Closing the program were the impressive "Columbian Overture" by Buxteh, and "The Star Spangled Banner", which were sung by the Girls' Glee Club, directed by Leota Brandt.

Our Students Speak!

In answer to the question, "What do you, as a future draftee, think of the one year's military training?" these statements were given by some of the college students:

"I feel that it can be considered a part of the social debt which every youth owes society."

Anthony Schwartz

"I am opposed to it on these counts: qualified—
1. It smacks of Hitlerism.
2. It is a forerunner to active service in foreign wars. If it were based on age groups I might favor it for high school graduates."

E. R. Lightbody

"I think that a year of military training would do me or any other young, red-blooded American a lot of good. Frankly speaking, I am looking forward to a year in camp. I am very much in favor of it."

Joe Kalina

"I think it is the best thing that ever happened in this country."

Jack Vincent

"One year of military training is desirable if it is given before the young man settles down to a permanent job. I would support one year of service between the ages of 18 and 21."

Phil Anderson

"I think that one year's service in the army is completely undesirable. In the first place it is a great deal of disruption in the daily life of too many people. Furthermore, I don't think that any peace time army need be conscripted because if the army has anything to offer they will receive enough volunteers to fill the quota. It is a war policy leading to Dictatorship and therefore is not desirable."

Don Kordus

"In my opinion, one year's military training spoils the plans of young fellows and should not be compulsory. If there is a need for young fellows see it, they will volunteer."

Roy Arndt

"I am a conscientious objector."

D. Leton

"I do not believe in conscription because it is against all the principles upon which our democracy was founded."

"John Doe" Sanborn

"I believe that conscription is the best answer to our present world conditions."

Price for the correct answer to this one is the original copy of the manuscript for Doc Kiladis' column in the last home coming issue. My watch is 10 minutes slow and I think it is 5 minutes fast. Your watch is five minutes fast and you think it is 10 minutes slow. We plan to catch a train that leaves at 4 o'clock. Who gets there first?

I'll have to cut this off in a hurry in order to catch the deadline. I thought this one sounded good when I read it: WPA executive: "If we don't figure out a way to spend one hundred and twenty million dollars, we lose our job.

Secretary: "How about a bridge over the Mississippi—longerwise?"

See you next week.

 SWORDS POINTS **

by SHERMAN SWORD

All by myself, people, I figured out that 7 divided by 7 equals one plus 7 equals 8 time 7 equals 56. I should send that to my mother right away. She fired them all out at me last week and I think they sound more than a little sarcastic.

A. Columnist is one who knows more and less and less until he knows practically everything about nothing.

B. Columnist is one who knows less and less about more and more until he knows practically nothing about everything.

Then and now. . . . It just occurred to me that about 18 months ago our Governor Heil stood publicly in a place it creates a great deal of disruption in the daily life of too many people. Furthermore, I don't think that any peace time army need be conscripted because if the army has anything to offer they will receive enough volunteers to fill the quota. It is a war policy leading to Dictatorship and therefore is not desirable.

In a lighter vein. . . . A guest at the Nicollet Hotel in Minneapolis telephoned down the other morning to ask if they had AC or DC current in the hotel. The elevator girl said, "Just a minute, and I'll see." In a few seconds she came back, "I'm sorry, but neither one is registered." . . . . . . .

Another "drunk" story: Two drunks got a room in a hotel. After much trouble were proceeded in putting their clothes off and getting to bed. The first drunk said to the other, "There's some one in bed with me."

"There's some one in my bed, too," said the second.

"Let's kick 'em out," suggested the first.

"OK?" replied the second.

Then both drunks commenced to kick and scuffle, and the first drunk kicked the second one out of bed.

"Hey!" said the first, "I kicked him out."

The second one said in mournful tones, "I wasn't so lucky, I got kicked out."

"That's aw right," said the first drunk, "You can come and sleep with me."

Be Convinced.

Some students here do not say the word because they are afraid to give voice to their opinions. This may sound a bit far fetched and a way out of the line of ordinary reasoning, but instances of suppressed thoughts and writings because of fear have become quite common these days. Some students here do not say what they think because they want jobs, and are afraid if they speak up, their chances will be lessened. Others are on the good side of the powers that be and do not want to disturb these nice relationships even though they know that something is wrong. The other day just such an instance happened and the fellow who knows the details refuses to talk because he is slated to graduate and is looking for a job.

This is an odd kind of an American. These things are foreign to our way of life. Must they continue to exist? Are these fears justified or are they imaginary? If they are justified, then we as Americans have little to be proud of or to boast about in our country. If these fears are not justified, but more or less groundless, how are we to show that the words that writers and talkers have no fear? That is a real problem in American—let us find a way too solve it.

Collaboration Corner

Hello, folks... this is Jerry talking. Due to the illness of Glendy I shall attempt to carry on for the sake of dear old “Collaboration.” Since this is no column for advice to the lovelorn all that can be done is to tell you about Jim Unger instead of giving him advice. I didn’t say that he had advice for the lovelorn but that he was looking for advice for the lovelorn. Can it mean, Jim, that you are frustrated?

Someone reported that Professors Faust and Winsor left the College Club Saturday night with Larson and G. Rademacher, entered Faust’s car and headed for town in a burst of speed... Does it arouse any curiosity? For some of those fellows leaving for army camps in July, it’ll be pledge all over again—yes, Sir, no, Sir!—etc., but for a year this time—no short five or six weeks.

Predictions are that this draftee period before us college fellows, especially the seniors, will throw a monkey-wrench in the job placements. Other school papers have stated the same sentiment. Seems too bad after spending four years of study in anticipation of a job.

Here are a few daffodil gleeled from the Carroll Echo... A recession is a period in which you tighten your belt; a depression is a time in which you have no belt to tighten. When you have no pants to hold up, it is a panic.

Here’s a last minute flash on the Omega style show (it took place Monday). Orian Madsen was especially attractive in a white formal which she modeled... heard some very complimentary remarks about her poise etc. The line forms to the right, fellows.

Attention students—don’t forget to attend the Girl’s Glee Club Concert tomorrow night. It promises to be a splendid program.

Harold Jawant has finally run out of those phone numbers—it seems that the girls have conference notebooks etc. to do. Remember, girls, that they one shouldn’t let studies interfere with one’s education.

What do you girls think of this little ditty taken from the Royal Purple?

“If I were a kangaroo despite it’s funny stance

I would have a place to put the jank my girl binds me at dances.”

Well, this wave of news (?) has finally spent itself and the previously disturbed and turbulent mind has returned to it’s cranial bed. Hence, what would be more appropriate than the THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: The only thing worse than being talked about is not being talked about—Oscar Wilde.
