'35 ALUMNI PROGRAM HONORS SPINDLER

Central State Alumni—Faculty
Pay Tributes To Late
Instructor

In the English Room, Hotel Schroeder, Milwaukee, on Thursday Nov. 7, at noon was held the annual get-together of the alumni of C. S. T. C. It was one of the largest gatherings of the alumni for several years. Many old and many recent graduates were in attendance.

The program was in memory of Professor Frank Nicholas Spindler, a much beloved instructor of Central State for more than thirty-four years.

President Hyer Speaks

Celestine Neusse, president of the alumni association, cordially welcomed the guests, and the members. He then called upon President Hyer to tell those in the field of the progress C. S. T. C. has made and is making. President Hyer briefly spoke of the advance the college is making, and of what he hopes for it in the next few years.

Mr. Neusse then asked Mrs. Mary D. Bradford of Kenosha, who was one of the members of the original faculty of Central State, and co-worker with Mr. Spindler, to speak. Mrs. Bradford told of her pleasant associations with Mr. Spindler and ranked him high as a friend and instructor.

President Neusse introduced Mr. E. T. Smith who gave the address in memory of Professor Spindler, the Student, the Man, the Teacher. Mr. Smith, in his usual apt manner of speech, said all that was genuine and true of our friend, instructor and co-worker, Frank Nicholas Spindler.

Change College Radio Program

Last Monday's "College Radio Hour" completed the series of "Amateur Contests" with the presentation of the finals. On the November fourth program, some technical difficulties caused a slight disruption in the plans for the final contest which was scheduled for that date, the result being two final contests, a winner selected from each. The two winners are to receive a cash award with an invitation to appear on a special program. The date will appear later.

The winner, as selected by the Central State Band Concert Occurs This Evening In College Auditorium; Splendid Program Arranged

TONIGHT'S MUSICAL MENU HAS MANY CONCERT GEMS

The College Concert Band, under the direction of Professor Peter J. Michelsen, will give its annual fall concert in the auditorium this evening, Thursday, Nov. 14, beginning at eight o'clock.

This is the band's first formal appearance this year. Much time has been devoted to work on the numbers on the program. Those taking part in the special solos, trios, etc., have worked hard to make their presentations as nearly perfect as possible; and the program has been selected to suit a great variety of listeners. The performance this evening should be of greatest value, not only to those who are interested in technique, tone quality, and interpretation, but also to those who are only seeking highly interesting and enjoyable entertainment.

Prices have been set at fifteen cents for students, and twenty-five for adults.

Mr. Glover Honorary Phi Sig

At the recent formal initiation and banquet Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity took into its fold Dr. Wilbur Glover, B. A., M. A., Ph. D., of the local faculty, as an honorary member.

Since his coming to C. S. T. C. Dr. Glover has been in close contact with all the members of the fraternity and has participated in many of the group's social affairs.

Dr. Glover received his B. A. from Milton College and his M. A. and Ph. D. from the University of Wisconsin. During his undergraduate college days Dr. Glover participated in many sports and was an excellent debater. His invaluable coaching pointed the Janesville High School debate team to several state championships.

FOUR YEARS AGO SAW INCEPTION OF COLLEGE BAND

The present musical administration, especially considering the band, began four years ago with the coming of Professor Peter J. Michelsen to Central State. At that time, in the fall of 1931, Professor Michelsen immediately began the organization of a band. Thirty members responded to his call that first year, and during the course of the season, the group entertained well at various events about school. In addition, there was a one day trip through the northern part of the state.

The second year, the membership grew to thirty-five. A trip was taken to Milwaukee, where the band played at the State Forensic Contest.

In 1933-34, the third year, the membership rose to fifty-four, with still others wishing to play who were kept out by tryouts. In the spring of '34, on the day of the terrible sand-storm, the band made a trip through south-central Wisconsin. During the third year, through the financial support of the administration of the college and of interested business men, the band was also enabled to purchase new uniforms — those which they now have.

Last year, the membership reached seventy-five. However, only sixty persons were taken on the annual spring trip, during which tour the band played at many points in the southern half of the state.

The present membership of the organization is sixty-one. However, more than one hundred have tried out. The excellence of the group is undoubtedly due to this careful selection. Mr. Michelsen has as his goal a complete symphonic concert band of seventy-two members.

