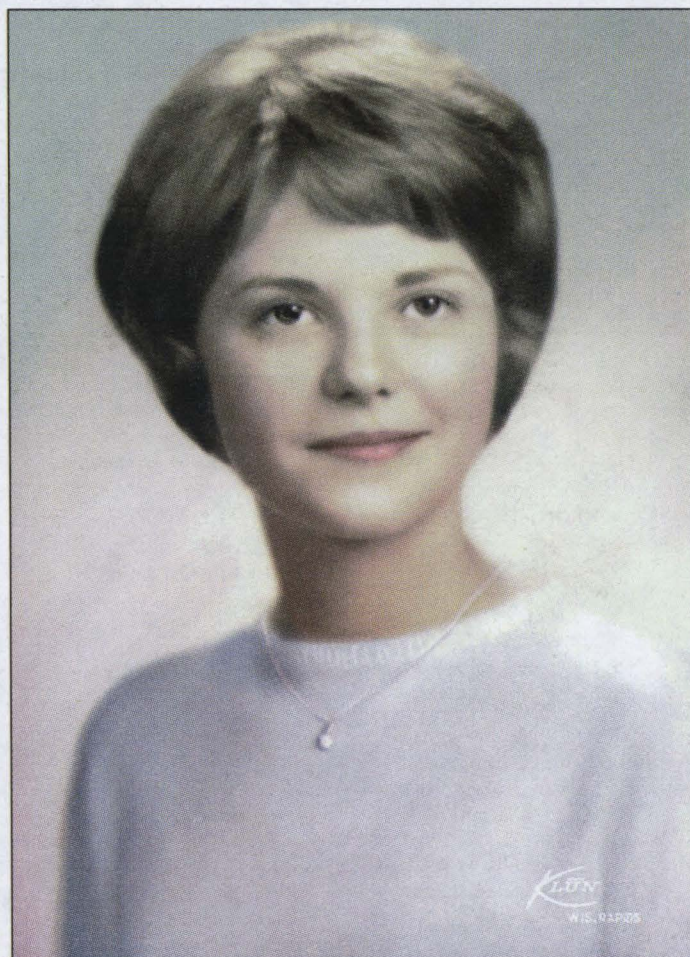

Three years after Kitty's death, Dewey returned to Wisconsin and continued his association with Tombstone Pizza as director of sales and marketing. He eventually became the company's president and chief executive officer and an important leader in the Central Wisconsin business community.

After retirement from Tombstone Pizza in 1989, he married Marcy Church and they formed Sebold Enterprises, a company that owns and operates an asset management company, a travel business and several properties.

In 1988 Dewey established a scholarship in Kitty's name at UWSP. One of the premier awards at UWSP, it covers a full year's tuition and is valued at more than $2800.

"Kitty and I both gained a lot from our campus experiences," Dewey says. "This was a way of honoring Kitty and giving something back at the same time. It helps today's top scholars to reach their goals and perhaps someday they too will remember their alma mater."

"Kitty would be so happy about this scholarship, she was a kind giving person. I'm glad Dewey did this for her," Nigbor says.

Kitty Saunders Sebold

Past recipients of the Kitty Saunders Sebold award

What are the previous award winners of the Kitty Saunders Sebold scholarship up to? The Pointer Alumnus contacted all of them and checked on their progress. They are in different professions at varying levels of their careers, including some who are still in school.

"It was a great honor to get the scholarship," says last year's recipient, Gregory Dietrich of Reedsville. A paper science major with a minor in chemistry, Dietrich plans to look for a position with one of Wisconsin's paper mills when he's ready to start his career.

Dietrich echoes the sentiments of many of the winners: "The scholarship took so much pressure off and made my experience more enjoyable," he says.

Renata Grillova, the 1996 recipient agrees. "As a student from Eastern Europe, it was difficult for me to find funds for my education," she says. The award made it possible for her to get involved in extracurricular activities such as the International Club and the United Nations Student Organization, opportunities that she believes are an important part of her college experience.

A native of Prague, Czech Republic, Grillova came to the U.S. to attend Stevens Point Area Senior High School. She will graduate from UWSP in May with plans to attend graduate school. She expects to work in tourism or to train people who go overseas on business. She's not yet sure whether she will stay in the U.S. or return to Europe.

Millie (DeCleene) Hartl says, "The scholarship meant a lot to me. It got me started in my field, communicative disorders." She received the scholarship twice, as a freshman and sophomore. But after her third semester at UWSP, she transferred to Oshkosh in order to be closer to her family in the Fox Valley.

"At UWSP I met a lot of people in my field and developed a real love for my major while I was there," she says.

