The Way of Rome:

America the Materialistic
America is going the way of Rome.
We Americans are too materialistic. Our Gods are wealth, honor, and pleasure.

* Americans have advanced — materially. We have more to eat, better clothes, and more money.
* We are using up the resources of the earth.

But what good is all this prosperity? Are we any better off now than our forefathers? Can we say we are as good as they were?

* Such prosperity has harmed us. Its inroads into the fine arts, literature and science have killed the best minds of the nation.

We neglect the wealth of knowledge that is found in our island of books, in the infinite store of man's wisdom and genius. We destroy the finest library in the world, the library of the United States, and send it to the trash heap.

* We are losing the sweetness of life and the joy of living. We are living in a world of material things, of buying and selling, of money and power.

The途West’s unseated set but one condition for America’s success. Great decisions must be made by men and women of will and vision.

* The Mid-West’s unseated set but one condition for America’s success. Great decisions must be made by men and women of will and vision.

* May there always be as many American men and women of will and vision who will keep America the American dream alive! D. R. R.
