Snack Bar Hours Changed

The University Center Snack Bar's Sunday hours have been changed effective March 11. The new hours will be 10 a.m. every Sunday morning instead of the usual 2 p.m. opening.

The UCB Board of Inquiry discharged the substantial number of students who wished to have an early lunch, can now do so.

This request was given to the Center Board of Inquiry (Chairman, Jon Le Duc), which pursued and investigated it. Through the cooperation of Mr. Hachet of the Center Administration and Mr. Don Scott of the University Food Service with the House Committee, this change was made possible.

If the students take advantage of these new hours, they will be made permanent.

A Norfolk Pub's Aristocracy

BY DEXTER MCKELVEY

The article is presented as an essay on Finney's weather beaten face, but didn't allow him down a bit. He rambled on to tell me about the bomb at the bar, the level of conversion had again picked up to a garbled murrmur. I might as well intrude into a Leicester Square "snob parlor" or walked unwittingly into a lion's den. It was quite evidtent that I did not belong, and I was soon to understand why.

I was taken under the wing of a Dulley Hammond, a good sized man of youthful middle age who carried himself as if to say, "Walk 'round me or e'er me, mate," but whose ready friendliness soon made me drop the "mister." Dulley is a painter, justly proud of his trade, who knows every man in Docking. Most of his friends are farmers and all of them fought in the war, many in the same regiment, the 1st Royal Norfolk. All have a steel-chinned pride that stuck out with noble condescension when I tried to make conversation, and all have been coming to the same pub for years, just as their fathers did before them.

Dulley hailed across the room to a deceptively looking old man conspicuously robed in a cloth - eaten gray coat that came almost to the heels of the elderlyTrekkie boots. "Finney! O'er 'e re, mate," Finney approached, took me in one glance, and turned to Dulley before addressing me. "Yes, I'm here, buddy. Not many o' you boys run 'round no more. Was once, thou', after the blitz, tho', that's fer sure, after the blitz." His emphasis told me that in his mind, all time was divided into two eras, before and after the blitz.

A nostalgic tour edged down a furrow in Finney's weather beaten face, but didn't allow him down a bit. He rambled on to tell me about the bomb-and about Dunkirk. When he mentioned the latter he gave just as well have shouted "attention," for we were then joined by others. One of these was a man they called Young Ben. There must have been an "Old Ben" around somewhere, because Young Ben was at least 25 years my senior. "Hawshah!" he chimed in. "Aye an' they called I bloody marvelous, they did. I was a bloody punch-up 'watt' I was an' all. The Jerrys cough us wi' our bloody pants down, they did. Almost 'd I've 'em behind wi' our bloody backides still in 'em, we did an' all."

It is true that the war left many in the trough of a huge wave, but its wake also uncovered abundant food for conversation and a completely new set of standards. The second of these measuring devices in pub soociety is the dartboard, which in most pubs is a hallowed work of art in itself. Dulley called my attention to a game just beginning. "You see that this isn't, Laddie. That's jock comin' up. 'E's the bloody idiot in the pub, 'e is. Some bloke's got a pint on this!"

Dulley, a slightly built man, was taking the nine foot mark. His pin-striped suspenders, which were outside his bosom fitting woolen shirt, seemed to pull his frame down even further into his heavy knee-breeches. His face cleared into a broad yellowish grin as he drew his darts from their wooden case and screwed the feathers onto their corresponding brass shafts in much the manner an American "hustler" assembles his cue stick. I was not alone in my astonishment as Jock consistently flipped the darts into high-scoring areas less than half the width of a florin.

As the night grew shorter, I noticed that no one was visibly affected by the quantities of beer they had been putting down. In answer to my innquiry, Dulley explained, "In our pub a bloke drinks 'is stout. 'E don't feel it 'is bloody self!"

The words "our pub" paint a picture by themselves truly worth these thousand words. I was becoming accepted, but only on the surface. I could never belong ... nor could the

"Light Up The Sky" Reviews

By HELEN BRUNOW

March 4: The Northwestern Theatre presented Miss Hart's "Light Up The Sky." Although this play is one of the lesser known works of Mr. Hart and perhaps not the best example of the talent he possessed, the Theatre Group gave a very enjoyable performance.

Despite the repetition of lines and the general lack of character contrast, most of the cast were able to retain their individuality.

Audience reaction to jokes and puns was lukewarm, but there were many instances. Many of the truly humorous lines were lost completely. The actresses and actors were notably aware of the audience's lack of response as was made evident in the performance.

Scene setting, lighting, costumes, and make-ups were outstanding. Acoustics were excellent also.

Due to the "cork-in-mouth" training conducted by the director, William C. Kramer, diction and pronunciation were exceptionally clear. Long hours of rehearsal and much backstage preparation were evidenced in a certain sophistication not found in many college productions.

The cast was able to retain their individuality.

Burned Up!

