167 PAGES — SUMMER EDITION
One of the goals of the Student Senate is to be the principal representative and decision-making body for the students of Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point. With the increase in enrollment of summer school students, the functions of the Senate are becoming increasingly important during the summer.

The Senate realizes that there are problems unique to summer school students that cannot be effectively handled during the regular school year. In order to identify and deal with these problems, a summer Senate Committee is being established. By resolution of the Student Senate, this committee will be composed of two students enrolled in the summer session, one of them to be an adult. One person that is presently serving on the Student Senate will serve in the committee that will be established.

This committee will be very effective in identifying and investigating these problems and recommending to the Student Senate the legislative necessary to help handle them.

If you are or have been interested and or active in student government on the high school or college level, you can be of great benefit to this committee. If you are interested, contact either Lori Wixson at ext. 323 or myself at ext. 487.

Sparking, Spooning, missing on campus

Any summer school student, from the youngest freshman to the oldest graduate, must realize one thing: he is considered a student, not a citizen.

Unquestionable, the most popular campus activity is the social. Until you are actually there, you cannot imagine what campus is like during the summer.

Summer romances are much more idle. They involve the reading of John Keats heretofore an oak tree (frequently with a nightly sweetly singing an old arm half exposed), or the pinching of daisies in a field (like Dr. Jekyll), or possibly, but heaven forbid not often, a midnight swim.

Of course, summer romances have their own vocabulary. First of all, an idle flirtation can be best described as sparkling. Spooning is not an addition with a social; it is a means of maintaining a discussion of sparkle which cannot be done, however, only on moonlit nights. A horse and buggy also help.

When sparkling goes too far, it becomes obviously it is being used as a means of communication in campus. When one is spectacularly it is practically impossible to hold hands. Although canceling would be under the heading of spontaneous, and quite a romantic device, it does not stop by the river. You may either put on or off.

If, of course, if spooning goes too far it can only lead to next a fellow gets carried away to the point of going to his lady fair's front porch with a bunch of of him is truly wooing.

I hope now that everyone is a little more aware of the pleasures of summer we will have more instances of sparkling, spooning, and occasionally wooing. A quiet moonlight, a gentle breeze, and a tree-lined walk will prove that love is the L. M. C. once said, a triumph of imagination over intelligence.

Graduate degrees bring top wages

That summer summit in college of which everyone dreams begins to pay off almost immediately. The undergraduate student in the summer is positioned to be on the top of the list of graduates appearing in the state universities or small colleges upon the completion of the summer session.

A placement report released by the College Placement Service of the Wisconsin State University indicates that the June graduates of the College have been placed successfully in almost 90 percent of the graduating class. With this many jobs available at this time, it is obvious that the students have many opportunities to make their choice.

All State Teachers Colleges and the State University has immediately sent out the Wisconsin State Teacher's Placement Bureau, which, along with the other departments of the College, is in charge of the placement of the graduates. Six hundred students have already been placed in this organization in the last three months.

The President of the Wisconsin State University, Dr. Arthur C. Vincent, has recently appeared on the television show "Student Life," to discuss the importance of the placement of the graduates.

The President pointed out that the placement of the graduates is a top priority for the College, and that every effort is being made to ensure that the students are properly placed.

Acting awards presented to 12 students

One of the most popular events of the summer theater is the presentation of awards to the students who have shown exceptional ability in the production of the plays. This year, the students were presented with awards for their achievements.

The awards were presented by the Wisconsin State University, which has been主办ing the summer theater for the past 10 years. The awards were presented in the form of certificates and prizes, which were given to the students for their outstanding performances.

Under the technical direction of Mr. William B. Johnson, the summer theater has been holding successful productions. The audience has been greatly impressed with the talent and dedication of the students, and has shown its appreciation by giving the students a standing ovation after each performance.

Pavement Policy

The Paducah is dedicated to the understanding and appreciation of the form of literature and art. As a student publication, the Paducah is not bound by any restrictions. The students of the Paducah are encouraged to submit their works for publication, and the topics and styles of the submitted works are not limited to the form and style of the Paducah.

STEVIE REED, Waukesha, a member of the summer theater technical crew, makes adjustments on the stage which is being built for the summer in the air-conditioned auditorium of the Student Center.

WSU hosts idea exchange at recent shopping conference

Shooping was the topic of a seminar held Thursday, June 22, by the University in the Students Center. Local shopkeepers, law enforcement officials, and members of the university administration attended the event.

The seminar was held to discuss the problem of shoplifting on campus and to find solutions to reduce the incidence of theft.

The seminar was opened by Dr. William Johnson, President of the University, who welcomed the participants and introduced the topic.

Several members of the police force and representatives of the local shopkeepers discussed the problem of shoplifting and the measures they are taking to combat it.

One of the main conclusions of the seminar was that there is a need for better communication between the police and the shopkeepers. The seminar agreed that more cooperation between the two groups is necessary to effectively combat shoplifting.

The seminar ended with a round-table discussion in which all participants had the opportunity to share their ideas and suggestions for reducing shoplifting.

The seminar was well attended and was considered a success. The participants believe that the seminar was a step towards reducing the problem of shoplifting on campus.

The university has decided to hold similar seminars in the future to continue the exchange of ideas and to find new solutions to combat shoplifting.