The Phi Sigs are indeed proud of their new brother along with their other honorary members, Coach Kotal and Mr. Schmeekle.

Pledges "Hell" At An End

After many long weeks of trial and tribulations, those lowest of the low, the Greek pledges, have finally been elevated to the status of human beings again. Gone are those hang dog expressions, that woe-begone, no-body-loves-me attitude! Gone are those pale, wan faces, those straggling locks, and the misplaced articles of wearing apparel! No longer is it "get thee gone, dog," or "C'mere you, and have my pants pressed and shoes polished before to-morrow." It's "hi, brother," and "hi sister, howza kid!"

The last Monday night before vacation climaxed the career of the pledge, when rough initiation taxed their physical and mental powers of endurance. Many tumfies were a bit weak and many feet were tired and aching, but all the worthies came thru with colors flying and showed that they really could "Take it."

Now we're all pals together—although some of the former pledges can't realize it, yet, some of them tend to sneak around the corner when they meet an active, or get that honest-I-didn't-do-anything attitude. Well, it's all over now, you initiates, and think what a grand time you're going to have with the next batch that comes along—poor things.

Ibsen's Play To Be Re-created Mon.

Next Monday evening, the eighteenth of November, one of Norway's most famous contributions to the legitimate stage appears before us, recreating, in all its freshness, one of Ibsen's famous tragedies, Ghosts. She recreates Ibsen by knowing how to wear the tragic mask his plays require. As Mrs. Alving in Ghosts, she joins the gallery of all women of all time who rebel—each in her own way—against the tyrannies of life that would rob them of love and happiness. Borgny Hammer, as her critics point out, stirring catches Mrs. Alving's outcry of hope, anguish and despair.

The play is one of Ibsen's finest, is a tragedy, and though tragic, it sparkles with humor, brilliant flashes of irony, and wit.

SPORTITORIAL

No one will dispute that supervised athletics are desirable for all persons of college age. Any movement that can bring about a greater influx of college students into athletic fields deserves not only the recognition of the sport, but a general down-the-line support of its continuance.

For the past several years students by reason of ability and interest have managed our boxing squads. These men deserve a lot of credit, even if their methods were not organized... at least there was furnished an opportunity for these boys to take part in a skill which not only demands, but which, by the very nature of its training, perfects coordination of the highest degree and contributes a rather large quota to what Teddy Roosevelt used to call "the more abundant life."

Debaters Meet At 4 Today

The second debate meeting of the current season was held Monday, November 4, in Mr. Steiner's room. Mr. Steiner had charge of the meeting, in which he spoke on the workings of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Burroughs is planning the third meeting for discussion this afternoon in room 221 at four o'clock. A faculty member will again take charge and

BOXING NEEDS SUPPORT

At the present time the college has an opportunity of placing a much needed impetus behind our boxing men. The writer was interested in noting that a great part of our boxing material consist of lower classmen, who, in a year or two, should go places. Though the untiring efforts of Professor Jenkins, who, without added financial remuneration is lending himself as instructor to the men, the squad is able to follow a prescribed training routine.

Now then, all the boys need is a place to practice. They ought not be denied this. It is our understanding that a space can be provided for them underneath the ground level of the Training School, the project requiring a small outlay of labor and cash. Can anyone think of a better way to invest the money?

continue the discussion of the question of the powers of the Supreme Court. All debaters, both men and women, must be present.

All debaters are requested to bring questions to the meeting. Since the earlier debate meetings are conducted on the discussion plan, it is imperative that students bring questions for discussion.

St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota has asked the local heads for a debate to be held on January 6. If the local team can possibly make arrangements for that date, St. Olaf's will be added to the schedule.

WISCONSIN EDUCATION ASSOCIATION HAS RECORD BREAKING ATTENDANCE; ELECTIONS — SPEECHES A FEATURE

(By Mae Roach)

The Wisconsin Education Association, eighty-two years old this year, had the largest attendance in its history at its annual conference last week, more than ten thousand being present. Many could not gain admittance to the Arena of the Milwaukee Auditorium and were accommodated in smaller rooms equipped with loud speakers.

