In October, 1940, students and faculty alike were pleased to learn that William C. Hansen had been chosen by the Board of Regents at Madison to be the new president at CSC.

President Hansen, who claims to be a farm boy, was born in Neenah and received his education in Withee. Graduating from CSC, what was then known as Stevens Point Normal School in 1911, little did he expect to return with the duties of president 29 years later.

After graduation, he taught school two years before he attended the University of Wisconsin. Here he completed his A.B. and M.S. degrees and additional studies. He has taught at Menomonee Falls, St. Croix Falls, later held the principalship of the Union Free High School at Milltown, which led to his principalship at the Newville schools.

He got a taste of college teaching at the State Teachers College at Eau Claire. Then in 1929 he assumed his presidential duties at Madison. He is, in addition, a registered attorney.

In 1932 as their senior, he received the prestigious "Arms And The Man" award from the Stevens Point Chamber of Commerce, the Northwestern Wisconsin Education Association and the Southern Wisconsin Education Association. In 1939 he was presented with the Distinguished Citizen award by the Stevens Point Chamber of Commerce.

He has been the president of the Stevens Point Normal School Alumni Association, and the Stevens Point Normal School Foundation.

Hansen is now chairman of the Portage County School Committee. He is chairman of the Portage County School Committee. He and Mrs. Hansen, formerly Esther Hinkelstein of Menomonee Falls, live in the Town of Plover, three miles from CSC.

The Hansen's have four daughters, all who have graduated from the University of Wisconsin. They are Miss Helen Hansen, Stevens Point; Mrs. Pete A. Back, Plover; Mrs. Bruce Sanderson, Birmingham, Mich., and Mrs. Robert W. Dean, Rothschild.

President Hansen has served as the head of the Stevens Point Chamber of Commerce, the Northwestern Wisconsin Education Association, and the Southern Wisconsin Education Association. In 1959 he was presented with the Distinguished Citizen award by the Stevens Point Chamber of Commerce.

He is, in addition, a past president of Wisconsin Education Association and a life member of that organization. He holds memberships in the National Education Association, the American Bar Association, and in both the Masonic Lodge and Conistory.

To know the real Mr. Hansen, one should talk to him personally. That conversation would probably start from trout fishing in the famous Chippewa River, or from his favorite "hobbies.

Then, and only then, might one get an idea of his interest in building things and of his remodeling projects, his cottage at the lake. From there, the subject quietly changes to his family.

CSC is completing its 67th year. President Hansen recalls the days when CSC was much younger.

"My first contact with this school was when it was only fifteen years old. Then it was known as Stevens Point Normal School. It was an already established paper, we had two active men's debating teams, Forum and Aethenians. Its annual debut was a big school event, as was the Junior debate with Oshkosh. The theoretical highlight was the Senior Class Play, held in the Opera Hall."

The Death Of A Man

Several weeks ago, one of America's sharpest and most perceptive social critics died. He was Clark M. Wright, author of many influential books including The New Men of Power, Wealth and Influence, Collar, The Power Elite, The Sociological Imagination, The Causes of World War Three, and Ladders, Yankee! In addition, he just recently completed a work which is being submitted this spring entitled The Marxians.

Wright was an intellectual giant, he has nothing to teach and he taught the entire world as a sociologist to bear on the problems confronting modern society, delving into the realm of politics, economics, and philosophy. He was one of the greatest critics of the times and his work is still relevant.

Wright's death is a loss to all of us, particularly those of us who are interested in the study of society and politics.

Education Workshop Set for Mid-August

Wisconsin State Colleges are sponsoring their second annual Outdoor Education and School Camping Workshop in northern Wisconsin this August. A two-credit program will be conducted at the State College campus of the Peninsula Lake Camp from August 17-28.

Pigeon River Camp is located in the Chequamegon National Forest, about 100 miles northwest of Superior. It is a necessity for the introductory class in State College's camping and outdoor education program. Professor Paul Nagel of Wisconsin State College, Platteville, will again direct the popular camping workshop. Although the registration deadline will be limited to 28 participants. The complete cost is $56 per person.