By COLLEEN HOUHIAN

March 4: The "Courtsey Uncommon" directed by the Feb. 28 issue of the Northwestern Foiler "burned me up." I am a resident of North Reserve Street and have been for the last 15 years. Until then, I could not appreciate how much walks on our street were generally close. It was at the university, however, that this task became increasingly difficult. For every flute that falls, a foot trample it—"packin' it NICE and HARD!" If it snores at night, that's not quite as bad—you only have to brush at 6 a.m., the hour of the first stare. If you're so concerned Mr. Luna, why didn't you ever take a shave and do at least one good thing for yourself?

MARLENE GRUBA

P.S. No, we're not just talking about the lights, and not much of interesting music, either. There are less coeds hustling rides to walking anywhere on campus. If so, there were less coeds hustling rides.

If you deny your facts straight. The whole 300 block of North Reserve was clear all winter.

Campus-Commentary

By Colleen Houhian

A Study In Depth

The faculty asks, why don't the students take a more active part in student government? The student governmental organizations ask the same thing: why don't students take a more active part in their governmental affairs? Why don't they vote? Why aren't more students running for offices in Student Council? How concerned are the students on this campus?

The student says they ARE concerned, but to be concerned is nothing! What is it? What should they care about? What have they done? Have they voluntarily asked for this? Why then don't they vote? What has Student Council done? Nothing! Do they really exist or are their offices filled by students who enjoy devoting ten to twenty hours a week to be rewarded with a picture in the IRIS?

Well students, do you want to know why the Student Council exists? Do you want to know why you want the student voice on this campus to be heard? They are deeply concerned when the see the students mis-represented in affairs that directly concern them. When the student is not interested enough to improve these conditions exist, that when he just gives up and says "It won't do any good!" then what will happen? I say to you, fellow students, observe WSU-Stevens Point and you will find out what happens. Consider these questions that were asked to be meant for you.

1. Why aren't many textbooks, that are vital to the students, still not in after five weeks of school? And the teachers say, "Go to the reserve shelf where you can try to get one of the five extra copies"—for some thirty or forty students who need the same book? I ask you, is this fair?

2. Why are some teachers allowed to "cut" a good many classes? Or, why is it that exceptional students are allowed to cut his classes, the majority of which rarely exceed twenty or thirty minutes? Of course, this reasons are of vital import; sometimes he will walk into his 11:45 class and say, "I'm awfully hungry students, we'll see you next class period." Others times, his students may be heard saying "Hi, he doesn't have to hear a sentence or two before he walks out! Occasionally, the students may be cheerfully "tailed" in class, with the fact that the teacher has another luncheon engagement. But, we can't complain too much for many classes have lasted five, ten, and even twenty minutes, this is not true for all of you, but should it be true for even one or two?

3. Why do the women on this campus have such rigid hours? Do they want these hours or are they "heavily" and other parents tell you to be in before 11 p.m. when you turned eighteen, nineteen, or twenty? I would guess this is a question in which the students have not such rigid hours. Students are sometimes driven to a point where they may need something more than that here in Stevens Point.

4. Why do the students on this campus that are 21 years old or older have housing regulations? When is the last time the University inspected the housing to see if the standards set are being followed in both old and new off-campus housing?

These questions all have something in common, they are "hungry" for you, your thought, your reactions, for they will not be solved by them, what goes on, and you are a good student. What about the University of Wisconsin in Madison? Are they wrong to have the hours they maintain or are the women down there more mature than those here in Stevens Point?

Is There A Teacher On The Faculty?

Mr. Fisher feels poor teaching is due not to a lack of money, but to conditions, or shortage of good faculty. Instead he blames the treatment of the administrative and being in general as the cause of one of the most serious problems in America today. Stressing two points, Mr. Fisher concludes first that faculty members are either awarded or punished for the quality of their teaching, and second that instead of judging a professors teaching ability simply by his professor from actual teaching.

The adage "publish or perish" is a nightmare which haunts the lives of most college students. Teaching is a private performance, restricted to small classrooms with only the actors or students, and the director of the show is nobody, he is defined as the communication of ideas. With the Student Body, truth, principles, and facts, resistance measures. Without observing the teachers, the teaching reception one can not fairly appreciate adequately. This means as administrators whose job is to award salary raises, increase tenure, etc., many do not have the time to appraise teaching ability, and many do not keep in touch with the students thoroughly. Thus they rely on the amount of research, the number of public readings of papers, and the pounds of books published by the faculty members. But cause administrators do not have the background or necessary tools to accurately evaluate the value of research work and publications. Thus, quantity, not quality, quantity rather than qualification is apt to be the deciding factor in determining teaching ability. All these results in dividing teachers into two classes, one from teaching and directing it toward outside work. The study also concluded that the professor grossly losses contact with his students both in and out of the classroom.

The most frequently heard complaint heard among college students of today, according to Mr. Fisher, is that professors don't know how to teach. Professors do not have the necessary tools to achieve a complete absorption in their chosen fields, or just disseminate information. Many professors exhibit the symptoms of "the average bachelor," who needs an adequate organization of classroom material, or unimaginative teaching.

Thus the student's mind goes unchallenged as he crosses the days of his college education. Park of Barrand has commented, "In an environment where our students are clearly receiving a substandard education...are no longer rebelling against the campus environment but simply ignoring it, including their own undergraduate government, organizations, and publications."

