Sprin Is WelScome!

Today, at long last, the calendar broke down and admitted that it was spring. CSTC knew it was here long before it became official. The first notice was given by the squirrels, who came out looking rather ragged and lean, but who were as sly and friendly as ever. Perhaps the second sign of spring was shown by the students themselves. On sunny afternoons recently there has been a tendency toward class cuttings, on, as we are more common, because most of us did manage to get our physical selves to class, toward window glasses.

Even before the snow and water first completely off the sidewalks, the children of the neighborhood were whirling majestically on roller-skates. The video has been over ten days ago, and the grass—have you noticed?—showed definitely green.

Of course, it must be remembered that this week has been too lamb like, and March is not to be trusted. Ah, yes—its spring. As the immortal bard once said,

"Spring is sprung. Dare I say it? Da boid is on da wing. But dat's abso—
I oughta da wing
Was on da boid."

Sons, Daughters Of Faculty In Service

This week's POINTER presents the experiences of more of CSTC's faculty members sons and daughters in the service.

Lt. Robert W. Steiner, a member of the Eighth Bombing Squadron, and John H. Steiner, a member of the Medical Corps of the United States Naval Reserve, are the sons of Dean Steiner.

Bob has experienced 14 months sea duty with a carrier task force as an Intelligence Officer of the Fifth Bombing Squadron. He flew with his squadron on 70 missions, 39 of which were combat including Marcus, Wake, Kwaialine, Tarawa, Makin, Saipan, Truk, and Hollandia. It is interesting to note that Bob's picture has appeared in several magazines and papers just lately. One picture of him appears in Lt. Oliver Jensen's recent book, Carrier War. Another is found in the November 28 issue of Look. Friends have recognized Bob in four scenes of the picture "Fightin' Lady", which was filmed in part on his ship during actual battle. (Note: This picture will appear at the Fox on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week).

John is an extern at Milwaukee Sanitarium. He will get his M.D. degree from Marquette University in June.

S/Sgt. Jack Burroughs, a member of the famous "Hell-on-Wheels" Armored Division of Lieut. General William H. Simpson's 9th Army, now under the leadership of General Montgomery, is at the British 23rd Army Group. He has been in the North African campaign and also the Normandy invasion.

Jack's wife, the former Evelyn Hiltzer, is now teaching at Marshfield. She, as well as Jack, is a CSTC graduate.

Rural Life Plans CSTC Community Club

The "Little Red School House" will welcome students who come to an all-school party to be given under the auspices of the Rural Life Club on Friday evening, April 6.

A gala evening of fun, food and frolic is in store for those who are expected to renew their youth in the college gym. Said gym will become the "CSTC Community Club" for the evening and a varied program of music and entertainment will be offered.

Committee chairmen in charge of plans for the party will be announced in next week's POINTER. Watch the Little Red School House ring the bell.

Cartoons Are Funny Ad Educational

The Dilbert cartoons, which cover most of the errors made by pilots, and appear on one of the first-floor bulletin boards, have given college student many hearty laughs. Raymond M. Rightiss's evening pilot class, however, find them very painful at times, for these cartoons are a part of their assignment, and their examination questions always include: "What is Dilbert doing today?"

These cartoons are received by Mr. Rightiss from the Naval Air Corps. Since they are changed two or three times a week the pilot class does not have an easy task. A typical cartoon shows Dilbert running across the field pursued by a plane while the caption reads: "Dilbert got out of the plane while the engine was still running.

Radio Advertising Survey Conducted

To what do college students objects most in the field of radio advertising? A recent survey at CSTC answered this question and brought on some very interesting suggestions for improving the necessary commercials. This information will be used in a discussion during a fall semester campaign to clean up radio advertising which will be conducted in Madison on April 21. This discussion will take place at a meeting of the Better Listening Committee and will be conducted by Miss Gertie L. Hans of CSTC's faculty.

The biggest objection of CSTC students was to the oft repeated musical commercials. The next emphasis was to thekiddie commercials and the overdone gush of facts and free offers. Displeasure was admitted to listening to programs that were continually interrupted by spot announcements. The girls at CSTC very definitely do not like soap operas.

