Debate Team Back From Minnesota

CSTC debaters returned last Wed­nesday from the Minnesota State Col­lege at Parkville, Minnesota, where they competed on March 10-11, in the annual Northwest­ern tournament at St. Thomas and Macalester College.

All three CSTC teams were among the 80 eliminated. A total of 36 teams were entered, representing elec­ven women’s and eight men’s teams plac­ing. Among the larger schools which competed were the University of Minnesota, Marquette University, and University of Wisconsin. These teams are interested in the end of this year’s debate season.

Cooking Class Holds Dinner, Plans Another

One of the most active classes at CSTC—the So­phomore cooking class under the guidance of Miss Helen Moe and Mr. Leland Manley—had two very interesting formal din­ners. These dinners were served on Tues­day, March 18, at 6 o’clock.

Both dinners were divided into two sec­tions—those who serve the dinner and those who attend and eat. It thus diners were served “Russian style”, which is the most formal type setting.

General chairman for the dinner was Lorraine Meyer and the commit­tee agents were: Martha Johnson, Be­rtha White, Mary Noble, John Mallen, Robert Judge, Pat Jones and Rosemary Raisor.

The first dinner, at 6:30 o’clock and the second di­ner was at 7 o’clock on Tuesday, March 18, at 6 o’clock.

Prospective Planning Under Way As Seniors Have Job Interviews

That wonderfully prosperous prospec­tive planning is being going on at the training school. Education counselors have visited the school and discussed positions with teachers-to-be. Among others who were visited were W. F. Waterpool, superintendent of schools at Mary­nette, who came to interview prim­ary teachers; Mr. M. Lappert of Stoughton, who interviewed candidates in teacher education positions. Mr. Mandley is considering Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Speidel, Calvin Van der Hoef, William LeFevre, and Joseph Bickel, all of the Weirton public schools, in­terviewed candidates as did Ward Kujat, superintendent of schools at Wapun.

Many Have Accepted Jobs

A number of CSTCers who are now practicing teaching have already accepted positions for the next year. Joseph H. Hamblin accepted an offer at Escanaba, Michigan, James Sull­van, a Columbia student, will teach at athletics at Gilson, Wisconsin. For the remainder of this year, Clarence H. Henson of the University of Minnesota and general science at Stratford High School.

Several Are Considering

Rosemary Nelson is considering a position in the music department of Stratford. Also a position teaching music and English in the Superior Consolidated School District, by Mr. and Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Nelson. Also at Enfield, and Peac­h State Teachers college.

Student Housing Problem Will be Worse in Fall

Dormites Must Sign Up By Tomorrow, Mar. 21

The ever-present problem of student housing will be even a greater headache at the training school. Housing has been increased by the expected increase in enrollment due to come next fall. Dames Elizabeth Dill, who is planning for the In­tervention of these students who definitely plan on attending college, will soon regis­ter for rooms immediately.

Nelson Hall residents have until Thursday, Mar. 19, to sign up for their rooms for the next year. After this date all rooms unreserved will be opened to any other women now attending Central State Teacher col­lege until April 1. If there are no vacancies after April 1, they will then be opened to any new students desiring a room in the dormi­tory, and as Miss Bovis makes no dormi­tory first served.

Deposit Required for Rooms

Deposit required for the householder, all college women registering for rooms in private homes are required to pay a deposit of five dollars just as women who register in Nelson Hall are required to do.

Rooms for light housekeeping will be opened to women who desire to demand made for them by morning, evening. There are seldom, if any, rooms va­cant, for they are passed from one to another.

The Battle of the Books...

Students at Milwaukee State Teachers college have started a "Battle of the Books" in order to obtain complete sets of textbooks for all students. Practically every state teachers college is facing the same problem. The MSTC was not making the lead in bringing the facts out into the open.

A recent issue of the Milwaukee Journal carried the following story about a student meeting held last week:

"You must find out just when you'll have to fight for whatever you get.

That was the keynote of a meeting attended by virtually every student at the Milwaukee State Teachers College on Thursday. The speaker, Milton Varanos, 24, of 1032 W. Highland ave., was telling his fellow students that he thought it was almost time the school had enough money to provide textbooks and other facilities for them.

"The fees paid for the veteran students at the school by the veteran administration have never amounted to the state's fee schedule and this is cancelled.

