Students Question SORC

Decry Ambiguity Of Rules

On Friday, May 1, students from various campus organizations met in the Union to discuss the issue of the Student Organization Review Committee. The students were concerned about the actions of SORC, its policies, and its goals.

Warran then asked the students if they anticipated any trouble in being recognized by SORC. "We're thinking, "he said. "But that's just a guess. We're not sure what we want to do until the committee makes a decision." Warran also addressed the issue of the student council's constitution. "The constitution is very vague," he said. "It says that SORC must decide what the constitution is. But we don't have a copy of the constitution and we can't, don't can't we participate in the debate until we have a copy of the constitution."

"We're not sure what will happen," Warran said. "But we think that it will be decided by SORC." He added, "We are not going to give up any of our rights until we have a copy of the constitution."

Nicollet, as quoted by recognition, represents the views of SORC. He said, "We will not recognize any organization until we receive a copy of the constitution." Nicollet also addressed the issue of the student council's constitution. "The constitution is very vague," he said. "It says that SORC must decide what the constitution is. But we don't have a copy of the constitution and we can't, don't can't we participate in the debate until we have a copy of the constitution."

"We're not sure what will happen," Nicollet said. "But we think that it will be decided by SORC." He added, "We are not going to give up any of our rights until we have a copy of the constitution."

Griffith's "Birth of a Nation"

The Nicollet Series was televised on WISN-TV at 8 p.m. in the University Center. The series has been a great success, and more than one hundred people attended each session. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation" was shown at the University Center on Monday night.

"It has been said that the film is the first of its kind, and it is," commented a student attending the session. "It is a great success, and more than one hundred people attended each session. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation" was shown at the University Center on Monday night.

Panel Discusses Teaching Problems

A panel of three educators discussed teaching problems at a meeting in the University Center. The panel consisted of Dr. John Bemis, Mr. Clifford Cone, and Mr. Malvin Karg.

The panel discussed various teaching problems, including the importance of teacher-student interaction and the use of technology in the classroom.

"It is important that teachers establish a good rapport with their students," said Dr. Bemis. "This helps to create a positive learning environment." Mr. Cone added, "Technology can be a valuable tool in the classroom. It can help to engage students and make learning more interactive." Mr. Karg agreed, saying that "teachers must be flexible and willing to adapt their teaching methods to the needs of their students."
The Pointer
Wisconsin State University

The only dignity which is genuine is that not diminished by the indifference of others. — Dag Hammarskjold (1905-1961)

Podium Must Reject SORC

At a recent meeting, member of student organization, the Student Organization Recognition Committee to students representing the SORC, contestants if the Pointer would be rejected by SORC. What question was yes, the Pointer would have to join SORC and back up would be the consequence if the Pointer would not join. In reply to the final question was yes, the Pointer would have to join SORC and the reply to the second question that the addition to the Pointer would be withdrawn if the Pointer would not join.

May be a matter of record for all to see . . . the Pointer is to be welcomed to join SORC now or in the future. May I also say that no one will intimated the POINTER by threatening it with the withdrawal of funds. Such a threat was most unjust and unfair.

I maintain that the POINTER is not a student organization, but a university organization representing students, faculty, and administration. I would prefer not to refer to the POINTER as an organization of all, but rather a service. I cannot see the rationale behind students, especially with a service to faculty and administration. If the SORC has the power to stop additions to the POINTER, then SORC can control the content of the POINTER, the Pointer's position. This position is contrary to the provisions of SORC regulations. The POINTER will not be restricted in its content, but rather the content and information that is presented.

If the SORC could legally force the POINTER into its membership, such action would be an abuse of power on the part of SORC that organization in the university. There is nothing in the POINTER for the POINTERS to be rejected.

The POINTER is not a book, and as such, it should be free from the SORC's efforts to control its content.

Elihu Root-In-Chief shall reign.

The POINTER is controlled by administration, faculty or students. It is free to serve all three.

Bill 301 . . . Whatever It Is

It's Against It

At the last meeting of the Student Senate, the Senate held a vote on the bill 301. The bill was introduced by the Student Senate President. The bill was introduced to provide a means of maintaining a set of standards of conduct which are consistent with the policies and procedures of the University. The Senate President, Mr. Smith, presented the bill, which was debated by the students, and a vote was taken. The vote was 12 in favor, 3 against, and 5 abstained.

