Bernard Shaw Story At WSU Saturday

A theatrical portrait of George Bernard Shaw will be presented by actor Bramwell Fletcher in a program sponsored by the Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point Arts and Lectures Series at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 7, in the university auditorium.

In costume and bearing a remarkable likeness to Shaw, Mr. Fletcher in his presentation, "The Bernard Shaw Story," will attempt to reveal the personality of Shaw, private and public from youth to old age.

The materials for the dramatization are drawn from Shaw's essays, reviews, press interviews and correspondence, and are highlighted with excerpts from Shaw's plays. The result is an impressionistic portrait of a great artist and a great man.

The production is divided into two parts, the first, Shaw's early life — his boyhood in Dublin, his years as a struggling young newspaperman, critic and novelist in London, and finally the emerging playwright. His marriage at 42 is depicted, and he airs many extraordinary views on a wide range of subjects from women, through socialism, doctors and religion.

Part two finds Shaw as a fully mature man, dealing with the problems that beset all men in civilization today.

Mr. Fletcher, born in England, was well launched on a career as a painter at the time he first met Shaw at an art exhibition at London. A few weeks later he was invited to Shaw's home for tea, and this contact led Mr. Fletcher into a study of the playwright's works and his life. After many years of work, the result was "The Bernard Shaw Story," an accurate autobiographical portrait of one of the greatest writers of all time.

Mr. Fletcher's theatrical career began with the Stratford-on-Avon Shakespeare Co., and his first major success came in the role of teenage Martin in "Thunder on the Left," by Christopher Morley. As a result of this acclaim, he was brought to the United States in 1929 to co-star with Ronald Colman in the film "Raffles."

After a series of film roles, he returned to the theater in 1932 for the Noel Coward production of "Tonight at 8.30" and followed by co-starring with Tallulah Bankhead in "The Circle" and with Katherine Cornell in "The Doctor's Dilemma." Other Hollywood roles included "Random Harvest" with Greer

Albertson, Williams Meet Press

President James H. Albertson of WSU-Stevens Point and Mrs. Mary Williams, Stevens Point, a member of the Board of Regents, held a press conference at which they reviewed plans affecting WSU-Stevens Point.

Albertson said a report on a long-range campus plan for Stevens Point, being prepared by Davenport and Associated Associates, a Michigan architectural firm, may be ready in January.

The plan was ordered by the State Building Commission after conflicts arose over campus growth — including a controversial shopping center at Division Street and Maria Drive, which the university opposes.

Albertson said the Davenport plan will go to Stevens Point's Plan Commission before the Building Commission acts on it.

Some phases of it including street closing and traffic movement, are in the city's area of interest, he said. "It's important that the Plan Commission be involved before the final plan is developed," Albertson declared.

Mrs. Williams said that the regents' recent go-slow decision on new residence halls won't prevent Stevens Point and other state universities from proceeding with planning.

If more student housing is needed in 1968, she said, the universities apparently won't start to Rex Harrison.

At a recent regents' meeting held in Madison, a letter was written to the Board of Regents informing the board that the university is interested in assuming administration of any branch campus established in the next biennium.

The regents authorized eight of the nine universities to bid for the project.

At first Whitewater was to proceed with the Building Commission in the purchase of land for married student housing in the next biennium.

President Leaves For Viet Nam

PRESIDENT JAMES H. ALBERTSON (right of WSU-Stevens Point flew Monday to Chicago on the first leg of a trip across the Pacific Ocean to evaluate higher education in Vietnam. At left is Gordon Haferbecker, who will be acting president of WSU during Albertson's four-month absence, and in the center is Paul Yambert, who will fill Haferbecker's position of vice president of academic affairs.

Heading a seven-man team of United States educators, President James H. Albertson, of Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point left Monday from Chicago to begin an intensive four-month evaluation of higher education in Vietnam for the State Department and the Vietnamese government.

He flew from Stevens Point to Chicago Monday.

Albertson was selected by the State Department to direct the first official study of Vietnam's three public universities in Saigon, Hue and Contho.

A joint effort, the survey is financed by the Vietnamese government and the U. S. Agency for International Development.

Working with Albertson will be two other Wisconsin educators, Dr. A. Donald Beattie, dean of the School of Business and Economics at WSU-White-water, and Dr. Melvin L. Wall, professor of plant and earth sciences, WSU-River Falls.

Other members are Dr. Harry Bangsberg, president of Bemidji State College, Bemidji, Minn.; Dr. Vincent F. Conroy, director of the Center for Field Studies, Graduate School of Education, Harvard; Dr. Howard G. Johnson, director of academic affairs, Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Peter, Minn.; and Dr. Arthur D. Pickett, director of the honors program, University of Illinois-Chicago.

Brief stop-overs are scheduled in Tokyo and Hong Kong before the team arrives in Saigon on Jan. 8.

Team members will spend about 120 days on location at the three universities where some 19,000 students are enrolled.

Concentrating their studies on the curriculum, personnel, facilities, finances, controls and purposes of these institutions, the educators will present a report of their findings and suggestions to Vietnamese officials and AID before returning to the United States in April.

The team has also been included in the Catholic University at Da Lat and the Buddhist University at Van Gia, although these schools will not be included in the study. Both have about 1,000 students.

Albertson, commenting on the value of the study, expressed a conviction that "education is at the very heart of winning the peace in Vietnam." Hopefully, the results of the team's work abroad will be a positive contribution to the stabilization of Vietnam, he said.

