Beauty Of Autumn Is Viewed On Campus

The oak trees are like statement: they grow old less spectacularly. A deep burgundy is the most vivid color they wear.

The limbing vines, which everyone is glad to see back on the college walls, reflect the deep richness of the oak trees. They proudly carry their colors upward for all to see.

The only way to really experience autumn, however, is to be out with it. One should walk down a sidewalk that curves through the campus and stuff the leaves with his feet. He should look up to watch the clouds pass by on a special blue sky found only in the fall.

A red leaf comes slowly spiraling down toward the ground, and gently brushes one's face in a gesture of good-by. And high in the yellow maple a squirrel chatters noisily as he tells the world he is all ready for winter.

Superstitious Students Beware Fateful Day

Careful! Don't walk under that ladder! Watch out for that black cat! Don't be in such a hurry reaching across the table that you knock over the salt. Why? If you haven't guessed yet, take a peek at your calendar. That's right, next Friday is the 13th.

It's that fateful day which the teachers reserve for tests and the students reserve for four-leaf-clovers. Mr. Rightsell's physics class is dreading it already. Who is to be the unlucky person called to the board that day? The Home Ec's in particular should watch out. That's the day they put the wrong sleeve in the good-by. And high in the yellow maple a squirrel chatters noisily as he tells the world he is all ready for winter.

Aids In War Effort

Onion sacks filled with milk weed pods form an important contribution to the war effort made by the Intermediate department of the Training school.

The buoyancy of the milk weed makes it valuable when used in making life jackets for men of our fighting forces who must take their chances on the ocean. The pods, before they are dried, and then sold to the county agent.

Two sacks each filled with 80 pods are enough for one life jacket. "Two sacks filled, one life saved," is the motto of the boys and girls engaged in this work.

They feel that they have saved at least nine lives since school started, because 18 bags of milkweed have been collected.

Another patriotic work the fourth, fifth and sixth graders are working on is paper pages, menu cards with Halloween decorations and napkins for the wounded soldiers in the hospitals.

Betty Pohman To Head New Student Council

Students, Faculty May Attend H. S. Games

College students will be admitted to the P. J. Jacobs High School football games on presentation of activity tickets. These will be honored only at the gate next to the Armory so all college students should enter by this gate. All faculty members will be admitted on presentation of athletes' passes. They should also use the Armory entrance.

This arrangement was made by the Athletic Committee and a portion of the fees allocated from the student activity fund is being used to secure the admission of college students to the football games.

The home schedule for Stevens Point High School games is as follows:

- Oct. 13 — Wausau
- Oct. 20 — Nekoosa
- Oct. 27 — Wisconsin Rapids

College Theater Will Present Play Soon

College Theater is once again in motion. This year's first production is "The Bride Wore Pyjamas." The cast consists of: Benson, Lloyd Anderson; Lord Percy, Max Kopchinski; Virginia Richter, Berenice Wynn; Mrs. Richter, Kay Hansen; Gerry, Dick Olk.

The play will be presented October 26, as an assembly program. Mr. and Mrs. M. Burroughs are directing the play and Warren G. Jenkins is director of the technical staff, which will be announced later.

Rose Marie Howes Is Chosen Vice-President

Betty Pohman was elected president of the 1944-45 Student Council at a meeting held last Monday evening. Other officers elected at this meeting are: Rose Marie Howes, Betty Pohman, Jeanie Glenzer and Irene Murk. Junior class: Alice Klake, Ameno Warden, Edward Ngibor and Marjorie Stimm.

Names of Members Announced

The 1944-45 members of Student Council, who were elected on October 5, are as follows: Senior class: Rose Marie Howes, Betty Pohman, Jeanie Glenzer and Irene Murk. Junior class: Alice Klake, Ameno Warden, Edward Ngibor and Marjorie Stimm.

Plans Made For Stamp Day

The Student Council made plans for Stamp Day which is to be continued this year, beginning on Tuesday, October 17. The booth will be on the second floor outside the side entrance to the auditorium. Every college student should remember to buy a stamp.

The Council also made plans for the election of class officers. Petitions for election must be secured at the main office. Nomination papers should be filed at the main office by Wednesday, October 18, at 4 p.m. Elections will be held on Friday, October 20.

Instruction Given For Blood Donors

The college bus will call for blood donors at the Normal Avenue entrance to CSTC on Monday, October 16, at 3:45 p.m., and on Wednesday, October 18, at the same time.

Students who are donating blood are instructed to eat a light noon meal and to abstain from all foods containing caffeine for at least 4 hours before going to the center at St. Peter's auditorium. A fruit, such as an apple, may be eaten without harm.

In the following week, the bus will call at the Normal Avenue entrance to CSTC on October 23, at 3:45 p.m., and on Tuesday, October 24, at the same time.