Hartl finished her bachelor's degree at UW-Oshkosh and recently returned there for an associate's degree in interpreting for the deaf. Last year she was a long-term substitute teacher in the Appleton school system, working with deaf children and hopes to have a permanent position in Appleton this year.

Karen (Kollross) Demmerly, '93, says the scholarship gave her more time "to focus on my studies."

A water resources major,

she feels the freedom from financial worry let her become active in groups associated with her major, like the Wildlife Society and the Fisheries Society. In addition, she worked as a supervisor in peer advising for the College of Natural Resources.

Demmerly recently finished coursework at UWSP for her master's degree in natural resources. While she writes her thesis, she is taking a break in her career to be at home with a new baby and manage some rental units. She also has found time to work on projects like Protect Our Wisconsin River.

Gina Jacquart, '97, received the award during her freshman, sophomore and junior years. An arts management major, she worked at Centertainment, formerly known as the University Activities Board. "It was tremendous preparation for what I do now," she says.

Jacquart lives in Lewisville, Texas. She works for Young Audiences, an arts and education organization that brings artists and musicians to schools for performances and workshops. "I didn't go into the arts to get rich," she says. But she's doing what she intended to do, making a difference in kids lives.

Susan Rabideau, '89, was the first recipient in 1988.

"The scholarship let me finish college without a huge debt, so I could afford graduate school," she says.

This fall she will be on the faculty at Moorhead State University, Moorhead, Minn. At UWSP, she studied theatre arts and earned a master's degree at Mankato State University in theatre arts with an emphasis in directing.

Rabideau spent a year in New York and a summer in Spain teaching acting. She also taught at her own studio and held acting jobs in Wisconsin and Minnesota, including a stint with Door County's Peninsula Players.

The second winner, Vicki (Johnson) Ashenbrenner, '92, master's '95, had plans to become a certified public accountant as a freshman. But after taking one course in communicative disorders, she changed her plans.

"The scholarship helped me get through my first year without working outside my studies," she says. The following year she got a job as a secretary at St. Michael's Hospital in the housekeeping department, a job she enjoyed immensely for three years.

Ashenbrenner wasn't sure whether she would work in a clinical setting or a school. After an internship in a clinic and a semester of student teaching, she made up her mind. She now teaches speech and language pathology at Madison's Black Hawk Middle School.

Strey is this year's Sebold award winner

Kris Strey of Mosinee is this year's recipient of the Kathrin "Kitty" Saunders Sebold Scholarship.

The Sebold scholarship, given to a student who demonstrates high potential for becoming a leader in a chosen field or profession, was established to honor the late Kitty Sebold by her husband, the former president and CEO of Tombstone Pizza. (See the accompanying story, this page.)

Strey, a senior at UWSP majoring in medical technology, is doing a year-long clinical study at St. Joseph's Hospital in Marshfield.

She has maintained a perfect grade point average throughout her career at UWSP, while balancing the responsibilities of two part-time jobs. She worked at UWSP Health Services as a laboratory assistant and as a cosmetologist at Fashion Villa Hair Studio in Rothschild. She also volunteers her time for community activities such as the Central Wisconsin Wildlife Center and the Marathon County Ice Age Trail.

She was named Outstanding Sophomore in Medical Technology and previously received the Women in Higher Education Scholarship. She is a member of three honor societies, Phi Eta Sigma, Phi Kappa Phi, and Tri Beta.

This spring she also received the Emil and Harriet Pagel Scholarship and a Partners with St. Joseph's Scholarship. The Pagel scholarship is given to a student studying medical technology for excellence in scholarship and dedication to professional endeavors. Partners of St. Joseph's Hospital scholarships are given to students in health-related fields from Wisconsin or Minnesota.

Obituaries of Graduates

Kurt Hoerman, Antigo, a student at UWSP, died on July 2 as a result of a car accident in Watersmeet, Mich. Hoerman majored in natural science for teacher certification and minored in biology. Obey adviser Madison retires

Excerpted from the Marshfield News-Herald

Congressman Dave Obey and his adviser, Jerry Madison, '57, first met at UW-Madison in 1959 when they were on opposite sides of an election.

"I was running for national committeeman for the Young Democrats, and Dave backed my opponent," Madison said. "I won anyway."

"Ever since, Dave teased me that it was the only election he ever lost," Madison said. "So he hired me."

Madison says he will offer his services to Obey and other area Democrats during the fall elections, but not until after visiting one of his sons, a professor at the University of Melbourne in Australia.

A Marshfield native, he is the son and grandson of alumnae, Miriam (Keffner) Madison, who graduated in about 1923 and Helen Adams who was among the first graduates of Stevens Point Normal. His twin sister, Janet (Madison) Miller, graduated in 1958.