Nagel said the workshop is designed for college students and in-service teachers and supervisors who are interested in this rapidly developing educational field.

"The workshop again will blend, the philosophy of outdoor education, and school camping with practical experiences," said Nagel. "We are receiving the latest information on such topics as safety, group leadership, conservation, and even the integration of the classroom, camping and school camping. More than that, the State College camping program is a highlight of the workshop. The campers will be practiced during overnight camping, camping through the Namekagon River and during and after the workshop.

He pointed out that last year's trip down the Namekagon was a tremendously successful event.

"Some women teachers in their early fifties said it was the most exciting experience they would always cherish," Nagel said.

Serving with Nagel on the staff are Drs. Jacob Shapley of Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh, and Donald Lowry of St. Louis State College.

Cmez
A chain of progress which is terminating with this school year at Central State College started on October 15, 1948, when it was announced by the Board of Regents that William C. Hansen, a superintendent of schools at Stoughton, was to be the new president of Central State, replacing Mr. E. C. Smith who passed away on September 28. Mr. Hansen assumed his duties on December 1, 1949.

Upon his arrival, a reception was held for President Hansen by Regent and Mrs. W. S. Delzell. This reception also marked Mr. Hansen’s return to the scene of his undergraduate study which he had completed at C.C.T.C. in 1911.

Soon after his arrival, President Hansen began administrating the numerous improvements in the physical plant at CSC which have occurred since 1946. The initial project involved the building of a new steam pipe system from the heating plant to Nelson Hall, placing boys and girls lavatories on the third floor of the college and remodeling the Dean of Women’s office.

The War Intervenes
On January 9, 1942, President Hansen made a speech to the student body which he countered in the call-up of the Reserve last Fall. In 1942, however, there were far more serious issues on the world had its effect on Central State. Men gave up their studies to fight for America. Thus started the activities on campus as the enrollment increased. Some even took a sharp dip and at the same time quarters were filled to the bursting point with the coming of the 9th College Training Detachment Air Crew to CSC.

In November of 1942, President Hansen was also elected to head the Wisconsin Education Association. The school year of 1942-43 closed with the graduation of 70 students.

The completion of the war in 1943 saw a drop in the enrollment at CSC from 424 to 310, with only 33 males enrolled. This year saw another proposal which has materialized during the reign of Mr. Hansen. A building which would house a student union and a gymnasium, to be built and on the campus, was the Schenck Field, was part of the planned expansion of State College facilities 20 years later, these two facilities are a part of the physical plant at CSC. The year of 1943-44 closed with the celebration commemorating 50 years of existence as a college.

The first semester of 1944 saw the enrollment drop to a new low because of the war. Activities continued at a subdued pace, but in February of 1945 President Hansen made a speech urging students to support legislation leading to a postwar building program at CSC. Of particular interest to the president was a physical education building with a Student Union attached.

This school year ended on a happier note as Allied victories in Europe brought peace on one hand and installation of a new financial aid program for veterans another, a contract was signed by Regents and Mr. W. S. Delzell, placing Mr. E. T. Smith who had filled the position of Superintendant of Schools created under his span of President Hansen's term.

Upon his return to school, the Student Union, which was officially opened on May 4, 1951, was the chairman of the Library Committee.

THE LIBRARY, among the most modern in the Midwest, was completed in the summer of 1954. President Hansen was the chairman of the Library Committee.

ANOTHER MEN’S dormitory, Steiner Hall, was built in 1957. This dorm is, however, now occupied by women because of a room shortage that developed this year.

Post-War Boom
September of 1946 saw the enrollment soar to an all-time high of 974 students. This first peacetime year since 1941 marked the beginning of an upward trend which shows no sign of abating in the current year of 1961-62. This last in Mr. Hansen's reign as president. The rapid post-war increase created many problems for the president, such as the need for additional faculty members, more classroom space and a broader curriculum. In addition, he had to face a rather severe housing shortage which was solved in part by the establishment of the CSC trailer colony. The housing shortage was expected to be even more acute in the fall of 1946, with the entering class of 1946-47 still reflected in the somewhat crowded residence halls.