Rules Adopted
For the benefit of students of CSTC the Pointer is printing the following resolutions which were adopted by the Social Committee at a meeting on March 3, 1944:

Regulations should include the following items:
1. All events should be scheduled at least 30 days in advance with the proper person. Events which are not properly scheduled will not be recognized by the Committee. Rehearsals must also be scheduled.
2. All applications for calendar listing must have the approval of a faculty sponsor.
3. All applications for major social events must have the approval of the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women.
4. Applications for events and rehearsals involving the use of the auditorium must be approved by the Director of Marquette Magazine.
5. Applications for events involving the use of either gymnasium must be approved by the Director of Physical Education.
6. Applications for events in the Training School must be approved by the Principal of the Training School.
7. The person in charge of scheduling shall have the authority to refuse to schedule any event if those conditions are not met.
8. All new events or changes in those regulations are to be governed by action of the Social Committee.
9. Application blanks should be turned in to the Office Manager.
10. All outside groups should schedule their functions through the President of the College in accordance with the foregoing regulations.

Hurry up, girls,—only three more days to get your Christmas packages off to your one and only overseas. Be sure to enclose some home-made cookies or fudge. You know how much we appreciate that domestic touch. Golly, what a week-end! There sure weren't many kids around Point. Betty Pohlmian, of course, had her reason for staying in town; that is that Norm came home. Next weekend he's not coming. Imagine that—she had him Marooned to see him. Ellen Gordon also had a visitor over the week-end. His name was Philip and he hailed from New York aboard the Gripsholm, which is now stationed in Two Rivers, Md. Don graduated from Kalamaooe Teachers College this June with very good measure too.

S/Sgt. James F. Duwecker, a graduate and former athlete of CSTC, was recently awarded the Air Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster for "coolness, courage and skill" displayed in the air while defending his heavy bomber against the threat of anti-aircraft fire. Jimmy Duwecker's group is a unit of the 3rd Bombardment Division which was recently awarded a presidential citation for its accomplishments in the first AAF shuttle bombing flight.

Capt. John W. Mathye, who has been bombing missions from London, said after the broadcast: "I don't know which scared me the most, the flak over Creve, or facing the mike telling the folks back home about it."

STUDENT OPINION

To Whom It May Concern
It was agreed that it's a young man or woman who should become old enough to go to college, that along with his added years he has gained an added wisdom. Apparently there are exceptions to this rule.

The college student who shouted "Hip, hip, hurray," when Mrs. Angus appeared on the stage last Thursday, not only expressed his own spirit of taste, but also degraded CSTC.

It so happened that Mrs. Lookland had the kindness to place herself at the convenience of the college in arranging her lecture. She certainly had the right to expect common courtesy.

Don't make accidents that an incident of this kind will never happen again.

Dorm Diary

Monday, October 2: Today brings the promise of a short week. To the practical student, who so often finds the burden of study too heavy, one less lesson plan to write. This week too, we have sad news for you, Toby is dead! He died, so it is said, of suffocation. Dear, dear. She didn't take as good care of him as she does of some of his. We'll tell you now that Toby was a dog lover.

Tuesday, October 3: The card box has bitten several girls on second floor. All available decks of cards have been removed. No game of solitaire, four-handed game of solitaire resulted. One roommate came out of it with a scratched head. The other rather deserted the first part of the evening as the Sororities got under way. We hear they're planning on boosting the social calendar up quite a bit.

Wednesday, October 4. Like many hostesses there comes a time when we like our home to ourselves. So we've had no guests for dinner, no tea, no nothing. Our social chairman warns us of a costume party for Saturday night. We're all ready.

Thursday, October 5: Such a bustle around here today. Everyone is cleaning her room the last minute, or packing her suitcase. From the number of textbooks we see going along, this weekend won't be all the vacation it cracked up to seem. A few girls are staying over. Miss Rose Barber is headed toward Madison way.

Sunday, October 8. Here we are again, and inquiries of "Did you have fun?" "What did you do all weekend?" "Say, I had a date!" Yes, everyone came back with all (2) hands and money, and a lot of sleep behind her. We have a brand new aunt at the dorm, Mary Lou Hitchins is now Aunt Mary, and it's a boy.

There are 38 fellows in school. Is that news? Oh, boy, is it!

Don't rush females, but you must start packing for a weekend. The poor males feel lost and alone. Let them know we're glad they're here.

With such a large class of freshmen in proportion to other classes this year, it's a little harder to get acquainted, but of course, if everyone says "Hi" to everyone else, soon the halls and classrooms will be full of familiar faces. Well, maybe they won't be full, but at least that's the quickest way to get acquainted! Let's all try it.