"The result is more than half of the students don't have complete sets of textbooks, Varanos said. Because the school provides free texts for its students, this means that some students are attending school but education, and just about any fun but education, Varanos said. "We're tried of getting pushed around.

"It is the education of the students suffering, he said, but they are being deprived of better teaching positions in the future because the school is not making enough money.

"Besides the lack of funds for textbooks, the student health and well fare fund and the athletic program at MSTC will be seriously curtailed and may well be canceled, according to the information contained in the Journal's story. Letters asking the state for a larger appropriation for textbooks were also sent to the governor in an attempt to appear before the joint finance committee of the legislature.

"The Echo, student publication of the MSTC, printed the following plea to students who are supposed to be at the meeting:

"The Alpha Phi Omega (maternity and work) are working out in detail by Donald Woolsey Davis, student body president of the MSTC.

"I, Veteran fees would include money for books, but under the Omega plan this part of the fee would not be paid by the non-student. We are asking the veteran student to take his money and purchase his books at the textbook library.

"The students who could return their books, sell them back to the book store, receive his money, which in turn could be used to purchase textbooks.

"Since we students at CSTC are in the same position regarding textbooks as MSTC's students are, it might be well for us to consider the possibilities of a similar plan."

The situation has changed considerably in the past two years. Back in 1920 there were 300 women on the CSTC campus and the technique in the picking of a prospective mate. In my multitudinous years of experience with men and women, I have discovered that I have found the answer to the question: "What is the Ideal Girl?"

"The situation has changed considerably in the past two years. Back in 1920 there were 300 women on the CSTC campus and the technique in the picking of a prospective mate. In my multitudinous years of experience with men and women, I have discovered that I have found the answer to the question: "What is the Ideal Girl?"

The Ideal Girl must:

1. Know her way around the dance floor. She is adum to be seen with her, but not so beautiful that every male within 25 miles wants to get there first.
2. Not so dull that you can't discuss without her. She must be intelligent that you can't sneak away from your open mouth.
3. Not so vulgar that you lose all respect for her, but not so shy that you can't get her to laugh freely when the occasion demands.
4. Not the type that would ridicule you for getting that "romantic feel"

5. Not the type to whom you can't even talk unless it's over a bottle of soda pop, but that type in a way of tobacco, anti-drink reformer.
6. Not the type that you spend a lot of money on her, but not the type who embarrasses you by spending that all the time.
7. Not the giving, possessive, demanding type, but not the type that looks at you such as is:
   "An Only Nonsense Girl.
8. Not the type who claims to put on a show, but the "prairie flower" type who's never over her mother's doorstep streets.
9. Not the type who's never had a job, but the type who continuously relates tales of her job experiences.
10. Not the type who never knows what to do, but not the type who's never had a job on her own way of saying around.
11. Joe, the lad who oozes up in her, but keeps the joint nice and clean, and has been reading over my shoulder. A veteran of service in the ETO, Joe isn't one to hand wordy.
12. After a while of these type of girls, Joe went out with "Jeez, there may be a baby that is somehow that, not in THIS country."

Omega Mu Chi

A formal initiation dinner was held for the members of the Pre-church fraternity for the members of the Omega Mu Chi sorority and alumnae and guests. Dinner was arranged to be paid over to approximately 50 guests and the dinner was held in the parlor in each of which the guests were given.

With the ratio of men and women students enrolled at CSTC almost three to one, the housing problem for college men is even of much greater concern. As a rule, the number of available rooms for men students is considerably smaller in proportion to those open to women students.

Dean Steinert reports that with the exception of the Training school for housing V-S students, all men at the present time are being housed in private homes, and even V-S students are gradually going into private homes. Before the war, many college men indulged in light housekeeping, but most men students now are either boarders and roomers or are married and live in apartments or trailer houses.

Although Dean Steinert sounds an optimistic note in assuring college men housing quarters for the present time and also for the coming fall, he states that all rooms near the college are taken and quite a few names for room reservations are on the waiting list.

There are many rooms available to men students but they are located at such a distance from the college that the time element in traveling to and from classes makes them impractical for boarders. The housing following except a letter from Dean Steinert directing the locating of students away from college and also shows the manner in which some people attempt to exploit college students: "I live 15 miles out of town but the school bus goes by my place every day. I could take five little men and give them room and board at $15 a week per person. Four men would double up and one would sleep single."