The U. S. Agency for International Development has made strides in developing elementary and secondary education in Vietnam, but no previous effort has been made in the area of higher education, Albertson noted.

Although 90 per cent of the Vietnam population was illiterate at the time the French left in 1954, rapid gains in free education have been made through AID programs, he said. Since 1963, AID has helped build 8,500 classrooms, trained 8,000 teachers and distributed 7,500,000 textbooks. The impact of these efforts will undoubtedly influence the future and growth of Vietnam's university programs, Albertson observed.

Certain specialties of background and experience are represented by each of the team members.

Albertson, Pickett, Bangsberg and Johnson, representing education, biology and physical sciences, history and social sciences, and philosophy and education, are widely experienced in accreditation of universities in the non-central region.

Beattie represents business and economics, and Wall is a specialist in agronomy. Conroy, with a background of history and English, has also worked in planning of community education, and Johnson has participated in various overseas educational programs.

During their stay in Saigon, team members will consult with mission director Robert L. Follette of the U. S. State Department.

Miles Art Exhibit Shown In Library

The WSU-Stevens Point Art Exhibition Series opens the new year with a collection of paintings and collages by Ruth Miles, Kenosha, now on exhibit in the library lobby.

Mrs. Miles, a native of Milwaukee, received a B.A. degree from the University of Wisconsin, Madison. She has also taken advance study with various Wisconsin painters, and has received several awards for her work exhibited in Wisconsin and in Michigan.

In commenting about her show, Mrs. Miles said, "Water color is my direct method of painting, especially on the spot. But, this show is made up of acrylic paintings done in what I call my indirect method. I have worked with Liquitex for the past ten years or so, exploring its potential, finding at first that it could be made to look like oil, watercolor, or casein, but I really prefer to exploit its special and peculiar qualities especially in regard to texture. I have found that the most exciting way to handle it is finding valid ways to combine various substances into the paint surface — such as sand, tissue, foil, bronzing powders, pebbles, leaves, sticks, newspaper, modelling parts, to name a few."

Richard Schneider, WSU Exhibitions Director, said of the show, "Some of the work tends toward whimsical figures such as the acrylic painting, 'Moonmen Looking in My Window.' Other works are shown in nature as in the interpretative study, 'Pod I.'"

"Most of the paintings are small by contemporary standards. One of the smallest in the show is 'Unkraut IX,' noted especially for its enamel like rich color and texture. Mrs. Miles' use of the plastic acrylic medium allows for unusual textures such as in 'Vein of Silver' which has a variegated surface done with imbedded foil."

The show is open to the public until Jan. 25.

Will Leave For Nigeria

Dr. Milo Harpstead, associate professor of conservation at WSU-Stevens Point, was granted a two-year leave by the Board of Regents to participate in an international agricultural program in Nigeria.

The leave starts next September.

Dr. Harpstead received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from the South Dakota State University and earned his Ph.D. at the University of Minnesota. Harpstead came to WSU in 1961.

WSU Offers Study Tour Of Europe

A Fine Arts Travel Study Tour of Western Europe will be offered during the summer session of 1967 by the Wisconsin State University — Stevens Point College of Fine Arts.

The tour will include six weeks of land travel through England, France, Denmark, Italy, Germany and Spain where students will visit principal museums and attend dramatic events and musical festivals.

Conducted by faculty members of the College of Fine Arts, the course will be a study of the visual arts, music and drama with an emphasis upon one of these areas to be selected by the student. The purpose of the program is to show the interrelationship of the arts within the context of common culture. Six to eight credits are offered for participation.

The program will begin with two weeks on the WSU-Stevens Point campus June 26 through July 7. Students will leave Chicago by air on July 8 and return Aug. 13.

The tour is open to juniors and seniors although underclassmen may enroll with special permission. Tuition and travel costs will total approximately $1,500. Enrollment will be limited to 45 persons.

Inquiries may be addressed to Dr. Robert B. Cantlie, Dean of the College of Fine Arts, Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point, Wis. 54481.

Bord Awarded Meiers Scholarship

The second annual $100 Tom Meiers Memorial Scholarship award has been presented to Richard Bord, a WSU-Stevens Point senior from Wisconsin Rapids, by Dr. James H. Albertson, WSU president.

Given annually in memory of Tom Meiers, a student from Westchester, Ill., who was killed in an automobile accident on Dec. 11, 1964, the award is made on the basis of scholastic achievement and personal qualifications.

Bord, a senior majoring in psychology and sociology, has a grade point average of 3.85. He is a graduate of Lincoln

High School and is the son of Louis Bord, Wisconsin Rapids.

A veteran, he is married to the former Karen Mieke, Owen. The award is made from funds collected by the 500's, a veterans organization of which Meiers was president at the time of his death and invested in the WSU Foundation. Contributions were made by various campus organizations, the senior class of 1965, and the Meiers family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meiers of Westchester.

Last year's recipient was John Von Gnechten, Jr., Wausau.

Nickelodeon Show Stated At WSU

John Schellkopf, graduate student at WSU-Stout, will return to the Stevens Point campus to present a Nickelodeon show at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 5, in the Auditorium.

Films to be shown will include "The Ballonatics" with Buster Keaton, "The Vagabond" starring Charlie Chaplin, and "Teddy at the Throttle" with Gloria Swanson, Wallace Beery and Bob Vernon.