So now with this information by Jon Rosenzweig

School administration. But alas, no answers are found — only more questions. The school administrator is facing a delicate situation in which his position is crucial to the survival of the school. Mr. Fisher puts it, "to keep the school alive, he has to have a savage and powerful barons who run their separate schools, departments, laboratories, and institutes like so many feudal barons. College administration has only partial command over the university budget and can not fire teachers or professors due to tenure rules. With this lack of power improvement in education is next to impossible. But perhaps more than anyone, the administration realizes the need of solving the problem of communications among themselves, the student and the student body. But which body should it be? The American Council on Education, "...we should keep in mind that the colleges were created primarily for the student and not the teacher. The idea that we (as faculty and administration) are different, is not called, to the sources of discontent and the cause of the problem."

Do we have this problem at WWSU Stevens Point? Is our school system providing better instruction than it is? Can we see indifference in our student body? What is the percentage of the student body?

If the answers to these questions are negative, what is the solution to the problem? Is it the structure? The administration? The students themselves... collective student judgement should be sought out systematically and weighed along with the other factors, including research and search in pedagogical research and publication in deciding faculty merit."

One of the most important problems is the quality of a teacher and his passion for teaching ability is not revolutionary. Surely as a freshman enters his second semester he begins to realize that what teachers make a subject enjoyable is challenging, and that what teachers are boring or sensationalist and should be evaluated. The student is the actual system of pedagogical teaching ability. In a crude way, undergraduate students of the University of California, Berkeley, and Harvard University have already experimented with this idea. Based on questionnaires filled out by students in confidence, a publication has been published each semester which best rates each teacher and his course by summarizing collective student opinion. A candid comment, this puts pressure on the school's faculty to provide a good job. A public forum indirectly improves the level of teaching at each school, a sense of competition coalesces and indirectly improves the teaching. This could be used at WWSU.

Mr. Fisher considers the question of expanding this program. For example, with the university set up machinery for systematic appraisal of faculty in each job, so that the school could be liable basis than any other under graduate institution. By distributing questionnaires which would require each student to rate each of the professors at the end of each semester, a systematic plan for evaluating teaching was be taken. Evaluated by a tripartite group including members of the university faculty, the president of the university, and the graduate students, a systematic plan of teaching ability from the people most familiar with teaching at the institutions were students could acquire.

This could also expand to include including questionnaires to alumni of 2,000 graduates or so, in order to evaluate the long term benefits of improved teaching methods and ability. It wouldn't be necessary to personalize the study is the primary purpose is to indicate teaching ability and to guide the directors of the salary raises, increased salaries, and promotions.

Not completely satisfied with this program, Mr. Fisher also believes it is necessary to create a system of check and balance in the institution. The idea of a goal of a fair and accurate appraisal process. He proposed that a system be established which would utilize outside examiners. The outsiders would be selected by a group of professors imported from other parts of the country and with many years in their fields. They would determine the overall evaluation and write reports.

This program would result in providing an objective yardstick of teaching ability, and in changing the relationship between the students and teachers. Instead of the teacher being an authority figure to the student, he would become an accomplice in the acquisition of f a c t s , of ideas. He would be more eager for a good showing, the students. The teacher would re- increase the number of educational program would result in increasing the number of educational program would result in increasing the number of educational.

What can we see as college undergraduate students do to encourage the use of this system in our college? Says Mr. Fisher, "If you are a student you could raise a little more hell! By all means, encourage the use of the most docile groups in the world to do such an important soul- violent action and inactive."

Voice your complaints to the administration. Write letters to influential state newspapers, to foundations who award grants, to state and national propriety committees. And finally, write a letter to the persons who teach on courses and teachers in your school curriculum. We as college students feel that we're being gyped of an h i gh school education. Let's not encourage it, but instead force the recognition of the situation. Solving the problems in America and demand a solution.

State U's Award More Arts Degrees

A three per cent increase in graduates with liberal arts and special degrees was reported by the nine Wisconsin State Universities to the Board of Regents at its meeting.

Of the 3,710 receiving degrees last year, 1,063 majored in liberal arts or special courses and 2,667 received degrees preparatory to professions of higher.

This was an increase of 261 or 2 percent in liberal arts and sciences. Men made up 60.3 percent of the graduates receiving teaching degrees.

Eugene R. McFie, Madison, Director of State Universities, said that the trend toward liberal arts in those years would continue. Students planning teaching careers now are slightly outnumbered by students majoring in other fields.

Total enrollment for the last fall was 30,064, including 14,249 in teacher-education programs.

Information obtained from students who graduated last year shows that average earnings of the people teaching in the schools those starting other employment.

Salaries of men starting as high school teachers averaged $6,143 and $6,064, above the previous year's average, while men started high school salaries averaging $4,971 up $145. Men starting as ele­

Schools averaging $5,149, an increase of $217, with women elementary school teachers were hired at an average of $4,873.

Graduates taking jobs in other fields reported salaries ranging from $3,311 up to $3,093, and $4,987 for women, up to $3,306. Higher salaries were re­port by engineering graduates from Platteville who started at approximately $7,400 a year.

