Disadvantaged H.S. Seniors
Will Visit Point Campus

By Mike Finneman

Tuesday, Nov. 1, WSU will welcome 76 disadvantaged Milwaukee high school seniors to the University for a "self-education" camping trip as a part of a series of WSU sponsored programs designed to get a glimpse of university life.

The program, now in its second year, is being conducted by a core faculty and students from the Milwaukee area.

The schedule for the trip includes college tours, socializing with the University and introductions to special events like "High School "11\u201d in the Franklins on Saturday afternoon, as well as an opportunity for the participants to express their interest in higher education and to obtain a college education.

Mr. Al Theriault, Director of Enrollment Development, said that the program is expected to involve one or two sessions each year.

The program is aimed primarily at students from Milwaukee, although it is open to students from any high school in the area.

The students are expected to return to their schools after the visit and to tell the students who did not participate.

Students Attend Conference In Philadelphia

Members of the WSU newspaper staff and other students in the administration of the United States and the Associated Press, and about 500 students from the WSU newspaper staff and other students from the Associated Press, will travel to the WSU School of Journalism at the University of Wisconsin.

The students who participated were the University's first and only student to hold the trip.

The newspaper trip is sponsored by the WSU School of Journalism and Communications.

THE PODIUM

How Do You Stand?

Can you name three towns in South Viet Nam? What do the names Ky. Thi, Hue, and Nha mean to you? How do you stand on communism vs. capitalism?

This week in the Gridiron, I asked these questions of a number of students and witnessed the range of responses. Some, for instance, had no idea what Ky. Thi, Hue, and Nha mean while their classmates were very knowledgeable in this field. In the future, before you answer any questions, make sure you know your material.

Look Before You Leap

Dear Editor,

A new form of communication which resulted in some good discussion was recently brought to my attention. It is known as "Be the Editor." Readers are invited to write to the Editor, The Student Senate, and present their argument on any subject. The post card is then passed along to the President so that the controversy can be aired on the podium.

I wish to thank the people who have written for their interest in this controversy. I hope that the students will continue to be interested in the discussions that will be presented in the future.

Sincerely yours,

Dwight� M

A Point Well Taken

Replied to Philosophical Criticisms

by BILL McILMAYE

The Boston

It is clear that I was quite unfair in my attack on the Boston. I should have been fairer had I read the full article. The Boston has a right to express its opinions, and I should have been more courteous in my criticism.

In any case, I am willing to accept the Boston's verdict and to move in the direction of reform. I am glad to see that the Boston is willing to give me a fair hearing, and I am grateful for the opportunity to express my views. I hope that the Boston will continue to be open to new ideas and to consider all viewpoints.

Sincerely yours,

Bill McIlmey

If You Ask Me —

"I really question its value"

George Hein, 24, juror, 2121 Main St., from Stevens Point, majoring in political science.

I really question its value. I think that the Student Senate provides good experience for those who participate actively in it. Outside of this, I really question its value.

If I think that the Student Senate is only as effective as the administration wants it to be. This is an inherent defect in any student government, and we are too easy on it.

In a change of hour or a reformation of off-campus housing, I think both would be a great deal, but those are things the administration should be doing. I do not think that the Student Senate has taken on the role of a political party or a political candidate for the state, which is what I believe it should be.

Sincerely yours,

George Hein

"Just because you happen to have powerful friends doesn't mean you can't do something, but I'm not sure what it is that you know who he is -"

John Peters, 12th Floor, from Madison, majoring in English.

I was interested in reading that our governing body, the Student Senate, has made the most important decision of its existence and taken a stand against the administration. It is a tremendous victory for the students.

I think that the Student Senate has done a great job, but I do not think that they will have enough support from the campus to succeed. I think that theStudent Senate has done a great job, but I do not think that they will have enough support from the campus to succeed.

Rathsack Displays Watercolors In Library

Watercolors by Laurence Rathsack, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee art faculty member, are now on display at the WUW Fine Arts Library.

The exhibit, the second in this year's WUW Fine Arts Lecture Series, opened on Oct. 31 and will open to the public from Nov. 3 through Dec. 5.

Mr. Rathsack received a B.A. degree from UW-M, where he has been on the faculty since 1959, and a M.S. degree from the University of Wisconsin Extension Service.

Mr. Rathsack's watercolors are well known throughout the region, and with this exhibition, he will be shown for the first time in Wisconsin. The works of art are on display in the WUW Fine Arts Library, open Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 to 5:30.

Mr. Rathsack comments, "I am delighted to have my work shown in Milwaukee, where I have lived for so many years. It is a privilege to be able to share my art with others who appreciate it."

A central piece in the show is the "Watercolor of Milwaukee Riverfront," a work that Mr. Rathsack describes as "a celebration of the beauty of Milwaukee's natural surroundings.

The exhibit is free and open to the public. For more information, call the WUW Fine Arts Library at 262-440-3400.

Rathsack Shows Aesthetic Union In Watercolors

The most unusual characteristic of Mr. Rathsack's watercolors is the way they are shown on the walls in the WUW Fine Arts Library. The paper is mostly unframed and instead is arranged in a series of colored panels.

This is a unique presentation of Mr. Rathsack's work and it is important to note that this is the only exhibit in the area that displays his work in this manner.

The exhibit is open to the public from Nov. 3 through Dec. 5. For more information, call the WUW Fine Arts Library at 262-440-3400.

Points Shade
Stout, Win 21-20

The team had to work hard to get the points. The Points missed one conversion attempt but made a good effort. However, they were forced to hold the ball for an extended time before scoring.

Because the opening kickoff was poorly executed, the Points were forced to punt on their first touchdown. Points' defense showed great determination in holding the ball.

The game was a thrilling
affair, with both teams
playing with great intensity.
Points' offense showed great improvement.

Beecham suffered a leg injury in the second quarter but returned in the fourth quarter.

Points' defense was relentless, holding Beecham to just 20 points. The game was a great performance by Points.
