Outstanding Social Event Of ’35 College Season Takes Place Tomorrow Night; Bob Malcolm’s Orchestra To Play

Kotal Speaks On Radio Hour

Last Monday’s “College Radio Hour” has been stymied by the radio public as another success. This program may concede the major part of its success to Eddie Kotal, who appeared as guest artist. Michael Zylka (noble news reporter) interviewed Coach Kotal upon the forthcoming basketball season. The new rules and regulations were discussed along with a discussion of the material for this year. When asked how he thought the team would come out this season he remarked, “Outstanding Social Event Of ’35 College Season Takes Place Tomorrow Night; Bob Malcolm’s Orchestra To Play”.

Many dance-goers take advantage of lowered prevailing rates.

Tomorrow evening guests of the Senior Class will witness the most elaborate social affair of the first semester, namely, the Senior Ball. During the past week, the decoration committee, under the direction of Russell Way, has been hard at work completing the decorations. The theme this year will be a silver spruce forest covered with myriads of variously colored Christmas tree lights.

Music By Bob Malcolm

Music for the evening will be furnished by Bob Malcolm’s eleven piece orchestra of Appleton. The orchestra is a favorite with college groups in many states as well as being a radio hit band. The reception line will form at 8:30 sharp and the following people will greet the guests: President Miss Bassler, second in line will be Barbara Fulton and Wilfred McGovern, and their partners will be the girls of the Senior Class.

The orchestra under the baton of Francis White introduced several new numbers; among these were “Rosetta” and “Santa Claus”.

Mr. Joe E. Moore, of North Carolina, “Big-Hearted Herbert” last Monday evening in the college auditorium. Bob Pollard, head of the group, played the part of “Herbert,” and although his girth did not approximate Guy Kibbe’s (in the movie of the same title), his performance was wholly as polished and entertaining. His supporting cast was excellent. The play was well attended by the college students and all who saw it were highly pleased.

Many dance-goers take advantage of lowered prevailing rates.

When Profs Gripe

The debate question, which formerly read, “Resolved that Congress should provide many cases for consideration by a two thirds majority vote five to four decisions of the Supreme Court,” has been changed to: “Resolved that Congress should have the right to override by a two thirds majority vote five to four decisions of the Supreme Court,” has been changed to: “Resolved that Congress should be permitted to over-ride by 2/3 majority vote decisions of the Supreme Court declaring laws passed by Congress unconstitutional.”

The former reading did not provide many cases for consideration.
EDITORS' NOTE:
The Pointer presents in this issue a number of excerpts from other college papers on matters of college interest. We believe that students must print second-class matter on their own local papers. If this "sympathy," so-called, meets with favor here, it will occur again from time to time. We await your verdict to do your bidding. See "Here, There, and Everywhere."
HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE

Business cycles have been attributed by some to the movements of Venus—the planet.

I stepped onto the platform among a dozen suitcases. A red- cape asked, "take your bag?"

"These," I said, "to a taxi."

He took them and hurried off. I went the other way, laughing. They weren't mine.

—J. K. McKillop.

He had been calling every night in spite of the warnings from his lady love about her irate father. This particular evening they had been cuddled together before the fireplace planning their elopement.

Only the hall clock, an ancient time piece, broke the silence. Suddenly, and, rising to his feet.

Asking the neighbors of kissing on the cheek. William Berard in practice.

Girls make so much noise because they can't help fumbling.

Phrased at the beginning of the present school year. Four students, and definitely retards their serious attitudes and mannerisms being developed.

What the Educators Are Fooling

WHAT THE EDUCATORS ARE THINKING:

Drop Tinkering—"The schools need to give more attention to teaching technique and to providing conditions which are favorable to learning," the editor observes—colleges need a moratorium on curricular tinkering—"Professor Walter Hart (Nov. 29) U. of Wis.

CRUMB-Y PUBLICATIONS:

Down at Ripon a scandal sheet, called the "Commons Crumb," has put in an appearance, causing enough commotion so that the president of the Ripon College student body wrote a denunciation of the new organ, and the editor Mr. Robert Roschid, also indicts the "dirt sheet." Excerpts from Common Crumb:

1. "And these athletes always come back home and say that they're tired from playing football... Oh, Yeah!"

2. "I just thought... wouldn't the Deans go right to turn on them with boots and spurs on, the way he dances?"

3. "So when Don Henderson appeared with boots and spurs on, the way he dances..."

FOOLY OF 'TEACHER'S OATH AGAIN EVIDENT:

Weight is added to the case for academic freedom when a professor of Harvard University, long famous for its traditions and conservatism, joins the liberal educators in their fight for freedom of thought and inquiry. Dr. Kirtland, professor of geology, and director of the Harvard summer session, has publicly announced that he will refuse to take the "teacher's oath" of allegiance to the constitutions of the state of Massachusetts and of the United States.

Dr. Mather argues that he has no objection to taking an oath of fidelity, so long as he has done service to the federal and city official. What he does not believe is, however, is the state's singing him out as a teacher and demanding that he swear allegiance.

Once again the folly of such legislation is demonstrated. Dr. Mather, professor in one of America's oldest and finest universities and a man who has served both his state and our college labels against taking the oath. On the other hand, less scrupulous individuals may swear allegiance without hesitation on the basis that the end justifies the means.

—Milwaukee Echo
Our college eagers got off on the right foot. The St. Norberts game was the first step of a long, tough schedule with no breathing. Fred had missed those shots St. Norberts might have won. But Fred didn't miss, and therein lies the tale of our first victory of the season.