Whereas the "nature mind," the "self-willed" and the "self-centered" are at fault, the statement of opposition to the senate bill would be an attempt to solve the problem by a majority of the Senate. No member of the Senate, not even those who, had a good reason to support the bill, did so. The bill did not pass. Mr. Smith, who spoke in favor of the bill, was opposed by the opposition, and the Senate President, Mr. Smith, was opposed by the opposition. So the bill failed. Bill 301 . . . Whatever It Is — and I'm assuming that the bill had something to do with keeping Communist sympathies off campus, public or private.

Dr. Stater Explains Resignation

The job became too big for me. I am not interested in being a college president, M.D., as I have to resign my position at the Student Health Center. I am also going to resign from my job teaching psychology at the University. I have received a number of offers from other universities, and I am going to accept the offer from the University of North Carolina, where I will be able to continue my research in the field of psychology.

I am an interested person in the field of psychology and I feel that I can contribute to the advancement of the field.

Get your ticket now! You'll be sorry if you don't.

Sheroes Invites Foreign Students

Foreign students at WSU are invited to attend the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Chinese Student Association on April 13th. The event will feature speeches and performances by the students. The celebration will include a banquet and a dance. The event will be held in the campus center, and admission is free. All foreign students are invited to attend.

Dr. Gholam President

Dr. R. Gholam, Surgeon General, was appointed by the Student Senate as the new president of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Gholam is a well-known figure in the medical field and has been a leader in the fight against infectious diseases.

He has been a member of the American Medical Association and the American Public Health Association. He is a former president of the American College of Surgeons and a former president of the American Society of Tropical Medicine.

Dr. Gholam is a strong proponent of the fight against infectious diseases and has been a strong advocate of the use of antibiotics in the treatment of infectious diseases.

He is a member of the American Medical Association, the American Public Health Association, the American College of Surgeons, and the American Society of Tropical Medicine.

Columbus Offers Unique Program

Two of Columbia University's major units in the arts and sciences stand out in the academic season for their unusual and interesting programs, the School of Fine and Applied Arts and the Department of International Affairs.

The program was announced in a recent issue of the Bulletin, and is being anticipated by students both within and outside the University.

The program consists of an exhibition of paintings and sculpture by students of the School of Visual and Fine Arts, and a series of lectures on the history and development of certain aspects of Western art.

The exhibition will be held in the Art Gallery of the School of Visual and Fine Arts, and will run from October 20 to November 30.

The lectures will be given by Professors John H. and William J. of the Department of International Affairs, and will take place in the auditorium of the School of Visual and Fine Arts, on Tuesdays and Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m.

The program is open to the public, and admission is free.

Campus Commentary

A Study In Depth

By Doninick F. Edler

"I wonder why the bank would want to work for the 평가. "I'm just out of it all." This is a frequent comment I hear in response to a question about the future of the banking industry.

The answer, and one which must be accepted, is that many people have been forced to work in the banking industry in order to keep their jobs.

The problem is not one of the banks themselves, but of the economy as a whole.

The banks are merely a reflection of the situation in the country as a whole.

In addition, there are many other factors which contribute to the problem, such as inflation, unemployment, and the high cost of living.

However, the banks themselves are not the only ones to blame.

The government, the Federal Reserve, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation have all played a role in the situation.

The banks are merely a reflection of the situation in the country as a whole.

If we want to solve the problem, we must first address the root causes of the situation.

In conclusion, the banking industry is facing a very difficult time.

However, with proper planning and a coordinated effort, we can overcome the problems and look forward to a brighter future.

Kaleidoscope

Saturn of Paradise Lost

J. W. von der Goltz

Salamander, the last surviving member of the species, was the final taxon to be lost.

It was first described by Linnaeus in 1758, and last recorded in 1789.

Its last known specimen was captured in 1820, but was never seen again.

The species was declared extinct in 1889.

However, recent research has shown that the species may still exist, and efforts are being made to find it.

The Kaleidoscope is a biannual publication that aims to bring attention to the beauty and diversity of the natural world.