This letter is not a representation of the majority but only a slight minority, since most householders are doing their best to help house and board college men. It is Dean Steinert's job to list these householders and keep the list available for students coming in or moving to other locations. It is his job also to decide on whether or not housing facilities meet the proper qualifications for housing men students.

Although the accommodations will be lower under this command than before, the question of room and board is also permitted with the understanding that a man is willing to do the best he can to help house and board college men.

ORDERS, Continued from page 1 do not actually state that a Cargase is required by regulations, the impression is given to the effect that it is a widespread tradition. All personnel are advised to provide a Cargase for their Date when attending a Dance, Formal, M1947.

Money (Also Moulas, Dough, Cash, etc.)

A charge pay of the troops in this theater of operations is $5.00 when transferred into the native currency. Attendance at a Dance, Formal, M1947, will cost an individual from one to five hundred per hour. For this expenditure, troops will receive virtually nothing in return in the line of entertainment as will be explained in the following section.

C. Conducted Pursuits for the Dance, Formal, M1947:

1. Personnel under this command will at all times conduct themselves as gentlemen when in attendance at a Dance, Formal, M1947. This is in keeping with the current policy of maintaining friendly relations with the native populace in this theater of operations.

2. Although refreshments are customarily dispensed in paper containers, some functions may have soft drinks served in glass containers known as Bottles. Under no circumstances will personnel under this command throw or spit at Bottles in the Band or Orchestra to show their disapproval at musical efforts. Throwing of paper containers is allowed under current regulations.

3. Firearms will not be required for attendance at the Dance, Formal, M1947. Troops and brass knuckles may be carried, but caution is urged governing the use of said weapons. Under most circumstances, the natives will maintain an air of dignity and decorum. Troops under this command are expected to do likewise.

Chi Delta Rho

Bill Greaves reports that his Chapter is in a better state of affairs than at any time since the war started. Guest speaker at the last meeting was Dr. F. H. Smith, Dean of the Music School at the University of Wisconsin.

Chi Delta Rho is the largest fraternity in the world with chapters at every college in the United States and many in foreign countries.

V.3. A了个 though refreshments are available, men will continue to drink as usual and will abide by the regulations and traditions of the chapter.

Chi Delta Rho is known for its traditions and ceremonies which are held at regular intervals throughout the year.

ARE CSTC'S COEDS GOLD-DIGGERS?

Are CSTC's coeds gold-diggers? Is it a question which must be handled with great tact wherever the discussion of it arises? For one who proceeds with the proper amount of prudence, the wise answer is yes. And none are some and none are some; and correct. However, this writer, under the protective cloak of anonymity, will throw caution to the winds and proceed to air a personal viewpoint on the subject.

One must realize that, when speaking of gold-digging trouble in connection with the average male student at CSTC, one can hardly speak in terms of fur coats and jewelry. Since a large percentage of said students are attending school on $500.00 a month or thereabouts, it would seem more practical to talk of cakes and cervices.

How often a girl will hint gently while going upon something she desires. These objects range from candy bars to perfume and trinkets. "Oh, look at the DARLING earrings! Would I like to have a pair like that?" The listening and attending is carried to the Nth degree, until the probably not so unsuspecting male decides that he will earn her eternal gratitude by purchasing this small purchase. This outlook is in grave error, in the respect that these events are never recorded in the curricula. And occurring. And occurring.

A well-known authority on meters and women states that this tendency in the female of the species is an inherited instinct—similar to the tendency of monarchs to demand tribute in testimony of allegiance. If this were the case, would it not be cheaper in the long run to purchase the breaks of this nature by voluntary, but inexpensive gifts at short intervals? A package of gum, a flower (in season) for her hair, or a small remembrance on some trivial anniversay? That she wouldn't expect you to remember should help the cause. This would probably be much cheaper in the long run, and it would make you compare favorably with the other fellows who never do the "little" things, which make one so near and dear to the "weaker" sex's heart.

In defense of the ladies, now, there is also a good deal to be said. Girls who walk many long, cold blocks because they have no one to help, girls who are willing to spend, economical evenings at home, or even girls who are content with the now and a coke, or even a coke, in fact, any girls who show comprehension and thought for your financial condition cannot be called gold-diggers. So, men, if your gal fits into one of the categories above, and many at CSTC do, then your wallet is safe, cause she's not a gold-digger.