The Pointers paused at Appleton for supper before the game with St. Norberts. There Don Johnston's father joined the squad and went to De Pere to watch the game. (And also to enjoy a touch of Webber's light opera vocalizing.) Don kept in close contact with his dad on the return trip. And our guess is that the old boy probably slipped Don a few spots in appreciation of his son's fine play during the game.

An old friend turned up in De Pere for the game. One that all Central State sport fans would gladly welcome back to the Point if he could be eligible once again. He is speaking of Warren Becker, probably the outstanding grid star in the history of our school, "Beck" came over to wish the old gang lots of luck. We'll never forget those 60 and 70 yard punts, those placements from different angles, those brilliant bits of broken field running, those slashing tackles. Our only regret at seeing Becker was that we couldn't bring him back to the Point as a freshman once more.

EXCITING GAME IS EXPECTED AS CAGE TEAM MAKES DEBUT

River Falls Has Fine Offensive Team, Led By Herkal, League's Leading Scorer Last Year

Central State's basketball team will make its first home appearance of the current cage season Saturday, meeting River Falls in what promises to be a sizzling ball game. This will be the Pointers' second game of the year, Kotal's men having taken a closely contested affair from St. Norberts last Thursday at De Pere. River Falls has played MacAllister college of St. Paul land St. Olaf's college. The St. Olaf game was a sensation and is expected to be the high spot of the season.

Little Audrey 'Nuff Said-

For months now, the staff of this paper has been bombarded with requests for more and worse "Little Audrey" stories. After much sleuthing, it was discovered that two Tau Gams, Ethel McDonald and Dorothy Richards, were the real source of the stories around here. And so we are printing a few of the best of them. May these be the "Little Audrey Jokes" to end "Little Audrey Jokes!"

1. Little Audrey was standing in no man's land between the Italians and Ethiopians when a great bomb fell right at her feet. But Little Audrey picked it up and laughed and laughed because she knew that Italian "Salu" wouldn't hurt her hands.

2. Little Audrey picked up the cream pitcher to put cream on her cereal. There was a drop on the nose of the pitcher and Little Audrey laughed and laughed because she knew that the cream pitcher couldn't go, "Sniff, Sniff."

3. Little Audrey, her mother, and her little brother were standing on top of the Empire building. All of a sudden Little Audrey pushed her little brother off. And then L. A. laughed and laughed because she knew he had his fall suit on.

4. L. A., her mother, and Little Ooa were walking down the street. Little Ooa kept asking L. A.'s mother to carry him, but L. A. laughed and laughed because she knew her mother couldn't.

5. L. A. and her mother were going through a newspaper plant, when all of a sudden there was a funny noise and L. A.'s mother disappeared into a great big machine. But L. A. laughed and laughed because she knew her mother wasn't the type.

6. Little Audrey came home from school and began playing in her yard. About five o'clock, her house caught on fire. When her mother came home, she was nearly distracted because she couldn't locate her husband. But L. A. just laughed and laughed because she knew he had come home at 4:00 and had gone to sleep.

7. L. A.'s teacher gave her some problems to do. When she brought them back the next day she had Mae West's name signed. The teacher asked her why, and L. A.

CLAI RE MONDAY

Stevens Point Teacher's college eage team will make its second trip of the season. The Pointer's travel north to battle Coach Zorn's Eau Claire Teacher's team Monday evening. Eau Claire has played one game to date, soundly trouncing Concordia Junior college of St. Paul, 43 to 32. Zorn's boys will play Augustus morrow night.

Eau Claire Has Six Veterans
Eau Claire has a total of six lettermen back from last year's ball club. Pat Held, third high scorer in the Northern division of the conference last year with 80 points, is captain of the team. Among the other lettermen returning for action are Behn and Fiance, forwards. Last season Stevens Point played Eau Claire here and the Pointers were victorious, 32 to 16. Incidentally Tomaszek led his team in scoring that night with seven points. Zorn's team has shown considerable improvement over last year's squad, and is hoping to finish high in the conference race.

God Bless The Women... There's no getting along with 'em... or without 'em...
--Lord Chesterfield.

Why is it, if they do, that women close their eyes when being kissed?

Marie Odegard:

Women close their eyes because they are imagining, in their mind, an ideal that they would like to be kissing; an ideal which is the object of their affection.

Art Hemmy:

The only thing I can see is that the last boy friend's kiss was nice that the last boy friend's kiss was small. All the experience in this line is small. All the experience I have had has struck me in this way. They all act the same.

Dorothy Richards says that the girls close their eyes so they don't have to see how the men suffer.

Jack (Gasanova) Burroughs:

That gets me is that when you take a girl out from the dorm for the first time and take her home again, she stands there with a prune look on her face and is dissatisfied if you don't do anything. They close their eyes and anticipate what is coming.

Nan Turtish: Some girls close their eyes because it gets to be a habit with 'em. Others may do it to get greater enjoyment.

Joe Indian:

Well, as Will Rogers said "all I know is what I read in the papers," so I haven't any first-hand information. However, it does get about that they do it to shut out the effect of the close-up. Also, you'd be surprised how many fellows do it for the same reason.

Francis White:

They close their eyes because my moustache tickles them.

Dorothy Mullarkey:

I close my eyes because it's the natural thing to do.

Arba Shorey:

The reasons are two in number: The first half of the evening they close their eyes because it's so nice and they want more. The last half of the evening they close their eyes because they are all tired out.

Walt Hodson:

I guess the reason is only this: that my close proximity simply puts them to sleep.

Helen Blake:

If you had to look at what we have to look at, you would too. In the first place I don't close 'em.