Madison started his career as a high school teacher in New London after graduating from UWSP. In 1960, presidential candidate John F. Kennedy visited. A photo was taken of Kennedy and Madison shaking hands in the high school parking lot. The next year, Madison sent the photo to Sen. William Proxmire's office in hopes that Kennedy would sign it.

"The photo was lost," Madison said. "Then three months after Kennedy's assassination, we got the picture back in the mail. It was signed, 'To Jerry Madison, history's very best teacher. John F. Kennedy.'"

"It's one of my most prized possessions," he said.

After earning his master's at UW-Madison in 1962, he and his wife, Nelda, moved to Wausau, where he began teaching.

Melvin Laird was appointed secretary of defense, and his seat was open. "Dave asked me to run his campaign. I helped, and Nelda ran the campaign headquarters," Madison said.

When Obey won a special election, he asked Madison to stay on as the manager of the district office in Wausau. In 1973, Madison returned to the classroom. Then in 1977, he returned to work for Obey and stayed on until his retirement in March.

Madison said he considers himself a blessed man.

"I love teaching, and I love politics," he said. "Few people get to do the two things they love."

Hall inspires young poets

Erica Hall

Residents of the state's most secured setting for juvenile delinquents are learning to express themselves positively through poetry, thanks to Erika Hall, '97, Adams, and other UWSP student volunteers.

UWSP's Young Poets Project has been reaching out to the boys of Lincoln Hills

School near Merrill since Hall created it in 1996. A former Lincoln Hills resident at age 15 before it became an all-boys school, Hall turned her life around and became an Albertson Medallion winner at UWSP.

"Eighth grade was the last grade I completed and I was in trouble as a kid," said Hall. "What helped me keep going and eventually start over was literacy."

With hopes of inspiring kids like herself, Hall and other student volunteers have shared poetry books with the boys, helped them write about their experiences and showed them that someone cares, Hall said.

Student volunteers now make five or six visits a semester. Now an at-home parent with plans to attend graduate school, Hall turned the project over to other students so that they may learn leadership skills as well as find out what Lincoln Hills residents have to offer.

"Everyone has reasons for ending up at Lincoln Hills," said Hall. "But having trouble growing up doesn't make you are a 'throwaway.' I want those kids to know that. This program helps introduce them to a new way of life."

Student forges path to graduation

Steve Salmon, '98, faced a great hurdle before he could receive his degree in English last May. He had to complete a geography course that includes a field trip through Schmeckle Reserve.

So what's the problem?

Salmon's main mode of transportation is a wheelchair designed for city streets and sidewalks, not off-path explorations. Nevertheless, Professor Karen Lemke requires the field trip for the geography course.

Lemke and Salmon worked together to solve this conundrum using technology. Lemke designed a "virtual field trip." Salmon also hired Jessie Bushman of Rosholt, a fellow English major, to be his hands at the computer keyboard.

A student at UWSP for the past nine years, Salmon was diagnosed with cerebral palsy shortly after his birth. In seventh grade he entered the classroom of a teacher with cerebral palsy almost as severe as his own. The man served as Salmon's role model and mentor until his graduation from high school.

He began his postsecondary education at Madison Area Technical College. After receiving an associate degree, he was convinced he could handle a four-year campus.

Salmon chose Stevens Point, a most accommodating campus for people with disabilities, according to his mother, Mary, who moved to Stevens Point with him in order to provide care and companionship.

A letter from the desk of Mayor Linda Lawrence

Alumna Linda Lawrence, '97, took office as Wausau's mayor in April after winning a special election to replace incumbent John Hess who resigned last November.

Linda Lawrence

By about 1993, my reputation at UW-Marathon campus was growing as the student with the most longevity. Over 25 years had passed since I had first enrolled as a freshman, yet I was only about half-way to degree completion. While the career paths of my cohorts were very direct, mine was more winding, slowed by digressions of Lamaze and small runny noses.

In August 1997, as a single mom, I finally completed my bachelor's degree at UWSP in social sciences, with a minor in political science. For the past two years, I have kept many plates in the air at once in a delicate juggling act—those of full-time student, part-time employee and frazzled parent. In addition to that, I maintained a 12-year position as alderman supervisor in the city of Wausau providing an outlet for my first love—local government.

Luck has been defined as that place where opportunity and preparedness intersect. I had prepared. Now opportunity took over with the resignation of Wausau's incumbent mayor John Hess. It was now or never, and with my decision to run for mayor, I changed course. In April, I became the first woman mayor of Wausau.