The representative assembly met on Wednesday night to transact the business of the organization. Miss Colman represented our college faculty. Miss Jelineck was elected president for the coming year. She is a teacher of a fifth grade in one of the elementary schools of Milwaukee and president of the Milwaukee Teachers Association. She was introduced to the conference Friday morning by Pres. E. J. McKean, Superintendent of the Tomah schools. Her poise, humor, and decisive manner indicated that the selection had been well made.

General sessions were held during the forenoons. Breakfasts, luncheons, dinners and afternoon sessions provided opportunities for small groups in special fields to get together to discuss their particular problems.

Nationally Known Speakers

G. Bromley Oxnam, President of De Pauw University, in the first address of the conference asserted that the preservation of democracy depends upon increasing the percentage of the population who have culture after he had given a discussion of what is meant by culture.

Whiting Williams of Cleveland, Ohio, the man who has lived with the laborers as one of them in order to learn their view point, said in his estimation the great threat to democracy is what he terms "partitionitis" or the chasm that exists between people in various walks of life.

Charles H. Judd of the University of Chicago made a plea for the retaining of all that has proved its worth in the school curricula while he welcomed the progressive element which makes it necessary for the conservative to cull out the worthless.

Governor Speaks

Governor Philip La Follette was the second speaker on the program Friday morning. At the close of a splendid address he paid an eloquent tribute to the Wisconsin Education Association which he felt had done more unselfish work to bring about helpful legislation during the past legislative term than any other group.

On Saturday morning Eleanor Roland Wembridge of the Cleveland Juvenile Court in an address entitled "After Twenty Years with Adolescents in College and in Court" gave as one of the major reasons for youth delinquency the fact that society sets up a code designed for the average and super-average with little thought for that large group below average.

An outstanding contribution to the main program was given by Josh Lee, U. S. Senator from Oklahoma, who concluded the conference with his masterful plea, "Keep America Out of War". With a fine piece of oratory which soon gained and held the attention of his audience, with a definite plan for approaching the goal he set up, and with a sincerity which came from first-hand knowledge of that upon which he spoke, he surely earned the prolonged applause of an audience that seemed loathe to have him finish.

"Journey's End" Pleases Crowd

(By First Nighter)

Professor Leland M. Burroughs' dramatics class presented "Journey's End", R. C. Sherriff's prize-winning war play, to a well-filled house as the climax of the local Armistice Day celebration on Monday evening at the College Auditorium.

The play, all scenes from which are laid in a dug-out close to the front line trenches of world war days, portrayed with grim reality the emotional stress under which the combatants labored, and the differing mental reactions produced in the individual, according to his personal make-up.

Details Help Production

The production was directed by Leland M. Burroughs, aided by Professor Evans as make-up chief, with Professor Jenkins in charge of special highly effective lighting effects. The realistic dug-out scenes were the art work of Jack Burroughs; the stage properties and the sound effects were superintended by Robert Vennie. The work of this production department added a great deal to the characterizations and lines.

The college orchestra, with conductor Peter J. Michelson wielding the baton, interpolated the acts with selected orchestrations.

Cast Excellent

Tom Benson, as Captain Stanhope, English pre-war athletic idol of his sweetheart's brother, Lieutenant Raleigh, idealistic, typically English youth, gave a convincing portrayal of a man ever desperately conscious of the unwholesome (to him) changes wrought in him by the war, and his fight to overcome his inner fears and the fear that his sweetheart in England will find out his changed and "hard boiled" war character.

His problem becomes an acute one when Lieutenant Raleigh joins his company, and becomes a co-partner of the dug-out. The families of the two men had been friendly in England, and through school days, which had ended three years prior to their re-union in

Omega Mu Chi Initiates

The OMEGA MU CHI held their formal initiation last Tuesday, at Hotel Whiting, followed by a dinner at 6:30.

The new "Omegas" are Jean Redeman of Fremont, Gene Connor of Auburndale, Joana Walker, Almond, and Beulah Turinski, Tomahawk.

Tau Gamma Beta Initiates

TAU GAMMA BETA formally admitted four girls to their sorority Tuesday night, at Hotel Whiting. Following the initiation services, a banquet was given at 6:30 in the club dining room.