Peace Corps Test

An opportunity for Wisconsin residents to test their aptitudes for Peace Corps service will come on Sat., Mar. 12. Further information can be obtained by contacting the local Peace Corps Office.

The opportunity is the Peace Corps Placement Test. It is not passed or failed, but simply indicates where your greatest potential lies. The Peace Corps questions are based on which must be filled out and brought to the exam unless previously acquired. The applicant has done in the past. But the placement test is aimed at showing what he or she can do in the future. Applicants do not have to register for the test ahead of time.

The Peace Corps questionnaire can be obtained from all post offices. On college campuses, they are available at college placement centers or the offices of Peace Corps Liaison officers, who are members of the faculty or college administration. If you cannot find a questionnaire, write the Peace Corps, Washington, D.C. 20528.

There are two parts to the Peace Corps Placement Test: a general test of modern language aptitude test (for which knowledge of a foreign language is not necessary). Applicants should plan on about one hour half hours at the testing center, unless they are at the center, unless they have a foreign language test, which can be given on any foreign language achievement test, which requires an additional hour.

Tests results are used, with the character references and questionnaires, to estimate the applicant's potential for completing a Peace Corps training program and his ability to be an effective volunteer overseas.

Outing Committee To Be Organized

How about a co-ed camping trip for a little or a certain climbing one of these dreary weekends. There are many and many more ideas are possibilities, as the UCB Outing Committee is now being organized.

The Outing Club, under supervision of the University Center Board, was once a going institution on campus. It had such activities as overnight canoe trips on the Flambeau River and bicycle hikes into the country. About two years ago it faded from the scene and has been little known to lack of interest. It is hoped the Outing Committee can revive the club and hold the place of the Outing Club.

The chairman of the Outing Committee will be asked to find out where interests lie and what the students want in the type of a program. To aid him in this project he is distributing questionnaires to the residents halls and contact the Hooters Club at the University of Wisconsin at Madison to obtain ideas.

INTERESTED? Take a moment to fill out a questionnaire and mail it to your residence hall or to the Snack Bar Center, 1400 11th St.

Council's Column

In an informal, pre-meeting session on Thursday, Mar. 3, the Student Council asked Dr. Albertson to express his opinions on questions concerning publications, student leadership, allocations, faculty-student relationship, action on SC issues, the proper relationship between the SC and the UCB, and the position of the class on campus. Some of his views were expressed:

1. A proposed joint student-alumni council should have the power to appoint and dismiss the editor of the Pointer, but the editorial policy would be determined by the editor and his staff. Assumption of policy freedom also would include the assumption of responsibility, should the position be on the editorial policy but on the editor's character and his ability to accurately inform students.

2. The Pointer is a University-lowered publication. The whole campus, students and faculty alike.

3. There should be no fear of a faculty "block" on joint student-faculty councils. Voting would depend upon the issue, not the traditional faculty-student or student-faculty myth.

4. Action on SC policy would depend upon the question of issue and to whom it is directed.

5. Yearly redefinition of SC leadership responsibility is important. A healthy and good—through change lessons are learned and progress is made.

6. The UCB should be the "child" of the SC and the student-body. The student-body has improved SC and UCB relationships. A student's class is important only twice in the whole college career—first and last semesters. Interest groups are necessary to discuss the problems and communicate with other classes.

Dr. Albertson then left to attend a faculty meeting and the regular Student Council meeting was called to order. The most important points discussed were:

1. The free speech resolution will be discussed again, including the new changes, which contain "full support of freedom of expression." This will be discussed at the next Student Council meeting.

2. The coming election was discussed extensively. The problems involved in running an election, including write-in candidates, poll workers, and lack of candidates, were brought up. The Council discovered through this discussion that "extremely weak in a large number of issues," and their present constitution is inappropriate. The new constitution will be taken after elections.

3. Most of the SC members are in favor of meeting informally with faculty and administration on a regular basis. Finally, the meeting was adjourned. The next meeting will be Tues., Mar. 5, and is open to the student body.

Banquet Hotel Whiting

Gerald Preblich, newly elected president of the Political Science Association, a new campus organization, has announced the first program of the group. It will be a banquet at the Hotel Whiting on Thurs., Mar. 25 at 7 p.m. It will be Donald Glancy, who is a speech professor primarily interested in political speaking. He is from Ohio State University and is reportedly an extremely entertaining speaker. The charge for the whole event will be $3.75. Gerald Preblich, newly elected president of the Political Science Association, a new campus organization, has announced the first program of the group. It will be a banquet at the Hotel Whiting on Thurs., Mar. 25 at 7 p.m. It will be Donald Glancy, who is a speech professor primarily interested in political speaking. He is from Ohio State University and is reportedly an extremely entertaining speaker. The charge for the whole event will be $3.75. Everyone in the student body interested in purchasing tickets which are on sale at the Kres.
Steiner News

Steiner Hall residents had the benefit of another evening discussion session Wednesday, Mar. 10, with Dr. William Dawson of Stevens Point's Speech Department. On Wed., Mar. 17, Rev. Leonard Stemberger of the Catholic Newman Center and Mr. Joseph Schuster from the Philosophy Department, will conduct a religious discussion. Coming in the near future will be Mr. Mark Cates from the History Department, Mr. Gregory Kulas from the Physics Department, and Dr. Frederick Kempter from the History Department.