Mr. Schellkopf will also present the "building climbing" scene from "Safety Last!" starring Harold Lloyd.

The Nickelodeon Series is sponsored by the University Center Board.

REGISTRATION AGAIN comes to WSU-Stevens Point as students hastily plan, re-plan, wait, fill out forms — a part of registering for their second semester classes.

Improvement Seen In Registration

It's that time of year again. Time for filling out yards of forms and standing in never-ending lines. Registration for second semester began Tuesday, January 3, in the Wisconsin Room of the University Center. Although many students might be complaining about all the trouble it takes to go through the registration process, many upper-classmen can remember when registration was not only a slight interruption in the day's schedule, but also a major headache.

Over the years registration procedures have changed considerably for the better. There was a time when standing in line for an entire afternoon outside of the registrar's office was just a normal part of getting registered. Lines sometimes stretched down the stairs from second floor Main almost to the tunnel. Since registration operations have been moved out of Old Main into the University Center, many problems have been eliminated. Because of the many faculty members who assist in getting the students registered, about 1,000 students can be registered in one day. This is a vast improvement over past years.

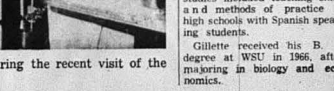

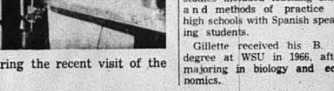

Mr. Gilbert Faust says that many of the problems that are encountered in registration procedures are created by the student himself. The efficiency problem in particular which can create havoc in the registrar's office is the problem of students not using their proper names as they are on record when filling out forms. Although a student may prefer a nickname to the one listed on his records, the use of a nickname can often create problems during registration.

When asked if there will be any more changes in the registration procedure in the near future, Mr. Faust explained that eventually a computer system will be installed to speed up registration even more. This system will include registering each student by number instead of name. Although this might raise protests from the students about being "turned into numbers," the efficiency and speed of the system should eliminate many problems.

THE PODIUM

Some of the advantages I would consider are the social opportunities and being a part of an active group. The disadvantages I find overbearing in sororities at this time are financial burden, the time it would consume and associating yourself with one group.

Station Wagon Brotherhood Visits Indians

Brotherhood comes in a station wagon twice a week to Indian teenagers at Keshena and Neopit in Menominee County.

Opportunity is at the top of a crowded, worn wagon, and just as the bus is about to start, a pool of tables on the first floor of the Keshena Youth Center.

Help and a sincere interest are offerings that Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point students bring to the young people as part of the Menominee Indian Tutoring Project.

The fall of 1966 began the third year of the project. Supported in part by federal anti-poverty funds, the program's success hinges mainly on the enthusiasm of the student volunteers who travel Monday and Thursday mornings to the After School Study Centers at Keshena and Neopit. Here, working often in one-on-one basis with junior high and high school age Indian youth, volunteers give help and encouragement with homework problems. Sometimes this becomes special and continuing assistance in a particular subject area such as English, chemistry or math.

Directing this year's program is the project coordinator, Mrs. Richard Hill, who supervises all aspects of the program from scheduling weekly drivers to recruiting books for the children libraries at the study centers. The wife of Rev. Hill, pastor of Faith Memorial Church, Hill was formerly a juvenile case worker in Buffalo County and has great enthusiasm and hope for the tutoring program.

"There is a real need for this sort of work among these young people," she emphasizes. "About half of the Menominee girls who start high school drop before graduation, and just slightly over that percentage of the boys finish. They have to be strong in motivation to go to school, and often must overcome their parents' ideas that any desire for education is a rejection of the Indian society."

Many of the Indian students taking part in the program would be participants in "Upward Bound" conducted last summer at Ripon College. A six-week session to redirect secondary school students with the potential who are handicapped by cultural, economic and educational deprivations, the Ripon program was predominantly for Indian boys. The WSU tutoring project, conducted in cooperation with Ripon, is one of the follow-up activities.

Working with Dr. Paul Yarnert and Dr. Burdette Eagon, tutoring project directors, Mrs. Hill cites five basic objectives for the program: bi-weekly efforts with regular homework, tutoring or continuing help with basic subjects, building library facilities, and work in nutrition and cultural enrichment field trips. One such trip was Dec. 10 when the Indian students went to the campus to attend "The Fantastical Indians."

One of the major needs, right now, is for more student volunteers. Mrs. Hill noted, "We have some 20 students participating, but we could use many more," particularly in chemistry and biology. "Volunteers now taking part represent English, sociology, history, French, business education and conversation."

Students may schedule volunteer hours weekly, or as the trips fit into academic schedules. Depending on the number making the trip, one or two station wagons leave from the Main parking lot at 4:30 p.m. Arriving in Shawano, students are provided with dinner at a local restaurant before continuing on to Menominee County. Some of the volunteers remain at Keshena while others go on the nine miles to the Neopit Study Center.

About 25 Indian teenagers regularly attend the center from 7 to 9 p.m. on the second floor of the Keshena Youth Club. Here, Ron Nelson, a teacher at Shawano Junior High School is in charge, and the "rules of the center" posted prominently indicate the expected behavior:

1. You will not be entered in the study center without study materials; 2. You must sign in; 3. No smoking; 4. If you raise "come" you will get two warnings; after that, one week suspension; 5. You must not leave except for emergencies or to go home.
- Mrs. Hill introduces the student volunteers and explains the form of specialization. Because tutoring is on the high school level, students apparently find no problem in "pinch hitting" in almost any subject area. Soon the volunteers and students are engrossed over the books of the evening, the paper jackets marked "Ironically," "Shawano Indians."

