WSU Students Receive Scholarship Grant

JOAN DEMETT, a junior in Primary Education, received a $100 William T. Schreiber Scholarship Award from Dr. John Adlehorst, President of WSU.

The Award of $100, which was presented to Joan Demett by Dr. Adlehorst at the Board of Trustees meeting, is the first given to a student by the University in its 70th year.

"The award was presented to the most outstanding graduate of the Schreiber program," said Dr. Adlehorst.

"The Award was given to Joan Demett, who is one of the top students in the Schreiber program. She has been a member of the Student Senate and has been active in the National Honor Society. She is also a member of the Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society. She has been a leader in the community and has been involved in many community service projects. She is a dedicated student and a dedicated teacher. She is a great example of what Schreiber students can achieve."

"The award is a symbol of the excellence of our students and the quality of our education," said Dr. Adlehorst. "It is a recognition of the hard work and dedication of our students and the commitment of our faculty and staff."

Boy Demonstrates Courage And Determination

by Wally Frederick

Last week while I was watching wrestling practice, I saw someone slip and fall on the mat. I thought it was a good idea to call the doctor, but when I got there, I found out that the wrestler had been making a move and was just fine. I’ve been thinking about how brave people are in real life and how they take risks to accomplish their goals. It reminds me of the way we all have to be brave in our own lives.

Northwestern University Receives Ford Foundation Grant

Evanston, Ill. (U. P.)—Northwestern University will en-

tain a University-wide program of training and research in international studies, under a $50,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

The project, sponsored by the Center for International Studies, the University Council for Foreign Relations, the Center for Policy Research, the Graduate School of International Studies, and the Institute for Foreign Policy Research, will provide for faculty appointments in international studies in the social and behavioral sciences, and in business administration.

The project is designed to prepare for graduate students, both domestic and foreign, to fill important roles in governmental, educational, business, and other fields.

The grant will provide for the training of 20 to 25 faculty members and 40 to 50 graduate students in international studies.

The Ford Foundation reports that the project will be administered by the president of the university, the provost, and the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

MSU Student Sues For Admission

Graduate Programs Grow At State's

Minneapolis, Minn. (CQ) - University of Minnesota faculty members are being required to adopt the organization's new policy of non-discrimination in admissions. The policy, which was implemented in January, prohibits the acceptance of any student who has been found guilty of any form of discrimination or harassment.

The policy has been in effect since January, when it was first adopted by the university's Board of Regents. The university has also been working to improve its academic programs, including the addition of new courses and the expansion of existing ones. The university has also been working to improve its campus facilities, including the renovation of the old library building and the construction of new dormitories.

New developments at the university include the establishment of a new college of business administration, which will offer courses in finance, accounting, and management. The university has also been working to improve its athletic programs, including the construction of new sports facilities and the hiring of new coaches. The university has also been working to improve its student services, including the expansion of counseling and academic support services.