Hall residents are voting for the movie they wish to present for the campus in the University Center Lounge this Spring. After taking a look at the ballot sheets on the bulletin board, the film will be "The Hustler" with Paul Newman.

Steiner Hall sweatshirts are now being priced and will go on sale soon. The color and design will remain the same, black with gold lettering, with the name of the upper-left hand corner.

Preparation For June Freshmen

Instead of waiting until September, about 1,000 June high school graduates will enroll almost immediately as freshmen. Free freshmen at Wisconsin State Universities, the Board of Regents office in Madison predicts.

Eugene R. McPhie, Director of State Universities, said that nearly 14,000 students are expected to attend eight and 12 week summer sessions at the nine campuses this year. They will study things called "freshmen" getting an early start in the summer studies.

Last summer, some 12,000 students attended eight and 12 week sessions, including 700 freshmen who enrolled soon as they received their high school diplomas.

The Council of Presidents of State University Student Governments, representing nearly 30,000 students in Wisconsin, protested against a measure which would enable the sale of non-educational items and services if also provided by local communities.

Student leaders said the proposal, now in the Committee on Student Affairs, is a plan which would be aimed at campus bookstores burdening campus social life if interpreted strictly.

Teke's Take W.C. Crown

Tas Kappa Epsilon, the International Fraternity of the WSU campus, started the second semester of intramural successes. First they took the Kappa Epsilon Trophy for all events and the trojan war trophy place in the Games. In winning, they took first place in the Saturday Carnival, second place in the Glamour and third place in the Ices, Sculpture and Panako-Eating. Kappa Epsilon, the greatest winter carnival ever and the student president described it as a whole should feel proud of.

The first toe rusher, held at the Wisconsin River Country Club, was a big success. Mud hole stomp was also held. The pledge program will begin soon after.

Teks also elected the officers for the coming year. Initiation of the following men will be held in April: Blake Herlick, Prytans; Dave Barber, Epsilon; Peter Prost, John Wishcom, Grammateus; Gordon Ellis, Cupid; Bob Cloud, Cupid; Don Bolanger, Hipocrites; and Don W.d.n, Pythians.

Mardi Grass A Sleeper

Like the half empty baseball bleachers in early spring, Allen Center was an emptiness which wasn't complimentary to her space capacity. Therefore, Friday night, March 6, as the U.C.B. Social Committee and International Women's Club put on a performance in order to present an international "Mardi Grass" Militarist and American music cired out from Allen Center from 8 p.m. to 12 p.m. becoming the sleep walkers and those weary of studying was heard.

The highlights of the night were dances performed by the exchange students. The festivities were interrupted briefly to introduce those running for Student Council offices. The majority of the candidates for office were not present.

Alice To Be Here Soon

Miss Beth Bartosh, current Alice in Dairyland, will be here at W.S.U. Friday, March 13, in rooms 21 and 23 of University Center. This recognition will give the young ladies the opportunity to meet and chat with Miss Bartosh and see what Alice in Dairyland selected? What are the qualifications? Are the responsibilities and obligations of her position? Three or more questions you may have will gladly be answered by Miss Bartosh. It should be noted according to the State Department of Agriculture, in recent years a high percentage of young ladies selected as Alice in Dairyland and various State Universities.

Leonard Marcisz
Soph. President

Qualifications— I was the present president’s (Bob LaBrant) campaign manager last fall. When Bob took office, I stayed on as his right-hand man and helped him in theformation of the Freshman Council and other activities in which the class has participated.

Reason for seeking office— In working closely with Bob, I have seen where improvement, change and novelty may be added to the class. I have observed the constructive and useful things Bob has done for this class and I hope to continue them. I have also noted Bob’s mistakes and hope to correct them. In addition I have a few ideas of my own which I hope will be of use to our class.

1. Patricia L. Barry, am seeking the office of Vice President of the 1965-66 Sophomore Class for the following reasons:

1. I feel that as a class officer working in conjunction with the Student Council, I will be able to promote the interests of my class as well as bring to the Student Council the ideas and opinions of its members.

2. I feel it is my responsibility to run as I have confidence that I shall be able to do the job well.

As for qualifications, I have those required: Also, being a member of various diversified campus organizations, I’m able to realize the needs and wants of many students as well as have good view of pertinent campus activities.

Soph. S. C. R cj.
Barbara Fox

I would like to be a member of the Student Council at Wisconsin State University because I am very interested in the University and the welfare of the students.

Last semester, I was on Student Council and enjoyed it very much. The Council is a very worthwhile organization and it does a lot for the students at W.S.U. I enjoy working for such a capable group and would be happy to keep up the responsibilities now delegated to me.