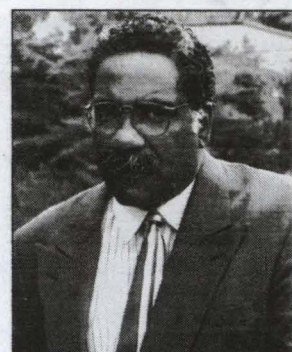

I had often heard in cynical tones that a college education, especially a liberal arts one, would be utterly useless in the real world. Not so! As the mayor, I often tap into knowledge gleaned from lectures and readings expounded upon by professors. The cynics were wrong; my education is relevant and useful! It prepared me to lead a city of nearly 40,000 as a public servant.

At every turn as the mayor, I will encourage adults who are struggling with bleak careers. Borrow the money! Go back to school! Whatever it takes, it will change your life too! My education gave me the confidence and credentials I needed to get where I am today. While I could lose the election in the year 2000 or after, I have banked an asset that won't rust or expire and cannot be repossessed—a college education. It's never too late.

Thank you UWSP!

Linda Lawrence

Vance cited by Regents

Jim Vance

Jim Vance, '75, director of the American Ethnic Coordinating Office at UW-Eau Claire, received one of the first UW System Board of Regents administrative and Professional Academic Staff Excellence Awards.

The award includes $5,000 to be used for support of professional development. Under his leadership, scholarships to students of color have grown from $5,000 in 1988 to more than $107,000 last year. Funds in support of precollege programs for multicultural students have had similar increases.

In addition, Vance teaches a "Diversity in the Workplace" course and donates the additional salary he receives to the UW-Eau Claire Foundation in support of multicultural scholarships for business students. Before going to Eau Claire, Vance was director of the PRIDE office at UWSP from 1972 to 1988. He also served as director of the Student Support Program. He and his brothers Gerald and Francis have worked together to raise funds for the Vance Family Scholarship at UWSP.

Attending college has been a two-way process for the student and his professors. Mary says Steve's teachers have recognized his potential and encouraged him, and at the same time, he has educated them about the potential of people with disabilities.

One of the educators who has been inspired by Salmon's grit is Larry Watson, an English professor and published novelist. Watson said that Salmon, who earned As and Bs, did very well in his English classes. "He attended regularly, was always prepared and participated in class discussion despite his difficulty speaking. Working with Steve is a pleasure and an inspiration," Watson said.

Salmon plans to become a full-time writer.

1980s

It's hard to put into words what UWSP has done for me, because it is immense; it was the foundation,
--Rhonda Schnabl, '89

Rhonda Schnabl, '89, earned a master's degree in exercise science and began her career at the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Augusta, Ga. She now is enrolled at the Medical College of Georgia in Augusta. "On a personal level, the wellness degree freed me from inhibitions about my potential and propelled me to the level I am at now. Professionally, UWSP provided me with the tools to begin my adventure. It's hard to put into words what UWSP has done for me, because it is immense; it was the foundation," Schnabl says.

Journal staffers receive awards

Trudy Stewart

Brian Leahy

Doug Wojcik

Trudy Stewart, '87, Brian Leahy, '93, and Doug Wojcik, '75, received awards from the Wisconsin News Association Better Newspaper Contest for their work with the Stevens Point Journal.

Stewart, a feature writer and editor of the Accent page, won a first place plaque in the features category for her biographical article on Malcom Rosholt, a local journalist and historian. "We couldn't put this biography down," the judges said.

Leahy, county and environmental reporter, received a second place award in the local outdoors column category for his columns on a personal experience during opening weekend of deer hunting season and a combination of information on hunting regulations and duck hunting escapades. "Leahy spins stories even when he is announcing local outdoor events," the judges said.

Wojcik received a second place award in the spot news photo category for his picture of a tanker that overturned on U.S. Highway 10. "Absolutely good play of what could've been 'yet another wreck'," the judges said. "Cropping and use of color leads your eye along the length of the tanker like an arrow."

Michael Nelson, '88, assistant professor of philosophy at UWSP, co-edited The Great New Wilderness Debate with former UWSP philosophy professor, J. Baird Callicott. The 700-page anthology was published by the University of Georgia Press. "This anthology gives the reader a one-stop primer of both historical Western thought on wilderness, as well as today's debate on what is or what should be considered wilderness," Nelson says. He holds a master's degree from Michigan State University and a doctorate from Lancaster University, England.

Dale Armstrong, '89, Vero Beach, Fla., is a senior forester in Okeechobee, Fla., with responsibilities in a six-county area. He is involved with Project Learning Tree environmental education curriculum. He is active in community theater and coaches youth soccer, baseball and basketball.
