Dance to be Held at Legion Hall

At last, with a sigh of relief, all of the pleads of Greek organizations on the campus are in line, and the new administration, including the junior and senior classes, is ready to meet the students.

The decorations will carry out the Greek theme, with symbols, classic sculptures, and murals. Committees for the dance are: Decorations, Tau Gamma Beta, co-chairs; Sidney fined and Betty Dietz; invitations, Omega Mu Chi, chairman, Joann Kenney; refreshments, leaves and children, and tickets and programs, Delta Rho.

The climax of the pledging season will be the Greek dinners when the pledges will be initiated into the Greek organizations. Tau Gamma Beta will have its dinner at Nelson hall. This is to be quite an occasion, and the presence of the sorority will be expected. Caroline Krogness is chairman of the dinner.

Omega Mu Chi will have its dinner at a special location decorated for the occasion with the flowers and colors of spring, and the principal speaker will be announced early. Lucy Chappell and Julie Millman will be the grand marshals. The Phi Sigma Epilson will have its dinner at the Country Club. Dr. Bernard F. Wielke, executive, and Frederick A. Krempe will be the principal speaker, and the dinner will be held at the Belmant hotel.

Pupett Show Will Be Given Friday Morning

Mrs. Richard N. Pipe, an amateur puppeteer of Superior, Wisconsin, will give a puppet show at the art room (212), Friday, March 18, at 10 o'clock.

The exhibition, mostly miniatures in nature, with Mexican and clown ensembles, will last for approximately 30 minutes. Two performances may be given during the hour.

This program has been arranged by the assembly committee to stimulate interest in puppet making, preparatory to that art of the crafts society.

All interested members of the college faculty and of the student body are invited to attend.

Glee Club Tours Glee Club Concert at Fon-du-lac

A small group of members of the Men's Glee Club accompanied Nor- man K. Koutzes to Fon-du-lac Tuesday evening, March 15, where they gave a concert before the Kiwanis Club at the Retlaw hotel. The dinner was in recognition of the interest of the Kiwanis and included guest delegates from a wide southwestern area.

Afternoon and evening concerts are being presented by the Men's Glee Club at Phila- delphia today. Special St. Patrick's Day music will be sung by Larry Mel- don and John Anderson.
Our campus consists of several large buildings, cement walls curving through well cared lawns and inaccessible historic markings from the carved initials on the stone steps in the aging town and ivy.

One of the more prominent landmarks on our campus is Nelson Hall. Pointed out to visiting friends with pride, it is a scholastic and social atmosphere as well as home. A large share of the friendly atmosphere that distinguishes CST from other buildings originate in and around the "dorms."

Do You Belong in College?

The time might not be far off when colleges and universities will have to earn the right to be called "higher education" rather than merely something they can process. Perhaps in the not too distant future, the state teachers colleges will be regulating the quantity and quality of students in several different respects.

Just at the time when college enrollment throughout the country is at an all-time high, the Veterans Administration has issued a pointed warning, based on a survey by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, to the effect that several professional fields are getting manpower in excess of need.

In every college that teaches that education are jampacked. Right now stiff competition is the rule in the engineering field. Chemists, personnel workers and others are in related fields are beginning to feel the pinch. The inference is that more people should look to the trades rather than the professions for means of livelihood.

How to Stay in College

How to Stay in College

1. Bring the professional sense of dealing with your subject. Demonstrates a keen interest and gives him timely items to mention to the class. If you can't clip things dealing with your subject, bring in any clipping having a bearing on any current day's happenings dealing with the subject.

2. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't sit at the rear of the room. Most professors feel a little hurt in every class that meets at this college.

3. Nod frequently and murmur, "How true!" To you, this seems exaggerated. To the instructor, it conveys a lack of interest.

4. Sit in front near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake.) If you're going to all the trouble of making a good impression, you might as well let him know who you are, especially in a large class.

5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell. If he looks up from his notes and smiles unexpectedly, he has you pegged.

6. Watch out for reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.

7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an impression if the rest of the class is awake and you sit there alone, dozing.

8. Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book that the professor is using in his class and not to the school yearbook. If you have a question, ask it. Sometimes your professor may answer it, but in the first place should have it answered by him in a private conference. But if you're not sure about anything, ask your professor before the class begins. If you don't understand, ask a second question about it.

The Social Science Council of the University of Wisconsin

The Social Science Council of the University of Wisconsin is an organization of students interested in the social sciences. Its purposes are to foster interest in these fields and to promote activities related to them. The council is open to all students, regardless of major, who are interested in the social sciences. Meetings are held regularly, and officers are elected by the membership. The council also sponsors a variety of social and educational events throughout the year, including guest lectures, film screenings, and panel discussions. The council is a great way to meet like-minded individuals and to learn more about the social sciences. If you're interested, be sure to check them out!

Training School's Young Thespians

Reserve Friday, March 18, as the day you will attend the plays given at 7:30 o'clock in the college auditorium in the seventh grade dramatic club of the Training School.

The students will present "Promote the General Welfare," a serious one act play, "Midge Goes to the Movies," a humorous one act play and "Watch Out for Barking Dogs," a mystery comedy of three acts.

Though pupils of this age ordinarily confuse "act" with "act," it is reported that this group is doing a very fine job in producing a line play.

The Independent League's Top Honors Captured by UndeFeated Raiders

The Independent Basketball league held its annual awards banquet last night honoring the Raiders posting an undefeated season to win the championship. The Raiders received the first place trophy and are leading in all of the 11 contests.

The Raiders team is a perfect 11-0 and will be looking to keep the title in the league.

The team is led by head coach George Berg, who is looking to lead the team to the conference championship.

The team's success is attributed to their strong defense and teamwork. They have scored a total of 328 points this season, with only 122 points allowed by their opponents.

The team's star player, Bob Morgan, has averaged 15 points per game, leading the conference in scoring.

The Independent League's Most Valuable Player Award went to Alphonse Vonk of Grover-Nauta, who led the conference in rebounding with 12.5 rebounds per game.

The conference's All-Tournament Team included Bill West of Univeritv of Platteville, Stan Hoffman of River Falls, and John Nagy of Oshkosh, who were instrumental in leading their respective teams to the championship.

The conference also announced the academic All-Star Team, which included Don Guzman of Central Wisconsin, Art West of St. Cloud, and Jim Johnson of Mankato State, who maintained a high GPA while leading their teams to success.

The Independent League's final rankings showed Grover-Nauta at the top, followed by Univeritv of Platteville, River Falls, and Oshkosh. The conference plans to announce their post-season awards at the annual banquet in May.

The Independent League has nine teams, including Grover-Nauta, Univeritv of Platteville, River Falls, Oshkosh, St. Cloud, Mankato State, Stevens Point, Wisconsin, and Wisconsin-Oshkosh. They will be looking to build on their success in the upcoming season.