In high school I served on the Council for two years. This year, my Freshman year, I was a freshman representative and also corresponding secretary. I have attended all of the meetings except one. I have put in a lot of time for the Council and am willing to put in more.

Robert C. LaBrant

My past qualifications have been president of the Freshman Class and on the Smith Hall Council.

Reason for seeking office—I am running for Student Council Representative because in Student Council there will be a greater opportunity to actively participate in student government. As Freshman Class President, I noticed improvements that need to be made if student government is to be effective. As a Student Council representative I will work to make an effective student government my goal.

Richard Harris For Junior President

I am running for Junior Class President because I have a strong interest in student government.

I believe that a class should have identity. Besides all the groups a junior might belong to, he is also a member of the Class of ’67. I believe this can be strengthened by the class taking part or putting on certain events such as a dance. There are many other activities that could be done.

I feel that I am qualified because I have been active in student organizations for nearly two years. I am presently Sophomore Class Treasurer, a student assistant in Delzell Hall, a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, and a member of the Men’s Glee Club. Previous to this, I was chairman of Pointer Jubilee and a member of both Homecoming and Winter Carnival Committees.

My reasons for seeking the position of Student Council representative are two. In future, the experience in dealing with other people, as well as the fact of holding such an office would be most valuable, and 2. It would give me an opportunity to work with others, to really have an opportunity to serve the University, and its students.

I am willing to work to serve my fellow students to the best of my ability. At present, I am pleased with Alpha Phi Omega, a fraternity based on leadership and service, two characteristics of a good representative. I am willing to do my best.

John Hauser
Junior SC Rep.

I want to get into Student Council because I am interested in student government. I also want to help the students have more rights and privileges given to them.

I think I'm capable of handling this job; I have been a member of the Student Athletic Committee since I was a second semester freshman. I'm also a committee chairman in my fraternity (Sigma Phi Epistle) this year.

I enjoy supporting school activities by taking an active part in sports, and by being involved in Homecoming and Winter Carnival.

Recently I have been finding out the problems that are involved in the use of the Ply, Ed. Building, and what can be done with these problems to benefit the students rights.

AKL Announces
Wildlife Week

Water: America's most vital natural resource, will be the center of attention during National Wildlife Week, March 14-20. Members of AKL are asking every student to join them in efforts to insure enough clean water for America's present and future needs.

"By 1980 — only 15 years from now — America will need 600 billion gallons of water each day," says Joe Southworth, AKL Wildlife Week Chairman. "By the year 2000, we will need a trillion gallons daily. It would take a tank car train 600,000 miles long to haul just six of these, which would fill a swimming pool half-way to the top."

The AKL Wildlife Week Chairman has emphasized the fact that with this increasing demand for fresh water, the only answer is to reuse existing water supplies. "Some authorities say we will need to re-use our water six times by 1980," he said. "This is the reason water pollution control is the most important conservation program in America today."

"We urge every citizen of this community and state to put our slogan, 'FIGHT DIRTY WATERS INTO PRACTICE,'" Mr. Southworth proclaims. "Wastes from our homes, factories, farms, boats and numerous other sources are reducing our supply of usable water. First, we must invest more money into city and industrial water treatment plants. Second, we need more research to find better ways to treat water so that it can be reused and re-used to meet our growing needs. Finally, we must support strong anti-pollution laws for our rivers, streams and lakes."

550's ANNOUNCES
NEW MEMBERS

The 550's is growing! Second semester members include Bob Black, Brillheft, Rod Grosshek, Elmir Frommer, Billy Brockman, Ron Rice, Bob Vollrath "Albie" Ellison, Arthur Francal, John Frimovitz, Ron Faustenbach, Dave Harris, and Roy Lamberger. The new members represent all four services and bring the total number of foreign countries visited by the 550's to well over fifty, thus making it the most widely traveled organization.

Phil Hemmig has been accepted in the Marine Corps Officer Candidate School and after graduation will participate in the Marine's flight school which will lead to his commission in the 550's with Phil the best of luck on his return to the Corps.

Robert Harris of the 550's met with the Social Security and are currently under way for the first annual Social Security "Summit Conference," which will include a social evening of the two organizations.

NELSON HALL NEWS
Nelson Hall is proud to say that it is the home of the 1965 Winter Carnival Women Football Champions. On Sat., Feb. 20, the day of a man's Winter Carnival games, the girls' football team from Nelson Hall won the Football Championship by first defeating Rosch Hall, 7-0, and by later defeating A.W.S., 13-0. The girls worked for these victories by practicing daily for the entire week before the game. They also may thank Tim Verhey, Dennis Purtz, and Dave Berzen for some fine coaching.

The girls from Nelson Hall were not idle during other Winter Carnival Games either. This was shown in the ratings, which revealed that Nelson Hall had more total game points than did any of the other women's residence halls.

Now that Winter Carnival is over, the girls of Nelson are working on new plans and ideas. One such plan is to print a newspaper entitled "Nelson News," which will tell the news of happenings in the hall. The girls are also working on plans for the Nelson Hall Ball which takes place in April. With cooperation and hard work, this should be a big success.