In the small room at the rear of the center is located the center's new library.

"Reading is one of the student's big problems, and since many of the assignments call for outside books, at least dictionaries and encyclopedias, we began this fall to put together a few basic references. Mrs. Hill commented, "David Wood of the English department has given a number of volumes. Others, duplicates of books in the WSU library have been sent by Frank Brey and LaLo Kellogg of the WSU library."

Similar reference materials are provided at Neopit where about 15 young people come each week for homework help. Clarence Newton, guidance director at Shawano High School is in charge here, and the program is much the same.

In a small room marked "History" a young Indian man with one arm amputated just above the elbow, enthusiastically discusses Thomas Jefferson with three young students.

"That's 'Sarg Waukau,'" Mr. Newton explains. "He was a student at WSU until he broke his wrist last fall and couldn't go back. He's been a big help to us in this work, and does plan to return to school next semester."

At 9 p.m. the study centers close. At Keshena the job box at the Youth Club, silent until now, begins to rumble with rock and roll, and the brilliant lights flash merrily on the green felt of the new tables. The students drift down the stairs. Some pause for a moment at the Youth Club doorway. Others continue toward home.

By 9:30 the volunteers are back in the cars headed for Stevens Point, still an hour and on-shall away. They eagerly discuss the evening's work—students who have returned to tutoring, and other new faces. Progress.

Has the evening been successful?

Perhaps Susan Anderson, a

Freshman student from Florence, summarizes the feelings of the volunteers. "Well, I don't know how much I've helped them, but they really have helped me. You know, it's great to think about somebody else for a change!"

Regents Accept Two-Major Federal Grants

Federal grants totaling $322,651 to support programs at the Wisconsin State Universities were accepted by the Board of Regents meeting in Madison.

A six-week institute in field biology for 56 high school teachers at Pigeon Lake Field Station near Drummond, to be continued for three years, $48,100.

At Superior, a seven-week institute in physical science for 50 high school teachers, $37,000.

At River Falls, an eight-week institute in chemistry for high school teachers, $32,640, and a four-week institute in science for 60 high school teachers, $41,000.

At Whitewater, an eight-week institute in mathematics for 40 high school teachers, $51,000.

A total of $282,894 in grants from the U.S. Office of Education will support the following programs:

At Eau Claire, an eight-week summer institute in geography for 50 teachers, $76,778.

At Oshkosh, a summer institute in history for 30 teachers, $41,344.

At Whitewater, an eight-week summer institute for advanced study in educational media for 45 teachers, $69,620.

At Stout, an eight-week summer institute for advanced study in plastics for 25 teachers, $45,500.

At Superior, the Fox River Valley Career Resource Development Center (a continuation grant), $35,800.

At Superior, the Community Development Institute, $13,851.

The tallest structure in the world is TV tower KTHH in Fargo, North Dakota. It is 2,063 feet high.

Seniors Named To "Who's Who"

Fifteen WSU-Stevens Point students have been named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, a national honor organization recognizing leadership and scholarship achievement.

Students include Miss Patricia Bauman, Daniel Clemens, James Cropper, Richard Harris, Karen Jespen, Thomas Johnson, Warren Kostroski, Susan Langston, Cynthia Parkowich, Elaine Patterson, Jean Patterson, Richard Reinke, Dale Wahlers, Mary Wanichek, and Sharon Watzke.

The students, all seniors, were selected by a university faculty-staff committee on the basis of their leadership in academic and co-curricular activities, scholarship and citizenship. Only seniors with a grade point of 2.7 or above are eligible for the award.

Dr. William Stielstra, WSU vice-president for student affairs, said the Who's Who selection is the university's effort to "commend seniors for outstanding effort and achievement in co-curricular activities of their educational experience."

Certificates of recognition will be presented to each of the students, and their biographical material will be published in the 1967 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," an annual directory of students chosen for the award.

The WSU-Stevens Point Student Senate Honors Committee sponsored the Who's Who participation. The Student Senate committee compiled and distributed application forms and also chose the five-member faculty and staff selection committee.

Miss Bauman, Stevens Point, is majoring in languages and has been vice-president of the WSU Russian and German Clubs. She has been a violinist in the Stevens Point Symphony Orchestra, the university Chamber Orchestra and the Messiah Orchestra, and she is also a member of the Chess Club and Scuba Club.

Mr. Clemens, West Bend, is a math major and has been a student assistant and a resident hall assistant at Pray Hall. He is a member of Sigma Zeta honor society (fraternity), the Alpha Gamma and Young Democrats, and has also been a member of Student Senate.

Mr. Cropper, a conservation major, Warren, Illinois, is vice-president of the University Center Board. He is a student assistant at Baldwin Hall and is a member of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity and Alpha Lambda conservation fraternity.

Mr. Harris, Superior, is in the School of Education and is majoring in history. He was WSU junior class president and sophomore class treasurer, and he has been a student assistant and resident assistant at Ryer Hall. He was co-chairman of the Pioneer Jubilee, and has also been active on Student Senate, Winter Carnival and Homecoming committee. He is a member of the Men's Glee Club and also represented his fraternity, Sigma Phi Epsilon, as a delegate to the Inter-Fraternity Council convention in New York City last year.

