Governor Knowles Opens WC

By LINDA BOATMAN and HARRY RECKER

The beginning festivities of Winter Carnival took place Monday in Madison, with a reception at the Park Motor Inn, across from the Capitol building. Due to a communications mishap in Madison, Governor Knowles was delayed for the opening of the ceremony. At the reception, Karl Langlois, Chairman of Winter Carnival, told the Governor the background of this year's Winter Carnival. Then Gloria Kubiski, Publicity Chairman, presented Gov. Knowles with a booster button which he said would wear for the entire week. He then met other representatives of the University who were there, including: Mr. Dan Houlihan, Public Information Director of WSU, and his wife; Dr. Robert Knowlson, Assistant Professor of History; and Dr. Mary Elisabeth Thompson, Associate professor of Speech; Mr. Hans Smith, Director of Smith Residence Hall and advisor to the runners; and also Mr. R. Ted Okerstrom, general manager of the Park Motor Inn.

Governor Knowles said this was the first time he had been involved in anything of this sort. He was very concerned about the runners and thought the relay race back to Stevens Point was a tremendous undertaking. He congratulated WUPE and said that he hoped our Winter Carnival would be a big success.

From the Park Motor Inn, the group proceeded to the east entrance of the Capitol building where the runners were presented to Governor Knowles. The runners were Brian Aab, John Agen, John Avery, Jim Fowle, John Hausser, Dan Holloway, Peter Kahler, James Kellerman, Frank Kurecz, Dean Meihberg, Chuck Patchin, John Rathier, Robert Schefeke, William Travis, Don Wancie, John Wickstrom, Mike Wolter, and Dominie Zapio. The drivers were John Leary and Mr. Harry Smith.

The torch was lit by Gov. Knowles and Karl Langlois handed it to John Avery. The Governor's last words to the runners were "go to the corner and turn left." On that humorous note, the relay began.

The eighteen torch carriers that ran the 100 miles from Madison to Stevens Point met with some strange occurrences, a majority of which were with the officials of the areas through which they passed. One officer stopped a runner and asked him what he was doing. When he replied that he was carrying a torch from Madison to Stevens Point with seventeen fellows the policeman looked at him and said, "Sure you are." The Portage City police gave the boyish escort, but according to one of the runners, it wasn't worth the trouble. A few times, the law assumed the runners were all under the influence of alcohol, but this was cleared up after a few minutes of explanation. One officer was left rather dumbfounded when he was asked who gave the runners the authority to do this and got the reply that the torch was lit by Gov. Knowles. In all, the police were very cooperative.

The runners ran about a quarter of a mile apiece, and then changed off with another runner. They averaged about ten to eleven miles per hour; Bill Travis hit a quarter mile in 55 seconds. One of the drivers ran awhile and when he was asked how he liked it, he said "Enjoyed EVERY MINUTE of it." For awhile, the runners were being paced by a little mouse, but he soon gave up. Maybe he didn't like being followed by a car full of runners with an expired 1964 Wyoming license plates. A few of the runners were trackmen, either in high school or college, and what training the rest of them lacked they made up for with sheer determination and guts. A few of them broke the monotony of running by hopping and skipping merrily up Highway 51. The spirit put forward by these fellows was very heartening. The weather was cold, but there were no complaints. Each man did his part and more by being cheerful throughout the whole episode. They were a group. There was complete cooperation and unity between all of them.

At the intersection of Highway 10 and 51, all of the runners got out of the cars and ran together to the front of Old Main where Bob Schefeke presented the torch to Dean DeBot to light the big torch in front of Old Main to officially open the Winter Carnival activities. Bob, a member of 550's, extended his warmest thanks for the honor of presenting the torch to Dean DeBot, and stated that it wasn't done by just one person, but by all those involved. He acted as spokesman for all the runners.

KARL LANGLOIS, general chairman of Winter Carnival, hands the torch to Governor Knowles at Madison, as Jon LeDuc looks on.

New Christy Minstrels To Climax WC Program

"Y'all come!" Come and see a streamlined combination of attractive young faces, sparkling personalities and skillful voices blending together in a night's entertainment climaxing Winter Carnival, Feb. 21, 8 p.m. in the University Fieldhouse.