It features articles on topics such as botany, zoology, and environmental conservation.

The Kaleidoscope is published by the University of California Press and distributed by the American Museum of Natural History.

The Kaleidoscope is available in print and digital formats, and is also available online.

Bus Drivers Par Excellence

WSU’s Mighty Heroes Of The Road

Some buses from the Sevena Point Area Public Schools traveled 20,000 miles during the course of the 1964-65 season. During that time they were involved in only ten relatively minor accidents, neither of which was the fault of the bus driver. The drivers of the buses are W.S.U. students hired by the Board of Education.

The safety record of these establishments is accomplished in spite of many hazards not commonly measured by the average motorist. The buses travel on all types of roads from paved federal highways to muddy country back roads. Weather of all kinds, ranging from drizzling rain to flooded highways, to snow, ice or high winds, have not been the drivers safety record.

The typical driver’s day begins early in the morning when he arrives at the bus garage at P.J. Jacob High School. He checks over the equipment on his bus to see that everything is operating properly. This check includes lights, brakes, tires, and oil. Then he begins his daily route, which averages 368 miles daily, picking up his young passengers. The routes are arranged and scheduled by the individual drivers during the first week of school. The schedule is arranged so that children are on the bus the shortest possible time, usually a maximum of one hour. Except for unusual weather conditions, the buses run within one or two minutes of the planned schedule time. This allows the children to be ready and waiting for the bus.

As the bus pulls up, more and more passengers the same level goes up. In spite of the color, the driver concentrates on his own job, not giving a second glance his driver to see that the sun is in the sun. Generally, there is no problem, although once in a while you see a little out of hand. The driver then proceeds to his seat, gets a fair bit of a start. This calls for an ability to get along with passengers. Touchiness report that the children are not a problem and that the children are very cooperative with the drivers.

When the route is completed, the bus takes the students to their requested schools. The driver then returns to the garage, picks up the bus and leaves for home. Once in the home, he sees his family, rolls off the children’s bus home.

One of the biggest sources of a bus driver is the instructor. Once you will not stop the bus. By making a driver of a bus, he has something in common with the bus. To keep this possibility, a minimum in the driving lessons before the driver returns to the route, the bus must be kept on the straight bus. When this program is in practice, the children must be taught to wait at the front of the bus while the driver checks traffic to the front and the rear. When it is safe, he unhooks the children, picks up the child across the highway.

The criteria the school board said in hiring their drivers is that they are mature, responsible and can take the job. They must be able to work along with children and have a record of safe driving. Once hired, they must pass examinations, both written and behind-the-wheel, to obtain a school bus operator’s license.

The bus driver, an important safety person, must learn both driving and backing techniques, and in the last part of the program, he is taught about the traffic laws and the traffic. He is also taught the importance of looking for children who are crossing the highway.

The business administration of the Board of Education, L.E. Coker, and the bus supervisor, L. W. Welles, both report extremely satisfaction with the WSU students as drivers.
Well, Sport...

by MIKE TROY

In baseball a sport of big business! This is something the Congress will have to consider when the new tariff on baseball equipment goes into effect. The National League has raised its tariff on baseball equipment to $100 per set, and the American League to $75 per set. This will mean an increase of $250 a week for each team, or a total of $6,500 a season for the National League and $3,250 for the American League. The increase is to be effective on April 1, 1965. The President has declared that the increase is necessary to meet the cost of maintaining the tariff on baseball equipment, which he believes is too high. The increase is also to be used to pay for the cost of maintaining the tariff on baseball equipment, which he believes is too high. ON SEPTEMBER 14, 1965, the new addition to the University Center will be officially opened. It will contain a large formal lounge and reception center, University store and bookstore, a snack bar, a multi-purpose room with portrait stage.

THE WAR ON POVERTY: a message to the Nation's college students...

Inspirational causes have always fired the imagination of students.

Today the United States is committed to the greatest humanitarian cause in its history: a full-scale national counterattack against the causes of poverty, which are robbing 35,000,000 Americans of the opportunity to live and work among the poor through Project Head Start. This program is designed to help the poor have the chance to learn and grow, to have the opportunity to live the American dream.

Volunteers are needed to help sponsor a Head Start program in your area. To find out how you can help, write to:
