Press Institute Attracts 340 Delegates from Tri-State Area

On May 7 and 8 some members of the Iris and the Pointer staffs attended the Press Institute at St. Cloud State Teachers College. The four representives were Phyllis Kasper, George Gyson and Reuben Beikle. The Pointer representation included George Whitney, Janice Sisley and Reuben Beikle.

The conference attracted 340 student delegates from the tri-state area of Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. Most of the schools, however, were high schools. The representatives were CSTC, Superior State, University of Minnesota, Duluth branch and LaCrosse teachers.

The purpose of the Press Institute was to promote higher standards of journalism through conferences, workshops, conferences, workshops, and through rating of publications at Press Institutes and through rating of publications at press conferences by responsible critics.

The conference was to have started at 12:30 p.m. Friday noon, according to information received by the local entourage. However, due to a change in plans at Superior the meeting started at 10:30 a.m. and the local representatives missed the morning meeting.

The conviction which had been in the auditorium at 1 p.m. was addressed by Ralph D. Casey, director, school of Journalism, University of Wisconsin, on the subject of "School and Public Relations." The balance of the program included a skit by a group of SCC men and the presentation of awards to Superior State journalism students who received the conference.

Many Opportunities for Good Men

Herbert Reiser, Dean of Men, is shown delivering the dedication address at the two planting service held on the combined SCSU-NU campus. May 7. J. Schneckel, head of the construction department and program chairman, is seated at the right of the picture.

Among Badger Poets

Among Wisconsin poets who have contributed to the centennial collection "Contemporary Poets of Wisconsin" is Leland M. Burroughs, head of the English and Speech department at CSTC.

In the brochure, which was published under the auspices of the American Library association, Mr. Burrough has two poems, one entitled "Lake Katherine" and the other "Wild Geese Are Winging." Among the two poets who have one or more poems in the book is August Derleth, Wisconsin writer, especially well-known for his historical novels. All of the poets represented one seemingly highly starting salary.

Glee Club Ends Tours for Year

The Minnesota Glee Club, under the direction of Norman E. Knutzen, finished a successful season of out of state concerts last week.

On Thursday, May 6, the group was entertained at dinner by the Hobart and High school home economics department after giving a high school assembly concert there. The men then traveled to Duluth where they gave an evening concert at an appreciative audience at the University of Minnesota, Duluth college cafeteria at 6:30 p.m. After the dinner, Scott Cutlip, assistant to the president, University of Wisconsin, spoke on the "School and Public Relations." The balance of the program included a skit by a group of SCC men, and the presentation of awards to Superior State journalism students who received the conference.

Many are known as outstanding student in both scholastic and extracurricular activities.

Students from Fifteen Schools at Senior Day

Approximately 200 seniors from high schools in this area attended Senior Day held here Friday, May 7.

Paid Assemblies—Yes or No?

Is the entertainment program at CST as complete as it might be? Of course, the question is not new. In a poll taken among the students recently, the question "Do you favor the innovation or the paid assemblies?" was put before a number of students chosen at random. Here are the answers:

First, we came up with this: "We're well rounded out in the musical field but I think that we should have a variety of paid assemblies to complete the entertainment and educational program here at the college."

Diversification

Mary Noble, sporting her traditional, sixties idea of what constitued a diversified program of assemblies as being of the most interesting personalities and the like.

Over the familiar coke John Luhm added a last blast in his vague notion about the financial end of the entertainers. "An additional charge included in the activity fee would account for the expense," he said.

A frequent reply to the money question was this: "Paid assemblies are also important for the purpose that given by veteran Harold and Douglas Graham who said, "As long as the government pays the veterans' school fee, I see no objection to adding the charge to the activity ticket. How does the fee get spent? I can see where they might object to the additional charge."

One student expressed the opinion, "If the assemblies could not be paid in advance for from the activity fee, such assemblies should be discontinued. For reasons of policy, he wishes to remain unknown."

Sell Tickets in Advance

Mary Noble suggested that assemblies be sold in advance, with a list of latecomers for any tickets not sold for a "reason more pleasant," said Dick Kowalski.

Marge Schrank quickly replied, "Oh yes, more, bigger, better paid assemblies in.

Who Will Pay?

Almost simultaneously the question arose, "Who's going to pay this money?" Here we had a vague notion about the financial end of the entertainment. "Who cares?" said one. "It's an additional charge included in the activity fee for the entertainment," he said.

A frequent reply to the money question was this: "The students should be made to pay for the entertainment charge.""'

Mother—Daughter Banquet at Nelson Hall

A spring garden setting provided the background for the Mother—Daughter Banquet at Nelson Hall on Saturday, May 8. Following the banquet served at one of the finest restaurants on campus, the group was driven to Nelson Hall's student center to hear the keynote address of Mrs. Elizabeth Lawrence, who gave a humorous speech on the pre-marriage experiences of the girls in expectation of their mothers coming.

Marie Guth, toast-mistress, introduced Mrs. Clarence Crawford of Chicago, who honored the mothers, and her daughter, Betty Ruth, who spoke in behalf of the girls. "I was embarrassed," Mrs. Guth said.

The luncheon, which was held at the President's residence in Marine Guth's presented Mrs. Mary E. Donat, daughter of Nelson Hall, gave a farewell gift. Mrs. Butz has gone to her home at Darlington and St. Paul in her wedding on doing some traveling and spending some time in France.

Alice Schram read an poem entitled "Mothers," a great tribute to the occasion of the day. The banquet concluded the program of the singing of the college song, which was accompanied with the piano by Mary Juetten.

Schmecke Chosen To Ducks Unlimited

The state Lakes Walton Logan has chosen Fred J. Schmecke to represent the organization at the Ducks Unlimited convention to be held in Winnipeg, Manitoba, sometime this year.

The convention is an international meeting of several conservation organizations in Canada and the United States when the migratory habits and the flyway systems of ducks will be studied. A thorough understanding between Canadian and American sportsmen can be reached by a more logical and fair method of approaching livestock problems.

Movie Is Fiscal Success

The world Student Service Fund "Seeds of Destiny," as shown in the audiences on Wednesday, May 5, was an overwhelming financial success according to members of the Student Serv.

A silver collection, taken at the convention, amounted to $232.32 and will be turned over to the WDF to help the organization carry on its work in alleviating the suffering of these animals who are losing homes in war-torn areas throughout the world.

The Workshop Players with producer Deyl Forcedtmon and producer Dick) will present another take on their regular broadcast. The subject will be "The College Round Table, part two," and during "Education and Revisions to Various Situations in Past," on Thursday, May 20.

Schmecke

A new bus, for delivery on August 1, 1948, has been purchased by the college from The Flexible Bus company of Loveland, Ohio, according to Fred J. Schmecke, chairman of the college transportation committee.

The addition will be bigger and better in every way than the bus we now in use. It will have a seating capacity of 35. Twenty-nine of the seats are five-position reclining chairs with sponge rubber filling. The remaining six are comfortable air-conditioned seats.

Three heaters, in the most efficient positions, will provide complete warm for those trips during the winter.

The engine is in the rear of the bus and a specially built Buick V-8, the engine of this bus is common rights on the highways at present over 5,000 models of it have been manufactured. The Clip-

The new college bus will probably appear painted in the school colors and with the school insignia prominently displayed.

CORNELL U. STUDENTS VIEW CST PROJECTS

Gene Seiler and Sally Wills, graduate students in the school of Arbor Cornell, discussed the question, "Graduates of the school of Arbor Cornell, who have completed the program."

"Generally speaking, yes. Certainly constant brief answer. The former students in graduate school have expressed the need for a program of this nature." Mr. Wills added that given by veteran to a Grecian Urn? "(That excludes 11 others)

The students who might object to the proposal.

The directors of the program, Messrs. Robert J. Skull, Miss Marcelle, to complete the program.

They have been keenly interested in field work and commented that students in education in the United States, the conservation department at CST is by far the most prominent.

FORUM

During this week, students who have not been admitted appropriately to CST have the opportunity to fill out application forms. The record office and give to them as a fact. We hope that they will reach a decision as soon as possible.

Some time during the week of May 16, all students should come to the office or divisions regarding the admission process. A study of the record office shows that 41 students are travel- ing and they are reaching a decision as soon as possible.

Linda L. Duvall, B.S. in education, was a member of the Centennial series broadcast. It's a conversation, take to the air.

Frank Kost, Municipal, will present selections in the classical vein by Jason Bell.

On Monday, May 17, Dr. Harold T. Solomons will be guest speaker. College news by Maurice Marnet will complete the program.

The students at the ballroom event, at the Book Corner program, is a chance to see the students at the Ballroom program. The students will have charge of the broadcast.

The winter is going to be cold, but that's just what we need. We have a waiting line in Registration.

