Fines Levied For Illegal Campaigning

The Student Council Homecoming Committee has levied fines on two fraternities for violating the Homecoming rules. A $5 fine was levied against Alpha Beta Rho and a $25 fine against Track, both $10 above the fines levied in previous years.

The council adopted a 13-point program on policy, including new emphasis on student government, better student-faculty relations, and general betterment of conditions here at CSC. It will try to give the students an opportunity to be heard on issues of concern to the students.

Some phases of the program will begin immediately while others provide little more than a basis for action for future councils.

Student Conduct Policy

A recommendation to the deans on regulations covering fraternities for violating the rules was sent to the council for use of student groups using a bus for campaign purposes. The fine was approved and sent to the deans.

Dean Orland Radke had requested a Student Council opinion on rules of conduct for students.

Briefly, the rules call for complete registration of all such trips with the dean's office, reasonable conduct for the conduct of the trip, that a student in the group and strict penalties for violation of the rules.

Mailbox Rules Set

The Student Council sent an up-to-date . . . .vessel of mailboxes. The boxes are provided by the Student Council for use of students, but the rules are necessary. Fines will be assessed against violators.

The rules require that the mailboxes be checked, that the minimum of correspondence be five inches; that all mail be signed by the sender, and that no personal material be allowed without permission of the student council. The boxes must be left at an address that the council can use to maintain records.

The mailboxes are to be checked frequently, and if letters are left, the student council will be notified. Each box must be mailed within 20 yards of the earth.

The Library Film Series will present "Rasbo-Mon"

The Library Film Series will present "Rasbo-Mon" Nov. 8-9. The story is set in medieval Japan and involves the murder trial of the story. The is an attack on a Japanese man and his wife by a bandit as they travel through the forests. The murder is bound, his wife raped, and then the man is marked for death. The story of the murder is told from four different points of view, with each set of evidence being kept.

Ordinarily, repetition of the same scene four times might tend to confuse the audience, but the technical skill of the director keeps the audience involved at all points throughout the entire 97 minutes. The film is shown in English and draws people from all levels of society. Viewers will note the minute photographic details that shade each character and scene.

The CSC audience is not accustomed to the amount of film that it has impressive credentials. In 1956 it won the Grand Prize of the Venice Film Festival. It also has been selected by the National Board of Review and has an Academy Award for the best foreign film. The dialogue is in Japanese with English subtitles.

Three Senior Nominees For Danforth fellows

Three of CSC's senior men have been nominated for Danforth Fellowships. They are Gregory Zuckerman, Stephen Taft and Roberta C. McKeown.

The Danforth Fellowships are awarded annually to about 100 male seniors and graduates of junior colleges who plan to become college teachers. The awards are $1,000 for one single students, or $2,000 for a married student plus $500 for dependent children. The amount is divided equally, and all required tuition and fees. The annual grants are renewable for a total of four years.

Any male senior who has outstanding record of academic achievement and personal integrity, an interest in religion and high potential for college teaching, and who has not reached the age of 30, is eligible. He must, in addition, plan graduate study in any field of study common to undergraduate colleges.

Nominations are made by a faculty committee. It consists of Dr. Berette Epperson of the School of Education, Dr. Lee Berress of the School of Letters and Science, Dr. Paul Yambert of the School of Applied Arts and Sciences and Orland Radke, Dean of Men. Candidates nominated by the committee must take the Graduate Record Examination in the Verbal, Quantitative, and the Subject tover and in their major fields. Any interested student can see Dean Radke for information.

TGF Dance To Be Held

Minus The IF

It is 8:30 p.m., the 17th day of November, 1962. You enter the College Union. Discarding your coat on the rack, you notice that, though the room is dimly lit, there is a spotlight above your head, and two people are playing cards. Couples will gather on the sides of the room. Suddenly, from the far side of the room comes a burst of music. The annual Thanksgiving Dance has begun.

Yes, you are all invited to join the crowd from 8:30:11:39, dancing to Larry Vondruch and his orchestra. Oh!... don't forget to register for the right door since Dean Radke won't be going home alone.

It's About You

"Student council? Well, student council is well they have these meetings, and, uh... these representatives of the student body, they're averaging you know." Bringing up any question about the student council to that fast-disappearing, evanescent, rare breed known as the 'average student' is likely to produce just such a cogent statement as the one above. This lack, I believe, to be justified as a valid, if inaccurate, ignorance, because the function, workings, organization and goals of the student council are far from secret. The council is made up of individuals to make sure that the student body has both an active and effective voice in the administration of its affairs. The best way to make sure that your student council meets is for you to attend... and to speak for you. Not so. They could hardly do so. They have these meetings, and, uh... well these representatives of the student body, they're averaging you know.