The library at CSC also began to show the results of the post-war surge of enrollments as it became substantially revised in the school year of 1946-47. Many additions of courses in the various departments took place plus the revision of credit hours for some courses occurred.

A newly refurbished lounge greeted students arriving at Central State in the Fall of 1949. New cushioned seats were also installed in the Auditorium. In the curriculum, Driver Education was added, with Mr. Spectch as the instructor. In December, a contract was signed for the building of one of the major improvements during Mr. Hansen’s stay at CSC, a new men’s dormitory, to be built at the site of the tennis courts. This became the first men’s dormitory and was named after Regent Wilson Delzell.

February of 1950 saw the completion of a new suite of offices in the southwest wing of the basement of the main building, to be occupied by the members of the History department.

Graduation in 1950 saw an increase to 129 students receiving diplomas.

The Fall of 1950 saw a drop in the enrollment, due mostly to the Korean conflict. On May 9, the student union officially opened.

Enrollments during this school year continued to drop, due mostly to the Korean conflict. President Hansen officially opened it September 4, 1951.

The Fall of 1952 saw a drop in the number of students attending. The war had taken its toll and morale was low.

New Buildings Added
In January of 1952, Delzell Hall was announced as being nearly completed and that occupation would take place in March. Enrollments during this school year also dropped, due mostly to the Korean conflict. The Student Union, located in Delzell Hall, officially opened with a dedication dance.

The Fall of 1953 saw the creation of one of the most modern libraries in the state come into being at CSC. The committee of the Library was headed by President Hansen and the completion of it represented one of the major achievements at Central State. It was completed the summer of 1954 and opened its doors to students for the Fall Semester.

One of the first residents of this new library was Mrs. James Mathews, librarian, who was appointed the first librarian.

This same semester also saw the addition of five new faculty members and a more varied curriculum and an increase in enrollment to 813 students, a new high at Central State.

The Fall of 1955 also saw a sharp rise in the enrollment as 1,191 students registered at Central State. During the second semester it was announced that a third floor would be added to Delzell Hall and that a new student union would be named in the spring of 1956.

An increase of over twenty faculty members highlighted the first semester of 1957. The school year featured many changes and advancements and work was nearly completed on Steiner Hall, which was announced to be ready for occupancy in the Fall of 1957.

The Fall of 1958, an open house was held at Steiner Hall. This fine new building represented an other milestone in the career of Mr. Hansen and added to the formidable array of improvements created under his span of President of CSC. The new building was officially opened under the chairmanship of President Hansen who was in office in the fall of 1959, and completed in 1960.

Looking Back
This school year marked the hundredth anniversary of the beginning of the Wisconsin Education Association, the longest continuous history of any education association in the state. President Hansen was the chairman of the Library Committee.

THE LAST BUILDING completed on campus is an addition to the Physical Education building. Graduates in exercises were held in it for the first time in June, 1961. Under construction now is another dormitory, for men, which will be completed by Sept. 1962.
The year was capped by the awarding of 182 degrees to CSC graduates. The opening of the Student Union highlighted the first session of 1960-61 and gave the Campus a truly refined and mature look. In addition, the curriculum and enrollment showed substantial increases. More problems of growth presented themselves to President Hansen in the lack of classroom space. This was to be alleviated to some extent by the start of work on the other segment of Mr. Hansen's war-time dream, a physical education building, to be situated north of the main body of the campus. In May, it was announced that ten new faculty members would be associated with the staff at CSC in the Fall of 1960. At that record enrollment greeted the president in 1960 as the total reached an all-time high. This year also saw tremendous utilization of the facilities of the Student Union, the number of faculty members under Mr. Hansen's tutelage totaling 111 for this year. The graduation exercises for 1961 were held in the new Field House, with 286 degrees being conferred. This certainly represented a long trail of progress from 1941, when Mr. Hansen participated in his first graduation exercise as president of Central State College.

