Registration is an impressive one, in that it is both an end- and a beginning-form-filling process, and finding classes is bound to affect the opinions of our average freshman, how soon of the freshmen answered the question, how do you like CSC so far? Searce Schma "I like it very much so far. It's a little bewildered, but I like it!"
Dave Kavesh - Stevens Point "I really thought about it. Too busy!"
Jackie Fritzsch - Withrow "It's really a lot of fun!
Carlene Laos - Tigrion "Just fine! It's a little different but I like it."
Gary Manteufel - Oxford "Fine. But it's a lot of work."
Le Roy Carlson - Adams "It's kind of early to say."
Martin Lee Maye - Green Bay "Day by day. Everyone is so friendly!"

First Week Freshman Episodes Are History

The life of a freshman at college during the first few weeks is not one to be envied by the average working man, as it is regulated by one law: survival of the fittest.

From the starting gun the struggle is on. The course during registration is about as straight as the passage of goods on a railroad in line the longest. Against all regulations are such aids as false chairs, crates, and comic books to which to attach the新生er with arch supports have not been outlawed. The teacher of 1945 no longer keeps away with this innovation since it tends to produce soft, pampered freshmen.

Survivors of this ordeal are then urged to take part in a card-filling campaign. Another problem to be met by the新生er comes quite apparent, Every class, each professional people in the world," said Miss Innis, who is in charge of the text book library, will be glad to give you additional information.

To Purchase Your Texts

The high school principal has given a list of books required for each class. In case students did not receive all the required texts for a particular class, in which case they would need to buy more books.

The text book library, located in the basement of the library, is open from 8:00-12:00 and 1:00-5:00 for the purpose of buying books. There is a 15% discount on each book and a 10% additional deduction for each semester the book has been in use. This book you need an old, read, or have any question concerning, buying or borrowing a book, Mrs. Innis in charge of the text book library, will be glad to give you additional information.

JACK CARLESON

Jack Carleston, a member of the Freshmen Fasiy, was set up seven years ago. He was a high schooler Ruth Ann established residence at CBS. But when this edition of the Carleby turns family became a senior, she could be sure of her name being published in the columns of CSC history, for her brother Jack Carleston was a member of the Freshmen Fasiy. Now he is a senior, bringing to a close Carleby family interest in the Freshmen Fasiy. Jack, 21, is a native of New Lon­don, Wis., who has been a football coach for a good many years. None of the Armed Forces or certainly one of the gridiron, Jack made his mark in four years of col­lege. He played center on the football back (with a current punting ave­rage of over 40 yards) and got himself best off on a wet field — the ground. He did it. And he did it with all that sufficiency that has gratified all destinies in that direction.

Now, a few other vital statistics. A 6-foot, 220-pounder, Roy Carleston is active in campus life, with minors in English and Spanish and a major in Pre-Law. He is looking into an expected future in coaching and teach­ing. He plans to take a few seats in the law school, and sometime next year, he'll go to law school.

This last summer Jack spent in a session of summer school and doing odd jobs in the vicinity of the Chain of Lakes. He pays his own way through school with some help from his family. He is quite an accommodating young man enough to enable him to own a car of his own — another check on the plus side of the "eligible" list. This future lawyer is a sports fan, and is a member of one or two teams. He is active in track and is a member of one of his town's basketball teams.

"I think school teachers are, or should be, the most important profes­sional people in the world," said Miss Faber. "Their influence on children, on adolescents, and on young men and women students, is so small that it can be concluded as he observes students peering earnestly behind each door as they progress down the hallway.

"Every student comes to college with different ideals, some to learn, some to have fun, many to make new friends, and some to have a hard time. Some of them are back to the days of their childhood, with affection and gratitude."

The stimulating teacher of Wisconsin is one who is able to determine the name of one of his Wisconsin textbooks in his sleep.

"She lasted at one time of each that could do the job, she was the one to talk to, she was the one who could do it."

"I must have forgotten this advice, but as weeks went by because none of us learned it. But I still wake up in a cold sweat when I'm thinking, I must get it at!"

The Pointer

Point Hosts Whitewater Gridders Friday Night

The CSC Pointer fans were treated to an exciting game, with the Pointers earning a 7-6 victory over the Whitewater Quakers at Goerke Field in Marinette, Wisconsin. The game was odyssey, and the next few years. The Pointers will be facing several senior among them so the Pointers will be facing a team which will remain intact through the next few years.

Co-Captain Doug Davidson holds out for a win. Qualcomm ranked fourth among the nation's mid-major teams, averaging 43 yards per kick. They have been disappointing.

The football season is finally upon us. This may be a welcome relief for those who have lived through a long winter. Let's hope the weather will be better than last time, and let's get out and back to the Pointers.

Another year is upon us and another sport editor bites the dust. The book of sports editor does get some rest during the season with no clear cut favorites for this year, but we will try to live up to the tradition of our predecessors.

Mr. Funk & Mr. Wagnalls

"Is it in this matter of Good Taste," said Mr. Funk to his secretary, "take a definition.
"Taste: sensations . . . excited . . . by the . . . action of the gustatory nerves . . ."?
"And add this," put in Mr. Wagnalls. "Taste: the faculty of . . . appreciating the beautiful . . ."
"That," said Mr. Funk, "wraps it up. Mr. Wagnalls, will you join me in a Coca-Cola?"
"So good in taste . . ."
"And . . . in such good taste!"
