Bans on military recruiters at University have been criticized by the Student Senate. In a resolution passed on December 23, the Senate banned all visits by military recruiters on University property, effective immediately.

The resolution follows a Student Senate meeting on December 14, at which the Senate voted to ban military recruiters on campus. The resolution was passed by a vote of 14 to 1, with one abstention.

At the meeting, members of the Senate discussed the issue of military recruiters on campus and voted to ban them effective immediately.

The resolution states that the Senate "reserves the right to rescind this resolution at any time, subject to the outcome of the upcoming election for student representative on the Board of Regents, which is being held at this time."

The resolution also states that the Senate "requests that the administration of the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Student Senate, and the Board of Regents take all necessary steps to ensure that military recruiters are not allowed on University property, effective immediately."

Merry Christmas, Happy Hanukkah

That time of year is upon us again. Trees are covered with lights, houses are decorated, carrots are buried in the streets and stores are filled with people looking for presents.

Everyone really enjoys this time of year. It is heartwarming to see people not only with their best friends, but also with the people they have ever met in the past 12 months. You can see the joy in everyone's faces. It’s like Christmas every day.

Christmas and Happy Hanukkah anyway.

Senate Squeebes 'Hershey's Folly'

Last week the Student Senate passed perhaps their most important resolution of the year. The Senate reported that military recruiters be banned from campus until such time as General Hershey of the Selective Service System negotiate his direct to local draft boards to reconsider anyone who obstructs service procedures or implements military recruiting.

We applaud the Senate’s action as being just pre- emptive against an unconstitutional and unrepresentative recommendation by General Hershey. The General seems to be making the military into a kind of prison, which draws a strong libel of the armed forces.

He is more willing to do the local draft boards to squash dissent of any kind if they wish. Already, for example, the Oct. 28 appearance of a Selective Service member who had a student passing out antiwar literature at an industrial center. Our Student Senate has unfortunately recognized the danger of General Hershey’s position and has empowered the local draft boards to prevent any disservice or interference with their recruiting efforts.

We urge the Senate to have this resolution carried out. If someone or some group blocks the action we demand the Senate to make it happen.

"SANTA HAS ARRIVED"

Christmas is finally here. Now that all of the other little things to disorder around. For Christmas means a lot for all of us. However, our Santa has not been able to order all of the things we need for the holidays. He must be working overtime to ensure our presents are ready on time.

The Primer self-righteously stands around with the other children trying to figure out what to do on Christmas Day. He knows we are all looking forward to the holidays, but he wonders if he will ever be able to enjoy them.

Tunafish Brings Cheer

Dear Editor:

The student body of the Wisconsin State University has been in a gloomy mood for a long time. The President has been in a testy mood, and the students have been in a testy mood. However, Tunafish has brought cheer to the campus.

Tunafish is a tuna salad sandwich that is served in the cafeteria. It is typically served on white bread and it is topped with pickles and a side of coleslaw. The students have enjoyed it so much that Tunafish has become a popular item on the menu.

I would like to express my gratitude to Tunafish for bringing cheer to the campus. It is truly a welcome addition to the menu.

Your Student Senate Speaks

There has been a large amount of discussion about the recent changes to the Selective Service System. Since the appearance in the Pointer two weeks ago, I have been very interested in the topic. As a member of the Senate, I have been following the issue closely and I would like to share my thoughts on it.

The recent changes to the Selective Service System have been met with mixed reactions on campus. Some students have expressed concern about the potential impact of these changes on their rights and freedoms, while others have welcomed the changes as a means of modernizing the system.

In my opinion, the most important aspect of these changes is the renewed emphasis on maintaining the Selective Service System as a fair and impartial arbiter in the military draft process. The Senate has been actively engaged in this process and has been working to ensure that the system operates in an open and transparent manner.

I urge all students to stay informed about this issue and to participate in the debate. The Selective Service System is an important institution that plays a crucial role in our nation’s defense, and it is important that we work together to ensure that it operates as effectively and efficiently as possible.

Sincerely, [Signature]

QUESTION: Last Thursday Student Senate passed a resolution prohibiting military recruiting on campus. What is the Selective Service System and why did the Senate take this action?

Senator was on the ball

Ed Anderson Jr., 19, sophomore in history, from Wisconsin, commenting on sociology.

"I think the Senate was on the ball this time. Although in the past the Senate has not supported me on every occasion, this time I think they really came through for me. General Hershey's action was in my opinion, totally unfounded. He should not have gone ahead without consulting the Student Senate. I think we have a large number of students in this country. Students who break the law should be dealt with accordingly, and in some cases, severely. I don't see the General as a police officer."

Most students are deeply concerned with the draft. To many it is a great threat to personal freedom. I hope they can continue under fire. Maybe the Selective Service System could be reevaluated. The Senate took a commendable step in this direction by passing this resolution."

"Infringing on the free speech of military recruiters"

Lore Bebko, 21, junior, 212 Schildt Hall, Waukesha, commenting on politics.

"I think the Senate passed a resolution to prevent military recruiters from speaking on campus. I think this is a step in the right direction. The right to free speech is a fundamental right, and it is important that we respect it."

"I think the Senate is doing a good job of protecting our rights as students. I think the resolution is a good idea."

Jos A. Armstrong, 20, junior, 48 Smith Hall, from Plantation.

President's Position

I am not referring to the President of the United States but to the President of EMU. It is my position that the President is the leader of the University and should be the person who is most knowledgeable and experienced in handling crisis situations. However, the President's ability to do so is limited by the need for political correctness and the need to be sensitive to the feelings of others.