Those taking the oath were: Dorothy Mullarkey, Bear Creek, Blanche Bader, Stevens Point, Margaret Mollen, Port Edwards, and Magdalen Koss, Stevens Point.

Mrs. E. T. Smith, Miss Jessie Jones, and Miss Margaret Blake were special guests of the evening.

Phi Sigs Formal Initiation

PHI SIGMA EPSILON fraternity formally initiated its pledges last Tuesday night at the fraternity house. The initiation services were held at 6:00, and a banquet followed at 7:00. The new members are: Deane Gordon, Stevens Point; Samuel Winch, Marshfield; Alvin Carmody, Egg Harbor; Edgar Kreilkamp, Mosinee; and Benjamin Laskewitsch, Goodrich, North Dakota.

Chi Delts Formal Initiation

Nine men were formally initiated into CHI DELTA RHO fraternity, at the special services and banquet held at the Gingham Tea Room, Tuesday, November 12.

The initiates are: William Schmeling, of Wausau, Ralph Hubbard of Gillette, John Maier of Medford, Mark Schneider of Independence, Jesse Caskey of Phelps, Oscar Copes of Tomahawk, and Ralph Anderson and Edward Duggan of Stevens Point, George Simonson, of Wausau.

And to top off all this pomp and ceremony, the four Greek letter organizations got-together and gave a dance in the new gymnasium following the initiations and banquets. It was a fitting way to welcome the new members, and show them that their former masters were really human.

The Castilians played for dancing, which was enjoyed from 8:30 to 11:30.

'Tune In' Soon

With the final staging of Tune In not so far in the future, practices are in full swing. The past week has been spent in practices of the joint choruses and very soon the cast and chorus will begin work together. Everything is progressing in fine style and the prospects for a very enjoyable and successful operetta are good. With the musical organizations cooperating in every way possible and expending their energy to make the opera a success, the college should get behind it and push, too. With the cooperation of all, this school can produce and present something big.

Girls! Here's Your Chance

It doesn't happen very often so make the most of it! Ask him to the Omega Mu Chi Sorority informal dance, Saturday, November 16, in the new gymnasium. Dancing will commence at 8:30 and continue until 12. And girls, it certainly will be worth the 75 cents required for admission. Ernie Gall and his popular Madison orchestra will furnish the music.

Milwaukee Meet Draws 'Home Ecs'

Central State Teachers' College was well represented at the meeting of the Home Economics group at the State Teacher's Convention at Milwaukee. The local club had a larger delegation than any other college in the state, having ten representatives present.

On Thursday afternoon the girls were guests of the state high school home economics clubs at a meeting held in the vocational school, where an interesting program was given. Representatives from Milwaukee-Downer, Mount Mary, the University of Wisconsin, and Stout Institute were also present.

Local Delegation Attends

The local delegation was composed of Barbara Fulton, Anita McVey, Fay Yerke, Adele Houle, Helen Piehl, Evelyn Warekofs, Genevieve Skutley, Alberta Veedler, Lorraine Guell and Martin Minton.

BASKETBALL UNDER FULL SWAY

KOTALMEN DEFEND TITLE WITH BUT THREE VETERANS

Nine Games Of Schedule Are To Be Played On Foreign Courts

About thirty five hopeful prospects have reported for basketball practice. The opening days of cage drill are being spent in developing the fundamentals of the game, such as passing, pivoting, dribbling, and shooting. At the present time the candidates for this year's team look only fair.

Ecky, Collins Among Missing

Earl Eckerson, star forward of last year's championship team, and John Collins, alternate center and forward, have failed to return to school this fall. Their absence, coupled with the graduation of "Jug" Marsh and Guy Krumm, has left a big job on Kotal's hands if he can hope to successfully defend last year's title.

Nimz, Lindow Will Help

Only three members of last year's champs remain as a nucleus around which Coach Kotal will mold this season's ball club. Those returning are Don Johnston, guard, and Don Unferth and Chet Rinka, forwards. Big Freddie Nimz, of Wausau, and Tommy Lindow, former member of Oshkosh State Teachers College team, have reported for practice. These two men may prove extremely valuable fellows to have around when the going gets tough this year.