Miss Jespen, Stevens Point, will graduate in January from the School of Letters and Science. A member of the Student Senate for three years, she was vice-president in 1965 and also selected for the "Student Senator of the Year" award. She is corresponding secretary of Alpha Phi sorority and secretary - treasurer of Young Democrats. She is also a member of Associated Women Students Honor Society, Russian Club and the Political Science Association.

Mr. Kostroski, Stevens Point, is a political science major and has been president of the WSU Student Senate for the past two years. He is a member of Phi Alpha Theta history fraternity, Sigma Zeta sorority, Alpha Gamma social science fraternity, Young Democrats and The Political Science Association.

Miss Langston, Stevens Point, is majoring in elementary education. The president of Alpha Phi, she was also sorority vice-president, Sigma Zeta social science fraternity, Young Democrats and The Political Science Association.

Mr. Parkowich, Portage, is majoring in speech - English. She was president of the WSU College Theatre last year, and has played a number of university dramatic productions. She is a member of AWS Honor Society and the Secondary Education Association.

Miss Patterson, Georgetown, British Guiana, is in secondary education, majoring in French. She is vice-president of Associated Women Students Honor Society, secretary of her sorority, Psi Delta, and vice-president of Panhellenic Council. She has been a student assistant at Roush Hall and is secretary of the International Student Association.

Miss Patterson, Stevens Point, is president of AWS Honor Society, vice-president of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, and secretary - treasurer of the French Club. She is also on the staff of the Prism literary magazine.

Mr. Reinke, Clintonville, is a senior majoring in English education. He is a student assistant at S m i t h Hall and a member of the WSU Faculty Student committee. He is president of the German Club, vice-president of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, and a member of Sigma Tau Delta English fraternity. He was secretary of the university for the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship and Danforth Fellowship awards.

Mr. Wahlers, Marion, is majoring in music. He is the secretary of his fraternity, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and is also treasurer of his music fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia. A clarinetist, he has been a member of the Opera Workshop orchestra, the WSU band, and a member of the choir. He sang the role of Dr. Blind in "Die Fledermaus" and is also a member of the choir and choir and choir and choir.

Miss Wanichek, Bancroft, is a music major and has sung roles in WSU Opera Workshop productions. She also received the university's Aeolian Award for music literature. She has been president and vice-president of Delta Omicron Music fraternity and is a member of Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority and Associated Women Students Honor Society.

Miss Watzke, Waukegan, is majoring in home economics. She is a member of Associated Women Students Honor Society and Sigma Zeta honor society fraternity. Treasurer of the Home Economics Club, she has been a student assistant in the Home Economics office and has received a number of awards in the department. Last year she was recipient of a national $800 Sunbeam award, and she has been nominated by the university for a national Pillsbury Award.

Mr. Johnson, Wisconsin Rapids, is a political science major, is senior class president. Last summer he was selected by the university to participate in a United Nations seminar program in New York. He has been a member of the Student Senate for two years and was selected "Outstanding Student Senator" in 1965. He is a member of the Political Science Association, Young Republicans, Phi Alpha Theta history fraternity and also sang in the "Messiah."

Mr. Kostroski, Stevens Point, is a political science major and has been president of the WSU Student Senate for the past two years. He is a member of Phi Alpha Theta history fraternity, Sigma Zeta sorority, Alpha Gamma social science fraternity, Young Democrats and The Political Science Association.

Miss Langston, Stevens Point, is majoring in elementary education. The president of Alpha Phi, she was also sorority vice-president, Sigma Zeta social science fraternity, Young Democrats and The Political Science Association.

Mr. Parkowich, Portage, is majoring in speech - English. She was president of the WSU College Theatre last year, and has played a number of university dramatic productions. She is a member of AWS Honor Society and the Secondary Education Association.

Miss Patterson, Georgetown, British Guiana, is in secondary education, majoring in French. She is vice-president of Associated Women Students Honor Society, secretary of her sorority, Psi Delta, and vice-president of Panhellenic Council. She has been a student assistant at Roush Hall and is secretary of the International Student Association.

Miss Patterson, Stevens Point, is president of AWS Honor Society, vice-president of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, and secretary - treasurer of the French Club. She is also on the staff of the Prism literary magazine.

Treasurer of the Home Economics Club, she has been a student assistant in the Home Economics office and has received a number of awards in the department. Last year she was recipient of a national $800 Sunbeam award, and she has been nominated by the university for a national Pillsbury Award.

Delta Omicron Initiates Four

Delta Omicron, International Music Fraternity, was happy to initiate four new members on Sunday, Dec. 11, 1966. Initiation was held at 8 p.m. in the Main Schurz Room of the University Center, with refreshments and a recital by the new members, following. The new members are Carol Oswski, Wisconsin Rapids; Letta Palmer, Reedburg; Karen Steingenberg, Painesville; and Mary Ann Untz, Lake Mills.

The D.O.'s were busy during the month of December, giving a musical on Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. in the Wisconsin Room and participating in a caroling party with Phi Mu Alpha on Dec. 9. The combined groups carolled in the Wisconsin Room and the Portage County Infirmary and then sang through Stevens Point's downtown district.

Plans for the future include a Welcome Back Dance, sponsored jointly with Phi Mu Alpha, on Saturday, Feb. 4, from 9 to 12 p.m., in the Wisconsin Room. All are invited.