Khaki Comments

Aer. M. 3/c John Mase visited CSTC recently. Johnee is stationed at Minneapolis as a naval weather man. His job is forecasting flying weather. "It seems pretty good to be back here drinking one of Merr's coffe again," Johnee said.

Lt. Earl Siebert edited the Pointer during the first edition was taking shape. Earl edited the Pointer during 1940-41, and again during the fall of this year. He is back again. Lt. Siebert was accompanied by his wife, the former Barbara Gerdes, who also graduated from CSTC, and their young son, Mike. Earl is stationed at San Antonio, Texas. His job is keeping the army well informed about the progress of the war.

Lt. Joe Bloom, who landed in New York aboard the Gripsholm, called Dean Herbert R. Steiner long distance to learn that his friend, who was wounded in action, is being moved to a western hospital. Joe said that he couldn't express how glad it was to be back in the USA again.

Lt. Joe Kresh, stationed somewhere in Dutch New Guinea, writes the most interesting letter to one of the members of the faculty: "One can't possibly imagine how much equipment and property an American soldier has along. And, of course, until you've loaded and unloaded the stuff aboard and off a ship, and for good measure lug it some more at some far-flung mission.

"Too many people forget that the basis of all warfare is the infantry—it take it away and you don't have a thing. All the other branches of service directly or indirectly support the infantry. It's not glamorous or dash- ing, but it's all important. You can shell and bomb a place 'til the cows come home, but it's of no avail unless you can occupy the place. That's why the infantry is known as the queen of battle. We artillery men are very proud of our branch of service, but we all take our hats off to the doughboy. And I speak from experience too.

"They say I'll be discharged, Earl Miller, formerly of the Flying Tigers, has written a textbook on teaching gunnery.

"Petty Officer Bill Carnahan is teaching Physical Education to U. of Marquette University. Cupid adds a note here, and says that Betty Jean Asher and Bill were married September 28th. Betty and Don Peterson have been commissioned Ensigns in the Navy.

"Ens. Walker of the Marines is now stationed in Two Rivers, Md. Don graduated from Kalamazoo Teachers College this June with very good measure too.

Novel Seating Arrangement

What goes on in Dr. Harold M. Tolo’s room? Nothing new has been added, no, it’s just the novel V seating arrangement in room 259. Upon asking Dr. Tolo the reasons for this V for Victory arrangement, he said there were several. First, it is just something different; then the freshmen students found they could become better acquainted if they could look at each other instead of at the Prof himself; and, lastly, students feel freer to respond if they see that they have an audience.

Perhaps a circular seating arrangement could be suggested to serve the same purposes, or are the classes too large! Who knows but maybe next week students in Room 259 will be going in circles. One never knows what will happen next. Something different is always welcome, Dr. Tolo.

FATEFUL DAY

covers over your head. Of course, if you don’t like this method, you might brave classes.

When in class, however, sit up straight and look intelligent, even if it is a struggle. If you slump in your seat and hide behind a book, the curious teacher will peer all the harder to see who you are. That’s when the trouble begins! You might also spend the morning hunting for four-leafed-clovers to ward off the jinx.

If you don’t care to take these suggestions just go ahead and see what happens. It might make life around here a little more interesting, but don’t say that we didn’t warn you!

"I was particularly happy to see children in the audience," commented Mrs. Angus F. Lookaround when she approached a POINTER reporter after her lecture last Thursday.

In her lecture Mrs. Lookaround presented the life of the Indian before the discovery of America, and the changes made in Indian ways by the invasion of the white man. She also showed many articles of Indian handwork.

After the lecture Mrs. Lookaround was kept busy for a half hour autographing books and showing her Indian articles to the students and faculty members.

The Indian costume Mrs. Lookaround wore had been made and given to her, she explained, by an Indian woman who wanted to show her appreciation for the work done among the Indians. "I shall wear it till it falls to pieces," she said.

Initiation Planned

Initiation of new members was planned for Thursday, October 26, at a meeting of the Newman club, held last Thursday. Topics for discussion were listed and the history of the Newman club was explained by President Florence Flugar.

After the business meeting, ice cream bars were served and Miss May Roach entertained the group with some colored slides.

Interesting Lecture Presented by Hedges

Henry M. Hedges humorously and vividly described his adventures on the island of Bora Bora during the Talk of the Hour club lecture held last Monday evening. Bora Bora is a South Sea island located near the equator and is populated by a race of Polynesian people.

On Mr. Hedges' first trip to Bora Bora he specialized in deep sea fishing and in octopus hunting. "You haven't lived till you've been in the arms of an octopus," he explained.

After the lecture, which was the last of the current series, 43 people had already signed up for the next Talk of the Hour lecture series.