As a whole the students felt that radio advertising should be put on a higher level. They showed appreciation for the dramatized historical facts of advertising on a popular cigarette advertisement and the information ads used by an electric company on a high tension Sunday evening show. They specified programs that introduced ads cleverly, such as the Fibber McGee, Bob Hope and Jack Benny shows, as their idea of radio commercials well done.

The do many people seem to be aware is the one when they will no longer have to listen to advertising, but at present the best part of the radio for some of them is the button that says "Off!"

Helb Week Climaxes Pleading Period

Sorority pledges are climaxing their pledging period during Helb Week, which ends Saturday, March 24. Omega pledges are wearing queer and gruesome costumes, while their braided "Topsy" hair do's and pale, makeupless faces complete an ensemble which would tax the endurance of any human, which just what is meant to do.

The Tau Gams spent one day disguised as fine ladies all dressed up in their best togs with ping and blue ribbons streaming from their necks. The rest of the week finds them in various garb, including that of a cow. Two Tau Gams had to take college men out on dates, surely a pleasant change for the men.

Rough initiation on the night and formal initiation at Pan-Hellenic dinners on Saturday, March 24, will climax this semester's period of pledging.

NOTICE!!

There will be a special rehearsal for the Girls' Glee club to-day, Wednesday, March 21, at 4 p.m. in the auditorium.

The eighth grade basketball team played what was perhaps their best game of the year when they defeated Lowell School of Wisconsin in the training school gym, Wednesday, March 14. The high scorer was Bernice of the Rapids with six points, followed by Donn Oboleau, Bill Sanks and Darrel Benson of MBD, each with four points. The final score was 14 to 10 in training school's favor.

Junior High News

Saturday, March 17, the eighth grade of the Training school held a party for the band party in the Training school library. The party started at nine o'clock. The decorations were enough to make any good Irishman proud. Many of the streamers were draped from light to light and shamrocks hung from them in the windows.

The programs started by the students playing Winkum. After that there was a truth or consequences quiz, and Hugh Brown sang "Sweet Rosie O'Grady" and Joyce Finketson sang "Irish Lullaby" Following that Bertram Davies told some stories, and the "Bags of Wind" sang; "Dance Me In". LSA Hears Book Resume

Miss Evelyn Hougum of Stevens Point gave a resume of the book, "More People Are Asking", by John P. Milton, of the Lutheran Seminary in St. Paul, at a meeting of the LSA held last Thursday evening. The book is a sequel to "People Are Asking". Both books contain answers to questions Dr. Milton received from inquiring Lutherans. Miss Hougum's resume kindness a lively discussion.

Rev. C. Russell Johnson continued the study of the Book of Revelations.

For the next meeting, April 5, each member is to be prepared to read his favorite religious poems. A special event was the picnic compared to the destruction our army is accomplishing in Deutschland. The President William C. Hansen has no sons in the service, but he proudly holds the banner representing three enlisted daughters. They are 1st Lt. Ann, 2nd Lt. Helen, and 2nd Lt. Ruth. All three are members of the Army Nurse Corps.

Ann enlisted in June, 1943. She was sent overseas to North Africa in August and then to Naples in October of that same year. At the present time, Ann is fulfilling her duties as a nurse with the 225th Station Hospital Unit in Naples. In March, 1944, Ruth, as a hospital nurse, was sent overseas to North Africa in August and then to Naples in October of that same year. Paul became a member of the U.S.N.R. as an ensign in December, 1942. He has been in three major campaigns in the Pacific theatre of war—the Marshalls, Marianas, and Leyte. As a member of Admiral Sprague's jeep-carrier fleet in the Leyte campaign, Paul recently received the Commendation Ribbon of the Navy and a citation, part of which read:

"To Lt. (j.g.) Paul I. Lyness for distinguishing himself by meritorious service and outstanding performance of duty as a member of the staff of an escort carrier division during the landings on and occupation of an enemy-held and strongly defended island, when this carrier was engaged with Japanese forces. He carried out his duties of Flag Lieutenant over long hours and in a manner above and beyond the normal call of duty."—Signed by T. C. Kincaid, Vice-Admiral U. S. Navy, Commander of the Seventh Fleet.

At present, Paul is fulfilling a temporary assignment in Washington, D. C., instructing naval recruits and WAVES in communications. When this assignment is completed, he expects to be stationed in charge of a naval communications station somewhere along the coast of this country.