Mr. Johnson, Wisconsin Rapids, is a political science major, is senior class president. Last summer he was selected by the university to participate in a United Nations seminar program in New York. He has been a member of the Student Senate for two years and was selected "Outstanding Student Senator" in 1965. He is a member of the Political Science Association, Young Republicans, Phi Alpha Theta history fraternity and also sang in the "Messiah."

Mr. Kostroski, Stevens Point, is a political science major and has been president of the WSU Student Senate for the past two years. He is a member of Phi Alpha Theta history fraternity, Sigma Zeta sorority, Alpha Gamma social science fraternity, Young Democrats and The Political Science Association.

Miss Langston, Stevens Point, is majoring in elementary education. The president of Alpha Phi, she was also sorority vice-president, Sigma Zeta social science fraternity, Young Democrats and The Political Science Association.

Mr. Parkowich, Portage, is majoring in speech - English. She was president of the WSU College Theatre last year, and has played a number of university dramatic productions. She is a member of AWS Honor Society and the Secondary Education Association.

She is vice-president of Associated Women Students Honor Society, secretary of her sorority, Psi Delta, and vice-president of Panhellenic Council. She has been a student assistant at Roush Hall and is secretary of the International Student Association.

Miss Patterson, Stevens Point, is president of AWS Honor Society, vice-president of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, and secretary - treasurer of the French Club. She is also on the staff of the Prism literary magazine.

Mr. Reinke, Clintonville, is a senior majoring in English education. He is a student assistant at S m i t h Hall and a member of the WSU Faculty Student committee. He is president of the German Club, vice-president of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, and a member of Sigma Tau Delta English fraternity. He was secretary of the university for the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship and Danforth Fellowship awards.

Mr. Wahlers, Marion, is majoring in music. He is the secretary of his fraternity, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and is also treasurer of his music fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia. A clarinetist, he has been a member of the Opera Workshop orchestra, the WSU band, and a member of the choir. He sang the role of Dr. Blind in "Die Fledermaus" and is also a member of the choir and choir and choir.

Miss Wanichek, Bancroft, is a music major and has sung roles in WSU Opera Workshop productions. She also received the university's Aeolian Award for music literature. She has been president and vice-president of Delta Omicron Music fraternity and is a member of Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority and Associated Women Students Honor Society.

Miss Watzke, Waukegan, is majoring in home economics. She is a member of Associated Women Students Honor Society and Sigma Zeta honor society fraternity. Treasurer of the Home Economics Club, she has been a student assistant in the Home Economics office and has received a number of awards in the department. Last year she was recipient of a national $800 Sunbeam award, and she has been nominated by the university for a national Pillsbury Award.

Delta Omicron Initiates Four

Delta Omicron, International Music Fraternity, was happy to initiate four new members on Sunday, Dec. 11, 1966. Initiation was held at 8 p.m. in the Main Schurz Room of the University Center, with refreshments and a recital by the new members, following. The new members are Carol Oswski, Wisconsin Rapids; Letta Palmer, Reedburg; Karen Steingenberg, Painesville; and Mary Ann Untz, Lake Mills.

The D.O.'s were busy during the month of December, giving a musical on Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. in the Wisconsin Room and participating in a caroling party with Phi Mu Alpha on Dec. 9. The combined groups carolled in the Wisconsin Room and the Portage County Infirmary and then sang through Stevens Point's downtown district.

Plans for the future include a Welcome Back Dance, sponsored jointly with Phi Mu Alpha, on Saturday, Feb. 4, from 9 to 12 p.m., in the Wisconsin Room. All are invited.

British Weekly Describes 'Jamie' As 'Knockout'

A "knockout punch of a film" is the way the British "Amateur Cine World" magazine described "Jamie," a film directed by Larry Klobowski, WSU speech and drama major.

The reviewer for the magazine which is published in London noted that there's no need to be a historian to appreciate this story. Its message is as good in the setting of the Civil War as it would be in any other nationalistic battle. The battle scenes are outstanding and as effective as a full-scale Hollywood extravaganza because they make vivid use of his close-up, have actions, and are accompanied by a competent sound track.

Recently, Klobowski was awarded the Gold Medal at the Photographic Society of America's annual convention in St. Louis, Mo. This award was given to the film that was considered by the judges to be the best of the ten best films in the society's international competition.

Klobowski was assisted in the filming by Paul Benzen, one of the principal actors and musical director, and Dann Perkins, technical director. Benzen is a speech and drama major from WSU and Perkins is a speech major.

Teke

The men of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity at Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point, served as "Big Brothers" for the children of members of the Stevens Point Chapter of Parents Without Partners Organization Thursday evening.

The fraternity men joined the PWP members for their first social event, a family Christmas party, which was held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Johnson, 1515 N. 1st St. The party was followed by games and singing led by the WSU men, who plan to provide other social activities for these children. The Christmas theme was carried out with a pinata and the appearance of Santa Claus.

The TKE committee was headed by Ed Schnell. The PWP members organizing the party were Rita Hansen, Loli Engerstrom, Gladys Schulist and Duane Kramer.

The Board of Advisors of the PWP chapter include: Doug Knight of the Portage County Welfare Department; Dr. Dave Jole, of WSU's counseling department; James Gebhard of Catholic Social Services; the Rev. Theodore Schwartz of St. Paul's Methodist Church; the Rev. Robert McKillip of the WSU Newman Center; Dr. John Kennedy of Rice Clinic; Judge James H. Levi of Portage County Court; James H. Van Vignen, local attorney; and the Very Rev. Msgr. James J. Finucan of St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

Sig Tau

Sig Taus held a dinner party with the Alpha Sigus which the ladies prepared a spaghetti supper for and served at Point Bowl. The party posed a festive trade during the evening with the Alpha Sig.

