BASKETBALL SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED BY COACH

Although there will be no official basketball conference this year, many colleges, CSTC included, have planned games. Coach George R. Berg has released the following schedule of games to be played by the college basketball team:

November 9 — St. Norbert, here; December 6 — St. Norbert, here; December 15 — Milwaukee, there; January 12 — Eau Claire, here; January 20 — Milwaukee, here; January 27 — Eau Claire, there.

Arrangements are under way to schedule two games each with Whitewater and Oskosh. One of the two games will be played here and the other there.

All men on the CSTC team are members of the Freshman class. The men and their respective playing positions are:
- Elmer T. Anderson, F-G; Bob Cashin, F-G; Jack Jenkins, F;
- Matt Martens, G; William Mellin, F; George Prihoda, G; Donald Vetter, F-C;
- Bernard Mozuch, G; Helen Peterson; Center, Vetter; Guard, Peterson.

The probable starting lineup for the game at St. Norbert’s, November 15, according to Coach Berg will include: Forward, Cashin; Forward, Peterson; Center, Vetter; Guard, Martens. This will be the first game of the season for each team and should provide a good test of strengths.

On Friday, November 10, the college team scrimmaged with the Wittenberg High School team in the Training school. The final score was 33-29 in favor of the CSTC men. Prihoda was high man for the victors with 18 points and Behnke paced the losers with nine points.

DQ Notice:

There will be an important Senior class meeting in the auditorium on assembly on Thursday, November 16, for the purpose of preparing college activity sheets for the IRIS.

District Play Contest To Be Held Here

A district one-act play contest will be held in the college auditorium in the morning and afternoon of Friday, November 17. Dr. Warren G. Jenkins will be the critic-judge.

About five high school leagues will compete for the title of district champion. The winner of this contest will compete at the regional contest which will be held here later in the year.

College students who are interested are asked to attend these plays.

A list of the schools competing in this contest will be posted on Leland M. Burroughs bulletin board.

Student Production Will Be Presented

“The Helen’s Husband,” an all-student production, will be presented at an assembly tomorrow, November 16, at 10 a.m.

Marjorie Stimm and Dick O’Keefe are the co-directors of the play. Dick O’Keefe is also the produce manager, and Roger McCullum is the stage manager.

In charge of the properties are Doris Johnson, Dolores Jelinek, and Joyce Proctor. In charge of makeup are Alice Ruth Johnson, Ellen Gordon, and Doris Ubelhode. In stage hands are Edythe Olsson, Gertrude Heike, and Max Kophcinski.

The cast, as announced in last week’s POINTER is: Helena, Dorothy Jenkins; Menelaus, Le Roy Plunkett; Paris, Bob Cashin; Analy- school, John Postkock; and Tsum, Betty Pohlsman.

Dolores Cowles and Joan Joosten will sing a few duets before the play begins. Mary Ann Hotvedt will accompany them on the piano.

NOTICE

There will be no Pointer next week because classes will be dismissed at noon on Wednesday, November 22, for Thanksgiving vacation.

National Book Week Is Being Observed

The better world of the Four Freedoms must be built from the ground up, leaders of National Book Week, November 12-18, feel.

In sponsoring this year’s theme “United Through Books” they are featuring children’s books which will build a solid foundation of understanding among children of all nations. Books are the open doors to the knowledge and understanding on which alone freedom and democracy can endure.

This year is the 200th anniversary of the publication of the first book for children — the “Little Pretty Pocket Book,” issued by John Newbery in England in 1744.

Working with the special emphasis on children’s books, the library staff of CSTC has prepared a colorful exhibit of books at the Training school. The bright covers and fine illustrations of these books are incentive enough to make even the adults skim through them.

A number of books have also been purchased by the Rural Demonstration school.

Because of wartime restrictions on materials and transportation, Nelis R. Kempkens, college librarian, feels that the majority of new books for the college will not be bought for Book Week.