As this campus grows, new problems will arise. We are not ones to discourage joining. But we'll deal with these problems as they arise. As this campus grows, new problems will arise. It's about you.

What Is Education?

College students are a funny breed. They are as eager as they are educated. That statement alone is accurate. We cannot hope to receive an education in college. We can sit back and have education handed to us. The opportunity for active participation in campus activities is available to you. The opportunity for active participation in campus activities is available to you. It is available to the public.

Perfect is rough. In most cases, it is impossible. So we can sit back and have education handed to us. The opportunity for active participation in campus activities is available to the public. The opportunity for active participation in campus activities is available to the public. We want to do things which we want to do. I have been encouraged to develop my skills, to discover my abilities, to look at the world in a new light, and food. I have been encouraged to develop my skills, to discover my abilities, to look at the world in a new light, and food. We are to encourage better organization that can mold our thoughts and ideas, and conform to them. We are to encourage better organization that can mold our thoughts and ideas, and conform to them. We are to encourage better organization that can mold our thoughts and ideas, and conform to them.

We might begin by bringing freshmen again. It seems we can never be too early to study, learn by ourselves diligently, and often we can be too busy to keep this attitude for nine weeks, sometimes a semester, or even a year.

But there are so many things to sidetrack our scholarly inclinations. We are never ones to discourage joining. But when we find that being an active member in six organizations, going to every football and basketball game of the season, and seeing two or three comedies at Joe's every weekend, and socializing for three hours a day in the union, really causes our learning to deteriorate somehow, somewhere along the line, we are losing the boat to education.

All these activities are, to be sure, tied up in some way, with education. Certainly, we learn from all of our experiences, and we are good believers in wide and varied experiences. Discipline, however, demands something more -- even more than studying six hours a day and attending class...

Student Council President's Report To The Student Council

This report to the students will deal with some important recent student council actions and the Student Council's reasons for these actions. It is necessary to provide a report on the motives for particular policies so that the students will be better able to be fully informed on their Student Council.

Union Board Studies Policy Of Not Charging For Events

Union Board proposed to the University Board of Regents that there would be no charge for events held in the Union Board Auditorium. It was felt that this would be more beneficial to the students and the Board would receive more revenue if the students would have a greater interest in participating in these events.

Cleo Van Straten entered CSC in the fall of 1958, after she graduated from Freib High School in Green Bay. An honor student, she enrolled with two music scholarships and a May Resch Scholarship. Cleo Van Straten says she chose CSC after it had been recommended to her by her high school teachers, "because of the good music department on the state college level.

Cleo's college activities include Omega Mu Chi sorority, Alpha Kappa Phi, honorary music fraternity, Newman Club and A.W.S. Board, which she presently serves as secretary. In 1960 Cleo was chosen TEKE Sweetheart. That same year she was elected Homecoming Queen.

Despite her busy extracurricular schedule, Cleo keeps a part-time job and has been named to the Dean's Honor List for her high scholastic record.

When asked what her most memorable college experience has been, Cleo unhesitatingly replied, "being elected Homecoming Queen."

Cleo feels that one of the most needed improvements at CSC is "a year-round school spirit like that shown at our past Homecoming.

Cleo, who was recently engaged to "Bucky" Wickman, a former CSC student, says that her plans after graduation include teaching music and Spanish in the Green Bay area, and marriage. With four highly successful college years behind her, we're sure Cleo will do well in anything she chooses.

From The Campus School

A new job opening has already come to be included in the Placement Office at the Campus School. Some are posted in the bulletin board outside of the office, others are in the "hin" on the table just inside of the door.

Mr. Franklin Pierson has again been taking a group of students to various school districts in the state. He prepares an outline for a panel discussion on Adolescence and Education, which he then holds. Mr. Pierson is also a member of the Parent-Teacher Associations.

Additions have been made to the History Department at the Campus School Library.

Before entering CSC, he attended St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn., for two years, following this with a year of work and travel. ical arts education as any other school." Lance, who is majoring in political science and minoring in English in Letters and Sciences, is very active in campus life. He has been a member of the College Choristers and the Men's Glee Club. A member of the Y-Drama, he has served this group as recording secretary. He was general chairman of the 1961-62 Winter Carnival, and was a member of the 1962 Homecoming Committee. In addition, Lance has been named to the Dean's Honor List. In his leisure time, Lance enjoys reading, skiing, handball, walking, fishing, canoeing, swimming, and "people."

Lance says that although work on last year's Winter Carnival was "definitely memorable" and enjoyable, and he was grateful for the opportunity to work with the students, his most important experience has been realizing that "all life is a vaudeville. And perhaps one of the best lessons I've learned is that only when you are yourself are you free. This is what college and the opportunities and experiences with others has given me."