The final year of Mr. Hansen's term in office opened with another record enrollment at CSC as the total number of students went over the 2000 mark. This year also saw work well under way for another men's dormitory, to be built adjacent to the Field House and to be completed as the finest unit at CSC, in time for students in the Fall of 1960. This year also marked the beginning of several new on-campus improvements. Construction on a new academic building to replace the Field House and an addition to the present Student Union are to start in June. Thus the remarkable progress made under Mr. Hansen's administration seemed unabated even as he approaches the end of his career as a college administrator.

A summary of the achievements made by President Hansen while at CSC reveals that the college evolved from a teacher training school on the verge of bankruptcy, to one at least 500 to the present level of 2000. In this same span, Central State has become a Liberal Arts College and now has three separate colleges within its academic confines. The size of the faculty has also increased to nearly 125 members, teaching almost any course desired, with majors and minors in most fields a part of a greatly expanded curriculum. Perhaps the greatest advance at CSC under Mr. Hansen has been in the atmosphere which has become such as to give Central State a reputation as being the toughest school academically, of all the state colleges. Central State can boast of a fine intellectual atmosphere and a truly outstanding faculty headed by the masterful administration of Mr. Hansen. The other and most evident phase of progress at Central State in the 20 years of service of President Hansen is the number of buildings and improvements on the Main building. The list includes a new library, a Student Union, two fine men's dormitories, with a third under construction, a new physical education plant complete with swimming pool and a science building to be constructed, starting in June. In addition, the sports activities have been greatly expanded and now includes all sports excepting baseball, basketball, track and field.

Truly, the past twenty years have been remarkable for Central State and the college and all its members, both present and past, who overcame the problems brought on by a global war and a police action and the vast unrecorded expenditure, creating space shortages out of all proportion. Mr. Hansen has brought Central State College to the high standards it has attained due to the quality of the faculty and the devotion it holds as an institution of higher learning.

Women Honor Mrs. Hansen at Reception

Mrs. William C. Hansen, wife of the retiring president of Central State College was honored at a reception Sunday afternoon held at the College Union.

The guests were received by Mrs. Burdette Eagon, president of the host club, Mrs. Hansen and her daughter, Mrs. Peggy Buck and Miss Helen Hansen.

Student Council Sends Letter Of Appreciation

Dear President Hansen:

As representatives of the Wisconsin State College, Stevens Point, student body, wish to express our sincere gratitude for 50 years of dedication in the field of Education.

In particular, we recognize the years between 1940 and 1960 during which you have been ever so willing to give your guidance and aid to the student body. Those of us who have been at CSC within the past four years know you speak also for those students who have gone before us, when we express our appreciation for your friendship and guidance.

Looking back we recall the many problems which faced you and the administration when enrollment plunged during the war years and finances were at a minimum. Now with the necessary expansion because of increased enrollment we recognize that you have initiated the building expansion program. Within the years you have held office, CSC has seen the construction of three dormitories, a library, a Student Union, a field house and plans for a science building.

Students of CSC, past, present, and future will uphold the traditions you have created to further the education of our state and nation.

Respectfully yours,
Wisconsin State College

What Is Censorship?

by Jane Bursgreen

Censorship is defined in a strict sense as the prohibition and destruction of certain ideas, expression, and communication. In a more liberal and practical sense, it includes the exercise of public power and aggression against private parties in the circulation of certain books, etc. Either type of censorship is a threat against the freedom of thought.

I believe, too, that there are many books not worth reading, books dealing with immorality and brutality, or that teach prejudice and discrimination among peoples. But, although there are many forms of immorality, the central argument seems to limit problems of morality to sex, crime, and, and that confuses the first person, and that and the custom, the first book called attention to the plight of the farmers of 1930 and urban labor practices. It may be correct to assume that those who are not defined to nearly so much as the sex and swear words in the book as they did that the fact to which the shocking language rather the shocking language itself — the shocking language words that is in this book. reveals. In fact, when it was first published, "there is here revealed a temptation to shock, to startle the Heilmeons from their profound impressions of our country and for the first time in our history that the shocking language rather than the shocking language itself — the shocking language words that is in this book.