The New Christy Minstrels are nine bright young singers who combine comedy with a beaucoup of heart, good music and new twists to old folk songs and ballads drawn from songs dating back to Civil War days.

The group was formed in 1960 as a vocalist - instrumentalist - arranger, who conceived the musical idea, told the modern singing group after a composer of grand war entertainers created by Edwin "Pops" Christie in 1827. They perform "en masse" and each individual has his or her own special singing which they performed as a solo number. They accompany themselves with banjos, guitars, and (as LIFFE magazine puts it) "wide-open mouths."

The group introduced Hoctor-nanny to the White House and Broadway. On January 14, 1964, President Johnson and his guests, including President Segni- ni of Italy, watched as the Minstrels hooted, strummed, and sang folk songs, rocking the staid old walls of the White House.

The group's Broadway triumph came earlier when, on the famous Latin Quarter nightclub, LIFFE magazine said they "look the real show business sensation," and BILLBOARD magazine echoed the praise, calling them "outstanding of the strongest on-stage acts in the folkline field."

The fame of the group has extended even to the Soviet Union where the State Union has been permitted to play the New Christy Minstrel albums. "Green, Green," "Saturday Night," and "This Land is Your Land," are as familiar behind the Iron Curtain as they are to listeners in the United States.

A charming, witty, highly polished group of young professionals, the New Christy Minstrels is sure to provide a memorable evening's entertainment.

Tickets are on sale now in Stevens Point at the Kennel and Hannon's Drug Store, in Wisconsin Rapids at Church's Drug Store, and in Wausau at Wright's Music Store.

Thanks To WC Torch Runners

Dear Editor:

This afternoon, eighteen of our fellows arrived in Stevens Point after a long hard run all the way from Madison. At this time, I would like to express my sincere appreciation for the real effort which each and every one of them put forth. This is one of the most tapestry of Winter Carnivals. The last few months have seen more activity than the panic button at exam time.

To the sponsors of "Sno-Lympics," the University Center Board, and all those who operated with them in their efforts, so obviously, the entire University owes much gratitude. Certainly, there is no better way to do this than in participating in as many activities as possible, and, if you're planning on serving on the Winter Carnival Committee during this week, telling them what a wonderful job they have done. The Pointer staff — and I'm sure we speak for everyone — congratulate the Winter Carnival Committee for what will probably be one of the most memorable of Carnivals.

Reasons For Suitcasing

Dear Editor:

For the last semester, I have been reading almost constant criticism about students who leave on weekends. I have been thinking about answering these charges for a long time. The letter to the editor by Mr. Jim Maas finally triggered me into action.

Mr. Maas in his letter accused us of everything from "going home to momma" to "not knowing what college life is all about." His charges may apply to some, but for most of us these charges seem absurd. While Mr. Maas is sitting around campus or attending one of his "variety of activities," many of us are home putting in a ten or eleven-hour working day. Personally, I put in over eighteen hours working every weekend, and that money is what keeps me in school.

Some may ask why I don't work on campus. The answer is simple. First, I need my time during the week for study. Second, if anyone knows of a job in Stevens Point where I can put in eighteen hours a weekend and work the whole week off as well as put in time during school vacations, I would be more than glad to listen.

I also wish Mr. Maas to know that I do know what college life is about. I have made trips up and down every football and basketball game. I also do go to several of his "choice of bars."

If Mr. Maas is so lucky as to have several people who volunteer to serve on the PODIUM board, they are more than welcome to come and share their views.

YOUR CHILD

Let the heavens rejoice,
And the earth be glad.
Let the seas roar,
And all the trees sing.

For today:
A CHILD OF GOD IS BORN,
YOUR CHILD.

A child with the beauty of spring dawn upon a quiet lake.
A child with softness and gentleness as that of mild winds humming through misty woodlands.
A joy-filled child, filling your lives with his merriment and child-like pranks.
His eyes will sparkle like stars of clear nights.

Although he might change the world or discover great things,
Through your combined love and effort, he will grow up with the strength of the sea, etching its mark upon the warm earth.