The librarians are, however, planning to have a Book Fair later in November.

Thanksgiving Greetings!

Miss Allen, Students Visit High Schools

Miss Bessie May Allen recently took four senior Home Economics girls on another trip to see Home Economics departments in high schools. The girls who accompanied her on Thursday and Friday, October 26 and 27, were Martha Hulama, Dolores Rondeau, Glenna Johnson, and Helen Lundgren.

Last year’s graduates who were visited were Edna Clark at Alma Center, Blanche Padur at Dixon, Mary Hebron at Melrose, and Meredith Myers at Abbotsford. Other girls included in this trip were Independence, Eau Claire, Cadott, Owen, and Colby. Future trips are being planned by Miss Allen.

Andy and Eva Find Students Friendly

“We like CSTC’s student body very much,” exclaimed Andrew Payzer and his niece Eva Broviak, who bought the College Eat Shop recently. “Andy and Eva,” as they like to be called, have often dealt with young people, but have never met students of so fine a caliber before. (Editor’s note—we’re not fooling, they really said that!).

Miss Allen To Appear at CSTC, Nov. 21

A concert by the Pro-Arte Quartette, a string ensemble, will be presented at 8:15 p.m. on Tuesday, November 21 in the college auditorium.

Every member of this Quartette is an accomplished musician, and the concert will undoubtedly be exceptionally fine.

The Quartette is made up of members of the music faculty at the University of Wisconsin. It gives concerts at Wisconsin schools as a public service offered by the University. When appearing within the state of Wisconsin it charges only for expenses, but it stipulates that no admission price be charged. For this reason both students and the public will be admitted free.

This program was arranged by the Assembly committee, headed by Dr. Arthur S. Lyness, and made up of faculty members and members of the Student Council.

And there has another niece, Rita Peja, who is a Freshman at CSTC. His nephew, Lt. Arthur Peja, of the Army, also attended CSTC a few years ago.

Thanksgiving, 1944
Prayer For Thanksgiving.

We have troubled You, Father, so often with our selfish desires and greed; we have carried our woe to Your shoulders and have come to You oft in our need. We have pled for the safety of loved ones who are fighting in this man-made hell, and we've wondered why God, in His mercy, forgot children who suffered and fell.

We have doubted Your presence, too, Father, when we wondered why You stood aside, and did nothing to lessen the murder among Your people for whom Your grace was to be seen.

We have carried to You our secret sins, Father, and we've wondered why You have found it necessary to punish those who are not worthy to bear the burdens of man-made sin.

We have doubted Divine understanding of the sins of the whole human race.

We have all seen that all's ugly and we've furnished our prayers in prayers, with hardly a word of thanksgiving to a Father Who lovingly cares.

We still can be thankful for music, brotherhood, for memories.

In spite of the war's bloody horror—in spite of man's terror and pain, we still can be thankful for freedom; for harvests, for a world unlike before.

There is still enough that should send us, in gratitude, down on our knees.

This is our prayer for the season, when time to give thanks comes again.

That Thy children will truly be thankful for a Father like Thee, Lord of All, Amen.

Training School News

The third grade children of the Training school are making Indian shawls as part of their Indian unit. They are coloring their shawls with crayon. There is a very interesting exhibit of Indian things which they have made displayed on a table in their room.

During the week of November 5-11, National Education Week, grades four, five, and six of the training school, held open house for their parents and friends. Mothers of children in the Primary grades visited school on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 7 and 8.

Members of the fifth grade greatly enjoyed an excursion to West's Dairy at Plover on Friday evening, November 10, to watch the milking, cooling, and bottling with milk. Book Week is being observed this week in the Junior High at the Training school. On Monday, Miss Spengele, in the fourth grade, displayed a number of new books and gave a short talk. Miss Mason has also arranged a display of new books in the library. A tableau was presented to the morning by the seventh grade English class under the direction of Edythe Ofsten, a student teacher. An examination of several books will be given on Friday, under the supervision of Doreen Short.