CSTC Golf Team Tows to St. Norbert's

The golf team representing Central State ran up against a strong St. Norbert's six-man team at Green Bay last Friday, May 7, and dropped a 115-103 match. The CSTC's total is an all-time low for the team, which has had its ups and downs this season.

The locals will be out for revenge tomorrow afternoon, when the same two teams meet at the Whitewater Country Club at 2 o'clock. Coach Bruce Menzel has picked his squad for the key position, based on previous showings this year. Norbert, who has chalked up three points for the home team, will be in the number six spot.

Norbert's team at Green Bay posted a three-point victory, and will now go out to repeat this score today.

Dr. Bernard F. Wievel's team will be out to repeat this victory tomorrow afternoon, when they tangle with St. Norbert's again on the local courts.

The rest of the team, in the order in which they will play, are: George Heberlein, Chuck Kudi, and Bob Sedlitzki, two points to the Central total, Richard Ellis, Don Mayek, and either Ken Grover or Jim Benson, the number six spot.

The scores of last Friday's matches were:

CSTC out in local points
Ellis..........50 51 101 0
Mark....48 49 97 0
Maurer..41 42 82 255

Bar Admits Alum

Uclar Brandt, native of Park Ward T. Fairchild of the state college of Wisconsin, was honored at the recent meeting of the Wisconsin University Law School Alumni Association. Brandt graduated from the university in 1934 and did his office law practice with the firm of Riley, Riley and Madison. He will remain an associate of that firm which will undoubtedly enjoy "the life Riley."
One of the most interesting and worthwhile meetings we've ever attended was the annual Men's Glee club conference held on May 22 at Eau Claire State Teachers college, and Gerhard Wilkele, who is professor of physics at Lawrence college, were all present. The meeting was attended by representatives from the physics departments of almost every college in the state.

The first half of the program was devoted to technical subjects, and the second half to educational problems in presenting physics in the college. A particularly informative talk was given by Prof. A. G. Barkow of the University of Pennsylvania. It happened to be one of the requirements for entrance to medical schools. He made a point about trends in medicine and dentistry. Two of CSTC's former graduates, Pat and Bob, came back to give the physics department at Eau Claire a visit.

RENT A BICYCLE

THAT FIRST KISS

He had started his first date, with the girl next door, at the annual freshman ball in high school, but that's not all. When he walked her home they stopped by the Old Swimmin' Hole and talked about how grown up they were, reminiscing about how much they enjoyed swimming the past summer, and then he kissed her for the first time. This was the first date of many, but the last at the Old Swimmin' Hole.

Some girls are sifting and shaking, and Communists dare not enter, except for his eleventh Christmas when every person in his house got a small , crumbling gift. A工作总结 of his life was the mutual opinion of his classmates and friends.

Back as my farm boy, his mother is the best cook in the world, and is almost as busy as he is. His father is a small businessman, is a member of the Wisconsin Farmers Association, and made the arrangements for the annual physics department at Eau Claire, next year.

Both parents proudly watched him graduate from high school, and by way of celebration they bought him a new wrist watch, and a shaving set.

After graduation he served anywhere from eighteen to forty months in the Army, Navy, or Marines, and then came to college. He pays three sixty a week for room at the Eat Shop, or Klink's, and invariably writes home every month, usually about a week before the government check arrives. Underneath his faded blue shirt at Eau Claire and the junior year, and at the end of the semester gets a "B" minus and feels he has earned it. He goes to about two classes a day, with a cute "Dormitory" on Saturday night. The course he finds most enjoyable is to drop back to the Dorm on Wednesday evening. He tells his football head coach at a football game, to be most7 time, and starts out with a certain amount of enthusiasm for the music.

Granton, Wisconsin, is the home of his grandparents, who is also the family physician. His great grandmother is still undiscovered wealth, and the doctor is almost as big as he thinks he is.

This, then, is the average college man. He is indeed a very interesting person, with all the unique likes and dislikes and personality traits that we have learned to enjoy in the people we know.

Typical Faces

Behind these familiar, smiling faces lies a wealth of adventure, philosophy, living. At the bass fiddle in the Central State College orchestra, a bass horn in CSTC's band, sits a dark-haired, clean-shaven junior (particularly for his maturity) smiles his name. Carpenter, - Warren.

Band and orchestra are favorite background interests of Carpenter. The fiddler with which he participates in symphonic orchestras, and is a member of Benny Gagg's dance orchestra with which he plays and appears at a representation of the same.