The Sig Tau defeated Smith Hall, 62-32 in their first basketball game. The intercollegiate bowling team is also without defeat so far. Pledges Vuerzberger and Powlaka are members of the team.

The Sig Tau hero of the week is brother Rich Pyrine. If you want to know why, ask him!

The following are the new members of Lambda Sigma chapter of Alpha Phi Omega: David Park, Jack Kapitzke, Joseph Kosek, and Robert Leonard. A formal initiation was held Dec. 13.

A banquet is planned for the next week in January and at that time the new officers will be installed. They are: President, Mike Anderson; First Vice-President, Chet Worzel; Second Vice-President, Jerry Hanoski; Treasurer, Dave Hopkins; Secretary, Alvin Johnson; Recording Secretary, Paul Johnson; Alumni Secretary, Ron Anderson; Corresponding Sec-

WSU System Rated Seventh Largest

The nine Wisconsin State Universities marked the system's 100th anniversary year by becoming the 7th largest higher educational system in the nation on the basis of full-time enrollment, the board of regents office reports.

Other highlights of 1966 included the opening of the system's first branch campus at Rice Lake, start of construction of new two-story campus at Rice Lake and Richland Center, inauguration of a president at LaCrosse, offering of new study programs, dedication of new buildings and increased use of computers and data processing equipment.

"We are pleased that the support of the people of Wisconsin, the legislature and the governor has enabled us to keep the doors open to all qualified students seeking admission," said Eugene R. McPhee, Madison, Director of State Universities.

In September the total enrollment at the nine universities reached 44,044, double the number enrolled four years ago. The system now has nearly 3,000 faculty members and 1,500 classified civil service staff.

Major academic buildings opened during the year include classroom buildings at Oshkosh, Stevens Point and Whitewater, physical education buildings at Superior and Whitewater, an engineering-science building at Platteville and an agriculture-science building at River Falls. New central heating plants began operating at Eau Claire and La Crosse.

The first women's college in America was Mount Holyoke Seminary, South Hadley, Massachusetts, chartered in 1836. The first Congresswoman elected to the House of Representatives was Jeannette Rankin. She was elected as a Republican from Montana and served from 1917 to 1919, and again from 1941 to 1943.

The first known brain surgery in the world is accredited to two Hindu surgeons who operated on the skull of a Hindu king in 927 A.D. The surgeons used the drug Samonini as an anesthetic. The results of the operation are unknown.

Monsignor James Finucan of St. Joseph's parish, Stevens Point, has invited any interested WSU students to attend a film discussion series, meeting every Monday night at 8:30 with 20-minute films followed by an hour of discussion on such topics as abortion, premarital sex, dope addiction, and race hatred.

Students are also welcome to attend the "Guitar Mass," held at St. Joseph's every Sunday at noon and for late sleepers, a 7:30 p.m. mass.

Pointers Downed
In Tournament Play

Defending champion Lewis College of Lockport, Ill., won its second consecutive championship in the Belle City Basketball Tournament at Racine by defeating WSU - Stevens Point 84-74, Thursday, Dec. 29.

The Lewis College Flyers beat the University of Dubuque 84-77 Wed. night to reach the finals while the Pointers downed the host team, Dominican College 75-61.

The Flyers were trailing 64-53 with eight minutes left in the game but they surged ahead in the next five minutes by outscoring the Pointers 13-2.

The Pointers were led by guard Ken Ziegahn with 17 points. Guard Jim Fitzgerald added 12 and forwards Vic Koppang and Bill Wesenberg 11 and 10, respectively.

Guard Jerry Williams took game scoring honors for the Flyers with 23 points. Forward Dan Gost clipped in 16, guard Bob Blackburn 14, and forward Chuck Grandt 13.

Pointers Ziegahn and Fitzgerald and Flyers Williams and Blackburn were selected to the all-tournament team along with Wilt Chamberlain, a forward for the University of Dabucque.

The Pointers jumped off to an 8-1 lead, but Lewis came back to even the score at 8-8. The lead exchanged hands numerous times until the half ended with the score, knotted at 41-41.

In the second half Lewis pulled out ahead 51-45, but the Pointers came back to even it up at 51-51 and later forced ahead 61-59 before the Flyers streaked to their victory.

The loss was the Pointers fourth of the season and evened their record at 4-4. Lewis is now 7-3.

In the consolation game Duquesne topped Dominican 79-65.

Ziegahn Is
Player Of Week

MADISON - Ken Ziegahn, Stevens Point sophomore guard, was named Wisconsin State University Conference Player-of-the-Week for the Dec. 3 game against River Falls.

Ziegahn, from Marshfield, Wisconsin, went into the Stevens Point-River Falls game in the first half with the Pointers behind by eight points. He immediately sparked the team and at half time Stevens Point led 45-38.

He wound up with 23 points in the 110-90 victory and his defensive play was outstanding.

Lombardi
To Advise
UW-GB

GREEN BAY - Vince Lombardi, head coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers, has agreed to serve as an unpaid advisor in development of the athletic and physical education program at the University of Wisconsin - Green Bay.