Wilicon Is Enjoyed

Roseys to the assembly committee who arranged for the low priced tickets to "Wilicon". The student body appreciated the opportunity to see this timely picture. It brought out forcefully our present day need for peace, for our overseas students enjoyed the scenes in Washington, especially the interior views of the White House and the Senate: they also had the experience of practically attending a political convention. Aside from its historical view, the picture was interesting because it gave a more personal view of the presidential family.
Interesting Lecture Given by Speaker

"We do not want to develop intellectual giants that are emotional dwarfs. The education of one's mind and one's heart, of emotional and spiritual growth, must come together. The color of your courage is important." These were the words of Mrs. Dorothy Waldo Phillips, youth counselor, who talked to faculty and students on Wednesday, November 5.

Mrs. Phillips went on to say that we should not mind ignorance—we should ask whether it is static or dynamic ignorance. "Education is like hash," she said, "the stuff just accumulates!" Many of the most important things in life escape measurement and pass through the sieve of facts. If the process of alchemy takes place in the mind of the student, material changes from instruction to knowledge. Only then does it become usable.

In times like these, Mrs. Phillips explained, there is a need for width of heart and for height of spiritual development. Skills in human engineering are needed. "Have you ever thought about what kind of person you will be in a crisis?" she inquired.

In closing, Mrs. Phillips gave this challenge—"We must be dedicated to something more important than ourselves. History has been made by men of the expectant heart."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Raymond M. Rightsell, membership chairman of the American Association of University Women, which sponsored Mrs. Phillips.

Women Reclaim Nelson Hall

If the walls of Nelson Hall could speak, they would have many varied tales to tell.

Nelson Hall has served as a "home away from home" to many a girl who has attended CSTC. The friendships the girls make here are cherished throughout life.

The dormitory first opened its doors on September 17, 1917. Miss Bertha Hussey was the first Dean of Women, and Miss May Rowe was the matron.

In 1918 the new dormitory did not house women, but about 100 young men of the Student Army Training Corps. These men, who were not old enough to be subject to draft, lived according to army regulations and were in attendance at CSTC over a period of two or three months.

After the war, Nelson Hall again became the home for college girls. Following Miss Hussey's death, Mrs. Josephine Finch and Miss Mary Neuberger looked after the welfare of the girls. When they left the "dorm", Mrs. Elizabeth Pfifflner and Mrs. Elizabeth Jelinek of Milwaukee lived in Nelson Hall.

History repeated itself in February of 1943, when 350 aviation students of the 97th College Training Detachment took over Nelson Hall. Each month saw the arrival of one squadron to replace one just departed. After over a year of quartering military personnel, Nelson Hall was again opened to civilian students.

Miss Rose Barber of Madison is the present director of the dormitory with Alice Breake of Wausau as assistant student director.

The man who is partly responsible for the building of the dormitory was the late George B. Nelson, for whom the dormitory was named, a regent of the college and a justice in the State Supreme Court before his death. Anton Krembs, once a member of the state legislature, and the late John Sims, former president of the college, also extended efforts to obtain the dormitory.

NEW WAR NOVELS ADDED TO LIBRARY

Attention, book lovers! In the college library, there is a world of unusual novels that have come out of this war. Adventure into the stacks, where the following, will be found: "Army of Shadows," by Joseph Kessel. This novel tells the terrible and inspiring truth about the French underground. "A Walk in the Sun," by Harry Brown, is a history of one platoon of Yankee soldiers on the outskirts of a beachhead battle in Italy. "Fair Stood the Wind for France," by H. E. Bates, is a tale of a wounded British flyer's effort to escape capture by the Germans in France, and of a fallen nation's effort to regain its soul.

Music and Coca-Cola spell friendship among our Latin-American neighbors just as they do here at home. Have a "Coke" is an invitation of welcome as quickly understood in Guatemala as in Georgia.