After graduation this January, Lance plans to go to Germany to study at the Goethe Institute of Languages. When he has completed his work there, he will begin studies at Luther Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minn.

"Here, the this!" I looked down at a young miss who stood with her back turned towards me, the strings of her elastic cobbler's apron hanging limply. I stopped, putting my notebook and pencil in my mouth, and tied her apron.

"Thank you," said the young lady. She turned off and disappeared into a room marked "Kindergarten."

I looked at Tom Oelhafen, photographer, who nodded, cocked his camera, and led the way into the kindergarten class of the Campus School. "Get set, prepared young lady."

Football Season Ends With PointeR DeFeat

by Bill Gehrig

The score was knotted at 14-14 when linemender Don Sydow of the PointeR 49ers broke from a Northern Wisconsin defender and raced 40 yards for the winning touchdown.

The PAT attempt was blocked by Curly McManus, but the damage was done. Two minutes and four seconds of playing time later, a gun sounded and the score still stood, 14 - 14. When Whitewater had themselves their third SIC championship in the last four years.

It had been strictly a game of defense up to that crucial turning point as both clubs played equally well. However, the Pointers lost the ball three times on fumbles and three times on pass interceptions - these losses proved too costly.

The first time CSC got the ball Sonny Redders broke the 50-yard touchdown gallop. His extra point made it 7 - 0. Before the first quarter ended, White water quarterback, Terry Bahr, hit Ron Anton with a 10-yard touchdown strike and John Martinek added another point to deadlock the score.

In the third quarter, it was Anton again who took a pass in the second quarter to Martinek who kicked another extra point to give the Warhawks a 14 - 7 edge.

It wasn't until the third quarter that CSC knotted the score when Larry Holmes scampered through the gap and 14 yards for his only score. Redders holder the PAT, but the PAT attempt was missed. The score remained that way until just over two minutes left in the contest.

Coach Duane Counsell and his gridders also can take a well-deserved bow for another great season. Winning campaigns, however, are becoming rather common at the local college. Last year's championship club came within a shade of going unbeaten, finally finishing with an 11 - 3 mark. The current edition compiled a 6-2 record, with the losses coming at the start and conclusion of the campaign.

Barring the unforeseen loss of too many remaining players through ineligibility, the Pointers should be a power to reckon with in the State College Conference. At least for the next couple of years. Counsell is losing some high performers, particularly in the line, but a strong nucleus is expected back, headed by a young backfield which could take its place as one of the finest in Point History before its members graduated. Quarterback Larry Balousek, halfback Sonny Redders and fullback George Rivers will be only juniors next season and seachack Larry Holles just a sophomore. The expected return of halfback Jim (Buddy) Woller who was sidelined most of the season with a knee injury, should add even more depth to an already strong lineup. All in all, there should be no cause for gloom in the Stevens Point college grid picture. We're all ready looking forward to next season's return match against the champion Warhawks.

Whitewater's championship, by the way, is the last of the three in the last four seasons for Coach Forrest Perkins' club. The Warhawks dominated the SIC in 1960 and 1961 and posted a winning streak of 14 games in conference play unbroken until Stevens Point snapped the string last year. Saturday's narrow victory gave Perkins a 4-2 edge in games against Stevens Point since the former Merrill High School mentor took over the Whitewater grid duties in 1958. The Warhawks had a fine outing in this season and certainly deserved the crown.

Despite Defeat, CSC

Stevens Point College lost its stature in the tough-to-take 2014 loss to Whitewater last Saturday. It would be difficult to find two teams more evenly matched and it was just unfortunate that a game so closely fought was decided on a "fluke" play, a rushback of a fumble with just over two minutes left in the contest.

Although the football season for the Pointers is over, and the other teams are quickly bringing theirs to a close, I thought it might be of interest to the readers to write on the game and the field where it is played.

Football is played with an inflated ball by two teams of eleven players each. The game takes place on a rectangular field 300 by 160 feet. While the ball is alive, a period called a down is in effect. The team that possesses the ball attempts to advance the ball by carrying it or passing by the opposing team in possession has a series of downs (4) to advance the ball ten yards. If the ten yards are gained, the down is ended and a new down begins, until the team has scored or is forced to punt. Points are scored by touch down, field goals, and extra points.

The field is a rectangular area with dimensions, lines, zones, markers, and yard lines marked with a material which is not injurious to eyes or skin. No line or caustic material is used. Measurements are made from the inside edges of the boundary marks. Each goal line marked in the end zone so the edge toward the team is vertical plane extending indefinitely high above the ground and 10 feet from the line to the goal.