Edward W. Weidner, chancellor of the new degree-granting campus which is scheduled to open in 1969, said Coach Lombardi will consult with university officials on plans for athletic competition and facilities.

"We, the Packers, feel the new university will play an important part in the growth of the Green Bay area, and of course, contribute indirectly to the growth of the Packers," Coach Lombardi told Chancellor Weidner.

The chancellor expressed pleasure at Coach Lombardi's willingness to aid the new institution.

"A first class athletic program is a requirement for a university of the future size and significance of the UW-GB," Dr. Weidner said.

"We are drafting space and facility plans for the next 20 to 30 years, and we need guidance as to what sports such as hockey have been suggested by members of the community, the chancellor said.

He added that while no timetable has been developed, he "would hope that students could engage in some form of intercollegiate competition no later than 1971 when we expect our first sizable freshman class."

Chancellor Weidner commented, "It is possible that football may be part of our program at some future date but no specific plans have been made at this time."

Gene's Sport Scene

by Gene Kemmelter

Since the last issue of the "New Pointer" a lot of sports action has taken place. The basketball team dropped three straight conference games, won the first few of the Belle City Basketball tournament but was defeated by Dubuque in the championship. The team's losses have been tough ones. The largest margin of victory for the opponents was ten points and the smallest was one point 82-81 at Eau Claire. The games have been close until the final minutes, so one less mistake might have meant victory instead of defeat.

Last year's team was 3-7 at the time of semester break but finished strong to take third place. This year's team is now 4-4, but has two games coming up in the next week. Victories would put the Pointers in a lot better position than they were last year at this time.

Congratulations go out to Ken Ziegahn on being selected as the Conference player-of-the-week after the River Falls game. Ken has come off the bench to spark the team more than once this year.

Football season is over for most teams, but for a handful of others the most important games of the year remain to be played. After a vacation filled with football games, fans are eagerly awaiting the big one - the Super Bowl. To Wisconsin football fans the Super Bowl means a little bit more. The Green Bay Packers will be playing in it.

Some fans may question whether they actually belong there or not. Sometimes I wonder, and I imagine that a few other Packers fans feel the same way. But how can a team be lucky week after week? All the Packers games were close with the exception of the 56-3 victory over Atlanta. When they needed the big play they came up with it in all but two games. The Pack seems - to exert just enough to win but not much more. The victory over Eastern Division champion Dallas lends some support to this statement. The Packers offense, which wasn't as productive as in other years, scored four touchdowns and moved the ball well behind the mastery of Bart Starr. The defense, which has more or less carried the Packers to the championship, allowed three touchdowns and two field goals. But when Dallas threatened to tie the score with less than a minute left, the defense rose to the occasion and held the Cowboys, preserving the victory.

Now on Sunday, Jan. 15, the Packers will face the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League in the first meeting of AFL and NFL teams since the merger. The Packers might tend to lay it on thick to show that the NFL is stronger and to uphold the prestige of the NFL. I predict a victory in the Super Bowl for the Packers and the NFL.

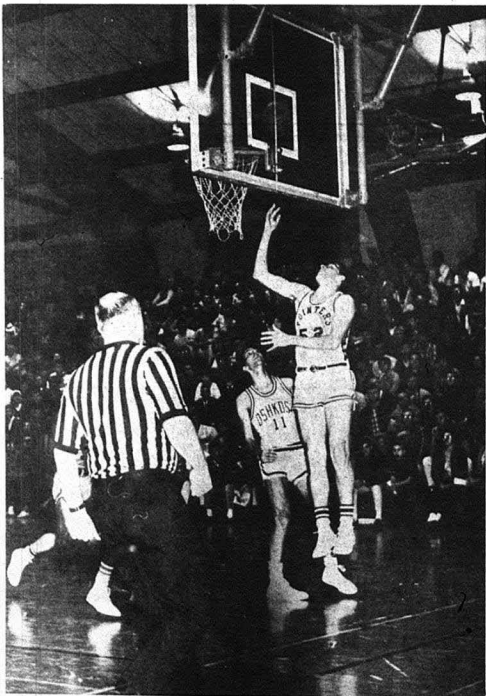

Intramural hockey is again being organized and play will start immediately after semester break to give those participating a chance to play more games while the ice is in good condition. Those wishing to participate should get in contact with Mr. Clark at the Phy Ed Building by next Tues., Jan. 10.

Saturday the basketball team will travel to Whitewater to take on the Warhawks in a game that was originally scheduled for Fri., Jan. 27. Then on Monday, Jan. 9 the Pointers will play host to the La Crosse Indians. The team has been playing exciting ball thus far and this game should be no exception. Take a break from studying for semesters and come over to the game. Your support is appreciated.

Bear Kill Totals 234

WOODRUFF, Wis. - Bear hunters took home 234 black bears. As a result, they were encountered more often by deer hunters. Wisconsin's game laws now protect hibernating bears as well as cubs of the year. Normally all bear are denuded up before mid-November.

A four year comparison of the black bear lead in northern Wisconsin shows that registrations in 1965. Forest bear numbers remain substantially unchanged. In 1966, the harvest stands at 234; 1965 - 163; 1964 - 273; and 1963 - 228 black bears.

DENNIS CARBERRY (52) puts in two for the Pointers as Oshkosh's Dick Bourbonnais (11) watches. The first place Titans won their third straight conference game with the 79-73 victory over the Pointers.