Open With Difficult Trip

A tough fourteen game schedule has been drawn up. Nine of these tilts are to be played on foreign floors. Stevens Point opens its cage season on the 12th of December, at Eau Claire, after which the Pointers move to Duluth and Superior on successive nights to complete a three day northern trip. The first home game will be on December 18, with St. Norberts furnishing the opposition. It is hoped that games with Carroll College and River Falls can also be added to the schedule.

Milwaukee To Be Tough

It is rather early to hazard any guesses about the coming cage season. Yet it seems as though the Pointers will present a fairly strong team if a few capable reserves can be developed. Dependable replacements are essential in basketball, especially in our conference. This is evidenced by the fact that on more than one occasion last year two or three Point regulars were forced out of the game via the four foul route, only to have the replacements come through in splendid style. My pre-season guess is that Milwaukee and Platteville are the teams to beat if the Pointers are to finish on top. Oshkosh and Whitewater are the dark horses of the league of whom one may expect most anything.

SPORTS SHOTS

Oshkosh vs. Superior?

It is interesting to note the similarity of the football records of Oshkosh and Superior, champions of their respective divisions of the conference. The two teams were victorious in each of their four league games. The Oshkosh defense was dented for only 13 points. Superior also allowed the opposition but one touchdown in those four triumphs. The Yellow-jackets piled up forty-nine points while the Sawdusters were showing across fifty two tallies. Evidently a post season game between these ball clubs would be a natural.

Can't Keep Point Out

Incidentally we trust the rest of the conference will not object too severely if I bring out an interesting fact about Stevens Point's football team. Although the Pointers are credited with no victories and four defeats, statistics show that Kotal's team led the league in defensive play. The score of a forfeited game is 1 to 0, and not 2 to 0 as several writers seem to think. Therefore the Pointers had but four points scored against them in four games—a truly remarkable record which was good enough to lead the conference in that department of play.

What's The Answer?

Here is a brain teaser for you fans who know your football. What is the longest run ever made in a football game on record? Watch this column next week for the answer.

How They Look Saturday

After a week's layoff, which was probably quite fortunate for us, we are back with our forecasts on this Saturday's leading gridiron tilts. Our seasons average to date is 60 right, 22 wrong, and 5 ties, for a percentage of .731.

South Division Title To Oshkosh

Oshkosh proved the better ball club in the rain and mud last Saturday, and defeated Milwaukee in the latter's homecoming game, 6 to 0. The victory gave Oshkosh the undisputed championship of the southern division. A break enabled Kolf's men to score midway in the third period. Al Burns, Milwaukee fullback, fumbled and Frabrycke, Oshkosh left tackle, recovered the loose pigskin on Milwaukee's 30 yard line. On fourth down Swiston passed to Lautenslager, who scooted ten yards for the lone tally of the game. A Milwaukee victory would have resulted in a three way tie for the title. The Superior Yellow-jackets won the championship of the northern division. The final standings:

Must Run In The Family?

During the past few weeks many people have perhaps been wondering why three of the men students have developed such swollen upper portions (commonly called chests).

If you are doubtful in the least as to who these students are, let it be known to all concerned that the proud fellow college students are none other than "Mickey" McGuire, Francis Bremmer, and Bronislaus Slotwinski.

Why are they proud? No, it's nothing they did, but rather what their ball-tooting, line-smashing, bone-crushing younger brothers did to help bring the conference championship to the local high school. Those young stars are being called everything from Herber to Michalski but to their respective brothers they're known at Tim, Donald, and Edwin, center, half-back, fullback, respectively, of the '35 valley champs—Stevens Point High School.

If you had a young brother of the fame of these high school gridders, wouldn't you be proud too? Ya betcha! Try to tolerate the attitudes of Mickey McGuire, Francis Bremmer, and Bruno Slotwinski for another week and perhaps they'll get over it.

Education Body Studies Small High Schools

The state educational body formed for the purpose of studying the curricula, personnel, and problems of the smaller high schools in this state met last Friday in Milwaukee during the meeting of the Wisconsin Education Association.

"This project has been undertaken," said Professor Smith, who is a member of the special committee along with Professors Kolp and Ragsdale of the University of Wisconsin, "in order to secure accurate information on the conditions of small high schools, the demands on them, curricula, personnel, and finance." Problems such as the percentage of persons annually graduating and the after-school occupation with college will also fall under the scope of the investigation. The investigations will be carried on with each of the six members of the committee making investigations, which will be attended to personally, not on a mailed questionnaire basis.

