When you stop down at the Central College Book Shop you pick up your texts, but it might be a good idea to look over the glosses and texts of the other regulars. Mrs. R. Blakeslee, Mrs. R.. Blakeslee, and Curtes Judd, Looy Judd, and Curtes Judd, Looy did you in your selection.

The Central College Book Shop marks a varied line of paperbacks with a wide basis hard on for no extra charge. Some comtines of paperbacks (Penguin, Mass, Penguin, Mass, others) are governed by facil-

k, Dylan Thomas), pages from famous artists or seasonal demand, children’s literature.

For those interested in art, the book show exhibits student paintings, drawings, prints, and a variety of objects.

The plans commented on busithe shop: “There’s a steady run of browsers, but it’s too often an hour before people come in. We have so few new people come in.”

The trends in reading, Mrs. Blakeslee answered, are usually dictated by the most popular books of the current catalog. Theological and philosophical books go quickly and often books that are always in the best sellers will disappear overnight. (This is a trend in the century.)

Ogilvy’s faculty member remarked about the shop, “It gives students a chance to build a good library — a library that will be passed down to the next generation — and will go to towns that do not have a public library. We hope people will take advantage of it, for there are few chances they will have to meet materiand library patrons in the shop.

So the next time you have a few minutes, stop by the Book Shop for a range from pugilistic to Zen Buddhism — there’s bound to be one to suit you.

TO THE STUDENT BODY OF CSU:

In the last issue of the POINTER a letter appeared in the LETTERS TO THE EDITOR section which contained an opening sentence that read, "Hon. N.S. Kruschev." Through the use of a typewriter, the opening sentence was altered into an article that might make the Moscow PRAVDA. It is as follows:

"The group contains those who say that 'Kremlin brothe1 and occasionally do a little bit by the Red Jet': ~1 1~ 11":

College Days Have Their Delights

No doubt by this time in the school term, most of you have become acquainted, or even familiar, with the saying, "College days have their delights—But they can't compare with college teacher's days!"

Well, as a freshman and sophomore and even part of his junior year, Kermit Schmitt was of this opinion. He didn't see a statement of fact in whole heartedly. Then, when he decided to change— he began practice teach- ing! It wasn't that he changed; it was just the manner in which the nights were spent. He was attending college here as she belongs, and constructing this, that, and the other. Kermit Schmitt had some experience with this method of teaching. He remembered them well also; for the young teacher's eyes were opened wide with wonder by every young college to writing letters to help his students, he discovered that he had made some progress in that line, and was able to see at a glance, the beauty of the whole scheme of things. Kermit Schmitt found that he had made some headway here also, but it didn't take too long before he was convinced that he was becoming more and more of a professional in the teaching field. It also seemed like the whole college student population was increased by about three or one half the time that he had been teaching there. Kermit Schmitt was not a very easy man to get along with, but he was not a very easy man to get along with, either. Kermit Schmitt had some experience in that line, and was able to see at a glance, the beauty of the whole scheme of things. Kermit Schmitt's teacher, Paul Ebenzer, was a junior here at CSC. He had not taken a single college course, even though the class had been deciding what courses Ebenzer should take. Some of the subjects which made the list were Education 269 — he remembered that day quite well. The fourth semester will be spent by Ebenzer in the same place, as he belongs in the faculty of the school. The difference is that he is not teaching here. Ebenzer had had some experience in that line, and was able to see at a glance, the beauty of the whole scheme of things. Lagging at Lagmore

"Well, well, come right in. As President here at Lagmore Behind Institute of Education, I can offer you to our fine and noble school.

"Since this is your second visit here, we should perhaps take a tour of the campus before anything else. It will be taught here next semester. This is not so

"...in our beautiful gymnasium where all our championship teams train. Over here (in the boys' area) the boys are tuning up for their big match with the lads from (name of rival school) on Friday (at 2 p.m.).

"We won't even bother to go troop- ing around the campus; it's too hot. We're all outside playing our instruments, playing the new jazz tunes, and having fun."

"There are so many different activities on campus, I never know what to do. I'd like to come back and see more, but I'm not sure I will."

"Now, here on the first floor, we have the main hall, where we hold all the important meetings. It's a really nice room, very spacious and well-lit.

"The halls are always filled with students, professors, and visitors. It's a great place to be, and I always enjoy coming here."

"You'll have to call me Kenneth. I'm the president of Lagmore Behind Institute."
Season Opener 96-73 Point Over Ashland

After a slow start which found the Pointers trailing Northland College 13-11 through 9:44, junior center Alan Schulz led the Pointers to the 83-73 victory over Ashland College. From that point on, the Pointers were never seriously threatened, as they pulled away from Ashland after a 6-0 run midway through the second half. At the end of the game, the new Pointers starters, including T.J. Klawinski, Bob Bostad, and John Pomeroy, gained more experience in their first outing of the season.

