CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL HAS BEEN PLANNED

The annual Christmas Festival is to take place in the college Auditorium on the evening of December 20 at 7:30. The festival has originated here and has become traditional. This year it is devoted to the theme of "The Nativity." The festival will begin with the song "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear" played by the orchestra. The song will be taken up by the intermediate children behind the scene. They will also sing "There's a Song in The Air." The "Plan Procedural" The program consists of three parts, the first being given by the training school children and the orchestra; the second being given consecutively by the various classes in the order of their enrollment; and the third a special song arranged by the orchestra. An entertainment committee has decided this year to advance a certain sum of money to each class to put on entertainment and thus help them to defray expenses.

Penn College Asks Dr. Baldwin to Talk

President Baldwin recently received a request from Pennsylvania College, to contribute to their summer school course on some aspects of rural education. W. G. Chambers, director of the college, has asked him to spend a week there sometime between July 3rd and August 3rd, to speak on the "Rural School of Tomorrow." Faculty, upon accepting the offer Dr. Baldwin was notified that he will be on the campus for the week of July 29th or August 5th.

Dr. Baldwin has given a great deal of publicity to the subject in his articles and in the Urban Cheer, the American Country Life Association Meeting on this subject. A cutting of the article will be read at the college Thursday and Friday, in the "Rural America" which appeared in the "New York Times" on the 20th of July. The article was signed "Rural Affairs." The article has appeared in the "New York Times" on the 20th of July. The article has been signed "Rural Affairs."

Dr. Baldwin's lecture dealt with the adequate finances of rural schools which is considered one of the pressing problems in the United States. He outlines in a general way the problem of school financing and the solutions which may be found in the respect in which adequate rural school financing presents special difficulties. In his article he suggests that solutions which will have to be attached and show the necessary legislation to achieve the objectives set forth as constituting adequate financing of rural schools.

Mr. Gillis and Pauline Burkhalter, one of the three teachers recommended by Mr. Burroughs are Allen McVey, Katharine Fullerton, and Pauline Burkhalter. One of these three will represent the College at Platteville, as the subject for the debate. The subject for the debate is "The Power of the Mind over the Body.

HEARD IN PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS

Mr. Burroughs: "I could run 100 yards in 12 seconds flat—flat-footed, I mean."

THERE ISN'T ANY SUCH

Pauline was trying to illustrate the meaning of the word "perseverance" to her practice class.

"What is it," she asked, "that can carry a child through rough roads and smooth roads, up hills and down, and turn the sharpest swamps and raging torrents?"

The class was silent. Then Willie, who was a fine potential car dealer, said, "There isn't such a car."

McVey: "Which travels fastest—heat or cold?"

Pupil: "Heat."

McVey: "Which travels fastest—so what?"

Pupil: "Because one can catch cold."

THE ENGLISH AS SHE IS SPOKE

We'll begin with a box, and the plural is boxes.

And the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes.

Then again, if the poet wants to keep his happy children alive across the gulf of lying still:

"When I was sick and lay a-bed, I had two pillows at my head, And all my toys beside me lay To keep me happy all the day.

And, sometimes for an hour or so I watched my leader soldiers With different uniforms and drills, Among the bed-clothes through the hills; And sometimes sent my ships in fleets All their decks down among the woods, Or brought my trees and houses out, And planted cities all about.

I was a giant great stick that sits upon the pillow-hill, And sees before him, dale and plain, The pleasant land of counterpane."

Some of the poems in the Child's Garden of Verses bring to mind the tuberculosis Christmas Seal of this year, for instance the one entitled "Where Go the Boats."

"Dark brown is the river, Golden is the sand. It flows along for ever, With trees on either hand."

And, sometimes for an hour or so I watched my leader soldiers With different uniforms and drills, Among the bed-clothes through the hills; And sometimes sent my ships in fleets All their decks down among the woods, Or brought my trees and houses out, And planted cities all about.

I was a giant great stick that sits upon the pillow-hill, And sees before him, dale and plain, The pleasant land of counterpane."

"If you can find a louse, or a whole nest of white mice, If the plural of man is always called men, Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called panes?"

The cow in the plural may be cows or bones.

But a vow if repeated is never called fine.

And if I speak of a foot, and you show me your feet,

And I give you a boot, would the pair be called feet?"

If the singular's this and the plural is those, Should the plural of kiss be nicknamed kisses?

Then one may be that and three would be those,

Yet the plural in the never been known to speak of brother and also of brethren.

But though we say mother, we never call father.

The masculine pronouns are he, his and him,

But imagine the feminine she, shes and shyn.

So the English, I think you all will agree,

Is the most wonderful language you ever did see."

Mr. O. W. Neale Is Heard At Waukesha

Mr. O. W. Neale talked at Waukesha last Wednesday. There he met Dr. and Mrs. Richardson, who are good friends of ours. Mr. Neale and Dr. Richardson taught together at Kearney, Nebraska. Dr. Richardson is now on the faculty of Carroll College.

Miss Seen To Give Health Instructions

Leaders of 4H Clubs of the County and the County Dramatic Society will meet in the auditorium at 8 o'clock. The 4H groups who are winners of preliminary contests will compete.

Students who remember the play given by the Arrast club last year in Assembly, will appreciate the opportunity of hearing such talent again. Faculty members will act as judges.

A small admission fee will be charged.

Lay Steel Columns Of School Building

Swift progress is being made on the new training school building now under construction, which has been delaying certain processes. The concrete which has arrived and pouring of the concrete was put over the foundation. The columns for the first floor were poured last week.

The choice of face brick was made on Thursday, November 22 and the contract for laying the face brick was given to Briggs Brick Co. The brick will vary in shade from rather dark red to a rich tan, with light grays between.

The crew expects to continue "pouring" over all cold weather. This is possible because of steam which will be used in pouring the concrete, and the columns have been constructed at the top of which will be fastened a large mortar vat. Attached to the vat is a long slide of pointed steel pieces which can be swung about large area. The mortar will be poured from the top of the tower, down this slide.