The Question of Obscenity

By GEORGE SMELLEN
Dr. Lee A. Barresu, Jr., and Dr. Earl B. Stevens of the English Department, attended the anti-smut hearing at Madison on Wednesday. Speaking for one of the same man who attempted to censor smut in the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, Dr. Barresu introduced an amendment to Bill S28 that will make it legal to sell, or show any form of obscene material. Youngsters eighteen years of age or under.

With the help of Mr. C. sney, who was brought from Los Angeles by the Wisconsin State Board for Decent Literature, Mr. Leonard developed the idea and secured the legality of the bill. They believe that a twelve-man jury should be able to pronounce as obscene any piece of literature or photography. A fine of $2,000, two years in jail, or both would then be provided.

The bill was filled with a majority of women who were for the bill. Mrs. R.V. Anderson, East Troy, Legislative Chairwoman of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, presented the bill to the committee. Each of it dealt with homosexuality in the state. Traveling in the state, she presented most of the material to the committee. She had decided that a trial was needed to assure the people that a twelve-man jury would be able to tell the facts.

She believed that the bill would be passed in the legislature. She had meant to present the amendment to assure the people that a twelve-man jury could find the answer.

One senator asked if she was not afraid of the possibility of no one showing up in the court. She stated that the bill was strong enough to be passed. She also said that this type of literature made people act in a bad way.

Then a Defenestration statement that the bill was needed to pass. It was stated that the bill was necessary to pass. One member of the committee was heard saying that she thought VD would be passed in the legislature.

Mrs. Anderson then brought the question of the bill. She stated that there is not much material from advertisements in magazines, but by lettering or photography, a fine of $2,000, two years in jail, or both would then be provided.

Dick Bord, Student Director, in his statement that the Students are outstanding qualities. As advisor, Mr. Bell and Mr. Hatcher had made the lists. They enforce the house rules, handle room distribution, and act as good-will ambassadors to visiting groups.

To become Student Directors, these must be two of the outstanding qualities. As advisors, Mr. Bell and Mr. Hatcher will do the house. Any qualities are:

1. Integrity of character — Honesty to oneself and others is highly desirable.
2. Emotional Ability — The Student Directors must be able to cope with the human elements without emotional involvement.
3. Personality — They must have an acceptable personality which will command the respect of fellow students, the faculty, and the center.

In existence since Nov., the Student Director's Group had been in the planning stages before.

Although our school is as large or larger than the other nine State Universities, its staff and facilities are half the size. The apparent problem is money. Mr. Bell emphasized that the University Center is only as good as the students make it. The Center operates for and because of the students who use it. In the future the Student Directors hope to have the cooperation of the University Center Board and the Student Council.

With the addition to Center, the advisors hope to expand the group on a temporary basis to fill the needs of the Center. At present only one student director assists at a time. Their duties range from making emergency room reservations to pushing cars out of the parking lot.

By acting as mediators between the management and students, the Student Directors hope to provide more common grounds for the University Center. Mr. Bell feels that it is easier for some students to give suggestions or criticism to the Student Directors than to go directly to the management. By having Student Directors act as "middlesmen" more problems will be brought out into the open and given consideration.

Dick Bord, Student Director, was "very pleased with the cooperation of the students. The students can further upgrade the social and cultural level of the University Center.

Overseas Language Program

Students can study French, German and Spanish in Europe this summer by enrolling in a Michigan State University overseas language program. Three credit courses will be offered in Paris, France; Cologne, Germany; and Madrid, Spain, under auspices of MSU's American Language and Educational Center (AMELCO) and the College of Arts and Letters.

The courses, taught or supervised by Michigan State language professors, will each carry nine credits.

Noncredit language programs will also be offered in Paris; Lausanne and Neuchatel, Switzerland; Barcelona and Madrid; Spain; and Cologne; and Florence, Italy.

Courses are scheduled from July 5 to Aug. 20.

Students will be housed with private families in all but the Paris center. Dr. Sheldon Cherney, MSU's AMELCO director, feels that the family setting will result in more frequent use of the language.

For both overseas and noncredit programs are extremely modest. This has been made possible through the decrease in air far rates and special charter air rates for roundtrip travel. Dr. Cherney reports that costs for credit courses range from $250 to $750, and include tuition, transportation, orientation program, housing, two daily meals and other incidental expenses. Noncredit programs will run between $250 and $875, he adds.

An optional eight-day tour following the course is $125, and a 23-day tour, $225. These prices include travel, housing, three meals daily, services of a skilled tour leader and certain other extras.

Applications for AMELCO programs must be received no later than April 1, 1965.

Additional information can be obtained by writing AMELCO, Kellogg Center, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich.

Summer Jobs In Politics

Wisconsin college students have been invited to spend summer working as a congressmen or government official, as they have done in summers passed through the political science program sponsored by the Wisconsin Center for Education in Politics which is headed by the University of Wisconsin political science professor Ralph K. Houtz.

Undergraduate students from any Wisconsin college or university need not necessarily be from a political science background to participate, according to the Wisconsin Center for Education in Politics. The opportunity is open to all prospective students who wish to work in a political capacity.

