The Defense Rests

There has been frequent criticism recently to the effect that the POINTER editorial policy is not liberal enough. For this reason we offer the following explanation in defense of the present editorial policy.

Our definition of a liberal editorial policy would be one in which there would be an en-biased and non-partisan publication of any material of sufficient reader interest that conforms to set standards of taste. We strongly suspect that the advocates of a more liberal policy construe the term, liberal, to mean the inclusion of two types of material to which we are greatly approach.

term, liberal, to mean the inclusion of two types of material to which we are greatly opposed.

The first would probably be the gossip column or the "guess who was seen holding hands with Mary J." sort of thing. It may be that Mary J. is deeply interested in whoever happens to be holding her hand and it may also be that a few of Mary's friends might like the answer to this question, but we are fairly certain that the majority of the student body will be able to sleep well at night without knowing who Mary's secret lower is lover is.

Another factor to be considered in determining the general value of a gossip column to any newspaper is that it takes an expert writer to do this type of work without hurting someone's feelings. We realize that this is never, or very seldom, done with malice aforethought but people's feelings are easily hurt and even writers of the caliber of Walter Winchell and Louella Parsons can not write their columns without exposing themselves to the wrath or indignation of someone who would rather not have had his or her private affairs publicized. Gossip columns are probably the most frequent causes of newspaper libel suits. We feel that it is much better to entirely omit doubtful material of this nature than to take a chance on injuring someone's dientiv.

better to entirely omit doubtful material of this nature than to take a chance on injuring someone's dignity.

We understand that the proponents of a more liberal editorial policy would like to see in print the type of story that, in refined circles, is called risque, but is more aptly termed "shady." They do not propose for publication the "men only" type of joke but only those suitable for mixed company. They possibly believe that this type of humor is certainly not harmful and would add to the general make-up of the paper. We do not agree.

we do not consider ourself as a strait-laced Puritan and have at times

We do not consider ourself as a strait-laced Puritan and have at times laughed heartily at stories that would probably be included in the abovenamed category. But we must draw the line some place between humor and vulgarity and, as in the case of the gossic column, it is difficult to do so with any degree of accuracy. Therefore, "when in doubt, throw it out" seems to be the best policy in this instance.

We must remember, whether it pleases us or not, that we, as prospective members of the teaching profession, have certain standards and ethics to uphold. We must also remember that few other organs are as indicative of a nation, city or school's general attitude as a newspaper and that the POINTER reaches the eyes of many of our prospective employers.

Any constructive criticisms in defense of or opposition to the present Pointer editorial policy will be welcomed. We ask only that the authors affix their names to any material submitted. Pointer

Pointers to Play Northland Tonight for Season's Opener

The 1950-51 Pointer basketball squad will undergo its baptismal fire of the season when it invades the hinterland for a busy Thursday and Friday outing with Northland College and Michigan Tech.

Several new actors will be in director Hale Quandt's cast. A pair of new guards will probably be given lead roles. They are Jack Meleski, six footer from Stevens Point, and Ray Anderson from White Lake. Up front the veterans will take over. Bill Wagner, last year's main point producer will be at center. Flanking Wagner will be the versatile Chet Polka and Don Schneiders. The forward wall should be responsible for most of the team's scoring.

most of the team's scoring.

If one of the starting actors falters
Coach Quandt has a ready reserve.
Three lettermen who are fighting totain their positions are included in this group. "Tex" Polzin, Bruce Menzel, the recently engaged forward (referring to his marital status), and Walt Samelstad, who is still nursing a bad ankle.

Also fighting for a varsity position is Fred Schadewald, 6'2" center who played on last years championship high school team, Willard Herrick who plays center and forward, Phil Jones forward from Elkhorn, Roger English, who hails from Merrill, "Nubbs" Miller from Stevens Point, and Gerald Rued from Wisconsin Rapids.

Intramural Highlights

A decided interest in basketball has been shown by the forming of a 22 team intramural league. This year the league is divided into three divisions, the red, the white, and the blue. At the end of the season the top two teams in each division will be eligible to compete for the championship. Games are being played in both the training school and the college gyms, so interested fans will have more than ample opportunity to witness these events.

The players and fans are urged to watch the sports bulletin board for any postponed or make up games, and to keep an eye on the Pointer for results, schedules and standings.

Correction !!

In a story in the November 16 issue of the Pointer Frank W. Crow was inadvertently given a year's leave of absence from his position as history instructor. Actually he has only a semester's leave. The Pointer, in a Thanksgiving mood, was just too generous.

Student Council's Actions

The following actions were taken at the Student Council's meeting Monday evening, November 27:

Monday evening, November 27:

1. A discussion was held as to whether or not the Student Council had sufficient powers under its present constitution to carry out a positive constructive program for the student body here at Central State. It was generally agreed that the present powers are sufficient and will be sufficient if they are only used in effective ways. The power, it was felt, is there. It simply needs a hardworking and progressive Student Council to put it to use. Precedents must be established and will, Council members agreed.

2. Student Council voted to ap-

2. Student Council voted to apply for admission to National Student association pending the allocation of the necessary funds to join the organization. Further details on NSA will appear in next week's Pointer.

5. The proposed ice skating rink at Garfield school for the convenience of college students and for Operation Week-End was found impracticable. The city of of Stevens Point recommends that CSTC use the high school rink.

thank President Hansen and the student body for helping to make the sale a great success.

Newman Club

The Newman Club, in line with the Student Council's "Operation Weekend," has decided to hold its bi-monthly meeting on Sunday, December 3. The meeting place will be the Rural Assembly and the time, 7:30 P.M. Among the business to be taken up will be a report by the nine members who attended the Regional Convention in La Crosse two weeks ago. Those attending the convention were Mary Geenan, Chet Polka, Henry Dreschler, Carol Collins, Jacqueline Benjamin, Kathryn Stankevich, Dorothy Wotruba, Pat Ariens, and Miss May M. Roach.

Newmanites are urged to remember that the organization will receive communion in a body next Tuesday morning, December 5, at the 7:00 A.M. mass at St. Stanislaus Church.

YWCA

Three girls were initiated into the YWCA Thursday, November 16 at Miss Mirian Moser's apartment. Those new members are Ruth Teetzen, Anita Hoeft and Eunice Bauer. Christmas cards will be sold by members in the school halls and also in room 336, Nelson Hall. The Y-Dub caroling and Christmas party will be held December 7. Reta Fontaine,

This lively little Laonan has also directed plays at the Training School for the last three years. 'Suppressed Desires,' one of the one-act plays to be presented in January by Alpha Psi Omego, will also be under her direction. As if all these activities weren't enough, she has been a copywriter for the 'Iris,' a four year Newman Club member, and a Radio Workshopper for the past two years.

CSTC Band Playing Clinic and Concert at Shawano

The CSTC band will leave right after dinner today to play a clinic and concert at the Shawano high school. The band will play state concert numbers and will sit in with the Shawano high school band during its daily hour rehearsal. The band will perform for the benefit of high school directors of the Shawano area who will assemble there to hear it. The trip will be ended with a concert given by the band this evening.