It is expected that the state legislature will be interested in the findings of this committee, according to information in some quarters.

Last week Monday, the "Sophs" and the "Frosh" of Miss Richardson's gym classes played a Speed Ball game. The score remained 0 to 0 until the end of the game, but it was reported that a good time was had by all.

The first set of games in volley ball between the city and dorm teams was played off last Tuesday. The scores of the games were as follows:

Won	Lost
City15	Dorm 6
Dorm15	City 7
Dorm15	City 5
City15	Dorm14
Dorm15	City13

To win the tournament, two games must be taken in succession. The games now stand 3 games for the Dorm team and 2 games for the city team. The deciding games will be played off this week.

All girls who have been out for Hockey practices and wish to play in the tournament, sign up on the Game Room Bulletin Board.

"Journey's End" Pleases Crowd

the trenches, there had formed a mutual affection between them. Captain Stanhope determines to bring on Raleigh's disillusionment as soon as possible, and to this end is unnecessarily harsh to Raleigh, realistically portrayed by Roy Peterson, in a role that caught the sympathies of the audience.

Lieutenant Osborn, a sympathetic and warmly human interpretation by Joe Pfiffner, as the former English school master, and a mature "balance-wheel" of the various personalities of the dug-out, develops a thoroughly likeable type as the second in command, and one who meets a tragic end as the raiding party companion of young Lieutenant Raleigh, who is so thoroughly shocked by his association with the death of Lieutenant Osborn, that he takes Stanhope's seeming callousness for indifference to his friend's death, which leads to one of the climactic scenes of the play, when Raleigh accuses Stanhope of indifference and the latter discloses in an emotional "blow-up" his really strong inner grief over the loss.

The death of "Jimmie," as Lieutenant Raleigh is intimately known to Captain Stanhope, proves a crushing blow to Stanhope in one of the sadder moments of the production. The play ends as a typical tragedy with the death of the main characters accomplished. Harold Dent, in a difficult role as a cowardly lieutenant who found himself, was excellent. Erwin Westfal as the nonchalant, never-changing 2nd Lieutenant Trotter, was a fine characterization, as were all of the well-casted members of the venture. Donald Vaughn raised the most laughs as the cockney cook, helping to furnish the humor necessary to lighten the general sad tone of the play. His mannerisms and voice inflection were typical of the lower class cockney.

Mr. Burroughs, the members of the production staff, and the principals of the staff are to be congratulated. The play was timely in more ways than one in the present day, and the class of the performance indicates that more plays of the well-known "hit" variety will find the necessary talent to accompany them whenever more plays are launched at Central State.

The things brought to mind by the recent observance of Armistice Day leaves one wondering if we are keeping faith with those the day is meant to honor? Is it not a day to rededicate ourselves to fight for the things for which they died? Is there something wrong with a people who will protest the spending of the public's money for charity and in the next breath howl for huge expenditures for increased military preparations? Here are some comments by thinking Americans.

The way to peace is not through armies and navies. You do not guard against hydrophobia by raising dogs on a large scale.

The world has now learned that the dogs of war are not a howling success.

Very few men of military age are opposed to the league plan.

Of course, the gentlemen who are opposing disarmament wouldn't have to fight in the next war, anyway.

We might get better results by paying diplomats on a peace work basis.

Disarmament by agreement would be better than disagreement by armament, as in the past.

Armament is a luxury which makes war a necessity.

There isn't room in the same world for friendships and battleships.

Disarmament will cure Mother Earth of shooting pains. Its strongest point is that nations that arm to the teeth always show them.

For navies it's the scrap heap or a heap scrap.

You can't expect the dove of peace to settle down while the riveters keep up such a din on new battleships.

If they can have peace in Ireland there is no reason why the whole world can't have it.

Canada and the U. S. found the right armament ratio a hundred years ago: 0-0

Boiled down, the question is whether we shall scrap our own battleships or the other fellow's.

The "highest honor" that could be paid to the unknown soldiers, we suggest, would be not to have any more of them in the future.

Nothing finer has come out of war than this line from an epitaph in a British graveyard in France: "For your to-morrow they gave their today."