God has given you
His most precious gift,
A CHILD!

And you have given God's child your most precious gift,
LIFE!

Prohibition - Admission Standards; WSU

By BRUCE CLEMENTS

In a recent interview, Dr. Gordon Hafemeister, Vice President of Enrollment, discussed admissions and prohibitions at the University system. He stated that the entire system works under the same rules those determined by the Board of Governors. For the policy on when to rule on entering or leaving, Dr. Hafemeister responded that the university graduate is generally higher education to set a standard. Dr. Hafemeister noted that the university graduate is higher than the general public instruction, and Governor Roth was up to the instructors. He also pointed out that the lower half of their graduates are those determined by the Board of Trustees, and Governor was 25 percent of his high school, and Governor believed that this is the upper half of their graduates. A good score on the SAT is required to enter regular classes. According to Dr. Hafemeister, any prospective student from the State University system must have a score of 827 on the SAT. About 125 were turned away last fall, but most of them were turned away for personal reasons. Of the 1150 freshmen that entered the upper half of their graduating classes and 324 were also turned away for lower 25 percent of his high school. The university graduate must have a good score on the SAT. The state universities tend to be quite alike in the makeup of their freshmen classes. This can be seen in recent weeks as the state universities are generally in the first 10 percent. Dr. Hafemeister felt that it would be very important for these students to preserve these liberal standards. This can be seen in recent weeks as the state universities are generally in the first 10 percent. Dr. Hafemeister felt that it would be very important for these students to preserve these liberal standards.

When asked about the effect of these generally liberal policies on the student body, Dr. Hafemeister said that he thought it would be a good idea to lower the bar. This is a very good idea, and it would benefit many students who could not profit from a college education. The lower bar would be at Stevens Point. When asked, he agreed with the statement made by a college president from one of the other schools, "Everybody is born with the right to flunk out of college," Dr. Hafer becker responded with a blunt "No!" The problem is to get people to be of more value to themselves, and to determine who should attend what kind of school and then provide the necessary facilities. Some students will waste time and money.

New Officers of the Wsu Faculty Association. Dr. Hafemeister also entered Wsu must take be fore classes begin, in order to have the faculty installed in new offices. He could go to summer school and prove his ability to maintain regular work which would allow him to enter regular classes.

Student Govt.'s Looks For New Candidates

By JUDY CHRISTENSEN, Student Council President

The annual search is on for the best leaders on campus to take over student government offices.

There are many students with leadership qualifications on campus, but "initiative" is the key word. Candidates must adopt as their slogan.

There are many improvements to make and the students only take initiative. For students who want more to say about their affairs, there is a Student Court to be developed. If students want better courses and instructors, they should adopt a course evaluation program. One of the best measures toward student self-government would be the establishment of a campus honor code system.

None of these can be accomplished without leadership. There are no general qualifications for running for office, but if there are, they are a high grade of people, and only other requirements are willingness to work and the

New Speech; Hearing Association At Wsu

Speech and Hearing Therapy is a relatively new emphasis on the campus of Wsu in the department of Speech and Drama. The forty-seven students currently in this area have recently organized the Wsu Speech and Hearing Association.

The Association will provide many benefits for its members. They are: a more specific field of specialization, a great deal of value is gained in discussing and probing common problems. Through its meetings the Association will provide various opportunities for the stimulation that comes from the meeting of minds by members of a group joined together by a common goal.

Student members will be provided with situations in which they can grow in their ability to assume responsibility and learn to achieve finesse in working with others. The profession of Speech and Hearing Therapy and the Association will be a professional meeting at which time speakers in various related professions will take to the members about their professions. This will give the students a broader outlook on the aspects of the profession of Speech and Hearing Therapy as well as other professions with which it is connected, such as psychology, oto-laryngology, etc.

Meetings of the Association will be held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month at 6:30 in room 120 in the Union Lounge. Thirty children present to their therapy and their mothers attended and were visited by Santa Claus.

Anyone interested in this area of study is welcome to the meetings. The first meeting of every month will be a business meeting. The second will be a professional meeting at which time speakers in various related professions will take to the members about their professions. This will give the students a broader outlook on the aspects of the profession of Speech and Hearing Therapy as well as other professions with which it is connected, such as psychology, oto-laryngology, etc.
Leading roles in Light Up The Sky, Moss Hart's hilarious satire on show business, have been awarded to Cynthia Parkovich, Antony J. Redd in a n Joyce Wolter, Paul Bentzen. Bonnie Hancock and a newcomer, Peter Breit. The comedy will be presented by College necessary books on March 3, 4, 5 and 6, under the direction of William C. Kramer. Cynthia Parkovich plays the giddy star who wants to appear "wearing a small cocktail dress among the ruins of Radio City after the bomb has fallen." Joyce Wolter portrays a buzzy ice-skating star and being producer's wife. She and the star's sacrificial mother, played by Bonnie Hancock, maintain a side-splitting gin-rummy game throughout the show of the show.

Paul Bentzen, popular campus folksinger, has been cast in the role of the highly emotional play director who convinces a star with, "I could act." Jeff Rodman as the dynamic producer, is "going to stick a Reel notice in the tired face of show business, and experimental new script by a young, idealistic, all-American girl," and another will be portrayed by Peter Breit.

The Spring College Theater's winter comedy include Gary Cohon and Gary Jacklin as members of happy Shriners, Patricia Barry as the ghost-writer of the star's autobiography, and Barbara Yris, Peter Breitz, David Chandler, Bruce Kozlowski. Speech major, Les Wilttett supplies the voice of the talking parrot. One of the comic gems in Light Up The Sky, the part of the stage-acted Shriners from Indiana with an urge to play Hamlet, will be handled on alternate nights by sophomores Larry Klubkowski and senior Gerald Pacya.

"Where the action is" in Light Up The Sky will take place in the star's hotel suite in Boston on an opening night.

Spring Election Approaching

Spring and election time will be here in less than a month. On Tuesday, March 11, the Spring Election will be held. At this time, 43 positions will be open. Included among them are three University Center Board positions and four offices, each, from the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes. For the Student Council elective positions, there will be four representatives elected from each class besides President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer. For the girls, A.W.S. elections offer even more positions.

An overall grade-point of 2.25 is required. Petitions will be available about two weeks prior to the election. Any other questions may be brought to the Student Council office.

Book Exchange In Snack Bar

Alpha Phi Omage, the National Service Fraternity, once again sponsors a book exchange. This semester, it will be located in the snack bar area of the University Center. The book exchange is now in operation and will remain open on weekdays until March 5th. The hours for this service are from 9:45 to 11:30 a.m., and from 1:45 to 3:45 in the afternoon.

This service offers students an excellent opportunity to advertise books, as good condition—of books from one third to one half the original price. Unnecessary books may be turned in for cash—often at a price you set. For more details check with A — Phi — O in the Center.

Students Rate Teachers

Do poor students rate a teacher lower than good students? Not according to an evaluation conducted by Dr. Kenneth Boggs, assistant professor of agricultural economics, Oklahoma State University, Stillwater.

He asked students in his three sections to fill out evaluation forms which were not examined until grades had been sent to the registrar's office. He had the cooperation of 160 of the 150 students in the classes.

The Daily Collegian reported that Boggs found "absolutely no relationship between the grade a student made and the way he evaluated the course." He feels this shows that poor students are as capable of rating the seriousness of good students, perhaps even more so. "They may see the course more clearly," he said, "because it is often difficult for them to learn the material, so they depend upon the instructor more heavily than the good students."

Greeks And Grades

By TIMOTHY M. PARSONS

Three plaques (soon to be joined by a fourth) grace the outside wall of Dean Rader's office. These were awarded to this institution for fraternity excellence in scholarship by the National Interfraternity Conference. Since 1960, the grade point average of all of the fraternities on this campus has consistently been above that of the All Men's Average. For this we are designated a Summa Causa Lambda fraternity institution.

There has been a pronounced improvement in fraternity scholarship over the past years. In the 1953-54 school year, 46.36 per cent of the reporting institutions stated that their All Fraternity Average was higher than their All Men's Average. However, in the 1962-63 year, 59.36 per cent reported that the fraternities out-performed scholastically the All Men's Average. This data implies that the fraternity man is more conscious of, and more conscientious about, scholarship than the average student.

However, an education consists of much more than "book-learning." It's goal is to prepare the student for life—to acquaint him with assuming responsibilities, to instill in him a capacity for leadership, to develop in the apogee his ability to live and to communicate with his fellow man. In other words, an education ought to aid an individual to adapt to and excel in his environment. It can do this only if the individual willingly enters into a situation where he does assume responsibility and leadership, where he does interact with his fellow men. The fraternity performs this function, for it provides a microcosm of the world at large.

Thus the fraternity has the responsibility to aid the university—not to replace or compete with it—but to aid it in helping members obtain the best possible education, while experience in brotherhood teaches them to expand, to broaden themselves.

The Pointer
Pointer’s Winning Streak
Split By Superior’s Cagers

Stevens Point’s basketball team had its five-game winning streak broken Friday night as Superior emerged the victor, 78-63, but used a well-rounded defense and good marksmanship to resuscitate their winning ways Saturday night, defeating Stout 88-63.

The Pointers shot a dismal 39 per cent against Superior, but they were never behind by more than eight points. During most of the second half, Stevens Point was within four points of the Yellowjackets but could not take advantage. Wes Zuege led the Pointers with 14 points and Jerry Lawetzki followed with 12. Bill Borcherd, seeing limited action due to a shoulder injury, came off the bench in the second half and dropped in 11 points. Jim Sevall, a 5’6” guard who was second in conference scoring, gametime, led the Pointers with 29 points. Chuck Barmard, third in conference scoring, followed with 13 points.

Against Stout, it was a different story. In five minutes, 12 seconds in the game, the Pointers outscored the Yellowjackets seven points. Then they threatened. Stout had foul trouble, allowing the Pointers 24 gift points and losing two starters on fouls midway in the second half.

Wes Zuege topped Pointers scoring with 14 points. Bill Borcherd, Jim Sevall and Mike Fortune had 13 points each. Mike Fortune, who fouled out with 1:41 gone in the second half, had 13.

Next Saturday night, the Pointers will wrap up their season against White Water. Game time is at 8:00 p.m.

Pointers Swamp Titans

The Stevens Point State University swimming team under head coach Frederick Hagerman, put on a brilliant display of spirit here last Friday as they came from behind to upset the tough Oshkosh Titans 22-12 in favor of Oshkosh. Thomas set a pool record in the latter event with 2:23.4. Aubrey Fish then showed his superb diving ability as he took first place in diving. The team then picked up more points as they took the second and third places in the 200 butterfly and first places in the 100 freestyle and 200 backstroke. Both were pool records with times of 2:12.1 and 1:55.9 by Georgie and Eichelberger respectively.

The only minutes later, Gelwisch took first in the 50 freestyle with 25.99 and Peters took third. In the 100 breaststroke, Klingbeil and Haubold came in second and third place to make the score 45-43 in favor of Oshkosh. But the Pointers were not to be denied a victory as the 400 freestyle relay team won with a record-breaking time of 3:42.5.

POINTER’S TROUNCED

The loss of valuable wrestlers from the team and considerable amount of weight by some who did wrestle, weekended the Pointer team, thus making them susceptible to tournings by two strong opponents last weekend. An undefeated Oskskosh team invaded the local meet to smash the Pointers 24-13 in a defeat at Menomonie on Saturday.

Only three Stevens Point wrestlers came up with victories in the weekend massacre. Rich Sommer, in his final home match for his fine college career, pinned Jim Huber of Oshkosh Friday afternoon. First semester freshman, Christ Hohenstein, who had practiced just a little more than a week did a tremendous job for the Pointers in both matches. He lost a 12-4 decision to Jack Roller in one of the more exciting matches in Friday’s meet, but came back Sunday to pin Mike Murphy of Stout, late in the second period.

The third Pointer victory was heavyweight Bernie Christianson. The new “S” club president had a tough time on Friday but made a short stop for Bob Smith on Saturday, as he took him down and pinned him in a little more than two minutes.