One, Two, Three - A look at our Basketball Opposition

We are favored to upset the Pointers as Conference Basketball champions. La Crosse, Eau Claire, and the two sporadic freshmen from Wisconsin Rapids, according to Coach John Pomeroy, are the most formidable obstacles only. surpluses has not ended, according to Coach Peck. Each has Lucius Torr led the Pointers. Coach Peck, who has graduated from Wisconsin Rapids, is a three-year letterman who has gained more experience in his first outing of the season.

The Pennsylvania Athletic Conference will meet for their annual fall meeting at Eau Claire in November. They adopted a new rule which allows for two non-conference games per year. The rule also allows the Pointers to play in the Pennsylvania Athletic Conference again.

The Wisconsin Athletic Conference will meet on November 9 in Studio A. The conference will not only hold its monthly meeting but also will award its annual awards.

Freedom Needs Educated People

In every business, every industry, every institution, every educated person mounts year by year in a world that becomes constantly more complex, becomes a prime necessity.

That's why all of us have a vital interest in any and all universities. Today these institutions are doing their best to meet the growing demand for educated manpower. But they are handicapped by lack of funds.

More money is needed each year, and this year is no exception. Faculty salaries up to an adequate standard and provide a sound education for the young people who want and deserve it. As a practical measure to protect the future of your business, help the colleges or universities of your choice now. The returns will be greater than you think.

Danforth Graduate Fellows Offered

The Danforth Foundation, an educational foundation located in St. Louis, Missouri, invites applications for the seventh class (1958) of Danforth Graduate Fellows from college senior men and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter school in September, 1958. The scholarship is based on merit rather than on financial need. The maximum annual grant for single fellows is $1148 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students; for married fellows, $1400 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students.

President Wm. C. Hauser has named Mr. Gilbert Pastern as the Danforth Foundation Officer to nominate to the Danforth Foundation two or not exceed three candidates for these 1958 fellowships. These appointments are, fundamentally, “a relationship of encouragement” throughout the years of graduate study, or a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions and financial aid is needed. The maximum annual stipend for single fellows is $1148 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students; for married fellows, $1400 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students with an additional stipend of $350 for children. Student with or without financial need are invited to apply. Applicants are allowed to carry other scholarship appointments, such as Rhodes, Fulbright, Woodrow Wilson, Marshall, etc., concurrently with his Danforth Fellowship. Applications for these appointments are cordially invited to apply at the same time for Danforth Fellowship. If a man receives the Danforth Appointment, together with a Rhodes Scholarship, Fulbright Scholarship, or Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, he becomes a Danforth Fellow without stipend, unless these other relationships are completed.

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching, to be held at Camp Miniwance in Michigan the next September. The qualifications of the candidates as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are: men of outstanding academic ability, personality to the classroom, and integrity and character, including serious inquiry within the Christian tradition.

All applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by January 31, 1958. Any student wishing further information should get in touch with our Liaison Officer, Mr. Pastern.

One syllable words are the hardest.

Fanciful Facts by Robert C. Preble, President ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA

"Consideration will be given to every application," says Director McPhee. "We hope the list of applicants will include every qualified person within the interest of the colleges."
Foreign Study Grants For Young Americans

One hundred and sixty-five scholarships for young Americans to study in thirteen countries around the world are now open for competition. It was announced by the Institute for International Education. Applications must be filed by January 15, 1958.

These awards are primarily for one year beginning in the fall of 1958, and are for study in Austria, Brazil, Cuba, Denmark, France, Germany, Iran, Israel, Italy, the Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United Kingdom. Administered by IIE, they are financed by foreign governments, universities, and private organizations.

Most of the scholarships do not cover travel expenses but persons applying for Austrian, Danish, French, German, Italian and Netherlands awards may apply for a Fulbright travel grant to supplement the scholarship. Applications for travel grants must also be submitted by January 15, 1958.

Most of these scholarships are open to candidates in languages and cultures, fine and applied arts, sciences, social sciences, philosophy, history and theology. The French program includes forty scholarships for young Americans to teach in French secondary schools and teacher training institutions. Many of these scholarships may also take courses in nearby universities.

The awards in the United Kingdom are open only to candidates from labor unions. A college degree is not required for these awards but applicants must be able to follow studies at the college level.

General eligibility requirements are U.S. citizenship, a bachelor’s degree by the time of departure (applicants in the field of medicine must have an M.D. degree), knowledge of the language of the country being visited, a good academic record and good health. Generally, the age limit is 25 years. The Cuban award and certain French awards specify that candidates must be under 26 while the Netherlands awards are for persons under 28.

For further information about these scholarships write to the Institute for International Education in New York or to the regional offices for the brochure Foreign Study Grants. The Information Division of IIE in New York City will also answer inquiries about schools and fields of study.