Each intern will receive $1,000 for the summer’s work. Those who are involved in the internship will be placed with the Wisconsin Center for Education in Politics and the participating person or agency.

The director of the academic program, Dean D. J. O'Brien, says that the program provides an excellent opportunity for students to gain valuable experience in the field of political science.

Speaking Of Sports

by Duane Clark

A few days ago, newcomers were visiting Cassius Clay the heavyweight boxing champion of the world, in his locker room after one of his workouts. Many of the questions asked by the reporters were relevant to Clay's May 26, return bout with Sonny "The Bear" Liston. Cassius then happened to ask Cassius what kind of shape he was in and how much he weighed. "Naw," the fire-eating champ retorted quickly, "If you weighed my punch, I'd say about 4,000 pounds!" Poor Sonny—What a way to go.

Michigan, the nation's No. 1 team, sewed up the Big Ten basketball title Saturday by edging Minnesota 88-45 in a tight battle that was in doubt until the final gun.

The victory automatically sends the Wolverines in to the NCAA Midwest Regional tournament at Lexington, Kentucky, next week. Michigan is undefeated in 11 conference games and has a 21-2 over-all record.

Once again, All-American Cazzie Russell sparked the Michigan attack with almost unerring accuracy, scoring 25 points. Paul's Bar and Willie's Bar of Stevens Point posted opening victories in the annual St. John's Athletic Association Class B Basketball tournament at Menasha over the weekend. Willie's Bar whipped Neenah, 97-87, while Paul's outlasted Wally Lem's Bar of Green Bay, 67-61. Jack Ullswell and Dick Rotenhaler, two former Pointer eager cagers, led Willie's "Bucketeers" with 36 and 35 points respectively. Leeping Paul's Bar on to victory were Don Kotke with 29 and Mike Fortune with 14 points. Fortune contributed considerably to the Pointers fourth place in the conference this season from his forward position.

Just as the Winter season is drawing to a close and the spring season is beginning to make the scene; the basketball, wrestling and swimming seasons either have or are coming to an end for another school year and the sports such as baseball, tennis, and track are coming to the W.S.U. campus.

Next week in the sports section—basketball summary, and swimming and volleyball news.

Cagers Lose By One Point

The Pointer "Bucketeener" ends the season last Saturday as they lost their chance to have a conference fourth place in the State University Conference by dropping another one-point decision. Joe Tilbury, who only tallied 6 points the whole game, scored 2 free-throws with 37 seconds left in an overtime period and brought Paul's Bar victory over Coach Robert Kruger's Pointer Cagers.

Pointers Swamp UWM

The Stevens Point swimming team downed a formidable opponent, the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee Saturday afternoon before a jam-packed crowd.

The Point-Naut victory avenged an earlier team effort with Bill Gellick in the spotlight. This time, however, the Pointers Freeperot won three events, setting pool records in two. In the 50 yard freestyle, he set the record at 1:58.9 and in the 300 yard butterfly at 2:24.8. He also won the 500 yard freestyle 34.2 seconds faster than Jim Millman's second place effort.

Chuck Fish displayed his diving form, he finished with a total awards amounting to 194.5.

Coach Fred Hagerman's squad started out on a strong note losing the 400 yard medley relay by 1-5; 5-4 by a nose with Gellick's record-breaking effort and Glen Bishop's second place finish in the 200 yard freestyle. The Pointers took the lead and held it building it up until UW-M made its move late in the meet. Stevens Point's Joe Conklin registered a first place in the 50 yard freestyle and Jim Hillman and Sam Specht finished one and two in the 200 yard individual medley to give Point a 23-22 lead.

Outstanding for UW-M were 351, who won the 200 yard breaststroke and swam with the relay team to win the 400 yard medley, and Crawfard, who was set the same relay team and won the 100 yard freestyle.

The results were:

- 400 medley relay — 1, UW-M (Pichtusoski, Goldsmith, Fredick, Crawford), 4:10.8.
- 200 freestyle — 1, Gellick (SP), 2, Bishop (SP) — 1:45.9.
- 50 freestyle — 1, Conklin (UW-M), 2, Crawford (UW-M), 3, Doomter (SP) — 23.5.
- 100 individual medley — 1, Hillman (SP), 2, Specht (SP), 3, Bleden (UW-M) — 2:24.6.
- Diving — 1, Fish (SP), 2, Botz (UW-M), 3, Smith (SP) — 4:15.1.
- 200 butterfly — 1, Gellick (SP), 2, Goldsmith (UW-M), 3, Xavier (UW-M) — 2:04.8.
- 100 freestyle — 1, Crawford (UW-M), 2, Bishop (SP), 3, Leopre (SP) — 1:46.8.
- 50 freestyle — 1, Gellick (SP), 2, Hillman (SP), 3, Specht (SP) — 30.7.
- 200 breaststroke — 1, Fredrick (UW-M), 2, Xavier (UW-M), 3, Leopre (SP) — 2:26.9.
- 400 freestyle relay — 1, SP (Bishop, Conklin, Adams, Specht) — 3:45.2.
