Vigil For Peace
Clarified

May I clarify those matters concerning the vigil for peace in Vietnam. First, while the article made it appear that the vigil was generally accurate, one fact was omitted — let me bring it to your attention now. The vigil, being a statutory public meeting (California Penal Code 225), can be used only for the purpose of peaceful protest. It was the belief of the organizers that peace should prevail in Vietnam and not in Laos, as was implied by the article.

Finally, the vigil is held in the Post Office circle, from 11:30 to 1:30. Those who have been holding has been justified for the purpose of peaceful meeting. The vigil was held has justified for the purpose of peaceful meeting.

Student Submits Poem Written By A Marine

Dear Editor,

I just submitted a poem to you a few days ago which was written by a marine and I thought that you might find it interesting.

My reason for the poem was because the marine and I are both in the National Guard and I thought that you would be interested in reading it since it is a subject that we are both familiar with.

I think that this poem expresses the attitude not only of the American soldier, but also of the American people who are aware of the dangers that face them in Vietnam. I believe that the marine who wrote this poem is not a private citizen, but an American soldier who has given his life for his country.

I hope this poem is not a bit too much for you, but I hope that it is a bit too much for you, but I hope that it will be of interest to you.

I am sorry for any inconvenience this may have caused you.

You Can Stop the War T.V., while sipping a cold drink, you can watch the story of the war in Vietnam. Then you find out the story for yourself. Your troops are being sent into Vietnam now. In the next two years, your troops will be engaged in battle against the communists. You will be fighting for the lives of your fellow countrymen.

This is the worst war that we have ever been in. There is no more citizens who are willing to fight for their country. They are willing to fight for the cause of freedom.

Now, you can do something about it. You can stop the war T.V. You can stop the war by sending a letter to your congressman. You can stop the war by sending a letter to your congressman. You can stop the war by sending a letter to your congressman. You can stop the war by sending a letter to your congressman.

RHC Is Blasted

Dear Editor,

Last Wednesday I attended the meeting of the '968' at your school. I thought that the meeting was a complete waste of time. I was very disappointed in the way the meeting was conducted.

I am in favor of the Vietnam war and I would like to see it continued. I believe that we are making a mistake in the way that we are fighting the war. I think that we should learn from our mistakes and that we should try to do better in the future.

Your truly,

I hope that you will consider my views and that you will take them into account in the future.

The primary function of education is the formal socialization of the young, particularly of those who are students for future adjustment to our society. It does this by inculcating values, attitudes, and beliefs that are considered to be appropriate and desirable for students to accept and internalize.

The value system and the beliefs that are encouraged in schools are largely derived from the culture and the values of the dominant groups in society. These values are often expressed in the form of curriculum, textbooks, and other educational materials.

The American role in Vietnam since the time of the French attempts to pacify southeast Asia is a significant one. This role has been characterized by a number of factors that have contributed to the success or failure of American policies.

First, the United States has been involved in numerous military interventions in Southeast Asia, including the Vietnam War, the Korean War, and the war in the Philippines. These interventions have been characterized by a number of factors, including the use of force, the involvement of the United States military, and the absence of effective international institutions or strategies to address the underlying causes of conflict.

Second, the United States has also been involved in the development of economic and political strategies to support and stabilize the Thai government. These strategies have been characterized by a number of factors, including the use of economic aid, the promotion of democratic institutions, and the encouragement of economic growth.

The main lounge of Student Union has recently been given a new look, so to speak, having been converted into a lounge, which sells wine. This is one of the most unique lounge ideas that have been seen.

Among the innovations are new sofas and more tables, and a new trophy case that will be on display the first week after Christmas dinner.

Future plans call for the lounge to be open the first week in every month. The lounge will be open every evening until midnight, except on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

Also, the TV lounge in the main lobby of the Student Union will now be open to students for the first week in September. Plans are for the lounge to be open from 6 to 9 p.m. on weekdays, and from 8 to 11 p.m. on weekends.

Again, plans will be announced for the first week of the next semester.
Walt Whitman High School's Chris Greenleaf is the individual whose end zone catch on a 14-yard pass from quarterback Kevin Jacobson gave Whitman its first lead of the game during the overtime period of the Oct. 19, 1966, game against North Allegheny at Whitman. After winning the coin toss, Whitman had the ball at the North Allegheny 43-yard line, blocked the ensuing extra point attempt, and then the Trojans scored on a 37-yard TD pass from Jacobson to Greenleaf to take a 13-10 lead. Whitman then forced a fumble on the ensuing kickoff and scored on a one-yard TD run by Greg Schwartz to take a 20-10 lead, which the Trojans held on to win.
